Legislature OKs Takeover By Barclays

By STUART SAVAGE
 Reflector Staff Writer
 The General Assembly Tuesday afternoon — in less than three hours — passed legislation to help Barclays American Corp. buy out North State Savings and Loan.
 After closed caucuses in which legislators were briefed on the legislation, Rep. Charles Evans, D-Dare, filed a resolution to let the bill be considered this session. He then introduced the bill to allow the acquisition.

Action on the bill came with little explanation or debate, leaving the issue shrouded in secrecy until it was approved 104-2 in the House and 40-0 in the Senate.

Evans later said North State has had financial problems for two years and that BarclaysAmerican was the only institution to show an interest in buying it.

"All major banks in North Carolina have looked at it and decided not to do anything," Evans said. "It's either this or go belly up and that means the state would have to take it over."

Sen. Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir, who guided the legislation through the Senate, said "they're guaranteeing no depositor will lose one dime. They had 25,000 depositors and they don't always get the full explanation of banking issues."

"It could cause some uncertainty and there could be a run on the bank," Hardison said.

"I think if I was a depositor, I'd leave the money in there," Sen. Ted

Kaplan, D-Forsyth said. He called the passage of the bill "one of the best things we've done here."

Evans said stockholders in North State lost their investments months ago.

One stockholder, who asked not to be identified, said some 800 stockholders — most of them from the Greenville area — lost about $6 million they had invested in North State when the thrift was purchased by Guaranty Savings and Loan of Fayetteville in May 1985.

North State was founded seven years ago with one office in Greenville and expanded rapidly, through mergers and acquisitions, to become a regional firm.

Because of the rapid expansion, North State lost money and terminated a number of employees in 1984 in an effort to cut expenses.

The still-troubled thrift was then acquired by Guaranty.

The Guaranty acquisition of 90.1 percent of North State was funded with $13 million from FIAC, according to the stockholder. FIAC — Financial Institutions Assurance Corp. — is a Raleigh firm which was established to insure deposits of state chartered savings and loans. FIAC's participation in the Guaranty acquisition could not be confirmed this morning.

Graeme Keith, BarclaysAmerican chairman and chief executive officer, said in a prepared release that the acquisition of North State "is a new opportunity for

Tobacco Markets To Open Aug. 6

By The Associated Press
 The Flue-Cured Tobacco Advisory Committee has recommended that tobacco markets open about a week later this year than in 1985, with Eastern Belt markets opening Aug. 6.

The committee also recommended Tuesday that Georgia-Florida markets open July 29, Border Belt markets on Aug. 5, and Middle and Old Belt markets open Aug. 12.

Carlton Blaylock of the Tobacco Growers Association said the committee voted not to have a special sale for tobacco not sold the previous year. That tobacco, which was sold at special early sales last year, will be included in tobacco sold during the regular market, Blaylock said.

The recommendation goes to the U.S. secretary of agriculture for approval. The committee is composed of tobacco industry representatives.

The committee also recommended that the fee paid by flue-cured tobacco growers to finance grading of the 1986 tobacco crop be kept at 55 cents per 100 pounds of marketed tobacco, said Elisha Lassiter of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee.

The grading fee is separate from the assessment growers must pay to finance the federal tobacco program. The assessment was 25 cents per pound last year, but may drop to about 4 cents per pound this year.

In Washington, the USDA said Tuesday it has decided to hold an estimated $80 million in fees paid by growers for use as a security deposit against a buyout of surplus tobacco stocks.

Dallas Smith, director of the tobacco division of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the money might have been used to reduce the need for a grower fee this year.

"It could have reduced future assessments," Smith said.

Smith said the U.S. Department of Agriculture had decided to keep the reserve because the major cigarette manufacturers had insisted on termination clauses in recently signed contracts to buy the surplus leaf.

The possibility of a termination of the contracts over the next eight years, Smith said, created a financial risk to the USDA's Commodity Credit Corp., which holds tobacco program loans.

"That is CCC's money until there is no risk to CCC," Smith said. The risk would end, he said, after the surplus tobacco had been sold over an eight-year period. After the sale, there is "a real possibility" the excess growers funds could be used to reduce future assessments, he said.

Meanwhile, tobacco program officials said there was growing speculation that the 1986 no-net cost assessment would be set at 4 cents on every pound marketed this year.

Humid Temps Hit 100 Degrees

By CHERIE EVANS
 Reflector Staff Writer

A heat wave continues to blanket the county and state as high temperatures lurk around the century mark, and weather indicators show no signs of relief.

Unofficial readings showed the temperature exceeded 100 degrees in downtown Greenville Tuesday afternoon. A high of 99 degrees was expected today with a low of 75 tonight, according to WNCN-TV weatherman Jim Woods.

"So far there's not much break," Woods said, indicating no rain is expected.

Greenville Utilities recorded a peak load of 165 megawatts Tuesday, said Roger Jones, the director of electric systems. "That's about 15 megawatts higher than last July," he said.

"We really don't have any capacity problems now," Jones said, explaining that the largest wattage usage was about 180 megawatts in the winter of 1985. "We may be looking in the neighborhood of 170 megawatts this summer," he said, which will probably occur in August.

To help minimize electric bills in the hot weather, Jones recommended the "beat the peak" program. "We're trying to shift our peak load to an hour or two later in the day," he said.

Participants in the program may have their electric bills reduced up to 40 percent annually by allowing the utility company to control their wattage for about an hour each day, Jones said. There would be a "delay time of recovery" in the hot water heaters and air conditioners would be cut off for about 6 minutes on the half hour.

Jones said most customers are unaware of the wattage regulation during the peak hour, and "it reduces our bill from our supplier so it reduces the amount we have to charge our customers. About 50 percent of our power bill is based on that one hour each day," he said.

While area residents may find refuge from the heat inside their homes,

GUC Slices Natural Gas Rate For Some Customers

By STUART SAVAGE
 Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Utilities Commission board on Tuesday night approved a natural gas rate decrease for firm and interruptible customers averaging 13 percent effective Aug. 1.

Tracking a decrease by the commission's wholesale supplier, North Carolina Natural Gas, the new rate for firm customers will be 61.80 cents per hundred cubic feet, a 12.1 percent decrease from the present 70.30 cents per hundred cubic feet.

The new rate for interruptible gas customers beginning the first of August will be 52.80 cents per hundred cubic feet, 13.9 percent less than the present 61.30 cents per hundred cubic feet.

Commissioners Tuesday also approved the purchase of 1.05 acres of land adjacent to GUC's work center on Mumford Road for $28,750. The property is 135 feet by 340 feet, with its eastern boundary adjoining present GUC property. The western corners are located at the termination points of East Gum Road and Church Street.

Wadie Lewis, who heads GUC's water and sewer departments, reported that engineers are continuing work to resolve problems at the new wastewater treatment plant, including the inadequacy of sludge drying beds and sludge handling facilities and problems with meeting ammonia nitrogen discharge limits.

Roger Jones, director of electric systems, reported that load management operations in June resulted in a net billing reduction of $127,000.

Jones, suggesting that the savings may have been more if computers used to control the load management system had not been damaged by an electrical storm on June 8, said $41,289 in savings resulted from load management switches on water heaters, $49,480 from voltage adjustments, $3,553 from operation of generators at GUC's water plant, $2,046 from operation of generators at Procter and Gamble Paper Products and $30,630 from load management switches on air conditioners.

GUC General Manager Malcolm Green told commissioners that North Carolina Natural Gas Corp. has agreed to contribute $2,500 toward the cost of installing a gas main extension to serve Pitt Community College and other customers in the PCC area.

Green said the NCNG contribution resulted from a sales promotion program being offered by NCNG's natural gas supplier.

Rains Renew Gasoline Seepage

By CAROL TYER
 Reflector Staff Writer

On April 11 a substance later determined to be gasoline was discovered coming from a hillside near First and Reade streets and flowing into a creek which entered the nearby Tar River.

Now, nearly three months later, gasoline is still seeping out of the hillside and the source has not been determined. Work by the Greenville Public Works Department, the Greenville Fire Department and the Ground Water Quality Section of the state Department of Natural Resources, with offices in Washington, has largely contained the gasoline in a pool created by damming the creek, so it can be mopped up at intervals.

But, according to Mayo Allen, Greenville Public Works Department director, two heavy rains have undone damming efforts, washed gasoline into the river, and caused the work to have to be redone.

Greenville Fire Chief Jenness Allen said personnel from the Fire-Rescue Department go to the pool at least every 48 hours, sometimes as often as every 24 hours, to mop up the accumulated gasoline.

"Every time we go it costs the city money, both in labor and in materials. We have to use an absorbent material that costs $16 a bag and sometimes it takes two bags a trip," he said. "We think it's about time the state people find the source and start taking action to get it cleaned up. We don't want to keep on with this chore indefinitely. And we don't know how many more heavy rains we're going to get. It looks like to me somebody's dragging their feet."

Richard R. Powers, the principal state investigator for the project, said getting the results of tests made with miniature gravel-pack water wells dug at 12 sites from the corner of Third and Cotanche streets to the Town Common may take several more weeks. He said that the state lab which is running the tests keeps a four- to six-week backlog. He said that asking for priority treatment for this project wasn't deemed warranted.

Power said he believes a cleanup is still a good distance off. The source, he said, is apparently some underground gasoline tank. It may be one still in use or it may be one long ago abandoned. Whoever owns the tank or the property in which the tank is located will be responsible for stopping the leak once it's found, he said, but placing the legal responsibility will take time.

He said he is not sure how much responsibility for the costs incurred by the state and the city of Greenville can be charged to the owner. Powers said the state has already spent $21,000 tracking the source of the leak.

Underground gasoline tanks are a tremendous environmental problem, he said. The federal Environmental Protection Agency has recently said that 30 percent to 40 percent of all tanks now in the ground either leak or will leak within the next few years. More and more, Powers said, is being learned about the danger that gasoline components pose to ground water and those who consume it.

He said the state Environmental Management Commission will consider gasoline-containment regulations now being drafted in September or October.

Editor Deplores Book Censorship Attempts

By TOM MINEHART
Associated Press Writer

Attempts at censoring the books available to young people in schools and libraries are "limiting the entire country's ability to think," says the editor of a national publication on teen-age reading.

"It's limiting our young people's (opportunity) to read a wide variety of materials and come to their own conclusions, to select their own books and to become mature adults and mature readers," said Dr. Arthea Reed, editor of the ALAN Review and an associate professor of education at the University of North Carolina at Asheville.

"It's limiting the entire country's ability to think, to make decisions based on our freedoms."

ALAN — the Assembly on Literature for Adolescents of the National Council of Teachers of English — is one of several organizations of teachers concerned about censorship, she said. Another is the International Reading Association, whose Intellectual Freedom Committee of North Carolina is trying to see how frequent are the censorship attempts in this state.

Efforts at censorship occur in a fifth of the nation's schools every year and succeed in half of the cases, said Ms. Reed, chairman of the committee.

"A lot of cases never get to court or see the light of day," she said. "It appears so far, from our surveys and from teachers, that it (censorship) is far more frequent than anybody realized. Sometimes there are parents coming in and asking that the book be removed, then books in fact are removed so it appears no problem occurred."

"We're also trying to find out how much self-censorship goes on — teachers who remove books because they're afraid of criticism from parents and administration."

Censorship attempts are aimed at books "all over the spectrum," said Ms. Reed.

"We tend to think that censorship comes only from the right, but it comes from the left, too. Some claim a book is sexist or that it's racist, like 'Huckleberry Finn.'"

"I can't think of a book ... that someone somewhere doesn't want to censor — including the Bible."

While people in conservative, rural areas might seem more likely to censor books, it actually is more common in urban areas. That may be because parents in rural areas trust teachers more, she said.

The censorship efforts gained momentum in the 1970s after the Supreme Court ruled that community standards of decency should apply in deciding whether books and movies are obscene, said Ms. Reed.

They have increased to the point that some teachers are afraid to put any paperback books in the classroom. "Either the kids aren't reading at all — that's really scary — or they go to the bookstands and find things that are totally inappropriate," she said.

She said the books some parents have succeeded in removing from schoolrooms and libraries include classics like "Catcher in the Rye" by J.D. Salinger, "The Grapes of Wrath" by John Steinbeck and Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn," which has characters speaking racist language but concerns a white boy's friendship with a runaway slave.

Even Shakespeare is not immune. In one anthology published for young readers, "so much of the language is left out it's hardly even Shakespeare anymore," she said. Some versions even expurgate the love scenes from "Romeo and Juliet."

Ms. Reed proposes that parents talk more to their children about what they're reading, explaining things they might not understand and discovering what the books are trying to say.

"I think parents and teachers and librarians who have an opportunity to talk to kids are missing the boat by not doing that," she said. "They wouldn't need censorship if they would talk about what they're reading."

Travelers Urged To Use Seat Belts By Experts

By JENNIFER JUERGENS
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With the threat of terrorism abroad making domestic travel more attractive and lower gas prices making it less expensive to see the United States, cars, vans, buses and campers are crowding U.S. roads and highways.

seat belt usage in 1985 was only 50 percent.

In New Jersey, 407 drivers and front-seat passengers died in auto accidents from March through December 1985 as compared with 468 for the March-December average of the previous five years. Since New Jersey has passed its seat belt law, front-seat fatalities have been cut by 13 percent.

Michigan's implementation of the state's safety belt use law seven months ago has saved 87 lives — a 14 percent decline from the same period during the previous years.

Illinois fatalities for January showed a decrease of 17 percent, compared to the five-year January average of 75 fatalities, according to the Illinois Department of Transportation. Illinois' total 1985 traffic fatality count of 1,522 was the lowest number recorded since 1924, when there were 1,065 traffic deaths.

The Michigan and Illinois belt use laws have been in effect since July 1, 1985.

Texas enacted its seat belt law on Sept. 1, 1985, and during the first three months after the law took effect, 460 traffic fatalities occurred among front-seat occupants, compared with 562 deaths during the same period in 1984 — 102 lives were saved, an 18 percent decrease in fatalities. Twenty-five states have enacted safety belt use laws and five states — Arkansas, Montana, Oregon, North Dakota and Wyoming — have legislation pending.

Public opinion surveys in seven states and in Washington, D.C., show public support for these laws is gaining across the nation as more states pass such legislation.

In the five states that have had safety belt use laws the longest, public support continues to rise, the surveys show. Compared with results of earlier polls, public support is up by 20 percent in New Jersey, up by 15 percent in Michigan, up by 12 percent in Nebraska, up by 11 percent in New York and up by 8 percent in Illinois.

Deaths in automobile accidents is the fourth largest killer in America behind heart disease, cancer and stroke. But there is a way to make traveling by car safer, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

If seat belt use were to increase to 70 percent nationally, more than 9,000 lives would be saved and over 300 injuries would be prevented or reduced in severity each year, the safety group says.

The New York Coalition for Safety Belt Use says that more than twice the number of some 1.2 million Americans who have died fighting this country's nine wars over the last 200 years have died of motor vehicle-related injuries on U.S. highways in less than half that time.

In 1984, there were more than 46,000 fatalities in more than 18 million motor vehicle crashes — a collision every 19 seconds, one death every 11 minutes.

New York enacted the nation's first safety belt use law in January 1985, and since then, the state has achieved "the lowest highway fatality rate in recorded history," reports Gov. Mario Cuomo. Also, the governor noted, in 1985 there were approximately 52,000 head injuries on the state's highways, compared with more than 60,000 in 1984, even though

At Wits End

By Erma Bombeck

Right off, the book is a grabber. There on the cover in bold letters it says, "As a do-it-yourselfer, you can do things about your house with your own hands and capture the independence, the self-reliance that our grandparents took for granted but that we were afraid had vanished forever."

Just below that teaser are beautiful glossy pictures showing a woman painting a stairway right out of "Gone With the Wind," a man putting together a root cellar with his bare hands and the whole family dancing around a summer cabin in the mountains. (Inside, more than hundreds of illustrations and thousands of step-by-step photos and diagrams are promised.)

Who do they think they're talking to? "The Money Pit" wasn't a comedy film. It was a chilling documentary of every couple who decided to save a few bucks by doing home improvements themselves.

The all-purpose, every-occasion, step-by-step illustrations home-improvement book is the catalyst for it all. It has you believing there is nothing you cannot do. And in a way, they're right.

It has you returning from the lumberyard, with a piece of plywood on the roof of your car that is two feet wider than a traffic lane and four feet longer than the length of your car. It is held on only by the left arm of the diver and the right arm of the passenger (who at one time were happily married to one another).

It has a woman who can't open a package of bacon without falling apart, operating a rented chain saw on the dining room table.

It has you mixing paint in your blender, wallpaper paste in your bathtub, and transporting caulking for the windows in an old bra slung around your waist.

I don't know what happens to people when they trade an apartment for a home of their own. But they become very possessive. This rusted old washer in the faucet is mine! This one-inch clogged pipe connected to the toilet is mine! All that frayed wiring belongs to me!

And without any reason, they get choked up hot-mopping their driveway and spray-painting their very own refrigerator.

The home-improvement trend usually skips a generation. There is a reason for this. Children who have grown up with crazed parents who knock out walls in the winter and store saw horses in their bedrooms are usually turned off by the trend. With most of them, their first spoken word is "contractor."

This is the generation for the return of do-it-yourselfers. With mortgage rates the lowest in seven years, 77 million baby boomers are sitting out there thumbing through home-improvement manuals that promise, "You can do things about your house with your own hands and capture the independence, the self-reliance that our grandparents took for granted but that we were afraid had vanished forever."

Are they serious? My grandparents never changed a light bulb, and their idea of independence was feeding themselves.

Happy Hoppers Team Do Fancy Routines With Jump Ropes

By DOUG FISHER
Associated Press Writer
DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Fourth-grader Angela Gallagher had just finished her jump-rope routine for a downtown lunch crowd on Court-house Square in a swirl of legs, arms and rope that could have passed for a martial-arts demonstration.

"Oh, that's just double-unders and criss-crosses," she said matter-of-factly, not noticing that her audience was a bit stunned.

For Miss Gallagher, 10, and 25 other members of the Happy Hoppers jump rope team at Whittier Elementary School it's everyday stuff to turn a piece of plastic rope and a quick-footed gait into a work of art.

"The nice thing about this, is it doesn't matter how tall you are, how short, how fat or thin, you can achieve, and it gives you a great sense of achievement," said Woody Pumphrey, their coach and the school's physical education instructor.

"It doesn't matter, sex, race or whatever, kids meet kids and have fun. That's what it's all about," he said.

It's also about speed ropes, double-unders, Croucher moves, and double Dutch. It's jumping, doing Cossack dance moves and with pogo sticks, roller skates and bamboo sticks — anything to make the simple game of jump rope look like a museum piece.

Heather Hager, an 11-year-old fifth-grader, said Pumphrey gives team members, who range in age from 5 to 14, a book of 801 single-rope moves and 27 moves using two ropes, or double Dutch.

"We make up our own routines for competition," she said. Many are done to the Happy Hoppers' theme song, the Pointer Sisters' recording of "Jump (For My Love)."

The team is two years old, and has caught fire at the school, where Pumphrey said most of the students have bought a jump rope.

"I practiced a lot last year because my friends were on the team," said Miss Hager, who joined the Hoppers this year.

Karen Newson, 14, graduated from Whittier last year and is a seventh-grader at Kiser Intermediate School, but rides a bus across town almost every day to practice " 'cause it's fun."

"You get to travel a lot; show what I know," she said.

It's that pride — students learning they have abilities that go beyond jumping rope — that makes Pumphrey proud.

Pumphrey, 46, a graduate of De-fiance College who has been with Dayton schools for 17 years, said the idea for the Happy Hoppers started when another school official saw a team from Colorado at a convention.

The schools invited that team and one from Richmond, Ind., for an exhibition one Saturday at the University of Dayton Arena. Only 10 students from the Dayton schools showed up, but that was enough, Pumphrey said.

"You talk about jumping ropes to most people and they think, 'Get a rope and jump. What's so neat about that?' They started showing us these moves, and I was dumbfounded," he said.

The experts from Colorado and Indiana started teaching the moves, and before the day was out, the team was formed. The Happy Hoppers name came later.

The team now averages one exhibition a week.

Pumphrey holds practice three days a week, for 1½ hours, at night. He admits to being demanding and a perfectionist, but says team competitions the Hoppers want to win are grueling, demanding split-second precision and stamina for routines that fly by in under a minute.

Recently they traveled to regional competition in Richmond, where the fourth-, fifth- and sixth-grade teams were in the top five in single-rope routines and the seventh-graders were first in single- and double-rope routines and first overall.

"I'll say without question that we could go against any team in the United States in single-rope competition," said Pumphrey, who predicts that jumping rope will someday be an Olympic sport.

Pumphrey doesn't get paid for coaching the team, although this year a restaurant chain provided money for equipment and travel.

"A lot of these kids, if we would never do this, they would never get out of this community," he said.

Pat's Pointers — By Pat Trexler

Set an inviting table all year round with summer-fresh watermelon place mats, crocheted in washable acrylic craft yarns. Looking good enough to eat, a set of four makes a super gift or bazaar item. Best of all, these mats are quick, easy and fun to crochet.

To obtain directions for making the Watermelon Place Mats, send your request for Leaflet No. Z-070686 with $1 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Pat Trexler Crafts, The Daily Reflector, P.O. Box 419148, Kansas City, Mo. 64141.

Or you may order Kit No. C-070686 by sending a check or money order for $11.95 to Pat Trexler Crafts at the same address. The kit price includes shipping charges, yarn and full instructions.

Identification of crochet hook sizes can be confusing — not just to the beginner but even for many who have crocheted for years. In the not-too-distant future, I'd like to see hook sizing standardized with all hooks identified in millimeter sizing. Until that day arrives, however, the following information may be helpful to you.

Crochet hooks are made in steel, plastic and aluminum. The steel hooks, for the most part, are used for very fine work on thin crochet threads, while the plastic and aluminum ones are for heavier threads and yarns.

The steel hooks are identified by numbers: the lower the number, the larger the hook. For example, steel hook size 00 is a large size; 15 is a very small size. Where millimeter sizing is used, the opposite is true.

In the United States, most plastic or aluminum hooks are identified by letters, A being the smallest and Q the largest. In addition, there is an old and a new lettering system used in this country, and a different system is used in United Kingdom countries.

If you are thoroughly confused at this point, you can see why it will be a tremendous boon if hook sizes are standardized in millimeters. While I am not a metric fan, I can see this as an area where a change to metrics would definitely make life easier.

