HE DIDN'T CO.

Why the Young Man from Tennessee Didn't Suit.

The other day the train slowed up at a little backwoods' station in Arkansas, and a foppish-looking young man, with a few white bristles on his upper lip, and a know-it-all appearance, stepped off onto the platform. He set his valise down on the platform, stuck his hands into his pockets, and stood whistling, as if waiting for something to turn up. Pretty soon a townsman came along, and the young man addressed him: "Hello, old man, I'm from east Tennessee, and I came down here to teach the school in Panther Creek district. You look a shade smarter'n the common run of fools; maybe you can tell me how to get to Panther Creek. But I'm devilish hungry, and want to find a hotel first. Can I?" The native looked him over for half a minute, then said: "Ef you want to find a hotel, I can't say 'I have any objections." "Oh, you old blockhead! I want you to tell me where to find a hotel."

PRIZES ON PATENTS.

HOW TO GET TWENTY-FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS FOR NOTHING.

The Winner has a Clear Gift of a Small Fortune, and the Losers Have Patents that may Bring Them in Still More. Would you like to make twenty-five hundred dollars? If you would, read carefully what follows, and you may see a way to do it. The Press Claims Company devotes much attention to patents. It has handled thousands of applicants for inventions, but it would like to handle thousands more. There is plenty of inventive talent at large in this country, needing nothing but encouragement to produce practical results. That encouragement the Press Claims Company proposes to give. A patent strikes some people as an appallingly formidable thing. The idea is that an inventor must be a natural genius, like Edison or Bell; that he must devote years to delving in complicated mechanical problems and that he must spend a fortune on delicate experiments before he can get a new device to a patentable degree of perfection. This delusion the company desires to dispel. It desires to get into the head of the public a clear comprehension of the fact that it is not the great, complex, and expensive inventions that bring the best returns to their authors, but the little simple and cheap ones—the things that seem so absurdly trivial that the average citizen would feel somewhat ashamed of bringing them to the attention of the Patent Office. Edison says that the profits he has received from the patents on all his marvelous inventions have not been sufficient to pay the cost of his experiments. But the man who conceived the idea of fastening a bit of rubber cord to a child's ball, so that it would come back to the hand when thrown, made a fortune out of his scheme. The modern sewing-machine is a miracle of integrity—the product of the toil of hundreds of busy brains that seem so absurdly trivial that the average citizen would feel somewhat ashamed of bringing them to the attention of the Patent Office.

A New York Girl's Experience with the Telephone.

She Unconsciously Entertains the Wrong Young Man—An Amazing Mistake for Which She Blames "Central"—How Her Will Saved Her. She lives in a suburban town not fifty miles from New York, studies anatomy and practices on two law students. They are devoted to her as well as to law. And she? Well, she is one of those girls whose feelings are hard to get at. We all know them. Communications in the nature of a duct take place by telephone from two legal quarters of the town to an old colonial mansion on the west hill. The other night she called up, as she supposed, one of the youths, Mr. K—, and by an agency which she now considers as unheavenly as its origin got the other, Mr. M—. Unaware of the undesired connection at the other end of the line, she entered upon an engaging conversation. The bracketed remarks are the youth's. "Hello!" "Hello!" "I'm sorry I cannot see you tonight. I have promised to go to a concert with Mr. M—. I cannot get out of it."

NOT WHAT SHE MEANT.

A certain well-known writer is a great stickler for terms in defining professions. "I am a literary woman," she announces, "not a journalist." Though she carefully abstains from any slur on the profession of journalism, she evidently feels it to be "a notch below" her own chosen plane. When the "census man," as the landlady characterized him, came to the boarding house where Miss D— lived, he asked the usual questions in regard to the inmates. "I am so sorry to disturb you," grumbled the cook. "He never had to work over a stove, or he would have known how it ought to have been fixed." "Hang such a collar button!" growls the man who is late for breakfast. "If I were in the business I'd make buttons that would not slip out, or break off, or gorge out the back of my neck."

PURIFYING FILTHY WATER.

