DELIGHTFUL EUCHE PARTY

Given by Mrs. R. J. Cobb in Honor of Mrs. Hume, of Greensboro.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. R. J. Cobb entertained handsomely at progressive euche in honor of Mrs. H. A. White's company, Mrs. Sue Hume, of Greensboro. The occasion is long to be remembered as one of the nicest affairs ever held here. The home was very beautifully decorated with potted plants, ferns and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Cobb received at front hall assisted by Mrs. H. A. White and gave all a hearty welcome in their own hospitable way. Mrs. Cobb wearing a gown of white silk mill with real lace trimmings and Mrs. White gowned in poudre-vert over white china silk. The punch bowl was the great attraction in hall, a very beautiful china bowl hand painted, back of the bowl, the flowers in between the shaded candle sticks made a most beautiful scene. Misses Pattie Skinner and Alice White presided at some. The library decorations were especially pretty, being chiefly of chrysanthemums and ferns. Here all guests were served with hot chocolate from very dainty china cups; these to the drawing room where all had the pleasure of meeting the guest of honor, Mrs. Hume, who was exquisitely attired in gray crepe-dechise with pearls and lace.

Score cards were handed to all present and the enjoyable and exciting games of euche began in full force and resulted in Mrs. Herbert White winning the first prize, a hand painted bon-bon bowl and presented same to Mrs. Hume. The consolation prize was drawn by Mrs. Harry Skinner a hand painted china plate.

The dining room decorations were in red and the beautiful American Beauty roses tastefully arranged on the table and banked in profusion in front of and on the mantle gave all an inviting appetite upon entering. The menu was as follows: oysters on half shell, pickles, French salad served from the hull of an orange, cheese straws, champagne wafers, olive, club sandwiches and coffee.

Those present were Mesdames T. J. Jarvis, Harry Skinner, R. J. Cobb, Herbert White, J. B. White, F. W. Clare, Haywood Dail, Sue Hume, J. L. Wooten, R. W. King, H. W. Whelbe, W. S. Summerell, Asa Parham, S. J. Parham, E. B. Ficklen, J. L. Fleming, R. W. Williams, B. W. Moseley, G. J. Woodward, Misses Elizabeth Jones, Nell Skinner, Lottie Skinner, Pattie Skinner, Miss Morris, of Virginia, Jessie Lee Sugg, Winnie Skinner, Nina James, Alice White, Miss O'Hagan and Mrs. McClellan.

This was one of the nicest Euche parties ever given in Greenville and all who attended thoroughly enjoyed same, and Mrs. Cobb continues her reputation as being an ideal and most charming hostess.

Resolved by Baptist Sunday School.

Lula Bryan, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bryan, died Thursday, Nov. 9th. It is meet that the membership of this Sunday School pause in the services of this hour and make expression of their regret and sorrow because of the taking away of this lovely child, a member of the cradle roll class of the school. Therefore be it resolved: First, That the members of the Sunday school of the Memorial Baptist church deplore the passing away of this little life, but we are consoled with the thought that she is now with God and the angels. Second, That we tender to the father and mother, sisters and brothers our sincere sympathy, and sorrow with them in this time of trouble. We commend them to Him who has said I will be with you always, and invoke the blessing of God upon them in their bereavement. Third, We make request that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the parents, a copy to THE REV. PASTOR and that the resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Sunday school. Mrs. M. M. OVER ONE HUNDRED BROWNED ON St. Malo, on the Coast of France.

