EAST CAROLINA COLLEGE

Greenville, North Carolina

Foreword

As Polaris, the guiding star of earth, illuminates the planet with visible light, East Carolina College radiates educational light. An observer sees not only the source of the light but also the area illumined. The Polaris shines in four distinct directions: academic, cultural, social, and physical. Not the least brilliant of the four beams is the academic. Prerequisite to commencement, the academic disciplines are often thought to end with graduation. Knowledge gained here, however, will go with each student into his future life; and a shaft of light from East Carolina is sent out as each student takes his place in the world. The radiance of culture does not begin and end with the campus but reflects in the community and on the whole of eastern North Carolina. Social light shines on the surrounding area through the students' fund-raising drives, welfare parties, and entertainment features. The physical ray does not beam for the sake of the college alone. It reflects in athletic competition and in the interest in the physical well-being of all whom the college serves. Always endeavoring to make man's life more meaningful and more comfortable, the college radiates its influence over an expanding area and adapts its program to meet the vast and varied needs of the world.

East Carolina College Radiates Its Influence . . .

In order to radiate light, an energy source is required. East Carolina College draws its power from the world it ultimately serves. Each year brings an increase in the enrollment as students come from all over North Carolina, from thirty-eight other states, and from six foreign nations. Graduation is the ultimate goal of all students; but before marching through the diploma line, they must meet the standards set by the college. Prior to graduation, they must spend many hours in classroom lecture and in study outside of class. Students with exceptional academic ability have been selected to represent the college on the G. E. College Bowl. Much study and adequate classroom facilities such as the new Education and Psychology Building are necessary to cultivate that caliber of talent.

. . . To Resemble a Polaris of Education.

For many students, the light of culture shines most brightly during college days. East Carolina students are fortunate in having Schools of Art and Music and a Department of Speech and Drama. Individually or through the Art School, students and faculty members exhibit their work across the state. The School of Music and the Drama Department coordinate to present musicals and an opera every year. The influence of the college is spread by clinics and workshops sponsored throughout the year by the School of Music.

Drawing cultural entertainment from the nationally famous, the Fine Arts Series brings well-known performers to the campus. Here a professional summer theater brings live stage entertainment to this part of the state. East Carolina College truly has become the cultural center of eastern North Carolina.

Cultural influence is provided through student participation on stage as in "The Magic Flute" and through professional talent such as the Royal Winnipeg Ballet.

Academically, . . .

. . . Culturally, . . .

. . . Socially, . . .

. . . and Physically, . . .

. . . Each Student . . .

College has as one of its functions the bringing together of people from many different sections of the country and from all social levels. To those who have not been members of any group, college offers the opportunity to meet and to work with people with similar interests and tastes. Students gather at the soda shop and at dances to meet new people and to talk to old friends. Fraternities offer the chance to know a group well and to work for that group and for the college.

Having found his group, the student is now ready to begin working for humanity. Through the social beam of the college, he learns to help not only the school but also the community around the campus. Many students take their aptitude for radio broadcasting into other towns and add their contribution to the local stations. The AFROTC holds an annual Marchathon to collect money for the March of Dimes, and the campus radio station devotes time each year to broadcasting for UNICEF. As students have begun to realize the importance of contributing socially to mankind, several of them have joined the North Carolina Volunteers to help people in the depressed areas of the state.

. . . Reflects the Light.

Spreading the fame of East Carolina College, athletic teams compete in championship contests and post-season bowl games. Colleges throughout much of the United States have felt the power of the Pirates.

Light from the East Carolina Polaris shines not only on physical excellence but also on the attempt to maintain good physical health. Knowing that the strong must help the weak, students meet the call for donors when the Red Cross Blood-mobile comes to the campus. The college has received the gratitude of thankful recipients of the blood. Preliminary steps toward the eventual establishment of a Medical School are now in the making as the college continues to cast its influence over the land.

Board of Trustees Spends Long Hours

Seated: W. A. Blount, H. Oglesby, R. F. McCoy, T. Dodson, I. E. Carlyle, Dr. L. W. Jenkins, Senator R. Morgan, J. Whitfield, H. Belk, Mrs. H. Belk, Mrs. T. Sanford, and F. Bahnson.

R. F. McCoy and Senator Bob Morgan begin looking ahead.

East Carolina College's Board of Trustees is not simply an average group of people; they are men and women who have chosen to support the College in every way possible. They believe in its future, and they want to help in its expansion. They are helping the College now.

The Board of Trustees is composed of people with every type of background and every kind of interest. Their occupations are varied; they are active in almost every conceivable type of organization or group.

The Trustees are appointed by the Governor of North Carolina for staggered eight-year terms. The majority of these Trustees already have quite a few years of active service behind them.

East Carolina has a versatile and richly-experienced Board to guide and direct its daily growth, a Board of men and women who not only can help but who want to help.

Shaping Policy.

Senator Robert Morgan and East Carolina President Leo W. Jenkins consider new ideas and problems which will be brought before the Board during the year. Senator Morgan is Chairman of the Board.

Mr. F. D. Duncan, Treasurer of the Board, Mr. Henry Oglesby, and Dr. Leo Jenkins relax for a few brief moments as the Board of Trustees prepares to begin one of its fall meetings.

Some of the concerns of the college can be dealt with quickly and with little trouble, but others require long periods of debate and discussion. The Trustees decide all College policy and often must resolve involved problems.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins

Much is required of a college president; obviously, a special kind of person is needed for the task. He must be able to compress days into hours and hours into minutes. Dr. Jenkins is that kind of man. The difficult and extra-ordinary are an integral part of his life.

As president of East Carolina College he is many things—a scholar, a leader, a financier, a politician—and he is more. He is the organizational center of the College, the man around whom all decisions are made, all problems resolved.

His office is his central working area, but his work is everywhere. The problems of the College—academic, social, financial—take him to Raleigh, to New York, and to any place where a solution may be found; but Greenville, Pitt County, and all of eastern North Carolina are where Dr. Jenkins must centralize his operations. He is gradually turning East Carolina into the focal point and leading center of this area.

Among the many things that a college president does, one of the most vital is his job of representing the school to potential supporters. In this state-supported college, the president also has the difficult task of presenting the needs of the College to the State Legislature. Speaking before this body on numerous subjects including the College budget, the proposed medical school, and the Speaker Ban Law, Dr. Jenkins has won far more support for East Carolina than it has previously had.

Dr. Jenkins is a man who leads a full family life and a man who actively participates in the affairs of his community.

Always on the move, he keeps the College on the move.

As the official in charge of all parts of East Carolina's academic world, Dr. Holt leads a life of varied and hectic days. He works closely with all departmental directors, all faculty committees, and all administrative officials.

With the departments' expanding at the fastest possible rate, Dr. Holt's work increases with every passing month; with the number of the faculty and staff always growing, his duties as a coordinator expand daily.

Dr. Holt's position and duties are surging forward as fast as the College is growing; and at the present rate, he has a very busy future waiting.

Mr. F.D. Duncan

Carefully watching and regulating the seemingly endless and unrelated physical expansion of the campus, Mr. F. D. Duncan is the College Vice-President and Business Manager.

Constantly working with the financial problems of the expansion, Mr. Duncan keeps a close watch on all the various construction projects underway around the campus.

As the key figure in the business structure of the College, Mr. Duncan works closely with every phase of East Carolina life. When he is not checking contracts, innumerable orders for equipment, or the College payroll, he can as easily be working on construction plans, student fees, or the next biennial budget.

Mr. Worth E. Baker

As Registrar, Mr. Baker administers the Central Records Office and is responsible for the planning of registration and the distribution of grades.

Administrators Execute Student Policies.

Dr. John H. Horne

Issuing material to prospective students and screening the increasing number of applications are the duties of the Dean of Admissions.

Dr. James H. Tucker

In addition to handling all college policies dealing with the students, the Dean of Student Affairs advises the Student Government Association and is chairman of the Publications Board.

Miss Ruth White

As Dean of Women, Miss White helps coeds with their problems. She also advises Women's Honor Council and Panhellenic Council.

Mr. James B. Mallory

As well as dealing with all problems and policies of the male students, the Dean of Men advises the Men's Judiciary and the Inter-Fraternity Council.

Mr. Henry Howard

Mr. Howard, the Director of the News Bureau, manages the coverage of student activities for publication to the general public.

Mr. S. Rudolph Alexander

As Assistant Dean of Student Affairs, Mr. Alexander is in charge of all campus activities which have building reservations and publicity.

Mr. Dan K. Wooten

The Director of Housing is in charge of housing all male students and supervising the enforcement of all traffic rules on campus.

FEATURES

SPRING

Spring Quarter was one of the most exciting because its close marked the temporary end of studying for the underclassmen and, of course, graduation for the seniors. The air became warm and fragrant, spirits brightened, and thoughts of the beach came to mind. The entertainment series drew a large attendance. Students elected class and student government officers. Informative lectures were presented by such noted speakers as Glenn Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission, and a travel film covered "Russia and its People."

Senior Weekend offered two nights of entertainment with Josh White and Josh Junior the first night and the Serendipity Singers the second. Seniors were honored at their annual banquet and reception. Summer temperatures set in, and final examinations brought the quarter to a close.

Spring Entertainment Centers

Spring brought the onset of a variety of popular concerts. Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians rendered an evening of fine music before a captive audience in Memorial Gymnasium. Displaying their wide range of talent on the piano, the duo of Ferrante and Teicher played both popular and classical selections. Leaving his sick bed to come to East Carolina, Josh White gave an excellent performance of freedom songs and folk ballads. Stepping in to aid his father, Josh Junior also found a responsive audience. The harmonic voices of nine young men and women called the Serendipity Singers thrilled many with their folk jazz. The concerts did indeed give everyone a chance to view his favorite entertainers.

Graduation of the Senior Class of East Carolina College brought to a close the 1965 academic year. State Senator Robert Morgan of Lillington delivered the commencement address after illness forced Governor Dan K. Moore to cancel his appearance. One thousand bachelors and masters degrees were conferred on the college's largest graduating class. Later in the afternoon the graduates and their families attended a concert presented on the mall by the School of Music.

SUMMER

When most of the students take a break from the academic routine, the college remains open to enable students to catch up on work that was missed during the regular school year or to get ahead by attending one or both sessions of summer school. The total registration of both summer sessions equals that of one full quarter. The college is also host to several seminars and institutes as well as the fall quarter influx of freshmen who come for Orientation. Summer entertainment featured Peter Nero, C. Shaw Smith and Family, and Jim Kewskin and his Jug Band along with Ian and Sylvia. The College Union sponsored several dances including a square dance and a watermelon cutting on the mall. The Summer Theater presented weeklong performances of six Broadway musicals. Work of the Student Government did not stop in the summer. A new slate of officers was elected, and a separate budget was appropriated for campus organizations. Summer session equals one quarter in academic credit, but it is actually the epitome of one school year.

Summer Spotlights Seasonal Activities.

Summer Students

Activities which contributed to the summer school fun were weekly watermelon feasts and bingo-ice cream parties. Supplied by the College Union, the free watermelon was distributed to the students on the mall each Tuesday afternoon. Not only did these gatherings provide refreshments for the students, but they also proved to be a time of fellowship and frolic—a time when students and faculty had the opportunity to relax and forget their studies and duties.

Providing nights of refreshment and witting among the students were the bingo-ice cream parties. Free to all students, these parties were another step forward in making the student body a more unified one. The informal atmosphere caused many lasting friendships to develop.

Summer entertainment on the East Carolina campus featured a variety of popular, talented performers. The Jim Kewskin Jug Band and Ian and Sylvia presented many creative renditions of folk music, blues, and jazz. Peter Nero, the charming and talented instrumentalist, gave an enjoyable performance featuring different types of musical expression. The last program in the summer entertainment series spotlighted humorist-magician C. Shaw Smith and his family with their show "Saucy Sorcery."

FALL

Not usually regarded as a season of beginning, Fall Quarter is, nevertheless, the start of the college year. New students come in, new classes begin, and another year is underway. Freshmen elect officers for the class, Football season begins, and night games in the cool air are perfect for arousing school spirit.

Additions to Wright Building opened this year, and the Student Government Association and College Union took over new quarters. The Foreign Film Committee presented along with the regular movies, a foreign film festival. Ballet enthusiasts enjoyed the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, and popular music fans were entertained by the Bitter End Singers and the Modern Folk Quartet. Homecoming brought two nights of the Playters, a victorious football game, and a prett Homecoming Queen. The first quarter of the new college year was rounded out by recital lectures, films, and Thanksgiving Holiday

Using "Roaring through the Twenties" as Homecoming theme, East Carolina experienced a most rewarding weekend. The Student Government Association and participating organizations worked diligently to present the largest and most colorful parade in the history of the college. At halftime the 1965 Homecoming Queen, Sally Foster of Littleton, was crowned by United States Senator B. Everett Jordan from North Carolina. Later that evening many students celebrated the victory over Lenoir Rhyne at the Homecoming Dance in Wright Auditorium. The Platters, one of the country's leading vocal groups, highlighted the weekend of entertainment. East Carolina's 1965 Homecoming is now another page in the history of the college, and it will be remembered by all who attended.

WINTER

Thanksgiving holidays ended, and winter quarter began. The temperatures were not at all winterlike in November and December, but January brought a more seasonable climate. Christmas spirit pervaded the college as the various musical groups gave concerts befitting the season. The traditional giving and receiving came early to the students. Twelve hundred and twenty students rolled up their sleeves when the Red Cross collected blood for the Viet Nam cause. In return, the football team presented the student body with its second Tangerine Bowl victory in two years.

Christmas vacation broke into the quarter; but once the New Year arrived, the college resumed its activities. The Ramsey Lewis Trio headed the popular entertainment series, and the New York Woodwind Quintet appeared on the Fine Arts schedule.

