Colonial Dining In Williamsburg Is Special Treat

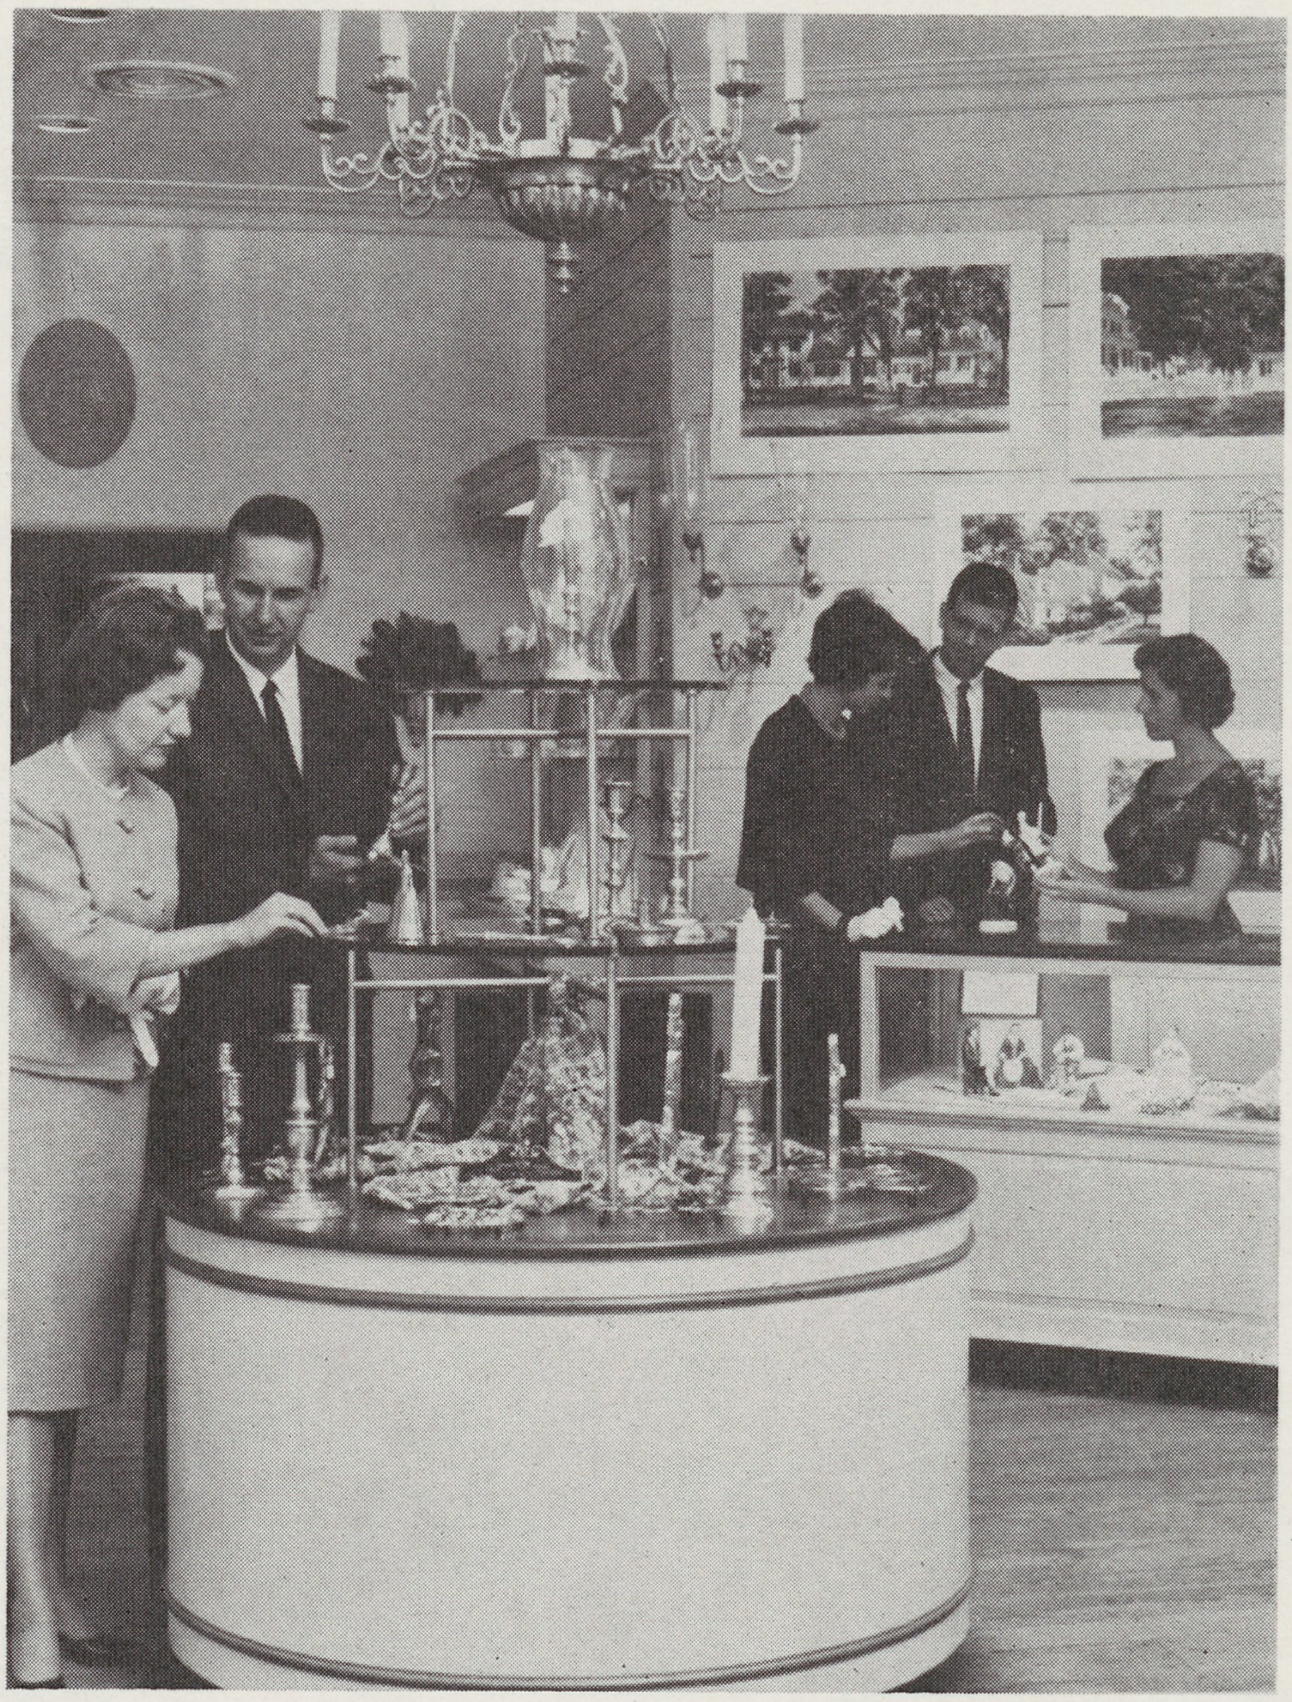

DURING your visit to Virginia's colonial capital, turn back the clock to the days when dining was a gracious experience. Williamsburg is famous for outstanding dining places, offering unusual fare and superb service. Three famous taverns feature delicious colonial and southern delicacies in a colorful and festive setting of two centuries ago.

KING'S ARMS TAVERN — Hospitality is dispensed in the eighteenth - century manner at King's Arms, located on Duke of Gloucester Street. Delicacies such as Virginia ham, fried chicken, roast beef, peanut soup, Sally Lunn bread, and fine wines are served by waiters in the costume of the period at lunch and dinner.

CAMPBELL'S TAVERN — George Washington's diary records more than 50 occasions when he "supped at Mrs. Campbell's." Near the Capitol, her tavern was a favorite for burgesses, councilors, and prominent leaders of the Virginia colony. Today's guests feast on fresh seafood from Chesapeake Bay, breast of chicken casserole, steaks, Southern spoonbread, imported beverages at lunch and dinner.

CHOWNING'S TAVERN — As the bustling capital of Virginia, eighteenth - century Williamsburg required a great number of inns and taverns to accommodate visitors. Chowning's is an alehouse typical of the pre-Revolutionary period; its specialties include Brunswick stew, Welsh rabbit, pecan waffles, and "Good Bread." Waiters in costume of the period serve light meals and refreshments, to be enjoyed with ale and beer from oaken kegs. Chowning's is open from noon to 10:30 in the evening.

Dinner reservations are requested at King's Arms and Campbell's. Please call 229-1700, extension 335.

