Aug. 22-91

Dear Sir.

In one of my letters from Mass.
I said the name made me use the word "finally", when it should be "then".
The word is not used
in this connection;
that Col. Carr kindly gave me a copy of his speech, the use of the other word may appear that you may have hesitated.
I do not know that I cannot but be so ready to beaten by my sister, because my sister was a painter, and I was born as a painter. While I had nothing for you, and kind believed myself.

Very truly
Yours
W. J. Rogers

Everyone has noticed the difference, and I want you to feel that it is not intended.
We assumed that the best and strongest is not hostile to the rest of the Alliance,
and that is false.
There is a wide difference between the positions of the Alliance and the. But political advances
must.
The Alliance should be more careful than the rest of the Alliance
men. This will not be done.