Winter quarter as in every session, informative and entertaining events were made available to meet the varied interests of the students. Basketball took over as the major sport; but swimming, indoor track, and many minor sports got underway as well. The Playhouse performed the space-age adaptation of Shakespeare's The Tempest. United States Senators Frank W. Forsyth and Karl Mundt appeared in individual lectures.

Lectures Dominate Winter Entertainment.

East Carolina's outstanding lecture series dominated the Winter Entertainment program. Collection of Christmas gifts and a three-day blood drive were efforts of the East Carolina College students to demonstrate in a concrete way their support for American fighting men in Southeast Asia. Paperback books, Christmas cards, fruit cakes, clothing, records, and incidentals were among the items sent to the soldiers and natives. In a three-day "Bleed-In" East Carolina students more than doubled their goal of 600 pints by giving some 1220 pints of blood. For this donation Student Government president, Eddie Greene, received the Red Cross Certificate of Appreciation. In all, the "Project Christmas Star" was the most successful drive this campus has ever witnessed.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Housed in its new offices on the third floor of Wright Building, the Student Government Association plays an important role in the life of the college and of the student body. Patterned after the federal system, student government is divided into three branches: executive, legislative, and judicial. An addition this year is a new policy-making body, the Cabinet. Spring elections provide officers who answer directly to the student body. Each student becomes a member of the SGA when he pays his twenty-four dollar activity fee.

Attorney General

Comprised of seven members and one alternate, Women's Honor Council has original and referred jurisdiction over all violations of the Honor Code by coed students. This council has authority in any cases which are serious enough to warrant suspension or expulsion of women students.

Seated: Luray Mitchell; Joyce Sigmon, chairman; and Frieda White. Standing: Gayle Morris, Celia Orr, Betty Caviness, Jan Jackson, and Ginny Mumford.

Review Board Answers Appeals.

Steve Sniteman
Chairman

As the highest court in the College Judicial Branch, the two-year old Review Board hears appeals from the Judiciaries and the Honor Councils. The Review Board accepts all appeals based on the following reasons:

- (1) Reasonable doubt of guilt
- (2) Evidence of prejudiced error
- (3) Excessively severe sentence
- (4) New evidence which would affect the decision itself.

The Board is composed of three faculty members appointed by the President of the college and of four students. These students, one of whom is the vice-president of the Student Government, are nominated by the Executive Council and approved by the Student Legislature.

Seated: Dr. Richard Capwell, Steve Sniteman, and Dr. Faye Carroll. Standing: Rodney Walters, Jean Allen, and David Joyner.

Seated: Dr. Leo Jenkins, Dr. James Tucker, chairman; and Mr. Wyatt Brown. Standing: Jim Young, Nellie Lee, Pam Hall, Jean Allen, Mrs. Antoinette Jenkins, Mrs. Mary Sorensen, Mary Catherine Joyner, and Eddie Green.

Board Oversees Publications.

The Board members chat as they wait for the meeting to begin.

As an advisory and supervisory board, the Publications Board is responsible for overseeing the four SGA publications: The Buccaneer, the East Carolinian, the Rebel, and the Key. The powers delegated to this group include selecting editors, setting salaries, letting contracts, and approving plans for the publications. The board is composed of administrative officials, faculty advisers of each publication, student editors, and business managers, and student members-at-large elected by the SGA.

To provide the students with a memory book of the school year and to present to the public a true picture of East Carolina College, the Buccaneer staff works from spring until spring to produce a yearbook of which all can be justly proud. Under the leadership of the editor-in-chief, the various section editors and their respective staffs spend long hours in planning and preparation of the finished book. Sometimes copy is written, reworked, and written again. Similarly, layouts are drawn and then revised until all the elements of design are satisfied. Although each staff member is assigned to work on a specific section of the book, everyone cooperates with one another to meet the deadlines set by the editor and the publishing company. The final dummy sheets are finished, proofread, and mailed to the publishing company. The printer sends brownline proofs to the staff for approval or correction. These are returned; and the yearbook comes off the press in early May, when it is distributed to the students and faculty.

EAST CAROLINIAN Serves As Students' Voice.

Since its first edition December 19, 1925, the East Carolinian has served the campus as the official newspaper. Published twice-weekly, the purpose of this newspaper is to create a better image of the college community through reporting and featuring all the college activities. Serving both students and faculty, the staff strives for objectivity and interesting reading. The use of a dual assistant editorship gives editors and workers more time and freedom within their individual realms. A six-man Editorial Board discusses issues and ensures unbiased editorials.

Stresses Literary Quality.

Published quarterly, the Rebel, the campus literary magazine, gives students and faculty an opportunity to develop their literary talents. The magazine publishes selections of prose, poetry, book reviews, interviews with outstanding writers and artists, and art. Sponsored by the Student Government Association, the Rebel continues as in previous years with the high standards which have earned it an All-American rating from the Associated Collegiate Press, of which it is a member.

Summer School Creates Own Government.

Officers: Whitty Bass, vice-president; Celia Orr, secretary; Steve Sniteman, president; and Jim Kimsey, treasurer.

Student Government activities are carried on throughout the Summer School Sessions, typical of a quarter during the regular year though on a smaller scale. An entire new set of officers and representatives is elected to handle student business and affairs. Executive duties are performed by the four elected officers and the Student Senate, composed of seven elected members-at-large and the dormitory presidents.

Legislators. Seated: Charles Wackerman, Jan Jackson, and Martin Lassiter. Standing: Bonnie Brooks, Linda Daniels, and Miriam Jones.

Executive Council. Seated: Freddi Goins, vice-president; Bruce Biggs, president; and Bob Lane, secretary. Standing: Walter Rouse, I.D.C. court chairman; Dean James B. Mallory, adviser; and Steve Moore, treasurer.

I.D.C. Court. Seated: Ben Franklin, recording secretary; Walter Rouse, chairman; and Neil McCombs. Standing: Brooks Gardner; and Bob Reynolds, vice-chairman.

Approved by the SGA and the Administration, the Inter-dormitory Council represents "the Boys on the Hill" in an efficient system of student government in the male dormitories. An important branch of the IDC, the court system has jurisdiction over all rules concerning conduct in the dormitories and all cases involving dormitory property. This organization also creates a well-rounded program of social activities.

Inter-Dormitory Council Governs "The Hill."

The IDC meets to discuss current issues concerning male dormitory students.

Some of the rays of academic and social light of the college shine more brightly than the rest. The Spotlight focuses upon those who have won distinction in beauty, scholarship, talent, and service.

Superior grace and talent displayed in various competitions has resulted in the title of Queen for nine coeds. Academic excellence has qualified sixteen women students for the position of college marshal. This year W'bo's W'bo lists thirty-one students who have spent beyond the required amount of time in service to the college. Nine faculty and staff members have been honored with Buccaneer Citations. The individuals featured here have contributed much to East Carolina College, and they merit a place in The Spotlight.

Ready, aim ...

During the 1965 season, the East Carolina baseball team compiled a record of 16 wins and 7 losses. Carlton Barnes led the team in batting with a .447 average, and Pete Barnes and Ed Rawls paced the pitching staff.

The Pirates faced such challenging opponents as Ithaca, William and Mary, North Carolina State, Duke, and Davidson.

"East Carolina has not had a losing team since 1935," said Coach Smith, whose 1963 team was third in the NAIA tournament and whose 1964 team placed third in the Southeast Regional NCAA tournament. The Pirates narrowly missed getting a berth in the 1965 District Four Regional Championships.

For the Pirate runners, 1965 proved to be a successful year. After a relatively poor season in 1964, the '65 squad bounced back with an impressive record of four wins, two defeats, and a second place finish, all in non-conference competition. Not only was the Pirate record much improved, but members of the team added much prestige to the college. East Carolina continued its record outputs as the names of Buddy Price and Terry Wills seemingly always found themselves finishing in first place. Price finished first in the N.C.A.A. Regional Pole Vault with a meet record jump of thirteen feet and nine inches. Wills led the runners by scoring a grand total of one hundred and twenty-seven points. With the leadership of these men and help from Coach Baxter Berryhill, East Carolina has high hopes as it enters Southern Conference competition for the first time in 1966.

East Carolina College tennis team coached by Harold Bullard compiled an outstanding record of nine wins and three losses during the 1965 season. After opening the season with a win over Atlantic Christian College, the Pirates lost the next three consecutive matches to The Citadel, College of Charleston, and Wake Forest. The Bucs roared back, however, to win their last eight games of the season. Playing in the number one position was captain and returning letterman Bane Shaw. Ron Hignite held the number two position and finished the season with the best individual record of ten wins and two losses. Other major team positions belonged to Wayne Amick, Mike Starr, and Kelly Wells.

Playing in the Southern Conference for the first time, the Bucs came in with a 3-1 record in the conference and a 9-1 record overall. The only loss came to Southern Conference foe Furman.

There were many stars for the Pirates this year. Dave Alexander set conference records for total points—96, touchdowns—16, most rushes—227, and most yards gained—1029. Alexander was voted to the Little All-American team and received honorable mention for major college All-American. Peter Kriz set a conference record for most extra points.

Ikey Bullard, Harold Glaettli, Paul Schnurr, and Todd Hicks were outstanding defensive performers.

ECC Bombs Rams 27-6.

Pete Kriz kicks one of many extra points.

Entertaining a capacity Parents' Day crowd, the Pirates rolled over the Rams of West Chester State 27-6. The Bucs scored on the first play from scrimmage when sophomore tailback Neil Hughes raced 71 yards for the touchdown. Pete Kriz added the point after. A Robert Ellis interception on the Ram 41-yard line set up the second touchdown which Dave Alexander scored on a 7-yard jaunt to give the Pirates a 14-0 halftime lead.

West Chester scored its only touchdown in the third quarter when it recovered a blocked punt and tallied on a one-yard plunge.

The Pirates had an added touchdown when Ikey Bullard recovered a Ram fumble on the 50-yard line, and six plays later Alexander scored from two yards out. A twelve-yard pass from George Richardson to Nelson Gravatt in the end zone made the final score Pirates 27—Rams 6.

Bucs Roll Over Richmond 34-13.

Coach Stasavich is carried off the field after a well deserved victory.

Ending a four year football drought, East Carolina downed Richmond 34-13 in a game played at Richmond. A fired up Pirate team led by tailback Bill Bailey scored in the opening minutes of the game when Alexander went in from one yard out. Pete Kriz kicked one of four extra points. Richmond tied the score on a 38-yard pass, but the Pirates took the lead for good when Bailey hit Alexander in the end zone with a 43-yard aerial to give the Pirates a 14-7 half time lead.

ECC came on even stronger in the second half. Bill Bailey threw a ten-yard scoring pass to Tom Grant and after an intercepted pass quickly threw his third touchdown pass, hitting Abernathy in the end zone for a 14-yard scoring play.

East Carolina and Richmond traded touchdowns in the final quarter. The Spider score came on a 28-yard pass play, and the final Pirate score came on a one-yard plunge by George Richardson.

Mike Herring boots the ball back into Richmond territory.

East Carolina Clips The Citadel.

FCC shattered the league-leading Citadel pass defense with 14 completions for 155 yards, trouncing the Bulldogs 21-0. Richardson and Alexander accounted for all the scoring. The Pirates' first offensive movement began late in the first quarter on their own 14 yard line. In 13 plays the Bucs had a touchdown when Alexander went in from the five. The Bucs scored again the next time they had the ball with Richardson throwing a six-yard pass to Norman Swindell to cap a 66-yard drive.

The final EC score came in the third quarter when Richardson sprinted 14 yards for a touchdown. Pete Kriz kicked all three extra points. East Carolina racked up 353 yards total offense compared to 111 yards for The Citadel to give the Pirates their second consecutive conference victory.

Pirates Trim Louisville.

Dave Alexander and George Richardson teamed up in the backfield to run and pass East Carolina to a 34-20 victory over Louisville in an intersectional game in Louisville, Kentucky. The Cardinals scored early in the game on a 75-yard drive, but the Bucs went on a 20-point spree in the second quarter to take the lead for good. The second Pirate score came when Alexander fumbled on the Louisville three-yard line and Tom Grant recovered the ball in the end zone. The last score of the quarter came on an 11-yard pass from Richardson to Grant.

East Carolina and Louisville traded touchdowns in the final two quarters. East Carolina scored when Richardson launched a 29-yard aerial to Grimes who was alone in the end zone. Louisville scored by going 80 yards in five plays. In the fourth quarter Alexander threw a nine-yard pass to Ruffin Odom for the final Buc score. Louisville scored once more to make the final score 34-20.

Pete Kriz kicks off—soccer style.

Bucs Crush Indians 45-0.

Dave Alexander and George Richardson scored three touchdowns each to boost the Pirates to a 45-0 victory over Northeast Louisiana in Monroe, Louisiana.

East Carolina's first score came on a 10-yard pass from Alexander to Richardson, who broke into the end zone. Ikey Bullard picked off an Indian pass, one of five interceptions by the Pirates; and three plays later Richardson scored on a three-yard plunge. An interception by Robert Ellis helped set up a third Pirate touchdown by fullback Dave Alexander. Late in the second period Pete Kriz kicked a 26-yard field goal, the first of his career, to cap a 64-yard drive. Harold Glaettli loped 24 yards with an intercepted pass to the Indian five yard line to help set up another tally. On the next play, Richardson took it in for the score to give the Bucs a 31-0 half time lead.

The Pirates scored twice in the second half, both on one-yard runs by Alexander that capped drives of 67 and 63 yards.

Closing their series with Lenoir Rhyne, the Pirates rolled to a 44-0 Homecoming victory over the Bears. The Bucs scored the first time they had the ball on a 27-yard aerial from George Richardson to end Churchill Grimes. Early in the second quarter Lenoir Rhyne was forced to punt. Robert Ellis took the punt and returned it 77 yards for the touchdown. Pete Kriz added a 28-yard field goal to give the Pirates a 23-0 half time lead.