The filthy water of the River Neches is purified for use in Antwerp by being passed through revolving cylinders containing small pieces of iron. Fifteen pounds of metallic iron will purify one million gallons of water. The water thus treated is said to be completely freed from germs, bacteria and other objectionable matters. English and French chemists find that the contact with iron reduces the organic matter by from forty-five to eighty-five per cent, and albuminoid ammonia by from fifty to ninety per cent, and all free ammonia is removed. The process has been applied with success to the water of the Delaware river in Pennsylvania. It is simple and cheap. From all of which it may be inferred that the passage of drinking water through iron pipes does not injure it.

Wilma's Review: A cabbage weighing nearly 14 pounds, was brought to town yesterday by Mr. S. J. Jones, who raised it on his truck farm near the city. He has several more nearly as large. Oxford Ledger: The jailer and his assistant, both negroes, in Vance county, have come to grief. Last week in the Superior court, Judge Shuford presiding, W. H. Lewis was tried for allowing prisoners to escape and fined $30 and costs. The assistant was put behind the jail bars for nine months.

Weldon News: There is a cat in town which had a genuine case of mumps last week. This member of the feline race was in the habit of sleeping on the foot of the bed where the children of a family were sick with mumps. To the surprise of every one the cat's jaws commenced to swell and it refused to eat.

Charlotte Observer: There is a lonesome rooster that runs on the back lot opposite the cotton platform, who has only one consort and she is now engaged in incubating. It was very amusing to see this rooster scratching for a gang of English sparrows yesterday. He is evidently afraid of getting his hand out—or rather his claw—during the hen's absence. The sparrows seem to know they've got a soft snap.

Raleigh Chronicle: Duncan Kerr was plowing last week on the Barbee place, in Cedar Fork township, when the horse turned upon him in an apparently fearful rage and seizing his right arm above the elbow, bit him terribly. The horse then ran some distance with his teeth firmly imbedded in Kerr's arm and it took three men to choke the animal off, and when his hold was broken there he seized his arm again below the elbow. Physicians think the arm will eventually have to come off.

Curious Rock Formation Found in Arizona. One of the most curious rock formations in the world is to be seen in Arizona. It is a short distance east of the stage road between Tucson and Oracle, and stands on a knoll several feet above the surrounding sandhills. When first seen the effect is startling, and the mind has to get over a shock before the peculiar object can be comprehended. It is a most perfect representation of a camel and is formed of one piece of granite. This curiosity is of colossal size, but perfectly proportioned. It is about sixty feet high, and is very white and smooth. There are very few fissures on the surface, and they, strangely, are in the proper place to form features. The only real projection from the surface is exactly placed for an eyebrow. The two humps are plainly to be seen, and the neck is curved beautifully. The strangest part of it is that it looks like a camel from all sides, and at all times of the day or night. There is no disguising the resemblance.—Philadelphia Record.

Crop Exhausted. Potato shipments are light now and the crop is nearly all sold. Prices have upon the whole been satisfactory and most of the planters are pleased with the result. This section goes more largely into trucking every year and is making a success of it. The Station Continues. The Railroad Commission refused to grant the request of the W & W Railroad to close the depot at House and no longer keep an agency there. The scholarship of the institution is being recognized everywhere as equal to that of the leading Universities, and soon we shall have in North Carolina the great Southern University. See advertisement.

Large Potatoes.

The finest potatoes we have seen were left at the REFLECTOR office, Saturday, by Mr. F. Fleming. Three potatoes weighed 2 1/2 pounds. Mr. Fleming made an unusually fine crop this season. Eschert J. A. K. Tucker also had some very fine specimens here a few days ago and the REFLECTOR had a dinner out of them.

At Morehead.

Reports coming up from Morehead indicate that this is the merriest of seasons down there. The Teachers' Assembly is in full blast, the attendance is large, and everybody there is having a good time. Manager Perry is giving the highest satisfaction at the Atlantic, furnishing his guests the best fare to be had from sea and land, while the music (Heard's Orchestra from Augusta) is just charming.

About Tobacco.