For Unusual Shopping

A large selection of unique gifts and distinctive souvenirs awaits the Craft House visitor. Choice gifts include pottery, china, prints, maps, books, and games, all reminiscent of the colonial period. Collected at Craft House, too, are authentic Williamsburg Reproductions of many of the handsome antiques in Colonial Williamsburg's world-renowned collection. These are displayed as they might appear in your own home. After the game, come to Craft House, one of America's most unusual stores. Open tonight until 9 o'clock for your shopping convenience.

PRESIDENT DAVIS Y. PASCHALL

Dr. Davis Y. Paschall became the 23rd President of the College of William and Mary during the summer of 1960.

An alumnus, he earned his A.B. and M.A. degree in history and government at William and Mary in 1932 and 1937, respectively, then attained his doctorate from the University of Virginia. He served as a teacher of history and English and as principal of Victoria High School prior to World War II, during which he served with the U. S. Navy. After being discharged, Dr. Paschall was appointed to the State Department of Education and in 1957 was appointed Superintendent of Public Instruction for the Commonwealth.

W&M Is Nation's Second Oldest College

The history of the College of William and Mary is interwoven with the political and cultural development of the nation. A few years after Jamestown was founded, a movement began in England and Virginia to establish a "college," but an Indian massacre in 1622 interrupted the plans, and it was not until 1693 that the dream of the early Virginia settlers was realized. In that year King William and Queen Mary of England granted a Royal Charter to the College, establishing it as a "College of Good Arts & Sciences," and it subsequently prospered until the time of the Revolution.

Taking an active part in Revolutionary affairs, the College produced such leaders as Thomas Jefferson, Peyton Randolph, John Marshall, James Monroe, and others who dedicated themselves to the cause of independence. Recovering quickly from the loss suffered by war, the College became an intellectual center for the South and for the nation until the War Between the States. Again, William and Mary found itself with resources depleted and its students and faculty scattered. The College did not fully recover until 1888.

In 1906, William and Mary became a state-supported institution, and in 1918 it became co-educational. Surviving three disastrous fires, the War of the Revolution, the War Between the States, two World Wars in this century, William and Mary has emerged as something more than brick and mortar. It is a spirit, vibrant in students and faculty alike, that "links the generations each to each," and looks optimistically to a future worthy of its cherished Heritage.

Its basic purpose and mission today, as in the past, is "to provide a graduate who is the educated man—one so steeped in the knowledge and values of a liberal education as to enable him to build the skills of future specialization without losing the prospective of the good life."

William and Mary graduates have distinguished themselves in all fields of human endeavor. Among the names inscribed on the College's Roll of Fame are those of 3 presidents of the United States; the first president of the Continental Congress; 15 members of the Continental Congress; 4 signers of the Declaration of Independence; 1 chief justice of the United States Supreme Court; 3 associate justices of the United States Supreme Court; 13 cabinet members; 29 United States senators; 3 Speakers of the House of Representatives; 55 members of the House of Representatives; 18 foreign ministers; 21 governors of Virginia; 22 judges of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals; and many others.

In addition to its basic College of Arts and Sciences, William and Mary today supports a School of Education, a School of Marine Science, and the Marshall-Wythe School of Law (the oldest in the nation). Summer sessions, an Evening College and Extension programs provide for adult, part-time, and degree-earning education.

For undergraduates, concentration is possible in over twenty areas of study, with seven pre-professional programs available. The College currently offers a Master of Arts (M.A.) degree in Biology, Education, English, History, Marine Science, Mathematics, Physics, and Psychology; a Master of Education (M.Ed.) degree; a Bachelor of Civil Law (B.C.L.) degree; a Master of Law and Taxation (L.T.M.) degree; a Master of Arts in Teaching (M.A.T.) degree, and a Master of Science (M.S.) degree in Physics. A Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) degree is offered in Physics and in Marine Science; a Doctorate in Education has been established and a Doctorate in History will be inaugurated in September, 1967.

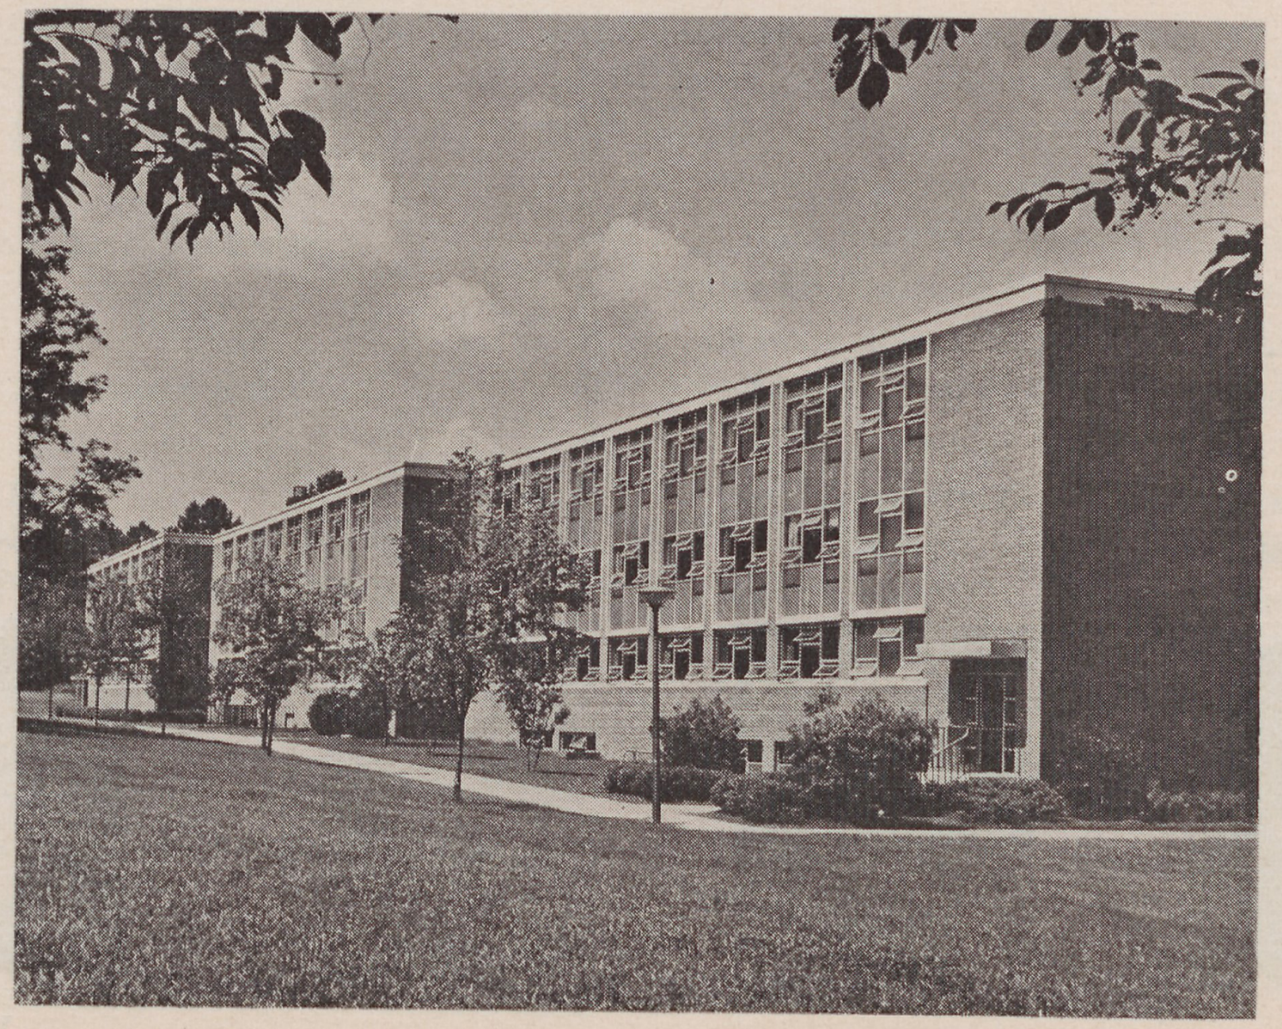

The College provides an Advanced Placement Program, which permits students to pass over beginning courses in areas of demonstrated competence. Also offered is a General Honors Program, as well as departmental Honors Programs in Ancient Languages, Economics, English, Government, History, Modern Languages, Philosophy, Physics, Psychology, Sociology and Anthropology.

The 1,200 acre campus is one of the most beautiful in the country. Heart of the campus is the historic Wren Building, oldest academic structure in the United States, still in general classroom use. The magnificent edifice, along with The Brafferton and the President's House, which flank it to the north and south, have been restored to their 18th century style, and form the "ancient campus" or "Colonial Triangle."