The Pirates were held in check by the Bears until the closing minutes of the game when they scored three touchdowns. One score came after Ikey Bullard intercepted a pass on the Bear 48-yard line. The Pirates had a touchdown in five plays when Richardson hit Ruffin Odom in the end zone with a pass. A Lenoir Rhyne fumble of the kickoff on the 20-yard line led to another East Carolina score. Alexander threw a 20-yard aerial to Tom Grant, who made a diving catch in the end zone. The final score came as the gun sounded when Charlie Forbes dived two yards for the touchdown.

Pirates Nip George Washington.

That second effort is one reason for the success of the team this year.

Making a remarkable comeback in the fourth quarter, the Pirates nipped a strong George Washington team 21-20. The Colonials built a 20-0 lead in the first quarter by capitalizing on a recovered fumble and an intercepted pass both of which they turned into touchdowns. The other score came on a 74-yard drive. A two-point conversion attempt failed and proved to be the determining factor in the game.

The Pirates first score came on a 15-yard pass from Richardson to Abernathy, who fell into the end zone.

In the fourth quarter the Bucs started to take the initiative with a sharp passing attack. One score came as a result of a fumble recovery by Robert Ellis on the Colonial 39-yard line. In four plays, Richardson scored the touchdown from the two-yard line. A 67-yard drive resulted in a touchdown by Alexander which tied the score. Pete Kriz added the winning point.

Pirates Blast Bulldogs 35-10.

Howard College grabbed a quick 3-0 halftime lead before the East Carolina offense started its move.

The Bulldogs took the lead on a 35-yard fieldgoal, but the Pirates came back on the kick-off marching 80 yards for the touchdown. Receiving the ball after the East Carolina score, Howard fumbled; and the ball was recovered by Robert Ellis. In three plays the Pirates hit pay dirt again.

The last Howard score came after a 67-yard drive, initiated by an East Carolina fumble on the Howard 38-yard line.

Two Bulldog fumbles led to Buc scores: one on a three-yard pass from Alexander to Odom, who was open in the end zone, and the other one was on a one-yard plunge by Alexander. The final Buc score came on a 25-yard run by Alexander to cap a 57-yard drive. Pete Kriz added all five extra points.

In Memoriam

Norman Howard Swindell, East Carolina football standout, perished in a hunting mishap during the Christmas Holidays; therefore, the 1966 Buccaneer staff has deemed it appropriate to dedicate this page as a memorial of his outstanding contributions to the college.

Norman, a twenty-one year old senior, co-captained the Pirates to two straight Tangerine Bowl victories and the Eastern District small college title in 1964 and 1965. The New Bern blocking back was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

East Carolina, the defending Tangerine Bowl champions, successfully preserved its title by downing the University of Maine Black Bears, 31-0 in Orlando, Florida. Dave Alexander playing in his last game bowed out with class by scoring two touchdowns, gaining 206 yards in total offense, and copping a trophy for the best offensive performance in the game.

The first score came on a 24-yard field goal by Pete Kriz. The first touchdown of the game was a 35-yard pass from Richardson to Abernathy.

The Bucs took the second-half kickoff and marched 67 yards with Alexander capping the drive by going over from the one. Minutes later, a Todd Hicks interception set up a third touchdown. The Pirates quickly scored when Alexander fired a five-yard touchdown pass to Grimes. On the final scoring play of his career, Alexander crushed through the right side of the line and ran 56 yards for the score. Pete Kriz added all the extra points.

It was the third consecutive Bowl victory in as many years for the Pirates and the second straight Eastern Regional NCAA championship.

School spirit does not need boosting when the Pirates are ahead, but when the going gets rough, students are inclined to let their morale wane. It is the job of the cheerleaders to maintain the high spirit of the student body and also that of the team during football and basketball games. The cheerleading squad is composed entirely of volunteers who work on their own time to rehearse the routines which include not only the cheers but acrobatic stunts.

Personifying school spirit is The Pirate, Scotty Scott. His unorthodox antics add color and humor to the cheerleaders' performances.

Five members and seven alternates make up the freshman cheerleading squad which renders the same service for the Baby Bucs that the senior squad performs for the varsity teams.

Backing up starters Jerry Woodside, Grady Williamson, and Bobby Kinnard are reserves Gerald Smith, Bill Duckett, and Danny Pasquariello and sophomores Charlie Alford, Jimmy Cox and Fred Campbell.

Among the teams the Pirates face this year are conference foes West Virginia, Davidson, and Richmond, and non-conference teams High Point, Murray State, and East Tennessee. Playing in the Lenoir Rhyne Holiday Tournament in Hickory, the Pirates lost the opening round to Georgetown 86-84 and won the consolation game 99-89 against Chattanooga.

When this year's Buccaneer went to press, Jerry Woodside was scoring 19.7 points a game to lead the Pirates. He was followed by Alford, Cox, and Kinnard. Kinnard, the team captain, is also the Pirates leading rebounder.

Relying on a tight man-to-man defense, the East Carolina Freshman Basketball Team faced such foes as North Carolina State, V.P.I., and Richmond. A well-rounded team, the Baby Bucs had the height to give them strength off the boards and the speed to enable them to use a full-court press in a tight game.

Leading the attack for the Baby Bucs were Ben McMakin and Gene McAdams at the guard position, Bob Lindfelt and Ken Sabo at center, and Richard Kier, Charlie Lanier, and Jim Donowski at the forward spots.

Under Coach Harold Ellen, the Freshman Pirates developed rapidly after the season began. After a slow start, the team rebounded with consecutive victories over North Carolina State, William and Mary, and Chowan.

Bucs Rout Bears.

East Carolina completely outclassed Lenoir Rhyne 90-74 in a non-conference tilt. Rebounding by Alford and Kinnard allowed the Pirates to use the fast break to perfection. Cox hit a 25-foot jump shot with 12 minutes left to play to give the Pirates an 18-9 lead. The Bucs soon widened the gap to 14 points. With Woodside, Alford, and Cox doing most of the scoring, the Pirates led 37-31 at the half.

Any hopes of a Lenoir Rhyne comeback in the second half evaporated when Kinnard sank four quick baskets. The Pirates then built up a lead that never got below 12 points. The Pirates shot 56 per cent from the floor and 45 per cent from the charity stripe. Jimmy Cox was the high scorer with 22 points. Woodside followed with 21 and Alford with 20.

The Citadel Falls 68-66.

Relying on a strong full-court press in the last minutes of the game, East Carolina squeaked by The Citadel 68-66. Sophomore Jimmy Cox led in the scoring department with 22 points followed by Jerry Woodside who added 20. Bobby Kinnard had the highest number of rebounds for the game with 10.

The Citadel was bothered by fouls early in the game and ended up giving East Carolina 28 shots from the free throw line as well as losing two men on fouls late in the game.

At half time, the Pirates led by a slim margin of four points, but The Citadel bounced back in the lead in the early moments of the second half and held it until Jerry Woodside connected to put the Pirates ahead with 13 minutes to go in the game. East Carolina was never in serious trouble from that point on.

Forced into errors by a fired-up Pirate team, the Bulldogs fouled Grady Williamson who made good on his free throw. Jimmy Cox followed with a quick two-point basket, and Woodside insured the victory with a foul shot in the dying seconds of the game.

Pirates Upset Spiders.

Led by sophomore guard Jimmy Cox, East Carolina upset Richmond 76-72. The Pirates took charge of the game in the early minutes and twice held leads of eight points. Some clutch shooting by Charlie Alford gave the Bucs a 41-35 half-time lead.

The Bucs held the lead until the last three minutes, when Richmond tied the score. A bucket by Gerald Smith and free throws by Pasquariello and Cox put the game out of reach of the Spiders.

Jimmy Cox scored 26 points to lead the Pirates. Charlie Alford, who scored 13 points in the first half, was held to only two baskets in the second and finished with 17 points for the night.

Mountaineers Overpower East Carolina.

"Hawk" Smith takes the ball down court after snaring a rebound.

Power-packed West Virginia routed East Carolina 98-76 in a game played on the winner's court. The Bucs led in the first eight minutes by as much as four points, but the Mountaineers quickly caught up and took the lead at 19-18 and kept it. The Pirates kept it close throughout the first half and were down only six points at 45-39 when the half ended.

Poor shooting in the second half led to the Buc downfall. Clutch shots by Charlie Alford and Jerry Woodside kept the Mountaineer margin of victory at 22 points. Charlie Alford was high scorer with 26 points. Woodside, Cox, and Kinnard followed closely. This defeat was the third conference loss for the Pirates.

Late Rally Brings Victory.

Down by as much as 11 points in the first half, the Bucs staged a strong second-half rally to clip the Keydets of Virginia Military Institute 87-85. The Keydets built up an early lead, but the Bucs fought hard and were down 44-38 at the half.

East Carolina took the lead at 54-53 on Pasquariello's jump shot. A key four-point play by Charlie Alford and two free throws by Jimmy Cox made victory hopeless for the Keydets. Alford was high scorer for the Pirates with 29 points. Pasquariello and Cox followed with 20 and 17 points respectively.

East Carolina, led by the shooting of sophomore guard Jimmy Cox, nipped the High Point Panthers 46-40. The Bucs moved ahead at 4-3 and never lost the lead although the score was tied seven times in the first half. Two baskets by Cox and one by Smith gave the Pirates a five-point lead, 26-21, at the half.

Early in the second half the Panthers began to stall and held the ball for five minutes, but they could not catch the Pirates. The Pirates then beat the Panthers at their own game by holding the ball for an additional four minutes late in the game. The Pirates iced the victory on a basket by Cox and two free throws by Smith. Cox was high scorer for the game with 17 points. The victory gave the Pirates revenge for their 69-60 loss to the Panthers earlier in the season.

tinez, D. Snyder, L. Jorgensen, M. Tomberlin, T. Houghton, R. Conway, J. Shanabrough (Assistant Coach), and A. B. Thompson (Diving Coach).

Despite a slow beginning this season, the East Carolina Swimming Team has set Southern Conference records with sophomores Mike Tomberlin and Owen Paris establishing faster times in the 200-yard backstroke and the individual medley. Also, Captain Larry Hewes, Lane Jorgensen, Mike Hamilton, and Tom Houghton have successfully combined their talents in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Included on the schedule this year are such teams as Florida State, University of Florida, North Carolina State, and Alabama. Coached by Dr. Ray Martinez, the Buc swimmers are expecting to come on strong for conference honors this season.

This year's East Carolina wrestling team, built around a trio of lettermen and talented sophomores, has a 4-3 season record as the Buccaneer goes to press. Still left are matches with William and Mary, Davidson, North Carolina State, and the Southern Conference Tournament at William and Mary.

Returning lettermen are Guy Hagerty, co-captain; Jerry Williamson; and Ray Perry. The other co-captain, Neel Linker, is out for the season with an injury. Coach Gantt relies strongly on the sophomores who dominate the squad to give the team a winning season. Among the sophomores are Howie Metzgar, the New Jersey state champion, and Fred Bates who are up from last year's freshman squad. Both are in the lower weight classes.

Saint Andrews, Pembroke, RPI, and Pfeiffer have fallen to the wrestlers. Their two losses have come from Duke and VMI.

East Carolina College offers a wide variety of activities in which all students may participate.

The activities are organized on the principles of sportsmanship and entertainment. This program offers the student opportunities to compete, as a member of a team in any sport he enjoys.

By participating in activities such as football, basketball, swimming, and table tennis, a student learns such traits as cooperation and leadership while further developing his interest in the sport. Competition is organized into three categories of which fraternities and sororities make up the first. The second is dormitories, and the third includes the independent campus teams.

ORGANIZATIONS

RELIGIOUS GROUPS

Key members discuss re-organization at the Council meetings.

Inter-Religious Council Undertakes Self-Study.

Co-ordination of campus religious or human interest activities is the function of the Inter-Religious Council of East Carolina College. This council is made up of representatives from each of the organized religious groups on campus.

Meeting weekly in the campus Y-Hut, the fourteen members of the Inter-Religious Council are advised by Dr. D. D. Gross, Director of Religious Activities at East Carolina.

Each year the Inter-Religious Council publishes a handbook of religious information for freshmen. This handbook describes the organized religious groups and gives their advisers, meeting places, and activities. It also lists the local churches and their locations.

This year the Inter-Religious Council is centering its efforts on a re-study of itself and introspection into its purposes and functions. Interested persons come and discuss the Inter-Religious Council as they see it. This group is moving toward a new constitution and a new approach to its campus ministry. Its hope is to involve a larger portion of the campus and to be a greater force in campus life and activities.

Dr. D. D. Gross directs all activities of the Inter-Religious Council.

Baptist Student Teams Help Area Churches.

Mr. Dwight Fickling, Director of the Baptist Student Union, encourages the members of the Union toward continued growth during their college years.

Representatives from the B.S.U. are sent to a work project each summer. These projects often take members to foreign countries such as Korea and India. This year's project was in North Carolina on the Cherokee Indian Reservation. Each Christmas the Baptist Student Union has a special project. Gifts are collected and sent to a mental health hospital in the state. Christmas gifts are sent to a needy family in Greenville. During the year, extension teams from the B. S. U. go to eastern North Carolina churches to conduct youth programs.

Money for such projects is raised through "dollar spaghetti suppers," car washes, and "jean cleans." During quarterly retreats away from campus, members plan programs, worship, and have fun together. Each year every Baptist Student Union in the state attends the Fall Convention, which serves as a planning medium for the coming year.

Facilities for studying, playing table tennis, singing, playing the piano and the organ, and listening to records and the radio are available at the Baptist Student Center. Christian fellowship, worship, supper for its 200 members, a forum every Monday night, and Vespers every Wednesday night are activities of the Baptist Student Union.

Brenda Rogers, Kate Vance, Talmidge Goodnight, and Sherri Ogle find the Baptist Student Center a convenient place for relaxation and studying.

Guitar, people, and the friendliness of the Baptist Student Union are a perfect combination for an old-fashioned songfest.

