BETTER CROPS FOR OLD PITT Editor Reflector. I have read with interest the recent contributions to your columns regarding the fine crop certain farmers in Farmville township have this year and also the note coming through Sheriff Dudley of the thousand acres in corn he thinks the yield will average fifteen barrels to the acre.

I believe in farming, and rejoice with the farmers when a bountiful yield comes to reward his labor. It is more than anything to contemplate the great agricultural progress Pitt County has made in the last few years.

WHAT DR. MOSELEY THINKS OF THE HOSPITAL MOVEMENT

Dr. H. P. Moseley, of Farmville, N. C., has a letter in this issue endorsing the construction and maintenance of a hospital by the County.

It is saturated with a quiet confidence that goes with knowledge; with patriotism that can flourish only in the heart of a humanitarian. It is progressive, glorying in what has been accomplished and enthusiastic in the desire to accomplish more. He shows that the fingers of human betterment have found the strings of his soul, and their touch has brought forth the music of co-operation and selflessness. It gives a tribute to the accomplishment of modern methods in stamping out disease that shows a knowledge of preventive medicine rarely possessed by one of his peers.

His plea for the school child—PARKYBOY'S CHILD—shows that he is not only a heart, but a head that has gained broad information and gives thought to methods that will check what our leading economists believe to be civilizations' greatest waste. He looks upon pauperism as a disease, he is right, it is a disease, and the only cure for it is diligent practice of preventive medicine which makes the child's body self-sufficiently strong to be trained in soul and mind to a realization of the aspirations, ambitions and ideals which lift men above criminality and pauperism.

Education, religion and modern medicine are the blessed trinity that make the child what he is. Education cannot help the "grown-ups" their time for it has passed, their dependence is law, religion and modern medicine. Religion has for many centuries, but modern medicine is WITHOUT PLACE.

The doctor may be ever so skilled, but he cannot fight disease single-handed overnight. There are many cases, that in order to cure, the doctor must have the aid of trained nurses, hospital appliances, and hospital regime. Without these, no matter how proficient the doctor may be, he is helpless as handicapped as the gardener without a garden.

BRYAN'S PEACE FACTS

In view of the present prospects of a widespread war in Europe it is interesting and profitable to note that nations big and little have shown marked interest in and approval of Secretary Bryan's world-peace plan. It was fashionable among his critics to sneer at Mr. Bryan's peace treaties when he initiated the series by signing one with humble Salvador. But with characteristic optimism and faith, he kept right on, and signed a treaty whenever a government anywhere no matter what its size, would agree that it was a good thing. There are now a score of treaties in the group awaiting ratification. They include Salvador, Guatemala, Panama, Honduras, Nicaragua, Uruguay, Netherlands, Bolivia, Portugal, Persia, Denmark, Switzerland, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Venezuela, Peru, Norway and Italy. The text of the treaty with France has been agreed upon and also the one with Great Britain, which is being submitted to the various colonies. China has announced that she will sign a treaty similar to the ones with France and Great Britain. Mr. Bryan is at work upon the treaties with Brazil, Argentina and Chile.

The present war cloud in Europe should prove a great accelerator for the Bryan plan of universal peace. The countries whose dogs of war are now straining at their leashes would be devoutly thankful if all European powers had subscribed to similar agreements among themselves. For the Bryan peace treaty does not provide for the arbitration of anything. It merely binds the contracting powers to refer to a commission of investigation of a period of one year any question threatening war which has not yielded to ordinary diplomatic treatment and which does not involve the national honor. It provides a "breathing spell" and compels a pause while facts are established before nations can rush into hostilities. Such a series of treaties among European nations would assuredly avert the international warfare that now threatens.

Mr. Bryan is deserving of its highest commendation and thanks for what he has already achieved in his peace treaties. So distinguished an authority as John Bassett Moore says they are an advance over anything before them. Those pending should be quickly ratified by the United States Senate as an example set by this great country for the rest of the world to follow.

TWO OTHER ENDORSEMENTS FOR COUNTY HOSPITAL

Dr. C. O. Griffin, of Bethel, N. C., had a letter to the Commissioners in Saturday's issue that is very striking.