New construction in the past five years includes a new library, housing over one million items, a Student Center Building, the William Small Physics Laboratory, the Adair Gymnasium for Women, and a Fine Arts addition to Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Expansion of dormitory facilities include the building of duPont Hall, for women, and Yates Hall, for men. A new bookstore has been constructed and a new dining hall is in progress. Plans have been drawn for a Life science building, and for a new men's physical education building with combination gymnasium-auditorium.

The resident college, representing as it does the southern-most campus in the Ivy League type of humanitarian education for a highly selective student body, serves Virginia and the nation today as it originally served Virginia and the Crown.

Dean Johnston Becomes New Head Of Faculty Group

Dr. Johnston

Associate Dean of the Faculty Robert Johnston became the new Chairman of the Committee on Athletics last fall, succeeding Dr. Howard Holland, a former Vice-President of the conference who now is in Lebanon studying educational methods.

Johnston is a 1952 graduate of Haverford College with a Master's and Doctorate from State University of Iowa in psychology. He came to W&M in 1963.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR LES HOOKER BROADENS TRIBE ATHLETICS

William and Mary athletics, beginning an era of prosperity, is taking bold steps forward under Lester Hooker, Jr., who began re-establishing W&M athletics in July 1963 when he became athletic director.

Hooker's goals—to make the Indians contenders in the Southern Conference—have taken center stage, but in the background, Hooker continues a steady program of improving present facilities, adding new ones and complementing the present sports with new ones like wrestling, gymnastics and soccer.

Last spring Hooker took on the added duties of baseball coach and the Indians became title contenders instead of cellar-dwellers.

But, success at William and Mary is not limited to Hooker as an administrator alone. A native of Stuart, Va., Hooker, who was 45 in July, came to William and Mary first as a student in 1940, graduating in 1946 with a three year stint in the Air Force interrupting studies in 1943-46. Hooker stayed on another year to get his Master's and then began a successful swing of high school coaching that brought him first to Smithfield, then to George Washington high (Danville) and finally to Hopewell in 1950.

LES HOOKER

Hooker returned to his alma mater in 1951, coaching the basketball team to the State title and the baseball team to a winning record. From 1952-63 he coached the University of Richmond basketball teams, posting 157 wins in 11 years that included 33 straight wins against State teams. His teams won four State titles and were finalists in the Southern Conference tournament several times.

Hooker's hobbies are sports as he still finds energy to play intramural basketball and twice he won the MVP award in intramural softball.

This year Hooker will serve as Executive Director of the Educational Foundation, seeking to co-ordinate and increase alumni support and contributions.

The influence of William and Mary engulfs his life. His father, Judge Hooker, is a W&M graduate and a former member of the Board of Visitors. His wife, the former Patricia Dorsey, is a W&M alumna.

The Hookers have four children, Tricia, a sophomore at William and Mary; "Bubba", the only boy and a three sport star at James Blair high where he is a senior; and two little girls, Suzanne and JoAnne.

Hooker received The 1966 Sportscaster and Sportswriters award for "his contributions to Virginia athletes."

Les was also elected President of Southern Conference Athletic Directors for 1966.

LEVY COPS SC HONOR AGAIN

Miracle-Man Marv Levy has convinced people that his first name is really short for "marvelous."

The man who came all the way from California coached W&M to its first winning season since 1953 last year, earning his second consecutive Southern Conference Coach-of-the Year honors.

But Levy's victories on the field are being matched off the field as well. Alumni support reached a new high in 1965, expects to go even higher in 1966. Attendance is up and the glory days of football past at William and Mary is quickly becoming glory present.

Searching for football respectability in 1964 when Levy was hired, W&M became a championship contender in the SC, being nosed out by West Virginia on the last day, and gained national prestige by beating strong Southern Mississippi in the Oyster Bowl.

The intensely dedicated coach wants to be just that. Coaching is his first love and he especially likes the close student-faculty relationship that carries over to the close athlete-coach relationship found at W&M.

Levy's success is no accident. The 40 year old blends a solid combination of football experience and intelligence to formulate a solid approach to the game that emphasizes defense, the particulars and little factors that often become big factors in a game.

Levy believes a team makes its own luck—"Make something happen"—is the key phrase Levy's staff reminds its team.

His approach to the game is based on execution—"Do a few things but do them well—sooner or later someone will make a mistake and it won't be us," he tells his squad.

And it is no mistake that Levy has made a strong impression on people everywhere. The articulate, intelligent native of Chicago graduated from Coe College (1950) with Phi Beta Kappa honors, gained his Master's Degree in history at Harvard a year later and then entered coaching at St. Louis Prep School.

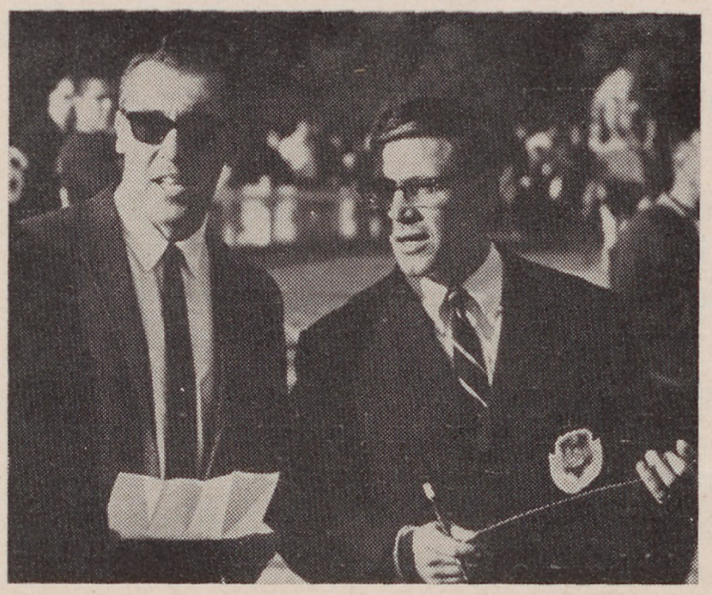

After two undefeated seasons at St. Louis in football. Levy returned to his alma mater in 1953 as head basketball and assistant football coach. In 1956 he went to New Mexico as backfield coach and then in 1958 he became head coach at New Mexico for two years, posting identical 7-3 marks, gaining Skyline Coach honors in 1958. On the heels of this success Levy became head coach at the University of California where his four years produced an 8-23-3 mark before leaving in 1963.

When the W&M position became open Levy applied, and W&M's good fortune has followed since he was named on January 1, 1964.

Married in 1951 to the former Miss Dorothy Prout, the Levy's have made Williamsburg their home having completed the transcontinental move.

Although Levy lists the coming year as being the year he will have his youngest squad, enthusiastic fans have come to expect miracles from "marvelous" Marv.

Tribe Coaching Staff Stays Intact

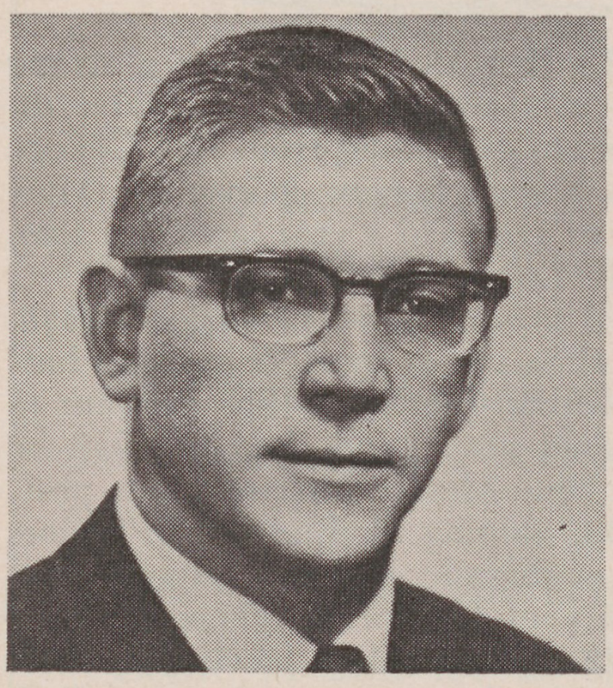

LARRY PECCATIELLO

A former All-Southern end at W&M, Larry has stayed on at his alma mater since graduation in 1958 except for a two-year stint in the Army where he played football for Fort Campbell.

A native of Newark, N. J., Larry first was frosh coach before the Army and then held that post a year after the army before moving up to end coach for the varsity. Last year Larry handled the backs.

Co-Captain on the 1957 team, Larry married the former Betsy Treiber, a W&M majorette and the Peccatiellos have three girls and a boy.

AUGIE TAMMARIELLO

Now in his fifth year at W&M, Augie will coach the offensive line. A graduate of Denver University (1959) where he made Scholastic All-America as a guard, Augie went on to get his Master's Degree at Penn State.