Canterbury Stresses God's Love.

Harry Tyler and Russ Chesson are busily wrapping presents for the Christmas season.

Canterbury is the name given to all activities of the Episcopal Church directed toward the academic community, students, faculty, and staff. It is not a club and has no officers or dues.

Here at East Carolina College, the Episcopal Diocese of East Carolina and the local parish of St. Paul's have combined resources to provide the base and manpower for the church's mission in college. Located in St. Paul's Church are a lounge, dining room, and a kitchen for those who are involved in Canterbury. In these rooms the bulk of Canterbury activities takes place.

Each Wednesday while college is in session, Canterbury gathers in the church for worship and a supper prepared by members on a rotating basis. During coffee and conversation, an honest attempt at real dialogue transpires. The meetings are religious in the sense that what a man does, thinks, and feels comes within the scope of God's loving concern. The coffee and conversation hour deals with matters of common interest to members. During these Wednesday get-togethers many realize that all people are indeed precious to God and that man can learn not only to tolerate those who seem to be different but also to accept them for what they are and for what they can contribute. The group discovers to a surprising extent what it means to be in the church.

Christmas is a busy season for the members of Canterbury as gifts are bought, wrapped, and presented to needy Negro children of the Greenville community.

Free Will Baptists Enjoy Hymn Fests.

Officers: Louise Walters, president; Pam Odham, vice-president; Linda Wright, secretary; Lynette Wooten, treasurer, and Carolyn Jackson, program chairman.

Meeting for the first time at East Carolina College in 1941, the Free Will Fellowship now boasts a membership of forty students who meet once a week in the Y-Hut. Directed by the Reverend David W. Hansley, the Free Will Fellowship participates in activities that take place both on and off the campus. The Free Will Baptists also have representation on the Inter-Religious Council.

The Fellowship sponsors a yearly banquet and a picnic for all who wish to attend. The year ends with a gala Christmas party for all members.

Members of the Hebrew Youth Fellowship gather at the Y-Hut for their weekly meeting.

Hebrew Youth Fellowship Helps In Religious Emphasis Week.

Now totaling thirty members, the Hebrew Youth Fellowship has tripled in size since its organization on campus in the fall of 1960.

Under the guidance of Mr. Joseph Hanchrow, this Jewish organization actively participates in Religious Emphasis Week and belongs to the Inter-Religious Council.

Hebrew Fellowship was organized to give the Jewish students on campus a place to gather for Bible study and prayer. Members participate in social events which include Homecoming festivities and a yearly banquet. Through these activities, Jewish students promote better religious relationships.

King Youth Fellowship Presents Tony Fontaine.

Open to all students affiliated with Full Gospel Churches, the King Youth Fellowship has a membership of forty students. King Youth Fellowship strives to provide spiritual encouragement among all students and a place where Christian associations may be enjoyed. The Fellowship offers recreational and social activities for its members as well as service to the college and the community.

Highlights of this year were the Homecoming weekend activities, the traditional winter banquet, and the group trip in the spring.

In conjunction with the Inter-Religious Council, the King Youth Fellowship presented a program featuring Tony Fontaine, the superlative gospel singer.

Lutherans Retreat On Shores Of Pamlico River.

Preparing dinner once a week provides some "wifely" practice for these three coeds.

Director of the Lutheran Student Association, the Reverend Robert Dasher explains that the L.S.A. is an organization which serves as an instrument whereby the students may deepen, discuss, and express their Christian faith through fellowship.

Organized in the spring of 1955, the Lutheran Student Association provides students with an opportunity for worship, study, and service. Its members participate in the life of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church.

In October, the Association took part in the annual fall retreat on the shores of the Pamlico Sound. On the L.S.A. agenda for the school year are the Regional and National Ashram Conventions, Christmas caroling, and participation in the Annual College Union Carnival. The Association serves suppers every Sunday night for its twenty-five members. The meal is followed by discussion of the Bible.

Officers: Patsy Poffenbaugh, president; Virginia Gottschald, secretary; Mrs. Adler, adviser; Father Spillane, pastor; Carol Doggett, treasurer; and Mr. Carl Adler, adviser.

Catholics Emulate Cardinal Newman.

Marcia Coyle, Carol Doggett, and Virginia Gottschald prepare refreshments, which are served at every meeting.

Founded in 1915 by Henry Cardinal Newman, a noted Catholic writer and educator, the Newman Club has as its purpose the fastening of the religious, social, and intellectual interests of the Catholic student attending a non-Catholic college or university. Non-Catholics interested in gaining information about Catholicism and the Catholic way of life are welcome to attend the weekly meetings in the Y-Hut.

Newman Club aids and implements the work of the National Catholic Education Association in its dedication to the principles set forth in Cardinal Newman's essay entitled, "Idea of a University." Academic discussions on a wide variety of topics that include marriage and the family, the Second Vatican Council, the Changing Liturgy of the Church, and the work of the lay apostolate are led by the Chaplain, Father Spillane. Plans for the thirty members of this year's Newman Club include attendance at the annual statewide Newman Club Conference in Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

Anything can be discussed when the Methodists meet, and it usually is!

Wesley Foundation Makes Loan Fund Available.

East Carolina College's Wesley Foundation is the organized ministry of the Methodist Church on the campus. Directed by the Reverend James L. Hobbs, the purpose of the Wesley Foundation is to offer to the campus community a program of Christian fellowship and service. The program of this ministry is initiated at the Methodist Student Center. At informal dinner meetings students participate in conversation with invited guests and members of the ECC faculty. Reading groups from time to time emphasize theology, church history, literature, philosophy, and other disciplines.

At the Student Center, one finds facilities for study, cooking, informal conversation, and relaxation. Magazines and other reading material are available in the library, and snacks may be found in the kitchen. Students are invited to use these facilities during the week, day or night. Occasions for group gatherings such as open house following home football games, dinners, and parties on special days are provided by the Wesley Foundation. The Methodist Student Loan Fund is administered through the Foundation for students who maintain a "C" average. The program, facilities, and activities at the Methodist Student Center provide but the framework for the possibility of a Christian community. Students, faculty, and staff are invited to share in this possibility.

Seated: Trudy Wilkes, secretary-treasurer; Peggy Brown, program assistant; K. Johnson, president; Jean Webb, special affairs chairman; and Jan Williams, former chairman. Standing: The Reverend James L. Hobbs, director; Jack Brinn, program assistant; Graham Rouse, vice-president; and Henry Townsend, publicity chairman.

Presbyterians Discuss the Sacred, the Secular.

Fellowship, supper, worship, and conversation three nights a week with interested members of the college community represent the major activities of the Presbyterian Westminster Fellowship. Subjects vary from war to Paul's conversion, from sex to communism, and from Genesis to Revelations. Occasional social functions are a part of the total life of the group. Service projects are offered to those who are interested and have the time. The "Den" (campus center) is the hub of these programs. Cafe booths, television, radio, lounging areas, and a kitchen create an atmosphere which combines symbols of home with the student world. A faculty group meets monthly for the same type of conversation and fellowship. The total program is defined by Reverend Bronson Matney, Jr., the campus Chaplain. Discovery of the sacred in the secular, the role of doubt in faith, the relationship of faith to life, growth through suffering, and rewards of interpersonal relations are all a part of the philosophy of the structured program.

Effort is made to recognize and create situations and atmospheres conducive to freedom of thought and expression and to critical looks at life, self, others, God, and the Church. With this freedom is also offered the strength and authority of a positive Christian testimony.

The Reverend Bronson Matney, Jr., makes a theological point come to life during dinner at the Presbyterian Center.

CLUBS

Association for Childhood Education

To work for better practices of teaching in the elementary school, to raise professional standards, and to inform the public of the total needs of children are the purposes of the Association for Childhood Education. The local chapter was organized on the campus in 1933 under the leadership of Miss Dora Coates.

Each year the East Carolina Chapter of ACE sends delegates to the state and national conventions. To help in financing the expenses incurred by the delegates at these conventions, mums are sold during Homecoming weekend. Programs are offered at every meeting of the ACE, and the highlight of these programs is the combined banquet with the Student National Education Association.

The Mary Lois Staton Award is presented annually to an outstanding member of the East Carolina ACE Chapter. A committee of two members of the ACE, the adviser, and the Dean of the School of Education makes the final selection of the recipient of this award. Criteria used for the selection of the student for this award are scholarship, leadership, and understanding of children.

In order to be a member of the Association for Childhood Education, a person must be an education major who wants to teach children in kindergarten through grade six and who has a profound interest in children. The ACE is advised by Dr. Mary Lois Staton, a staff member of the School of Education at East Carolina College.

Aquanymphs Perform in Spring Water Show.

Aquanymphs pause for instructions during a weekly rehearsal.

Officers: Peggy Janes, vice-president; Martha Jo Chambers, president; and Becky Bass, secretary.

Synchronized swimming is the goal of thirty aquanymphs directed by Mrs. Gay Hogan Blocker, physical education instructor. To be accepted into the Aquanymphs, a girl must demonstrate her ability to do the front and back crawl, to do the breast and side stroke, and to float.

For the enjoyment of the students and the general public, the Aquanymphs present their stunts and skills in the Spring Water Show. This year five members represented East Carolina College in a swimming clinic in New York, October 29-30. The club enters in the Tri-State Extra-mural Competition for colleges in North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia.

To promote interest in better broadcasting techniques and to recognize those who make significant contributions to campus radio are the purposes of the Broadcasting Guild. Established May 13, 1963, the Broadcasting Guild has a charter membership of twelve students under the direction of Mr. Rick Brewer and Dr. Corinne Sawyer. Qualifications for membership in the Broadcasting Guild include an overall "C" average and outstanding recognition for working in broadcasting for one school year.

Today the Broadcasting Guild serves to spearhead the UNICEF (United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund) Drive. Members seek to learn more about radio and broadcasting through practical experience

WWWS Changes Name To WECC.

This year the WECC Broadcasting Station moved into new studios and executive offices on the second floor of Joyner Library. Campus Radio operates on a nine-hour day, six days a week, with an all-student staff of thirty members. From this central location, Campus Radio runs its annual UNICEF (United Nations International Childrens Emergency Fund) Marathon. With the cooperation of the College Union, a dance accents the festivities. This year WECC obtained a mobile van to broadcast from all over the campus in order to reach all of the students.

WECC-AM and FM radio was established in 1956 under the direction of Mr. Wendell Smiley and Miss Rosalind Roulston with a crew composed almost completely of staff members. Shows were broadcast three hours a day, five days a week. During the spring quarter an annual banquet is given for the students. "Recognition Awards" are presented to outstanding members of the staff.

Top: Bob Blake, manager; and Vickey Turner, program director. Bottom: Victor Smith, chief announcer; Dianne Koontz, business coordinator; and Paul Boylin, chief of operations.

WECC-TV Broadcasts To 700 Students.

Members of the WECC-TV are found in a moment of relaxation after broadcasting classes to over seven hundred East Carolina students.

From its location in Joyner Library the East Carolina Television Network, WECC-TV, broadcasts lectures to classes of five hundred to seven hundred students. The first class was taught on an experimental basis during the Fall Quarter, 1958. After a two-year trial period, the procedure became standard at East Carolina.

This year three courses are taught through the medium of television: Health I, Geography 15, and Music Appreciation classes. The instructors of these courses feel that in this manner they can reach more people with better visual aids.

WECC Television is run by a crew made up completely of students. Approximately thirty active members work on four different shows this year. At the end of each year awards are presented to those who have displayed especially good talent in the area of television broadcasting. The special awards presented are for the "Best Cameraman," the "Best Director," and the "Most Valuable Member."

Geoffery Church, Paul Boylin, and Rebecca Bagley are seen at master controls as the day begins with the first televised class.

Circle K Offers Scholarship To Deserving Freshman.

Circle K Club, founded in 1946, now has twenty members. The Circle K is under the guidance of Dr. Donald Bailey and Dr. John Reynolds. These two men are constantly striving to develop leadership for tomorrow and to create a better community by building personal understanding within the collegiate members of the Circle K.

More than six hundred Circle K Clubs are now in operation throughout the college campuses of the nation. To become a member of the Circle K at East Carolina, a male student must be invited to attend one of the club's smokers, be accepted by all the members, and maintain a "C" average.

Circle K is one of the most active service organizations on campus. Circle K members act as ushers and seat guests for Student Government Association entertainment presentations. Annually the club gives a scholarship to an outstanding member of the incoming freshman class. Circle K is one of the most active clubs in the Carolinas. Along with the fine service they give the East Carolina College campus, Circle K members participate in extra-collegiate activities. Their main contributions are a party for underprivileged children at Christmas and annual donations to the Tidewater Blood Bank.

Ed Leggett, Brad Sears, and Roger Nixon distribute fruit cakes for the Circle K's annual fund drive.

Debate Team Places First In Southeast.

Front: John Miers; Kay Howerton; Pat Shea; and Richard Papkin, captain. Back: Jeff Hahn; Barry Dressil; Mike Tobin; and Mr. Albert Pertalion, coach.

Open to any student wishing to keep in constant touch with current events, the Debate Club was founded in September, 1964, by Mr. Albert Pertalion. Wide in range and subject matter, the topics of debate require that members possess a nimble mind. Traveling as far as New York City, the ten-member team competed last year in four tournaments. The negative team took first place at the Southeast Forensic Tournament and won various speaking awards at the Southern Regional Tournament. By no means is the Debate Club all work. Many of the members find time to do sightseeing and socializing at the various debates they attend.

Jerry Hahn lets a fact find its effect on John Miers and Barry Dressil.

Nurses Club Sells Christmas Seals.

Miss Barbara Adams stresses a specific point at a Nurses Club meeting.

Pat Bonney, Judy Parker, Claudia Blanford, Gail Williams, and Martha Klein gather around before the meeting for a little relaxation after a taxing day.

