JAMES E. HOLSHOUSER, JR.
GOVERNOR

A most cordial and warm welcome to visiting teams and fans of the East Carolina University Pirates.

North Carolina is proud of this fine football club which has repeatedly shown outstanding athletic skill and sportsmanship. The Pirates have represented us well in competition within and outside the Southern Conference--so well, in fact, that they have been selected to participate in several end-of-the-season bowl games.

We look forward to another good football season for the Pirates.

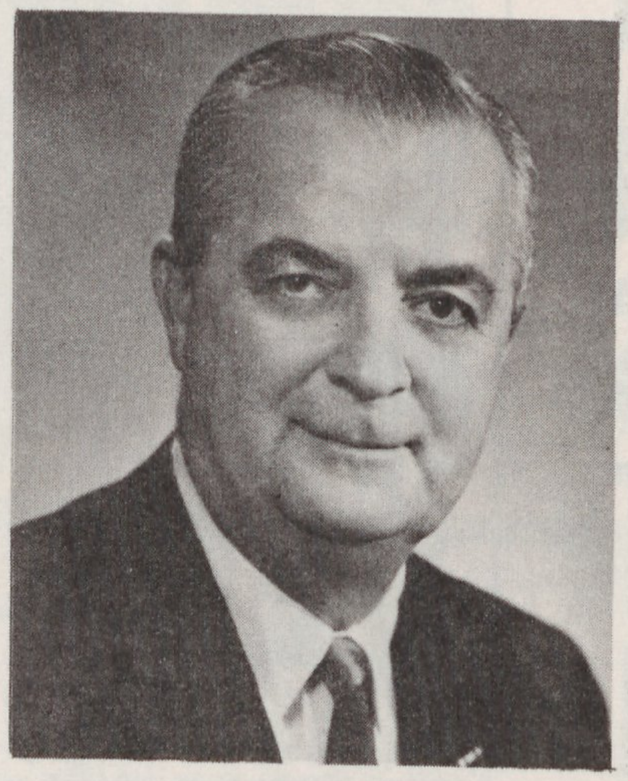

Sincerely,

James E. Holshouser, Jr.

EAST CAROLINA

A MULTIPURPOSE UNIVERSITY

East Carolina University, the focal point of development in eastern North Carolina, has rapidly but orderly grown from a normal school to a multipurpose university during its 66 years of service to the region and the state.

Chartered by the General Assembly in 1907 as East Carolina Teachers Training School, the University has grown from an enrollment of 123 in 1909 to more than 10,000 in 1973, making East Carolina the third largest institution of higher learning in North Carolina.

Students from 97 of North Carolina's 100 counties, 40 states and 15 foreign countries attend East Carolina.

The campus encompasses approximately 600 acres adjacent to downtown Greenville. Most of the classroom buildings, research facilities and residence halls are less than 10 years old. Construction of buildings valued at several million dollars, including an art complex and a new student union is currently underway. The total physical plant is valued at more than $55,000,000.

The athletic complex alone takes up 79 acres. It consists of Minges Natatorium and Coliseum, Scales Field House, Ficklen Stadium, the Century Club Building, University Field, the Sports Medicine complex, an all-weather track and tennis courts. East Carolina fields 11 varsity teams–football, basketball, baseball, cross- country, soccer, wrestling, indoor track, swimming, golf, tennis and outdoor track.

In 1920, East Carolina was authorized to offer four-year teacher education degrees and to grant a bachelor of arts degree. A year later, the school name was changed to East Carolina Teachers College by the General Assembly.

During the period from 1934 to 1960, the school continued to grow, though not as spectacularly in terms of enrollment. A curriculum leading to a bachelor of science degree was authorized in 1941 as the college expanded to meet occupational needs other than teaching. By 1951, undergraduate majors were offered in 17 areas and graduate programs in 10 areas. It was in that year that the General Assembly changed the school name to East Carolina College.

A major turning point for East Carolina, both academically and athletically, came in 1960 when Dr. Leo W. Jenkins was inaugurated as the school's sixth president. Under his guiding hand, East Carolina College became East Carolina University in 1967 and enrollment more than doubled in a 10-year period.

Dr. Jenkins, whose title was changed to chancellor in 1972, has also been instrumental in the development of East Carolina's School of Medicine.

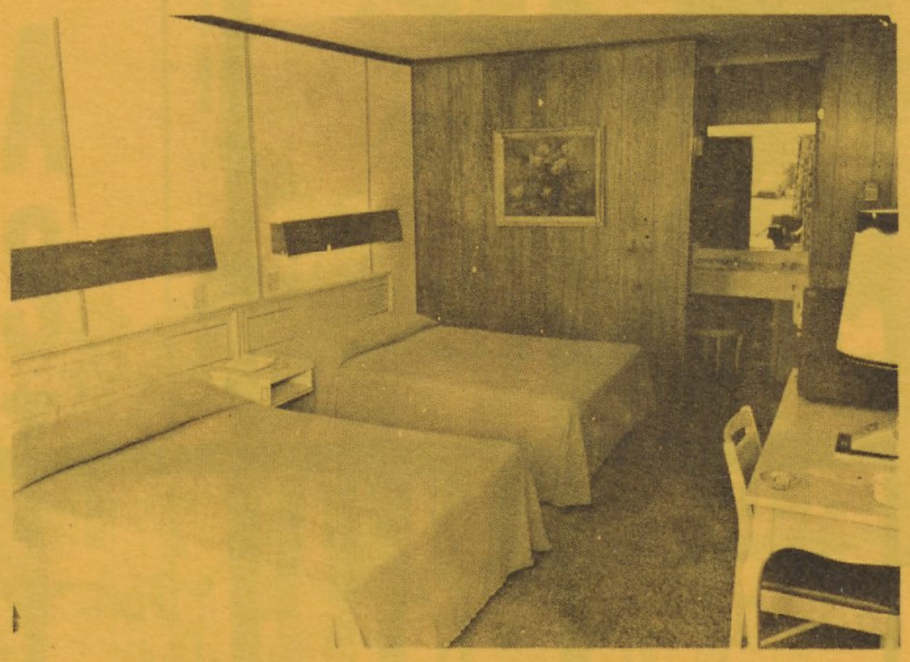

Today, East Carolina, a national leader in teacher preparation, has expanded its academic programs to offer undergraduate majors in 26 areas and graduate programs in 22 areas. Aside from the College of Arts of Sciences, the Graduate School and the School of Medicine, there are seven professional schools: Allied Health Professions, Art, Business, Education, Home Economics, Music and Nursing.

With the reorganization of the state's university system in 1972, East Carolina became a constituent part of the University of North Carolina system.

ART BAKER
Head Coach

Sonny Randle and the East Carolina Pirates would like the fans to know one thing before kickoff.

That is, Furman is a good, young football team. They are undefeated and that makes them tough.

The Paladins boast a new coach in Art Baker, a new squad outlook featuring freshmen stars at many key positions and most important of all, an explosive offense which has scored six of its eight touchdowns from more than 60 yards away.

"You can't say too much about Furman's football program," Randle said this week. "Art Baker has turned that club around. I didn't think he could do it so fast, but believe me, he did. The freshmen players, especially quarterback David Whitehurst, are exceptional athletes and they are contributing to the program."

The freshmen Randle refers to aside from Whitehurst are tailback Larry Robinson and Andy Goss, who ripped off a 61 yard TD run to beat Wofford last week. Robinson has rushed for 166 yards in three games, averaging 6.1 yards per carry.

The Paladins are a careful mixture of youth and age, boasting defensive back Vince Perone, veteran wide receiver Mike Bartik and several experienced down linemen including Mike Romano, Tony Cox and Jerry Cofer. Youth is obvious in the squad breakdown: 15 seniors, 13 juniors, 10 sophomores and 18 freshmen.

Furman is off to its best start in 10 years which was the last time the Paladins won their three opening games. Coach Baker has built his offense first, using as many as 15 freshmen in each of the first three games. Seven frosh started against Wofford last Saturday.

Although offensive statistics have been the order of the day in all three games, the Paladins also boast the "Junkyard Dogs," the defensive unit. Like ECU's "Wild Dogs," the "Junkyard Dogs" have been playing it tough, blanking Appalachian 17-0 while holding Presbyterian to only six points.

The defensive unit received its name because only two starters return. The defense allowed 28 points per game in 1972 when the Paladins posted a dismal 2-9-0 record.

The star of the defensive unit is all-conference performer Vince Perone, who returned a kickoff 101 yards against Wofford last week to start Furman's rally. Perone tied a conference record with 10 interceptions last year and already has one to his credit this season.

Overall, the defense starts four first year men.

Paladin Scouting Report ...

FURMAN MASCOT

Furman's team statistics are interesting. The Paladins have scored 51 total points to 25 for the opposition. Four of Furman's six touchdowns have been scoring via rushing while the Paladins have piled up 33 first downs rushing and nine passing.

The Paladins have amassed 719 yards rushing while opponents have managed only 555.

The punting game respectable with Tom Woodson averaging 39.2 yards per boot.

The only glaring negative statistic may be fumbles and fumbles lost where the Paladins have coughed up the ball 10 times, losing six.

Coach Baker chose not to comment on Furman, but instead about East Carolina: "The Pirates are probably one of the most awesome football teams we will play this year. They just knocked Southern Mississippi all over the field and then Southern Mississippi went to Florida this weekend and almost won, losing 14-13."

The team as a whole has great talent. Strayhorn and the remainder of the backs hit the holes faster than anybody we've seen. The offensive line is big and strong and they block together which has produced some fantastic holes.

"East Carolina is an unbelievable challenge for us. If we are to win the game, we must be flawless on offense and a lot tougher on defense."

"The key may be defense. From our end, we will have to get to the ball much quicker than we have in previous weeks. I know how fast ECU can reach the ball, you can see that in every film we've seen."

Following the East Carolina game, the Paladins host Richmond, Davidson and V.M.I. in Greenville, S.C. for crucial SC games before taking on East Tennessee State, Lenoir Rhyne in Hickory and The Citadel in Charleston, S.C.

An 11th game has recently been added against the University of Louisville in Louisville, Ky. The date will be Nov. 17.

FURMAN GAME
COACHING REPORT
Sept. 29, 1973

COMING HOME 2-1

Dear Pirate Fan,

In reflecting on the season thus far, I don't think there is anybody on our coaching staff including myself that ever dreamed we'd be 2-1 at this stage. All summer long I kept visualizing being 0-3 or 1-2.

We actually felt like if we could come home to play our first game in Ficklen Stadium, a conference game, coming off three straight very, very difficult road games with a 1-2 record that we'd still have an opportunity to have a great year.

We've completely reversed ourselves and I think fooled a lot of experts and come home to play an undefeated Furman team. In our way of thinking, that's a pretty fantastic.

I not in a million years ever dreamed that we were not ready to play football when we opened at State College in Raleigh. We were not ready and certainly I'm the guy that should shoulder the blame. There was one thing about the State game, I think it was a rude awakening for all concerned. We realized that we would have to really go to work and that we'd have to go about things a little differently. That's exactly what we did.

I really think it was a blessing in disguise. Right away each and every member of the squad and each and every coach knew positively that we'd have to swing things around 180 degrees if we expected to make things happen in 1973.

We tried very hard to get State out of our minds. I think we did just that. We had to get ready for that second game on the road against a real, real fine Southern Mississippi team. They outweighed us 30 or 40 pounds to a man.

I want to be honest. I thought very seriously during the summer about rather than risking injury to any key people that I might take the freshmen or the third unit down to play Southern Mississippi. There aren't too many people that are aware of that fact, but I promise that I lived with it all summer long.

The State game dictated that all of our good people go and we played that game just like we were playing anybody else on our schedule. I don't think there is any question that it was the greatest team effort I've ever seen at East Carolina University. We were outweighed, we were outmanned. We were just playing an awesome, awesome football team.

But the effort by our young men for 60 minutes was something that I've never seen in my 18 years of football. It was a great victory, it was a hard fought victory.

It is very difficult to single out individuals although Kenny Strayhorn and Don Schink, our two running backs, did a fantastic job. Carl Summerell had a good football game. Offensively, up front, we have to mention everyone across the line. They opened gaping holes.

Against Southern Mississippi, our defense came up with a remarkable performance. We had 11 folks executing, and I mean 11. It was beautiful to watch. Kenny Moore had a fine game, probably the best since he came to East Carolina. Our down four, Cary Godette, Buddy Lowery, Joe Tkach and Moore were outstanding. The linebackers, Skip Russell substituting for Strawderman did a great job and Danny Kepley had his usual great game. Billy Hibbs and Gary Niklason both played well, Niklason especially, he had a heck of a game.

