HER REFRAIN.

BY DOYLE O'REILLY.

"Do you love me?" she said when the skies were blue.

And we walked where the stream thro' the branches glistened;

And I told and retold her my love was true.

While she listened and smiled and smiled and listened.

"Do you love me?" she whispered when days were dear.

And her eyes searching mine with a patient yearning.

And I kissed her, renewing words so dear.

While she listened and smiled as if I slowly learned.

"Do you love me?" she asked when we sat at rest.

By the stream enshaded with annum glory;

ABUSES ON THE ELEVATED—THE NEW DELMONICO—A BABY HIPPOPOTAMUS.

(Regular Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 18th, 1890.

A movement has been on foot for a long time past for the purpose of reforming the abuses on the elevated railroads, which have become so great as to be almost unendurable. The essence of the trouble lies in overcrowding and lack of accommodation, which cause in their turn slow time and vexations of various kinds. In the morning all the down-going trains are full; and in the evening the up-town trains are packed before they start. No one is liable to get a seat going up in the busy hours of the evening unless he gets it at the start; and then he is virtually called upon a dozen times to give it up or act the part of an ungallant. Nowadays he chooses the latter and allows the women or old men to stand or hustle for seats themselves. The slow time made by the elevated in these days of steam and electricity is simply outrageous.
Nine or ten miles an hour is fast time and twelve miles is most remarkable. Add to these inconveniences, the dingy old cars, the cinders and the noise and you have an idea of what the New York traveling public suffer. The Sun has taken up the subject and is giving it a good airing. If the people will only act a little, instead of grumbling, great good will result.

A PALATIAL RESTAURANT.

Work on Dolmonico's new building, corner of Beaver and South William streets, has been going on for a long time and will soon be finished. It stands on the site of the original Dolmonico; so well known to all old time New Yorkers, and when completed will be a magnificent place to take a meal; and a grand down-town resort for bankers, merchants and brokers. Don't imagine that the uptown establishment is to be abandoned, for in spite of its many latter end elegant rivals, it is perhaps as flourishing now as ever.
If any change should be made at all it would perhaps be in the nature of a movement further up town. It has already moved from 14th street to 23rd, and if fashion demands it, it would probably jump to 59th. All this does not prevent the building of a palatial down-town establishment at Beaver street. It is a remarkable fact that while New York is every year stretching further and further to the North, its old buildings downtown are being constantly replaced by new and more substantial ones.

A REMARKABLE INFANT.

The Central Park menagerie has just acquired another interesting attraction, this time in the form of a baby hippopotamus. It is only a week old as yet; but is a healthy specimen of its kind and gives every promise of becoming in time a robust and full grown "river horse." This is the second hippopotamus born in this country and the only one living born in captivity. The little fellow's brother, born last December, died soon after from starvation—it would not take its nourishment in the natural way. The new one, on the contrary, takes its meals once every two hours, spending six or seven minutes each time. Its mother, who rejoices in the Hibernian cognomen of Miss

Murphy; has not named the youngster, but it is hoped she will do so soon. The little one's color is a whitish brown; much lighter than its parents. It weighs 80 pounds, is three feet long; while its mother is nine feet long and weighs a ton.

Nobody is allowed to see it yet, except keeper Dewey. If things are favorable the public will be admitted to see it this week.

The Jailer of Alleghany County

A friend of the Salem Press, who was lately at Sparta, Alleghany county, says that while there he visited the jail and found it empty.
The jailer after showing him around, introduced his family, among whom were two bright-faced children, a girl and a boy. The boy was named after Gov. Seales, and the father remarked that the Governor was the best friend he ever had, explaining to the surprise of the guest that he had pardoned him from the penitentiary, where he had been sentenced for 20 years for manslaughter, after a service of 5 years and 7 months, and exhibited his highly-prized pardon. The most interesting part of the story is that Mrs. Holloway, the jailer's wife, was also in the penitentiary for one year for alleged assistance in the escape of some prisoners in Swain county. She met Mr. Holloway in the penitentiary and it was a case of love at first sight, and as soon as released they were married.

He follows the trade of a shoe maker, which he learned in the penitentiary. Since his pardon Mr.
Holloway has held the offices of constable and United States marshal and is now the jailer of Alleghany county, respected by all who know him.

She Couldn't Stare It.