Next week in the REFLECTOR tobacco department Mr. Joyner will begin a series of letters upon tobacco. "From the Plant Bed to the Warehouse Floor." These letters will contain just the information about cultivating, curing, handling and selling the weed that every tobacco planter should know. Every one not already subscribing to the REFLECTOR should begin taking it now.

Mayor's Court.

The following cases were disposed of by Mayor J. L. Fleming: J. A. Sutton, intoxication, fined $1 and cost. Peter Clark, riotous and disorderly conduct, fined $1 and cost. Jno. Curtis, Alfred Hite and John Wooten, riotous and disorderly conduct. Curtis fined $1 and cost; Hite $1 and cost; Wooten $2 and cost. John Wooten, riotous and disorderly conduct, fined $1 and cost.

Street Improvements.

The REFLECTOR did not have to wait long for some of the things it wished for in last issue. During the last week the Street Committee have done some excellent work on the streets and are pushing it forward. They started a force of hands on Evans street and followed that street through Forboston, doing some of the best work ever put on it. This week other streets are being worked and the improvement will be carried all over town. The people will thank the Councilmen for this.

Prof. Duckett Goes to Lumberton.

A letter from Prof. John Duckett, of Hamilton, brings the information that he has been elected superintendent of the Robeson Institute at Lumberton, and he will take charge at the beginning of fall session. A few years ago a man named Melke died and left a large sum to establish a school in Lumberton, and a handsome brick building has been erected for this purpose. The trustees made a good choice when they elected Prof. Duckett as superintendent of their school. His many friends here wish him success in his new field.

Johnsons Mills Items.

A very heavy rain fell here last Friday. The truckers continue to ship potatoes. Misses Lizzie and Mary May left last Thursday for Trenton where they will spend some time with relatives. Mr. W. C. Mewborn made a business trip to Newbern last week. Misses Sallie Dixon and Clara Fields returned home last Saturday. We were sorry to learn of the death of little Lewis, youngest son of Mr. J. P. Quinley. He had been sick only one week. Mr. F. C. Harding, of Greenville, is visiting Mrs. Mary Harding of this place. UNCLE PETER. Just before the last piece Mr. Zeno Moore announced that at the beginning of the term a prize had been offered for the best attendance, which was awarded to little Miss Della Forbes for having made the best record, and he then presented her the prize, a Bible, in a few appropriate words.

"Feather Plant."

Mr. T. A. Nichols brought the REFLECTOR something Saturday, the like of which we have not seen before. It was a lot of feathers curled and woven together until a lump about the size and shape of a bisent was formed. He said that in changing the feathers of a bolster that had been in use quite a number of years, his wife found more than twenty of these clusters, which she named "feather plants." In tearing open some of them a small lump about the size of a cotton seed was found in the center. This must have been some kind of insect that caused the feathers to curl around it.

A Fine Farm.

It was our good fortune, a few days ago, to visit the farm of Mr. H. F. Keel, about three miles from town, and enjoy the hospitality of his home. As we entered his front gate he met us and invited us in. After cooling off he took us to his apple and plum orchard, where our eyes grew as large as saucers and how we did devour that fruit, the largest plums we ever saw and apples, oh, my! He then took us to his peach orchard and our eyes came very near popping out at the sight we beheld. We did ample justice to the delicious fruit and then we took a stroll over the farm to look at the growing crops. At first he took us to where he had his Irish potatoes and he said he was satisfied with the proceeds. We viewed his cotton crop and he has a good stand that will yield a good average. Then we went to his pride crop—tobacco. It was in first-class condition and looking fine. He was about through topping it. Mr. John Jenkins, his next door neighbor, has some that is just lovely. The two crops of tobacco are the equal, if not the best in the county. He carried us over to the watermelon patch and we looked on in anticipation of what was to come in the near future. He had some large ones, and expects to have a few ripe by the 4th of July. We took particular pains to ask Mr. Keel to tell us about what time they would commence to ripen good. "We are going to eat some ob dose watermelons shures yo'born." He has a good crop of oats and will cut them this week. They are of an even height and look grand swaying to and fro with the gentle winds. His stand of corn is good and the yield will satisfy him. His whole crop is good. We then went to his mineral spring and had a refreshing draught of the splendid water that bubbles and boils up from the ground. Upon taking our departure he loaded us down with plums, peaches and apples and bade us call again, for which he has the hearty thanks of Coot and Billie.