All three of these Senators jumped away from their party during the legislation on the tariff bill, doing their best to embarrass the President until the final vote came, when as a matter of political prescience, they swung back into line. The three Senators again stood together during the enactment of the currency law, and their touch has brought forth the music of co-operation and selflessness. It gives a tribute to the accomplishment of modern methods in stamping out disease that shows a knowledge of preventive medicine rarely possessed by one of his peers.

His plea for the school child—PARKYBOY'S CHILD—shows that he is not only a heart, but a head that has gained broad information and gives thought to methods that will check what our leading economists believe to be civilizations' greatest waste. He looks upon pauperism as a disease, he is right, it is a disease, and the only cure for it is diligent practice of preventive medicine which makes the child's body self-sufficiently strong to be trained in soul and mind to a realization of the aspirations, ambitions and ideals which lift men above criminality and pauperism.

Education, religion and modern medicine are the blessed trinity that make the child what he is. Education cannot help the "grown-ups" their time for it has passed, their dependence is law, religion and modern medicine. Religion has for many centuries, but modern medicine is WITHOUT PLACE.

The doctor may be ever so skilled, but he cannot fight disease single-handed overnight. There are many cases, that in order to cure, the doctor must have the aid of trained nurses, hospital appliances, and hospital regime. Without these, no matter how proficient the doctor may be, he is helpless as handicapped as the gardener without a garden.

Attention is called to a letter from Dr. William Cobb Whitfield, R. F. D. 1, Griffith, urging the county to build and maintain a county hospital.

Dr. Whitfield has been practicing medicine for a great many years. He knows the conditions of Pitt County's people, especially the country population. He has the interest of the old school, Dr. Sam Morrill, who spent many years not only ministering to the sick in and around Farmville, but lending a hand to everything that was worthy. Dr. Jenness is a worthy son of a worthy sire; clean, capable and so necessary to Falkland's surrounding country that Falkland would not be Falkland without him. It can be said without fear of contradiction that no man ever lived in Pitt Co., My whose efforts in his own immediate community were more successful in materializing blessings that make for progress, idealism and better living.

the average man's condition that makes a county or a country?

Nobody can properly object to any member of Congress heaving his own conscience and judgment in his course upon public questions. In fact a little stronger and more frequent exercise of both conscience and judgment would be a pleasing innovation. But when a trio of Senators professing allegiance to the Democratic party have made themselves conspicuous in their persistent opposition to the important policies and purposes of the Administration from the date of its beginning, there is strong ground for the suspicion that something less admirable than either conscience or judgment dictates that opposition. In short, the dicta of Senator O'Gorman, Reed and Hitchcock warrants the belief that he is stoutly seeking for personal reasons, to hamper and discredit President Wilson, with little care or regard for the effect of their actions upon the welfare of the Democratic party or the best interests of the government.

Notice has just been received by postmasters throughout the country of increased pay for rural mail carriers, the increase being based on a sliding scale determined by the length of the route and the quantity of mail handled. No increase is more than $100 a year, and the range is from this figure down to $4. Only one of the six carriers going out from Greenville is affected by the increase and but $16 a year is added to his pay check. Dispatches sent out from Washington City to the newspapers had led the carriers to believe they would each receive an increase of $100 per year.

The closing of stock exchanges in this country because of the war aspect in Europe, shows that all the world is so closely allied that the influence of war in one section reaches to all others.

More disheartening news for the calamity howlers. The corn crop which the government has estimated at 2,500,000,000 bushels, may possibly exceed 2,900,000,000 bushels.

Of course William Barnes is a wicked boss now, though during the seven years he held office under and took orders from the Colonel he was a "billy" fellow, like Penrose and Cannon were until Roosevelt could no longer use them.

The war in which practically all of Europe seems likely to engage offers no pleasing prospect for the Southern portion of the United States. There is great fear that it will practically ruin prices of our staple crops, especially cotton and tobacco. Unfortunately the South does not raise all of her needed food supplies, and if these have to be purchased at high war prices, while cotton and tobacco bring only depressed prices, the expected profits on this year's good crops will be turned into great financial loss.