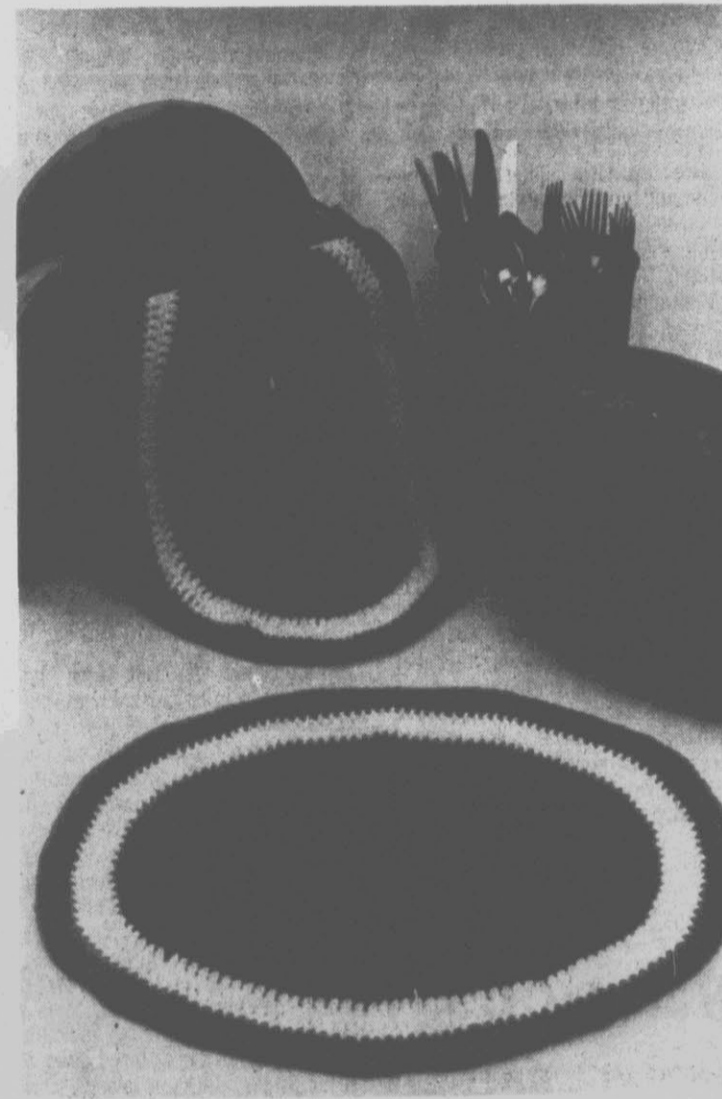

However, the most important thing for you to realize is that you should use whatever size gives you the gauge listed for any given pattern. Even though a hook size is suggested on each set of directions, you will not necessarily use that size.

Regular readers will know how often I stress the importance of using any size implement (hook or knitting needle) that will give you the specified gauge. And, because tension varies from one individual to another, the hook or needle size required will differ also.

If, like me, you happen to have some old hooks around whose size has worn off, you can still use them. When you're making sample swatches to test your gauge and find that you achieve the gauge with an unmarked hook, don't be concerned that you don't know what size it is.

The only size that really counts is the finished size of the item you're making, and the "right" hook or needle size is the one that gives you the right gauge.

Abby 'Makes Up' Answers For Problems

CONFIDENTIAL TO FRAN SCHAFFEE IN CARY, ILL.: Your sister (the one who insists that I make up everything that appears in my column) is only half right. I "make up" all the answers; my readers provide the problems.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old woman who has never married. I am still a virgin, but I am not obsessed by the fact. (What I've never had, I don't miss.)

In the last 30 years I have been to many psychiatrists, psychologists and several chiropractors. (I got more help from the chiropractors, but the relief was only temporary.)

The problem has been a chronic pain in my neck, and every medical doctor I saw tried to tell me it was all in my head. Last week I went to yet another therapist who told me that the pain in my neck would disappear overnight if I would just hop into bed with a man — any man — regardless of whether I had any kind of feelings for him or not. I protested, saying I could not hop into bed with a man unless I had some loving feelings for him. He said I was being childish, that sex is normal — then he volunteered to be my "first."

I said, "No, I couldn't go to bed with a man unless I loved him. To do otherwise would be immoral, and I pride myself on being a moral person."

Am I wrong? Please answer soon. I want to show your answer to my therapist. — NORMAL IN VIRGINIA

DEAR NORMAL: I agree with you. Show this to your therapist. Suggesting that you hop into bed with just any man is bad enough, but volunteering his services is a violation of professional ethics. Find another therapist. Your therapist needs a therapist.

DEAR ABBY: My problem concerns my nephew who has just graduated from high school and also has a birthday coming soon. I would like to give him a sizable cash gift for both his birthday and graduation, but I know that he is heavily involved in drugs (both using and dealing) and I fear the money will be used for drugs.

I considered opening a savings account for him, but if he found out about it, he would never let his mother rest until she gave him the money.

He has just begun counseling. Perhaps the money should go toward that, but I'm afraid if he found out he'd quit counseling. Material things are out of the question — he says he doesn't want anything!

We are well-off financially; we love him very much and are not ready to give up on him. — CONCERNED AUNT

DEAR CONCERNED: Send cards for his graduation and birthday, and after he has conquered his drug problem, then consider presenting him with a material gift. Do not open a savings account in his name knowing that if he learns of it, he will nag his mother until she hands it over. And do not give him any money. If he receives a sizable cash gift he might be tempted to blow it.

Come Home!

Lawmakers, come home. Don't phone home, come home!

Every day elected officials stay in Raleigh costs taxpayers money, and those bills mount quickly.

Granted, it's imperative state issues demanding attention be taken care of and this session had more than its share of significant legislation. But it is also important reasonable deadlines for addressing these issues be adopted and observed.

Lawmakers started this legislative session with an overloaded agenda — a schedule of issues that guaranteed long hours for the summer of 1986. That agenda put them behind from the beginning.

It's easy for lawmakers to bog down in the muck of decision-making. What's more difficult is to stay out of that mire by adhering to a schedule. Doing that requires homework and limiting the hours absorbed by lobbying efforts.

Simply stated, decisions must be made by lawmakers and made quickly. Time is not available to hear everyone's comments on each piece of legislation. Taxpayers don't have enough time or money to keep legislators in Raleigh indefinitely.

The General Assembly is not summer camp. It's time for lawmakers to bring the session to a close by respecting a deadline and placing the final legislative seal on issues.

Lawmakers, come home. Your constituents — and their pocketbooks — miss you.

Surprise

A report that the United States imported more farm goods than it exported last May is something we never expected to see in this agriculturally rich land. For years and years our agricultural exports were the shining light in an otherwise poor balance-of-trade picture.

Imports of farm goods in May amounted to $2.2 billion compared to exports of $1.9 billion. In April, farm exports totaled $2.1 billion and imports $1.9 billion.

May also saw petroleum product imports increase from $2.1 billion in the preceding month to $2.8 billion; but that's another story.

It was also a bad month for automotive imports. They went up from 3.7 billion in April to $4 billion in May. Yet, historically, this country was the biggest automotive producer in the world. Now imports are taking an ever-growing share of the domestic market.

But it was the imbalance in the farm goods trading field that was the real stunner; we've had unfavorable foreign trade balances in all fields except in agricultural items for several years.

Commerce Department analysts first said the May report appeared to show the first deficit in agricultural trade since the government began keeping such records in the World War II era. Later they modified that, saying such a claim could only be made for certainty over the past 30 years.

Previous record keeping was not as specific as it is today, however we're told there is a possibility the farm-product deficit was a first-ever.

Because of lower oil prices and a weakening U.S. dollar American economists have been expecting a turnaround in the balance of trade; but it hasn't happened yet. Overall imports for May were given at $31.6 billion — up from $30 billion in April imports.

Animal-Related Crimes Becoming Serious

RALEIGH — The disappearance of a pet in North Raleigh did not, according to the animal's owner, spark a great deal of concern from local police. To them, it was just a petty crime which would have to wait its turn to be investigated while murderers and grand larcenists were hunted.

But the theft of Paul Walton's dog may have been more than just a petty crime. It may have been part of an organized animal theft ring that is working up and down the eastern coast of the United States. It may also illustrate how serious some animal-related crimes are becoming.

Walton was one of a half-dozen witnesses who appeared before the House Judiciary IV Committee recently to discuss efforts to toughen two animal protection laws. Sen. Ollie Harris, D-Cleveland, had proposed that the criminal penalties for cockfighting, dogfighting and bear-baiting and for the theft of pets for resale or extortion be lengthened considerably.

Over several committee meetings, a tale of animal crime was told that left committee chairman Rep. Paul Pulley, D-Durham, saying, "It is just astonishing to me that this is going on at this scale."

Nancy B. Rich, president of the N.C. Network for Animals, presented the most persuasive evidence of organized pet theft. Mrs. Rich, a professor at N.C. State, had taken Raleigh police records and committed them to charts. Using different colors for big dogs, small dogs and cats, and breaking the city into 36 neighborhoods, she demonstrated graphically the systematic nature of the thefts.

Mrs. Rich showed, for example, that in one neighborhood at least one big dog had been stolen every day for a week. Then there were no more thefts for a long time in that area. The thieves apparently moved on to another part of the city. She speculated that the thieves had an order from a research lab to produce a certain number of healthy, large dogs. When they filled the order, they moved on. There is evidence, she said, that animal thieves travel the east coast, moving a stolen dog to a new area quickly.

Walton said an animal research laboratory might pay as much as $400 per animal. A thief can easily steal five or six dogs a day, she said, before leaving a city. Mrs. Rich said she estimates as many as 35 dogs are stolen for resale to laboratories every month in Raleigh alone.

not only to an equal opportunity to participate in the electoral process but also "to elect representatives of their choice." This is known as the "results test." Congress added a proviso that "nothing in this section establishes a right to have members of a protected class elected in numbers equal to their proportion of the population."

In its opinion in the North Carolina case, a five-member majority of the court, speaking through Justice William Brennan, chose to ignore that proviso. As disapproving Justice William Rehnquist put it, the majority created "what amounts to a right to usual, roughly proportional representation on the part of sizable, compact cohesive minority groups." Electoral success, said Rehnquist, "has now emerged as the linchpin of vote dilution claims."

In my own view this goes far beyond the requirements of the 14th and 15th Amendments. The right to vote is like other constitutional rights: It is an individual right. The notion that "groups" or "blocks" or "cohesive minorities" have a constitutional right not to have their strength "diluted" is a right that is hard to get used to. A right to equal participation is one thing; a right to win is something else entirely.

For all practical purposes, that is what Justice William Brennan and his colleagues have now created: a right to win. Legislative districts must be so drawn that blacks will be virtually assured of electing candidates of their choice. It no longer is necessary for petitioners to prove discriminatory intent; disproportional results are all that matter.

Nevertheless, in describing the "totality of the circumstances," Brennan reviewed some of the evidence of discriminatory intention. The evidence is damning, not only for North Carolina but for the South as a whole. I know. I have lived in the South all my life. When I came to Richmond, Va., as a young reporter in 1941, the colored vote simply did not matter. The Board of Aldermen and the Common Council were, lily white. The mayor looked upon blacks with condescension; the police judge called them niggers.

The Commonwealth of Virginia had done everything that malicious ingenuity could contrive to prevent blacks from voting. In common with North Carolina and other Southern states, Virginia had a poll tax with a built-in trick: The tax had to be paid for at least three years in advance of an election. The South had literacy tests too. Rural registrars were authorized to examine prospective voters on the Constitution. Many of the white registrars could barely read, but no matter: "Joe, what is meant by a letter of marque and reprisal?" Prior to World War II, only one black had been elected to any public office in North Carolina in this century. As recently as 1982, in a state whose population was 22.4 percent black, only four blacks held seats in the 120-member House of Representatives. It is something to think about, if you will pardon the digression, when we heap contempt on South Africa.

Congress reacted to this indefensible situation with the Voting Rights Act of 1965. It was an over-reaction in some ways, and the 1982 amendments compounded the excesses of the original act. The sins of fathers have been visited upon their sons. Exodus 20:5 and all that there.

The North Carolina voting rights case came in a cluster with two affirmative action cases in which the high court also defined preferential rights for blacks. As a born-again Southerner who now sees racial discrimination as an intolerable evil, I perceive affirmative action as no more than racism in reverse. But I have argued that case many times. My point here is that for generations the South laid a curse upon black voters, and it is just as the proverb says. Hello chickens.

Strength For Today

Rich today and poor tomorrow. Hard luck? Yes, but the latter part — poor tomorrow — is the lot of everyone. For every lot being at last becomes a pauper. At death even the millionaire goes from riches to poverty. We brought nothing into the world and we will take nothing out. One second after the heart stops beating everybody loses all earthly possessions.

"The things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are unseen are eternal." "Lay not up for yourself treasures on earth where moth and rust corrupt and thieves break in and steal; but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven where moth and rust do not corrupt and where thieves do not break through and steal; for where your treasure is, there will be your heart also."

So first, let us know what our treasure is, and second, where it is to be found. And then, and only then, let us guard it with our lives.

To the editor:

The shock of the transfer of Principal Glenn Strickland from the A.G. Cox School in Winterville was met with disbelief and dismay by the people of the Winterville School District and the community. While Supt. Eddie West has been allowed the power to do so, we the people still have the right to voice our objection, especially when the principal involved has given 14 years of his life transforming this school from the state of disarray it was in when he came to this community to what it has become under his leadership.

While Dr. West was not in Pitt County at that time, the Pitt County School Board members (native Pitt Countians) were and cannot have forgotten so soon — or have they not done their homework?

Hats off to Principal Glenn Strickland — for a tremendous job superbly executed. — for your sincere concern for all students, faculty and administration. — for extending the school into the community by sharing school facilities and its talented youth. — for becoming a real part of the community through its service clubs and various community activities. — for your personal pride and concern for the appearance of your school. — and last of all, but so important in times like these, thank you for the role model you gave your students.

Mr. Strickland, we love you!

Court Provides Needed Kick In Pants

WASHINGTON — The proverb teaches us that "curses, like chickens, come home to roost." The Supreme Court taught that lesson one more time last week in an opinion that combined bad law with rough justice. The sovereign state of North Carolina, defendant in the case, got kicked in the pants. North Carolina had it coming.

The case involved seven legislative districts in which blacks constituted a substantial and cohesive minority. The district lines had been drawn so that the blacks' strength would be significantly diluted. In these districts it wasn't altogether impossible for a black to be elected, but the probabilities were something less than red-hot.

Under the Voting Rights Act amendments of 1982, Congress rewrote Section 2 to provide a new violation. Blacks (or other covered minorities) have a protected right

No Negotiations This Time

WASHINGTON — Gov. Mario Cuomo and Sen. Joseph Biden, potential rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination, have used different techniques to send the same message to the Rev. Jesse Jackson: no negotiations this time.

Cuomo handled a gratuitous provocation from Jackson by ignoring it. Biden was more daring, knocking Jackson as he would any politician. Each was saying he would not go down the path traveled by Walter F. Mondale as presidential nominee in 1984 when in vain he sought detente with the black leader.

Indeed, advice from Mondale to prospective presidential nominees has been not to repeat his mistake. The newly-perceived wisdom inside the Democratic Party is that you cannot do business with Jesse. Yet, the caution by both Biden and Cuomo in non-negotiating with Jackson shows how difficult a departure this is.

While recognizing that appeasement of Jackson alienates whites, Democratic politicians still flinch at confrontation with him that may offend blacks. They dread raids such as Jackson's into New York City July 20 when, without warning, he opened fire on Cuomo. The governor, he said, was not doing enough for the homeless and "made matters worse" by selecting Rep. Stan Lundine for lieutenant governor; Lundine's vote for the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit-reduction act made him unclean.

A Cuomo spokesman responded with a typical milquetoast white Democratic response, endorsing Jackson's critique and blaming Republicans for what's wrong. But that did not represent the mood in the governor's inner circle. His advisers were furious, claiming Jackson recognized that Cuomo alone threatened his hold on black voters.

The flamboyant governor did not respond with the withering rhetoric he usually unleashes on critics. But neither did he head for the negotiating table. Jackson, miffed at not being invited to the governor's June 23 forum on homelessness, demanded a "state summit conference" on poverty followed by a special legislative session. Cuomo publicly ignored what he privately considered efforts to "crash" his party. Nor will Jackson be invited to any of the governor's future forums.

Unknown to Cuomo, Biden for weeks had been planning a preemptive strike against Jackson. He had been so advised by Pat Caddell, who counseled Sen. Gary Hart in 1984, and Tom Donilon, who negotiated with Jackson for Mondale that year. He conferred with Mondale, who reaffirmed his belief that Jackson should be treated the same as any other candidate. All this reinforced Biden's determination not to pander.

But the senator was cautioned to pick his audience carefully. A Jewish group would look like another kind of pandering. To beard Jackson at the national NAACP convention in Baltimore would be a mark of courage (particularly when his speech defended his anti-busing stance).

Courageous it was. But Biden and his entourage in Baltimore were understandably nervous and the criticism veiled, without mention of Jackson's name. The point of contention was Jackson's unsuccessful effort in the June 3 New Jersey primary to replace Rep. Peter Rodino, the civil rights-advocating chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, with a black. "You must reject the voices ... who tell you ... that only blacks should represent blacks," he declared.

Word was circulated by Jackson that Biden had watered down a stiffer attack. Jackson told us that even Biden's mild criticism was "taken out of his statement" and delivered only to reporters, not NAACP delegates. Biden's staff denies any no-give speech draft, and there is no evidence to dispute them. Without doubt, he delivered the speech as released to the press.

Because the laboratories want healthy dogs, Walton said, the thieves often strike in affluent neighborhoods where they feel people will have spent the money to keep dogs and cats healthy.

The committee also heard several witnesses tell of widespread animal fighting in North Carolina. While opposition to animal fighting is based almost entirely on the cruelty issue, Frank Ward, president of the Wake County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals chapter did note that state crime investigators are concerned about the gambling which takes place at cockfights and similar events.

North Carolina law makes it a felony to steal a pet which is worth more than $400. But Mrs. Rich, Walton and other witnesses said there is little interest on the parts of police and district attorneys to fight the problem.

Walton said that he has pleaded with local sheriff's deputies to pursue the ringleaders of an animal theft chain but that they have no interest. (In the local newspaper, the sheriff denied this.) Mrs. Rich said police will continue to ignore animal thefts until the legislature makes it clear that this is considered a serious crime.

Pulley said a serious case could be made against almost anyone who conspired to steal a pure-bred dog. It's a crime that carried a two-year presumptive prison sentence.

CSOC Involvement

Col. Al Forbes, originally from Greenville, was quoted in a recent issue of a Colorado Springs, Colo., newspaper as saying the Consolidated Space Operations Center at Falcon Air Force Station near the city would be involved in future man-in-space efforts.

Forbes said the Air Force operates military satellite systems and in 1991 will control military shuttle missions from the center.

"We'll certainly play a part in the space station, although I don't know what it will be," said Forbes, the CSOC deputy commander for operations.

He said the CSOC may also control manned rockets that someday will succeed the space shuttle.

Forbes said the liaison between the Air Force 2nd Space Wing and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration won't end when the wing begins controlling military shuttle missions.

"If the shuttle has a military payload, it will be controlled by CSOC," he said. "However, the decision to launch will still be shared with NASA because it owns the orbiters."

Council Agenda

A vote on the proposed 5-1-1 method of election heads the list of items to be addressed Thursday in regular session of the Greenville City Council.

The change from an at-large election for all six seats to a system of five single-member electoral districts is being sought to allow expansion of Greenville's city limits and to ensure adequate minority representation in municipal government.

Council members will also consider seven rezoning requests, including two by S.A. Paramore, at the meeting.

Up for consideration is a request by Paramore to rezone 12.3 acres located off the northern right-of-way of 14th Street Extension, north of Windy Ridge, from residential/agricultural to high density residential. A valid protest petition has been received on the request.

Paramore also requested 13.1 acres located east of Tucker Estates subdivision be rezoned from residential/agricultural to single-family medium density residential.

The council will also hear a request by Harry S. Bateman to rezone 10.755 acres located east of Eastbrook Apartments from residential/agricultural to single-family medium density residential.

Up for consideration is a request by Greenbriar Realty to rezone 19.75 acres located south of Tucker Estates subdivision from residential/agricultural to single-family residential.

Council members will also consider a request by Brenco, a partnership, to rezone about 7.5 acres located off the western right-of-way of N.C. 11 and north of S.R. 1143 from residential/agricultural to shopping center zoning and a request by Drada P. Hoover and Charles L. Hill to rezone a .74-acre tract at the intersection of Charles and East 10th streets from office and institutional to downtown commercial fringe.

A request by Riverhills, Inc. to rezone 9.5 acres off the southern right-of-way of Red Banks Road and west of Arlington Boulevard from office and institutional to shopping center will also be considered.

The Planning and Zoning Commission has recommended approval of all seven rezoning requests.

The City Council is scheduled to hold public hearings on a request by the city of Greenville to annex 211.5 acres of property on S.R. 1534, east of Greenville, currently being used as a wastewater treatment plant by Greenville Utilities Commission and a request to have the property zoned as unoffensive industry.

Council members are expected to consider a resolution fixing a date on the proposed annexation of 10.81 acres located south of Carolina East Mall at the intersection of N.C. 11 and S.R. 1143, a bid award for police uniforms, and an award of architectural contract for planning, design, and construction administration related to the Science and Nature Center at River Park North.

Other matters to be addressed include disposal parcels, a resolution for the Driving While Impaired Enforcement Grant, a contract for services with the Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival, Greenville Museum of Art, Pitt-Greenville Arts Council, and Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce, a resolution authorizing a short-term lease of city property to Carolina Telephone for parking purposes, Humber House subleases, parking restrictions on Fleming Street and Pamlico Avenue, street acceptances and tax releases and refunds.

The City Council will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers of City Hall.

Expedition To Examine Titanic

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP) — A shipload of scientists and seamen readied to set sail today back to the Atlantic tomb of the Titanic for a closer look at the spot near the luxury liner where they found wine bottles and chamber pots.

But Robert Ballard, who is returning to the underwater wreck nearly a year after leading the U.S.-French team that discovered it, said he does not believe he will find any remains of the 1,513 people who went down with the ship on its maiden voyage 74 years ago.

"There are a lot of animals down there ... and they tend to be opportunistic about situations like that," said Ballard, head of the Deep Submergence Laboratory at the marine research foundation.

Researchers delayed the scheduled 8 a.m. departure until mid-morning for a final testing of the submarine that has been modified for the Titanic search.

Little fanfare was planned for today's sendoff.

"We usually throw parties when ships come back, not when they go out," said Anne Rabushka, a spokeswoman at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution.

The Atlantis II, carrying 56 researchers and crew, will rendezvous Sunday with a Navy submarine-rescue ship that left Tuesday from South Carolina for the site of the wreck about 450 miles off Newfoundland.

Researchers at Woods Hole worked around the clock readying the three-man submarine that will guide a robot around and inside the legendary wreck 13,000 feet below the ocean surface, said Stewart Harris, chief project engineer on last year's trip.