Coming to W&M in 1962, Augie had coached only one year at Denver and at Penn State, but quickly asserted his knowledge to the development of outstanding guards and linebackers.

Augie and his wife, the former Miss Luella Rae Pretti have two sons.

JOE DOWNING

Personable Joe Downing is well travelled before coming to W&M. Born in Lowell, Mass., Joe went to high school in Charlottesville, Va., graduated from VPI (1956) and coached high school football at Albemarle, Buena Vista and Jefferson Senior. His longest stay, three years at Buena Vista, produced a 29-1 record.

Joe came to W&M in 1964 after two years at Richmond as an assistant and in his two years here has established himself as a top-notch recruiter and scouter as well as coach.

He and his wife, the former Louise Redd have a little boy, Alex.

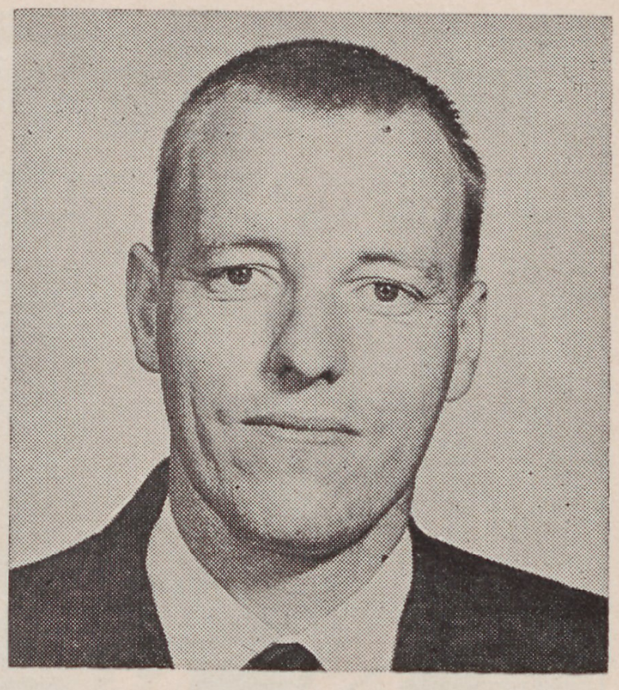

DON ROBY

Slated to coach the frosh in addition to being head recruiter, Don like Ralph Pucci is a former Coe College athlete who played under Levy.

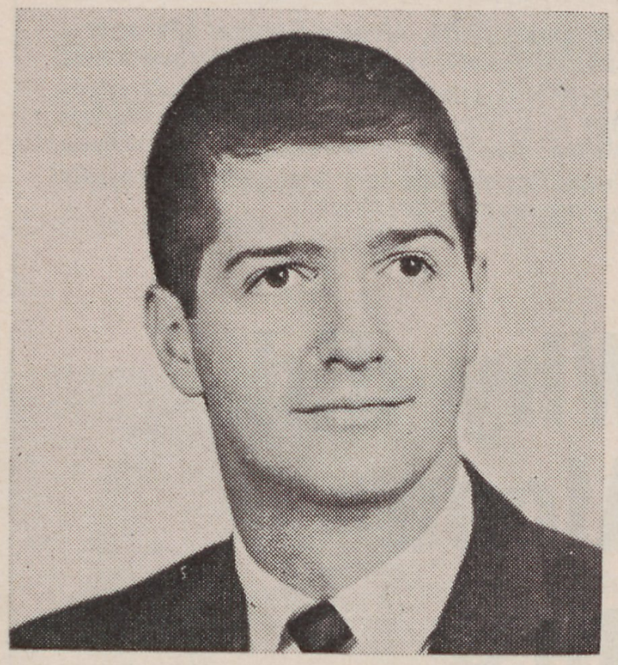

Graduating in 1958 after a three year stint with the Marines, Don gained little All-America honors as a center.

Before joining his former coach at W&M in 1964 Don coached six years in high school in Iowa the last three at Oskaloosa where he was line coach and head basketball coach.

Don is married to the former Susan Curtis and the Robys have a boy, Scottie, and a girl, Lori.

RALPH PUCCI

RALPH PUCCI

A teammate of Roby and also a 1958 graduate of Coe College, Ralph first met Levy as his coach and like Roby joined forces at W&M, but a year later.

Ralph spent seven years coaching high school football in Iowa at State Center and Denison, running up a 40-22-1 record. In his first year at W&M, Ralph coached the ends and helped George Pearce along to All-America honors. This year Ralph will also head up the scouting forces.

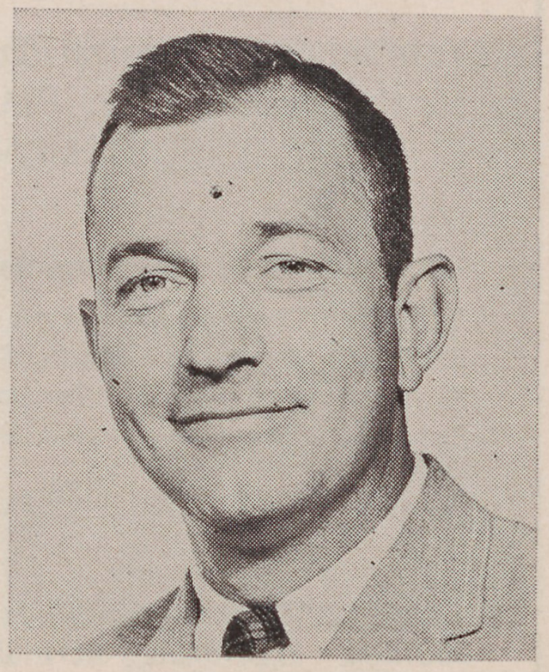

Married to the former Judy Hamperley, the Puccis have a seven-year old boy Mike.

MONT LINKENAUGER

Now in his seventh year as trainer Mont, a 1951 graduate of William and Mary, will also coach the punters.