A Henderson girl's principle and pluck was exhibited last week in no unmistakable manner. Miss Annie H. Young left here two weeks ago for Trenton, N. J., for the purpose of teaching. After passing a most credible examination before the State Normal School was assigned a position. Upon entering her class room, she was shocked to find her pupils were a mixture of whites and blacks. Her exit and resignation were made instant. She left at once for Stuart, Va., where she has a pleasant and honorable position.
We are proud of her independence and pluck, and hope her example will be followed by other Southern girls.
Her conduct will be honored by every Southerner.—Ez.

An Able Teacher.

Concord Standard.

We have heard of leather headed school teachers, but we have just come in contact with one who caps the climax of anything that we have ever heard of from that honorable profession. This man hired a darkey to cut some wood for him. As usual the darkey cut the wood too long, and the school teacher had him to cut it shorter. He told the darkey how much to cut off of both ends and the darkey asked to be allowed to cut only one end. The able and learned scholar commanded him to do as he was told, and insisted that the wood was as much too long at one end as the other.

The clerk said nothing, but soon produced some flowers which were distinctly marked with eyes, nose and mouth, like a monkey's face, and said:

This is the variety you want.

Yes; make a boutonhole bouquet.
Yes, sir.

How much? I asked the customer when the bouquet was ready.

Nothing.

What? I've never got anything here under a dollar before.

It's all right, protested the clerk, with a weary look; the shock is worth the flowers.

The new (Webster's) international Dictionary, just published by Messrs. G. & C. Merriman & Co., is an enlarged and improved edition of the "Unabridged" work faithfully represents the numerous and important changes in all departments of thought and knowledge that have taken place during recent years; the work has been in course of preparation for more than ten years, and over one hundred editorial writers have been employ-

Education and Temperance.

The last issue of the Watch Tower makes the following suggestions on Education and Temperance to the North Carolina Christian Missionary Convention:

The Convention has ever been reflex on the educational work of the church. No people can be a great people that neglects to take part in the great educational march of the day. We as a people, have manifested very little interest in the education of our sons and daughters. We need a school under the auspices of the church. The demand from all parts is for higher and better education. It is too late now to talk about the importance of an educated ministry. It is conceded that men of sound learning in the Bible and at least in the English branches are needed to proclaim the gospel to the people. Had we an institution of learning in the State, our young men, desiring to enter the ministry, could be taught at home at a very small cost. Yes, at a school with the Bible as a text book, would be a school of no ordinary power. Those who could enjoy the advantages of such a school would become acceptable ministers in the church. As it is they are not able to go to Kentucky University nor to Bethany and, consequently, deprived the benefits of an education, The brethren in North Carolina are able and we think willing to raise ten thousand dollars for such a laudable purpose. We would not be surprised if we did not have ten Disciples that would cheerfully pay that amount if the matter was in a business and practical way brought to their attention. We are trying to raise a ministerial fund for the education of young preachers. This is all right so far as it goes. Suppose we were to combine all our efforts to build and endow a college in North Carolina we could educate three young men with the same money it now takes to educate one!
Instead of sending out one preacher we would send out three! This is both a feasible and practical question and we trust it will engage the attention of the brethren. Suppose when the Convention adjourns $5-000 is subscribed for such a cause, it will be glory enough for one annual gathering. The Watch Tower has ever been the friend of all educational movements and determined to work for a College under the control of the church until its efforts are crowned with success.

We must take decided ground on the great temperance question of the age. The crimes, deaths, sorrows, weepings, tears and heart aches occasioned by intemperance are enough to cause the church to pause and enquire how much it is doing to check the gigantic evil.
The number of young men going to the gutter and filling drunkard's graves are appalling. The cries of widow and orphan; the prayers of wives, mothers and daughters should not go unheeded. When a great Convention gives the liquor traffic a stab it has its effect. It tends to educate public sentiment and quicken the speed of all the temperance interest in the church and nerves the advocates of temperance to work harder and more vigilant in the cause of sobriety and home.

The questions that may come before the Convention should be discussed with zeal and thoroughness. If we differ on questions let the difference be in a brotherly spirit. Don't take every speech that is opposed to what you say as a personal matter. We should love none the less after a stormy debate than before. It is only by investigation that we can arrive at safe conclusions. We trust the work of the Hookerton Convention will tell for good for years to come.

The North Carolina Christian Missionary Convention will hold its annual session at Hookerton, beginning to-morrow and continuing through remainder of the week.

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest Occurring in North Carolina.

AS REFLECTED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

The population of Winston-Salem is 15,941.

The State Fair last week was a big success.

It has been decided to build a large Baptist school at Durham.

Tarboro Southern: There are peach, pear and apple trees in full bloom here now.