The official opening of the Panama canal is set for March, 1915, but the great ditch will be actually open for commerce vessels not needing more than 30 feet of water, on and after the 15th of this month. There will be no ostentatious or extensive ceremony about this opening. On the date mentioned Colonel Goethals will inaugurate the commercial services by sending a government boat through the canal. Modest as it is intended to be, however, the actual though not formal opening of the canal will be a most important event which the whole world will watch with interest.

The Rambler
This is an age of publicity—paying publicity. Publicity that does not pay is a painful waste.
This is an age of bigger business—the merchants who do not sell more merchandise in 1914 than in 1913 need to be seriously thought of.
If the total sales are not at least ten per cent over last year, somebody is in blame and naturally the blame is on the merchant—and ten per cent is a minimum—the gain should be bigger and could be bigger.
This is no time to rent a store room, buy a stock and wait expectantly for people to come and ask you to please sell them something. That time has passed. This is the age when the real live merchant secures a suitable building, selects a suitable stock and goes out after customers and literally makes them buy.

The great step in selling merchandise is publicity—or to speak plainly—advertising. Advertising is a science—not haphazard. Much money spent in advertising is thrown away. That is a fact.
Real advertising arrests and holds progressively applied.
Real advertising arrests and holds attention.
Real advertising awakens and increases interest.
Real advertising appeals, more than possessed money appeals, to the motive of personal gratification.
Real advertising will develop an over-mastering desire.
Real advertising should and will create a compelling appetite.
Real advertising will precipitate appetite into action.
Real advertising will always, not sometimes, but always represent bona fide values.

Letters from Dr. Moseley and Dr. Hyatt
Farmville, N. C.
July 26th, 1914.

Honorable Board of County Commissioners, Greenville, Pitt County, N. C.
I am heartily in favor of the movement for the erection and maintenance of a Pitt County hospital as provided for by our recent North Carolina legislative body. I think, however, that such an institution should be built as conveniently as possible in its depts of Greenville in order that it may be more accessible to get patients to and from.
Yours very truly,
H. P. MOSELEY, M. D.

Dr. Hyatt's Letter.
Kinston, N. C.
Aug. 2nd, 1914.
Editor Reflector:
Much to my regret I saw in Friday's paper that Dr. C. M. Jones was opposed to a public hospital for Pitt County.
When our last legislature passed the Town Hospital Law under which any county can issue bonds, build and run a public hospital for the benefit of all the people to which each physician will have access, we remarked to a friend in Greenville, that Pitt County would be the first County in North Carolina to build a public hospital and that Lenoir would be next.

When Dr. Laughinghouse suggested that to distant county could be well cared for in a small annex to a public hospital it looked to me as the saying goes he "struck the nail on the head."

I am sending you under separate cover a report of The Jefferson County Hospital of Fairfield, Iowa on page 15 you will see that for their first 15 months they received 322 patients. Their expenses amounted to $1,282.64. Hospital earnings during the time, $1,244.67. Making the County hospital cost Jefferson County the very commencement only 1,148.99 for 15 months or a fraction over 76.00 per month.

Jefferson County with a population of 17,000 did this. Pitt County with her 40,000 can do much better, we are confident Pitt County men with their usual good sense can take care of their entire pauper list out of the hospital's earnings.
The time is now when public hospitals are as much a necessity as court houses and public school houses. The county could, but should not make any more than running expenses on a hospital in this way they can give their citizens as good service as can be given elsewhere at actual cost. This movement for Public Hospital which is going to spread all over North Carolina with Pitt County in the lead is one of the manifestations of the world's movement for social betterment.
We know you are going to get the hospital.
Yours truly
H. O. HYATT

Delays are Dangerous Writes Dr. Whitfield and Urges the Board to Erect Hospital at Greenville
Central Location
Griffon, N. C., R. F. D. 1.
July 28th, 1914.

To The Honorable Board of Commissioners of Pitt County.
Gentlemen:
It has been carefully figured out and successfully shown that a small tax of four cents on the hundred dollars worth of property (just forty cents on the thousand) listed in Pitt County would build and equip a first class hospital; and I am writing to respectfully urge you to at once take up this matter, and establish at our county seat a county hospital.