Our secondary with a freshman (Jimmy Bolding) performed well. Believe me, Jimmy has come of age. Rusty Markland and Mike Myrick give us the veterans we need.

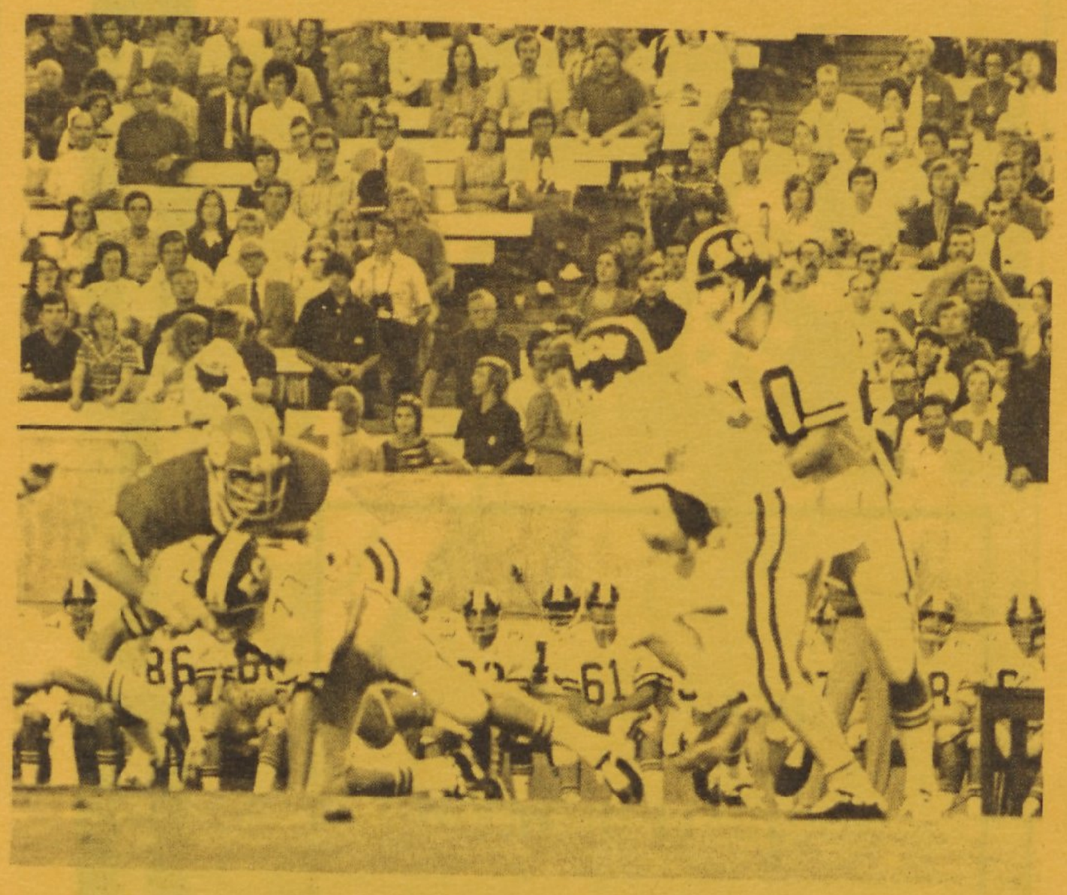

I think the last time Southern Mississippi was shut out was some 20 years ago. So, we had a super effort.

Going into the SIU game, we felt like they had taken all their good people and put them on offense. They had great speed which we feared more than anything else going into the game. They have 4.5 or 4.6 sprinters and on that Astroturf it makes those folks unbelievably quick. SIU battled us all the way.

Our youngsters played not the best game of the year, but they played well enough to win. On several occasions our backs were to the wall and every time we were faced with that situation, we rose to the occasion. We truely played like champions–with a lot character.

We were beat up physically. How that will affect the squad the rest of the way I'm not real sure, but we did take a beating.

They took a beating too. It was one of the hardest hitting contests I've witnessed in my short stay in the collegiate ranks. I think jumping out as quickly as we did hurt us, it was natural for us to let down. Then all of a sudden, they capitalized very nicely and got back in the game.

Randle Report...

Right now, I'm only concerned with one aspect of our game—the kickoff team. We're giving up entirely too much yardage on kickoff returns. When we get that straightened out, I think we'll be in pretty good shape.

Again, I hate to single out individuals, but Summerell had a fantastic game. Carlester Crumpler showed his old spark and visions of greatness and Schink and Strayhorn both had fine games.

A couple of mistakes defensively hurt us dearly. But we did the job when we had to.

So, as I mentioned earlier, we're out of the third game of the season 2-1. As far as a lot of folks are concerned, that's just out of the question. But I'm mighty, mighty pleased that we could finish with a 2-1 record.

We play an undefeated team in our home opener. Furman, with a head coach in Art Baker, is a fine football team. I knew that Coach Baker would turn their program around although I didn't think he could turn them around this quickly. They have real talent, they're explosive. They'll score from 50 to 60 yards out, so that should give you some idea.

This will be a most difficult week for us. We have our work cut out for us. But it's our first home date and I know our youngsters will be anxious and ready to play the first game at home.

We can't look any farther ahead than Furman or we may get our ears pinned back. The schedule now for the next three weeks might help us. The teams we play are not as physical as the first three we've played—that in no way is intended to take anything from the squads that we play. We play Furman, then Davidson, then V.M.I. and then The Citadel. That's four in a month. A tough assignment.

RANDOM COMMENTS – There are a lot of close friends and fans that I guess wonder how we arrive at the starting 11 every week. After the State game, we had some players who we thought were capable but didn't perform. We made I think five or six changes offensively and defensively.

Everything pertaining to a young man starting is predicated on his performance the game before and his performance that week in practice. If a man is hurt and can't practice, then there is no way he can play that week. He has to excel during the week. That phrase that I didn't particularly care for as a player—"you play like you practice." Well, there is a whole lot to it.

If a young man in our evaluation has not practiced or performed like he is capable, then that will have some bearing in the final analysis as to whether he starts or not.

There has been great concern over Crumpler with Kenny (Strayhorn) starting in his place. I can only say this: until this particular week, Crumpler has been hurting and has not been able to run and perform like he is capable. On the other hand, Strayhorn has played extremely and has practiced well. Believe me, there is no way that I'll ever justify in my own mind giving a young man a starting position unless he has earned it. The only thing that dictates a starting job at East Carolina University is performance.

Sincerely,
Sonny Randle
Head Football Coach

Head Coach Sonny Randle said repeatedly following the North Carolina State game, "don't write us off." Some did, Randle thinks, "but now look at us. No one ever thought we'd go on the road to places like Mississippi Southern and Southern Illinois and come back a winner. It shows how far we've come and what kind of class team we have."

"It's good to be home and it's great to come home with a 2-1 record."

Opponents previewing the Pirates through the Spring and Summer expected a running game built around Carlester Crumpler and quarterback Carl Summerell. Well, those who previewed are coming back for another look because the Pirates boast four effective runners–tailback Ken Strayhorn, fullback Don Schink, Crumpler and Summerell.

The rushing statistics are virtually even. Crumpler has gained 213 yards on 39 carries while Strayhorn, who won the startingjob following the season's opener, has picked up 217 yards on 54 totes. Summerell, who rushed only eight times in the first two games combined, carried the football 11 times at Southern Illinois, scored three touchdowns, and gained 69 yards.

And don't forget Schink, the quiet durable fullback who has 179 yards on 37 carries including 61 at SIU and a game leading 89 at Southern Mississippi.

Another outfit wearing purple and gold, is doing some rushing of its own. Its the "Wild Dogs" defense, led by the tough front four of Cary Godette, Ken Moore, Joe Tkach and Buddy Lowery and by the linebackers, Danny Kepley, Billy Hibbs, Gary Niklason and Skip Russell.

The "Wild Dogs" shut out Southern Mississippi two weeks ago, the first time P.W. Underwood had been shutout in his college career. At SIU, the "Wild Dogs" scored two touchdowns on fumble recoveries in the end zone.

That unit also produced a Southern Conference Defensive Player of the Week last week in Ken Moore.

The "Wild Dogs" may welcome back a crucial missing link this weekend if linebacker Butch Strawderman is available to play. Strawderman sprained his knee during two-a-days and has missed the first three games. He has been working out in full gear for two weeks, but is taking his time to make sure the knee heals correctly.

Newspaper headlines early in the season bemoaned the loss of placekicker Ricky McLester. Since McLester left practice, no one has lauded the efforts of placekicker Jim Woody and frosh punter Jonathan Deming. Woody booted two important field goals at Southern Mississippi, missed by inches from 37 yards away at Southern Illinois and continues to drill extra point boots.

Deming, who was thrown into battle at N.C. State with no college experience, has averaged 38-plus yards per punt including a 60-yard boomer from his own end zone against Southern Mississippi. At SIU last weekend, he punted six times for an average of 37 yards.

The Pirate injury report lists nothing more than aches and pains following a hard hitting game last week. No one is expected to miss tonight's game, although several players may be slowed.

Last week was East Carolina's only exposure to polyturf in 1973. The players had mixed emotions. Most thought the surface was very fast, allowed harder hitting, but was very irritating to arms and hands. Other players complained of leg cramps from playing on the surface as opposed to grass. The majority complaints concerned the hardness of the field. Players said they bounced instead of sliding.

COMING UP !!

A PREVIEW OF THE NEXT HOME GAME

October 13 will be a hectic day in East Carolina country. The Pirates, living on buses and planes for more than a month, host Virginia Military Institute in a crucial Southern Conference game.

It will also be "Youth Night" in Ficklen Stadium, a night honoring the youth of Greenville, Pitt County and eastern North Carolina. Special events on "Youth Night" include ticket give aways by North Carolina Motor Speedway and a guest Grand National driving star to sign autographs. The Carolina 500 will be run at Rockingham Sunday, Oct. 21 and speedway promoter Herman Hickman would like to invite area race fans to Ficklen Stadium to meet a driver and Miss North Carolina Motor Speedway and then to Rockingham the following weekend for the race.

Other "Youth Night" promotions include a "DJ for a Day" contest at Big WOOW radio and a "Putt-Putt Extravaganza" featuring a special offer at the local 18-hole layout.

But none of that will upstage the football battle at centerfield. The Pirate-Keydet showdown along with the Furman-Davidson game highlight conference activities that day.

By early November, the Southern Conference race will be sizzling down the stretch with the Pirates headed home for three important dates—William & Mary Nov. 3, Richmond for Homecoming Nov. 10 and Appalachian State Nov. 17.

Tickets for all Pirate home dates are still available at the East Carolina Ticket Office in Minges Coliseum. Other special nights include "Band Night" Nov. 3 and "Salute to Industry Night" Nov. 17.

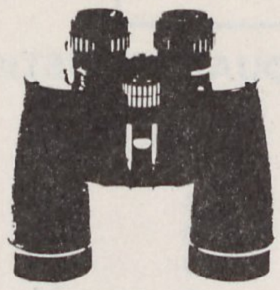

Tonight's Halftime...

In keeping with this year's theme, the 1973 Marching Pirates under new directors George Naff and Gary Beauchamp open their season with VARIETY IN MUSIC AND MOTION.

To set the stage the band takes the field to the tune, "This Is My Country," moving to midfield by evolving geometric designs.

For TOTAL contrast, both in music and motion, the band will form three concentric circles and move interpretively to the soft music of another famous theme song, "Over the Rainbow."

The Greenville (S.C.) News

When the NCAA decided to make freshmen eligible for varsity competition, many felt that only a few outstanding individuals would be able to make a contribution.

But at Furman, where first-year coach Art Baker has his surprising Paladins unbeaten after three games, freshmen have been used in waves. As many as 17 have seen action in one contest, and seven are entrenched as starters.

In fact, so many freshmen are playing on the varsity, that Furman has been forced to cancel its junior varsity schedule.

Baker admits that Furman's freshmen "Have exceeded my expectations," and it's easy to see why.

In each of the first three games, a new freshman has emerged to be the star.

In the first contest, a 13-6 win over Presbyterian, it was quarterback David Whitehurst, who came off the bench in the second half to win himself a starting position, possibly for the next four years.

At 6-3 and 195 pounds, Whitehurst is called by Baker "the model for the veer quarterback. If you put the ingredients for a veer quarterback on the board, David would fit them to a T." Others are calling Whitehurst, who has been drafted by the Atlanta Braves as a pitcher-outfielder, the best Furman has had since Washington Redskin quarterback Sam Wyche was on campus.

"David is ragged around the edges, but he comes up with the big play," Baker thinks. David does an excellent job of reading defense on passes – he throws to the man most likely to be open, where the interception is least likely. For a freshman, this is super." says Baker.