In nine months of the present year, 225 miles of railroad have been built in North Carolina.

Two persons were killed by trains, within an hour of each other, at Durham last Thursday.

A movement is on foot to build a permanent tabernacle at Charlotte, which will seat 9,000 people.

Goldboro Argus: The sudden death of Mr. W. Henry Creech occurred in this city yesterday afternoon of heart disease.

Wilson is preparing to build the second tobacco warehouse in that town. A company has been organized. Prize houses are also going up.

Winston has organized a $250,000 Land Improvement Company, with Hon. F. M. Simmons, of New Bern, at its head. He is president and manager.

A fearful cyclone passed through a portion of Roberson county last Thursday. One man was killed, several others injured and numbers of buildings demolished.

The Wilmington street railway has been bought by a syndicate of capitalists who will do away with the horses and run the cars by electricity.

Five thousand four hundred and eighty pounds of paper were consumed in the publication of the Wilmington Messenger during the San Jones meeting.

Goldboro Headlight: Owing to the beautiful cotton crop this fall, there is more money in circulation just now than there has been in the past twenty years, and the merchants here tell us that the farmers are more readily paying their debts than ever before.

LaGrange Spectator: We have noticed recently in driving through the surrounding country numerous fields of cotton perfectly white and not a pound has been picked from them.—An effort will be made during the session of the next Legislature by the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad to lease or buy the Atlantic & North Carolina Railroad.

Money Destroyed by Rats.

Tarboro Southern.

B. F. Bowers, of Bethel, on the day the circus gave an exhibition in that town was desirous of taking it in, but before leaving his home he took his money and carefully wrapped it up in a piece of newspaper and went up stairs and stuck it behind one of the rafters.

The money was then allowed to remain 'till a few days ago when he went up stairs to get it. To his sorrow he discovered the rats had taken the money and appropriated it to make their nests. He was chagrined no little when made the discovery, and he came here Friday and had it sent to the government to be redem-ed.

The amount that was eaten or torn by the rats was eighty dollars. He was fortunate enough to save twenty dollars of it.

He Asked The Parson to Drink

State Chronicle.

The tabulation of the criminal statistics of the State is now in progress in the Attorney General's department.
A peculiar and rather ludicrous case has been found during the work. It is under the head of "Disturbing Religious Congregation," and is from a western county. It seems that a man who had made a very intimate and warm acquaintance with John Bars-leycorn, went into a church up there while the minister was preaching. He was so very deeply impressed (or thought he was) with the minister's preaching, that he wanted to do something to show his appreciation, and after some difficulty he arose from his seat, walked up to the pulpit, and lunging forward, stuck a bottle of whiskey in the pastor's face and in a most earnest, hiccoughing way asked the good man if he would have a drink. This was a little too much for the congregation and some of the members had the would be affable individual arrested and tried before a magistrate. This officer fined the prisoner $20. The prisoner thought the magistrate had some hard feelings against him, and appealed from the magistrate's decision. The case then went before a judge of the Superior Court who sen-

Railroad men are worked almost to death now. Trains due here at 5 o'clock, p. m., are often from four to seven hours late. The company ought to be humane enough to put on enough trains to do the work.

ALEX. L. BLOW, Chm. Dem. Ex. Com.

Scrap from Grifton. Our merchants have their fall stock all in store, and trade is remarkably good.

Water in Neuse and Contentnea rivers is at low ebb. Bad on the steam boat business.

Cotton has been coming in market quite briskly the past week, with sales at 9.40 to 9.60.

Our town has been blessed with an over abundance of Commercial salesman during the past week.

Mr. Adolph Cohn, of Craven, has been in town several days visiting his daughter, Mrs. S. W. Brooks.

A. M. Duffy from New Berne was in town one day, the past week working for the interest of the New Berne Journal.

One of our good looking widowers bought on the train the other day a letter writer. Look out girls, for some nice letters.

Our little town is still on a boom, new stores, dwellings and other buildings are rapidly going up. Our merchants have all they can do.

Messrs. J. S. Tucker, C. P. Gaskin, Samuel Quinley, J. Z. Brooks, J. C. Griffin, W. H. Patrick and J. B. Cox of this place made a flying trip to Greenville Friday, 10th inst.

The farmers have had splendid weather the past week for housing crops and they have made good use of it in this section. Quite a number of nice pea vines and grass hay have been saved the past two weeks.