DEATH OF MRS. EDWARD LIBERATE

The death angel has taken from our midst another loved one, Lena Elizabeth, wife of Edward Liberate, of Richmond, Ind., and daughter of Dr. John S. and Mrs. Elizabeth Taft. This is the second daughter that Mrs. Taft has lost within the last six or eight weeks. The suddenness and unusually pathetic circumstances of this death makes it all the greater shock to relatives and friends alike. The life of a dear sweet baby boy went out with hers and mother and babe will be laid away in the same casket, the babe resting peacefully on the mother's breast. "A little child shall lead them,"—tiny little baby hands may lead her straight up to our Saviour's waiting arms. She leaves a little three year old daughter, Rose Elizabeth, to call in vain for "mama." The husband and little daughter and Mrs. Lincoln Lesh, of Munce, Ind., a sister of the deceased, will accompany the remains to her old home for burial in the Taft graveyard near Greenville, N. C. She had been living in Richmond only a short time, but all who knew her loved her, and appreciated the noble, unselfish life of the loving wife, the devoted mother and true friend. She was always gladly ready to do a kindness for others, and spared no effort in her noble unselfish efforts to do kind deeds and give pleasure to others. In the great day of atonement it can be truly said of her, "she hath done what she could."

She bravely and unflinchingly bore all her sufferings, and passed away at five o'clock Saturday morning, Nov. 18th, 1905, at the hospital in Richmond. To us the pain, to her the rest.

MAKING FINE RECORD.

Parham & Foxhall are making a fine record at Parham's warehouse this season. Up to the present time they have sold about 2,250,000 pounds of tobacco at an average of 84 cents. This is a high average on such a large quantity of tobacco, especially a season like this when the greater part of the crop is very common.

AN AVERAGE THAT COUNTS

The government growers' report issued today places the number of bales of cotton ginned up to and including Nov. 14th, between 7,400,000 and 7,500,000. This was a bullish report and was followed by a sharp advance in futures.

Business of the Consolidated Growing.

Talk about high averages, the Farmers warehouse, operated by the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Co., made one Tuesday that counts. That day this house sold between 28,000 and 30,000 pounds, and the average on the entire sale, even including the scrap, was 114 cents. If the scrap had not been included, the average would have gone much higher. This kind of sale bears out the claim made by the Consolidated (and the claim is based on sworn statements) that its two houses average higher on sales than all other houses on the market.

The Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Co. is a co-operative organization, the farmers who are stockholders sharing in the profits made, and it is no wonder that as the farmers awaken to their interest the business of the company grows larger and larger. It is an organization of tobacco farmers working in their own interest and the business is well managed.

Sermon to Juniors.

The annual sermon to the local lodge of Jr. O. U. A. M. will be preached in the Baptist church next Sunday morning by Rev. J. E. Ayseue. The lodge will attend the service in a body, first meeting in their hall and then marching to the

LIVELY TIMES AT STAR WAREHOUSE

There was a Lively Race Between the Auctioneer and the Truckers Monday Morning.

There was some lively bustling out at the Star warehouse Tuesday morning. The Star had first sale, and under the regulations had to begin at 9:30 o'clock. Last night and the early hours of this morning were exceedingly disagreeable, which made farmers slower than usual getting in, and when Auctioneer Barton started his song to the buyers many wagons in the driveway were waiting to unload and not half the break was on the floor.

Then there was a race between the auctioneer and the truckers, and the way trucks rolled from the wagons to the scales, out on the floor ahead of the buyer and back again, was something to look at. Everything seemed to "get busy." President Joyner, of the Consolidated, got him a truck and joined the whirl. Auditor Dail would drop his sales book now and then grab a truck for a spin around the circle, back again to his book and soon catch up with the tickest marker. Hinton Frisard thought it looked like good exercise and he gathered up a truck which soon ran him out of his evocation. They certainly did hustle, the whole push, and ran out the last pile about two minutes ahead of the auctioneer. It was lively while it lasted.

Several blind tigers cases have also been before him. This is a common offense, and the crop of such cases seems to be fair for a fall one. In one of these cases there was evidence of selling "monkey rum," the defendant undertook to show it was something that was not intoxicating, but did not go on the stand to explain. Commissioner Sugg remarked in making the judgment that he would give the defendant a chance to explain in the Federal court what "monkey rum" is.