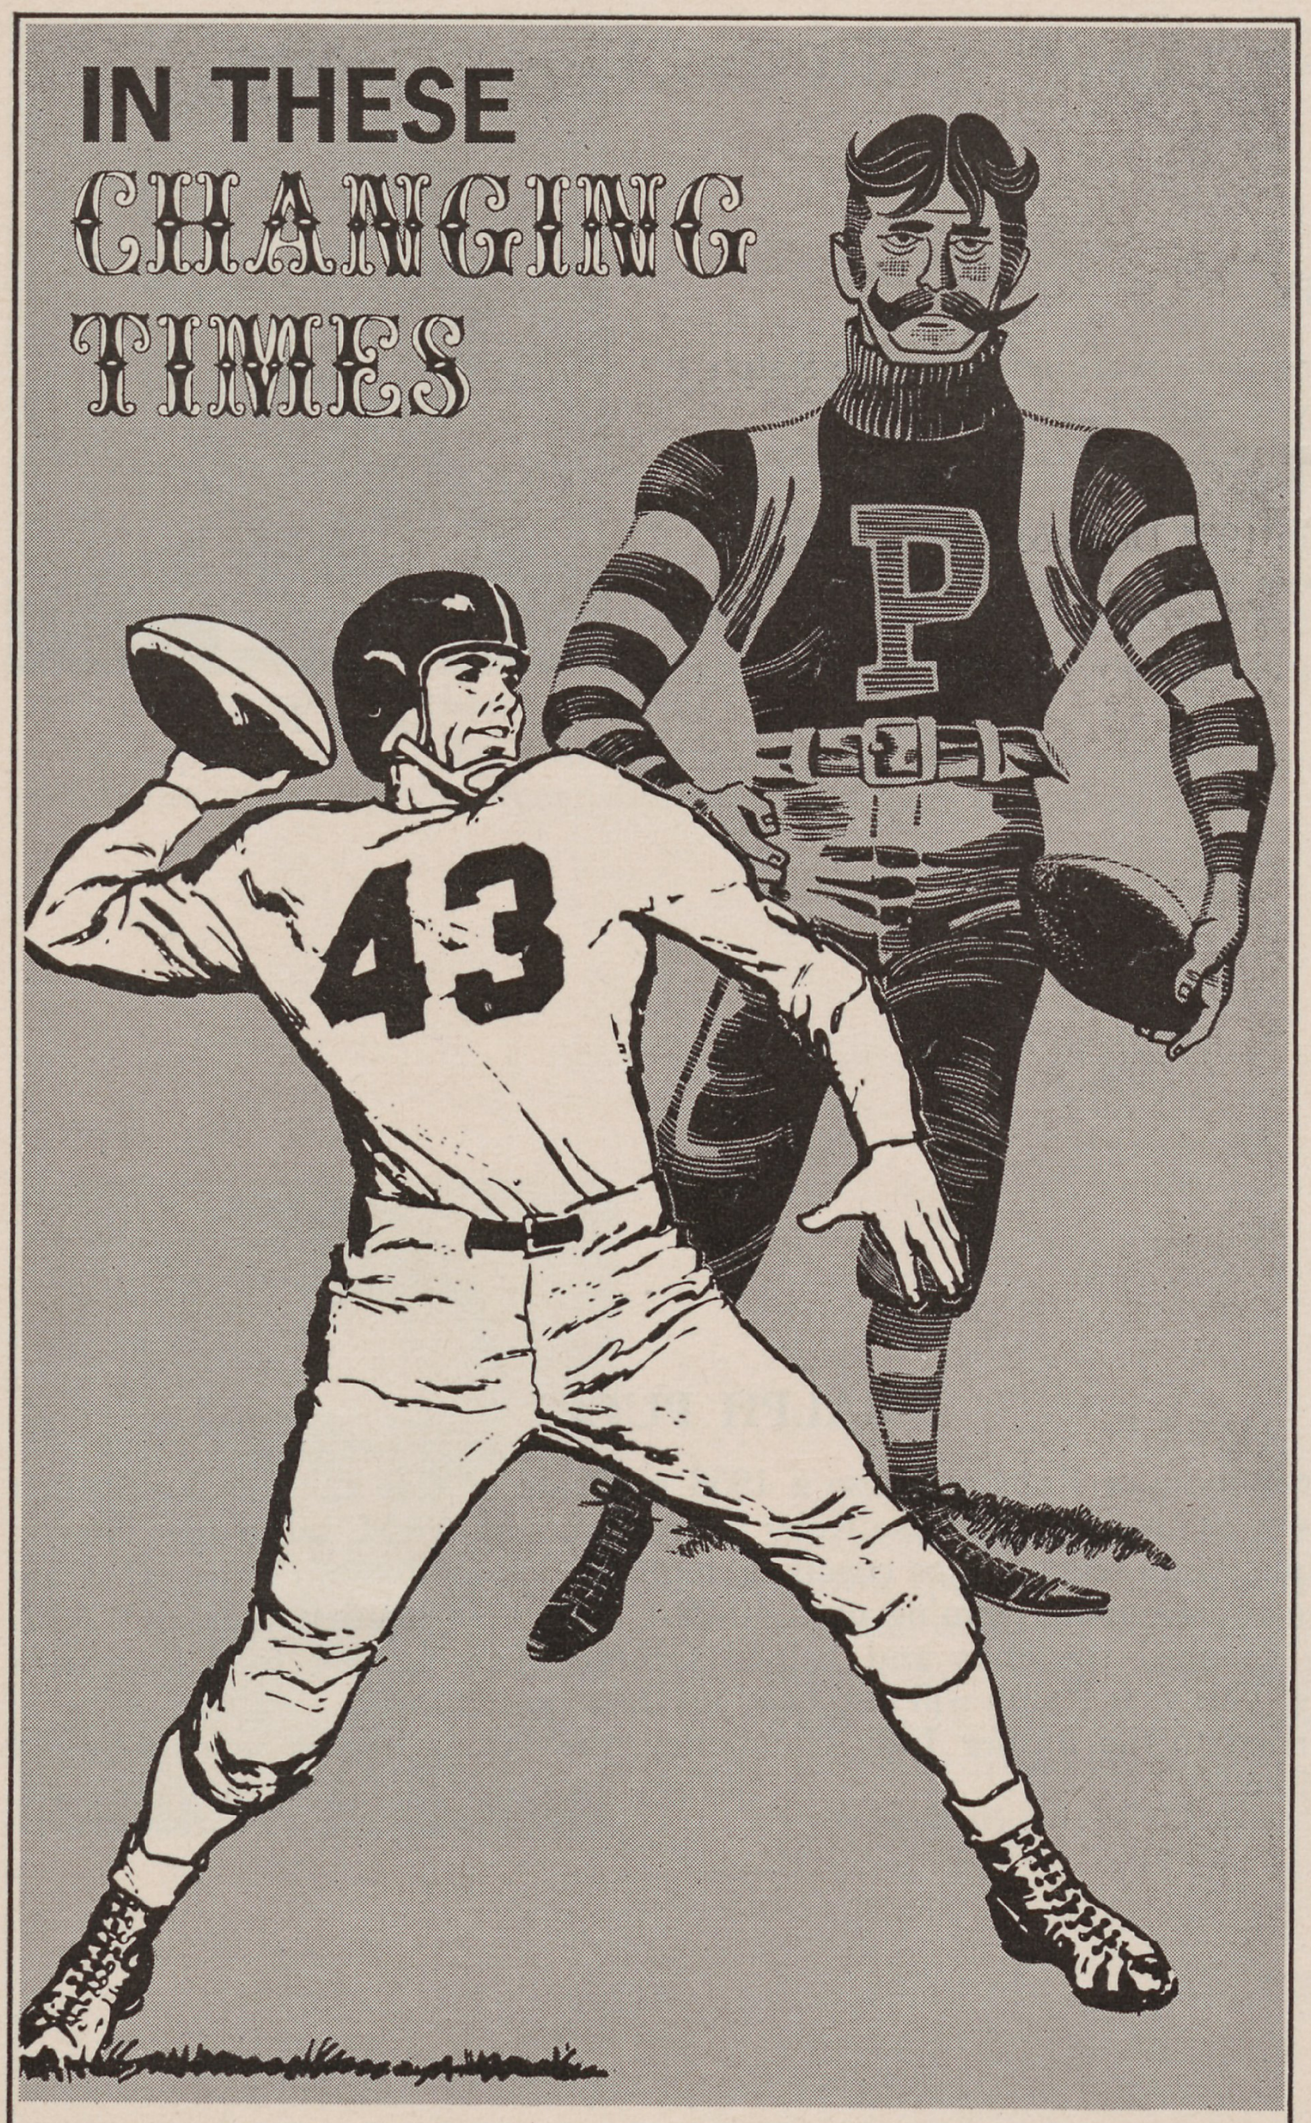

After studying medicine at MCV, Mont returned to W&M to get his Master's in Education in 1956. He also coached track at Hampden-Sydney for four years prior to 1956.

A native of Roanoke, Mont is married to the former Virginia Cottrell and they have three sons.

W. H. Davis (left), Alcoa's General Manager—Industrial Relations, says: "We've found that Army ROTC graduates with active duty experience as officers possess better than average initiative, foresight, and responsibility. These are qualities we rate very highly, and we gladly pay a premium to get them."

Why did Alcoa hire Rod Wilson?

Because Alcoa needs men to fill key positions—men capable of moving to the top; men who seek and measure up to responsibility. Rod Wilson is that kind of man. An Army ROTC Distinguished Military Graduate at Colorado State University, Rod won an officer's commission in the Regular Army along with his degree. Forty-four months of active duty, including 16 months overseas as an artillery commander, earned Rod Wilson 24-carat credentials as a leader, a man schooled in the demanding disciplines of command, the kind of man Alcoa looks for.

If you're this kind of man, prove it to yourself, and to the companies like Alcoa who are looking for you. How? Get in Army ROTC. Stay with Army ROTC, all the way to success.

Scott Swan

SCOTT SWAN

Scott Swan, captain of the 1964 William and Mary football team and an All-Southern conference defensive halfback for Marv Levy's first Indian team, returns to his alma mater to be an assistant football coach while attending law school.

A dedicated and determined performer Scott typifies the Levy attitude of molding his staff around men who have proven their desire and will to be a winner. Scott makes the third assistant to be a former player for Levy—Ralph Pucci and Don Roby both played for Levy at Coe College.

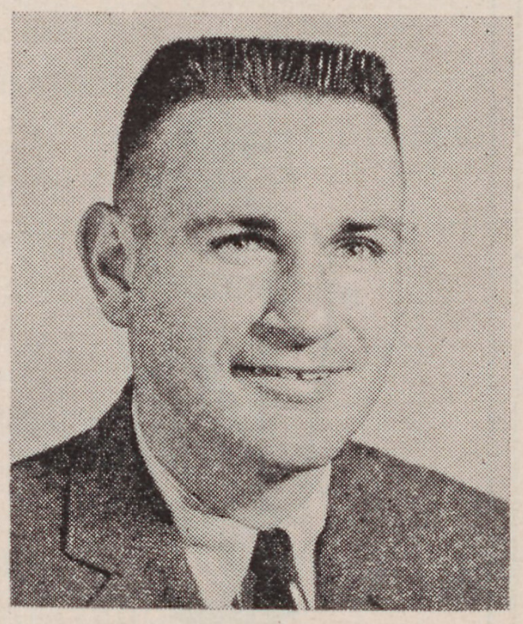

After a tryout with the Philadelphia Eagles, Scott coached football and wrestling at McLean High School before entering law school this fall.