Three of our young men went to Greenville 10th inst. to buy some wedding clothes so madam rumor says, and perhaps Mr. D. H. James, Register of Deeds, can tell us another week who the licenses are for. John you had just as well own up.

Mr. S. H. Abbott one of our young townsmen, who went to Texas last spring, returned home on the 13th inst. He says Texas is all right and says North Carolina has lots of young men out there that are doing well, but still there is no place like home.

Rev. R. J. Johnson, pastor of the M. E. Church, preached a very interesting sermon on Sunday and will protract a series of meetings through the week. Rev. E. S. Beecher came in town Monday to assist in the meeting and has preached some very able sermons.

A revenue officer was in town the 11th inst. gaging up some fire brand, called brandy and whiskey. Messrs. Gaskill & Barrington of New Berne were in town several days the past week selling pianos and organs and other musical instruments. Mr. Gaskill has opened a music house in New Berne.

A good number of our citizens have attended the Association at Greenville the past week, but on Sunday the train did not run on regular schedule and quite a lot of persons were left. The conductor would not wait for the passengers to get on and it has been the case ever since the passenger train has been put on. The train hardly stops long enough to get off or on, and it is shameful that passengers should be treated in such a way. 12 or 15 persons were left Sunday, for want of time to get on.

Prof. C. H. James' school at this place is growing larger all the while, new students enter every week. Entertainments are given at the Academy every Friday night and Friday night 10th inst. Mr. S. V. Langhoush entertained the audience with a speech of half an hour on education. Miss Mittie Carraway, assistant and music teacher delivered an essay that if possible was beyond good.

The campaign has opened and it is said one of our candidates by the name of Skinner has took all the hide off C. C. Kirkman who claims to be an alliance candidate. How he became an alliance candidate is a mystery, unless he was the convention that put him in nomination. Mr. Harry Skinner paid his expenses to the Congressional Convention to Elizabeth City, Aug. 12th and now to show his gratitude for the favor Kirkman is doing all he can to defeat him and the Democrat ticket in Pitt county. Oh! gratitude, what a jewel.

Your correspondent asks and requests every white man in Pitt county to register, and see that his neighbors register. The time will soon expire. DUBOIS.

On first page of the REFLECTOR today appears a large advertisement of Young & Priddy, the new firm just opened in Greenville. The firm is composed of Mr. C. A. Young, one of Young Bros., of Wilson, and Mr. C. W. Priddy, formerly of Richmond. Mr. Priddy has the management of the store here and bears the characteristics of a thorough business man. Their salesmen are Capt. J. H. Baker, who for several years has been with Branch & Co., and Mr. J. F. Joyner, of Greenville, who is a salesman of large experience. They will carry a complete stock of general merchandise and have a motto "one price to all." We bespeak for the new firm a liberal patronage at the hands of the people of Pitt county.

What Another Says. Upon returning home from Greenville, last week, the editor of the Scotland Neck Democrat had some very nice things to say about our town and people. We clip the three items below from his excellent paper.

Twenty-five persons from Scotland Neck attended the Baptist Association in Greenville last week, and every one was highly pleased with the hospitality shown them. All are loud in their praises of the Greenville people of every religious denomination, and are desirous of an opportunity to pay the Greenville folks back in their own coin. Every one whom we have talked with seemed to think that he or she had the very best home that could have been secured in the town. The town is improving and has stores and other business that look like things in a city.

The entire population of Greenville were on the quai vice for the pleasure and comfort of every single visitor to the association. A more noble and warm hearted people can not be found in all the land of the South, where everything that pertains to whole-souled hospitality is proverbial. There are many more things the Democrat would like to say for Greenville and its very clever people, but the want of space forbids it. Of all the people we have ever seen we would select those of Greenville next after those of Scotland Neck.

Among the many other good things that Greenville has, is one of the best equipped country newspaper offices we have seen. And if there is a newspaper editor in the state who is more of a general favorite among his people than Bro. Whichard, editor of the REFLECTOR, we have not seen or heard of him.

There is not a better butcher in Greenville than Frank Johnson. The other day two hogs were brought to him from 10 miles in the country. He cut them both up for retail and lost from the two less than one pound from the original weight at the slaughter pen. He thoroughly understands cutting beef and meats for family use.

We hear that C. C. Kirkman had an appointment to speak at the negro meeting in Swift Creek township last Saturday night.

THE EASTERN REFLECTOR,
Greenville, N. C.