The second game brought freshman Larry Robinson to the attention of Paladin fans. Robinson, subbing for an injured Donny Griffin, Furman's best running back a year ago and 133-yard rusher in the opener, broke the Appalachian State game open with a 70-yard scoring scamper and ended the 17-0 Furman win with 132-yards on the ground.

Against a good Wofford team, taken apart by Southern conference member Davidson, it was freshman Andy Goss who took the starring honors. Goss' 61-yard burst from scrimmage was the decisive scoring in a 21-19 triumph.

In explaining the success Furman's freshmen have enjoyed, Baker says, "Freshmen don't play that well unless they are taught, and our assistant coaches have done a great job. Also, the seniors attitude towards the freshmen has really made a difference. They appreciate the situation, and realize we need all the help we can get."

Although Furman is off to its best start since 1963, the Paladins have yet to face a team the caliber of East Carolina or Richmond, their next two foes. So far, the Paladins enthusiasm has overcome inexperience. Whether it continues to do so, will be decided over the next two weeks.

There is something about an East Carolina-Furman football game that defies definition. Perhaps it might best be called a "non-traditional tradition."

Except for a few years in the history of the series, now going into its 11th game, East Carolina has been the dominate team. The Bucs have won on eight occasions, and lost just twice. Most of the time, East Carolina was supposed to have won. A couple of times, Furman was the favorite.

The series got its start back in the Jack Boone era of football, when the Paladins took a 29-8 victory over the Bucs, then members of the Carolinas Conference. In that year, Furman was 7-3-0, a record they have equalled once and surpassed once since then. And that year it was the best in eight years. East Carolina was 5-4-1.

The series wasn't renewed until 1964 when the Pirates of East Carolina were on their way to their first Tangerine Bowl under Clarence Stasavich. This time, East Carolina was the favorite.

The Bucs came into the game, the eighth of the year with a 6-1 record, losing only to Richmond, 22-20. That was the final season of tailback Bill Cline, and Furman's Bob King remarked later that every time he looked up Cline was running for a touchdown. The Bucs whipped Furman that year, 34-13, and that represented the biggest margin the Pirates ever rolled up against the Paladins.

The following year, the Bucs faced Furman in the second game of the year, and were heavy favorites, having won their opener over a strong West Chester team, 27-6, as Neal Hughes made his debut. Furman had kicked Frederick in its opener, but had been badly beaten by Davidson the next week. Clearly, the powerful Bucs, seeking their first Southern Conference title, were heavy favorites.

But it didn't turn out that way. Something was wrong, and it never got straightened out. Furman led all the way, taking a 14-7 victory in a stunning upset. East Carolina got straightened out and went the rest of the way, earning another Tangerine Bowl victory, but that one loss, one that many felt should never have been, kept them from a perfect season.

In 1970, the Furman-East Carolina game turned into a history-making event. The paladins went into the game with a 5-2 record. They were leading the Southern Conference, and a victory over East Carolina, then 0-7, could have propelled them into their only title in the league.

But it was not to be, the fired-up Bucs, working against all odds, with injured and sick players battling to stay on the field, held Furman scoreless and put one touchdown on the board, giving them a 7-0 victory, equalling the upset of Furman over the Bucs in 1965.

All that is history. But if history does teach a lesson, it is that East Carolina-Furman football games seldom run to form. They are traditionally against the tradition.

And Furman, 3-0, appears to be a tough candidate for the 2-1, Pirates even with tradition.

SONNY RANDLE

Southern Conference Coach of the Year

Sonny Randle is a man of many moods, many faces and many temperaments, but he is dedicated to only one goal—a winning, first class football team. And, it would not be premature to say that he has done that at East Carolina in two short years.

Sonny Randle would tell you his 9-2 overall record and perfect 6-0 Southern Championship mark in 1972 was past history and that all he considers important now is having his club ready to repeat—the mark of a good team.

Sonny Randle would not tell you, but it is evident that his approach to college football exactly matches his personal approach to the professional ranks where he starred for 11 seasons. The Pirates are in top physical shape, dedicated to one goal and undivided in team purpose on how to achieve that goal.

Randle is a bright spot in the coaching ranks. He is liked by the press because he provides "colorful copy," but then again, he is disliked because he is often critical. He has coaching friends and coaching foes.

Above all, Randle is a dynamic young coach, a believer in flawless organization and a head coach with seeming boundless enthusiasm and determination.

Randle, the 12th head coach in East Carolina history, came to Greenville in January, 1970, as offensive assistant on the Mike McGee staff. From that time, until he assumed the head coaching duties, he handled the offensive receivers. It was his first coaching job following his pro career.

As a first year head coach in 1971-72, Randle and his Pirates compiled a 4-6-0 record which included a surprising 31-15 victory over North Carolina State.

In 1972-73, Randle put Pirate fortunes together. East Carolina raced to four straight lopsided victories, three in Southern Conference play, before a tight 27-21 television squeaker victory against The Citadel. After a follow-up loss to North Carolina State, the Pirates won four in a row including the conference title clincher over William & Mary before losing to North Carolina to end the season.

Randle was born in Washington, D.C., but moved to Fork Union, Va., at an early age. He grew up there and attended Fork Union Military Academy where he starred in football, basketball and track.

His next stop was Charlottesville, where he attended the University of Virginia and first thrust the name Sonny Randle into national prominence. He starred as a split end for the Cavaliers for three seasons – 1956, 57 and 58. His senior year he led the nation in pass receiving and kickoff returns and was selected to play in the annual post season Blue-Gray All-Star Game. By the time he had capped off his collegiate playing career, he had won All-State, All-Atlantic Coast Conference and Honorable Mention All-America honors.

Randle began his professional career with the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League in 1959. The Cards had drafted him as a future choice while he was a junior. He was even more successful as a pro than he was as a collegian.

In his second season, Randle led the NFL with 15 touchdown receptions in only 12 games, a Cardinal record. He was named to the Sporting News Eastern Conference All-Star Team and played in the Pro Bowl, the first of four appearances he was to make in the NFL All-Star classic.

He caught 62 passes for 893 yards that season, but two years later, in 1962, he outdid himself. He grabbed 63 passes for 1,158 yards, both of which are also St. Louis single season records.

Randle played a total of eight seasons for the Cardinals and will probably go down as one of the greatest players in the team's history.

He spent his last three NFL seasons with San Francisco, Washington and Dallas.

When he hung up his cleats to go into coaching at the end of the 1969 season, Randle had 385 career receptions for over 6,000 yards and 67 touchdowns on his NFL record.

As demonstrated by the 1972 season, Randle has brought the success he enjoyed as a player with him into the coaching ranks.

Yet when he came to Greenville as an assistant in 1970, who could have known that only three years hence he would become the Southern Conference Coach of the Year.

Randle is married to the former Judith Bransford of Cohasset, Va., and is the father of four children – David 13, Sandra 12, Bethany 10, and Evan 8.

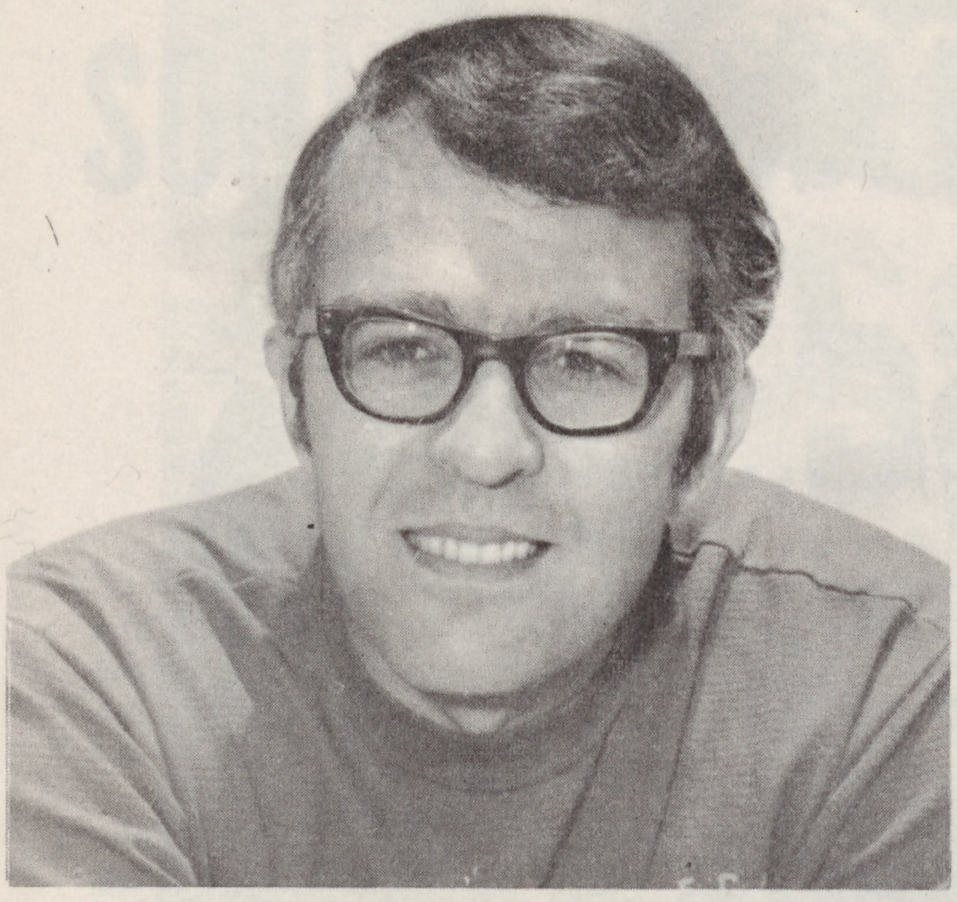

He spends what little free time he has playing golf, hunting, fishing, and relaxing with his family.

He served as an assistant coach at KSU in 1966, before going into the U.S. Army for a two-year hitch as a medical corpsman. His military duty included a stint in the Republic of Viet Nam.

In 1969, Klawiter joined the football staff at Southern Illinois University, earning his M.E. in 1970. He was defensive line coach and head scout at SIU for three years before coming to ECU.

Pure Wool Worsteds
by Austin Reed of Regent Street

In London, a quick glance at Big Ben will tell you the time. Anywhere, a quick glance at Austin Reed of Regent Street's windowpane plaid suit will tell you about today's fashion.

Designed in London and tailored in the United States, it's a pure wool plaid in subtly striking shades of cordovan and pewter. It features the up-to-the-minute good looks of a slim waistline and shaped lapels. There's a slight flare to the jacket and the accent of a trim coordinated vest.

Whether it's high noon in London or tea time in Greenville, it's the suit for any time or any place.

NOVAK ON OFFENSE

Frank Novak, the offensive coordinator of the Pirates, is a man with a plan. A non-complex plan, mind you, but one which effectively utilizes East Carolina's offensive personnel to the highest potential. Novak, in his first year on the Randle staff after a successful tenure at Northern Michigan, knows how to make an offense click from first-hand experience as a player and a coach. Before entering the coaching ranks in 1962, he was an honorable mention All-America quarterback at Northern Michigan.

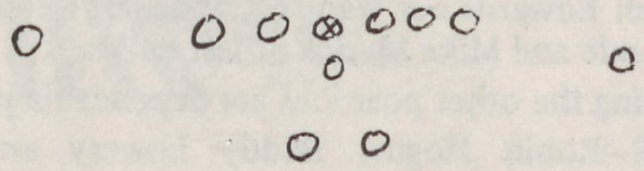

East Carolina's offense tries to reflect what our personnel can do best. Our thinking early in the season is to present an attack that will feature power running from our tailback and quick hitting plays from our fullback.

This year, we feel we have the potential to generate a solid passing attack from our play-action and drop back passing series. This all depends, of course, on the consistency of our quarterbacks and the ability of our receivers to get open.

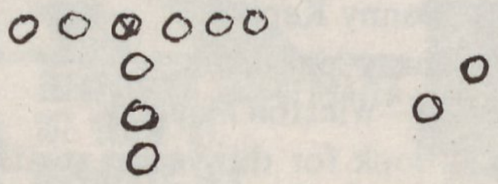

Our most frequently used formation will be the Pro-I:

Our wide receivers this year will operate from the split formation:

And from the I-slot formation:

Our attempt on offense will be to get the ball to our All-Southern Conference tailback Carlester Crumpler, either on inside power plays or outside options as frequently as possible, while utilizing our fullback enough to keep the defense off balance. Backing up "Crump" will be Ken Strayhorn, who showed outstanding promise as a running back this past spring.