BOBBY JAMES

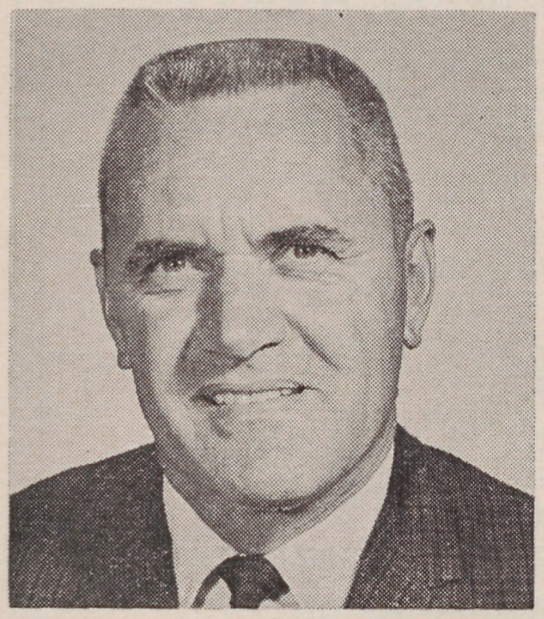

Bobby James joined the Tribe staff in 1965 as an assistant trainer and track coach.

A former hurdle champion at Old Dominion College in Norfolk, Bobby works with the sprinters and hurdlers on the tribe track team, assisting Harry Groves.

Prior to coming to William and Mary, Bobby was a teacher and track coach at Homer Ferguson High School in Newport News.

Bobby James

Ed Derringe

BUSINESS MANAGER ED DERRINGE

Now in his third year as Business Manager of Athletics, Ed Derringe is a former assistant football coach who gave up his coaching duties to become business manager when the late "Pappy" Gooch became too ill to continue.

A native of Shenandoah, Pa., Ed played collegiate ball at Georgetown before entering the Air Force as a B-29 pilot in World War II. After service, he played pro ball with Scranton in the old American Football League.

Ed began his coaching career with the Norfolk Shamrocks and then became head coach at Granby High School.

When Milt Drewer came to W&M in 1957, Ed joined him as line coach, a position he held until 1964.

Married to the former Miss Arlyne Peterson, the Derringes have three boys and three girls.

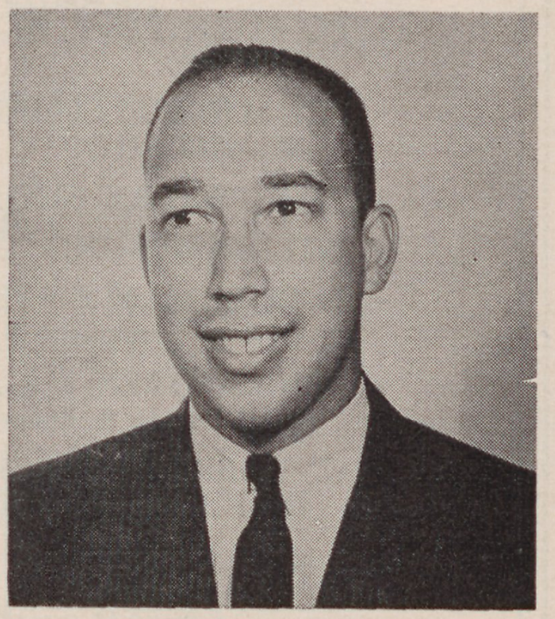

PUBLICITY DIRECTOR BARRY FRATKIN

After serving as Sports Publicity Director for three years as an undergraduate, Barry became the College's first full-time publicist since 1960 following graduation in 1964.

A native of Richmond, Va., the 24 year old tub-thumper has worked in various forms of journalism as a former sports editor of the Flat Hat, an editor on the yearbook, a play-by-play commentator in basketball and has a radio sports show.

In addition to publicity duties Barry is advertising manager and program editor for the football magazine and assists Ed Derringe in the business office.

Barry is now in the service—stationed at Fort Knox, Ky. until Oct. 31st—we expect him back on March 1st.

Indians Hope To Sink Pirates–

Today will be the first meeting of East Carolina College and the College of William and Mary. Coach Clarence Stasavich's Pirates have been extremely tough during his four year tenure with 32 wins and 7 losses. East Carolina is one of the five colleges using the single wing offense and this year with Bill Bailey as the No. 1 Tailback his charges should be as potent as ever. The Indians may be cheering "Won't You Go Home Bill Bailey" before the game is over. On the other hand, William and Mary's coach Marv Levy has his most inexperienced team, yet the team with perhaps the most potential. Levy begins his third year as Chief of the Tribe. His first was a 4-6 record that won him "Coach of the Year" honors and last year his squad had a 6-4 record, the first winning season in 13 years which brought Coach Levy a second straight Coach of the Year Award. Finishing second in the Conference in 65, the tribe is picked to be among the top three contenders for '66 along with the East Carolina squad as well as always tough West Virginia.

NEXT HOME GAME

October 8, Villanova

TICKETS ON SALE NOW AT ADVANCE SALE WINDOW AT STADIUM

The Wildcats of Villanova expect to be much tougher than last year as Coach Alex Bell begins his second year at the Philadelphia school. Only two good seniors were lost from last year's squad and several outstanding sophs are ready to bolster the team both offensively and defensively.

Pre-Game Show

Post-Game Show

Something new has been added: the William and Mary Band under the direction of Chuck Varner will perform before each home game. Show-time 1:13 so be in your seat for this extravaganza each home Saturday.

Also a post-game serenade will follow each game. All of us at the College are proud of the work of Mr. Varner and each of his band members. They are a diligent group of musicians who work overtime to make the game more enjoyable for you—our loyal fans.

EAST CAROLINA COLLEGE

East Carolina College, one of North Carolina's state-supported institutions of higher education, is located in Greenville, the county seat of Pitt County, in the heart of the Coastal Plain region of the state. It is approximately equidistant from Raleigh, the state capital, and Morehead City, a port on the Atlantic Coast. Though recent years have brought a surge in the development of a thriving industrial economy, the chief enterprises of the region remain agricultural. Those include the world's most extensive bright-leaf tobacco producing operation, sprawling across the thousands of farms throughout the coastal plain.

The campus of East Carolina, constantly undergoing change as new construction projects are begun and completed, is currently valued at about $33 million. That includes some 35 major brick buildings and a campus of just under 300 acres which stretches in a 2½-mile crescent from the heart to the southern fringe of Greenville.

An enrollment of about 9,000 students on campus gives East Carolina the third largest student population in the state. More than four-fifths of the students are North Carolinians. But a cosmopolitan flavor is added by the remaining 15 per cent or so who come from about 40 other states and several foreign nations. In various off-campus locations spotted throughout Eastern North Carolina the Extension Division of the college expects around 10,000 registrations during the 1966-'67 school year. Last year the Extension Division offered 45 per cent of all college extension courses taught in North Carolina.