The State Fair.

We have received from the Secretary H. W. Ayer, a copy of the premium list for the State Fair of 1893. It is a more artistic publication than ever before, being embellished with handsome illustrations of North Carolina scenery, agricultural and fishing industries, etc. The list has been thoroughly revised, especially in the departments in which ladies are interested, and the premiums are very liberal. The usual star premium of Fifty Dollars in gold is offered for the best exhibit made by a lady resident of the State, with a second premium of Twenty Dollars. There is also a premium of Fifty Dollars for the best display of any kind in the Main Exhibit building. Fruit growers, and Poultry fanciers, as well as others, will find the list for this year very interesting. Anybody can get copies by applying to H. W. Ayer, Raleigh, N. C.

Death from Lock-Jaw.

About two weeks ago Mr. Robert Greener, Sr., of this town, stuck a nail in his foot. The wound, while painful, did not cause him very much inconvenience, and he thought it was healing nicely. When he arose Monday morning of last week he went to yawn and was surprised to find the muscles of his jaw so contracted that he could scarcely move them. These symptoms grew worse, and on Tuesday he was confined to his room with a severe case of lock-jaw. He suffered intensely for three days and died Thursday night at 9 o'clock. His remains were interred Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Episcopal cemetery, services being conducted in the church and at the grave by Rev. Alban Greaves. The pallbearers were Messrs. B. C. Pearce, W. H. Smith, O. Cuthrell, F. G. James, J. S. Smith and O. Hooker. Mr. Greener leaves a widow, four sons and two daughters. Tarboro Female Academy. The annual commencement of this popular institution was an enjoyable occasion. On Thursday morning at 11 o'clock the graduating exercises were held in the auditorium. A large audience had assembled and was well pleased with the essays and sonatas of the young ladies. The graduates were Misses Cloman, G. Cloman, Martha Felton, Daisy Gillespie and Lulu Warren. The diplomas were presented by Rev. J. N. H. Summerell, and the prayer was made by Rev. D. H. Tuttle. The exercises closed with a chant by the class. On Thursday evening the concert was given; the music was classical, yet beautiful. The pantomime, by the desolate class, was a dream of beauty and grace. The recitations elicited continuous applause, and the vocal music showed fine training. The three Misses Coleman and Miss Felton won the four-year medals; which were offered to the girls who had not been absent a day nor tardy at any duty for four years. The other medalists were Misses Gillespie, Warren, Peacock, Mercer, Smith, N. Felton and Smithwick. On Friday evening the Art Reception was held at the Battle place by Miss Rouse and her art pupils. Many beautiful specimens were tastefully exhibited. R.

Miss White's School.

Miss Hattie White has been teaching at Forbes' school house, about three miles above Greenville. Her school closed last Thursday night with a very pleasant little entertainment. To obtain the benefit of a piano and other conveniences the exercises were held at the residence of Mrs. M. V. Forbes. Quite a crowd was present when the exercises began at 8:30, and by 10:30 they had witnessed a handsome little programme that reflected credit on both teacher and pupils. The pieces were well chosen and most excellently rendered.

TOBACCO DEPARTMENT

LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

An editor's work is a thankless task.

The Western Tobacco Journal of Cincinnati Ohio, is the most replete, with news from all quarters affecting the trade, of any journal that comes to our desk.

We understand that the lumber has been ordered for the prize houses that the Greenville warehouse company are going to build. It is high time that work should begin on these houses in order to have them ready at the opening of the season.

Last Friday we traveled through the county in the wind and rain to Mr. J. B. Latham's, formerly of this county now near Whitakers in Edgecombe county. Crops on the way are looking fairly well with considerable decreased tobacco acreage in Edgecombe.