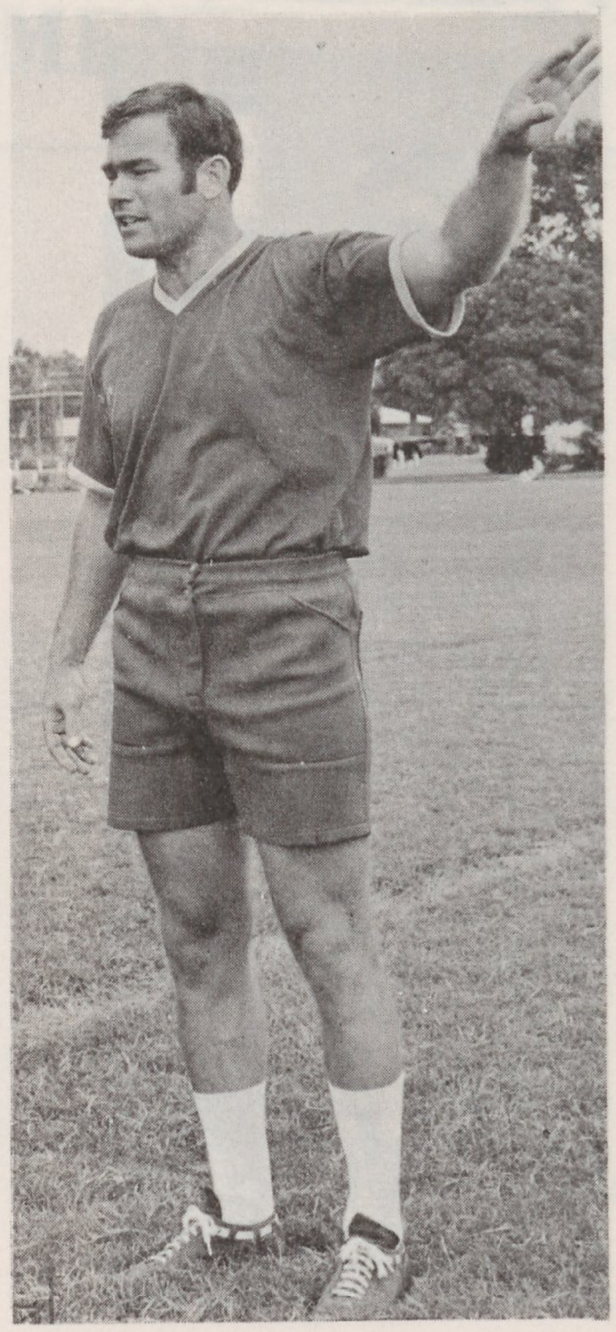

Quarterback Carl Summerell will be the key to our offense. His ability to throw and run adds a dimension of flexibility to our attack. Hopefully, this will mean we will feature an offense which is not stereotyped.

The quarterback position is encouragingly backed by Tom Chipok and Robert Bailey. Both have rapidly progressed since the spring to provide adequate depth at this vital position.

A pleasant surprise this fall has been the progress of our wide receivers. We have adequate quality depth in Stan Eure, Vic Wilfore, Mike Shea, Wilbur Williamson and Benny Gibson. Both Stan and Benny can play tight end as well.

The primary purpose of the offensive unit is to score points. However, the secondary objective consists of controlling the ball, maintaining field position and not giving up the ball without a kick unless we're in our opponent's territory. The realization of this objective can only come through consistency, a consistency that will feature a balanced running and passing attack while best utilizing the abilities of our skillful people.

REESE ON DEFENSE

Thirty-year-old Carl Reese, in his fourth season at East Carolina, is the mastermind behind the Pirates' famed "Wild Dogs" defense which ranked among the nation's leaders in total defense and rushing defense last year. Below, he explains the East Carolina defensive strategy which he formulates.

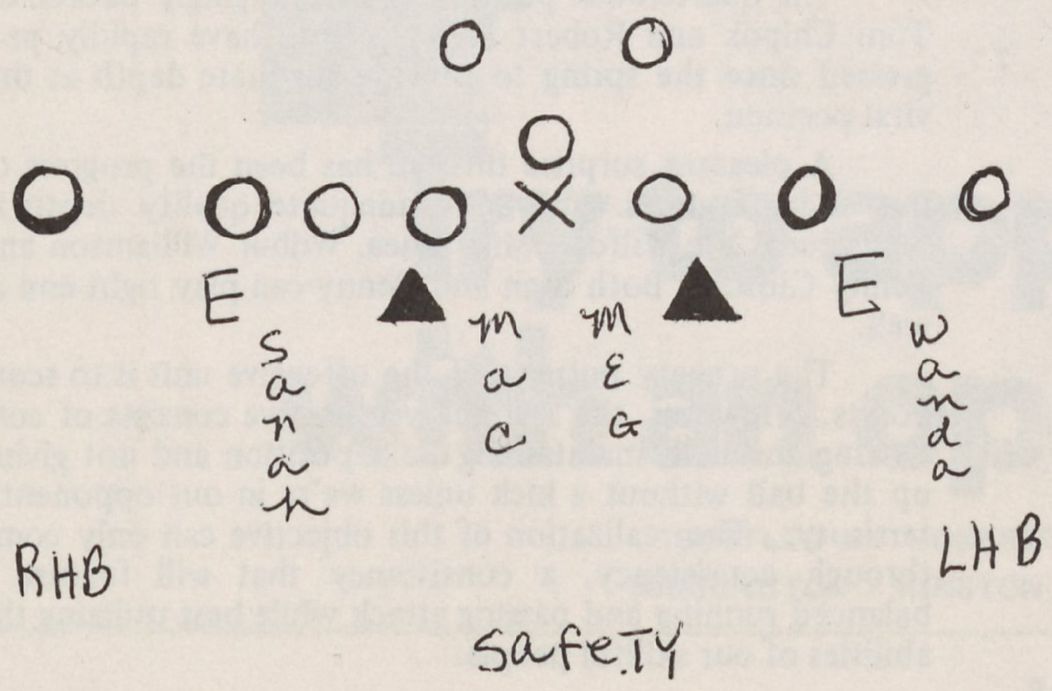

Defensively, we feel the "4-4" defense gives us more flexibility than any defense used. The front four remains stationary while the flexibility comes in the adjustments of the four linebackers—Sarah, Mac, Meg and Wanda—using East Carolina football terminology.

The philosophy behind the "4-4" is nothing new to modern football. It is a modification of the old split-6. We simply replaced the two outside tackles with a Sarah and Wanda linebacker. Thus, we have added flexibility for varied formations against the multiple offensive attacks of today.

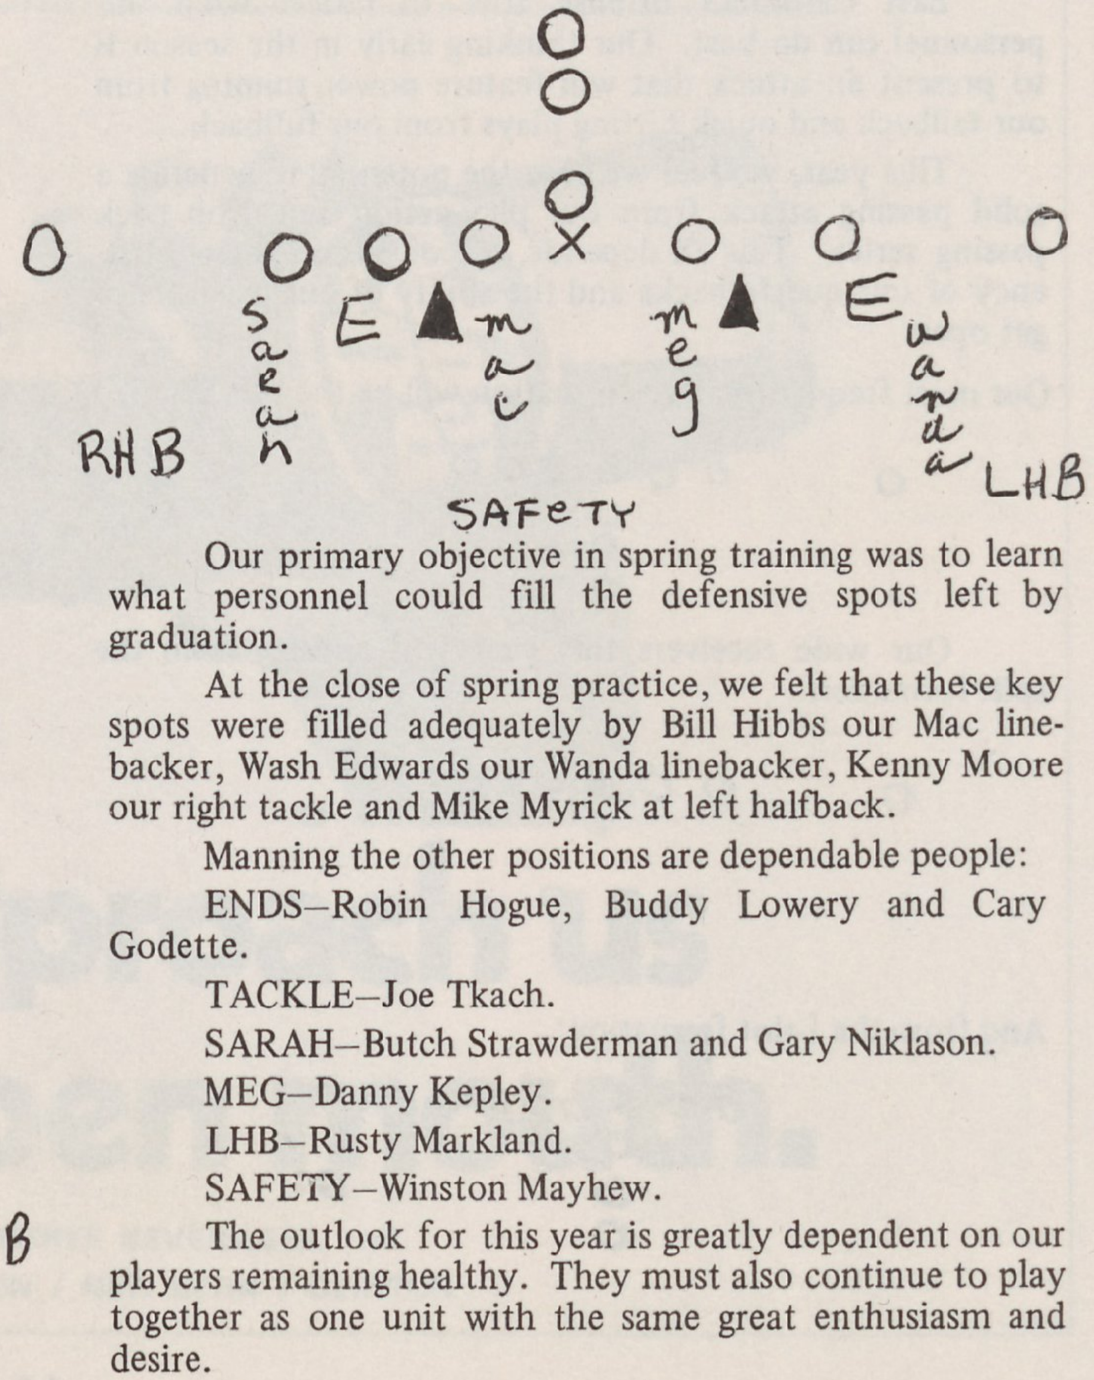

We feel it takes eight men on or near the line of scrimmage to stop a good running game. Statistics throughout the years have shown that the team with a consistent running game (not passing) always has a winning percentage. Therefore, to be successful, we must deploy eight men up front to put a strain on the offensive running game. The Wanda linebacker and the responsibilities of the position puts a tremendous burden on the offensive line since we outnumber them eight to seven.

The "4-4" is a balanced, easy-to-adjust defense that can be played with non-stereotyped personnel. By remaining in one specific defense that can be adjusted to meet the demands of today's offenses, it gives our personnel sufficient time to master individual techniques against all situations.

"4-4" DEFENSE—BASIC ALIGNMENT

"4-4" TIGHT DEFENSE ALIGNMENT

Our primary objective in spring training was to learn what personnel could fill the defensive spots left by graduation.

At the close of spring practice, we felt that these key spots were filled adequately by Bill Hibbs our Mac linebacker, Wash Edwards our Wanda linebacker, Kenny Moore our right tackle and Mike Myrick at left halfback.

Manning the other positions are dependable people:

ENDS—Robin Hogue, Buddy Lowery and Cary Godette.

TACKLE—Joe Tkach.

SARAH—Butch Strawderman and Gary Niklason.

MEG—Danny Kepley.

LHB—Rusty Markland.

SAFETY—Winston Mayhew.

The outlook for this year is greatly dependent on our players remaining healthy. They must also continue to play together as one unit with the same great enthusiasm and desire.