"Fame is nothing; the deed is everything" is the motto of the East Carolina College Student Nurses Association. This motto the student nurses try to live by as professional people. This club is open to any student who is currently enrolled in the East Carolina School of Nursing. The purpose of the Nurses Club is threefold: to aid in the development of student nurses as truly democratic citizens by broadening their horizons as individuals and as members of a group, to promote professional and social unity among the student nurses, and to serve as a medium of communication for the East Carolina College Student Nurses' Association.

Officers—president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, historian, one or more advisers, and three members of the nominating committee—are elected each March and inducted in May. Candidates for office must be eligible to serve for at least one year after their election. Besides regular monthly meetings, upon request of the Executive Board or written request of three members, another meeting may be called.

At Christmas something special is done by the Nurses Club for the Pitt County Hospital. Participation in the selling of Christmas Seals and helping at the blood bank in Greenville head the list of projects.

The East Carolina Nurses Club now has the president and corresponding secretary for District Six. The Nursing School here is the only collegiate one in the district.

Officers: Carolyn Perkins, treasurer; Pat Worthington, secretary; Linda Slaughter, president; Carolyn Griffin, vice-president; and Pam Oldham, program chairman.

Officers: Mary Howell, president; Brenda Fairless, secretary; Glenda Edwards, reporter; and Rebecca Hobbs, vice-president.

Home Economics Club Sponsors Tea For Freshmen.

Providing for the professional development of college home economic students is the purpose of the East Carolina College Home Economics Chapter. Membership is open to any college student interested in home economics. The chapter is a college branch affiliated with the American Home Economics Association founded at Lake Placid, New York, in 1908. Advised by Mrs. Janis Shea and Dr. Vila Rosenfeld, the chapter sponsors many programs and activities to give the 106 active members an insight into the many careers one may choose.

Highlights for the 1965-66 school year include a tea for the freshman home economics majors, a fashion show, a film on careers, participation in the planning of the White Ball, and the annual banquet which is coupled with the initiation of seniors into the American Home Economics Association.

This year East Carolina was chosen as the host college for the State Workshop in the spring.

Professor B. E. Scott shows Gurney Pittman and James Smith the proper use of the lathe at an Industrial Arts Club meeting.

Any graduate or undergraduate student of East Carolina College who is majoring or minoring in Industrial Arts or in engineering is eligible for membership in the Industrial Arts Club. Under the leadership of Mr. W. R. Hoots and Mr. Wilbert Ball, the club, founded locally in 1950, strives to promote professional activities among industrial arts students, to provide fellowship and interesting activities among the members, and to emphasize the need for industrial arts in eastern North Carolina.

Among the projects of the thirty members of the Industrial Arts Club for the school year are a welcoming party for the incoming freshman industrial arts majors, the Halloween Carnival project, the nomination of a Homecoming Queen candidate, and a float in the Homecoming Parade. The Industrial Arts Club also sponsors a White Ball Queen nominee.

Industrial Arts Club members have available for them a loan fund which is supported by the IAC. The club is represented at the annual spring meeting of the North Carolina Industrial Arts Association.

Library Club Envisions Fraternity.

Officers: Pat Lurvey, president; Jean Barnes, vice-president; Mary Sue Monfalcon, secretary-treasurer; Carol Had-dock, reporter; and Billie Evans, adviser.

Encouragement of interest in the field of library science and in the East Carolina College Library is the ideal of the Library Club. Founded in the fall of 1953, the Library Club promotes fellowship among college students who have an interest in library work. Once each month members discuss library problems and matters of particular interest to librarians. Projects of the Library Club include National Book Week displays and Library Week work.

Library science majors or minors, a library assistant, or anyone seriously interested in library work is eligible for membership. The club is in the process of establishing a chapter of Alpha Beta Alpha, the national undergraduate library science fraternity.

This year the thirty-five members and their adviser, Miss Billie Faye Evans, will attend their second annual banquet.

Mathematics Club Adds Up.

Promoting the study of mathematics and closer relations among faculty and students is the objective of the Mathematics Club. Beginning the year's activities is a social for the faculty and the members. Throughout the year the club hosts various speakers from the Mathematics Department and other departments on the campus. During the Christmas season, the club collects food, clothing, and donations to help a needy family in the Greenville area.

Each of the meetings consists of two essential parts—the business session and the program, which features a speaker and entertainment. The entertainment ranges from Mathematical Password, in which a student and an instructor oppose a similar team in a manner closely resembling the television program, to games of logic, in which one attempts to solve mathematical puzzles from clues given. At a banquet climaxing the year, the incoming officers are installed; and the outstanding senior in the department is honored.

Modern Dance Club Presents Recital.

Promoting the mastery of body movements serves as the main purpose of the twenty-five members of the Modern Dance Club. Creative group activity is encouraged. The members and their director, Mrs. Josephine B. Saunders, attempt to foster an interest in modern dancing. While conditioning the body, students develop poise, grace, and agility. Any college student who has had at least one quarter of modern dancing or its equivalent is eligible for membership. Demonstrations of the techniques learned during the year are presented in recitals at the end of each year.

Exercises such as these give Judy White, Laurie Jones, and Dene King poise and grace.

Officers: Gail Padgett, president; Joyce Sigmon, vice-president; Richard Beatty, secretary; Ann Hudson, treasurer; and Mary Bright, program chairman.

Del Miltenburger looks on as Dr. Gray explains the technicalities of Interior Design.

Interior Designers Represent Profession to Public.

Design majors with at least sophomore standing are invited to join the East Carolina Student Chapter of the National Society of Interior Designers.

Aims and purposes of the professional society are to represent the interior design profession to the public and to the trades, to establish high standards of admission for participating members, and to understand interior design as a profession through association with a group of people with common interests and goals.

The national society makes available two scholarships for undergraduate and graduate students in the North Carolina region. These winners compete for other scholarships on the national level.

Twenty active members meet monthly and usually hear a guest speaker. Dr. Wellington B. Gray serves as adviser to the chapter, which was founded in 1963.

Dr. Gray expounds upon the seriousness which one must take to be dedicated to his profession.

P.E. Club Sponsors "All Sports Night."

Open to all physical education majors, the Physical Education Club promotes interest in physical education as a profession.

Principles and goals set up by the P.E. Majors Club are five-fold. It encourages students to enter the field of physical education and recreation. Students are encouraged to engage in a program of physical fitness and to become increasingly more professional. Members of the P.E. Club try to benefit the citizens of North Carolina by offering the students an organization that will enable them to do a better job in this area of education. The club offers students an opportunity to gain the latest information in their field.

Miss Nell Stallings and Dr. Tom Paul are the college advisers to the three hundred members of the Physical Education Majors Club. The Club sponsors a quarterly departmental meeting and an "All Sports Night" for all physical education majors.

East Carolina's chapter of the Physical Education Majors Club was honored this year when one of its members, Randy Fridley, was elected president of the Student Section of the North Carolina Association for Health, Education, and Recreation.

Marvin Welton wears a grin of anticipation as the Physical Education Departmental is about to begin.

Officers: Randy Fridley, treasurer; Edythe Outlaw, secretary; Dick Elmore, president; Al Edwards, vice-president; and Bob Young, program chairman.

Officers: Bruce Biggs, treasurer; Bill Pearson, vice-president; Emmett Smith, secretary; and John Bell, president.

Management Society Unites Students and Executives.

Boasting a membership of thirty-five, the Society for Advancement of Management is a recognized national professional organization of managers in industry, commerce, government, and education. It was founded locally in December, 1959.

Advised by Dr. D. Rocke and Mr. W. Hart, immediate objectives of the organization are to bring together executives in business and students preparing to go into business. Also "SAM" serves as an effective medium for the exchange and distribution of information on the problems, policies, and techniques of management and industry. "SAM" provides students with the opportunity to participate in the organizing, planning, directing, and controlling of the activities of an organization dedicated to the advancement of the art and science of management.

Eligible members must be working toward a degree and must express a sincere interest in the art and science of business and management. "SAM" bestows awards on its deserving members: the Performance Awards, Hamilton Watch Award, and the Presidential Merit Awards. The organization also publishes the S.A.M. Newsletter and the Advanced Management Journal.

Members participate in the annual alumni reception, the North Carolina District Typewriting Contest, and Homecoming festivities.

Mr. William Hart discusses the next meeting with club president, John Bell.

Sociology Club Visits E.S.P. Lab in Virginia.

Standing: Rick Haskins, secretary; and Lelia Carter, treasurer. Sitting: Linda McKinney, president; and Dale Jordan, vice-president.

Under the leadership of Dr. Blanche Watrous, the Sociology Club sponsors diversified activities. Included in this year's projects are a field trip to the Extra-Sensory Perception Center at Virginia Beach and the establishment of a Scholarship Award to be presented to the individual within the club having the highest scholastic average for the year. This award is presented at the Annual Sociology Day celebration in May.

November, 1964, marks the recent founding of the Sociology Club. The club was formed by eight students with the help of Dr. Melvin J. Williams, Director of the Sociology Department at ECC.

Members of the club may be either active or associate members. Active membership is open to sociology majors, minors, and other interested students who receive approval from the membership committee. Associate membership is open to faculty members with degrees in sociology, anthropology, or social work and to alumni, educators, professional men and women, and to community leaders interested in sociology.

Striving to promote interest in sociology, anthropology, and social services in human society through stimulating programs on topics of general concern is the main ideal of the Sociology Club.

Acting as hosts to visiting speakers in sociology and related areas, the Sociology Club provides individuals with an opportunity to become familiar with vocational interests and insight into some of the problems and experiences of sociologists.

Dr. George A. Douglas speaks to the Sociology Club on the subjects of love, courtship, and marriage.

Student North Carolina Education Association

Members crowd into the new Education-Psychology building in order to attend the S.N.C.E.A. meetings.

Aims of the Student North Carolina Education Association are three-fold: promoting pride in the teaching profession; developing leadership; and understanding the history, ethics, and programs at the state and national levels.

Membership in the Student North Carolina Education Association, which now boasts 375 members, is open to all college students who are preparing to teach. These include prospective primary, grammar, junior high school, and high school teachers.

Members of the S.N.C.E.A. attend the annual state conventions which alternate between Asheville and Raleigh. Local conventions and workshops are attended by the members during the school year and through the summer.

S.N.C.E.A. aids the Civitan Club with the selling of Claxton Fruit Cakes. The profit made from the fruit cake sale benefits retarded children in North Carolina.

At the end of each year, the S.N.C.E.A. sponsors the selection of the man and the woman "Outstanding Student Teachers." These two students are presented to teachers and other students in a special ceremony at a dinner during the state convention.

Committee Chairmen: Katherine Tyson, membership chairman; Rebecca King, pin chairman; Linda Moore, publicity chairman; and Gail Pierce, social chairman.

Student Section of the American Institute of Physics Oversees Research.

Having a genuine interest in physics regardless of one's major is the only criterion for membership in the Student Section of the American Institute of Physics. Founded only two years ago in November, 1964, the Physics Club has a membership of fifteen.

Overseeing research and fostering an interest in physics are the purposes for the organization of the Student Section of the American Institute of Physics. A journal published monthly by the parent organization is called "Physics Today." It gives all of the latest news and developments in the field of physics.

Officers: John Clement, president; Lane Hudson, vice-president; and James Blythe, secretary-treasurer.

Officers: Miss Ellen Eason, adviser; Jeanne Farabow, president; Rosemary Seymour, treasurer; Phyllis Kornegay, publicity chairman; Kit Snider, secretary; Kay Graham, recorder; and Luray Mitchel, vice-president.

Women's Recreation Association Sponsors Intramurals.

Providing women students an opportunity to participate in sports is the function of the Women's Recreation Association.

Through tournaments and intramural competition, this association encourages sportsmanship, leadership, and interest in athletics for women.

Sponsoring athletics throughout the year, the W.R.A.'s include on their schedule swim meets, tennis, volleyball, basketball, softball, archery, and badminton. They sponsor the Aquanymphs, the Modern Dance Club, a water show, and dance program.

Climaxing the W.R.A.'s year of activities is a spring banquet, when awards are presented to the winning dormitory and sorority teams. Individual awards are presented to the dormitory and sorority representatives who have been outstanding in the performance of their duties.

Women find basketball one of the most enjoyable games on the W.R.A. program.

Flight Instruction Program Enrolls Ten.

Mike Pentecost gets ready to take off in a T-33 USAF jet plane as a reward for finishing in a tie for number one in the academic standings of the FIP ground school.

One of the major components of the Air Force ROTC at East Carolina College is the Flight Instruction Program.

For the qualified senior cadet, the Flight Instruction Program offers an excellent and convenient opportunity to learn how to fly a light plane and to obtain the FAA private Pilot's License during the students' last year in AFROTC.

"FIP" as it is known, includes a comprehensive ground school in basic aero-dynamics, meteorology, navigation, and flying regulations. In addition, the student receives over thirty-six hours of flying in a Cessna 150 at the Pitt-Greenville Airport, located near the ECC campus.

The flying lessons cover basic aircraft control, cross-country navigation flights utilizing map reading and electronic navigation aids, and specialized training in aircraft control by reference to flight instruments.

This year ten of the cadets qualified to be enrolled in the Air Force ROTC Flight Instruction Program. Upon completion and receiving their commission, they will attend USAF pilot training and begin their career as a professional pilot in the United States Air Force.

Captain Kevin T. Ryan congratulates Neel Linker on the completion of his first cross-country flight.

Captain Kevin T. Ryan, Jr., Randolph Cocharan, who tied for number one academic student in the FIP ground school, and Mike Pentecost listen intently as the operation of the T-33 explained.

Dr. Horne, Captain Tadlock, Lt. Colonel Kidd, and General Andrews, socialize before dinner.

General Alexander Andrews approaches the podium to speak to the AFROTC cadets at the Dining-In.

Dining-In Highlights AFROTC Year.

AFROTC cadets held their seventh annual formal Dining-In February. The Dining-In includes a social hour, formal dinner, toasts to various head offices of the United States, and a speech by an honored guest. This year's honored guest is Brigadier General Alexander B. Andrews.