If there are any farmers who have not employed curers for the coming season will let us know it we will endeavor to refer them to good men as we have letters from numbers of men asking us to secure them a place. We want to say however that we will recommend no one but will simply furnish the address of the applicant when desired. Otherwise it might terminate like the Eastern Pride seed and we be blamed for low prices in the fall.

THE CROP OUTLOOK.

Reports from many quarters show a diversity of opinions in regard to the growing crop of tobacco. Some have splendid crops while others are not so good. In some sections the cut worms so nearly destroyed the first setting that naturally it makes an uneven and irregular stand. The wet weather too has made tobacco grow up spindling and this of course detracts from the general appearance of the crop outlook however, it is the opinion of many of considerable experience that the present condition of crops is an improvement over last year.

Had the recent rains that we have had come along in the last of July and first of August, the tobacco crop here would have been an almost absolute failure because at this time tobacco is in its last stages of development and the rainy weather instead of growing it so rapidly and causing it to button a little prematurely would have given it the frog eye and rendered it almost useless except for scrap. In 1891 this was the case as most of the farmers know. The rains came regularly all through the growing season and just as the curing time commenced protracted heavy rains set in and numbers of farmers lost nearly all of their crop.

The damage that crops have sustained from rainy weather at present is only temporary and if from now on we have reasonable weather there is no visible reason why a fairly good crop cannot be saved. There is no cause for alarm and to those who are frightened because their tobacco is buttoning we will say go out and count the leaves and you will find from 14 to 20 to the stalk which is a plenty for average land and besides if it looks spindling remember there is plenty of time for it to thoroughly develop.

ORIGIN OF THE EASTERN PRIDE

Since the rainy weather commenced three or four weeks ago I have heard of considerable complaint among the farmers who planted what is known as the Eastern Pride tobacco. I am told that this tobacco is buttoning out more generously than any other kind of tobacco and that Mr. Moye said that it was an inferior kind of tobacco and lots of other such talk. Now as I am the author of the name of this tobacco and circulated the seed probably more than any one else, I deem it my duty in justice to myself to state the fact concerning the tobacco, where and how I came to get it. Last summer I went to Mr. D. M. Edwards' to see his crop of tobacco, and after showing me a 12 acre field of very fine tobacco indeed he said now I have a piece that beats anything you have seen yet and I want you to see that. So we walked across the road and into the piece that he referred to and it was decidedly the best piece of tobacco that I had ever seen. It would have averaged 5 feet high and the leaves were completely lapped in the middles between the rows. Mr. Edwards will bear me out in this statement I expressed myself that I had never seen anything to beat it in my life and asked him what kind of tobacco it was. He said that he had never heard any name for it but thought it was what was known as the Couch tobacco. I was impressed that as it was such firm tobacco and without a name that I would buy some of the seed from Mr. Edwards, name it myself and give it to the farmers. So I told him that I would give him twenty-five cents a hill for twenty-five hills if he would sell the seed for me. He said that he would do it and told me that the only objection in the world that he had to it was that it would not make quite as much to the acre as the Hester but that its great advantage was that it could be cured as white as you wanted it and that if it was on strong or well manured land he thought just about as much could be made to the acre as any other kind of tobacco and here I want to say that numbers to whom I gave these seed remember my calling their attention to the fact that it should be planted on well manured land.

Mr. Edwards saved and delivered the seed to me and for them I paid him six dollars and twenty-five cents. Now doesn't any reasonable thinking man know that Mr. Edwards would not have taken my money and given me an inferior tobacco without telling me what it was. So far as this is concerned however Mr. Moye's card in last week's issue fully explains and as he says the rainy weather has caused all kinds of tobacco to run up. Mr. Thomas Smith, who lives on the north side of the river says that he is planting two kinds, the Eastern Pride and another and that he can't tell any difference in the looks of the two kinds except the leaves of the Eastern Pride are longer.