Sam Jones and His Teaching.
Watch Tower.
The Rev. Sam P. Jones, of Carterville, Ga., the most noted Evangelist and Revivalist of America has concluded his series of meetings in Wilmington. The result was about 1,500 conversions and $4,000 raised. Of this sum Sam P. Jones received $2,000 for his services. This is fair pay for ten days work. The attendance during the meeting was from 5,000 to 8,000. The city and surrounding country were stirred from centre to circumference. We determined to go down and hear him, but business engagements prevented. His sermons were published in full in the Wilmington papers and we have given them careful reading. Mr. Jones says that the reporter has reported him correctly. So we judge him by what he said and did.

The city ministers gave the Evangelist a warm reception. Dr. Fritchard did not seem to take in the meeting, as he never gave the Evangelist the honor of his presence. It is our object, in this editorial, to notice the good and bad side of Mr. Jones' teaching. We always like the good side of all questions and we will first look at the good side of Bro. Jones.

His Atlanta Constitution says: "Rev. Sam P. Jones' sermons are listened to by more people than any man on the planet. Nor is this due to the fact that he is witty and uses slang. His originality and humor are among his strong attractions, but added to this he is a pulpit orator of undoubted power."

A man that speaks to such a multitude as Mr. Jones is certainly doing good, to some at least. While many may be drawn to him from the famous name that precedes him, it is not the many who go to him for the benefit they expect to receive.

His terrible array of sin in all its forms and phases receives no apology from the Evangelist. He denounces it in unmeasured terms. He makes sin hideous in Gentile and Jew. He hates sin because it is sin. The bar-room, gambling dens, theatres, club houses and other places where sin is fostered are denounced as anti-chambers of the sinner. He does not spare sledge hammer blows at crime and not being doing good. The manner in which he strikes may be a subject of criticism, but Sam Jones could not talk otherwise. There was only one John, one Peter and one Paul. Their styles differ. John was tender, loving and sympathetic; Peter was bold, fearless, impetuous, and seemingly rough; Paul was logical, forcible and impressive; Sam Jones has some of John, Peter and Paul.

He manifests great interest in the colored people. He takes them to his room, talks with them, prays with them and instructs them. Special services are held for their benefit. He preaches to them like he is profoundly interested in their welfare. He warns them of danger and begs them to be honest men and women. Such preaching to the colored race will have its effect. This will be the solution of the Race Problem. If it is right, to preach to the colored man, why not preach to the colored woman? He takes them to his room, talks with them, prays with them and instructs them. Special services are held for their benefit. He preaches to them like he is profoundly interested in their welfare. He warns them of danger and begs them to be honest men and women. Such preaching to the colored race will have its effect. This will be the solution of the Race Problem. If it is right, to preach to the colored man, why not preach to the colored woman?

4. Mr. Jones holds up the Savior as the only panacea for sin. He believes in a whole Savior; a loving tender and prayer answering Savior. Such devotion to our Redeemer is commendable; such clear conceptions of the atonement tend to good and not harm.

5. He teaches the people to give for the support of the gospel. He don't hesitate to denounce all the illiberal—those who can give and won't give. Such heavy blows from the Evangelist can't fail to get a more liberal spirit in those who hear him. These, we consider, the good things in Mr. Jones. We wish to say a few things about the bad side of his teaching:

1. The tendency of his mannerisms will produce a large crop of imitators. His style is so popular that others will adopt his methods and try to do what the Evangelist is doing. Mr. Fife is an illustration of this. He talks like Mr. Jones uses his illustrations and aims to carry on his work in the same manner. Mr. Jones is not responsible for this. He can't prevent others from trying to imitate him. This crop of imitators ought to remember that there is only one Sam Jones.

2. He is rather sensual, vulgar, and uncouth. We fail to see what he gains by the use of such ugly epithets. The people laugh and slap their hands. If this is a sign of their conversion it is rather a strange way to demonstrate it. The minister of the gospel should be free from all such undignified expressions. It tends to lower the pulpit and bring it down on a level with the ordinary politician. Sime and Fitch should had no room in the vocabulary of a minister of God's word.

3. Mr. Jones either don't know how to answer enquiring sinners or he purposely refuses to give apostolic answers to questions that may be asked by the seeker after truth. The Acts of the Apostles is emphatically the book of conversions. The commission that Jesus gave the Apostles reads: "Go you into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature; he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." It is a sad reflection that he said the last words be spoke should be needed. The Acts of the Apostles contain a beautiful illustration of the commission Jesus gave. The first sermon preached was on Pentecost after Jesus had been raised and ascended to his father. Under the shadow of that sermon, thousands were saved.