CLARENCE STASAVICH
DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

"Coach Stas," a nationally prominent figure in collegiate circles, is responsible for the rapid rise of East Carolina University's athletic program.

He first came to Greenville in 1962, after a highly successful 16-year coaching career at small college power Lenoir Rhyne. A year later, Coach Stasavich assumed the dual role of athletic director and head football coach.

His East Carolina football teams were an immediate success. In 1963, his Pirate club operating in the famous Stasavich "Single Wing" rolled up a 9-1 record, the first of three straight 9-1 seasons. In all three years, ECU participated in post-season bowl classics, winning all three– Eastern Bowl in 1963, Tangerine Bowl in 1964 and the Tangerine Bowl in 1965.

When Stasavich relinquished his coaching duties following the 1969 season, he had piled up a 50-27-1 record, tying Jack Boone as the winningest coach in Pirate football history.

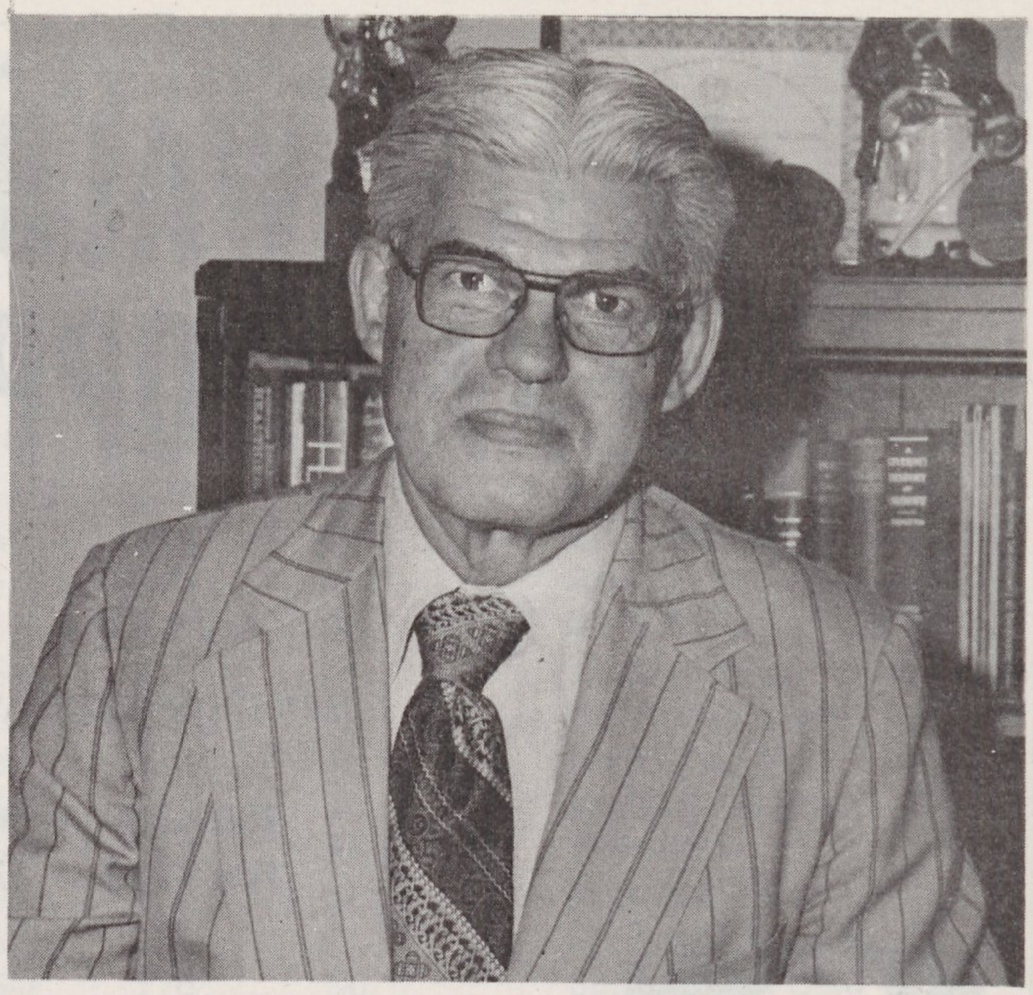

His reign as athletic director has been equally as successful. While at the helm of the Pirates' athletic ship, Stasavich has developed the modern all-purpose athletic complex which includes Ficklen Stadium, Minges Coliseum, Scales Field House, Harrington Field and the University Track.

Coach Stasavich also engineered East Carolina's entrance into the Southern Conference and was instrumental in having the school classified in the major college football ranks for the first time.

On top of all listed duties, he is also solely responsible for scheduling which has risen from the ranks to include North Carolina and North Carolina State. Virginia, South Carolina, Bowling Green, Southern Illinois and Dayton are scheduled for future seasons.

Coach Stasavich's past accomplishments are as important as his future plans. During his career at Lenoir Rhyne, he became a virtual legend and won acceptance in the Helms Hall of Fame and North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame. Twice during his career, once at Lenoir Rhyne and once at ECU, he was named National College Coach of the Year.

He began his coaching career in 1935 at Campbell College and eventually moved back to Lenoir Rhyne as football line coach, assistant basketball coach and head tennis coach.

Following Naval service during World War II, Coach Stasavich earned a masters degree at the University of North Carolina and returned to Lenoir Rhyne as head football coach and athletic director.

His teams and records were spectacular. In 16 seasons, Stasavich won 120 games, compared to 37 losses and seven ties. His teams won nine Carolinas Conference championships, seven in succession from 1955 to 1961. The biggest year was 1960, when the Bears won the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) national championship.

A native of Georgetown, Ill., Stasavich is married to the former Helen Warlick of Hickory. They have three grown children: Rebecca, Mary and Walter.

BILL CAIN
ASSISTANT ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

Bill Cain, beginning his second year as assistant athletic director, is the trouble shooter in the athletic department.

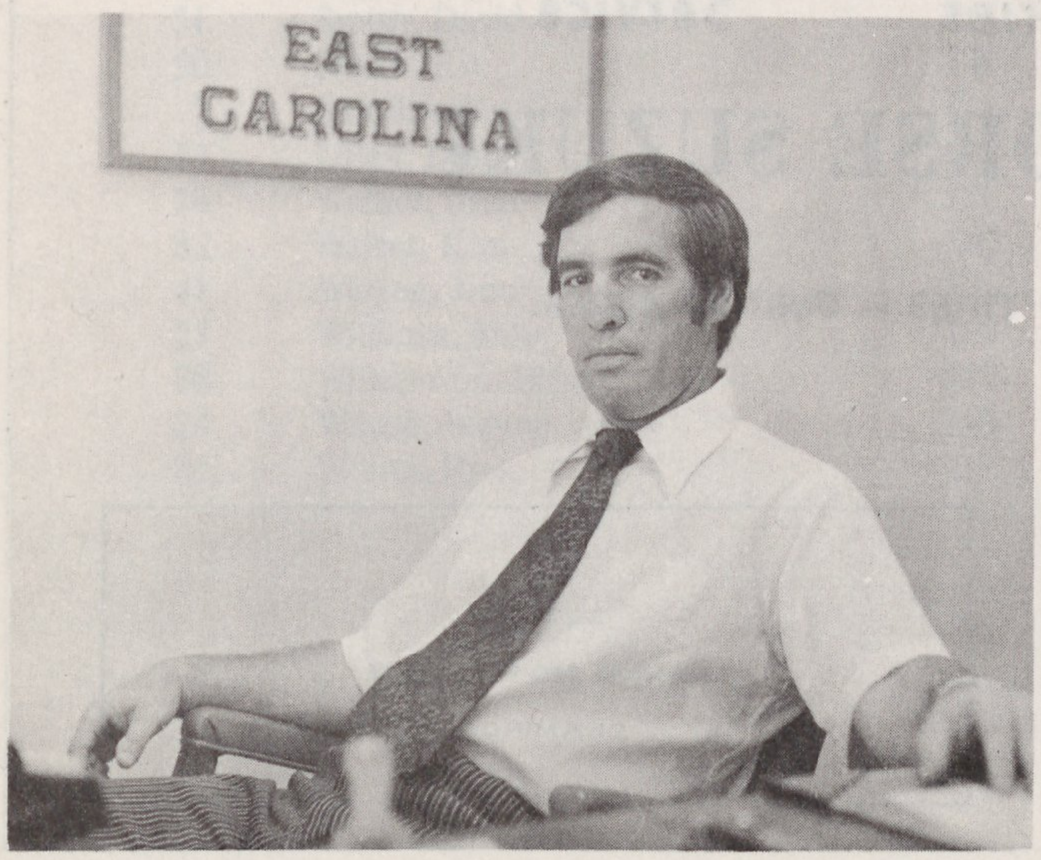

His primary duties include scheduling for all minor sports in addition to assisting Clarence Stasavich with the administrative duties of the athletic department.

Cain also watches over East Carolina athletic facilities, handles the athletic department's fleet of state vehicles and will coach the golf team for the first time this year.

He came to East Carolina as a football player and eventually co-captained the 1958 squad. Following graduation in 1959, Cain spent seven-years in the high school coaching ranks before returning to ECU as a freshman football coach in 1968. During his high school coaching career, he managed to earn his M.A. in 1961.

In 1970, Cain became business manager of athletics and retained the position until 1972 when he was named assistant athletic director.

He is married to the former Frances Johnson of Roanoke Rapids. They have two sons: Lance 12 and Tracy 9.

DR. DOUGLAS JONES
Chairman—Faculty Athletic Committee

East Carolina University's Dr. Douglas Jones wears many respected hats. Aside from being one of North Carolina's most prominent professors, he is chairman of ECU's Faculty Athletic Committee, an all-purpose organization made of the Faculty Committee and the Council on Athletics. The Faculty Committee acts as an advisory committee to Chancellor Leo Jenkins on matters of policy and procedure. The Council on Athletics acts as an advisory group to the athletic director on matters of scheduling, budget personnel and facilities.

Dr. Jones came to East Carolina in 1958 as a professor in the department of education and was named the department's director in 1961. In 1963, he was appointed Dean of the School of Education.

A native of Farmville, Dr. Jones is presently serving on numerous educational committees at the state level. In the past, he has served on the State Committee of Elementary Education; State Committee on Study of Language Arts; State Advisory Council on Teacher Education and Professional Standards and the Governor's Study Commission.

Dr. Jones has also served as President of the North Carolina Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development; President of the North Carolina Association of Student Teaching and President of the Eastern North Carolina Sheltered Workshop.

Dr. Jones was educated at East Carolina where he received his bachelor and M.A. degrees in mathematics. He received his Ph.D. in Elementary Administration from George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, Tenn. He is listed in Who's Who in American Education and Who's Who in America.

Dr. Jones is married to the former Mary Massengill of Danville, Va. They have one son, Douglas, Jr., a junior at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

Dr. Hooks has been a member of the Department of Physical Education since 1965 after teaching stints at Campbell College, Atlantic Christian and Boyden High School in Salisbury.