A number of years ago a medical friend in charge of a nearby county home invited me to accompany him on his rounds, and to consultation of some of the cases of the inmates.
We found quite a number of patients who had for years been greatly afflicted, and on account of this were unable to work, so had to be supported by the county. Several were cripples, unable to even dress themselves, and had for years been in bedridden, and had for years been in this terrible condition. It made me heart sick to see so many people suffering who would be speedily relieved if they could only have the proper treatment and nursing that a good hospital affords. These poor creatures seemed doomed to a life of misery and pauperism with no relief in sight.

I called the Physician's attention to the need of a County Hospital, and now that County has one of the best in the State, and by this means the burden of disease and affliction has been lifted from those poor people and they are now able to make a good living for themselves. Instead of being a burden to the taxpayers of the County, they are now independent, and by honest labor are accumulating property and paying taxes to the County.
Can we, as citizens of the great County of Pitt afford to longer neglect our duty to our destitute neighbors, who perhaps by no fault of their own have fallen into a state of affliction that will not respond to any treatment save that obtained in a good hospital.

The saying "delays are dangerous," is especially true in cases of accident and other emergencies, and occasionally some valuable life is lost that might be saved if the patient could be placed in some near hospital.
The lapse of time and fatigue of a long journey in order to reach a hospital has often in the end caused the loss of a valuable life.
Greenville is so situated that a County Hospital located there could be easily reached from any part of Pitt County, either by train or ambulance, and many good pay-patients would be treated there, thus avoiding dangerous delays in long and expensive trips by railroad and boat line to distant city hospitals. In this way our hospital would be made partly, if not wholly, self-sustaining.

GIVE US A COUNTY HOSPITAL WHERE EVERY CITIZEN OF THE COUNTY CAN GO, SELECT HIS OWN PHYSICIAN, AND IF ABLE TO DO SO, PAY A REASONABLE FEE.
Very respectfully,
Wm. COBB WHITFIELD, M. D.

HER MANY CONQUESTS

By CLARA MORTON.
The little stenographer stood at the door, looking dubiously at the descending elevator. Then, with a deep sigh and a solemn expression, she turned and pushed open the little gate.

"I've tried to be nice," she said reluctantly. "But I didn't try to be especially nice, I know I didn't. I don't believe I was more than just natural! Do I have to turn into a perfect sphinx—or into a prim old maid, to be comfortable?"

"You've got me," admitted the bookkeeper. "Now, if you'll just give me, say, three clues—or maybe a good hint, I'll see if I can guess, that is, if it's a riddle." He waited impatiently. "Honestly—I'm serious!" insisted the little stenographer. "I may have to quit if it gets worse, though I don't know how it could!"

She seemed very woe-begone. "What's really up?" asked the bookkeeper sympathetically. "Is it wrong to smile—at towel boys and elevator men and window cleaners and janitors and painters?" "—and even me—singer be—" The question sent— an impetuous exclamation. "Not if you like to!" declared the bookkeeper, judiciously. "Well, the towel boy one day he asked me what my first name was. And was hurt because I wouldn't tell! And the sheet of all, the messenger boy, the one that I always wanted to call, and the one that I thought was about fourteen, he took hold of my hand with the message the other day and wouldn't let go. Oh, it was dread—though I'd never said anything to him, but good morning or some such thing."

"Ah—an I just—awfully attractive—when you don't know me very well!" she inquired seriously of the bookkeeper, her brow wrinkled in perplexity. "I tell you—it's that plaid skirt!" he exclaimed, turning wondering eyes upon the broad lace and stripes. "It's a perfect magnet for eyes. But who's been troubling you?" He frowned with an effect of extreme ferocity. "No, it's not that. They can admire my skirt all they want, if they'd only be still about it! But it's lots different from that!" She sank dismally into her chair and rocked back and forth, deriving comfort from the squeaks it emitted.

"I've tried to be nice," she said reluctantly. "But I didn't try to be especially nice, I know I didn't. I don't believe I was more than just natural! Do I have to turn into a perfect sphinx—or into a prim old maid, to be comfortable?"

A. C. REALTY COMPANY'S BIG CONVENTION

Premier Auction Company of This City in Annual Meet

AT OCEAN VIEW, VIRGINIA

July 31st and August 1, Closed Saturday Night With About Forty Members At the Banquet Board.