Providing a social situation in which cadets can see how ceremony and tradition play an important part in the life of an Air Force unit is the purpose of the Dining-In. It also provides an occasion where cadets and staff members can meet socially at a formal military function. The Dining-In is also used to recognize many outstanding achievements within the corps.

"Dining-In," is a very old tradition and custom in England, and is not exclusively military. It is believed that the Dining-In began as a custom in the monasteries, later it was adopted by the English Universities, and then spread to the military. The late General H. H. (Hap) Arnold probably started the Dining-In within the Army Air Corps during World War II when he organized his famous "Wing-Dings."

Indeed it can be said that the ceremony of the Dining-In has brought esprit de corps to the cadets at East Carolina College and to the honored guests.

Cadets Mumford, Jones, Shepard, Tant, and Parker appear in Mess Dress at the Seventh Annual Dining-In.

Drill Team Nets Over $2000 During Marchathon.

East Carolina College's Honor Drill Team is a select organization composed of a commander and sixteen precision drilled men who must be a member of East Carolina's Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps. The Team itself is sponsored by the Arnold Air Society.

The Honor Drill Team represents the College, the AFROTC Cadet Corps, and the United States Air Force at various functions, both on and off campus. Among the services performed for the college and community are the Drill Team's participation in the Homecoming Parade, the various Christmas parades that take place in Eastern North Carolina, and a retreat at the courthouse in Greenville each year. The biggest service offered to the college and community is the annual Marchathon staged by the Drill Team. For its long hours of "Marching so that others may walk," the Drill Team has received national recognition, and annually raises about two-thousand dollars for the March of Dimes.

The crowning point of the Drill Team's year and the event for which they work, practice, and march, is the Annual State Drill Competition. Each year East Carolina's Honor Drill Team competes with teams from North Carolina State, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Duke, and North Carolina A. and T. College in regulation drill, trick drill, and inspection. This past year the Drill Team received an invitation to the National Championship Finals at the Cherry Blossom festival in Washington, D.C.

Arnold Air Society Aids Marchathon.

Advancement of air and space citizenship is the major purpose of the Arnold Air Society. It furthers the purpose, mission, tradition, and concept of the United States Air Force in its role in national security.

Arnold Air Society was founded in 1947 at the University of Cincinnati. Founded at East Carolina in 1958, the General Chennault Squadron is one of the 170 squadrons now in existence on many campuses across the United States.

To qualify for membership, one must be enrolled in the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps at East Carolina College. He must have a "B" average in ROTC work, maintain a "C" average in all scholastic work, and complete a pledge period. The Arnold Air Society now collects dues from eighteen members.

Under the supervision of their adviser, Lieutenant Colonel Elbert L. Kidd, the General Chennault Squadron sponsors a marchathon each year for the March of Dimes and supports a needy family at Christmas time.

This year the General Chennault Squadron is honored as being the outstanding squadron in its area. This honor was won over such schools as Duke, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hills, North Carolina State, and North Carolina A. and T. College.

Angels Boost Morale Within AFROTC.

Angels pass inspection prior to weekly meeting.

Standing: Patty Larson, Executive Officer; Debby Tuttle; Sarah Frances Newman; Ann Pryor, Administrative Officer; Jane Beavers; and Sandy Cooper, Finance Officer. Seated: Mary Jane Reece, Commander.

One of 109 Angel Flights serving college campuses across the nation, the General Chennault Squadron was started in October, 1959. Angel Flight is an auxiliary branch of the Arnold Air Society and was founded nationally at the Eighth Annual Conclave of the Arnold Air Society in 1957. The Angels have three ideals. They strive to maintain high morale within the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps at East Carolina College by serving as hostesses at all official AFROTC functions; they further, through service, recognition of AFROTC by the College; and most important, acquaint members with the "Air Age" and "Air Education." Membership in the Angel Flight is open to all women with at least fifteen quarter hours and a "C" average. A young woman must, above all else, be interested in serving the community and East Carolina College. No military obligation is associated with Angel Flight. Then Angels are advised by the Professor of Air Science Lieutenant Colonel Elbert L. Kidd.

The local chapter of Angel Flight contributes towards a national scholarship and participates in many worthwhile activities on campus. Among these activities are the March of Dimes Drive for crippled children, the Military Ball, the Armed Forces Day Parade, the support of a needy family at Christmas, and various activities of Homecoming. The Angel Flight contributes many articles to the Arnold Air Society Newsletter, a magazine that gives facts and information concerning individual flights throughout the nation.

GREEKS

Social life of the sororities and fraternities on campus includes many and various events. During Greek Week in the spring the ten fraternities participate in skit night and field day. A concert in an open field ends the week. Besides the competitive spirit prevailing on the athletic field, the fraternities unite to try to further the cause of brotherhood. One of the happiest events for a fraternity is serenading the pinmate of a brother. Immediately after the serenade and pinning ceremony, the pinned brother is thrown into the fountain.

Panhellenic Council Governs

Formal Rush.

Officers: Adviser, Dean Ruth White; President, Maxine Brown; Secretary, Kathy Howette; and Treasurer, Judy Joyner.

Governing and unifying the eight social sororities on campus is the job of the Panhellenic Council. It is composed of a junior and a senior representative from each sorority and the president of a different sorority each year. Panhellenic helped this year with the campus-wide clean-up and the Viet Nam Bleeding and donated money to the United Fund and to UNICEF. Formal Rush begins with Convocation six weeks prior to Rush in early February. The prospective Greeks visit every sorority house and attend parties of the various chapters. After a week of prospecting, the chosen girls receive bids. The Panhellenic Council gives a dance at the end of rush for all the pledges and sisters. Informal rush is conducted individually by each sorority. A committee of the Panhellenic Council acts as a judiciary to try cases of sororities who have violated the Panhellenic rules. This committee is composed of Dean White, the accusing and accused sororities, and the senior Panhellenic members. Scholarship is rewarded each year by Kappa Delta sorority through the presentation of a trophy to the sorority scholastically best. The Wheel of Sisterhood is the local publication that acquaints rushees with all sororities at East Carolina.

Serving as a unifying and governing body for the fraternities, the Inter-Fraternity Council is composed of the presidents and two representatives from each fraternity on campus. This body acts as a legislative branch by determining the rules each fraternity will follow during informal and formal rush. Inter-Fraternity Council has self-imposed discipline which is carried out through a judicial branch composed of the president of each fraternity and the president of the Council. During the year the Inter-Fraternity Council has several projects which include helping the Bloodmobile and the United Fund Drive. For social entertainment, the fraternity men this year staged Winter Greeks, featuring a dance and combo. Trophies are given in the spring during Greek Week. This is a period of competition among the fraternities on the stage and on the athletic field. The Board of Trustees presents two trophies, one to the fraternity with the highest scholastic average and one to the fraternity with outstanding service. Dean Mallory gives a trophy to the best pledge class during each year. To familiarize the rushees with the fraternal system on the campus, the Inter-Fraternity Council publishes The Greek Courier.

Officers: Adviser, Dean Mallory; President, Woody Hogg; Secretary, Jim Kimsey; and Treasurer, Ricky Hale.

Fraternity presidents lead their brothers in all phases of activities.

ALPHA DELTA PI . . .

To uphold the highest ideals of Christian womanhood and to promote scholarship and good campus leadership are the purposes of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. The sisters participate in the annual Easter Seal Campaign. They give an annual Christmas party for the children of the Greenville Trainable School and for the handicapped children. This year the sorority participated in the campus-wide Bleed-In.

First place in the Alpha Xi Delta All-Sing and second place for Homecoming decorations are among the sisters' recent honors. Individual recognition given to certain sisters includes Miss Greenville and the Buccaneer Queen. To keep all chapters of Alpha Delta Phi informed of the doings of their sisters over the nation, the national office publishes three times a year the Adelphean.

Sisters of Alpha Omicron Pi pull together in this tug-o-war.

Sisters of Alpha Omicron Pi feel that individualism is a strong characteristic of their sorority. The sisters are encouraged to develop according to their abilities and to be themselves while upholding the standards set by the sorority. To carry out the purposes of the sorority, each year the sisters entertain the children helped by the Salvation Army. This year Alpha Omicron Pi was first in sorority basketball and volleyball. Its Homecoming float won first prize, and its singing in the Alpha Xi Delta All-Sing tied for first place last year. Social events each year include the Founders' Day Banquet and the Rose Ball, which is given by the sisters in honor of their winter pledge class. Stressing scholarship, the sorority gives a bracelet to the sister having the highest scholastic average for the year.

Sisters of Alpha Phi believe that friendliness is their main attribute. Exhibiting a variety of personalities, the Alpha Phis unite to accomplish mutual goals. They strive to be sincere and to show a genuine interest in other people. This philanthropic attitude is reflected in their participation in the Tag Day for the Heart Fund, the Cardiac Aid, and the Arthritis Drive. The sorority has a foster child in Viet Nam and sponsors a needy family in the community. The Alpha Phi Homecoming float won first place. Participation in intramurals has been rewarded by the Woman's Recreation Association with the presentation of the Best Participation Award.

ALPHA XI DELTA . . .

Sincerity, friendliness, and a strong desire to be an active influence for good throughout the student body are the outstanding qualities of the sisters of Alpha Xi Delta sorority. As the local philanthropy, the sisters serve each week as assistant leaders to a local Girl Scout Troop. Giving an annual Christmas party for underprivileged children and collecting for UNICEF and the American Heart Fund are other community activities. On campus Alpha Xi Delta sponsors an annual All-Sing which is open to all Greek organizations. The sisters participate in Homecoming activities, Lambda Chi Alpha Field Day, and Woman's Recreation Association intramurals. Among the membership of Alpha Xi Delta locally are nominees for Who's Who Among Students In American Universities and Colleges, student counselors, dormitory officers, college marshals, publication workers, and Summer School Queen.

KAPPA DELTA . . .

Sisters are always willing to help each other with their studies.

To promote true friendship among college girls by inculcating into their hearts and lives principles of truth, honor, and duty is the objective strived for by Kappa Delta Sorority. This purpose is exemplified by its philanthropies, which include assistance to the Greenville School for the Mentally Retarded and to the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Virginia. The Kappa Deltas have held the Alpha Omicron Pi Scholarship Trophy for the past thirteen consecutive quarters and have received the Kappa Delta National Council Scholarship Award for being the third highest chapter in the nation scholastically. The sisters of Kappa Delta participate in the Alpha Xi Delta All-Sing, Lambda Chi Alpha Field Day, and the Student Government Association Open House. As a chapter tradition, the Kappa Deltas entertain the East Carolina Varsity football team.

Tradition marks the record of Sigma Sigma Sigma. This was the first local sorority and the first to acquire a house. Tradition, however, is not the only distinguishing trait of the Sigmas. They are established on a perpetual bond of friendship and strong womanly character. Among their activities are participation in the Crippled Children's Fund Drive, Cancer Drive, Heart Fund, and the Bloodmobile. Their major philanthropy is sponsoring a children's wing at the North Carolina Memorial Hospital. Among the current honors of the sisters of Sigma Sigma Sigma are the Greek Week Queen, Azalea Princess, Lambda Chi Alpha Crescent Girl, and Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl. Vocal talent won for the Sigmas first place in the Alpha Xi Delta All-Sing.

Although Alpha Epsilon Pi is one of the smallest fraternities on the East Carolina Campus, the brotherhood is very closely knit and well-respected by other Greeks on campus. Alpha Epsilon Pi allows room for individualism and high personal and group achievement. The Epsilon Kappa chapter recently received its national charter. Recent honors include first place in the Alpha Xi Delta All-Sing. One brother is a member of the East Carolina College Bowl Squad; he is the only fraternity man on the team. Brothers of the local chapter solicit for the United Fund and donate to the Red Cross Blood Bank.

Kappa Alpha seeks to perpetuate the attributes of a gentleman and to live up to the ideals of Robert E. Lee, its founder. Along with the celebration of Lee's birthday, the Kappa Alphas carry out the Southern tradition by sponsoring their annual Old South Week-end. This celebration on the date of the South's secession from the Union prepares the proper attitude to don the traditional Confederate uniforms. Besides their social life, which included a pledge swap with sororities and a beach week-end, the KA's special plans and projects for this year included a Christmas party for underprivileged children and a project with the Salvation Army at Easter. Sponsorship of a little league football team and help with the Bloodmobile are among their community projects. The brothers of Kappa Alpha were champions in intramural basketball and the Inter-Fraternity Council track meet. They tied for first place in the Alpha Xi Delta All-Sing and received the Service Award from the East Carolina Board of Trustees.

PHI KAPPA TAU . . .

79 chapters . . . Founded at Miami University, Ohio, 1906 . . . Gamma Eta chapter established 1962.

Dave Raynor, John Aldridge, and Lindsey Gould suffer the consequences of talking to women during "Women Haters Week."

Stressing the "innate worth of the individual," Phi Kappa Tau seeks to instill in its members the value of participation in worthwhile campus activities. Brothers are active in the Student Government Association, publications, and other campus organizations. This year the Phi Taus celebrated their second annual "Woman Hater Week" when brothers and pledges were not allowed to converse with any female. Those who were caught doing so were placed in a cage on the mall and made the target of such items as eggs and shaving cream. Other annual activities include the celebration of Founder's Day and beach trips. Gamma Eta chapter again received recognition from the national office by copping the National Cooperation Award. This was a follow-up to the receipt of the National Achievement Award last year. Each year Phi Tau awards the Inter-Fraternity Council trophy to the East Carolina man with the highest scholastic average.

Brothers of Pi Kappa Phi feel that the closeness of the members in the local chapter represents the true meaning of fraternity. Displaying one of their purposes of promoting brotherhood, the Pi Kaps collected for the Arthritis Fund and sponsored a Christmas party for the underprivileged children. By having the second highest scholastic average among the Greek organizations on campus, they display their other purpose of furthering scholarship. The brothers of Pi Kappa Phi were champions in intramural football, volleyball, badminton, and bowling. Their pledge class won the scholarship trophy which Dean Malloy gives each year.