BEVERLY DAMERON
MISS ECU FOOTBALL

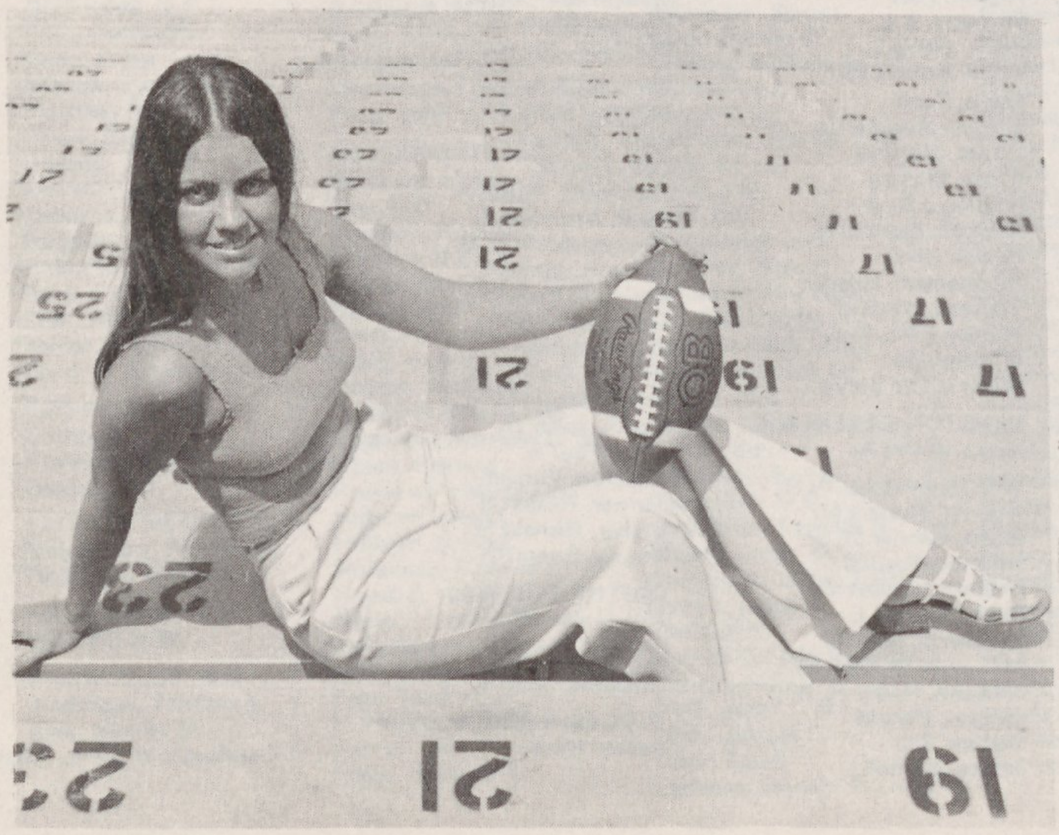

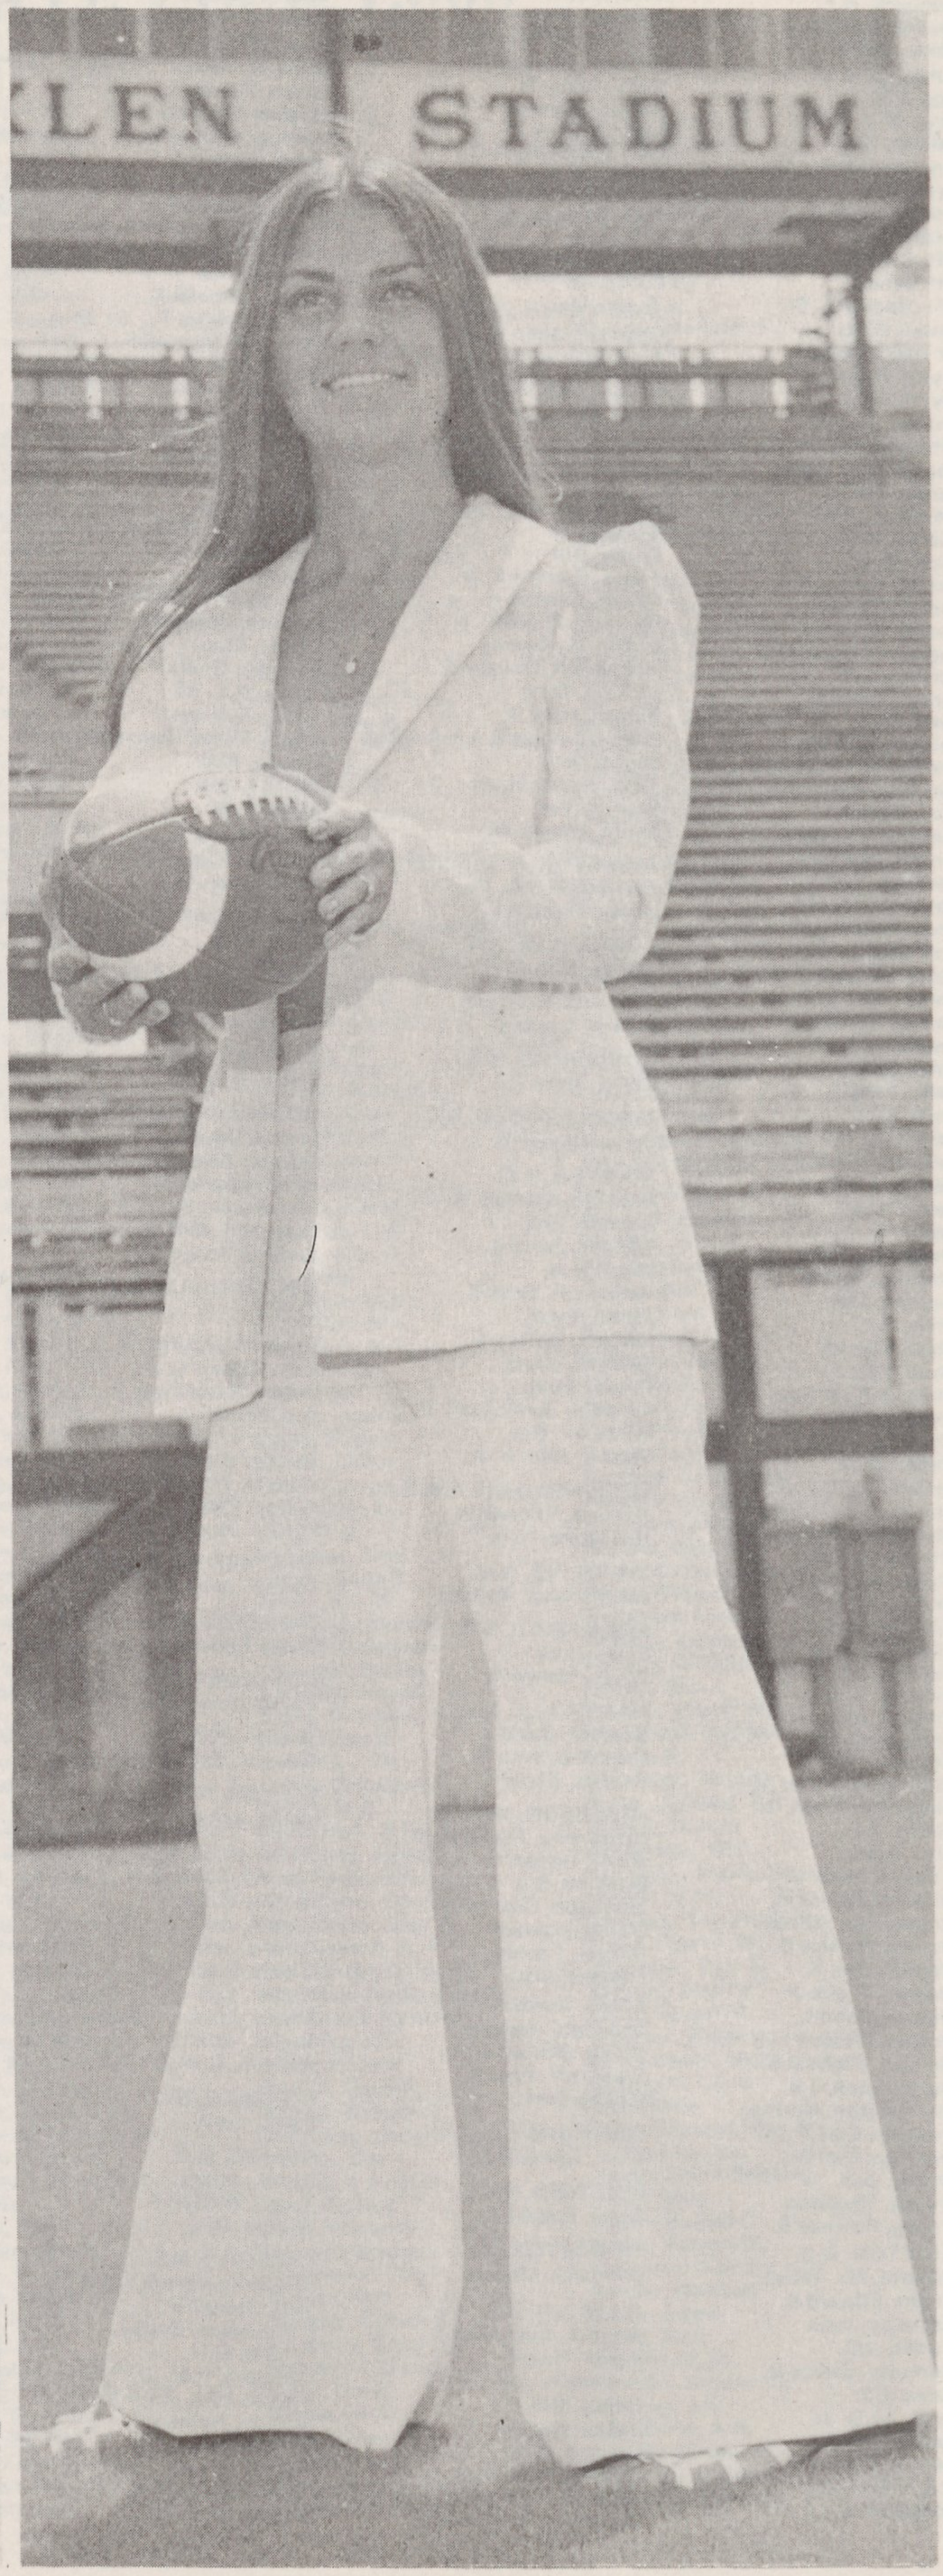

Beverly Dameron, a 21-year-old senior, reigns as the first Miss East Carolina Football for the 1973 season. Beverly, sister of former ECU star Tim Dameron, was elected by vote of the players and coaches.

Her duties include aiding coaches in recruiting, helping with planned coaching clinics, acting as a hostess to visiting football dignitaries, decorating team locker room and field house areas and traveling to the out of town games.

"I think this fall will be a lot of fun," Beverly says. "I have a lot of ideas which I think will help out the team and the coaches. Really, that is my main job. I hope to help football season be a big success."

Miss ECU Football will be appearing at pep rallies, officiating over several homecoming activities, visiting surrounding areas during the season to help present ECU football. She will also appear on area television shows and work on a weekly ECU sports show to be aired over WOOW radio prior to each week's game.

ONE HOMESITE FOUR WATER WORLDS

Homesites In A Vacation/Retirement Community With More

Here's a recreational community now under construction in New Bern, North Carolina, that offers all the usual amenities such as golf, tennis, stables, swimming pools, campgrounds. And then offers much, much more. We offer deeded access to the entire world of water activities. With the Neuse River at your door, Pamlico Sound only eighteen miles away and the Atlantic another twelve—there's literally no limit to your worlds of water.

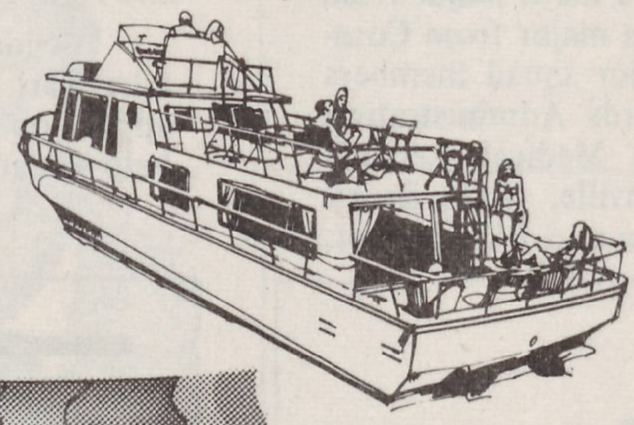

TREASURE COVE—Your Getaway Place to the Sea. One of the finest recreational communities in the country, with everything you've ever wanted in such a community plus a private 24-hour security force for the protection of your property and your privacy.

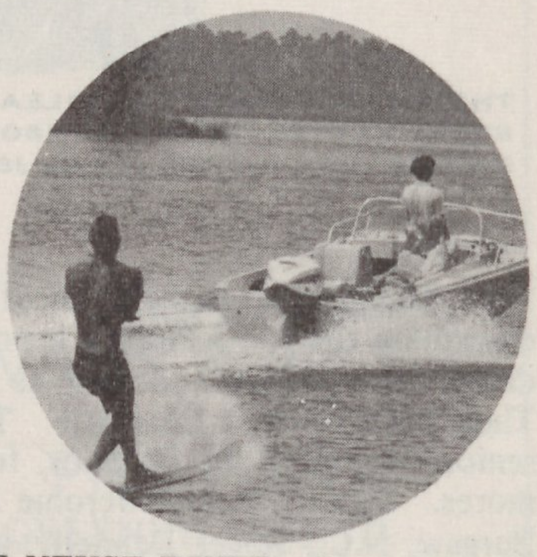

TREASURE COVE IS BACKED BY WESTINGHOUSE CREDIT CORPORATION

Our parent company is Westinghouse Credit Corporation—a corporation with over a billion dollars ($1,000,000,000) in assets. They have entered into an agreement with us to provide or cause to be provided any or all funds required to complete the community in its entirety. This means you can rest assured that everything in the planning stages now will become a reality as soon as possible. Only a small handful of developments in the country can offer such an assurance.