I am informed also that a man living near Mr. Edwards says that the seed were saved from succors and that the plant never grew over twelve or fifteen inches high before it buttoned out. This gentleman is planting some of this kind of tobacco but I want to say that he did not get the seed from me, he obtained them from Mr. Edwards himself and the idea that I should pay twenty-five cents a plant for the seed of a succor to give to the farmers of my native county whose tobacco I want to sell is so erroneous that I decline to make any reply whatever to the statement.

In conclusion I want to submit to the people this fact. I have more depending on the success of the Greenville tobacco market than any twenty men in the county and ever since I have been connected with the market have done everything in my feeble way to increase and promote the tobacco interest of Pitt county and I don't believe there are many people in Pitt county that will try to hold me responsible for the recent rainy weather that has caused all kinds of tobacco to run up spindling to a greater or less degree because this tobacco, owing to the greater length of its leaves, looks probably worse than the other kinds.

However, should this tobacco turn out to be no better than other kinds don't think that I would pay $6.25 for the seed and $5.00 for the packages just to have the pleasure of giving them away. I had a half bushel that I raised myself that I could have given away at considerable less expense. My object was to improve the quality of Eastern North Carolina tobacco but if in this one instance, if I have erred I believe the reasonable thinking people will charge it as a mistake not as an intention on my part.

Several Comparisons.
"Money is like women in one respect," said Mr. Darley to his wife. "That's so," replied she. "It's a good thing to have about the house." "That wasn't the resemblance I had in mind," Mr. Darley went on. "I suppose not."
"No; money is like women because money talks."
"Well, money has some well-known masculine characteristics," Mr. Darley retorted. "It gets tight. More than that, it requires the same remedy as its human exemplar in that case."
"And what is that?"
"The gold cure,"—Puck.

Vegetation in the Northwest.
It is not land vegetation merely that is large in the northwest, but the plant life of the sea. Among the shoals of the British Columbia coast the algae and kelp, which on the Atlantic side of the continent seldom grow to be more than six feet long, are found thirty feet in length, and at the obb and flow of the tide their long, leathery leaves are often seen in parallels along the surface, like exaggerated lily pads.

Horse Sense.
Plain boss sense'll pull yer through
When there's nothin' else'll do
You may still be poor and needy
With yer head a cyclopedy
An' 'er boots, no they say,
Sometimes eat one meal a day.
Plain boss sense'll pull yer through
When there's nothin' else'll do.

There are big men I expect
'Till they get to the shore an' stand
On the dry and solid land—
Plain boss sense might pull 'em through
When philosophy would fail.

With boss sense you'll never fall
If you haven't been to Yale,
Don't be scared, but use yer head,
Not some other man's instead;
Don't lay up there on the shelf,
Walk about an' trust yerself:
Plain boss sense'll pull yer through,
When there's nothin' else'll do.

FOR THE WOMEN.

Some Interesting Information for the Home Makers.

If You Contemplate Visiting the World's Fair Arrange to Leave the Babies at Home—Reading an Invalid.

I cannot stop until I have said a word for my personal and intimate friends, the babies! If there is any possible way of leaving them at home safely and comfortably, don't bring them to Chicago, says a lady writer in Harper's Bazar, when speaking of a trip to the world's fair. Think of the long, hot, cramped-up car rides! Think of the utter impossibility of properly prepared food, if the child is weaned. Not long ago, on an eastern-bound train, there chanced to be as passengers on one of the sleeping cars a young father, a younger mother, and a baby so very much younger than both that it made one think of a poor little newly-hatched canary. The mother and father were very proud and fond of the baby, and kept dancing it and talking to it and feeding it all the time, and it bore the constant and unremitting attention bravely and silently for hours; but as the day grew late it gave out all at once, and began to yell—it did not cry at all—and kept on yelling until the men and women making up the car's company were in open revolt, and the tired parents drooped under the withering remarks and scornful glances cast in their direction as they in turn churned the baby until their arms gave out. It chanced that among the passengers there was a woman who was proficient in the "Agoo" tongue, and her heart was touched as she translated the following: "Oh! oh! oh! How my stomach aches! And my poor head is shaking off my shoulders! I want to go to sleep, and I can't. Oh! oh! oh!"