It is to be hoped the good people will give Colonel Sugg their support in breaking up blind tigers and moonshine stills.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Register of Deeds E. Williams issued licenses to the following couples since last report: W. H. Jones and Bessie Wiggins, Arnold Jones and Sophia Ebrans.

FINE BANK STATEMENT.

Our readers will be interested in the excellent statement made by the Bank of Greenville, showing its standing up to and including the business of Nov. 9th. A comparison of this statement with the previous one shows that the deposits have increased over $100,000. Another strong feature of this bank is that its surplus and undivided profits are now nearly half as large again as the capital stock.

CHURCH IMPROVEMENT.

The slate roof on the Baptist church is making completion and improves the appearance of the building. The next step will be to change the steeple into a tower and then improve the interior of the main auditorium.

WILL CLOSE TWO DAYS.

Again we call attention to the fact that the Greenville tobacco market will be closed on Thursday, 30th, Thanksgiving day, and on Friday, Dec. 1st. There will be

TROUBLE AT GRIMESLAND

Negro Boy Shoots Constable in the Head and Face with Bird shot

Saturday night about 8 o'clock Sheriff Tucker received a telephone message from Grimesland that a riot was on, and asking him to come down. Sheriff Tucker and Deputy Dailies started off on the 12 mile drive, but did not find any riot when they reached Grimesland. What could be learned was that Policeman Talley had started to arrest a negro boy named Will Grimes, about 15 years of age. Grimes ran to the home of his brother, Policeman Talley and Constable John Galloway two shots, the policeman firing two following at the running boy. When the officers were in about 40 yards of the house the boy appeared in the door with a gun and called to them to stop. They did not stop and the boy raised the gun and fired, a load of bird shot striking Constable Galloway in the shoulder, side of the head and face. The officer's wound was painful but not serious. The negro boy made his escape.

GREENVILLE'S GREAT

DEPARTMENT STORE.

THE MONEY FINNS.

3 Frotherton Street, Fuller Lane & Ball, Then Tell a Lie.

Life and property are thoroughly secure in Finland. Trunks and parcels are left by houses in the streets to be found when needed by their rightful owners. In the country districts the houses are never barred and locked, even in the absence of their owners. Then again, it is no uncommon thing for a blooming girl of seventeen or a young married woman to drive alone in her car a distance of fifty or sixty miles through dense forests and by the shores of gloomy lakes, conveying the family's butter, cheese and eggs to market in town, and then to return home alone with the proceeds. In trade the Finns are not only scrupulously honest; they are heroically, quixotically so.

A tradesman will tell you the whole truth about his wares, even when he knows perfectly well that by so doing he loses a customer whom the partial truth would have secured. "This seems exactly the kind of apparatus I am looking for," I said to a merchant in Helsinki some months ago in reference to an article that cost $75, and I will buy it at once if, knowing what I want it for, you can honestly recommend me to take it. "No, sir; I do not recommend you to take it, nor have I anything in stock just now that would suit you." And I left the shop and purchased what I wanted elsewhere.

"Here's your fare," I said to a peasant in the interior who had driven me for three hours through the woods on his drovsky, handing him $1. "No, sir; that's double my fare," he replied, returning one-half the money, and when I told him I might keep it for his honesty he slightly smiled, but thanked me with the dignity of one of nature's gentlemen. —Swedish American.

Brummel and Byron. Byron was sitting along Piccadilly one bright sunny morning surrounded by Brummel, who was admiring from his tailor's. "How are you, Brummel?" said the poet. "Well, thank you," returned the man. "I've been reading 'Don Quixote'."

"Oh," said Byron, with a smile. "There is some clever rhyme in it."

"So?" observed Byron, with affected surprise.

"It seems pretty good, justification."

"It's somewhat the poet."

"What's your hand at poetry, Brummel?" asked Brummel. The two men spoke to each other again.

Dean Hole and the Oxford Snob. Dean Hole, the distinguished English churchman, dearly loved a good joke. One day a somewhat snobbish Oxford friend of his, wishing to impress upon the dean the high social character of his familiar acquaintances, wrote him a letter beginning "My dear countess," and then scratching out "countess" substituted "Hole."