They aid in the March of Dimes and the American Cancer Society. Brothers are members of the Pirates Club. They give a scholarship each quarter to the brother with the highest scholastic average. Brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon strive to promote scholarship; to impress upon the members the true significance of the fraternal relationship; and to uphold, develop, and strengthen the character of the members. Sig Eps fulfill their civic responsibility by donating blood to the Red Cross and contributing to the United Fund, UNICEF, and the Heart Fund. At Christmas they give a party for underprivileged children. Their social life has resulted in the need for and construction of a patio outside the party room of the Sigma Phi Epsilon House. Alpha Phi Omega, the largest fraternity in the United States, is dedicated to serving that campus of which it is a part. The brothers strive to provide the college with the best possible service and to give of their time and talents to that end. Service to the campus is not their only objective. They strive to serve the community, the nation, and themselves as well. Although basically a service fraternity, they are not without entertainment. Homecoming and the White Ball provide the brothers of Alpha Phi Omega with opportunities of fine entertainment. Proceeds from the White Ball go to the Crippled Children's Organization. In all activities, the brothers strive to uphold their purposes: to assemble college men in the fellowship of the scout oath and law, to develop leadership, to promote friendliness, to provide service to humanity, and to further freedom.

Phi Beta Lambda is not a fraternity but a business service club. Open only to business majors and minors, it strives to promote a better understanding between chapter members and the business world. Phi Beta Lambda sponsors an annual candy sale. Money collected through this and other projects is channeled in various directions. The organization buys stock in the Satellite Community Corporation and gives money to a needy family at Christmas and to UNICEF. Members help in the administering of the district high school typing contest. This year the local chapter of Phi Beta Lambda has won the Southeast Membership Award at the national convention; it also has won the state parliamentary procedure contest.

Phi Epsilon Kappa is the only honorary professional physical education fraternity in the United States. Its purpose is to honor outstanding students in the areas of health, physical education, and recreation and to promote professional physical education. This year the brothers of Phi Epsilon Kappa were instructors at St. Raphael's Catholic School, and they participated in several service projects for the school and community. The fraternity presents to a deserving person in the Physical Education Department the Most Outstanding Senior Award.

Phi Omicron, an honorary fraternity for home economics majors, has a four-fold purpose: to encourage interest and scholarship in home economics; to aid in civic betterment at East Carolina; to encourage and foster high ethical standards in business and professional life; and to teach the ideal of service as the basis of all worthy enterprise through the development of personality, leadership, and poise in such a way as to lend distinction to the profession of home economics. This year the members of Phi Omicron sponsored a bake sale, and at Christmas they collected toys and games to help set up nursery schools.

PHI SIGMA TAU . . .

Students and faculty work together to promote philosophical interest and inquiry as well as academic excellence in the honorary society of Phi Sigma Tau. At weekly meetings, they informally discuss philosophical and humanistic topics. Such an intermingling of ideas and opinions broadens their views of current ideologies. Phi Sigma Tau has quarterly induction dinners, where new members read symposium-type papers that they have written on a given topic of interest. Through the national journal, Dialogue, students submit their papers for publication to other chapters of Phi Sigma Tau.

To further its purpose of promoting the mastery of written expression, encouraging worthwhile reading, and fostering a spirit of fellowship among men and women specializing in English, Sigma Tau Delta this year presented a dramatic reading of Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol. East Carolina's micron Theta Chapter of Sigma Tau Delta differs from any other fraternity here in that it is a chapter of the national honorary professional English fraternity. It is the only organization whose membership is open only to English majors and minors. The three-fold motto of Sigma Tau Delta is sincerity, truth, and design.

FINE ARTS

Composed of the East Carolina Playhouse, the Poetry Forum, and the various bands, orchestras, and choral groups, East Carolina's Fine Arts Program strives to present the students, administration, and neighboring citizens a variety of cultural entertainment. Programs include an annual Christmas concert by the orchestral and choral groups, six theatrical productions, several readings by well-known poets, and guest performances by internationally known artists.

A desire for excellence is the main objective of this program. Each year the School of Music and the Department of Drama and Speech receive more acclaim for the quality of their performances. This year the Concert Choir was selected from three hundred choirs on the East coast to participate in a special program in Columbia, South Carolina. Publications all over the country praised East Carolina's Summer Theater.

Besides offering entertainment to its followers, the Fine Arts Program offers many opportunities to its participants. From such participation one is able to expand his talents in his field of interest and, at the same time, enjoy doing so.

Duke of Buckingham is forced to his knees in obedience of the maniacal Richard.

Audience Applauds . .

Horrid nightmares, haunting apparitions, mystic fog, and clashing battles marked the East Carolina Playhouse production of Shakespeare's Richard III. Under the brilliant direction of Edgar Loessin, the cast of fifty-plus presented Shakespeare, Elizabethan style, February 10-14, 1965.

The set, designed by John Sneden, compared most favorably with the one used at Stratford. Lighting by George Schreiber completed the classical atmosphere.

Richard, the crafty hunchback, was vividly portrayed by John Sneden. The drama moved with a rapid succession of scenes filled with dynamic action. The cunning king schemed and plotted but did not live to enjoy the fruits of his conquests.

Earl of Richmond attacks and ultimately destroys Richard in the final spectacular battle which concludes the play.

The wife of the dying King Richard hears harsh words, not sympathetic ones, in audience with the plotting Richard.

Imprisoned unjustly by his evil brother, the Duke of Clarence ponders his fate.

Long before the actors begin actual rehearsals, the production staff and the director begin to plan and design the many elements that compose a unified production. Scenery and costumes are designed, changed, and designed again. The drawing board becomes an arena of busy activity . . .

Fantasy Marks Comic Opera.

Papageno encounters Monostatos in his quest to save the maiden Pamina.

Through the combined efforts of the East Carolina Playhouse and the School of Music, Mozart's "The Magic Flute" was presented April 1 and 2, 1965.

"The Magic Flute," a comic opera, employs fantastical elements such as dragons and splitting mountains. The production was staged by Douglas Ray of the Drama Department, and music was conducted by Gene Strasser of the School of Music. John Sneden, in charge of scenery, and Georg Schreiber, lighting designer, used their talents to turn the stage into a delightful fantasyland.

Tamino, the main character, is a prince who is lost in an unusually strange land. He is befriended by a birdcatcher, Papageno. Through Papageno, the prince meets the Queen of the Night. She charges Tamino to rescue her daughter, Pamina, who has been torn from her mother by her father, Sarastro.

To complicate things, Sarastro's servant, Monostatos, has decided that Pamina should be his. As in all fairy tales, a multitude of trials await Tamino as he searches for Pamina.

Pip, the cabin boy, portrayed by a girl in the "improvised" production, clutches Ahab for protection.

Moby Dick—Rehearsed by Orson Welles was given its first non-professional production in May, 1965, at McGinnis Auditorium by the East Carolina Playhouse and the School of Music. Herman Melville's Moby Dick was written into a play in such a way that the spectator could grasp the whole scope of the book and its impact and become involved with stormy seas and whales through his imagination.

Dr. Martin Mailman, composer-in-residence at East Carolina, composed the brilliant score that took the place of the "incidental music" in the original production. Dan Hogan, a professional actor and a temporary member of East Carolina's drama department, was cast as the aging Captain Ahab, deprived of a leg in a past encounter with the White Whale and now out to wreak vengeance upon him.

Executed by John Sneden, the set was an empty stage with the suggestion of a great rigged whaling vessel. Lighting was by Georg Schreiber. Edgar Loessin directed Moby Dick—Rehearsed—a fitting production to end the 1964-65 season.

Freshman Stars as "Gypsy."

Forty-five college students, school children, and adults opened the 1965-66 East Carolina College theater season with the musical Gypsy. The play, based on the life of the famous queen of burlesque, Gypsy Rose Lee, had a successful four-night run in McGinnis Auditorium October 27-30, 1965.

The East Carolina School of Music and Playhouse used for the production the book by Arthur Laurents, the music of Jule Styne, and lyrics by Stephen Sondheim. Jane Barrett, a freshman coed, starred in the title role. Clyde Hiss directed the music and Mavis Ray, the choreography. John Sneden built brilliant sets, which Georg Schreiber adroitly lighted. The whole production, directed by Ed Loessin, was done to perfection.

From an unattractive girl, ignored Louise emerges the beautiful and poised star of burlesque, Gypsy Rose Lee.

Ferdinand, miraculously saved in the destruction of his space craft, falls in love with Miranda at first sight.

By using a 17th century Shakespearean vehicle, The Tempest, the East Carolina Playhouse took its audiences into outer space December 8-11, 1965, on the stage of McGinnis Auditorium.

Playhouse Director Edgar Loessin explained, "Because the play has a rather mysterious, dreamy quality and originally takes place in a never-never land, the staff decided to change the locale from a beautiful island to a beautiful planet somewhere in outer space. Since it is a fantasy to begin with, we did it in a far-future space age." The conception seemed to work very well for the mood of the play, and the magic powers of Prospero (the leading character) were great feats of electronic spectacle. Many strange sound effects and electronic music were used.

John Sneden designed the outer space set on a specially constructed revolving stage. Georg Schreiber directed the lighting, and Mildred Lit co-ordinated the costuming.

ECC Boasts Only Symphony Orchestra in Area.

Many hours of practice precede the Symphony Orchestra's January Recital.

Composed of fifty members, the Symphony Orchestra is conducted by David Serrins. To become a member, a person must attain the highest quality performance on an orchestral instrument. Members include East Carolina students from fourteen North Carolina counties and five other states, faculty instrumentalists, and non-college musicians from the Greenville area. The performers work toward the goal of presenting the finest repertoire for the students, faculty, and Greenville community.

The only resident symphony in Eastern North Carolina, the orchestra presented works by Brahms, Handel, and Rimsky-Korsakov in its January recital in Wright Auditorium. According to Serrins, the Rimsky-Korsakov work has been termed by Tchaikovsky as "a colossal masterpiece of instrumentation." Serrins calls the Brahms symphony "one of the greatest orchestral works since Beethoven." Although it ends tragically, he says, it does so with the "greatest of nobility, tenderness, brilliance, and heroism."

Symphonic Band Tours Western Part of North Carolina.

Having a limited enrollment increased only by audition, the Symphonic Band appears in winter and spring concerts, at commencement, and at the Contemporary Music Festival.

Conducted by Herbert L. Carter, the band toured the western part of the state including Asheville and surrounding towns to entertain and to recruit prospective members. This trip was a follow-up to last year's tour through the Virginia tide-water area.

Roger Stephens was presented as vocalist at the Christmas assembly December 17. Stephens' selection was "The Christmas Song" by Torme Welles. Instrumental numbers included "Christmas Music for Winds" by Cacavas and "Sleigh Ride" by Anderson.

East Carolina's Marching Pirates traveled to Orlando, Florida, the weekend of December 11 to support the East Carolina football Pirates in the Tangerine Bowl game. Under the direction of drum major Marc Duggins, a senior from Whiteville, the 150-member band and majorettes participated in pre-game and half-time ceremonies of the post-season classic. With the group's presentation of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," the spectators honored the Marching Pirates with a standing ovation.

Overall direction of the band and its performances is the responsibility of Herbert L. Carter, director of bands; George W. Knight, Marching Pirates director; and Harold Jones, percussion specialist.

Varsity Band Renders Lawn Concerts.

Conducted by George W. Knight, Jr., the Varsity Band provides musical experience for those people at East Carolina who are freshman music majors as well as for those not majoring in music, yet having three years training in high-school bands.

Members benefit by the professional atmosphere created in such a group. Composed of seventy instrumentalists, the band presented a formal winter concert. In the spring and summer, students gathered on the mall to hear the group's informal concerts. The Varsity Band prides itself on being the only musical group on campus to provide the students with casual entertainment.

Concert Choir sings selections at the Christmas assembly in Wright Auditorium.

Fifty-one outstanding music students were selected for the Concert Choir by Director Charles Moore. The choir was invited to perform Arthur Honneger's King David in conjunction with select choirs from the University of South Carolina and the University of Georgia at the Southeastern Choral Conductors Conference in Columbia, South Carolina, in January. King David was directed by Hugh Ross, founder and director of the Schola Cantorum in New York City.

Attempting to present a great variety of music, the College Singers render madrigals, foreign and American folksongs, show tunes, sacred music of the past and present, and fine music of the modern and classic literature.

Organized in 1948 by Professor Dan Vornholt, the College Singers give East Carolina students an opportunity to study and to perform music particularly suited to the small ensemble. Mr. Vornholt carefully selects the ten singers through auditions. An accompanist is chosen because of his ability to read parts as well as to complete the ensemble. The singers annually present a Christmas Concert in Whichard Music Hall on campus.

Saint-Seans Work Highlights Chapel Choir's Program.

Directed by Dr. Carl Hjortsvang, the seventy-one member Chapel Choir serves as a laboratory for students majoring in church music and gives them an opportunity to sing in a mixed choir.

Since its organization in 1956, the Chapel Choir has presented an annual Christmas Concert. This year the group sang the Christmas Oratorio by Saint-Seans and eight other Christmas selections. The Saint-Seans work concluded the program after the choristers sang six versions of the angels' song announcing the birth of Christ and two interpretations of the Benedictus. The concert featured six student soloists: sopranos Diana Beaver and Phyllis Corbett, mezzo-soprano Gale Landis, alto Billie Combs, tenor Bob Chambers, and baritone Ben Willoughby. Organist was Claire Rosser.

Men's Glee Club welcomes alumni to the 1965 Homecoming.

Easily recognized by special blazer emblems, the thirty-eight member Men's Glee Club gives several performances each year, both on campus and in the surrounding community. This year the group, led by Mr. Clyde Hiss, was a half-time attraction at the Homecoming football game. It welcomed the spectators with "Dixie" and the "Alma-Mater."