But he said there was little excitement elsewhere in the institute about the trip, and even a little jealousy. "There's some feeling that it's not scientific because it makes headlines," he said. "I think that's sour grapes."

The Titanic set off for New York from England on April 10, 1912. It rammed an iceberg four days later and sank as 704 survivors, mostly women and children, escaped in lifeboats.

In 12 daily dives beginning next week, Ballard plans to survey the damaged aft of the Titanic that last year's expedition only skimmed.

From his seat in the truck-sized submarine Alvin, he will control the three-foot robot Jason Jr. as it explores the Titanic's broken-off stern and a field of debris that spreads out for hundreds of yards behind it.

"We know nothing about the stern and only 10 percent about the debris field," he said. "Thirty percent of the ship hasn't been accounted for."

Film taken in September showed the ship torn in two near its stern and chamber pots, bedsprings and bottles of wine littering the ground behind it, Ballard said Tuesday.

The film also showed wooden railings intact — despite scientists' beliefs that wood-boring organisms would have destroyed them.

Ballard said he plans to send Jason Jr. through a hole in the ship where a glass dome once gleamed and down the grand staircase, lined with hand-carved balustrades.

The researchers say they will take about 100,000 pictures of the wreck and will place two bronze plaques on the hold of the sunken ship.

"We're allowed to take things down, but not bring things up," Ballard said.

The plaques, which the scientist received at Tuesday's news conference, honor the discoverers and a close friend of Ballard's, William H. Tatum IV, whom the scientist called "the guiding light to our research effort." Tatum, past president of the Titanic Historical Society, died a few years ago.

The plaque from the Explorers Club honoring the U.S.-French team that found the ship last year asks "that any who may come hereafter leave undisturbed this ship and her contents as a memorial to deep-water exploration."

Ballard led a movement to declare the ship an international memorial.

Courthouse Decision

Martin County Commissioners have voted to remove a 100-year-old courthouse in Williamston to make room for a parking area.

The structure has been empty since county workers moved into a new governmental center in 1983.

Demolition is expected to begin next year, but county officials said they did not know how much money would be spent on the project.

District Manager

R.I. (Dick) Flye, district commercial manager at Carolina Telephone, has been named community relations manager for the Greenville area, and Grady C. Strickland, district commercial manager at Jacksonville, has been named to succeed Flye.

The company said Flye will be responsible for developing and implementing programs in public relations, public affairs and community development in Pitt, Greene, Beaufort, Martin, Washington, Tyrrell and Hyde counties.

A Greenville native, Flye has been a Carolina Telephone employee for 40 years, and has been district commercial manager since 1978. He served in the U.S. Navy Reserve. Flye and his wife, Joyce, have four children.

Strickland will be responsible for the operation of the company's business office in Greenville and for customer relations in the seven-county area.

A native of Fayetteville, Strickland is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He is married to the former Sarah Ellington of Jacksonville and they have three children.

Strickland served in the N.C. National Guard for six years.

FRANK M. SUTTON

Division Director

Frank M. Sutton has been appointed director of the division of business and commercial education at Pitt Community College.

Sutton, a native of Kingston, has been employed on the faculty of PCC since 1973. He has an undergraduate degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a master's degree in business administration from East Carolina University. He is a certified public accountant.

Sutton assumed the new position on July 1, succeeding Jo Ann Leith, who retired. He and his wife, Amanda, have two children.

Program Highlighted

The Pitt County school system's art education programs were recently highlighted in a new publication by the N.C. Department of Public Instruction.

"Spotlight on Arts Education" featured the system's programs in a story on seven school systems from throughout the state. The booklet was prepared by the Division of Arts Education as a means to identify and provide information about "promising approaches to arts education" in North Carolina schools.

The Pitt program, the booklet said, is based on the belief that "our county depends on the ability to create and be creative." An arts education program has been developed and encompasses classes in visual arts, music and chorus, dance, theatre arts, band and orchestra. The Pitt County system has become involved in several pilot programs relating to arts education.

The booklet will be sent to school systems, state and national arts groups.

Psychiatrists Have Worries Over Money

By ROBERT FURLOW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Psychiatrists have worries, too, including concerns about income and job status, two doctors say in a new study.

In fact, "psychiatrists in recent years have felt besieged," Drs. Boris Astrachan and Steven S. Sharfstein write in the July issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry.

Their psychiatric colleagues, the two men say, "have perceived that the services they provide are less valued and less well-reimbursed than those of other medical professionals."

In addition: —"They have expressed concern over the decrease in psychiatry's attractiveness to medical students.

—"They have been preoccupied with evident bias in governmental and commercial insurance and have mobilized to resist attempts to further restrict psychiatric coverage.

—"They have been exhorted to re-examine their practices and to market their services."

But things aren't really so bad, concluded the authors, who are from the Connecticut Mental Health Center in New Haven.

They cited 1982 figures from the American Medical Association and a survey by the 30,000-member American Psychiatric Association — the most recent comparable numbers — showing that American psychiatrists that year had a mean gross income of $85,500 each, mean income of $76,500 after expenses and a mean net hourly income of $34.05.

The net yearly income figure was up 200 percent in ten years.

To be sure, radiologists, anesthesiologists and surgeons did better, making $130,000 to $140,000 each, with mean hourly incomes ranging from $46.35 for anesthesiologists up to $48.80 for surgeons.

But in the period 1973-82 "psychiatry did substantially better than pediatrics and general family practice and proportionally better than internal medicine," the report said.

As for the high-flying specialties, it said, "with efforts by government and the private sector to reduce medical costs, high technology medicine is coming under special scrutiny and the income prospects for technically oriented specialties may not be so bright in the future."

"The need for psychiatric care, however, is ever present and growing, and the demand for physicians who specialize in mental disorders will remain and expand," the authors said. "From an economic perspective, psychiatry remains an attractive field for young medical graduates...."

For comparison, the 1982 figures for all physicians were $99,500 in net income and $37.50 per hour, according to the AMA figures cited.

The federal Bureau of Labor Statistics reported average hourly earnings of $6.92 for Americans employed in all service industries in that year.

Psychiatrists, battling "the biases of third-party payers, including government, against the less technologically oriented physician," have adapted by increasing their fees, hours of practice and productivity and by trying to reduce their expenses, the new study said.

U.S.-Cuban Talks Reopen

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A diplomatic source said representatives of Cuba and the United States have met privately in Mexico City to discuss reviving an immigration agreement suspended by Cuban President Fidel Castro last year.

The source, who spoke on condition of anonymity for reasons of protocol, said the delegations met Tuesday, after arriving in the Mexican capital Monday night.

Castro suspended the immigration agreement in May 1985, after the U.S. government started broadcasting on Radio Marti to the communist-ruled island.

The Cuban leader charged that the broadcasts by the Florida-based station operated by Washington's Voice of America were U.S. propaganda.

Radio Marti, named for Cuban poet and Spanish war hero Jose Marti, broadcasts 17 hours a day, offering news, commentaries and music to Cuban listeners.

House Rejects Senate Roads Package

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — With the House and Senate endorsing different ways of generating money for road building and repairs, the job of hammering out a compromise likely will fall to a joint conference committee, lawmakers say.

The Senate was expected to reject today the House's $132 million program that won final approval Tuesday after a budget transfer sought by the Senate and Gov. Jim Martin was rejected by a scant three votes. If so, Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan and House Speaker Liston Ramsey would appoint conferees.

Martin and Jordan, who last month compromised on a bill that won Senate approval, said they hoped the House's rejection of the $27 million transfer from the state budget general fund to the highway fund was not its last word.

"I am still hopeful that when the legislation goes to the conference committee, there will be an opportunity to restore it to its original form, which includes transfers," Martin said.

Jordan said if House conference panel members "want to come in hard-nosed, we may not get a bill."

Although 20 Democrats defected from the House leadership's no-transfer position, the proposed transfer failed, 60-57. Republicans unanimously backed the transfer.

The House later approved a separate, non-binding resolution urging the 1987 General Assembly to make the transfer, but House GOP Leader Betsy Cochrane, R-Davie, dismissed the resolution as "window dressing."

The amended bill was approved 66-47. Reps. Monroe Buchanan, R-Mitchell, and David Noles, R-Lincoln, were the only Republicans who voted for it, while 12 Democrats opposed it.

The Senate bill would raise the state gasoline tax 2 cents per gallon, impose a new 3 percent tax on wholesale motor fuel, transfer the driver's education program from the highway fund to the general fund, implement a two-year automobile registration system that would create a one-time highway fund windfall, and exempt state Department of Transportation purchases from the sales tax.

It would pump $172.2 million into the highway fund in 1986-87 and $208.6 million in 1987-88.

The House bill excludes the transfer and two-year registration, but keeps the tax increases. It also was amended last week to lift the tax on household personal property.

The dramatic transfer vote came after nearly an hour of debate on an amendment offered by Rep. Ray Sparrow, D-Wake, that Martin offered as an alternative to the driver education transfer. The amendment called for a transfer of the cost of driver's education — $27 million — but not the program itself.

Sparrow warned that rejecting the transfer would jeopardize prospects for enacting a roads package, and said opponents' argument that it would deprive the general fund of money for education and human service programs was "a lot of political rhetoric."

"We also know that there will never be enough money to do all the things that we need to do or all the things we would like to do," Sparrow said, listing some of the "pork barrel" projects which the Legislature has funded. "You know as well as I do — you name it, we've funded it up here."

Rep. Richard Wright, D-Columbus, said rejecting the transfer would be a repudiation of Jordan, who Wright called the likely Democratic gubernatorial nominee in 1988.

Rep. George Miller, D-Durham, countered that the transfer would set a precedent for raiding the general fund.

"If the amount of revenue raised by the increased gasoline tax is not sufficient, let's deal with that issue straight up," Miller said. "Let's not deplete the general fund, where we know there are services and needs and demands that are out there for our people."

After the amendment was rejected, the House also defeated 81-31 an amendment offered by Rep. Casper Holroyd, D-Wake, to increase the gasoline retail tax by 2.4 cents, as Martin originally had proposed, instead of 2 cents.

The non-binding resolution, sponsored by Rep. Billy Watkins, D-Granville, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, says the 1985-86 General Assembly "recommends" that next year's Legislature transfer the driver's education program to the general fund.

Watkins argued that the resolution, which passed 71-34, had as much clout as putting the transfer in the bill would have, saying that one Legislature cannot bind a future Legislature to a budgetary decision. The transfer proposed by Martin and Jordan would take effect July 1, 1987 — the first day of the next fiscal year.

Ms. Cochrane, the House minority leader, said she voted against the resolution because "it's window dressing. It's nothing. If you really believed in transfers, you'd do what the governor and lieutenant governor suggested."

Five Republicans voted for the resolution, which was sent to the Senate.

Life Sentence

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — An Air Force officer whose wife and children were found stabbed to death in May 1985 says he is not happy, but believes justice was done after the death sentence was imposed on the man convicted of the slayings.

A Cumberland County jury recommended the death sentence Tuesday for Timothy Bailey Hennis, a Fort Bragg sergeant who was convicted Friday in the deaths of Kathryn Eastburn, and her daughters, Kara, 5, and Erin, 3. Hennis also was sentenced to life in prison after a conviction of the first-degree rape of Mrs. Eastburn.

Air Force Capt. Gary Eastburn, who was attending a military school in Alabama when his wife and daughters were killed, said the death penalty was "just in this case." Eastburn is now stationed at McConnell Air Force Base in Wichita, Kan.

"I'm kind of numb and sad," Eastburn said. "I really feel justice was done. But I'm not happy. I don't feel it was a great victory for us. I can sympathize with the pain that his parents are going through. My heart goes out to them, but I still feel it was a just decision."

Superior Court Judge E. Lynn Johnston set a Sept. 12 execution date, which he stayed pending Hennis' appeal to the N.C. Supreme Court. The verdict carries an automatic appeal under state law.

Liability Insurance Proposal Revamped By Balky House

By F. ALAN BOYCE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — The state House appears to be back in the driver's seat as the Legislature looks at competing proposals to make liability insurance more affordable and more easily obtainable.

The House Insurance Committee voted Tuesday to rewrite a Senate bill into a duplicate of one introduced by Rep. Martin Nesbitt, D-Buncombe. His bill to give the insurance commissioner greater regulatory powers was returned from the Senate with dozens of changes, including proposed civil justice reforms such as a cap on the amount juries can award for pain and suffering in liability lawsuits.

Rep. Dennis Wicker, D-Lee, chairman of the House Committee on Courts and the Administration of Justice, said some senators had complained that justice changes got all the attention in Senate deliberations.

"The focus was on tort reforms, which camouflaged the changes that were made in the insurance areas," he said.

At issue are two different plans to make liability insurance more affordable and available. Nesbitt hopes that better information from insurers and the cyclic nature of the industry will be enough to end the crisis. Supporters of tort reform believe caps and other justice changes will insulate insurers from huge damage awards and make them more likely to reduce rates.

Under the new House committee substitute, the commissioner could roll back rates determined to be excessive. The bill also calls for better reporting by insurers so the Insurance Department can better decide what rates are fair.

The tort reforms under consideration would limit jury awards for pain and suffering to $500,000. In addition, any punitive damages awarded in excess of $500,000 would go to the state. The Senate also added a provision to sanction attorneys for knowingly participating in frivolous lawsuits and another section that calls for itemized jury awards. In addition, political subdivisions would have a $500,000 cap on all damages that may be awarded.

Nesbitt complained last week that many important Senate amendments to insurance regulatory provisions were glossed over as technical changes. For example, one change would have let insurers keep challenged rate increases in effect until a challenge was resolved, while the House bill called for old rates to remain in effect during a dispute. And the Senate removed a proposal to put public members on the Rate Bureau.

"I honestly didn't want to go into conference to decide whether we're going to have public members on the Rate Bureau," he told the committee.

Wicker and Nesbitt said the newly rewritten bill would go to Wicker's committee, which is already struggling with the tort reforms contained in the Senate bill. Wicker said a bill possibly containing some or all of the tort reforms could emerge as early as today.

Sen. Joe Johnson, D-Wake, chairman of the Senate Insurance Committee, said he had no preference.

RICO Vote Expected

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislation to permit seizure of the ill-gotten gains generated by organized crime was headed for a Senate committee vote after controversial parts were rewritten in subcommittee.

Attorney General Lacy Thornburg proposed the bill last year, calling it an instrument with which the state could seize assets generated by drug trafficking, a growing problem in North Carolina. But after passing the House, the proposal became mired in the Senate Judiciary IV Committee.

With the legislative session expected to end by early next week, Judiciary IV chairman R.C. Soles, D-Columbus, said he would schedule a special meeting of the panel today or Thursday for a vote on the latest version of the bill.

Lobbyists for bankers and accountants had urged the subcommittee to endorse a narrower definition of racketeering than the one used in the federal Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations statute.

Frank Gray, representing the North Carolina Bankers Association, said Tuesday some businesses had abused the federal RICO law by filing civil actions against competitors who had not engaged racketeering.

"Anybody who has a deep pocket is an attractive target," Gray said, adding that some competitors could use a provision on wire fraud to accuse each other of using the telephone illegally.

State Ports Seek Share Of Trading With China

AP Business Writer
WILMINGTON (AP) — Mainland China is rejoining world trade with a vengeance after decades of isolation, and North Carolina officials hope to get a piece of the action by hiring an agent to represent the state's two ports in the world's biggest market.

"China is a booming market right now," said Bill Stover, spokesman for the State Ports Authority in Wilmington. "They're hungry for western technology. And North Carolina, with its high-tech products, furniture ... electronics at Research Triangle Park, textile industry expertise, our tobacco industry — we have a lot of technology they want and products they want."

"We've hired Donald Lam to explore all the possibilities in China and how North Carolina can fit into (this) exploding market. We have to be a part of it."

Lam is director and part-owner of Kenwa Shipping Co. of Hong Kong, which represents mainland firms such as the China Ocean Steamship Co., the China Travel Agency, the China National Railroad and several feeder ship services to China.

Lam, hired in June, has contacts in Beijing, Shanghai and elsewhere in China and is trying to drum up business for Wilmington and for North Carolina's other port at Morehead City, said Robert G. Dennerline, marketing director for the ports authority.

"When he goes there, he is North Carolina, not Kenwa Shipping," said Dennerline.

Of the 2.6 million tons of cargo passing through the port at Wilmington each year, about 100,000 tons is bound for China, Stover said.

Most of this is wood pulp, textile-related chemicals, logs and textile waste fiber. It travels on a Taiwanese carrier, Yangming, that makes weekly calls at Wilmington.

Port officials hope Lam can lure more Chinese shipping lines into making weekly or monthly calls.

Stover said very few Chinese imports now come through the North Carolina ports, but Dennerline said the possibilities include carpeting, bamboo products, porcelain, textiles and apparel.

Low-cost textiles from the Far East have been blamed for hurting North Carolina's textile industry, but Stover said the ports also enhance the state's economy by providing access to overseas markets for exports.

"We can't get into a situation where we're going to turn down cargo," he said. "It (world trade) works both ways, and we like to think it balances out."

Dennerline said: "We're pointing to state products for sale, and we want those products going through our ports. We're really developing trade — that's the bottom line of our efforts."

Competing ports in Virginia, Maryland and South Carolina have also opened offices or hired agents to promote their ports in the Orient and elsewhere, Stover said.

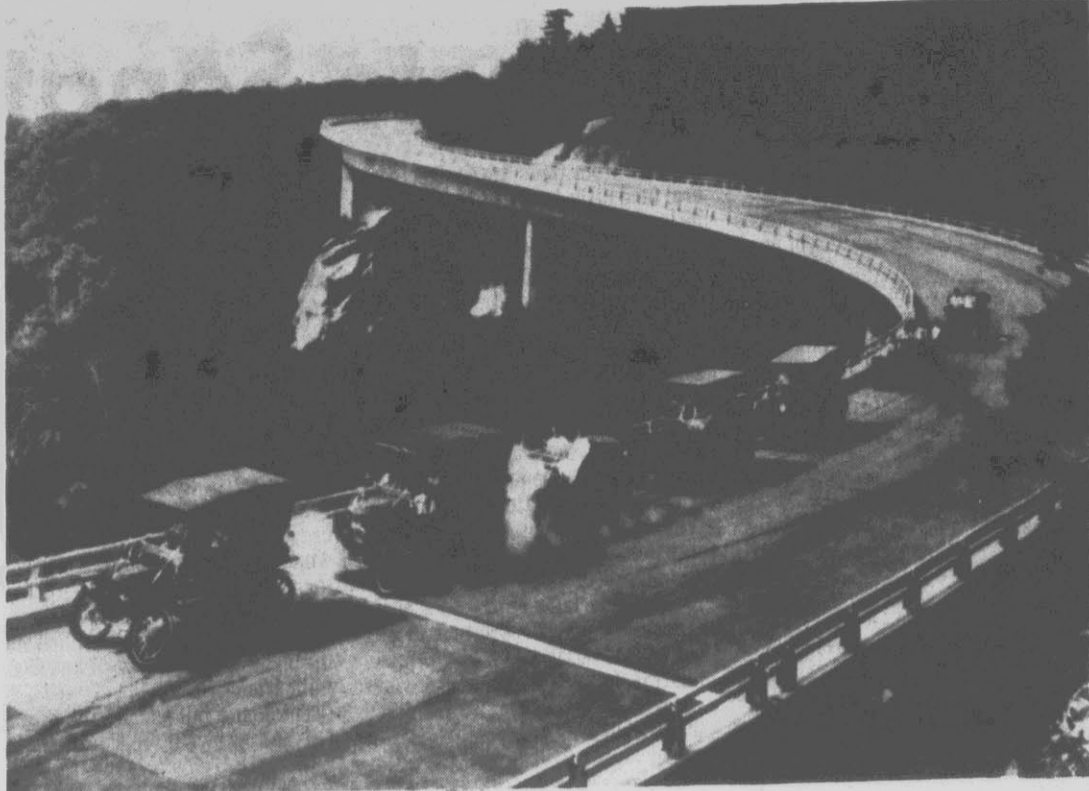

"You're definitely going to see a change in direction in our marketing efforts," he said. "We're putting some more emphasis on where the trade routes are. We're looking at South America, Italy, Korea, all kinds of opportunities."

The ports authority has had an office in Tokyo and a joint arrangement with the state Department of Commerce in Dusseldorf, West Germany, for several years. In April, the authority contracted with a London shipping service to represent the state in Great Britain and Northern Europe.

Dennerline said Korea and its trade in wood pulp, lumber, chemicals, textiles, machinery and metal, may be the next target after China. And he is taking a trip to Italy this fall to assess the possibilities there.

Dennerline said that if a recently established service between North Carolina and South America develops into a major trade route, he may move to start an office on that continent.

"We're extending North Carolina into the international scene," said Stover. "North Carolina is no longer the little state everyone seems to think it is."

Dole Takes To Stump For Broyhill Campaign

By ROBIN P. TEATER
Associated Press Writer
MORRISVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Rep. Jim Broyhill says U.S. Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole's appearance on behalf of the Broyhill campaign punctuates the importance of keeping a Republican majority in the Senate.

"It's very important for someone of the influence of Senator Dole to come tell the people of North Carolina the importance of keeping a Republican majority to help President Reagan," Broyhill said Tuesday during a campaign appearance with the Kansas senator. "There is a growing realization that we cannot keep the agenda for change without a Republican majority."

Dole, who has been mentioned as a possible presidential candidate, said during a news conference at the Raleigh-Durham Airport that he has campaigned for Broyhill since 1962. He said stumping for Republican candidates "indicates we are a united party."

"Whether I'm a candidate (for president) or not, North Carolina is a very important state ... and I assume there will be a number of folks who will discover North Carolina in the next couple of years," Dole said.

Dole called Broyhill "one of the most effective and skillful legislators in the House of Representatives."

"This is one of the critical states, let's face it ... Jim Broyhill becomes more and more important everyday, and we think his chances are excellent," Dole said.

Dole was scheduled to make campaign appearances today in North Carolina for Broyhill, whom Gov. Jim Martin appointed last week to fill the unexpired term of Sen. John East, R-N.C. East committed suicide at his home June 29.

Dole also is scheduled to campaign for Rep. Bill Cobey, R-N.C., and state Supreme Court Justice Rhoda Billings in Raleigh this morning.

He was scheduled to make campaign stops in Hickory for state Sen. Cass Ballenger, R-Catawba, who is running for Broyhill's seat in the 10th Congressional District.

Dole will appear with congressional candidate Stu Epperson in Winston-Salem, U.S. Rep. Howard Coble in Greensboro and U.S. Rep. Bill Hinchey in Asheville this afternoon.

Broyhill said he and Dole had discussed his transition into the Senate and committee assignments. Broyhill will be sworn in when the Senate reconvenes Monday by Senate President Pro Tem Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

Broyhill will take over East's seats on the Senate Judiciary Committee and the Armed Services Committee. Dole said the Armed Services Appointment was especially important to North Carolina, which has five military installations.