When upon the dean, not to be outdone, began his reply, "My dear countess," and then scratched out "countess" and substituted "Hole."

Saxe and Holmes. A mild bit of repartee is reported as having occurred between the poet Saxe and Oliver Wendell Holmes. They were talking about brain fever when Mr. Saxe remarked: "I once had a severe attack of brain fever myself."

"How could you have brain fever?" asked Dr. Holmes, smiling. "It is only strong brains that have brain fever."

"How did you find that out?" asked Saxe.

Getting Too Personal. "Let's go out in your back yard," said Tommy Tucker, "and play in the woodshed."

"We haven't got any woodshed," said the other boy. "Have you got one in your back yard?"

"Yes."

"Keep wood in it?"

"Nope."

"What's it used for?"

"None of your business!" —Chicago Tribune.

THE FAMILY IN DEED.

A Man Does Not Leave His Parents After He Marries.

In India a man does not leave his parents after marriage to live with his wife, as he does in this country, but he stays at home and the wife becomes a member of his family, being treated as a daughter of the husband's parents, writes Swami Abhinav in Good Housekeeping. The old Jewish law, "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother and shall cleave to his wife" (Gen. xxiv), has no place in Hindu society. It is considered to be extremely selfish to be separated from the parents for the sake of a wife. Parents, indeed, have a greater claim upon their children in India than in any part of the world.

This joint family system is a very old institution handed down through generations. It has great value in developing humane qualities like fellow feeling and sympathy, and in extending the field of love among all such relatives as live under one roof. Today there are to be found families which consist of nearly fifty members living together in perfect harmony and peace, and the standard among these is kept so high that each husband looks upon every other member of the household as his mother, while every wife looks upon all other men as her children.

The members of such a family daily perform their respective duties. The women divide the work of housekeeping among themselves and take the entire management in their own hands, following the direction of the most elderly lady of the family. Whether they decide to become a law in the house, men attend to their business, deal with the outside world, supply the needs of the family, and the women do the housework.

Reflected Glory. A gentleman sojourning in Edinburgh many years ago, having heard much of the eloquence of the members of the general assembly, paid an early visit to it. Next to him sat an elderly, hard featured, solemn faced man, who was leaning with both hands on a heavy stick, which he eyed with great concentration. Soon the stranger's attention was riveted upon the speaker who had opened the day's discourse. The wonderful command of language he possessed, combined with his eloquence, excited the listener's curiosity. "Can you tell me who is speaking now?" he asked eagerly, turning to the sober faced old man beside him. "Who's speaking now?" echoed the old man, lifting his eyes from the contemplation of the stick to fix them in contemptuous amazement upon his interlocutor. "That, sir, is the great Doctor Chawmers, and I'm holdin' his stick."

A Floral Detective of Long Ago. In early times the Dutch farmers of the up river farms of New York had an ingenious way of preserving pocket knives that might have been dropped or mislaid while plowing or gardening was going on. Colter was not as cheap and abundant then as in these days, so the farmer took the knife, immediately after the two or three plowings he put it in a knife handle. Then if the knives fell upon broken ground and could not be readily found, the owners would wait until the next evening, and an isolated woodpecker stalk or blossom in field or patch would visualize the possibility of a missing article being at its foot. True, the owner did not always realize the result of the scheme, because a passing boy who understood the trick often "got there" before the planter.

A Lesson in the Art. The Complete Angler—Yes, the bass is the wisest of the fishy tribe all right, as this little incident will show: One day while engaged in my favorite pursuit I dropped a valuable diamond ring in the water. The following day I cast my line near the spot where the ring disappeared and soon landed a five pound bass. Now, what do you suppose the camp cook found inside that fish?

The Clorus of Norvise—Haw, haw, haw! The missing jewelry, of course!

The Complete Angler—Ah, boys, you seem to forget about the willow. It is the only strong branch that has brain fever.