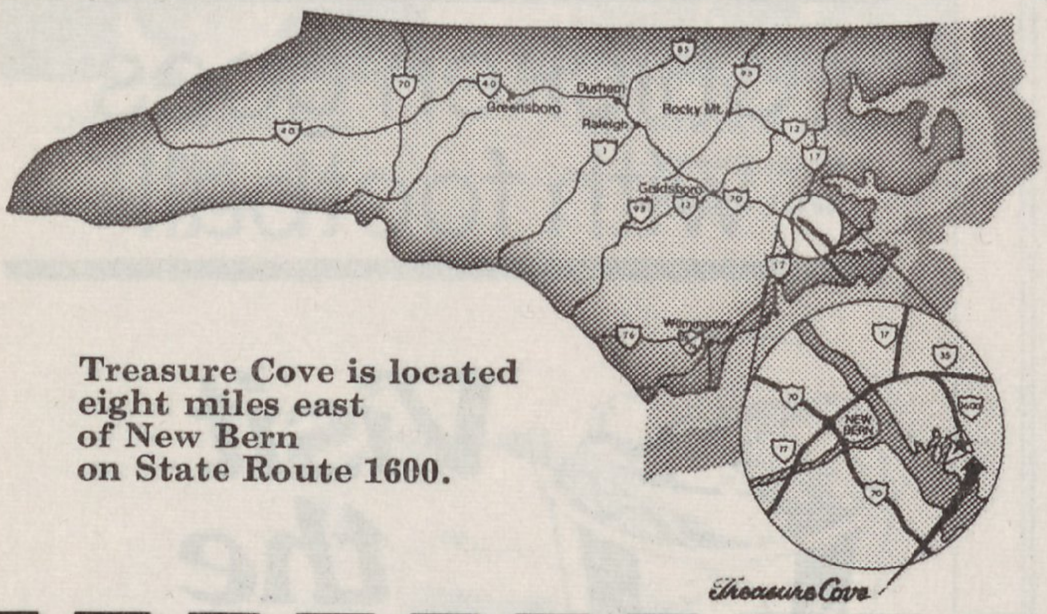

Come Cruise This Marine Playground on our Deluxe 47-Footer

We'll give you a great ride on our 47-foot air conditioned, centrally heated floating hotel. You'll enjoy some fine refreshments and a chance to see one of the most luxurious marine-oriented playgrounds in the world—Treasure Cove. No obligation on your part. Just come and join the fun.

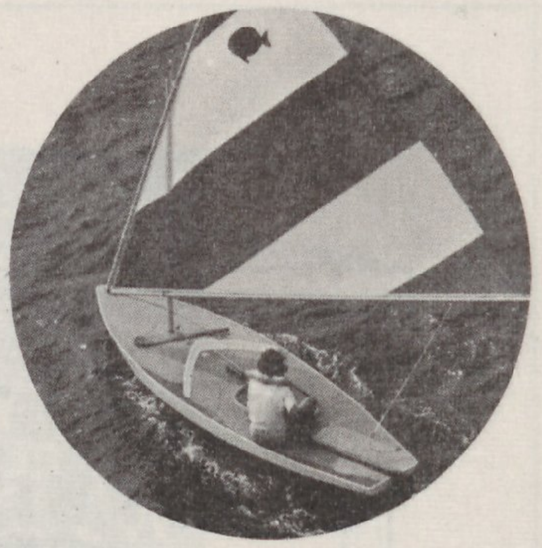

THE NEUSE RIVER—flows right by the property. Deep enough for the largest pleasure boats and wide enough for small craft sailing and water skiing. The fishing's great too. Blues, flounder, crocker, spots, hogfish and speckled trout are all caught just offshore.

Treasure Cove is located eight miles east of New Bern on State Route 1600.

PAMLICO SOUND—hundreds of square miles of sheltered water. Perfect for sailing, boating, fishing. And it's just eighteen miles via the Neuse River from your homesite at Treasure Cove.

DR. JAMES BOWMAN
Team Physician

ROD COMPTON
Sports Medicine Director

In three short years, the Sports Medicine division of the East Carolina athletic program has developed into an important and flawlessly run operation.

The Sports Medicine Director is Rod Compton, a graduate of Ohio University in health and physical education and a graduate of Bowling Green University with a masters in education. Since coming to ECU in 1970, Compton has organized the program which now includes courses in the physical education curriculum for prospective trainers. Compton also edits the National Athletic Trainers Association Journal.

Dr. James Bowman, an orthopedic surgeon, is in his third year as team physician in the Sports Medicine wing.

The goal and purpose of Sports Medicine is simple: to provide the most effective medical care possible for a student athlete and to bring the athlete back as fast, as effectively and as safely as possible.

Aside from Compton, Dr. Bowman and six student assistants, the Sports Medicine division has associate team physicians on the university infirmary staff and consults with many of the doctors in Greenville's medical community.

The Sports Medicine theraputic center is located behind the stadium near the Pirate Club building.

ECU'S Triple "S"

SUMMERELL

STRAYHORN

With a "C"

CRUMPLER

College football coaches across the nation are converting to one form or another of the wishbone or veer, but Sonny Randle has installed an offense all his own at East Carolina.

Sportscaster Dick Jones, play-by-play man for the Pirate football network, has dubbed it the "triple-S." Unlike the wishbone and veer, however, Randle's new strategy can't be copied by any of his counterparts.

You see, a coach must have three basic ingredients before he can put the "triple-S" into operation – a Summerell, a Schink and a Strayhorn – and the ingredients are as rare as a 79 cent steak outside the spacious confines of the ECU campus.

Randle's fearsome threesome – quarterback Carl Summerell, fullback Don Schink and tailback Kenny Strayhorn – still line up in the familiar power-I or pro-set formations, but opposing defensive units, like that of Southern Mississippi and Southern Illinois for instance, are probably convinced that it's all part of some undercover offensive conspiracy.

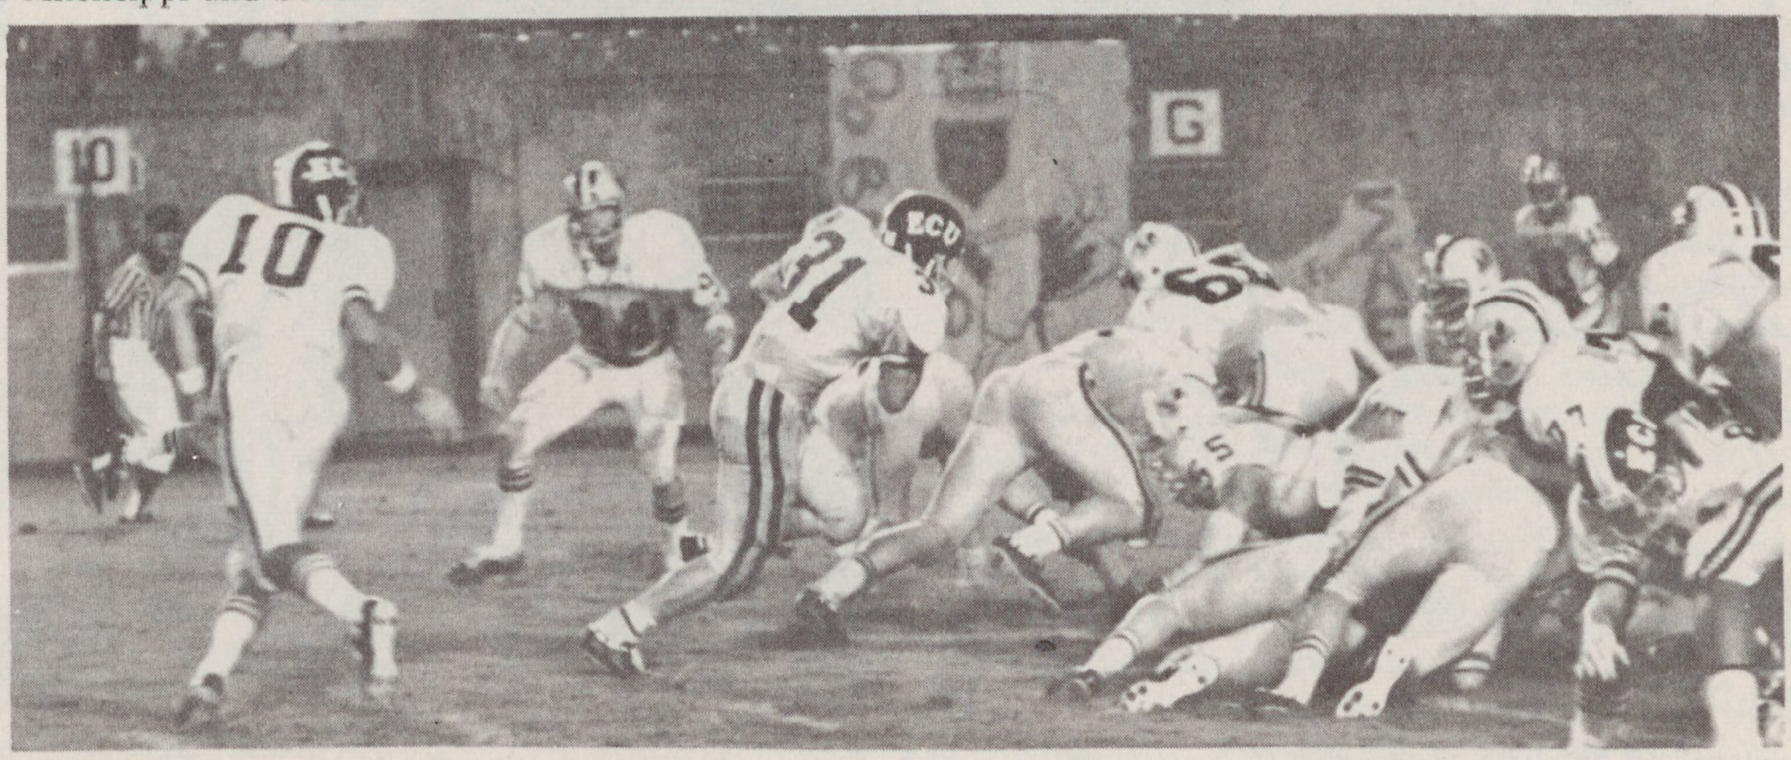

"COOL CARL" SUMMERELL HURDLES FOR ECU'S FIRST TD IN THE SOUTHERN ILLINOIS GAME.

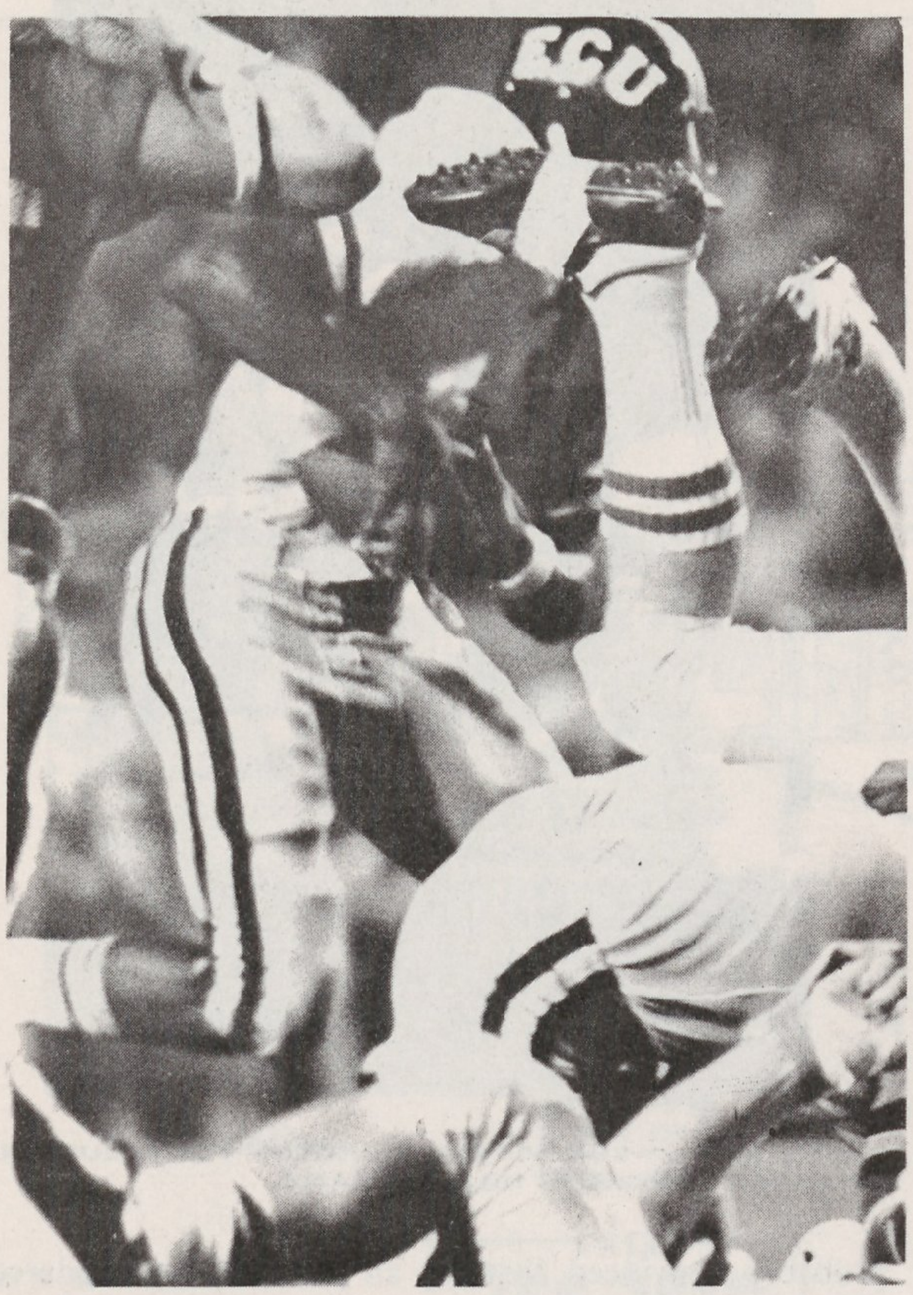

The versatile trio formed a formidable offensive combination indeed as ECU upset the Golden Eagles, 13-0, and staggered Southern Illinois, 42-25.

