

The quality and usefulness of future ONI publications to the operating forces will depend entirely on the receipt of new material from combat areas. It is therefore requested that holders of ONI manuals and pamphlets such as this one make every effort to transmit to the Division of Naval Intelligence photographs, drawings or any other information on enemy ships and aircraft which may become available for dissemination to fighting forces.