Getting Too Personal. "Let's go out in your back yard," said Tommy Tucker, "and play in the woodshed."

"We haven't got any woodshed," said the other boy. "Have you got one in your back yard?"

"Yes."

"Keep wood in it?"

"Nope."

"What's it used for?"

"None of your business!" —Chicago Tribune.

THE WAY HE GOES

An Atchison man and his wife had two sons and two daughters.

With the arrival of the first baby they began planning about how their children should be "educated."

The woman did her own work and the man worked and scripped and both denied themselves every pleasure.

The boys were sent to college and the girls were educated at a boarding school. The children are men and women now; the parents, having spent every cent on their education, are poor and dependent upon them.

This is what their education has done for the children. One son has a government position; and no hope of promotion or a raise.

The other son learned a trade from a common friend of his and is getting along pretty well, in spite of his college training.

One daughter married a dry goods clerk and has forgotten her French and German in talking baby talk to her two babies, and the sciences she studied at school do not help her much in mapping out her week's work, which includes washing and ironing.

The other daughter married a country school teacher and her "education is only an aggravation," as what she knows does not agree always, with what her husband knows, and they have more subjects to quarrel over than the average married couple.

And the poor old parents, with every cent sunk in four "educations," are first living with one child and then with another, and are not all they welcome anywhere.—Atchison Globe

Do You Save?

I knew a man years ago whose father was so poor when he was a boy that he was hired out to help support his father's family.

After he became a man he accumulated a large estate. People would address him and say you are a rich man. He would reply: "There is more in saving than making."

Suppose your labor brings you a thousand dollars a year, and you spend it all in eating, drinking, dressing, or anything else and have nothing to show for it at the end of the year, how much have you gained? Nothing.

But suppose you labor for three hundred and fifty dollars, and save half of it, you have gained one hundred and fifty dollars, and are worth that much more.

The art of saving is about to be numbered among the lost arts. A young man does not think a dollar is worth saving. He forms the habit of spending all his earnings, and thinks it too small a business to lay up a small amount daily.

He will insure his life, and is forced to save enough money to keep his policy paid or all is gone, and it is dependent on that policy when he dies to support his family.

How much better if a man would form the habit of saving and managing his money himself while he is living, and also enjoy the benefit of it before he dies and give what is left himself to the heirs?

Waste causes want, and that often leads to dishonest conduct. It is wrong and very unwise.

A committee of United States engineers have during the past week been inspecting the proposed route for the inland waterway, the enterprise which Hon. John H. Small has been advocating through several terms in congress.

Congressman Small and Senator Simmons accompanied the committee on the investigation. Reports from towns visited show that the engineers manifest much interest in the matter. We hope they will make a favorable report to the government and that the inland waterway will be opened.

Such an enterprise will benefit the entire Atlantic seaboard.

WANTS AN APPROPRIATION OF FIDUCIARY FUNDS STOPPED.

Gov. R. B. Glenn has issued the following timely open letter to the people of North Carolina:

"When upon investigation, officers of some of the largest foreign insurance companies admitted that large sums of money belonging to their companies had been used for influencing elections, lobbying Legislatures and other improper purposes, I felt that our people should be protected against such practices, and therefore carefully studied our insurance laws, hoping I could find some provision, by which such companies could be barred from doing business in our State, until wrongs thus done their policy holders were corrected.

"We have no such law, however, though there should be, and in no uncertain words, I will ask next General Assembly to amend our existing laws, so the insurance commissioner, by and with the consent of the Governor and council of State, can stop any company illegally appropriating funds of their policy holders from transacting any business in the State, until their officers make good amounts improperly paid out. All corporations and insurance companies have a perfect right to employ counsel to attend to any legitimate matters, or properly represent them before legislative committees, in order to express their views on pending measures, but they have no right to use funds that would otherwise increase the dividends of their shareholders, or policy holders, by corruptly paying them out to influence Congress or Legislatures or to controlling results of elections.