Schcharansky

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Anatoly Schcharansky, who came to Israel in January after being freed from a Soviet prison, has criticized the Israeli government, saying it is not doing enough for Soviet Jews, Israeli radio reported.

It said that Schcharansky told Parliament's Immigration Committee that "Soviet Jewry activists are left with the feeling that most of the struggle on their behalf is carried out by the Jews of the United States."

The broadcast quoted Schcharansky as saying "Israel's policy should be reminding the world daily that (Soviet leader Mikhail S.) Gorbachev stands at the head of a system which tramples people underfoot."

Schcharansky, a mathematician and a prominent Jewish activist, was released in a prisoner exchange after serving nearly nine years of a 13-year sentence on an espionage conviction.

Mother, Children Die In Fire

CLAYTON, N.C. (AP) — Three children and their mother, who recently learned that she had multiple sclerosis, apparently suffocated when a fire swept through their one-story, wood-frame home near Clayton, authorities say.

Linda Keller, 32, and her children, Diana, 12, Laura, 5, and Elizabeth, 3, died Tuesday, after a fire apparently trapped them inside their home in the Cosby Corner subdivision near Clayton, firefighters said.

Firefighters arrived about 10 minutes after receiving a call from a neighbor, but were unable to save the four people.

"My indication is, when the neighbors found out ... they had already been overcome by smoke," Johnston County Fire Marshal R.A. Jackson said.

"They (firefighters) had the fire under control within three or four minutes after they got here," he said. "There was not much fire in the house, but a lot of smoke."

Although firefighters had not determined the cause of the blaze, Jackson said the fire apparently started in the living room, blocking the family from leaving through the front or side doors.

Mrs. Keller's husband, Leonard, was not at home when the fire started, officials said. He is an employee of the state Department of Administration in Raleigh.

Firefighters found the bodies of Mrs. Keller and Elizabeth together in a bed in one of the bedrooms. Diana was found in a bathroom and Laura in a hallway, Jackson said.

Man Wrecks Truck Dodging Fallen Tree

ROWLAND, N.C. (AP) — A Rowland man was injured when a possible tornado knocked a tree over in front of his truck and he wrecked the vehicle as he tried to dodge the obstacle, officials say.

The National Weather Service in Wilmington said the storm, described as a "possible tornado," was seen on Wilmington weather radar at 7 p.m. Tuesday. The storm was moving southeast at about 5 mph. Severe weather also was reported in Fairmont in Robeson County, and in Onslow and Pender counties.

Mingo Miles, 58, sustained multiple trauma wounds and a broken finger when the tree fell in front of him on U.S. 501, said Sandra Jackson, nursing supervisor at Southeastern General Hospital in Lumberton. She said he was in stable condition in the emergency room.

Kermit Keeter, weather service meteorologist at the Raleigh-Durham Airport, said officials were not certain whether the storm was a tornado but would try to confirm it through ground observations.

"The warning put out was based on radar signature," he said. "That's not 100 percent reliable. But its reliable enough when you have reports of damage."

Keeter says the damaging winds came from a severe isolated thunderstorm that formed over Robeson County as a result of hot weather Tuesday afternoon. Temperatures in the area reached 98 degrees, he said.

"It's kind of typical of what can happen on a very hot summer day," Keeter said.

He said there was no way to predict the isolated storms would become severe.

"We're fortunate just to get a warning out on it," he said. "There was no severe weather forecast for the area."

Keeter said the storm that spawned a tornado that killed three people in Jacksonville last week was part of a large, organized band of severe thunderstorms. Those type of storms are rare when temperatures reach the upper 90s, he said.

Standards Tightened For State Scholarship

ASHEVILLE (AP) — The State Board of Education has voted to strengthen academic requirements for students who receive state scholarship loans for prospective teachers.

The board Tuesday approved procedures for managing the Scholarship Loan Fund after deciding that recipients must have an overall B average at the end of their sophomore year before entering a teacher education program.

The Legislature provided for 200 scholarship loans of $2,000 each in 1984, with 200 to be added each year until the total reaches 800. Recipients agree to teach one year in a North Carolina public school for each year they receive the loan or repay it with interest.

Under procedures proposed by state Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips and Controller James Barber, recipients would have needed to maintain a C average to be eligible for continuation of the loan.

But chairman Mebane Pritchett told the board he received a letter from three lawmakers who said a C average did not meet the academic standards the Legislature had in mind when it established the fund.

"I think at this particular time when we're talking about higher standards for everything, this is a way the state board can ensure that," Pritchett said.

Board member James Chavis said the requirement should not be changed for at least a year, however, while staff members determined the number of students who would be affected.

"I know from experience a lot of times a student's first year of college experience is not a good one," Chavis said. "There is a tremendous transition a student must make."

"I'd hate to see you penalize that 17- or 18-year-old at the end of his freshman year and maybe prevent him from entering the teaching profession."

The board agreed that students would be eligible with a C average at the end of their freshman year but would need a B average by the end of their sophomore year. The requirement is effective July 1, 1987.

Election

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Martin today scheduled for Nov. 4 a special election to fill the seat of Rep. Jim Broyhill, R-N.C., who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Sen. John East.

The special House election will be held the same day as the general election, said Tim Pittman, Martin's press secretary.

Martin, who was required by law to call the special election, said he was following the wishes of the two candidates vying for Broyhill's seat in the 10th Congressional District and by the leaders of both parties.

The Republican nominee, state Sen. Cass Ballenger of Catawba County, said he and his Democratic opponent, former Shelby mayor Les Roark, told the governor they wanted the special election to coincide with the general election.

Having the special election on another day would have cost $65,000 to $100,000, Pittman said.

Evangelists

CHARLOTTE (AP) — More than 100 North Carolina evangelists are expected to join some 8,000 traveling preachers from 175 countries and territories this weekend for an educational gathering coordinated by the Rev. Billy Graham.

The North Carolina preachers will join Graham for Amsterdam 86, the second International Conference of Itinerant Evangelists. The 10-day gathering, which starts Saturday, will be held in the Netherlands.

Working with Graham will be his brother-in-law, the Rev. Leighton Ford of Charlotte; his son, the Rev. Franklin Graham of Boone; his daughter, Anne Lotz of Raleigh, and his longtime associate, the Rev. Grady Wilson of Charlotte.

Charges

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — Thirteen employees of 11 Cumberland County restaurants have been charged with selling mixed beverages to underage customers, authorities said.

The charges Tuesday followed a state Alcohol Law Enforcement Division undercover operation, according to J.F. DeVane, supervisor of the ALE office at Fayetteville.

State law prohibits the sale of mixed beverages to anyone under age 21. According to the law, a conviction on the misdemeanor charge can carry a penalty of up to two years in prison and a fine up to $2,000 at the discretion of the judge, DeVane said.

The employees were cited with misdemeanor charges after an underage girl working undercover with the ALE allegedly bought mixed beverages at the restaurants between June 18 and July 2, DeVane said. Twenty-six restaurants were visited, he said.

Shaw President

RALEIGH (AP) — Shaw University President Stanley H. Smith was asked Tuesday to resign following a unanimous vote by the executive committee of the board of trustees.

Smith has been president of the nation's oldest black university for eight years. Smith, who still has the duties of president pending his resignation, was not present when the decision to oust him as president of the debt-ridden school was made public Tuesday.

The U.S. Internal Revenue Service in May filed liens against the university totaling $747,480, and U.S. Department of Education officials say Shaw has defaulted on more than $1 million debt. Department officials also say Shaw must repay another $503,962 in student aid funds it used improperly.

Farm Bond

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill that would create an Agricultural Finance Authority within the Department of Agriculture has received preliminary approval from the state House.

The House approved the bill introduced by Rep. Bobby Etheridge, D-Harnett, in a 103-0 vote.

The authority would have the power to issue bonds and notes to raise capital, which could be used to buy and sell agricultural loans made by lending institutions. In addition, the authority could ensure agricultural loans made by lending institutions and make loans.

The state commissioner of agriculture and six members appointed by the General Assembly would run the authority.

Settlement

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina will receive $17.3 million as a result of a settlement in federal district court of an oil overcharge case, state Attorney General Lacy Thornburg said.

Under the settlement terms, North Carolina will receive its share of oil overcharges during the period of oil price controls from 1973 through 1981, Thornburg said Tuesday.

Thornburg said the money will be used according to federal guidelines to support energy-related projects benefiting the entire state.

Sentence

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — An Asheboro man described by character witnesses as an outstanding person in his community was sentenced to two years in prison for the hit-and-run deaths of two Randolph County teen-agers killed last Halloween.

Fred Allen Hanes, 49, was sentenced by Randolph County Superior Court Judge Richard B. Allsbrook who agreed to a plea bargain arrangement between prosecutors and Hanes' attorney Bill Heafner.

Hanes pleaded guilty to two counts of death by vehicle and hit-and-run involving personal injury.

Peat Mine

RALEIGH (AP) — A Wake County Superior Court judge ruled against a Chicago developer's quest to begin the state's first major peat mine, finding that state environmental officials had acted properly in denying him permission to mine.

Sam J. Esposito obtained a state water discharge permit in 1982 for his proposal to mine 7,142 acres of peat in coastal Hyde County, but the permit required additional state approval before he could start.

Judge Robert L. Farmer said in Tuesday's ruling that Esposito's attorneys had argued that the court had considerable latitude in displacing its opinion for that of the state. But he disagreed.

"The court should not be free to weigh the evidence presented to the administrative agency and substitute its evaluation of the evidence for that of the agency," Farmer said in his nine-page ruling.

Survey Says Most Don't Believe Cocaine Can Kill

By DAVID DROSCAK Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — After the cocaine-related deaths of two prominent athletes, a University of North Carolina official says people are not surprised that athletes have used the drug — but they are surprised that it can kill.

A survey on cocaine use, conducted by students at UNC-Chapel Hill last year, shows that some people believe that most athletes use drugs.

"If I recall from the survey, people already believed that it was going on (by athletes)," said Philip Meyer, an expert on public opinion at UNC-Chapel Hill. "The fact that cocaine can be fatal is a surprise to some people, but not athletes using it."

Meyer said his students conducted a cocaine survey of Orange County in May 1985. One of the questions on the survey listed groups of people and asked if that group used cocaine more or less than the average person.

Of the people who responded, 62 percent said professional athletes used cocaine more than the average person. Sixty percent said university students used cocaine more, but only 36 percent said college athletes used cocaine more. Only 4 percent of the respondents said law enforcement officers used cocaine more.

"There were enough well-publicized deaths for them to know," Meyer said. "I believe there already was an association in the public mind — probably more professional than college — but the connection was there."

University of Maryland basketball player Len Bias died over two weeks ago when he collapsed in his dormitory room. The death was first thought to be a heart attack, but an autopsy later showed Bias died from cocaine intoxication.

Several days after Bias' death, Cleveland Brown safety Don Rogers collapsed and died after attending a bachelor party before his wedding. An autopsy showed Rogers died from cocaine.

Meyer said the survey showed 16 people died from cocaine in the state in 1984.

"The Len Bias case isn't that unusual," Meyer said. "If you check with some of the family members of those people who died, I bet none of them expected to be killed by cocaine either."

Dr. Arthur McBay, chief toxicologist at the North Carolina Medical Examiner's office in Chapel Hill, says cocaine-related deaths are on the rise in North Carolina.

McBay said only two cocaine deaths were recorded at his office in 1981, while 11 were recorded last year. McBay says 11 cocaine deaths have been recorded so far this year, a figure he says "will probably double" at year's end.

"The good news — if there is any good news — is that heroin deaths are down," he said.

Tank Car Sends Toxic Cloud Over 3 Cities

MIAMISBURG, Ohio (AP) — Firefighters using water and sand today extinguished a fire in an overturned tank car that spewed a poison cloud over parts of three cities, injuring at least 183 people and forcing 17,500 to flee their homes.

Many of the evacuees returned home late Tuesday, but hundreds remained overnight in makeshift shelters after seven Baltimore & Ohio cars, including one carrying white phosphorus, derailed earlier in this Dayton suburb.

Fire officials said the phosphorus, a component of rat poison and weapons, had stopped burning, and were reluctantly letting people return home.

"The phosphorus has burned itself out," said Norman Mason, among a host of city officials answering phones at the city building.

Firefighters covered the chemical with sand and dirt to prevent it from reigniting, said Miamisburg city planner Mike Grauwelman.

White phosphorus burns in contact with air at temperatures over 86 degrees Fahrenheit, said Pat Madigan of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency. It was about 90 degrees when the cars derailed.

Assistant city manager John Weithofer said residents were not being encouraged to return home, but were told that if they did, they should listen to news broadcasts as crews try to right the derailed cars. He estimated that about 1,500 people remained out of their homes today.

City Manager Dennis Kissinger said authorities were concerned that there might still be some sulfur in the area. A tanker full of sulfur was removed late Tuesday. Sulfur burning in combination with phosphorus can produce highly toxic by-products.

"We've got some signs that we've got sulfur out there and we're trying to figure out where it's coming from," Kissinger said.

Chessie System officials said the phosphorus tank car, one of four that overturned, was being examined but there had been no attempt to right it.

"They're still watching it before they start doing anything with it," said Dale Jackson, a railroad dispatcher at Miamisburg. "They want to make sure it's OK."

Conviction Is Upheld In Spy Case

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A federal appeals court today upheld the espionage conviction of retired Navy officer Arthur J. Walker on charges he helped his brother sell defense secrets to the Soviet Union.

"Considering the evidence in the light most favorable to the government, we conclude that a rational trier of fact could find that each of the offenses was proven beyond a reasonable doubt," a three-judge panel of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said in a 14-page ruling.

Walker was convicted last August of taking classified information from his defense contractor employer and passing it to his brother, John A. Walker Jr.

U.S. District Judge J. Calvitt Clarke Jr., hearing the case without a jury, had sentenced Arthur Walker to the maximum three life terms plus 40 years and fined him $250,000.

The government alleged that the family spy ring was masterminded by John Walker, Arthur Walker's younger brother who also was a retired Navy officer. John Walker pleaded guilty last October to espionage and was sentenced to life in prison.

Attorneys for Arthur Walker contended in the appeal that the government failed to prove two essential elements of espionage — that their client passed information to the Soviets and that he knew the information would help them and hurt the United States.

"The gist of his argument is that the government did not prove that John Walker was a Soviet agent or that John Walker ever passed the documents given to him by Arthur Walker to a Soviet agent," the Richmond-based appeals court said.

"This argument fails because the government presented sufficient evidence to prove that John Walker was a Soviet agent," the court said.

According to the appeals court, Arthur Walker entered into an arrangement with his brother to supply information about the readiness of Navy ships that was taken from Arthur Walker's employer.

John Walker had told his brother that he had friends who would pay for the information. The court said Arthur Walker was aware that the friends were Soviets.

J. Brian Donnelly, one of Arthur Walker's lawyers, said today from his Norfolk office that he had not seen the ruling.

"The usual position would be to read the opinion to see if there's anything in there that would support taking the case further. Beyond that I really can't comment," he said.

Ouch!

This Asian tiger mosquito, an aggressive and dangerous species, recently entered the Houston area. It arrived in water left in old tires imported from the Pacific for recycling. Of the approximately 2,500 species of mosquitos, only about 150 live in this country. Mosquitos live only about three or four weeks, but in that time they use up a lot of energy. Their annoying hum is caused by the beating of their wings at a rate of about 1,000 times a second.

DO YOU KNOW — What terrible disease is the Anopheles mosquito known to carry?

How They Voted

WASHINGTON — Here's how area lawmakers were recorded on major roll-call votes before the current Congressional recess for Independence Day.

HOUSE

The 1987 Budget — By a vote of 333 for and 43 against, the House approved a fiscal 1987 budget containing no major new taxes and projecting spending of $995 billion and a deficit of $142.6 billion for the year that begins Oct. 1, 1986.

On a non-record vote, the Senate also approved the budget blueprint (S Con Res 120), which calls for much higher domestic spending and significantly lower defense spending than President Reagan had requested.

Although the Congressional budget plan is essentially an advisory document, it will be watched more closely this year than in the past because of the new Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit reduction law.

Virtually across-the-board spending cuts will be triggered as early as Oct. 15 if the 1987 deficit is judged to be on its way to topping the law's $144 billion limit on red ink.

Supporter William Gray, D-Pa., said that by approving the budget lawmakers "will be able to tell America" that Congress is keeping faith with the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings law.

Opponent John Porter, R-Ill., said Wall Street and the American public eventually will see "that the budget numbers are fudged" and that deficit spending remains untamed by Congress.

Members voting yes endorsed the fiscal 1987 Congressional budget. They were Tim Valentine, D-2, Charles Whitley, D-3, William Cobey, R-4, Stephen Neal, D-5, Howard Coble, R-6, Charles Rose, D-7, W.G. Hefner, D-8, Alex McMillan, R-9, James Broyhill, R-10, Bill Hendon, R-11, Walter Jones, D-1, did not vote.

Navy Ports — By a vote of 240 for and 191 against, the House adopted an amendment that blocks funding for the Navy plan to base its growing fleet at ten or more Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coast ports.

Critics say the "home-porting" plan is designed in part to attract broad geographical support in Congress for Navy spending, while defenders say it is dangerous to concentrate the planned 600-vessel Navy in too few ports.

This amendment was attached to the fiscal 1987 military construction appropriations bill (HR 5052), which later was sent to the Senate. It deleted $140 million earmarked for Navy port development at Everett, Wash. and Staten Island, N.Y.

Congress will hold additional votes in upcoming months on whether to proceed with home-porting.

Amendment sponsor Dennis Bertele, D-Mich., said "it makes no sense" to base Navy vessels at Staten Island because "New York City is the top target in the nuclear age." Opponent Norman Dicks, D-Wash., said the Navy fleet must be dispersed "so that in case of a Soviet attack... all of our ships would not be in one place. That is the lesson that we learned from Pearl Harbor."

Members voting yes wanted to delete the proposed $140 million home-porting outlay. They were Valentine, Whitley, Neal, Coble, Rose, McMillan, Broyhill and Hendon. Walter Jones, Cobey and Hefner voted no.

Nutrition Program — By a vote of 305 for and 85 against, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill (HR 2436) creating a sweeping new federal program to upgrade America's eating habits and food policies.

At an estimated cost of $70 million or more over ten years, the National Nutrition Monitoring and Research Program would tie together a variety of existing federal programs that deal with what and how well Americans eat. And it would add programs, such as categorical grants for state and local nutrition projects.

A key aim of the bill is to coordinate the departments of Agriculture and Health and Human Services, two agencies whose food and nutrition programs often have been in conflict.

Supporter Manuel Lujan, R-N.M., said the legislation "will not solve the problem of hunger in the United States" but will prove to be worthwhile.

Opponent Joe Barton, R-Tex., said the bill "is not bad legislation" but is unwarranted at a time of federal austerity.

Members voting yes wanted to create the new federal nutrition program. They were Walter Jones, Valentine, Whitley, Cobey, Neal, Rose, Hefner, McMillan, Broyhill and Hendon. Coble voted no.

SENATE

Aid to Ireland — The Senate voted, 65 for and 31 against, to provide $50 million in U.S. economic assistance to Northern Ireland, marking the first time American foreign aid has been sent to Ireland.

Also approved by the House, the money is part of a $1.7 billion fiscal 1986 spending bill (HR 4515) that was sent to President Reagan for his signature.

Its purpose is to bolster an accord reached last year between Great Britain and Ireland that some see as a step toward peace in Ulster. The mainly-Catholic Republic of Ireland now can advise Great Britain on the governance of Northern Ireland, thus bolstering the rights of the Catholic minority in Ulster.

Supporter Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., said "$50 million is a small price indeed if it can bring peace in Northern Ireland."

Opponent Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., said that in view of hard times on the farm and elsewhere in America, "it simply is not the time to send money to yet a new foreign aid recipient."

Senators voting yes favored $50 million in foreign aid to Northern Ireland. John East-R and Jesse Helms-R voted no.

Experts Say California Still Due For Major Earthquake

By BRUCE V. BIGELOW
Associated Press Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Southern California's strongest earthquake in seven years injured at least 18 people and caused widespread damage, but scientists say it will not relieve enough pressure to delay a great quake predicted to hit the state.

The quake Tuesday morning buckled highways, sparked dozens of fires and damaged part of the state's aqueduct system. It also blacked out 110,000 homes for about three hours and hurled boulders the size of automobiles onto roads.

Palm Springs Desert Hospital spokeswoman Linda Riggs said 18 people were treated for ailments including cuts, abrasions, strains and chest pains.

Damage was still being assessed today, officials said.

The quake, measuring 6.0 on the Richter scale, was centered about 12 miles northwest of Palm Springs or 110 miles east of Los Angeles, said Dennis Meredith, a spokesman for the seismology lab at the California Institute of Technology.

At the Western Village Mobile Home Ranch, four miles northwest of Palm Springs, 37 mobile homes were damaged and two were reported total losses after being shaken off their foundations. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

"It looks like the devil's own hand stirred things up here," said Anna Abston, manager of the trailer park. The earthquake, felt as far away as Arizona and Nevada, lasted 20 to 30 seconds and spawned dozens of aftershocks, some registering as high as 3.0 on the Richter scale.

Caltech seismologist Kate Hutton said the tremor was the strongest in seven years in Southern California but was far too small to significantly delay the great quake of 8.0 or more on the Richter scale that is expected within the next 30 years.

"Every earthquake relieves some stress," Ms. Hutton said. "But a 6.0 is just a drop in the bucket."

Had the quake struck closer to Los Angeles, damage would have been much more severe, officials said.

"If it had happened downtown, it might have been a different story," said Thomas Heaton, a U.S. Geological Survey scientist at Caltech. "It probably would have damaged pre-1930s buildings" — those built before earthquake-safety rules were adopted.

As it was, the Palm Springs area escaped more extensive damage because many of its buildings were built after a 1948 quake that measured 6.5 on the Richter scale. That quake destroyed many buildings erected before stricter building codes were implemented in 1933, Heaton said.

The quake was the strongest in Southern California since a 1979 quake in the Imperial Valley hit 6.4 on the open-ended Richter scale. A quake registering 6.4 killed 65 people in the San Fernando Valley in February 1971.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in the strength of the shaking. Thus a reading of 7.5 reflects an earthquake 10 times stronger than one of 6.5.

The San Francisco earthquake of 1906, which occurred before the Richter scale was devised, has been estimated at 8.3 on the Richter scale.

Southern California Edison Co. and Los Angeles Metropolitan Water District officials said they expected preliminary damage estimates today, but police said it could take days to figure out the total cost of the quake.

"One bridge on Highway 111 shifted off its pillars and will have to be reset," Palm Springs police Lt. Lee Weigel said. "It will probably be closed until the end of the week."