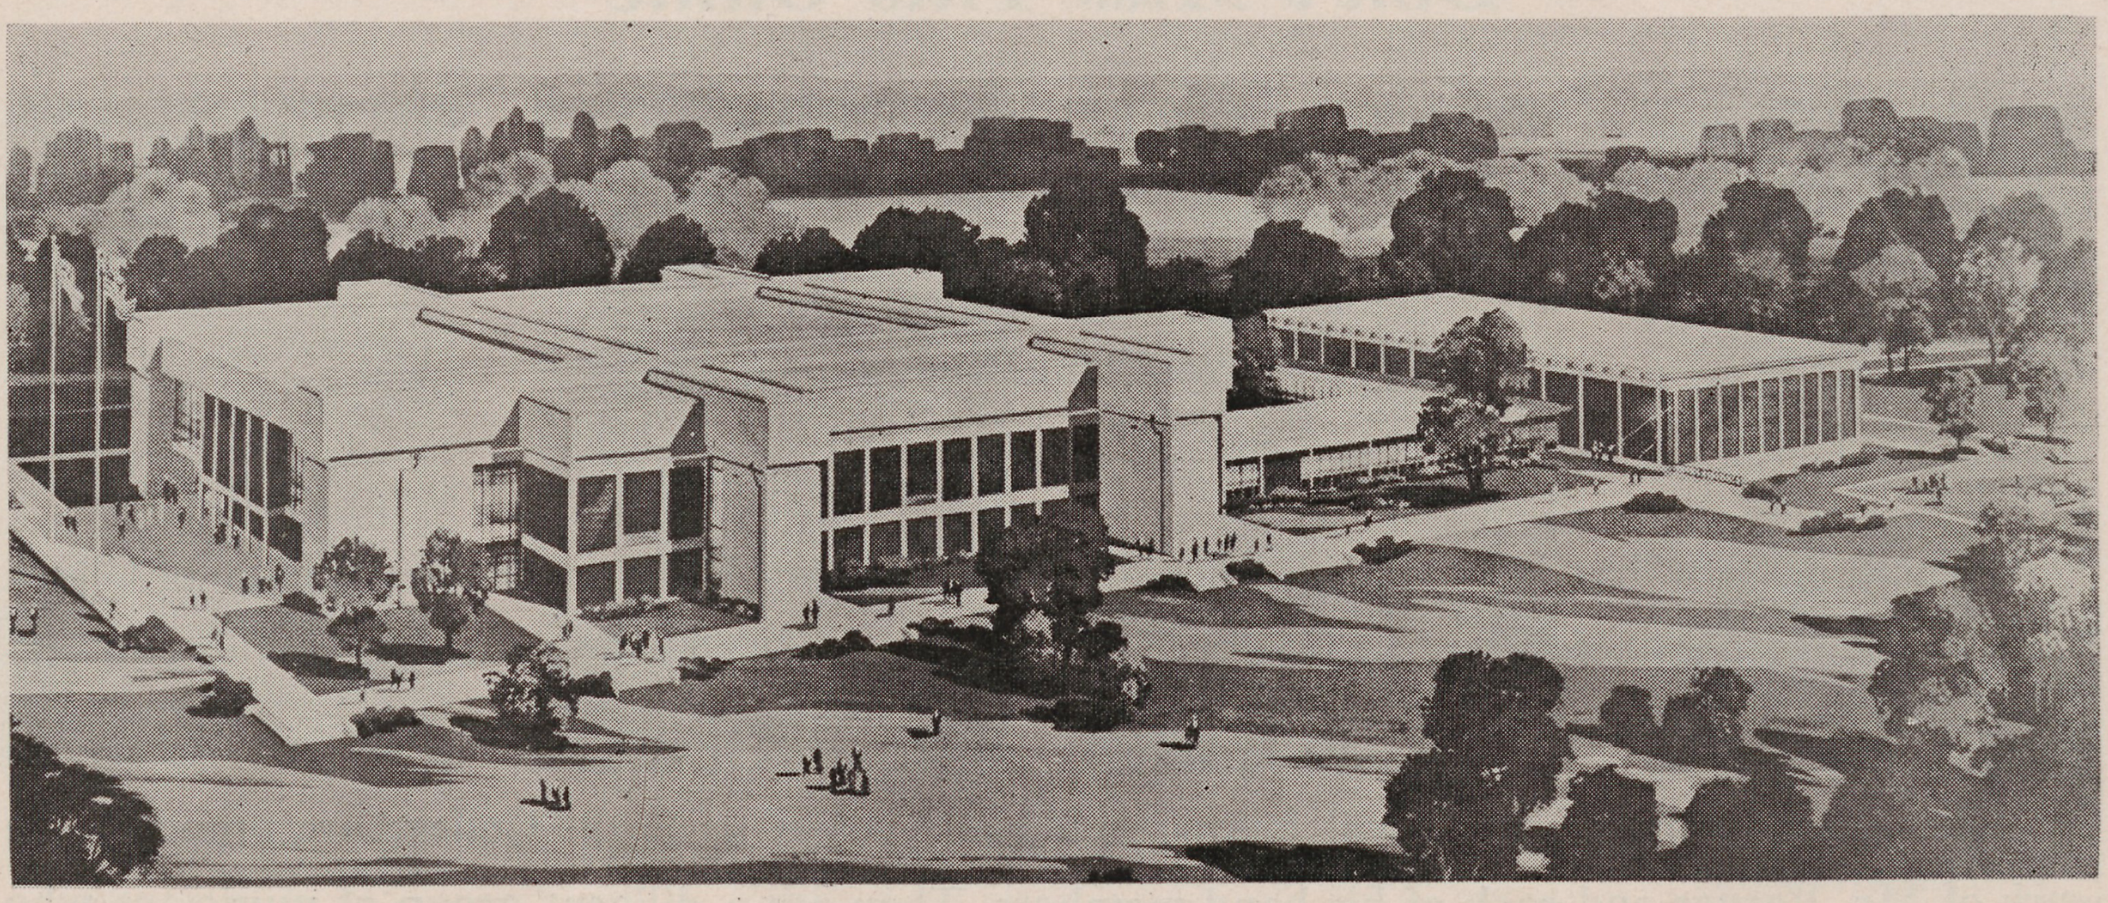

East Carolina dates back to 1907 when the state legislature chartered it as a teacher training school. It remained primarily in that role until the 1940's. Since that time it has grown vigorously as a coeducational, liberal arts college which ranks today among the leaders in the state and the Southeast. Its president, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, proposed in a speech in Raleigh in November of 1965 that East Carolina be converted from a college into a university. If, as Dr. Jenkins proposes, the college becomes an independent state-supported university it would be the state's first public university not included in the current four-branch Consolidated University of North Carolina with campuses in Chapel Hill, Charlotte, Greensboro and Raleigh.

Academically, East Carolina is organized into six schools: Art, Arts & Sciences, Business, Education, Music, and Nursing; and 19 departments: Aerospace Studies, Biology, Chemistry, Drama & Speech, English, Foreign Languages, Geography, Health & Physical Education, History, Home Economics, Industrial & Technical Education, Library Science, Mathematics, Philosophy, Physics, Political Science, Psychology, Science Education, and Sociology.

The college offers various bachelor's and master's degrees. Last May, East Carolina conferred about 1,400 degrees, including 1,157 bachelor's and 219 master's.

The outreach of the college goes far beyond traditional academic functions. Thousands of sports fans flock to Greenville to see first-rate intercollegiate competition. Audiences of more than 25,000 each summer attend performances of the professional ECC Summer Theatre, a three-year-old project which has established itself as one of the best musical theaters of its kind. The people of East Carolina's primary service area also benefit directly from such establishments as the Developmental Evaluation Clinic for mentally retarded children and the interdisciplinary Development Institute which seeks to solve socio-economic problems in Eastern North Carolina. Now the college proposes a pioneer facility in the paramedical field, an Institute of Community Health and Life Sciences. The college motto, "To Serve," is the main guideline as East Carolina seeks to identify and meet as many needs as it reasonably and practically can.

East Carolina has one of its region's largest operations from the economic viewpoint. Currently there are about 1,100 persons on the payroll, including some 420 faculty members. For the 1965-'67 biennium the operating budget amounts to nearly $19 million. In addition, a multi-million-dollar construction program is under way and last summer college authorities asked the State Advisory Budget Commission to recommend a $27.5-million building program at ECC for the 1967-'69 biennium.

The entire college or its professional programs are accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the American Association of Colleges, the North Carolina College Conference, the National Association of Schools of Music, the National Association of Schools of Art, the National Council for Accreditation for Teacher Education, the American Association of Business Teacher Education and the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States.

In addition to President Jenkins, the top administrative officers of the college are the two vice presidents, F. D. Duncan, business manager; and Dr. Robert L. Holt, dean. Chairman of its 12-member Board of Trustees is State Sen. Robert B. Morgan of Lillington, N. C. President of the Student Government Association for 1966-'67 is Steven Sniteman, a senior from Staunton, Va.

DR. LEO W. JENKINS, President
East Carolina College
Greenville, N. C.

Dr. Jenkins, a native of New Jersey, came to East Carolina College in 1947 as dean after having served his native state as assistant commissioner of higher education.

The East Carolina trustees appointed him president in January of 1960 and he has served in that position since. During his administration the college's enrollment has doubled and its reputation for excellence in academics, athletics and all-round service to the people of North Carolina has been firmly established and continues to grow.

Dr. Jenkins, a Marine major in the Pacific Theater of World War II, has fashioned for himself a place of distinction not only in higher education circles but also in the business world. He currently serves as chairman of the board of the Greenville Division of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company and as a member of the board of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company. He is chairman of the North Carolina Council of Presidents of State-Supported Colleges and Universities. Recently he has consistently made the headlines throughout North Carolina as one of the key personalities in a major continuing news story which has developed from a proposal to elevate East Carolina to independent university status outside the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

Dr. Jenkins is a graduate of Rutgers, Columbia and New York universities and has attended Duke University and Harvard University's Institute for College Presidents. He is a Methodist and he and his wife, Lillian, have three sons and three daughters.

ALEX BELL

Head Football Coach Alex Bell, (Villanova 1938)
Assistants Lou Ferry (Villanova 1948), Joe Faragalli (Villanova 1954), Eddie Michaels (Villanova 1936).
Football office phone: AC 215-LA 5-4600, ext., 246

VILLANOVA 1966 PROSPECTS: Villanova should definitely better its 1-8 record of last year. The biggest problem then was an inexperienced defense that couldn't contain opponents.

The defense should be much improved and there are several good performers returning. Only two good seniors were lost and some solid soph prospects are available.