The Atlantic Coast Realty Co. whose home office is in our city held their annual convention at Ocean View, Va., July 31st and August 1st.

It was the great occasion of the year for the officers and employees of the company where some forty people of this Premier Auction Co. met together at Ocean View Hotel.

The territory for this business is so large and the employees so numerous that many of the men do not meet except at the annual convention. A successful auction sale of lots was held in Norfolk Va., July 30th, and finally to see the premier auction company of North Carolina sell lots at the rate of a lot a minute.

Friday morning and afternoon were devoted to speeches and addresses by officers of the company and heads of the various departments. The morning and afternoon sessions on Saturday were devoted to talks and discussions by the various members of the company. The convention was brought to a close after a sumptuous banquet at Ocean View Hotel Saturday night.

The menu cards for the banquet were something new and original being on blue prints showing a plan of city blocks and lots with all the streets and avenues named after officers and members of the company. Numerous jokes on the different men were also worked up on the menu and the general President of the Realty Co., J. W. Perrell, acting as toast master, demanded from each in humorous style a full explanation of why their names appeared on the menu.

The dining room was last fully decorated for the occasion and a large lunner sixteen feet long informed all visitors to Ocean View Hotel that the Atlantic Coast Realty Co. of Greenville, N. C., were holding their annual convention.

The party returned to Greenville Sunday morning all well pleased with Ocean View and enthusiastic for their next auction sale.

Mrs. L. W. Lawrence Passed Quietly Away at Her Home Sunday Morning

A sweet spirit passed from earth to her heavenly home in the death of Mrs. Annie Lawrence, wife of Mr. L. W. Lawrence, which occurred at 7 o'clock Sunday morning. Mrs. Lawrence was 67 years of age, and for a long time had been frail, being practically bed-ridden for the last few years. She bore her sufferings with patience and christian resignation, always showing a cheerful and happy disposition. She was a member of the Baptist church, and as long as her health would permit, filled the years with deeds of kindness and service to others. She was married in June, 1889, her husband and four children surviving her. The latter are Mr. Louis L. and Misses Annie, Nellie and Mattie Lawrence. She also leaves one brother, Dr. W. T. Paul, of Witt, and one sister, Mrs. Jennie Griffin, of Aurora.

The funeral service was conducted at M. Rock, assisted by Revs. J. M. Daniel and A. G. Harris, the interment being in Cherry Hill cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. A. H. Taft, J. G. Mays, J. C. Tyson, Z. P. Yanovsky, D. L. James, B. B. Kirtland, W. A. Bowen, D. J. Whitehead.

says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 15 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill."

ENJOYABLE MOONLIGHT SAIL DOWN TAR RIVER

One of the season's most enjoyable events was the moonlight sail down Tar river Monday night, given by the young men of the town complimentary to Misses Esther Hurley of Mt. Gilead, N. C., and Marie Godfrey of Jonesboro, N. C., house guest of the Misses Thomas on Dickinson avenue.

The "Annie J." one of the nicest and most comfortable boats on the river, left the dock at nine o'clock for Strawberry landing with a merry crowd aboard.

After an hour's sailing the landing was reached and the party went ashore. A bonfire was built, lunch was served, and refreshments served. Altogether the crowd was a most congenial and merry one, every member of the party seemed to thoroughly enjoy the time spent on the landing.

The entire party joined in songs, jokes, and merry laughter on the return trip.

The fortunate ones were Misses Esther Hurley, Gretchen Parker, Lucy Outbridge, Nell and Ada Thomas, Marie Godfrey, Marie Rice, Elizabeth Quinley, and Messrs. Earl Carter, Willis Wilson, Clifton Edwards, David Moore, Herbert Johnson, Paul McGuire, Ficklin Arthur, William Bagwell and Mr. and Mrs. Knott.

PHONE 32 GREENVILLE NORTH CAROLINA

In a Letter to the Commissioners Endorsing the Movement for County Hospital in Lieu of County Home.

Bethel North Carolina. July 25th, 1914.

To The Hon. Board of Commissioners, Greenville, Pitt Co., N. C. Gentlemen:

Please allow me to express to your board my hearty support and endorsement of the movement which has been inaugurated to establish a County Hospital in lieu of a County Home.