Boulders, some the size of automobiles, were strewn across the bridge.

No structural damage was found in downtown Palm Springs, but the main street was littered with broken glass, police said. A glass and mirror firm suffered $35,000 in fire damage and a liquor store had $25,000 worth of breakage.

A major power outage put 110,000 customers in the Palm Springs area in the dark from 4:15 a.m. to about 7 a.m. Tuesday, the Edison Co. said.

The outage shut down two pumping stations on an aqueduct bringing Colorado River water into Southern California and forced crews to dump 700 million gallons of water in the desert, triggering minor flooding, said MWD spokesman Tim Skove. About 13 million Californians get half their water from the MWD.

The quake and power outage tripped security alarms, knocked store shelves and home cupboards bare, shattered windows, cracked walls, forced the Palm Springs Airport terminal to close, put one area radio station off the air and left the city without traffic lights.

Typhoon Kills Four On Luzon

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Typhoon Peggy battered thickly populated Luzon Island today, triggering floods in four northern provinces and landslides that killed four people, two of them children, authorities said.

At least seven other people were listed as missing and presumed buried in landslides in and around Baguio City, 125 miles north of Manila, the Philippine National Red Cross and the Office of Civil Defense said.

Flooding as high as 10 feet was reported in one area of Baguio, a mountain resort city, while water was knee-deep in other parts of Nueva Ecija province, said Red Cross relief coordinator Prosperidad Cabalang.

Flooding was also reported in Pangasinan, La Union and Cagayan provinces. Several houses were destroyed in Pangasinan.

Heavy rains also flooded low-lying areas in Manila, including the grounds of the riverside Malacanang presidential palace, where President Corazon Aquino and her ministers had to walk on wooden planks today to a Cabinet meeting.

Packing winds of up to 109 mph, the typhoon blew down several houses in Baguio, forcing an undetermined number of residents to evacuate to a school and gymnasium, Ms. Cabalang said in a telephone interview.

She said one house in Baguio, a mountain resort city, was buried by a landslide, killing two children. Two people were killed when another landslide struck a mining camp outside Baguio.

Landslides also closed off portions of two major roads leading to Baguio, relief officials said.

Philippine Air Lines canceled flights to three domestic points.

Chief government weather forecaster Amado Pineda said Peggy struck land at 9 a.m., hitting the rice-growing Cagayan Valley region 200 miles north of Manila.

No immediate reports of casualties or damage were received from the largely mountainous area of the Philippines' main island.

Pineda said Peggy's gusts were felt more than 430 miles from the typhoon's center.

An average of 20 typhoons hit the Philippines every year, Pineda said. A typhoon is the name given a tropical cyclone that occurs in the region of the Philippines or the China Sea.

'Ladies In Retirement' Falls Short Of Thrilling

With its presentation of "Ladies in Retirement" Monday night, the ECU Summer Theater was off and running for its 21st season.

I mean that literally. The first few minutes of the play passed in a dead heat between the actors getting off to a fast-paced start and the audience straining to adjust to the rapid English accent in order to keep up with the action — which finally settled to an uneven pace. The result was that both lost the race. No win, no place, no show.

The production just never came off. Take a period play done with English accents (some too strong), with only scraps of comedy, and give it a plot that's neither comedy, drama, mystery nor thriller, and what you get is an unfocused production that leaves a great deal to be desired.

"Ladies in Retirement," by Edward Percy and Reginald Denham, is based loosely on a famous French crime of the 1880s. Briefly, it is the story of housekeeper Ellen Creed, who murders her friend and employer so that her sisters can have a home.

Michael Learned, the Emmy Award-winning guest star, is a pleasure to watch as Ellen. Her presence on stage was greeted by enthusiastic applause, and commanded our attention throughout. However, she was handicapped by our vivid memories of Olivia Walton, and never seemed to shed that image. This was compounded by the fact that her two sisters in the play are so reminiscent of the two maiden ladies on the TV series "The Waltons."

But these Creed sisters are a delight. Mavis Ray and Hazel Stapleton (Louisa and Emily) very nearly steal the show. As the eccentric old ladies who have virtually every comedy turn in the play, they perform their roles to the maximum, and are the bright spots in a long evening.

Holt Wilson (of "All My Children") plays the role of Albert, the sisters' nephew. He's cunning and charming, but gives us little hint of the character's hard core.

As for the rest of the cast ... Tonia Rowe as victim Leonara Fiske had a sympathetic flair, MaryKate Cunningham as the maid Lucy had a nice light touch in the romantic scenes with Albert, and Molly Fix projected warmth as the nun. Too bad many of their lines were lost at the back of the stage.

In contrast to the comedy bits, the drama never jells. Perhaps the conflicts aren't played strongly enough, or the performers miss some subtle nuances of character. In any case, the audience never seemed gripped by the action.

Technically, the ECU staff shines.

Lighting effects are excellent (except for one speedy sunset), and the set is outstanding. The costumes are period-perfect, and enhance the characterizations (Louisa's bustle is not to be believed). The sound effects aren't up to standard, but there is a nice use of music from "The Mikado" for the transitions.

Having said all this, I'd still say go see the show, especially if English comedy is your cup of tea. The performances by Ms. Ray, Miss Stapleton and, of course, Ms. Learned are worth it.

"Ladies in Retirement" will be playing through Saturday at 8:15 each evening at the McGinnis Theater on the ECU campus. Tickets are available at the theater.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, struggling to stabilize after the selloff of the past two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped .57 to 1,820.16 in the first hour of trading.

Advancing issues out-numbered declines by 4 to 3 in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Opening-hour volume on the Big Board came to 35.67 million shares.

The market opened to a brief flurry of buying by traders apparently shopping for "bargains" after the market's sharp drop since the start of the week.

But analysts said it was unlikely that stock prices could rebound so quickly from the jolt of Monday's record-setting drop and further selling on Tuesday.

Furthermore, they said, concern persisted over slower-than-expected economic growth. Second-quarter earnings reports issued by corporations over the next few weeks are expected to reflect that general sluggishness.

The possibility remains that the Federal Reserve might make a new reduction soon in its discount rate, which currently stands at 6.5 percent.

However, many brokers question whether such a move would revive confidence in the market. A discount-rate cut has been so frequently discussed for so long on Wall Street that many fear it will be taken as old news by traders if and when it occurs.

A 4-cent assessment would cost growers and tobacco companies, which share equally under the new program, about $28 million. A portion of the $80 million could have covered those costs, officials said.

The money at issue is the estimated leftover reserve in the flue-cured tobacco program's "No Net Cost" account after the sale of the surplus tobacco from 1982, 1983 and 1984 crops. The money is from fees collected in those years from growers.

Those crop surpluses are part of the buy-out authorized this year by Congress when it enacted legislation revamping the program.

But under the contracts signed with the major cigarette companies, the buy-out could be terminated if Congress or USDA makes statutory or administrative changes against the interests of the companies.

The companies insisted on the clauses during negotiations with officials for USDA and the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp.

Fred Bond, the executive director for the cooperative, said the assessment for the 1986 crops could be set as early as next week.

Congress Expected To Reinstate Cuts In Federal Budget

By JUDITH HAVEMANN
L.A. Times-Washington Post News Service

WASHINGTON — Monday's Supreme Court decision on the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings balanced-budget law left Congress with an important piece of unfinished business: whether to reinstate $11.7 billion in budget cuts ordered last spring or let a potentially record deficit grow larger.

The 4.3 percent across-the-board cuts were ordered under the provision of the act the court ruled unconstitutional. Congress now has 60 days to decide whether to make them legal.

Budget experts predicted that Congress will approve the cuts, in part because lawmakers have already acted to take the sting out of the most painful reductions.

"I think Congress will go for the cuts," said Carol G. Cox, president of the Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget. "Just before they went on recess, they cut a deal with the administration that provided money in the areas that bothered them the most."

The urgent supplemental-appropriations bill to which Cox referred was signed last week by the president. It included funds for the Internal Revenue Service, air traffic controllers, national park land acquisition, Indian social services, soil conservation, agricultural research, meat inspection, federal jury trials, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and price supports and subsidy payments to farmers, among others.

"The chances are awfully strong that Congress will vote to codify the 1986 cuts through a joint resolution when they come back," said political scientist Norman Ornstein, a congressional scholar at the American Enterprise Institute. "They have already absorbed the pain, and it doesn't gain them very much to overturn them now."

"There is one potential glitch," he said, "the ever-present live grenade of cost-of-living increases."

The automatic deficit-reduction act, the key part of which was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, deprived federal retirees of the cost-of-living increases they expected in January.

These thousands of retired workers, who live in almost every congressional district, have three lawsuits pending or contemplated in an effort to overturn the cuts. They are also expected to exert tremendous pressure on legislators to vote to reinstate their pension adjustments.

The 1986 cuts will be "hard to pass" because of the retirees, said Rep. Charles E. Schumer, D-N.Y.

But Tuesday's response was light. Rep. Frank Wolf, R-Va., got five to 10 phone calls on the subject, according to his office. And Rep. Michael D. Barnes, D-Md., received "maybe four or five" at each of two offices. The House civil service committee, which had geared up for an avalanche, received none. The Senate subcommittee, zero.

Similarly, the House Agriculture Committee, which frequently hears from farmers who are seeking reinstatement of cuts in support payments, got no such calls Tuesday.

In natural resources, another area of controversy, the cuts taken in national park operating accounts may turn out to be water over the dam.

"The year is over," said Destry Jarvis, vice president of the National Parks and Conservation Association. "They hired fewer seasonal employees, cut back on maintenance and resource management, and some parks will suffer. But the year is too far gone, the effect has already occurred."

Congressional leaders said passage of the fiscal 1986 cuts will be a high priority. Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., said, "the first order of business will be to see if Congress wants to enforce the one that's already in place. That ought to be simple, but I don't think it will be simple at all."

However, House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, D-Mass., said, "I expect Congress next week to implement the '86 cut. Fast action to reaffirm the March 1 executive order will demonstrate that Congress shares the desire of the American people for stable fiscal policy. Congress will show that stability by staying with the Gramm-Rudman target for '86."

Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., ranking Democrat on the Senate Budget Committee said, it "should be pro forma."

outdoor pets and farm animals are not as fortunate.

Hot weather "costs the poultry industry about a million dollars a year," said Phillip Rowan, a livestock agent with the Agricultural Extension Service. "Young chickens tend to huddle together when they're small," he said. "It's quite common to suffer a lot of death loss."

Hogs also suffer in extreme heat, Rowan said. They do not eat as much so they are thinner and "the conception rates are down," he said. "They'll (farmers) suffer for this three-four months down the road."

Other farm animals such as goats, sheep and cattle are not affected as much, Jones said, but they also eat less. "They don't eat as much and they don't gain as much," he said. The objective is to keep the animals as cool as possible with plenty of water and shade or ventilation.

Shade and large amounts of available water are important for outdoor pets, said Dr. Michael J. House of Animal Hospital. If the animal gets too hot, "they can get a heat stroke," he said.

Symptoms of a heat stroke in animals include rapid breathing and panting with the tongue extended, and often the animal is exhausted and has difficulty standing, House said. "The problem with animals is they don't have a sweat mechanism" to release some of their body heat, he said.

To relieve them of the heat, Jones said to put water on them with the water hose or by spot wetting if the animal is sick. It would help to have a large tub or old pool of water where the animal could cool off, and cut some the hair, especially if it's a long-haired animal, he said. "Keep the animal from exercising more than necessary," Jones said, because excessive exercise in the heat also can cause an uncontrollable heat stroke.

BarclaysAmerican. It gives us bank offices in some very fine North Carolina markets and provides a base for future expansion.

"We believe the financial strength of BarclaysAmerican, combined with North State's assets, will have a significant economic impact in North Carolina," Keith said.

Keith said that, when the purchase is consummated, North State's assets and liabilities will be transferred to a new BarclaysAmerican subsidiary, Barclays Bank of North Carolina, and deposits will be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC).

A news release from Barclays said North State has over $200 million in assets.

BarclaysAmerican on Dec. 31, 1985, had $3.4 billion in assets and more than $3.2 billion in finance receivables.

Roger Hendrix, executive vice president and chief legal counsel for BarclaysAmerican, said this morning that if Barclays acquires North State "we want to do it as soon as possible," and suggested that the acquisition may be completed by "July 21 ... a week later at the latest. If we do it it will be by the end of the month."

Saying North State "is insolvent," Hendrix suggested that "purchase" might not be the correct term to use in connection with the Barclays takeover. "It's a matter of infusing enough capital," to meet the requirements of all the regulatory agencies and "get it going again." "Nobody will get anything out of it... the stockholders won't get anything."

Hendrix suggested that it would take $40 million to $45 million in capital to give North State the needed reserves and said about half that amount would come from FIAC.

BarclaysAmerican is a subsidiary of Barclays Bank PLC of London, which holds worldwide assets of more than $98 billion.

When the acquisition is complete, North State's 18 offices will change their name to Barclays Bank and become Charlotte-based BarclaysAmerican's 10th operating division. Barclays now operates 380 offices in 36 states.

John Candelaria arrived in California last Aug. 2 and almost pitched the Angels to the American League West Division title. This time, he has come to the rescue almost a month earlier.

The veteran left-hander was acquired in a six-player trade with Pittsburgh last summer and went 7-3 as the Angels finished one game behind Kansas City. But after a two-inning, four-run stint against Seattle on April 9, he was sidelined with a sore elbow which required surgery and a rehabilitation trip to the minors.

The Candy Man came back Tuesday night and pitched five scoreless innings in California's 14-3 rout of the Milwaukee Brewers, which included George Hendrick's grand slam and home runs by Rick Burleson, Bobby Grich and Wally Joyner.

Catcher Bob Boone said Candelaria looked about the same as he did when he came to the Angels last summer.

"John made some good pitches when he had to. He had a good, solid, quality outing. I expected that from him," Boone said. "I don't think he has a long way to go before regaining his old form. It's just a matter of his arm getting stronger."

By winning, the Angels remained one-half game ahead of Texas, which defeated New York 6-1. In other AL games, it was Boston 8, Oakland 7; Baltimore 8, Kansas City 4 in 13 innings; Chicago 6, Cleveland 2; Seattle 8, Toronto 5; Detroit 5, Minnesota 1.

Leading 1-0, the Angels erupted for six runs in the fifth inning against Milwaukee rookie Juan Nieves, who had gone 36 innings without giving up a homer. With two out, singles by Brian Downing, Joyner and Doug DeCinces made it 2-0. Nieves walked Grich to load the bases, setting up Hendrick's fourth career grand slam. Burleson followed with his solo shot, chasing Nieves.

"I'll tell you what he told me — 'Didn't have much idea where the ball was going ... got no business making 90 pitches in five innings ... nothing hurt ... everything was comfortable expect knowing where the ball was going,'" Mauch related.

Rangers 6, Yankees 1

Texas' Mike Mason won his second straight game since coming off the disabled list with a five-hitter that dropped New York's record against left-handers to 10-19. Pete O'Brien and Oddibe McDowell hit two-run homers in the first two innings off rookie Alfonso Pulido.

"Tom House (Texas pitching coach) told me I was throwing my head to the side on my delivery," said Mason. "He told me to throw my cap at my leading foot and I've been doing that the last couple of games. It's a lot easier on my arm and it makes a difference between going six innings and going nine innings."

Red Sox 8, A's 7

Bill Buckner capped a five-run sixth-inning rally with a three-run double and Rich Gedman and Rey Quinones also had RBI doubles in the inning as Boston beat Oakland and moved eight games ahead of New York in the AL East. Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, 11-6, allowed four runs, two unearned, in six innings before needing help from Bob Stanley and Steve Crawford.

The Red Sox scored twice in the seventh on Tony Armas' RBI triple and Gedman's sacrifice fly to make it

8-5 and those runs proved decisive when Oakland scored twice in the ninth on RBI singles by Tony Phillips and rookie Jose Canseco, who earlier hit his 21st homer. Crawford came on and retired Dave Kingman on a fly ball for the final out.

Orioles 8, Royals 4

Two Baltimore runners scored on Kansas City shortstop Greg Pryor's 13th-inning throwing error and Juan Bonilla added a two-run single as the Orioles dealt the floundering world champion Royals their 11th consecutive defeat.

Fred Lynn, who earlier had a two-run single, doubled with one out in the 13th and took third on Cal Ripken's single. Ripken went to second on the throw home and Jim Dwyer, who homered in the eighth inning, was walked intentionally to load the bases.

Pryor fielded Juan Beniquez' grounder but threw wildly to second trying to start a double play. Bonilla drove in two more runs with a two-out single off Bud Black.

White Sox 6, Indians 2

Harold Baines hit a three-run homer three batters after a solo shot by Tim Lulett in the fifth inning while Neil Allen scattered five hits through eight innings as the White Sox won their third straight game and 11th in 15 games under Manager Jim Fregosi.

Lulett broke a 1-1 tie when he led off the fifth against Bryan Oelkers with his fifth homer of the season. Julio Cruz walked and reliever Dickie Noles hit John Cangelosi with a pitch before Baines hit his 12th homer.

Mariners 8, Blue Jays 5

Seattle's John Moses and Jim Presley had two-run singles in a six-run second inning and the Mariners held off Toronto. Seattle raked John Cerutti for six runs on five hits and an error in the big inning, all the runs coming with two out.

Mark Huisman, who scattered five hits over 4 1/3 innings of relief, was the winning pitcher and Matt Young, the third Seattle pitcher, went 2-2-3 innings for his eighth save.

Tigers 5, Twins 1

Detroit's Kirk Gibson, Lance Parrish and Darrell Evans hit consecutive fourth-inning home runs off Bert Blyleven, who has surrendered 30 homers — 13 short of Pedro

Ramos' 29-year-old AL mark and 15 shy of Robin Roberts' 30-year-old major-league record. Detroit rookie Eric King allowed four hits — all doubles — in 8 2/3 innings and tied a major-league record for a pitcher in a nine-inning game with six putouts. He shares the record with Blyleven, who had six putouts on June 24, 1984.

Wayne Defeats Preps By 10-2

GOLDSBORO — Wayne County's 13-Year-Old Babe Ruth League All-Stars ended the Greenville Prep League's hopes of advancement Tuesday night in the District 5 finals at Eastern Wayne High School, taking a 10-2 baseball victory.

Pitt was held to only three hits in the game by Wayne hurler Jeremy Wiley. Wiley walked six and struck out only six, but he was in control just enough to keep Greenville from doing much damage during the evening.

Wayne completed its sweep through the tournament without a loss and will advance to the state tournament, to be held at Garner starting Friday.

Greenville's two losses in the double elimination tournament both came at the hands of Wayne. Pitt won its opener against Pitt County, and topped Martin County before falling to Wayne. It then beat Pitt County once more in the losers' bracket finals, but was in a position of having to win twice from Wayne to take the championship.

It was not to be.

Wayne grabbed the lead in the top of the second inning, scoring once. It then came back with five runs in the third to put the game away.

Mondo Hunter led off the third with a single and stole second. He scored when Steve Newby reached on an error. Brian Cox singled to drive in Newby, and then scored when Andre Altice singled. Altice stole up and reached third on Chris Dail's error grounder. A balk brought Altice home and Dail scored on an error.

The other four Wayne County runs scored in the sixth inning.

Greenville scored both of its runs in the fourth inning. Grant Harmon singled and stole second. He scored on Toure Claiborne's error fly ball with two outs. Claiborne stole second and scored on a passed ball.

Hunter led the Wayne County hitting with two while Matthew Cagle had two hits to pace Greenville.

Bubka Sets New Vault Mark

MOSCOW (AP) — Sergei Bubka has raised the world pole vault record once again, this time for motherland and year-old son.

The Soviet Union's two-legged flying machine broke his own world mark Tuesday night at the Goodwill Games, soaring 19 feet, 8 3/4 inches.

Bubka set the old mark of 19-8 3/4 at Paris last July 13.

It was the fourth — and by far the biggest — world record set at the games, and marked the first time in six world-record leaps that Bubka had gained the mark on Soviet soil.

"I am happy to set the world record in the motherland and before all my compatriots," he said. "They can be very happy with me in my country."

While he shared the triumph with the rest of Soviet citizenry, Bubka devoted the feat to one person — his son, Vitaly, who celebrates his first birthday today. Bubka also said he is not through setting records.

"I think I can jump higher," he said. "I can do it."

In one of today's early events, Soviet athletes swept the modern pentathlon titles, with Vakhtrang Yagorashvili winning the men's crown and Tatyana Chernetskaya the women's. Lori Norwood of the United States took the women's bronze medal, trailing Sophie Moressee of France.

On Tuesday, Soviet cyclist Ericka Salumae chopped .005 seconds off her world mark with an 11.489-second clocking in a qualification run for the women's 200-meter sprint.

Bubka had kind words for the Soviet Union, but some U.S. athletes and officials did not.

They complained that Soviet runners were getting advantageous lane and race assignments. American track coach Harry Groves said it was "international bush league."

Track was the big item on the schedule Tuesday, the fourth day of competition in the multi-sport festival. The Soviets won six gold medals, five in track and field, to run their total to 28 at the end of Tuesday's competition. The Americans, who won three track golds Tuesday, have 25, according to figures compiled by the Turner Broadcasting System, which is running the Games along with the Soviet Sports Ministry. Overall, the Soviet Union had captured 88 medals, 16 more than the United States, according to TBS. East Germany was a distant third with 12 medals.

American national champion Pam Marshall took the women's 200 meters, Johnny Gray of the United States won the men's 800, and the U.S. women's 1,600-meter relay team beat the Soviets in a two-team race.

But in other events, things did not go as well for the United States.

Japan eliminated the U.S. team from the women's volleyball tournament by scores of 15-13, 18-20, 15-11 and 15-11. Less than two years ago, the United States won a silver medal in the Los Angeles Olympics, but only one member of that team — Paula Weishoff — was in Moscow.

And at Lenin Stadium, where the fans cheered Bubka, U.S. athletes and officials hissed some of the decisions made by the people running the meet.

The men's 1,500 final was split into two sections at the last minute and the top American miler, Steve Scott, was placed in the faster section, where strategy and physical contact from other world-class runners made his job more difficult.

He finished second in his group and third overall when a relative unknown, Pavel Yakovlev of the Soviet Union, won the supposedly slower second section in a time sufficient for overall victory.

The runnerup, who beat Scott in the other heat, was Igor Lotorev of the Soviet Union.

Scott's time was 3 minutes, 40.31 seconds, compared with Yakovlev's 3:39.36.

"I have never seen a meet like this," Scott said. "Sure, I was second in my heat and I was beaten by a Russian, but according to them I was beaten by two Russians and that makes it twice as bad."

The Americans also complained about the handling of the men's 110-meter hurdles and 3,000-meter steeplechase, and the women's 100-meter hurdles.

"This is an example of poor sportsmanship," Groves said. "It is international bush league. They don't want to go head-to-head."