"The argument they make that certain laws passed, or partly passed in power, would impair their business, and thereby lessen their earning capacity, even if true, and it is not, cannot justify or excuse their doing acts recognized by all as illegal. Formerly our people were too poor to establish insurance companies in North Carolina, but now we have honest, reliable companies, are amply able and willing to handle all our insurance.

"The companies now under investigation are all solvent and the policies held by our people are perfectly good (I hold one myself), and therefore should not be surrendered. Neither do I desire to do these companies any wrong, if they will themselves do right; but if they do any new business, or expect our people to patronize them, they must practice equity and compel their officers to correct misappropriations already made, or steps will be taken to control them.

"This statement is written in answer to many queries and letters, asking me why some action has not been taken. No action can be taken with out laws to authorize it, but every effort will be made to correct this omission, and thus in the future protect our people. Feeling deeply the trust reposed in me by the people in electing me Governor, I assure them that in this matter, as well as in all others appertaining to their welfare, I will try to bring before the Legislature all such measures as will best promote their interests and protect them from wrong.

I am glad to state that both the insurance commissioner and the council of the State are with me in my effort to thus secure better protection for our policy holders."

RAIN COATS FOR LADIES AND OVERCOATS FOR MEN AND BOYS.

Let us set you straight on the matter of Cravette Overcoats. The most successful process for waterproofing a garment is that of Priestley's, and every Cravette treated to their process bears their name, and when in addition to Priestley's Cravette stamp—no overcoat is identified with the label of Wilkinson the combination is one that insures not only a waterproof overcoat, but also an overcoat of fine fabric, with all the knicks of fashion and style that distinguish the "EFF EFF" Clothing people from the ordinary sort.

MISS COTTEN ENTERTAINS

Delightful Gathering at Cotontdale Complimentary to Miss Pattie Skinner, of Greenville.

At Cotontdale Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cotten's hospitable home, near Greenville, Miss. Sallie, their accomplished daughter, entertained on the eighteenth a party of friends in honor of Miss Pat Skinner and Mrs. Haywood Dall, Jr. This preceding Miss Skinner's marriage to Mr. C. S. Carr and being the second anniversary of Mrs. Dall's marriage.

Miss Cotten received her guests at seven o'clock, and after adopting them as members of her home, an elegant dinner was served under most beautiful decorations. After dinner and before leaving the dining hall Miss Skinner was surprised by being the victim of a "handkerchief shower." Miss Cotten's guests and many friends of Miss Skinner had provided a great number of rare and beautiful handkerchiefs for the occasion.

The guests, Mr. and Mrs. Dall, C. S. Carr, Miss Pat Skinner, Dr. Zeno Brown, Miss Gattlieb, Baltimore; Preston S. Cotten, Miss Alice White, of Missouri; Dr. Louis Skinner, Mrs. E. B. Ficklen; Charlie James, Miss Lena Matthews; W. E. Hooker, Miss Nina James; Frank M. Wooten, Miss Winnie Skinner; Thomas J. Moore, J. D. Gardner and J. Benj. Higgs, remained with Miss Cotten until the afternoon of the following day, and just before the party bade the hostess goodbye, lunch was served on the bank of Tar River, near the home, bringing to a close a day prominent for its beauty, an entertainment that can never be forgotten by those whose good fortune it was to be the guests of Mr. Cotten's charming daughter and genial and hospitable home, Cotontdale on this occasion.

On Friday a colored boy who works at the Greenville Lumber and Veneer Co., got his hand caught in a machine and badly mangled.

Good Week.

The past week began with bad weather and the first two days brought little tobacco to market, but the pretty weather that followed made up for it, so that taken all together the warehouses had a good week. The sales were especially large on Friday. Many farmers who were selling made high averages.

Reaching High Prices.