Selections chosen by the singers for the Christmas assembly were "Break Forth, O Beautiful Light" by Bach, "March of the Kings" arranged by Bizet, and "The Boar's Head Carol" arranged by Shaw.

Club officers are Paul Pope, president; Bennie Teel, vice-president; Jim Holt, secretary; and Martin Lassiter, librarian.

Carols are presented by the Women's Glee Club at the annual Christmas assembly.

Stressing the fundamental techniques of good singing, the Women's Glee Club is open by audition to all women students. Led by Miss Beatrice Chauncey, the forty-member group presented "He is Sleeping in a Manger" by Geer and "Do You Hear What I Hear?" by Regney and Shayne at the annual Christmas assembly.

Assisting Camp LeJeune in celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the United Services Organization, the women appeared in a January concert in Jacksonville, North Carolina.

Women's Chorus Caters to Non-Music Majors.

For non-music majors interested in women's choral music, the School of Music offers the Women's Chorus. The 140-member group is directed by Miss Elspeth Foley. At twice-weekly meetings, the women sing various musical selections. Sung in three-part harmony, these selections range from the serious and sacred to those of a lighter vein. The chorus provides the women not only a chance to enjoy good music but also the opportunity to learn the techniques of proper singing.

Dr. Walter Blackstock and Mr. Vernon Ward welcome guest poet Mr. Guy Owen to the Poetry Forum.

Poetry Forum Offers Special Readings to Public.

Poetry Forum member participates in the Christmas reading.

Reading, writing, and criticizing modern poetry are encouraged by the East Carolina Poetry Forum, founded in 1959 as a local literary organization. Under the direction of Dr. Walter Blackstock and Mr. Vernon Albert Ward, a projected anthology of verse by the members is to be published in 1966. Local Habitation, a selection of original poems by Pat and Tolson Willis and Sanford Peele (original founders of the Poetry Forum) is already available to the public.

Among the projects of the group are special readings featuring guest poets. This year the forum presented in a public Christmas reading the North Carolina State University novelist-poet Guy Owen, the editor of the new Southern Poetry Review. Mr. Owen joined several members as readers on the program.

Top ballet, poetic, piano, and chamber music presentations were scheduled at East Carolina College for the 1965-66 Fine Arts Series.

Pianist Jorge Bolet opened the series in Wright auditorium October 14. The Cuban-American pianist, internationally known as the leading interpreter of Franz Liszt, has been placed "among the present-day giants of the keyboard" by the Boston Globe. In addition to his presentation of works by Liszt, Bolet played selections from Beethoven, Brahms, Chopin, and Prokofieff.

Directed by Arnold Spohr, the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, a company of thirty dancers and their symphonic accompaniment, appeared November 9. Currently in its twenty-sixth season, the Winnipeg dancers compose one of North America's oldest ballet companies, Canada's first, and the first in the entire British Commonwealth to be honored by Queen Elizabeth's regal title, granted in 1953.

Often called "the best in chamber music," the New York Woodwind Quintet was presented in concert January 19. This group was one of few invited to appear at the American Pavilion at the Brussels World's Fair in 1958. During the summer of 1962, the group embarked on a highly praised tour of eleven countries in the Orient. The New York Woodwind Quintet is now in the process of recording its entire repertoire.

Carolyn Kizer, editor of Poetry Northwest, read several of her poetic works at the Winter English Departmental meeting. Her appearance here was sponsored by the North Carolina Poetry Circuit. This poetry circuit is composed of nine colleges and universities in North Carolina. Miss Kizer is associated with the University of Washington in Seattle, Washington.

In preparation for roles as officers in the United States Air Force, many male students take part in the Air Force Reserve Officers Training program offered at the college. This year an effective two-year course of study has been added to enable men to enroll in the corps their junior year. Dialogue teaching through classroom instruction is being stressed in addition to actual drill work. While preparing for a military career, the cadets participate in parades and in the annual drive for the March of Dimes. Last year, seventy-five per cent of the money which Pitt County Memorial Hospital received was obtained by the ROTC. Social functions include a "Dining-In" and the Military Ball when the cadets crown their Military Ball Queen.

In addition to obtaining a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree in Commercial Art, Painting, Sculpturing, Ceramics, Print Making, Interior Design, and Art Education, the art student may now acquire a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree in Product Design. Matching the expansion of curricula is the addition of five new art studios on the third floor of Rawl Building, new photographic equipment for sculpturing, and a new press for graphics. Special projects and events are sponsored by the School of Art which this year has published a pictorial brochure concerning the school. The School of Art has been selected to act as host for the North Carolina Art Education Association's annual meeting. Original works by seniors and by professional artists are exhibited weekly in the gallery on the third floor of Rawl Building.

DR. ROBERT WILLIAMS, Dean

Encompassing thirteen departments, the School of Arts and Sciences is the largest school at East Carolina College. Included are Drama and Speech, English, Foreign Languages, Geography and Geology, Health and Physical Education, History, Mathematics, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Natural Sciences, and Sociology. Created two years ago, the school serves to coordinate these departments, and it is an administrative hub between the departments. The school strives to maintain high scholastic standards in each department and to obtain the highest caliber of professors available.

Building a mountain out of modeling clay takes the touch of an artist. John Sneden has that touch, as is evidenced by his scenery for the productions of the Drama Department.

Develops and Utilizes Student Talent.

By maintaining an informal but disciplined creative atmosphere, the Speech and Drama Department seeks to develop student talent. For the first time, the department is offering a minor in dance and a minor in broadcasting. A new costume department and additional shop equipment aid the department in sponsoring major productions. Drama students get an insight into every aspect of production: staging their own plays, directing, working with costumes and scenery, and acting.

Spanish Institute Brings Visitors From

Perhaps the most international and cosmopolitan group on campus is the faculty of the Department of Foreign Languages. New courses have recently been added to meet the standards of the National Defense Education Act, and a number of advanced courses have split to accommodate the increasing number of majors. Although the department is housed principally in Graham Building, more than one-third of the classes convene in other buildings on campus. The department is looking forward to the construction of a new building that will include several language laboratories. During the summer of 1965, a National Defense Education Act Spanish Institute attracted to the campus people from fifteen states. Panel discussions and numerous speakers provided entertainment and instruction for the attending language majors.

In addition to the United States Army Map Service, the Department of Geography and Geology is now an official depository for the United States Geological Survey. Along with a change in name, many advancements have been made in the department. Introductory geography is being offered each quarter on closed circuit television. The curriculum emphasizes physical geography, economic geography, cartography, and the field of planning. A recent acquisition is a map enlarger and reducer. Several new courses have been added to the curriculum, but the greatest expansion has been in the field of geology. Now a minor in this field may be earned. Again this year the department is sponsoring a travel study tour to the Southern United States and Mexico. The trip is a credit course open to all students.

Department of Health and Physical Education Establishes Screening Program.

Social dancing classes give students a chance to get acquainted and to learn the basic fundamentals of dancing.

To attract and hold superior students, the Department of Health and Physical Education has established a rigorous program to screen all those desiring a major in Physical Education. A satisfactory fitness rating, a good attitude toward Physical Education, and progress in mastering selected physical skills are a few of the requirements. New facilities in the men's physical education building will be completed in the spring of 1967. Providing participation without compulsion in a free, largely uninhibited atmosphere, many of the department's activities are of a voluntary nature. Physical Education majors tend to develop not only physically but also mentally and emotionally.

Publications in History, by the history faculty, this year reached the second volume of the series. Growth of the College and of the student body has resulted in expansion of the facilities and curriculum of the History Department. New Austin Building is the home of the department which has increased its offerings in the areas of Ancient, Medieval, and Modern European History. The department sponsors the East Carolina Manuscript Collection. This year brought the first meeting of the East Carolina Symposium in History and Social Studies. In order to keep up with developments in their field, the faculty members conduct regular seminars during which they read papers on research which they have done. During the summer of 1965, the department sponsored the National Defense Education Act History Institute and the Asian Studies Institute.

Enlarged course offerings at the graduate level and service courses for the pre-service and in-service teachers at the elementary and secondary levels have been added to the curriculum of the Mathematics Department. Several proposals for grants for these courses will be submitted to the National Science Foundation and to the Office of Education. Close relationship among students and instructors results from the relatively small size of the Philosophy Department. Highly subjective subject matter attracts students interested in abstract thinking. Institutes on Constitutional Democracy and Totalitarianism bring hundreds of secondary school teachers to the campus during the summer. Preparing high school social studies teachers to present an effective comparison of the Soviet Bloc and the free world, this program has received national recognition and serves as a pattern in other states. Summer, 1965, brought the approval of a new graduate degree; and it was offered for the first time in the fall. Standing between departments too small to employ specialists in all fields and those emphasizing graduate studies, the Political Science Department offers a liberal arts major and minor and a teacher-training minor.

Mrs. Howell explains the rapid growth in population.

Studies with the Regional Development Center and in Community Action Projects provide opportunities for qualified students in sociology to gain first-hand experience in agency and settings. Six new courses have been added this year, and a Master's Degree is being proposed in the near future. One of the faculty members has done anthropological research on the cultures of Japan and Hawaii. To increase insight into modern living, the department sponsors lectures in anthropology and sociology. The Sociology Club provides opportunities for students and faculty to associate, to interchange ideas and to promote interest in sociology, anthropology, and social service.

As a result of the extension of the curriculum in accounting, economics, business administration, and teacher education, the School of Business now occupies the south wing of Rawl on the first and second floors. The installation of a completely electronic secretarial science laboratory has led to new courses in electronic data processing. For the first time, an Executive Training Seminar, conducted by prominent businessmen, is available. The main project of the new Bureau of Business Research is the publication of research bulletins. Professional organizations such as Delta Sigma Pi and Pi Omega Pi are open to students majoring in business.

With the aid of a grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity, the Home Economics Department is working on a Home Management Institute. A new major program, Institution Management, has been added to the curriculum. A Day Care Training Program is also underway. Open to majors in this department is membership in the American Home Economics Association; and qualified upperclassmen are invited to become members of Phi Omicron, the honorary Home Economics Fraternity. Identified by their white uniforms, girls in Home Economics are taught fundamental ideas about nutrition, home management, family living, and clothing design and construction. Bloxton House is the laboratory where girls must be able to function before they complete the requirements for their major. At the house the girls live, cook, and manage affairs of the home under actual conditions to be found in their future homes.

Action by the Board of Trustees has given the former Industrial Arts Department a new name, the Department of Industrial and Technical Education. This new name more accurately describes a program which has been broadened to prepare graduates for industrial non-teaching degrees as well as teaching degrees. The new program will give industry majors a balanced grouping of courses selected to give general education, grounding in mathematics and the physical sciences, understanding of industrial processes through laboratory experiences, and understanding of the problems facing industrial management.

Offering one of the three National League for Nursing accredited baccalaureate programs in North Carolina, the School of Nursing is the oldest school on campus. Graduates from this school are qualified for the licensing examinations to become registered nurses. In addition to regular services, the school co-sponsors with the Pitt County Unit of the American Cancer Society a Cancer Care Nursing Conference for the eastern half of North Carolina. Construction has begun on a new building for the School of Nursing. Matching funds for this building are being provided through a grant from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Physics, Chemistry, Biology, and Science Education comprise the Division of Natural Science. The Physics Department is equipping a nuclear physics laboratory for the use of students and faculty. This department along with the Biology Department is planning a new building to be constructed this summer. Emphasis on marine biology has increased with the addition of three marine biologists to the staff of the Biology Department. The Chemistry Department now offers a Bachelor of Science Degree. Eventual accreditation by the American Chemistry Society is its objective. To achieve this goal, the department is gradually improving laboratory and library facilities, increasing the staff, and offering additional courses. The Science Education Department places its efforts on science for teachers, especially elementary grade teachers.

Dr. Jenkins effects the expansion of the Cherry Point Center.

Reaching non-resident students equal in number to that of the campus student body, the Extension Division of East Carolina College serves to carry the academic beam to students who cannot attend classes on the campus. Through its branches that reach from Raleigh to Manteo and from Elizabeth City to Wilmington, the Extension Division allows many people who would not otherwise be able to do so to begin or to continue their college education. Members of the military service are offered two-year programs at Cherry Point, Camp Lejeune, and Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base. As well as the full-credit courses, the division makes available non-credit courses to business, industrial, and public school groups. This year Manteo received the services of the Extension Division which began teaching freshman courses to residents of the outer banks and the coastal region.

From the Editor:

Night falls on the campus of East Carolina College, and on the horizon a star appears and replaces the light of the sun. Similarly, the 1966 Buccaneer reaches the completion of its history; but the campus whose image it reflects continues to thrive and to radiate its educative light. Emitting its rays of academic, cultural, social, and physical enrichment, the college has become the focal point of Eastern North Carolina. It has come to resemble a polaris of education.

As the college influences the surrounding area, so have many persons contributed to the completion of the 1966 Buccaneer. Mr. Lee Blackwell and Mr. A. F. Smith have shared their professional know-how in the fields of publishing and photography respectively. Joe Brannon, the campus photographer, has spent endless hours racing to meet appointments and developing prints in his laboratory. Mr. Homer Ball has done outstanding work with the color pictures. Mrs. Mary Sorensen, the literary adviser, has counseled the staff in the writing of copy. Each member of the yearbook staff, especially the business manager, Jimmy Young, has given much time and effort toward making the 1966 Buccaneer a book to more than justify its purpose. Invaluable morale has been provided by the editor's parents and by her roommate, Ina Faye Ipock. To each of these persons, the editor expresses much appreciation. She is indebted to Dr. James Tucker and the Publications Board for affording her this great opportunity and challenge. The editor hopes that through the contents of this record of the school year, students will realize more fully the tremendous impact of this institution upon their lives and upon the life of the entire area.