AP Sports Writer

After hitting into two double plays and also striking out with the bases loaded, Buddy Bell had only one thought in mind when he came to bat in the ninth with a man on first and his Cincinnati team down by two runs.

"I was just trying not to hit into a double play," he said.

This time, he sent the ball over the left-field fence for a home run to tie the game and set up a 10th-inning rally capped by Tony Perez's RBI single that gave the Reds a 5-4 victory over the New York Mets Tuesday night.

"I've been in this game a long time," said Bell, who connected for his fifth homer following a leadoff single by Dave Concepcion. "I'll tell you one thing, it was nice to hit that home run."

It was the first time after 47 games this season that the National League East-leading Mets had lost with a lead in the ninth inning. It was also the seventh victory in nine games for the revitalized Reds.

In other NL games, Houston beat Montreal 4-1; Philadelphia swamped

Atlanta 8-2; St. Louis beat Los Angeles 1-0; San Diego whipped Pittsburgh 4-2 and Chicago turned back San Francisco 4-1.

Reds 5, Mets 4

Before hitting his game-tying homer off Mets relief ace Jesse Orosco, Bell had stranded seven runners in his first three plate appearances.

Parker led off the tenth with a ground-rule double on the first pitch from Roger McDowell, 7-2, who relieved to start the inning. Parker moved to third on Eric Davis' tapper and Perez followed with a ground ball past the Mets' drawn-in infield into center field.

John Franco, 3-4 pitched two scoreless innings for the victory, the Reds' second straight over the Mets.

Astros 4, Expos 1

Denny Walling hit a two-run homer off ace Montreal reliever Jeff Reardon in the eighth inning to cap a four-run Houston comeback over the Expos. Jay Tibbs, 4-5, took a 1-0 lead into the eighth, allowing just three hits over the first seven innings, but he tired and Reardon failed to protect the lead.

Winner Nolan Ryan, 5-6, pitched seven innings of five-hit ball before Charlie Kerfeld came in for his third save. Ryan struck out nine and allowed five hits in seven innings, walking two.

Montreal took a 1-0 lead in the sixth on Hubie Brooks' sacrifice fly, his 50th RBI of the season.

"On the first pitch, I was looking for a fastball," Walling said of his home run off Reardon. "He usually jams me with it but this time he didn't get it as inside as he would have liked. I got the fat part of the bat on it and it just popped out."

Phillies 8, Braves 2

Mike Schmidt broke out of a slump with a two-run homer and rookie Bruce Ruffin pitched an eight-hitter to lead Philadelphia over Atlanta.

Schmidt was 0-for-22 before hitting his 475th career home run in the fourth, tying Stan Musial and Willie Stargell for 15th place on the all-time list.

Ruffin, 2-0, called up June 26 from Reading of the Class AA Eastern League to replace the released Steve Carlton in the starting rotation, pitched his first complete game in his third start. The 22-year-old pitcher struck out three and walked none, giving up the Braves' only runs on an RBI double by Andre Thomas in the eighth and RBI single by Terry Harper in the ninth.

Ruffin also had a two-run double in the bottom of the eighth.

Rick Mahler, 10-7, was the loser as the Braves dropped their fifth straight game.

Cardinals 1, Dodgers 0

Tim Conroy and Ricky Horton combined on a five-hitter and Mike Lavalliere broke a scoreless tie with a run-scoring single in the top of the seventh inning to lead St. Louis over Los Angeles.

Conroy, 3-3, whom the Cardinals obtained from the Oakland A's in an off-season deal for Joaquin Andujar, yielded three hits and struck out six in six innings. It was his first start for St. Louis since May 25, the day before he went on the disabled list with a sore left shoulder.

Horton pitched two-hit ball over the final three innings for his first save of the season.

Pepsi Comeback Tops Coca-Cola

Pepsi-Cola, which dropped the opening game of the best-of-three series for the City Little League championship, came back to top Coca-Cola, 8-7, Tuesday and win the overall crown.

Pepsi bowed in the opening game, 10-5, then rallied to even the series, 8-4, on Monday.

Pepsi, which suffered only one loss in 23 games this year, pushed over four runs in the top of the first inning to gain the lead. Two more crossed in the second inning, giving Pepsi a 6-0 lead.

But Coke was not out of it, coming back with one in the second and then scoring four times in the fourth to cut the lead to 6-5.

In the fifth, inning, however, Pepsi pushed over the two that was to make the difference. Will MacKenzie was hit by a pitch to open the inning and Josh Burns followed the same way. Geoff Stallings singled in MacKenzie and Jon Gavigan singled to bring home Burns for an 8-5 lead.

Coke came back with two more in the bottom of the sixth, but couldn't push over the tying run.

Chuck Williams, MacKenzie and Burns each had two hits to lead Pepsi, while John Smith and James Ebron each picked up a pair of hits for Coca-Cola.

Coke, Everette's Stay Alive In BR Tourney

Coca-Cola and Everette's Pest Control stayed alive in the Babe Ruth League's post-season tournament Tuesday, ousting Computerland and Brown & Wood from the double-elimination field.

Coke nipped Computerland, 11-10, while Everette's, the regular season champ, topped Brown & Wood, 5-3.

Tonight, Coke and Everette's play in the losers' bracket while Pepsi-Cola and Wachovia Bank collide in the winner's bracket. The winner of that game advances to the championship game.

Coke pushed ahead in the first inning of its game with Computerland, scoring three times. But Computerland came right back to score three and tie it up. Both also scored twice in the second inning for a 5-5 deadlock. Coke went back out with one in the third, 6-5, but Computerland stormed ahead for the first time, scoring three runs for an 8-6 margin.

Coke rallied for two in the fifth, tying it once more, then moved back in front with one in the sixth.

But it was two in the seventh that made the difference. Maurice Hines led off the inning with a single and Julius Smith followed with a two-run homer for an 11-8 lead.

Computerland tried to rally, scoring twice in the bottom of the frame, but left the tying run on second game.

Jeff Likosar led the Coke hitting with three while Billy Turcotte, Walter Gatlin, Hines, Smith and Chad Adams each had two hits. Chris Christopher and Sean Lyles each had two hits for Computerland.

Brown & Wood took the initial lead in the first inning of the game with Everette's, scoring a single run. A second run crossed in the second inning. Everette's also got on the board in the second, scoring once to trail 2-1.

Everette's pushed ahead with two in the third, taking a 3-2 lead.

In the fourth, Everette's scored the game-winner. Dwain Williams led off with a walk and advanced on a stolen base and a wild pitch. Robert Jenkins was hit by a pitch and Hank Thompson walked, loading the bases. A walk to Pat Joyner forced in Williams.

Brown & Wood pulled back within one with one in the fifth but Everette's added one more in the bottom of the frame.

Jamie Brewington led Everette's with three hits while Williams added two. Alphonzo Freeman led Brown & Wood with a pair.

NFLPA Dismisses Drug Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — As far as the National Football League Players Association is concerned, the get-tough anti-drug plan announced by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle "doesn't even exist."

That's the stand taken Tuesday by players' union president Gene Upshaw as he dismissed Rozelle's plan as "a grandstand play" that must be dumped in favor of one negotiated in collective bargaining between the NFLPA and the NFL Management Council.

The union filed a grievance to block the commissioner's plan, which is scheduled to be implemented when the players go to training camp this month.

Upshaw, who said the players are "not willing to accept that the drug problem has gotten any worse," called the grievance the first step in what could be a legal challenge to the program.

Rozelle said he was disappointed by the union's stance.

"The issue of drug abuse by NFL players has arrived at a stage where everyone is being hurt — players, clubs and the league in general. My preference would have been to implement these improvements to our current drug program with union support," Rozelle said in a statement issued by the league.

The grievance was sent to the NFL Management Council, which is the bargaining agent for the owners, and was also filed against all 28 clubs, the league and Rozelle. It asked the council to respond within 24 hours, rather than the usual seven days, to the union's demand that Rozelle's program be reviewed by an arbitrator.

Jack Donlan, executive director of the council, said he would examine the grievance and respond in seven days.

If the council does not agree to arbitration, the union would go to court seeking a temporary injunction against the plan, according to union attorney Dick Berthelsen.

Upshaw said the union is "very concerned" about drug use among players but has an obligation to protect the rights of the players, especially confidentiality of drug counseling, and uphold the terms of its collective bargaining agreement.

"We're here to protect that agreement (and) the bargaining process," Upshaw said at a news conference.

"We will not accept any unilateral changes by the commissioner," Upshaw said while holding a copy of the bargaining agreement signed by the NFLPA and the NFL Management Council in 1982. "We will do whatever we have to do to protect the rights of this agreement. This is what we're talking about. It's not the drug issue."

Rozelle's plan "was not negotiated with the union, so as far as we're concerned it doesn't even exist. What does exist is what's in here," Upshaw said, pointing to a copy of the bargaining agreement.

He said the owners can't discard part of the agreement they made with the union in 1982. That pact, which contains certain drug-testing provisions, expires in 1987.

"If that is allowed to happen, then the door is open for it to happen with other articles as well," Upshaw said. "What about severance pay? What about preseason play? What about postseason play?"

The grievance calls for maintenance of the "status quo," unless or until an arbitrator permits Rozelle's program to go forward.

"We don't believe an arbitrator will permit that program to go forward," Berthelsen said.

He said many people are trying to paint the union as protecting players using drugs, but "the bigger issue at stake here is whether we have a collective bargaining agreement."

Upshaw said the union is not opposed to all anti-drug plans, but wants to negotiate a program through collective bargaining.

"I think the NFL and Pete Rozelle are making a grandstand play," Upshaw said. "Pete Rozelle is saying, 'I'll change society.'"

"What is his motivation? I think it's all public pressure," Upshaw said. "We're not willing to accept that the drug problem has gotten any worse. We have talked to Rozelle. He said it's gotten worse. We asked him how. He just said it did."

Upshaw said he felt remorse about the recent cocaine-related deaths of Cleveland Browns defensive back Don Rogers and Maryland basketball star Len Bias, but said drug-testing probably wouldn't have helped them.

"I attended Don Rogers' funeral last week and it had an impact on me," Upshaw said.

Stacy Ready To Roll In LPGA U.S. Open

KETTERING, Ohio (AP) — She hasn't won this year, but Hollis Stacy figures she has several things going for her in the 41st Women's U.S. Open Golf Championship.

It's her time of year, her kind of course and her kind of tournament.

"I really look forward to this time of the year," Stacy said before a practice round for the American national championship, which begins Thursday on the NCR Country Club course.

"Playing conditions are great, the courses are tough and we have three major tournaments in a span of nine weeks (the LPGA, U.S. Open and duMaurier Classic)," Stacy said.

And there is another very big plus.

She has the happy habit of playing her very best in this tournament. She is the last to win consecutive Open titles (1977-78) and won a third national championship in 1984.

"I like to think my success in the Open is because I rise to the occasion. It's usually the toughest track we have all year, where you have to combine good driving, good putting, a good short game and lots of patience," she said.

Things appear to be in order for her.

"I really think my game is better now than it was (when she won her last Open title)," she said. "I'm more consistent and my putting is a little stronger."

"I pride myself on the fact that I usually play pretty well on the tough courses because they're more of a challenge," said Stacy, who has reduced her playing schedule (only 14 tournaments so far) to devote more time to varied business interests.

She faces challenges aplenty — from the field of 153 that will be chasing $300,000 in total prizes; from the difficult 6,243-yard, par-72 NCR course that served as the site of the 1969 PGA national championship; and from the weather, forecast to be muggy with temperatures in the upper 90s for most of the week.

"The heat definitely will be a factor," Kathy Baker, the defending title-holder, said.

Probably the most important challengers are Pat Bradley and Juli Inkster, each a three-time winner this season and ranked 1-2 in both money-winnings and stroke average.

Bradley won both the Dinah Shore and LPGA earlier this season and is seeking the third leg on the Grand Slam, which wraps up with the duMaurier Classic later this month.

Other major contenders include Mary Beth Zimmerman and Patty Sheehan, each a double winner this season; Amy Alcott, the winner of the Mazda Classic last week; and veterans Joanne Carner and Kathy Whitworth.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by ABC.

Always have at least one fire extinguisher handy for home fires. It could make the difference.

Back Woes Worry Wadkins

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Bobby Wadkins had been having one of the best years of his career. Earnings and his statistics were improving, and one of the things that had been near the top of his want list, a good fishing boat, was on the way.

After the Atlanta Classic, which followed the U.S. Open, Wadkins took two weeks off to enjoy his good fortune. But during those two weeks he suffered a back injury hauling that new fishing boat.

The injury has raised some doubts as to how well he can play in this week's Anheuser-Busch Classic, which begins Thursday.

"I was playing as well as I've played all year," Wadkins said from his home in nearby Richmond. "If I can get to swinging like I was before, I can have a good tournament."

The $500,000 tournament, the sixth to be played on the banks of the James River, begins Thursday. And Wadkins says he would like to play well in an event so close to home. But how well he plays depends on how well he recovers from the back injury.

Wadkins said he's always wanted a particular brand of bass fishing boat, and he was to get it after signing a contract to represent a fishing-equipment company.

"It came in early last week. I'd been waiting a long time for that boat and was eager to try it out," Wadkins said.

But a trailer he borrowed from a friend to haul the boat was a bit higher than he was used to, and lifting the boat onto the carrier was not easy.

"I got it up there, but it was painful," he said. "I pulled a muscle in my back. I learned later I could have used a brick and things would have been just right."

Wadkins, who will be 35 on July 26, said the incident taught him that some parts of the body don't work as well as 35 as they did at 26. He said the injury kept him at home and unable to practice.

Joe Surprised By ABC Decision

HAMDEN, Conn. (AP) — Joe Namath has a contract to announce 25 NFL games for ABC this season. Though he'll earn almost $1 million from the television network this year, Namath won't be in the broadcast booth.

Reached at his summer football camp at Quinnipiac College, Namath broke a three-month silence on the subject. He said he was surprised and baffled by ABC's decision to take him off Monday Night Football.

"I don't know what their (ABC's) plans are," Namath said. "All they told me was they were going with only two guys in the booth next season, (Al) Michaels and Frank (Gifford)."

"I'm under contract to them and I'm not doing anything else in sports. I certainly am disappointed because I loved the job and I was starting to feel good about it," Namath said Tuesday.

ABC announced in March that Namath and O.J. Simpson wouldn't be returning to Monday Night Football this season. The two had worked as analysts with play-by-play announcer Gifford last season. ABC offered Simpson a job as its college football analyst, but Namath was dismissed.

"They're not saving any money because I'm still employed by them," he said. His contract, which earned him an estimated $700,000 last year, called for a raise this year to nearly $1 million.

Early last season, Namath was criticized for his lack of insight on the telecasts. But he seemed to become more comfortable behind the microphone and, by the end of the

O'Grady Considers Court Fight On His Suspension

By The Associated Press

On the heels of winning his first PGA tournament and earning two year's exemption from qualifying worries, Mac O'Grady may have to go to court to preserve his place in some of those events.

O'Grady won the Greater Hartford Open on Sunday, then learned less than 24 hours later that his suspension by PGA Commissioner Deane Beman was upheld by an appeals committee.

The suspension is set to begin next Monday, which means O'Grady can play in this week's Anheuser-Busch Classic in Williamsburg, Va. After that, the six-event suspension and $5,000 fine will be imposed.

O'Grady, who has been embroiled in a running feud with Beman, may go to federal court later this week in an attempt to block Beman's action, imposed for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer."

"We are going to unload on them now," O'Grady said.

"One of our options is to file a complaint in federal court and asked to be granted a preliminary injunction and then go to trial," said Steve Novak, a San Diego-based lawyer representing O'Grady. "We'll do what's in the best interest of Mac.

We've exhausted our administrative appeals."

Novak said any decisions on a course of action would probably come in the next few days.

"In speaking with my client, we have decided that for a few days we are going to sit and think the situation over and hold off and decide whether or not we should proceed with our alternative legal remedies," Novak told ABC Radio Sports Tuesday night.

O'Grady's problems started when he was accused of verbally abusing a tournament volunteer at the USF&G Classic in New Orleans in 1984.

Beman fined O'Grady, who refused to pay and then subsequently had some of his earnings withheld to cover the penalty. O'Grady since has been an outspoken critic of the commissioner.

Novak said he was informed by the chairman of the three-man Appeals Committee on Monday that the suspension, which also includes a one-year probation period, was upheld.

"It's an issue that's been untested," Novak said of the PGA-commissioner's role. "Golf is different than a team sport. In team sports you have owners who hire a commissioner and there are checks and balances because you have players unions who represent the needs of the players.

"But in an individual sport, you have a commissioner hired by the players and there are no checks and balances," Novak continued. "The commissioner has free reign to do whatever he wants."

O'Grady won't be forced out of the remaining major tournaments this year, the British Open July 17-20, and the PGA Championship Aug. 7-10 because neither of those events are sponsored by the PGA Tour.

With the victory at Hartford, O'Grady qualified to play in the Aug. 21-24 World Series of Golf, a tournament restricted to golfers who won tournaments during the previous 52 weeks, plus various foreign and tour players who meet certain qualifications.

Tour spokesman Ric Clarson said he believed O'Grady would be able to play in the World Series of Golf despite his suspension.

Two Play In Nationals

Two members of the D.H. Conley High School volleyball team participated in the National Junior Olympic Volleyball championships recently.

The two are Hannah Hill and Trellaney Boyd. Hill was selected to play on the North Carolina entry in the 15-and-under age group, while Boyd played for the 17-and-under team.

A total of 19 girls were chosen for the two teams.

Hill's team recorded a 3-8 record in the tournament, held in Minneapolis, while Boyd's team was 4-6.

"Both teams' records were the best any team from this region has done before," Kevin Kirk of Chapel Hill, who coached the team, said. "The 17-year-old team's record was far and away the best ever for a North Carolina team."

He added that "Hill turned people's heads with her play. They were surprised that she was only 15-years-old. And Boyd was the best player on the team. She got inquiries from several colleges afterwards."

Yesterday's Cryptquip: UNSKILLED FOOTBALL COACH SIGHED; HE COULDN'T MAKE FUMBLING ENDS MEET.

Today's Cryptquip clue: T equals Y

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1 ♣ Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♣
 2 ♦ 2 ♣ Pass Pass
 5 ♣ Pass Pass Pass
 Opening lead: Three of ♣

If the opponents thwart one of your plans, don't blindly pursue that path. Cast around for an alternative line that will give you a shot at your contract.

In the modern style, South's reverse bid of two diamonds is forcing for one round. However, West's bid removed any obligation from North, who seized the opportunity to show his weakness by passing. South then bid what he hoped he could make.

West's trump lead struck a telling blow for his side; with any other lead, declarer would have had time to ruff a spade in dummy. Had declarer doggedly won and led a spade, West would win and play another trump, and declarer would have to surrender two spade tricks and a diamond.

One spade could go on the ace of hearts if declarer could find a way to get to the table in time. The only suit that offered any transportation was diamonds, and for that to succeed it would have to break 3-2. Since declarer would need the second trump in dummy to control spades, he immediately cashed the ace-king of diamonds, and when both defenders followed all was well. Declarer led a third round of the suit and he was in control.

No matter what the defenders did, declarer was home. West ruffed the third diamond and led another trump, but the eight of diamonds was declarer's entry to the board to take a spade discard on the ace of hearts, and all was well.

Muddy Landing

CHICAGO (AP) — An American Airlines jet with 137 passengers skidded off a rain-slicked runway at O'Hare International Airport after landing Tuesday, a company official said.

American spokesman John Hotard said no injuries were reported. He said the passengers and the crew of six were taken off the plane after it lodged in the mud, and taken to the terminal.

Hotard said the plane was taken out of service while a maintenance crew examined the landing gear for damage.

Uganda Killings

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — At least seven people were killed when unidentified gunmen raided a government political education school outside Kampala, people entering the capital said.

The government made no official statement on the report, but the travelers said the attack occurred at Wakiso, 10 miles northwest of Kampala.

The ideological school at Wakiso is one of several President Yoweri Museveni established after his National Resistance Movement took power on Jan. 25.

Sakharov

PARIS (AP) — Five French Nobel laureates have appealed to Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev to allow Nobel Peace Prize winner Andrei Sakharov and his wife Elena Bonner to return home to Moscow from exile. The Nobel winners said forcing the couple to live in Gorky violates human rights, and urged Gorbachev to "permit the Sakharovs to exercise the fundamental right of free choice of their place of residence, at least authorizing them to return to Moscow to live." The statement was signed by Louis Neel, a Nobel laureate in physics; Claude Simon, who won the prize in literature, and three Frenchmen who won the Nobel Prize for their work in medicine, Jean Dausset, Francois Jacob and Andre Lwoff.

Producer Says Shows Can Deliver Powerful Message

By RICHARD DE ATLEY
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Why would anyone want to make a prime-time television show? By the middle of any fall season, the casual list makes television look more like a shark tank than a sugar bowl. Episodes are so costly that they fail to make money for the producer in their first-run lifetime. Only if the show has several seasons, and is sold as a syndication package, can the producer finally realize a return.

And beyond the costs, producers often get little respect. Network executives, directors, scriptwriters and actors all have their own ideas of what the show should be. Television producers are famous for egos, energy and ideas, and Jay Bernstein has an acknowledged reputation for all three. To Bernstein, the real draw of television is that it provides the ultimate forum.

maybe, with my ideas. And I think my ideas are positive," he said in an interview. "I don't think the 'I' part of producing matters much. What's important is remembering that millions of people are affected by what you do."

Bernstein has a revised series for the fall, "The New Mike Hammer," and another, "Houston Knights," in the wings, both on CBS. The network has agreed to pick up "Houston Knights," but it has not yet been scheduled.

"Houston Knights" goes against the grain of current television thinking. It's an hour-long episode show at a time when half-hour comedy is king. It features two male police officers when family situation stories are hot.

"I need these guys to say what America should be," said Bernstein of the characters in "Houston Knights," a show that features a Chicago cop, played by Michael Pare, sent to Houston on assignment, where he is teamed with an undercover officer played by Michael Beck.

"Houston Knights" was created on a formula that started with Columbia Pictures," Bernstein said. "They had these two-reelers during the 1930s using two leading men who always fought with each other. There was the same relationship between John Wayne and Randolph Scott in the 1940s in movies like 'Pittsburgh.'"

"This is different for television, but has been used in the movies since the 1930s," he continued. "These are principled men. They're in the 1980s but with the conservative morals of the 1940s."

"You're not going to see a Jay Bernstein production in a fine arts theater, but I still want to get across the 'why' of people doing things."

Bernstein, a 49-year-old Oklahoma native, said the nation's increasingly conservative atmosphere has left it yearning for such characters.

Before he became a television producer, Bernstein was already making a good living as a Hollywood publicist, with such clients as Farrah Fawcett, Linda Evans, Cicely Tyson and Cheryl Tiegs.