We had occasion to look through the sales book of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Co. for the week, and were struck with the fact that there was not a day during the week on which prices for some lots of tobacco sold at Farmers Star warehouses did not run as high as $50 per hundred, and some even higher. They were not just simple piles either, but large lots brought these fancy figures. It takes good work on the part of the warehousemen to get such prices for tobacco.

No man ever shares his self-satisfaction with any one else.

Too many think that a crooked must be a broad one.

Messages and Papers of the Confederacy.

One of the most interesting publications of the day is a compilation of original official papers of the Confederacy. The compilation is made by Congressman James D. Richardson, of Tennessee, authority being granted by a special act of Congress to copy them from the official papers of the Confederacy that were captured at Richmond, at the close of the war and deposited in the government archives at Washington. The Washington Post is publishing this work complete in two handsome volumes, making it most useful for ready reference. A. B. Bateman and W. B. Ezrart, representatives of the Post, are now in Greenville calling on prominent citizens and members of the Daughters of the Confederacy introducing the work. They have also arranged with THE REFLECTOR to make this paper local agent for the work, so that those wanting it may have a convenient place to leave their orders. THE REFLECTOR will have a complete set of the books in a few days which can be seen at this office.

Dispensary Wins at Grifton.

The town of Grifton held an election Thursday on the question of dispensary against open saloons. The dispensary won by a vote of 33 to 16. There are four saloons in Grifton and they will have to close January 1st when the dispensary will begin operations.

Daughters of Confederacy.

George B. Singletary chapter will please meet with the president Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Full meeting is especially desired as new officers are to be elected, this being the first regular meeting of the season.

IT DOES NOT TAKE ALL

But Sentiment is Groing in That Direction.

The Kinston Free Press speaking of the recent victorious dispensary election in the town of Grifton, by which four saloons will close on January 1st, says that with the passing of the saloons at Grifton, Pitt county will not have a saloon in it. In this the Free Press is mistaken, as there are yet saloons at Falkland, Farmville, Fountain, Grimesland, Pactolus and Stokes, about a dozen in all after those at Grifton close. But the way the sentiment against saloons is growing it is only a question of time when all of these will be closed and the county freed from the saloon evil.

Will Sell the Property.

A farmer living on one of the rural routes, who has taken advantage of THE REFLECTOR magazine offer, tells us he is having the best time imaginable reading them these winter nights. All who want the benefit of a year's magazine reading at less than half price should not wait too long. The offer is only for a limited time.

Electricity Sparks Illinois Children.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 22.—An electric sparking machine, invented by Professor Denis, is now in use in the public school in East Pennsylvania, a suburb of this city. The method of operation is to place the pupil over a chair near the machine, press a button and thus bring a series of paddles into play.

The parents of pupils threaten to withdraw their children from school if the machine is not taken out.

A man is never much nearer heaven than when he makes a child happy.

Yours &c,
SAM WHITE.

A GREAT FUTURE FOR GREENVILLE

It's Growth is Rapid--It's Prosperity is General--Greenville is Surrounded by the Most Magnificent Agricultural Area in North Carolina.

The wonderfully rapid growth and extension of the town of Greenville is a marvel. To those who take interest in the success of this so beautifully situated city it is like home on its acres--surrounded by the most splendid agricultural area in the state, the greatest bright tobacco growing county in the world, one of the finest cotton and cereal countries in the state, and the best people on earth to make a country great; the question arises, where is Greenville, the county seat, going to find a spreading place to build and it is indeed a problem.

Looking the matter square in the face, the writer has carefully observed and closely watched where the trend of residential outlook seemed to drift, and where the most opportune location could be speculated upon. South Greenville is by far in the lead. West Greenville is handicapped by "Lincoln Town" filled up by the colored settlement, and South Greenville is the only hope of the future of that class of citizenship that makes a town famous and offers the best location for homes.