I am a young man, and have only resided in this County for three years, but in that short time the people and the traditions of Pitt have become very dear to me. I have looked with pride and pleasure on the rapid strides she has made, even in so short a time.

The increased opportunity of educational advancement, the magnificent public buildings she has erected, the miles and miles of good roads she has built, her rapid growth in population and material prosperity. These things have made me proud of my County and the reliable conservatism of men who have directed us along these lines of advancement.

Have we not, however, neglected the question of our Public Health? That issue which is of paramount importance to us all.

Modern methods of sanitation and preventive medicine have put it within our reach to practically wipe out the contagious and infectious diseases that yearly cost us the County thousands of dollars in money and untold values in human life.

With a County Hospital and a Whole Time Health Officer these things are entirely within our reach. Malaria, typhoid fever can be absolutely prevented. Other infectious and contagious diseases can be reduced to a minimum. School children can be examined and minor defects corrected so that they may be able to grasp the opportunity which birth environment entitles them to.

Shall we, then, with this splendid opportunity before us to bring the health and happiness of our County up to the standard of perfection, shall we, I ask, neglect this great opportunity, in order to provide a palace for three or four indigents? Please do not think that I am desiring that the County shirk any of her responsibilities.

On the contrary, the Paupers who DO NOT BELONG TO STATE INSTITUTIONS would be so few in number that they could be cared for at the Hospital with the addition of very, very little expense.

Poverty and Pauperism are a disgrace. Shall we encourage thriftlessness and treat the results of our carelessness in regard to the Public Health; or shall we raise the standards of our physical well being so that we will be able, in a large measure, to prevent vagabondism and vagrancy? This is the question that is before you.

I trust, Gentlemen, that you may not consider me too presumptuous in thus expressing my views. I believe in American Citizenship and I know that you, Gentlemen, desire to do that which is to be for the "greatest good of the greatest number," and whatever your decision in this matter may be I shall remain.

Loyalty,
C. O. GRIFFIN, M. D.

CONGRESSMAN SMALL WRITES OF CONDITIONS OF CONDITIONS
Existing in North Carolina Brought About by the War
REPLYS TO A RECENT LETTER WRITES DR. JAS. G. GREENE

Addressed Him From J. E. Smith & Bro. of Ayden. Regarding the Depressed Market for Farm Products.

Washington, D. C. August 8, 1914. Messrs. J. E. Smith & Brother, Ayden, N. C. Gentlemen—

Replying to your recent letter regarding the depressed market for farm products, particularly cotton and tobacco, and the relation of this condition to other activities, particularly merchants and bankers I have received a number of letters similar to yours.

I will discuss briefly the situation particularly as it affects the Eastern section of North Carolina. The farmers, merchants and the bankers have become acutely concerned. In an agricultural section like East Carolina, the prices of farm products vitally affect all our people. It may be said in the first place that the stability of the market and the prices of cotton and tobacco are fixed in the world's market, because the volume of production exceeds the domestic consumption. The general European War has for the time being demoralized industrial and commercial conditions in Great Britain and the Continent of Europe, and therefore these two staple products are first affected.

Having ascertained the cause we may discuss the remedy. The cotton and tobacco market must be sustained by two factors, the foreign demand and the means of transportation. The demand will not become normal until peace is restored, but there are contingencies which will in part insure the demand even during the continuance of the War. If the Navy of Great Britain shall be able to establish this country as the mistress of the Seas so as to make safe the sailing of her merchant ships between American and English ports, we may expect her mills and factories to resume operations and probably upon an enlarged scale. We manufacturers about one-half of our cotton in the United States and Canada, and Great Britain consumes about one-half of our exports. Under these conditions the producers by cooperation with the bankers ought to be able to maintain their normal prices for cotton. It may be stated in this connection that the belief prevails that this European conflict will be comparatively brief. The number of lives engaged and the appalling loss of life and property which must ensue, will hasten mediation and peace. Even while hostilities continue it is not probable there will be any reduction in the price of foodstuffs and other like necessary commodities.

Over-sea transportation is also a vital factor in our foreign commerce. Unfortunately about 90 per cent. of our foreign trade is carried in foreign ships. This fact is deplorable, and