In two of his more successful campaigns, he put Farrah Fawcett in her famous swimsuit poster and made Linda Evans a symbol of female beauty after age 40.

But while he still maintains publicity clients, Bernstein decided to take a swim among the video sharks.

"My stuff never tests well," said Bernstein of audience reaction

Singer's Brother Faces Drug Charge

LONDON (AP) — Narcotics officers arrested a brother of Boy George and three others Tuesday on charges they conspired to sell heroin to the rock star, police said.

The singer was being sought for questioning. Police would not comment on reports that Boy George, whose real name is George O'Dowd, was bound for the United States.

Police said Boy George's friend, singer Marilyn, also was arrested and charged with possessing heroin. He, like the 25-year-old Boy George, is known for wearing outrageous gowns and bizarre makeup. Marilyn's real name could not immediately be determined.

Boy George shot to fame as lead singer of the Culture Club rock band in 1982 with the hit song, "Do You Really Want to Hurt Me?" Since then, the pop group has seen its popularity lessen.

A Scotland Yard spokesman, who in accordance with British custom refused to be identified, said police arrested six people in six simultaneous raids in northwest London, and later released one suspect.

Charged with conspiracy to supply heroin to Boy George were his brother Kevin O'Dowd, Anna Tina-maun, Steven Luben and Diane Feiner, police said. They said Luben and Miss Feiner remained in custody.

Miss Tina-maun also was freed on bail, as was Marilyn.

David O'Dowd, another of Boy George's brothers, said in a television interview last week that the singer has been addicted to heroin for eight months. But Boy George and a third brother, Gerald O'Dowd, denied that.

Boy George and Marilyn have been close friends for at least three years. Marilyn has had one hit record, "Calling Your Name," which was released in 1984.

Defectors Dance Together

NEW YORK (AP) — They both trained at the Kirov Ballet in Leningrad and defected from the Soviet Union, and for the first time in almost a decade, ballet superstars Mikhail Baryshnikov and Rudolf Nureyev danced together.

The occasion Tuesday night was a gala fund-raiser for the Metropolitan Opera, Baryshnikov's American Ballet Theater and Nureyev's Paris Opera Ballet.

Opera singer Martina Arroyo sang the American and French national anthems, and Gene Kelly opened the show by saying, "On with the dance!"

Nureyev and Baryshnikov danced with Leslie Caron in a medley of songs connected with Miss Caron's movie career, including bits from "Gigi," "Fanny," "An American in Paris" and "Lili."

Other highlights included a version of Twyla Tharp's "Push Comes to Shove" performed by Baryshnikov with Nureyev appearing on stage at the end; and Act 3 of "Raymonda," with Nureyev dancing to his own choreography.

Nureyev, 48, and Baryshnikov, 38, defected to the West from the Soviet Union in 1961 and 1974, respectively, and last danced together in Paul Taylor's "From Sea to Shining Sea" almost 10 years ago in New York.

Ticket prices for Tuesday's gala ranged from $35 to $250, with $1,000 tickets including a dinner after the performance.

Egg McMuffins, Eggs Enchiladas, microwave pancakes or toaster strudels. In the quest to make fast food faster, restaurants and frozen-food purveyors are selling breakfasts like hotcakes.

According to the National Restaurant Association, between 1978 and 1984 there was a 46 percent increase in restaurant breakfast sales. And between 1982 and 1985 breakfast visits to fast-food restaurants went up 72 percent.

Then, ignited by this growth in restaurant breakfasts, particularly in fast-food establishments, frozen-food manufacturers have started cooking the morning meal.

One of the faster-growing categories in the supermarket freezer case, the frozen-breakfast category totaled $578.3 million for 1985, according to Sales Area Marketing Inc. (SAMI).

In fact, while the frozen-upscale-dinner category has begun to show losses over the past year, frozen-breakfast sales jumped 22 percent, according to SAMI.

While such already-prepared breakfast foods may be tempting to the single cook, breakfast is already a fast food. After all, how long does it take to pour a bowl of cereal and peel a banana? And whether it's yogurt, fruit or an egg, breakfast foods are naturally suited for servings for one.

In addition, some of those frozen-food and fast-food restaurant breakfast selections won't get your morning off to the healthiest start.

Many fast-food restaurant breakfasts pack a load of calories, fat

Tomato Marmalade

- 1 lemon
- 5 medium-size tomatoes
- 1 box (1 3/4 ounces) powdered pectin
- 4 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 tablespoons chopped preserved ginger

Wash and sterilize 5 half-pint canning jars in boiling water for 20 minutes. Leave jars in water while preparing tomatoes. Place two-piece jar lids in simmering water in a separate pan.

Pare thin strips of rind (yellow only) from lemon; cut into slivers. Simmer in water in saucepan 15 minutes, drain.

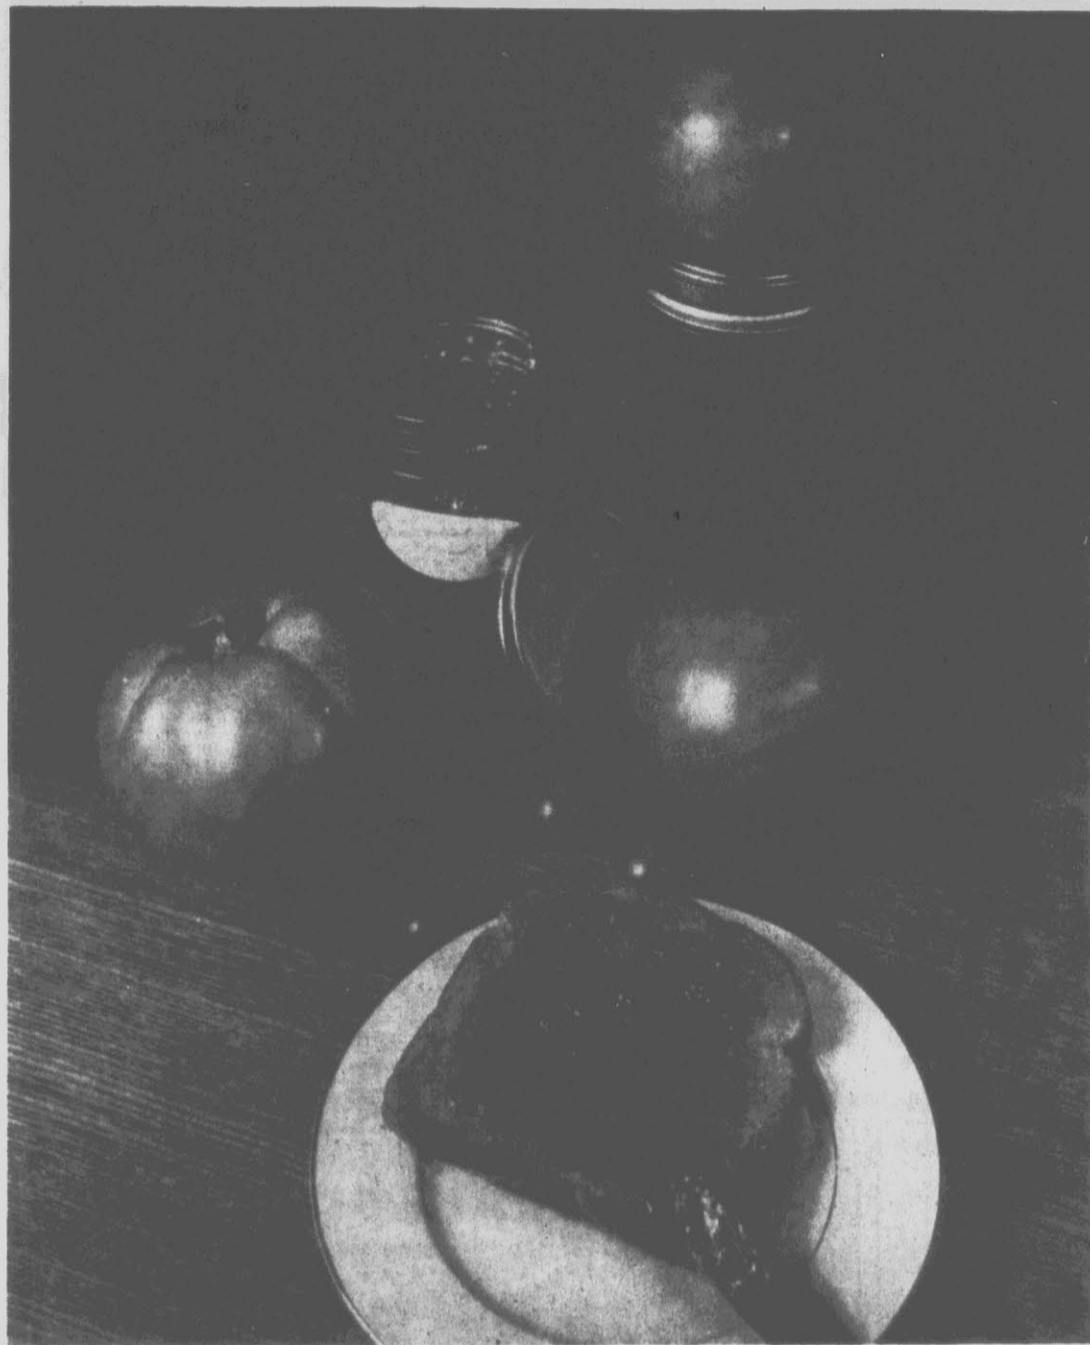

With a sharp knife, slice off white membrane from lemon; remove seeds; cut pulp into small pieces.

Peel tomatoes. Core and cut into eighths; you should have about 5 cups. Place in 6-quart stainless steel or enamel pan of kettle with lemon rind and pulp. Cover and bring to boiling. Lower heat; simmer 10 minutes. Measure. If necessary, add water to make 4 cups. Return to pan. Stir in pectin.

Place over high heat; stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. Stir in sugar and ginger. Bring to a full rolling boil. Boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Stir and skim for 7 minutes to prevent fruit from floating.

Ladle marmalade into hot, clean jars, leaving 1/4 inch headspace. Wipe rims and threads with a damp cloth. Cover jars with hot lids; screw on bands firmly. As each jar is sealed, invert. Turn upright after 5 minutes.

Let stand 30 minutes. Shake gently. Check seals. Label, date and store in cool dark place. Yield 5 half-pints.

BREAKFAST DELIGHT — Red ripe tomatoes can be transformed into a delicious marmalade just right for that early morning breakfast. It's just one example of how a breakfast can be nutritious as well as tasty. (Reflector Photo by Cliff Hollis)

Picnic Fare Should Offer 'Fun Food'

By MARIE BIANCO
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

In 19th-century London, members of the highbrow Picnic Society drew lots to decide who would provide the fancy comestibles for their outings.

They feasted on such elaborate dishes as quail stuffed with foie gras and quaffed vintage Champagne.

A picnic today can have as much panache, especially if it's created by one of the young, creative chefs who practice what is loosely called the new American cuisine.

Three of them have come up with menus for elegant outdoor dining. The meals they designed draw inspiration from old-fashioned American picnic fare, but the dishes have been translated to meet up-to-date American tastes.

"Picnic food should be fun food," according to Larry Forgione, chef and owner of An American Place in Manhattan. "There should be good food and good conversation. And the food should be done ahead of time, so all you have to do is pack your basket."

Forgione remembers visiting his grandmother's farm in Port Jefferson when he was a child.

"We spent the whole day outside sitting at wooden tables in the backyard," he said. "The great thing about being there was that if you felt like having a peach or an apple, you would go out and pick one off the tree; if you felt like having raspberries, you just went out and gathered some."

Forgione's picnic menu centers on fried quail breaded in crushed Saratoga chips (as the original potato chip was called), deviled crab cakes and Buffalo chicken wings, served with fresh asparagus.

The grilled Camembert and pear sandwich is inspired by the classic grilled cheese sandwich and is made the same way. And, reminiscent of his childhood, there are fresh peaches and strawberries for dessert.

DEVILED CRAB CAKES

- 2 teaspoons butter
- 2 tablespoons minced red and green peppers
- 1 1/2 teaspoons minced onion
- 1-8 teaspoon minced garlic
- 1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon all-purpose flour
- 1-3 cup heavy cream
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 generous teaspoons spicy mustard
- 2 generous teaspoons chopped fresh herbs
- 1-4 teaspoon cayenne
- dash Tabasco
- egg yolk
- 1 1-2 cups crabmeat (about 10 ounces), drained
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1-4 cup fresh bread crumbs
- salt and pepper to taste
- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 1 cup bread or cracker crumbs, for breading
- vegetable oil for frying

1. In a heavy, 12-inch saute pan, melt butter over medium heat and gently cook peppers, onion and garlic for 2 to 3 minutes. Add flour and stir well. Cook another 2 to 3 minutes, being careful not to let mixture brown.

2. Slowly add the cream and cook, stirring constantly until thickened, about 2 to 3 minutes. Add the mustards, herbs, cayenne, Tabasco and egg yolk. Mix well.

3. Add crabmeat, lemon juice and bread crumbs; mix well. Season with salt and pepper.

4. Transfer mixture to a bowl, cover and chill 3 to 4 hours. Form mixture into ovals.

5. Beat together the milk and egg. Dip crab cakes into mixture and roll in bread crumbs.

6. In a heavy pan, heat 3 inches of vegetable oil to 300 to 325 degrees. Fry crab cakes for 2 to 3 minutes, or until golden brown. Drain and season lightly. Makes 15 to 18 crab cakes.

SARATOGA CHIPS

- 1 1-2 quarts peanut oil
- 3 pounds lard

3 large all-purpose potatoes, scrubbed but not peeled

1. Place peanut oil and lard in a 6-quart fryer and heat to 325 degrees.

2. Slice the potatoes 1-8 inch thick and rinse in a bowl of water. Spread the potatoes out on a cloth and pat dry.

3. Drop potato slices into the fryer a few at a time and fry until golden-brown and crispy (about 5 to 6 minutes). Stir potatoes gently so the slices fry evenly and do not stick together.

Pepper Can Be Contaminated

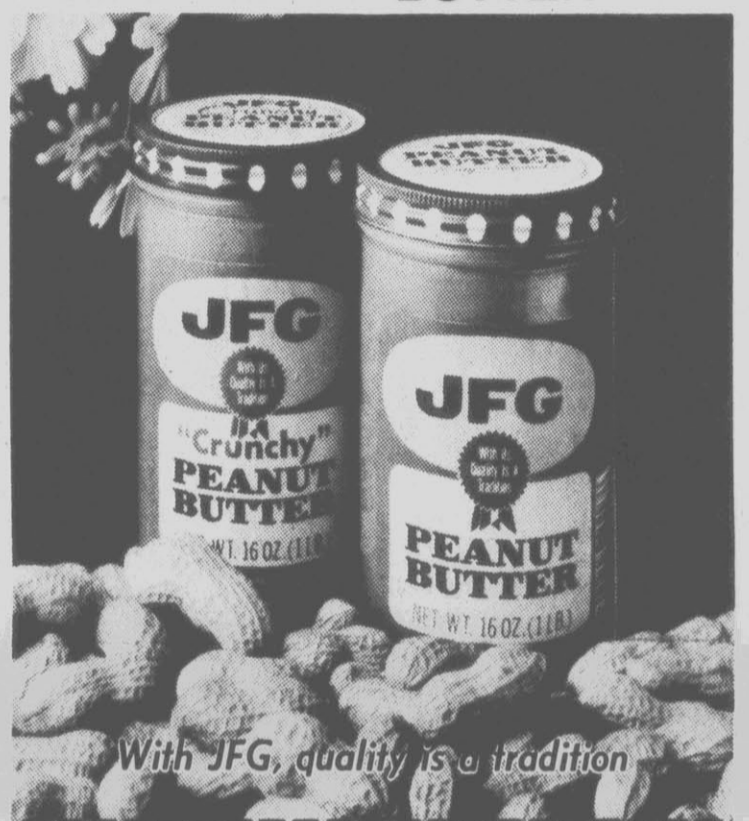

The most common contamination for food poisoning outbreaks are frequently bacteria that develop in food from animal sources, such as meats and dairy products, or from poor food-handling practices. But a recent episode detected by U.S. Food and Drug Administration investigators came from a most unusual source: black pepper.

The FDA was alerted by Canadian health officials that salmonella bacteria had been found in a shipment of ground black pepper that had been distributed in that country. The bacteria can cause illnesses including nausea, vomiting, fever, headache, abdominal cramps and diarrhea.

As a result of the Canadian tip, more than $59,000 worth of black pepper was seized by federal agents. None of the suspect pepper has been found in U.S. retail channels.

Bring On The Cool Salad Days Of Summer

By MICHAEL BAUER
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

Summer has only just begun and already our palates are heating up for something cool, crisp and refreshing—a salad.

What we crave during the warm days ahead is something only a salad can offer: a startling array of tastes and textures, bursting from the same plate. Each bite offers a new sensation to regenerate the spirit: Crisp, cool lettuce, crunchy explosions of flavor from a myriad of raw and cooked vegetables, creamy, spicy dressing, meats, fish, beans—just about any ingredient—can be tossed with a dressing can become a warm-weather reprieve.

For now, many of us still are enjoying the ordinary run of chilled chicken, green or spinach salad, but before long those same old combinations are going to taste mighty dull.

We are starting early to collect an arsenal of cool summer salads that can serve as entrees at weekend dinner parties or a quick meal in between the office and the swimming pool.

Many people think salad and wine mix like oil and water, but that is not true. Wine and salads can be a delightful pairing.

One of the most wonderful qualities of most salads is the way they combine so many flavors and relieve the parched feeling of summer. Therefore, the wine you choose needs to be just as refreshing. The secret is to choose a light, fruity and slightly sweet wine. This means Chenin Blanc, Riesling, crisp Sauvignon Blanc and lemony Chardonnay. Well-chilled light red wines such as Beaujolais or Valpolicella also are fine.

We have come up with a way that lets you eat your salad and drink your wine without compromising the character of either. Instead of using vinegar, which turns most wines sour, we concocted an infusion of wine and herbs to replace the vinegar. Blending the wine and oil with natural citrus such as lemon or orange juice packs the same punch as vinegar.

FIVE-VEGETABLE SALAD WITH PECAN VINAIGRETTE

- 1 medium sweet potato
- About 3 tablespoons butter
- Salt
- 2 medium yellow squash
- 1-4 pound snow peas
- 2 medium beets
- 1 small jicama
- 28 pecan halves
- Boil the sweet potato in water with 1 teaspoon each of butter and salt for 25 minutes. Chill and cut into julienne strips. Cut the squash in half lengthwise. Remove seeds and julienne.
- Trim ends from snow peas. Blanch in boiling water with a teaspoon of butter for 1 minute. Refresh in cold water and pat dry. Cut in julienne strips.
- Peel beets and boil in salted water and a tablespoon of butter for 25 minutes. Chill and cut into julienne strips. Peel and julienne jicama with a small, sharp knife.
- Roast the pecans by tossing the nuts with a tablespoon of melted butter and a sprinkling of salt. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 12 minutes. Remove and spread on layers of paper towels.

Vinaigrette

- 1-3 cup olive oil
- 1-3 cup vegetable oil
- 1-3 cup basil-flavored wine (see note)
- 1-2 cup lemon juice
- 1-4 cup finely chopped white onions
- 1 small clove garlic
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1-4 teaspoon pepper
- 1-2 cup coarsely chopped pecans
- Place all ingredients in a jar and shaking to emulsify.
- Mix the desired amount of vinaigrette into the vegetables and mound on a plate with seven or eight pecan halves in the center.

Note: To make basil wine, place about 10 to 12 fresh basil leaves into a half cup of wine. Let set overnight, and the basil flavor will infuse the wine. We suggest using an inexpensive Chardonnay. Serves 4.

RED BEAN AND TABOULEH SALAD WITH CUCUMBER DRESSING

- 2 teaspoons finely chopped basil
- 2 teaspoons finely chopped cilantro
- 1-8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1-4 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1-2 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
- 3 tablespoons Chinese plum sauce

- 1 teaspoon red-wine vinegar
- 1 tablespoon red wine
- 2 cups canned red kidney beans, drained and washed
- 1-2 cup diced smoked pork
- 1-4 cup finely chopped green onions
- Make a paste of the basil, cilantro, cayenne, salt, sugar and garlic. Combine the plum sauce, vinegar and red wine. Mix with the paste. Combine the kidney beans, smoked pork and green onions and gently toss with the dressing. Refrigerate overnight.

- Tabouleh
- 1 cup bulgur wheat
- 2 cups chopped parsley
- 1 large cucumber, peeled, seeded and finely chopped

- 1-2 cup finely chopped green onions
- 1-3 cup vegetable oil
- 1-3 cup fresh lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh mint
- 1-2 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1-2 teaspoon salt
- 1-8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 large tomato, peeled, seeded and finely chopped
- Place the bulgur in a colander and rinse with cold water. Drain well. Combine bulgur, parsley, cucumber and onions. Combine oil, lemon juice, mint, oregano, salt, pepper and garlic. Add to bulgur mixture. Toss gently until well-coated. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Before serving, stir in tomato.

- Cucumber dressing
- 3-4 cup Lillet Blanc
- 1 strip orange peel (2 inches long)
- 1 small shallot, cut in half
- 1 large English cucumber, peeled, seeded and hunked
- 1-2 teaspoon Dijon mustard
- 2 teaspoons hot and spicy sesame oil
- 1-2 teaspoon soy sauce
- 4 ounces cream cheese, room temperature
- 4 ounces tofu
- 1-8 cup cream, lightly whipped
- 1 tablespoon Cognac
- Salt and white pepper

Make the dressing by reducing the Lillet with orange peel and shallot to 1-4 cup liquid. Discard orange peel and shallot. Prepare the cucumber by salting lightly and letting drain in a strainer for 12 hours. Squeeze dry. Puree the cucumber in a blender with the reduced Lillet. Add mustard, sesame oil and soy. Add the cream cheese, tofu, lightly whipped cream and the Cognac. Season with salt and pepper. Refrigerate. To serve place a scoop of red-bean salad on one side of the plate, and a scoop of the tabouleh on the other. Pour the dressing down the center, in an S-shape. Serves 4.

Culinary SOS: Fried Ice Cream Makes Suitable Summer Treat

By ROSE DOSTI

L.A. Times-Washington Post News Service

Dear SOS: I have lost my recipe for fried ice cream. Can you help? — JOELLA

Dear Joella: This version of Mexican ice cream coated with crumbs is a great summer dessert. You can prepare the coated ice cream balls days ahead and fry them at the last moment.

FRIED MEXICAN ICE CREAM
1 pint vanilla or other flavor ice cream

1-2 cup crushed cornflakes or cookie crumbs

1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

2 teaspoons sugar

1 egg

Oil for deep-frying

Honey

Whipped cream

Scoop out 4 or 5 balls ice cream. Return to freezer. Mix cornflakes, cinnamon and sugar. Roll frozen ice cream balls in half of crumb mixture and freeze again.