A more beautiful addition in residential future cannot be found than on the James property, now owned by S. T. White. High level and the most splendid surroundings in every respect. Why Mr. White has not laid out and made the 22 acres a most beautiful building locality is a mystery. The town of Greenville must go somewhere, and it should go where the very best, most beautiful and splendid homes could be made. To the business man there is no nearer place for a home now unobtainable. It is just across the border line of the town, and one long will be on this side of the border and the most lovely part of modern Greenville. Mr. White, as a young, enterprising business man and prosperous citizen of the town, should place this property on the market, let handsome homes be erected there and enhance the property and beauty of Greenville.

The writer does not mean to dictate to Mr. White, but in spirit of progressive kindness he does suggest that this beautiful tract of land should not be given to a shallow crop when the town needs its area for homes. We believe upon a real honest, serious consideration of the future good he would convert the little "patch" into a well laid out town, regardless of the loss of a few cabbage, melons and potatoes.

The town must go somewhere. Mr. White, open your heart and let it go towards South Greenville. Will you do it? Many want places now. Will you do the magnificent thing and let the town be opened and spread out? There are a few of means who will buy if you will sell on reasonable terms, and the whole community would be benefited by such a citizenship as would be purchasers of these beautiful lots. X. X.

Brought Home for Burial.

The remains of Mrs. Edward Liberator and infant, accompanied by Mr. Liberator and little daughter and Mrs. Lincoln Lesh, arrived here Wednesday evening from Richmond, Ind. The remains were taken to the Methodist church for the night, and were carried to the Tar River yard, 7 miles from town, today for interment. Rev. J. A. Hornaday conducted the funeral service.

Mr. Wiggins Demands $10,000.

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Kate Wiggins of the Salvation Army, has instituted suit for $10,000 damage against A. A. Featherston, a liquor dealer of this city, who kicked her from his saloon several weeks ago.

SOME LOST OTHERS MADE

Cotton in Five Minutes Nets the Hadley Pool Eight Million Dollars, and Others Lose out.

Cotton advanced 100 points, or $5 a bale in 5 minutes, yesterday. The market value of the crop was increased $50,000,000.

Joseph H. Hadley and his pool of Southern farmers made profits estimated at $8,000,000. Mr. Hadley's personal profit was more than $1,000,000.

Theodore H. Price and his following lost millions.

Daniel J. Sully was a heavy winner.

Eight thousand men on horseback are riding among the farmers calling them to 8,000 mass-meetings on December 3rd, when an agreement is expected to be made to hold cotton for fifteen cents a pound, or $17.50 a bale above the high price of yesterday.

The rise was caused by the Government's Census Bureau report of the amount of cotton ginned up to November 14th. Wall Street had been expecting the report to show at least 8,500,000 bales. The figures were only 7,488,167. This means a crop of under 10,000,000 bales.—New York Journal, 22.

Will Close Thanksgiving.

Greenville always observes Thanksgiving day by a general suspension of business. The custom will prevail next Thursday, 30th, on which day the stores, warehouses and business offices will be closed. People should observe this and not come in on that day expecting to transact business.

FIRE NEAR GRIFTON

The gin house of Mr. F. M. Kilpatrick, near Grifton, was destroyed by fire Thursday night, together with all his gin machinery and about 25 bales of cotton. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. The loss is about $8,000 and falls heavily on Mr. Kilpatrick, as we understand he had no insurance.

Gin House and Other Property Destroyed.

"Nothing But Money."

Abbot Davison and his musical company in "Nothing But Money" was the attraction at the Masonic opera house Friday night and it proved a success. Mr. Davison took the leading role as the Shanty Trump and he was all that could be asked. The singing and dancing by members of the company were of the highest order. There were a number of encores and not an unfavorable criticism was heard. A return engagement would be appreciated by the theatre going public.

Ladies Guild.

The young ladies of the Episcopal church met Friday night at the home of Mrs. R. H. Horne and organized a Junior Guild whose object is to work for the beautifying of the church. The following were elected officers:

Mrs. W. H. Dall, President; Miss Pattie Skinner, Vice-President; Miss Elise Vincent, Secretary; Miss Lee Brown, Treasurer.