Best of the returning backs are quarterbacks Gerry Ballotti and Bill Andrejko, halfbacks John Kolmer and Brendan Murray and fullbacks Tony Ferrainolo and Denis Ditze.

Top returning linemen include end Paul Sodaski, tackles John Fry and Joe Nolan and guards Fred Levinsky and Lou Morda.

Best of the sophs is tackle Richie Moore, a 6-7, 285-pounder who appears destined for future greatness. He is very fast for his size and excellent both ways. Tackle Frank Bogle, center Tom Braun, and end George Martin are other good bets as sophs as are halfbacks Barry Werkheiser, Frank Boal and Dennis Kelley.

The offense should be swifter with better balance and a more experienced two-platoon should become a reality. Last year, 18 of the first 22 players were juniors and sophs.

"RED" PARKER

Head Football Coach Jim "Red" Parker (Ark. A&M 1953) Assistants Harold Steelman (Ark. 1954), Bob Gatling (Ark. 1957), Dwight Adams (Henderson St. 1958), Chal Port (North Carolina 1954), Hank Witt (Newberry 1950), Oval Jaynes (Appalachian St. 1962).
Football Coach's phone: AC 803-772-1015.

THE CITADEL 1966 PROSPECTS: Eighteen lettermen form the nucleus of Red Parker's first Citadel football team. Parker became the Bulldogs' head coach in January after a very successful career at Arkansas A&M. Top returnees include Alex Gettys and Al Jones at offensive ends, Sam Thomas at an offensive tackle, Kay Stafford at an offensive guard, Mike Coburn and Kay Stafford in the defensive wall, Bill Ogburn at quarterback, Dick Hanes at wingback, and Tommy Benson at defensive halfback. Most promising of the sophomore crop are defensive end Bill Robertson, offensive center Phil Hofman, linebacker Ken Diaz, and halfbacks Jim McMillan, Jim Cahagan, and Joe Isaac. Parker regards his first season as a building year. He sees the team being too small, too slow and too inexperienced to be a contender for the Southern Conference title. Ogburn had a fine spring practice and will start the season as the No. 1 signal caller. He moved to the position midway of last season after starting the year at defensive safety. Backing up Ogburn will be junior Jim Leitner. Gene Morehead was the best running back during spring drills. A junior, he was injured most of last year and will probably start at tailback. Dick Hanes looks to be the Cadet's top all around back. A starter at both wingback and tailback last season, he has good speed and power. Of the sophomores, Hofman is a likely starter at offensive center and Diaz should be a starter on defense at linebacker. McMillan, Gahagan and Isaacs all were standouts with the freshmen last year and will be pushing hard to break into the lineup as sophomores.

JERRY CLAIBORNE

Head Football Coach Jerry Claiborne (Kentucky 1950) Assistants Bobby Collins (Miss. St. 1955), Bill Conde (Kentucky 1951), Alf Satterfield (Vanderbilt 1947), Dick Redding (Springfield 1940), Doug Shively (Kentucky 1959), Kyle Albright (VPI 1965), John Devlin (Westchester St. 1959), Jerry Eisaman (Kentucky 1961). Football coach's phone: AC 703-552-1111, ext. 455.

Athletic Director Frank O. Moseley, Ticket Manager Bill Matthews, Independent, Colors, Orange and Maroon, 8000 enrollment, located in Blacksburg, Va., Lane Stadium (30,100), Captains picked each game, Publicity Director Wendy Weisend, office phone: AC 703-552-1111, ext. 235.

VIRGINIA TECH 1966 PROSPECTS: Virginia Tech, 21-9 during the last three campaigns, has good reason to be optimistic about the 1966 season with 30 returning lettermen plus good potential from last year's frosh. Coach Jerry Claiborne will have back all but two starters from the '65 defensive unit. Heading the '66 defense will be senior tackles Sands Woody, and Andy Bowling, junior end George Fousekis and junior safetyman Frank Loria. Overall, the defense looks more formidable than last year.

Offensively, the Techmen will have a pair of fine runners, Tommy Francisco and Dickie Longerbeam, a fine set of flankmen in Gene Fisher and Ken Barefoot, who between them hauled in 50 passes, considerable experience in the interior line and kicking specialist Jon Utin. Whether either quarterbacks Tommy Stafford or Wayne Rash can match the performance of the last two seasons by Bob Schweickert or Bobby Owens is questionable, but either should be quite capable of making the Techmen go.

Tech's schedule, which includes only three games in new Lane Stadium, will be a good test, but Claiborne hasn't had a loser since his first year at VPI, and the Techmen should be a good bet to have another winner in 1966.

Notes on William & Mary Football

THE SQUAD—What stands just over 5 feet, 11 inches, weights 184.2 pounds, comes from either Virginia, Pennsylvania or New York-New Jersey area, majors in either Business Administration or Physical Education, and is a member of either Sigma Nu or Kappa Alpha fraternity?

An average W&M football player. That's the average. Here are the diversifications: The Indians vary in size from 6 foot, four inch, 215 pound tackle Steve Maier to 5 foot, 8 inch, 167 pound Donnie McGuire. The squad has players from 11 different states and the District of Columbia, including such far off lands as Texas (2), Alabama (2) and Connecticut. Academically, the Indians have 17 different majors ranging from 15 in Business, nine in Phys. Ed., four in Chemistry, three in Philosophy on down to Psychology, Geology, Physics as well as pre-law and pre-medicine. And the social ties are varied also with five fraternities represented.

THE OFFENSE—William and Mary will use the "I" formation. Emphasizing passing from a pro-set, the offense will feature a whip end, a crack back (flanker) and two running backs directly behind the quarterback.

THE DEFENSE—Changing from last year's "split six," the Indians will use a front four, three linebackers and four men in the secondary to give better pass coverage. With platoon football in vogue W&M has adopted certain names for defensive positions in an effort to distinguish them from offensive positions thus: a forcer (defensive end) is supposed to put force on the quarterback; the "anchors" (defensive tackles) are supposed to solidify the defense or just anchor in; the middle backer is just that and the corner backers are outside linebackers playing head up on the forcers; the wingers are defensive halfbacks and the safeties are dual deep men.

W&M FIGHT SONG

Oh, we will fight, fight, fight for the Indians
When the Indian team appears;
We will yell like hell for the Indians
When they hear our mighty cheers.
We will circle the ends for the Indians
And we will romp right down the field
For it's Touchdown! Touchdown! Indians!
And . . . (opponent) . . . line will surely yield.

ANOTHER TEX-A-ROBIC INSTALLATION

East Carteret High School
Carteret County, N. C.

The Tex-A-Robic sewage treatment plant shown at left has a capacity of 25,000 gallons per day. This volume was accomplished through the use of two units rated at 12,500 gallons each per day. This demonstrates the flexibility of Tex-A-Robic waste treatment equipment.

The East Carteret High School system is served by a Tex-Vit packaged pump station rated at 75 gallons per minute. Like the rest of this plant, the Tex-Vit pump station is prefabricated and pretested, arriving on the job site ready to install. The circular entrance tube in the foreground leads to the Tex-Vit pump station.

Principal parties involved:
Architect: Leslie N. Boney, Wilmington
Engineer: Walter Smith, Durham
Contractor: Lenoir Plumbing & Heating Co., Kinston

Now available from Pomona Pipe . . .

TEX-A-ROBIC

WASTE TREATMENT PLANTS

The Tex-A-Robic sewage treatment process involves the decomposition of liquid sewage by biological oxidation and the reduction of sewage solids by aerobic digestion. The latter function is achieved by continuous aeration resulting in the addition of oxygen to the sewage until an acceptable percentage of solids has been converted to inert sludge.

The Spiral Action of the Tex-A-Robic Extended Aeration plant shown below continually suspends the solids in the aeration section. They flow through an inlet aperture into the clarifier section where the sludge particles settle to the bottom to be pumped back into the aeration section. The recirculation provides additional bacteriological breakdown until the sludge reaches the inert state. In a typical installation, sewage will be treated for 24 hours, and then clarified for four hours in a single tank. Prefabricated—ready to install.

CHEER FOR MILK'S VITALITY

Put Vitality on your team... drink milk! A glass of cool, refreshing milk with meals and snacks helps see you through the busiest fall schedule. No other beverage helps you get the lasting energy found only in nature's Vitality drink... Milk. You'll cheer for milk's Vitality.

a message from dairy farmer members of american dairy association

Your car needs the real pick-up and power of Final Filtered AMOCO, the top-scoring gasoline that is the Champion by being more in quality . . . less in price. AMOCO contains no lead to foul pistons, plugs, or valves. Saves on tune-ups, too. When you want real action . . . real get-up-and-go! . . . try a fill of AMOCO. You'll like the action . . . and the economy.