Beat egg and dip coated balls in egg, then roll again in remaining crumbs. Freeze until ready to use. (For thicker coating, repeat dipping in egg and rolling in crumbs.)

When ready to serve, heat oil to 350 degrees. Place 1 frozen ice cream ball in fryer basket or on perforated spoon and lower into hot oil 1 minute. Immediately remove and place in dessert compote. Drizzle with honey and top with dollop of whipped cream. Continue to fry balls 1 at a time. Balls will be crunchy on outside and just beginning to melt inside. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Dear SOS: I have looked in vain for a recipe on large-quantity cooking. I particularly need a recipe for sloppy joes to serve 25 to 30 people. — DOROTHY

Dear Dorothy: We have just the ticket in our files.

SLOPPY JOES FOR A CROWD

2 large onions, minced

1 1-2 tablespoons salt or to taste

1-2 teaspoon black pepper

1-2 cup flour

4 cups water

2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

3 cups ketchup or barbecue sauce

2 to 4 teaspoons chile powder

Brown ground beef, 1 pound at a time, in large skillet until crumbly. Transfer to kettle. Add onions and cook until onions are tender, about 7 to 10 minutes longer, stirring occasionally.

Add salt, pepper and flour and cook, stirring, over medium heat, 5 minutes. Add water, Worcestershire, ketchup and chile powder. Stir, then simmer 30 minutes until sauce is slightly thickened. Makes about 30 servings.

Note: May be prepared ahead of time or day before and refrigerated. Reheat at serving time.

Dear SOS: I have been reading your column and clipping recipes for three years. However, I do not believe you have ever printed a recipe for chocolate chip cookies. I have been searching for a perfect recipe for years and cannot find one. — STILL SEEKING

Dear Still Seeking: We are still seeking too. I have not counted, but I think we have printed several chocolate chip cookie recipes in three years, but here is one that comes close to the chocolate chip cookie you describe.

JUMBO TOLL HOUSE COOKIES

2 1-4 cups flour

1 teaspoon baking soda

1 teaspoon salt

1 cup butter or margarine, softened

3-4 cup granulated sugar

3-4 cup brown sugar, packed

1 teaspoon vanilla

1 (12-ounce) package semisweet chocolate pieces

1 cup chopped nuts

Combine flour, baking soda and salt and set aside. Combine butter, granulated sugar, brown sugar and vanilla and beat until creamy. Beat in eggs.

Gradually add flour mixture and mix well. Stir in semisweet chocolate pieces and nuts. Divide dough into 12 to 15 pieces. Form each piece into ball and place on ungreased baking sheet. Lightly press into 3- to 4-inch patty, leaving about 2 inches between each cookie. Bake at 375 degrees 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 12 to 15 large cookies.

Dear SOS: After repeated attempts to duplicate the creamed corn at Gulliver's in Irvine, Calif., I admit

WATERMELON PICKLE

Prepare 10 to 11 1-2 pounds rind (about 6 quarts). Be sure to remove all skin and pink part of melon. Dissolve 1 bottle slacked lime (11 1-2 grams) in enough water to cover rind. Soak over night. Rinse well. Boil rind in salt water (1-3 cup salt) for 20 minutes. Rinse well. Prepare spiced vinegar by using:

10 pounds sugar (22 cups)

1-2 gallon vinegar

2 tablespoons whole cloves

6 pieces of ginger

2 tablespoons whole allspice

Add rind to spiced vinegar (spices are tied in spice bag) and simmer slowly for 2 hours. Seal in sterilized jars and process 10 minutes in boiling water bath.

defeat. Is it possible for you to obtain the recipe? — LINDA

Dear Linda: Victory. The recipe is a wonderful way to use fresh corn during the summer months.

GULLIVER'S CREAMED CORN

1 cup whipping cream

2 teaspoons salt

1 teaspoon sugar

Butter or margarine

2 teaspoons flour

Grated Parmesan cheese

Cut corn from cob and place in saucepan with cream. Bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Stir in salt and sugar.

Melt 2 teaspoons butter in small pan and stir in flour. Do not brown.

Stir butter-flour roux into corn and cook until slightly thickened. Turn corn into oven-proof dish, sprinkle with cheese and dot with butter.

Brown under broiling unit. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Dear SOS: Some time ago you printed the recipe for kiwi jam and I have misplaced it. Would you please print it again? — JACKIE

Dear Jackie: Here is one for Uncooked Frozen Kiwi Jam, which is stored in the refrigerator to be eaten within a week or two, or in the freezer for lengthy storage. It is a good item to keep in the freezer for gift-giving during the year.

UNCOOKED FROZEN KIWI JAM

3 1-2 cups well-mashed kiwi

1-4 cup lemon juice

1 package powdered pectin

1 cup light corn syrup

4 1-2 cups sugar

Mix kiwi pulp and lemon juice thoroughly in large kettle. Sift in pectin, stirring vigorously. Add corn syrup and mix well.

Gradually stir in sugar, stirring until completely dissolved. Warming to 100 degrees on candy thermometer (and no hotter) will help dissolve sugar. Jam is ready to eat when sugar is dissolved.

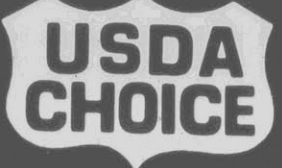

Spoon into sterilized glasses or containers with tight-fitting lids. Store in freezer for lengthy storage or in refrigerator if to be eaten within a week or two. Makes 2 pints of jam.

Apple Pie Equates With Mom And The American Flag

By BERNADETTE WHEELER
L.A. Times-Washington Post
News Service

In line with all the salutes to the Stars and Stripes, let's hear a pledge of allegiance to apple pie, the dessert that no other is as American as.

Since the early '60s, this traditional, homey dish has been equated, albeit usually in a jocular way, with Mom and the flag as a typically American symbol.

And since longer ago than that, apple pie has been considered, in faith if not in fact, America's favorite meal-end.

But is it still? And if it isn't, what is?

Some authorities on pastry-making and desserts who were asked these questions differed about the standing of apple pie, but most agreed that ice cream probably is the nation's current favorite.

This difference in opinion is understandable, in light of yearly nationwide surveys by the trade publication Restaurants and Institutions, showing that the American public has seessawed between apple pie and ice cream as its No. 1 choice for the last dozen or so years.

"Up to recent years, apple pie was the most popular," said Maida Heatter, author of five cookbooks on great desserts. "From what I have seen and read, I don't think it is true anymore."

"At one time, a restaurant that might not have had any other dessert had apple pie; lunch counters, luncheonettes always had it; when frozen pies came on the market, all the companies had it as one of their first."

Edward Bradley, head of the baking department at the Culinary Institute of America, said, "I really don't know" how apple pie rates. "Men tend to gravitate toward apple pie, but these days, with emphasis on diet, pies seem to go for smaller, lighter desserts."

"The apple hasn't fallen into disrepute. We're just doing different things with it."

His students make an apple custard flan and an American Bounty cake, a sponge cake base topped with Bavarian cream and garnished with fresh apple slices, which are on the menu of the institute's American Bounty Restaurant.

Marion Cunningham, who was the late James Beard's assistant for 11 years and wrote the "Fannie Farmer Baking Book" (Knopf, $16.95), disagreed with Bradley's statement that "apple pie has become a seasonal thing, like at Christmas or Thanksgiving."

One of the reasons for the continued popularity of apple pie — "it has always been the American favorite, and I think it still is, really" — is that "apples are always available; they are not seasonal."

"In California in particular," she said, "I see apple pie more and more. And apple pie, done well, is absolutely top of the line." Cunningham did agree with Bradley's observation that "people don't know how to make a decent piecrust."

The status of apple pie "depends a lot on what part of the country you are in," said Bernard Clayton, author of "The Complete Book of Pastry: Sweet and Savory" (Simon & Schuster, $18.95; softcover, $8.95). "I come from a place where every yard had an apple tree, and every mom was a good cook."

The idea of apple pie as the all-

American dessert "has a lot to do with the conjuring up of 'Mom.' And at food fairs, church picnics, there is always apple pie, but you don't see it at fine restaurants," Clayton said.

Heatter also said that in the tonier restaurants apple pie appears to have been pushed off the dessert cart by fresh-fruit tarts, mousses, flourless chocolate cakes, or, in the case of those places following the back-to-basics move, innovative treatments of old-time sweets like bread pudding, rice pudding, custards and homemade ice cream. If apple pie is offered it may be inside out or upside down, as in a tarte tatin.

But apple pie "is part of our heritage to some extent," said Flo Braker, who wrote "The Simple Art of Perfect Baking" (Morrow, $24.95). "We think pie is ours; tarts and galettes are French. I don't think the apple has gone into eclipse. It may not be as prevalent as before, but apple pie is nostalgic and old-fashioned."

Her family "goes crazy" for the apple crumb pie made from the following recipe in her book.

FLAG-RAISING APPLE PIE

For streusel (crumb topping):
1-2 cup light brown sugar, packed
1-2 cup granulated sugar
1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
4 ounces (1 stick) unsalted butter, room temperature

In a small bowl combine sugars with your fingertips, breaking up any lumps. Add flour and mix to combine. Cut the butter into 8 pieces and scatter them over surface of flour-sugar. Work in the butter with fingertips until the mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Set aside.

FOR FILLING:
3 tablespoons (1 1-2 ounces) unsalted butter
1-4 cup dark brown sugar, packed
1-4 cup granulated sugar
3 1-2 tablespoons unsifted all-purpose flour

1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
1-4 teaspoon nutmeg
3 pounds (about 7) pippin or Granny Smith apples
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 9-inch pie crust (see note)

1. Pre-heat oven to 450 degrees.
2. Melt butter in small saucepan; set aside. Mix sugars, flour and spices in a small bowl. Peel, core and halve apples, then slice halves into 1-8-inch slices. You should have 9 cups.

3. Place apples in a large mixing bowl, sprinkle with dry mixture and toss gently and briefly with a rubber spatula. Sprinkle with the lemon juice and melted butter, tossing again, just to combine.

4. Spoon filling into chilled, pastry-lined pie pan, spreading the apples evenly and mounding higher in the center. Pat on streusel to form a thin topping on the apples.

5. Bake for 10 minutes, reduce oven temperature to 350 degrees and bake for 30 to 40 minutes longer or until bottom crust is golden.

NOTE: Detailed directions for Braker's short-dough (pate brisee) piecrust for this filling are given in her book, or use the recipe below.

BASIC PIECRUST

1 cup all-purpose flour
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup chilled lard, butter or solid shortening, cut in pieces

2 1-2 to 3 tablespoons ice water
1. Place flour and salt in a large mixing bowl. Using pastry blender or 2 knives, cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse meal.

2. Sprinkle dough with 1 tablespoon ice water and, using fork, lightly toss flour to incorporate moisture, gradually adding the rest of the water until mixture is moist enough to stick together. (If additional water is required, add a few drops at a time until dough is proper consistency.)

3. Gently form dough into a flat disk. Wrap in plastic and refrigerate for 1 hour or overnight before rolling out.

4. Roll into circle of about 12 to 13 inches and 1-8-inch thick, fit into pan and flute edges. Refrigerate for 1-2 hour or longer before adding filling and baking.

Picnics: A Time For Fun ...

Remove from fryer; drain. Season with salt. Do not cover or put into a bag while still hot.

BUFFALO CHICKEN WINGS

salt and freshly ground black pepper
vegetable oil for frying
4 tablespoons butter pinch of cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Tabasco to taste

1. Season wings with salt and pepper. Heat oil in a deep fryer to 325 degrees and drop in wings a few at a time. Fry for 3 to 4 minutes, or until quite crispy. Remove and drain.

2. Place wings immediately into a plastic bag. Add butter, cayenne, Tabasco, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Hold the bag firmly and shake until the butter melts. Serve with celery sticks and blue cheese dressing. Makes 24 wings.

Michael Roberts, the chef at Trumps in West Hollywood, Calif., remembers picnics at Belmont Lake State Park on Long Island, where the food was fried chicken and macaroni salad, and the drink was lemonade.

His current picnic fare is based on the food he remembers, but now the chicken is combined with grapefruit, jicama and cilantro and served on a bed of fried pasta, his substitute for the macaroni salad.

Roberts' cold soup, an unusual combination of beets and watermelon, exemplifies his theory of combining flavors.

"There are different kinds of marriages," he said. "Some work and some don't. Beets and watermelon marry well, because they don't cover each other up. You can still taste the beet and you can still smell the watermelon."

Sometimes these combinations are well calculated; sometimes the idea just comes. "It's as simple as someone putting away a sack of beets next to watermelon by mistake."

CHILLED BEET AND WATERMELON SOUP

4 tablespoons vegetable oil
1-2 pound beets, peeled and cubed
1 medium onion, sliced

1 quart chicken stock
1-4 pound watermelon, seeds removed pickled watermelon rind for garnish

In a medium-size pot, heat oil over low heat and cook onion until wilted. Add beets and cook gently until liquid has evaporated, about 25 minutes. Stir frequently. Add the chicken stock and simmer 10 minutes. Drain beets, reserving liquid. Puree cooked beets and watermelon and pass through strainer. Combine with reserved liquid. Chill. Garnish soup with watermelon rind. Makes 4 servings.

CHICKEN SALAD WITH ROASTED GARLIC VINAIGRETTE

1-4 cup salad oil for roasting garlic
8 cloves elephant garlic, peeled
1-2 cup chicken stock for roasting garlic

salad oil for frying pasta
4 ounces fresh pasta or packaged egg-roll skins

sliced in 1-4-inch strips
1 quart chicken stock
1 chicken
1 pint pink grapefruit juice
1-4 cup soy sauce
1-4 cup salad oil
1-4 cup sesame oil

4 to 6 jumbo shrimp, peeled, cooked
1 grapefruit, peeled and sectioned
1-4 head napa (or Chinese) cabbage slivered fine
1-4 pound snow peas, slivered and blanched

2 tablespoons chopped ginger
2 tablespoons chopped cilantro
2 tablespoons chopped mint
1 red pepper, sliced
nasturtium flowers

1. In a small skillet, heat 1-4 cup salad oil and saute the garlic until golden, about 7 minutes. Add chicken stock, bring to a boil and bake at 325 degrees for 20 minutes. Reserve liquid.

2. Fill pot with 6 inches of salad oil and heat to 325 degrees. Deep-fry pasta, 1 ounce at a time, until golden and crisp, about 1 minute. Drain.

3. Bring chicken stock to a boil. Add chicken and cook 30 minutes. Remove chicken and reserve stock. Chill chicken. Remove skin. Cut meat into slivers.

4. In a saucepan place 1 cup reserved chicken stock, liquid from roasted garlic and grapefruit juice. Reduce to about 1-2 cup. Add soy sauce and chill. Whisk in salad and sesame oils.

5. Toss together chicken, shrimp, grapefruit, napa, snow peas, pasta, ginger, cilantro, mint and half the dressing. Arrange salad on plates and garnish with roasted garlic, red pepper and nasturtiums. Serve remaining dressing on side. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

"Picnics are in my family," said Kentucky-born Dean Fearing, chef at the pricey Mansion on Turtle Creek, a restaurant in Dallas. "In Kentucky, we had a picnic basket that must have been around for centuries," said Fearing. "We filled it with cold fried chicken, baked beans, potato salad, cole slaw, apple pie and lemonade and went to the country or to the lake."

Today Fearing is one of a group of young, innovative Texas chefs who are extolling the virtues of Southwestern cuisine. No tacos and chili here. They are attempting to bring their regional food to the level of haute cuisine.

Fearing is sold on using local products when he cooks. His version of gazpacho is made from Texas yellow tomatoes, peppers and cucumbers grown by local farmers.

The small game birds in his entree salad are hickory-smoked by a farmer. Mint marigold, the flavoring for the salad dressing, grows like a weed all over Mexico, he said. It looks like tarragon but tastes like both mint and marigold. Dessert is Turtle Creek Pie, a combination of pecans, apples and caramel.

YELLOW-TOMATO GAZPACHO

5 large yellow tomatoes, or two pints yellow cherry tomatoes, seeded
1 large yellow bell pepper
1 medium cucumber, peeled and seeded
3 cloves garlic, peeled
3 shallots, peeled
2 tablespoons white-wine vinegar, or to taste
1 1-2 teaspoons finely chopped fresh basil
1 1-2 teaspoons fresh cilantro

maple syrup, salt and lemon juice to taste

In a food grinder, grind tomatoes, pepper, cucumber, garlic and shallots in a medium-size bowl. Add vinegar, basil and cilantro and stir well. Add maple syrup, salt and lemon juice to taste. Cover bowl and chill. Makes 6 servings.

SMOKED TEXAS GAME BIRDS WITH MINT MARIGOLD VINAIGRETTE

3 assorted smoked game birds (pheasants, quail, quail) boned and julienned
1 red bell pepper, julienned
1 yellow bell pepper, julienned
1 carrot, peeled, julienned
1 small jicama, peeled, julienned
1 small zucchini, julienned
2 halves dried pear, julienned
4 tablespoons fresh Mexican mint marigold or tarragon
1 shallot, peeled, diced fine
1 clove garlic, peeled, diced fine
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3 tablespoons white-wine vinegar
9 tablespoons peanut oil salt and pepper to taste

1. In a medium bowl, toss together game birds, peppers, carrot, jicama, zucchini and dried pear.
2. In a separate bowl, place mint marigold, shallot, garlic, lemon, vinegar, oil, salt and pepper. Whisk to combine. Pour over salad ingredients and toss. Makes 4 servings.

and sodium, and many of the new frozen breakfast foods, such as Pillsbury's Toaster Strudel, are made with saturated palm oil.

What is called for, then, are some alternatives for a breakfast that are not only fast but nutritious. Whether on bread, in a glass, in a bowl or under the broiler, these selections span the spectrum. And for those who have luxury to lounge in the morning, all are perfectly suitable for breakfast in bed.

Breakfast on Bread Spreads

(Try a Bagel, English Muffin or Whole-Wheat Toast)

—Combine low-fat cottage cheese with raisins, grated carrots and a sprinkling of cinnamon.

—Make your own peach butter by combining 2 skinned and sliced peaches with 1 teaspoon butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon honey, 3 tablespoons water and 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg in a small saucepan. Cook for about 15 minutes. Puree and refrigerate. This should make enough for several breakfasts-on-bread and is also good mixed into low-fat cottage cheese.

—Spread bread with a thin layer of part-skim ricotta cheese. Make a funky design on top with halved grapes, placed cut-side down.

—Spread bread with jam. Sprinkle with chopped peanuts or halved ones, placed cut-side down, like the grapes (see above).

—Top bread with a thin layer of butter or margarine. Top with a slice of cucumber, a slice of tomato and a sprinkling of chopped chives or your favorite herb.

Breakfast in a Glass

—Make a cantaloupe smoothie by combining 1-2 cup cantaloupe chunks, 1 tablespoon sunflower seeds, 1-3 cup plain yogurt, 1-3 cup skim milk and 2 tablespoons orange juice in a blender or food processor. Add an ice cube or two and process until smooth. Eat the rest of the cantaloupe, sprinkled with lime juice, for breakfast the next day.

—Make a peach-ginger shake by combining 1 peeled and sliced peach, 1 cup skim milk, 1 teaspoon honey, 1 tablespoon wheat germ, 1-8 teaspoon ginger and a couple of ice cubes. Process in a food processor or blender until smooth.

—For a calcium boost, combine 1-3 cup plain low-fat yogurt, 1-3 cup skim milk, 2 tablespoons nonfat dry milk, 1-2 ripe banana, 4 small strawberries and 2 ice cubes. Process in a blender or food processor until smooth.

Breakfast under the Broiler

—Sprinkle 1-2 teaspoon brown sugar and a pinch of nutmeg over a grapefruit half. Broil for about 3 minutes.

—Top a bagel with a slice of pineapple (canned pineapple works well, if you can get the holes to match). Broil until pineapple is warm.

Breakfast on the Weekend

The following recipes, which can be prepared on weekends — and eaten then, too — make enough for a quick breakfast during the week.

CRUNCHY SPA GRANOLA

Makes 2 cups)
1 cup rolled oats
1-3 cup chopped walnuts
1-3 cup whole unblanched almonds
2 tablespoons sunflower seeds
2 tablespoons sesame seeds
1 tablespoon wheat germ
Pinch cinnamon
1 tablespoon safflower oil
1 tablespoon honey

Toss all the ingredients in a mixing bowl. Spread thinly on a baking sheet and bake at 225 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes, stirring often so that the ingredients brown evenly. Watch carefully. When the granola is golden and the texture starts to become crunchy, remove and let cool. Serve with milk and sliced strawberries or sprinkle on yogurt. You may store granola in an airtight container, unrefrigerated, for up to 2 weeks.

—From "Spa Food," by Edward J. Safdie (Potter, $19.95)

GINGER PANCAKES

1-2 cup whole-wheat flour
1-2 teaspoon baking powder
1-4 teaspoon baking soda
1-2 teaspoon ginger
1 egg, beaten
1-2 cup buttermilk or skim milk

Mix flour, baking powder, baking soda and ginger together in a small bowl. Add the wet ingredients to the dry and mix until just combined. Bake on a hot griddle, turning pancakes when bubbles appear on the surface. Serve with apple-maple syrup (below).

Time-saving tips: Quadruple the dry ingredients in the recipe and store them in an airtight container. Then, when you want to have the pancakes later in the week or for the next Saturday or Sunday brunch, just measure out about a 1-2 cup of dry ingredients and combine with the above amounts of wet ingredients.

To freeze them, which really only saves time if you have a microwave (it takes about 30 to 40 minutes to reheat pancakes in a conventional oven), quadruple the entire recipe, follow the directions for preparation and place the finished pancakes in 4 plastic freezer containers. Microwave from frozen.

APPLE-MAPLE SYRUP

(Makes 1-2 cup syrup)
1 apple, peeled and chopped
1 tablespoon maple syrup
Combine apple and maple syrup in a blender or food processor and process until smooth. Serve over pancakes. Use remaining sauce to flavor plain low-fat yogurt.

CARROT BRAN MUFFINS

(Makes 12 muffins)
3-4 cup whole-wheat flour
1-2 cup white flour
3-4 cup bran or 1-2 cup bran and 1-4 cup wheat germ

1-2 teaspoon baking soda
3-4 teaspoon baking powder
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons brown sugar
Grated rind of 1 orange
3-4 cup grated carrots
Approximately 1 cup skim milk or buttermilk

2 tablespoons oil
1 egg, beaten
Combine dry ingredients in a bowl.

In a separate bowl, combine remaining ingredients. Add the dry ingredients to the wet, stirring just until combined. Add more liquid if necessary. Pour into lightly greased muffin tins and bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes. Allow to cool and freeze all or part of the batch, removing muffins as needed.
