

Stephanie Day
9.12.01

It's really hard to begin on an issue like this. It still seems almost unreal, like it's all a dream!

When I woke up yesterday and turned on the news I could not believe what I was seeing. I stayed glued to the tv in disbelief. I went to my boyfriend's & we sat around the tv, about 15 of us, and just watched for hours. I could not drag myself away, not even to go to class. I was/am heart broken. I mean, how could someone do something so horrific?!

I have heard that the guy who everyone thinks is behind this warned the US just last week to watch out, that something big was going to happen. We did nothing. And now thousands of innocent people are dead!

I saw some people from his country, I guess, dancing & singing in the street ~~or~~ they were happy that this happened to our people.

I have family in NY that work right next to the WTC & no one can get into touch w/. That's scary thinking, "what if?"

I hope they catch who's behind this, but nothing they do to him even compares or gives justice to what he has done!!

I just wish someone would get to him & torture him & his followers. They deserve nothing humane.