And this woman went over and took the baby out of its tired mother's arms, and she gave it some colicynth pellets, and it liked them. And she cuddled the baby close and warm, as only a mother can cuddle such a tiny, restless thing, and she soothed it with the whispered sweet nothings that babies love, until the little head began to nod, and the fringed curtains closed over the tired blue eyes, and the tired mite was fast asleep on her shoulder. Didn't that woman receive an ovation!

Good Things to Eat.

Bread Crumbs.—Save all pieces of dry bread. Soak in hot water until soft. Then work up fine with the hand and add to your pancake batter. It makes them very tender and nice.

Scalloped Cod.—Butter an earthenware pudding-dish, and place in it neat flakes of the cold fish with one of the gelatine that is left; line the bottom of the dish, and then pour over it any of the sauce or melted butter you may have. Sprinkle with salt, a very little red pepper, and a pinch of mace; place alternate layers of fish and sauce until the dish is full. Cover the top with fine bread crumbs, put bits of butter over the top and bake for twenty minutes.

Pork or Veal Salad.—Chop the meat fine, add an equal amount of celery cut fine and mix. Veal may be prepared in the same way. A dressing for these is made as follows: To half cup vinegar add one teaspoonful each of salt, sugar and mustard, half teaspoonful of pepper and a tablespoonful of butter. Beat an egg well and stir it with the other ingredients over the fire until quite thick.

Pleasing an Invalid.

"It is difficult to tell from outward conditions," says a constant visitor of the sick and suffering, "just what will bring most pleasure to an invalid. I took jelly, fruit and wine to a destitute consumptive, whose appetite needed encouraging, without provoking a grateful smile. But when I followed a chance confession that she was fond of flowers with a bunch of white hyacinths her face glowed with happiness. I tried the flowers on a cultured, well-to-do blind woman of my acquaintance. She scarcely noticed them, but the dainties that the ignorant girl had refused the lady fell upon with the voracity of a wolf."

This philanthropist neglected to take into consideration in her work that all-important factor in the relief of suffering—what part decay has preyed upon. In the case of the consumptive, disease had consumed the vital nature past desire to the greater quickening of the spiritual. On the other hand, the blind woman's appetite was stimulated to abnormal activity by the infirmity that shut her off from the sights which promote the soul's growth.

The colored man had been taken in the midst of the chicken yard at dead of night, and the next morning he appeared before the throne of justice.

"Will you explain," said the judge, "why you were in the chicken yard last night?"

The colored man drew himself up with dignity.

Royalty's Small Allowance.

Countess Caroline von Schimon, of Austria, has asked the New York courts for a decree of limited divorce from her husband, Baron Hugo M. S. von Kiechler-Schwandorf, alleging that he does not support her in a style suitable to her station and rank. The baron acknowledges the truth of this charge, but informs the court that his failure to support the "Hochgeborene Frau Baronin" in the style befitting her rank and station is due not so much to his own will in the matter as to circumstances over which he has no control, as he establishes to the satisfaction of the court that his salary as one of the employees of the Puck newspaper is only eleven dollars per week. He submits that it would require financing beyond his natural capacities to support the countess in a manner befitting her rank and station on a weekly salary of eleven dollars. The baron claims to belong to a collateral branch of the Austrian royal family. —Illustrated American.

Objects of Special Interest.

Secretary and Mrs. Gresham are, next to the president and his wife, objects of especial interest among the official society of Washington. The secretary is a handsome, broad-shouldered, soldierly man with thick, gray hair, eyebrows and beard, and not exactly finical as to his outward appearance. He is an expert fisherman, has a fondness for farming and, as to his religion, his friends say that he inherits it from his mother and preserves it through his wife. Mrs. Gresham is a slender, delicate woman of Scotch-Irish descent, with bright eyes, a low, sweet voice and excellent conversational powers. She is, unfortunately, an invalid, and not able, even if she desired, to become a social leader. A son, Mr. Otto Gresham, a good-looking young man of scholarly tastes, and a married daughter, Mrs. W. H. Andrews, live with their parents. —N. Y. Ledger.