"Cool Carl" Summerell, the instigator of the trio, probed Southern Mississippi's secondary for 101 yards and a touchdown and then racked up 75 against Southern Illinois. Summerell's work against SIU included touchdown runs of two, six and 10-yards before leaving the game midway in the third period. Under his leadership along with help from reserve Bob Bailey, ECU amassed 384 total offensive yards – 309 rushing and 75 passing.

The "Double-S" backfield of Schink and Strayhorn showed its stuff against the Salukis in Carbondale. Strayhorn rushed for 95 yards on 18 carries and Schink punched out 50-plus yards with gritty inside running. Both were instrumental in ECU's first touchdown which capped an 80-yard drive early in the first period.

CRUMPLER CRUNCHES THROUGH HEAVY TRAFFIC AT SOUTHERN MISSISSIPPI.

Triple "S" with a "C"...

The "Triple-S" has another letter to be added, but the football player is more than just a letter. He is Carlester Crumpler, healthy after nursing injuries at Southern Mississippi. Crumpler displayed his old form at SIU with a 63 dash off right tackle. On eight unofficial carries, he piled up 85 yards including a crunching dive for a key first down during a second half ECU drive.

And head coach Sonny Randle couldn't be happier. "I'll tell you, it's nice to be a head coach and have that sort of situation. I've talked about our lack of depth and possible injury problems, but having Strayhorn and Crumpler battling for a job sort of cures that situation. I don't think you can ever have enough good runners, but we certainly have two of the best. It doesn't make any difference which one you put in, the offense continues to grind it out with a spark."

"This Triple-S idea is great, but Triple-S idea or not, after the dismal showing at State College, the running of Schink, Strayhorn and now Crumpler has helped turn this club around. We punched big holes in the SIU line and our backs took advantage of them. That's when it's a pleasure to coach."

"And even more, I think the "Triple-S" and the "Wild Dogs" defense has put us in a much better mental frame of mind for the remainder of the season. We're home now for a game and that will help immensely."

"Offensively and defensively, I think our players are ready to show what they can do in front of a friendly audience."

Southern Conference

Up–to–Date

Week#4

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE ROUND-UP

The Southern Conference title chase has had a topsy-turvy start in 1973, with most SC schools playing old rivals or bigger state schools.

The league leader at game time is Richmond, winner of two straight SC games after having opening day off. The Spiders, picked along with East Carolina and William & Mary as co-favorites for the new crown, have displayed awesome offense and crunching defense. Against Davidson, the Spiders rolled up 42 points while shuting out the Wildcats. V.M.I. had no luck either, coughing up seven turnovers and losing 35-0. Richmond is in action today against Wake Forest at home.

And speaking of Wake Forest, William & Mary has been surprising people. The Indians boast the same road record as East Carolina (2-1) going into SC play today. William & Mary stunned Virginia Tech in the opening week of the season before losing (narrowly) to North Carolina two weeks ago. Then, last week, W & M spotted Wake Forest a 14-0 lead before roaring back to win, 15-14. Like ECU, the Indians have been traveling–four road dates in a row. But the schedule gets better with Davidson, V.M.I. and Richmond at home later in the season.

The only other schools with conference marks are Furman (1-0), Davidson (0-1) and V.M.I. (0-1). The Citadel has been playing and losing on the road at Clemson and Illinois State, but the Bulldogs are expected to play a spoiler role when the conference race heads down the stretch.

The surprise team of the conference has to be East Carolina's opponent today, Furman. The Paladins are unbeaten in three games – stopping Presbyterian 13-0, Appalachian 17-0 and Wofford 21-19. Two of those wins came on the road. The Paladins and Richmond are the only two undefeated Southern Conference teams remaining.

Appalachian State, still struggling to build to SC respectability, has had its problems at quarterback. The Apps have talented running backs and an adequate defense, but the lack of a leader and field general has hurt.

In a 17-0 loss to Furman, ASU halted itself several times with costly fumbles or interceptions. The Mounties are employing the Wishbone offense, an offense almost entirely dependent on the quarterback.

Davidson stumbled in its first two games, losing to Wofford and Richmond without scoring a point, but Coach Dave Fagg and the Wildcats turned around last week, beating Lenoir Rhyne 20-17.

Shell-shocked V.M.I. continues to wade into its devastating schedule today, traveling to Tulane for a night game. The Keydets have simply been outclassed by Virginia, Navy and Richmond.

SPORT'S MEDICINE

Sports Medicine has come a long way in the last 8-10 years. From rather poorly educated individuals giving guess work care to athletics, the field of Sports Medicine has developed into highly specialized paramedical professionals applying scientific techniques in the health maintenance of student-athletes. Parents and administrators have come to realize the importantance of this field.

The East Carolina Sports Medicine Division specializes in the best care, prevention, treatment and rehabilitation of injuries possible in this part of the country. The goal of this particular program is to provide the optium care for East Carolina athletes.

The Sports Medicine Division provides adequate coverage for all of the 13 varsity sports.

East Carolina's Sports Medicine Division has also become a pioneer in the recruitment and education of young men interested in the field of Sports Medicine. Recently, a new Sports Medicine curriculum was added to the program of studies here. It is part of the Health and Physical Education department.

Sports Medicine trainers spent many hours each week in the Sports Medicine facility treating and rehabilitating athletes so that they may return to their respective sports as soon as possible in the best of health.

It took a while to escape the image, but the Sports Medicine specialists do more than serve water. They put the team on the field and make it possible for those who come off the field because of injuries to return as soon as possible.

It may be interesting to note the biggest problem areas in Sports Medicine. Mainly, the problems fall into three areas: 1) head, neck and back injuries; 2) heat stroke and 3) drugs. Numbers one and two could cause death although no alarm is intended. Care must be well planned and timely.

Probably the single most important advancement for our program would have to be the recruitment of Dr. James Bowman as our team physician in 1971.

Sport's Medicine...

Dr. Bowman is our No. 1 advisor and is responsible for final medical judgements. Bowman, an orthopedic surgeon, is available for examination and consultation of East Carolina athletics on a daily basis.

In addition to Dr. Bowman and Rod Compton, the Director of Sports Medicine Division, a staff of six student trainers helps with care and treatment. All six students are studying to be in the Sports Medicine paramedical profession.

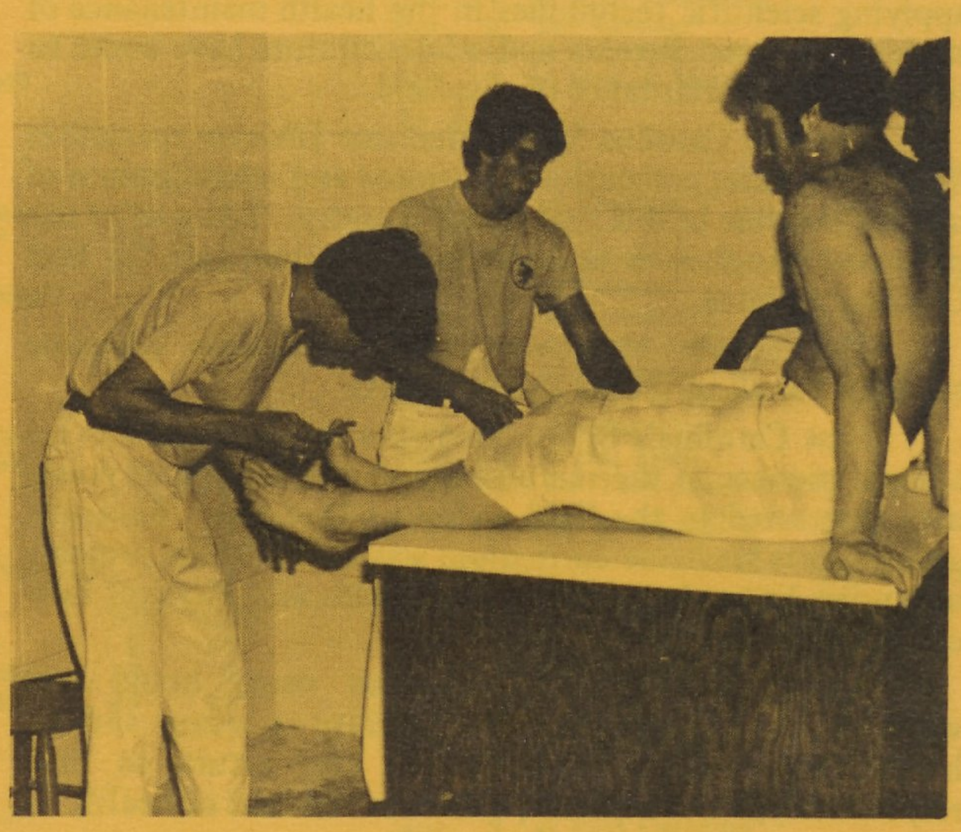

Compton was a prize find for East Carolina. He came here four years ago and in 1971 saw the program come of age. In the fall of 1971, the Sports Medicine wing moved into the well equipped, air conditioned therapy center adjacent to Ficklen Stadium.

Compton is a certified member of the National Athletic Trainers Association and serves as the editor-in-chief of the N.A.T.A. Journal. He is also a member of American College of Sports Medicine.

He is most proud of new therapy techniques which he calls "cryokinetic therapy." That is, the use of cold and exercise for longer periods of time before changing to heat therapy.

Exercise, Compton believes, is the best theraputic treatment we can use and ice therapy lets us use it sooner. The athlete is returning to normal sooner with no greater risk involved. In fact, cold therapy can be safer.

Heat therapy hasn't been given up on, merely postponed until later in the rehabilitation stage of recovery from an injury.

ECU CROSS COUNTRY

Ed Rigsby...

The crosscountry runner. Some call his sport long and exhausting drudgery. Some say it's an ecological experience. Few understand him yet few can help but admire his quest of excellence.

Ed Rigsby, the premier runner on East Carolina University's cross country team, knows well the life of a distance runner.

Rigsby, a two time All-Conference and All-State selection at ECU, enters his junior year thirsty for All-American honors and a conference championship.

A two time Eastern Regional gold medalist in high school in the mile, Rigsby believes distance running is a love affair.

"You have to love to run, that's the key to success. To be dedicated to the sport and to set specific goals to accomplishment is the secret to distance running.

"Cross country is much more enjoyable than track. Six miles around a track is dull. But in cross country you have this beautiful landscape to run over.

..."He's Alone."

Twenty-four laps around a track blows your mind but running in the woods and fields is actually fun."

Confronting Rigsby and his teammates this year will be a William & Mary team picked among the top ten cross country teams in the nation.

"If (Gerald) Klas and (Jerry) Hillard and myself can place high in the conference meet and a couple of our freshman can finish in the top thirty, I think we can finish a strong second. And with a little luck we can challenge William & Mary."

Like many athletes Rigsby began in baseball.

"I started out in baseball in New Mexico. We ran laps after practice and I always finished first. I went out for track but the coach was more interested in the sprinters than anyone else."

The turning point in Rigsby's career came when his family moved to New York. There he came under the coaching of Richard Douglas, a former gold medalist at the British Commonwealth Games.

THE SONNY RANDLE SHOW

Sunday 1:00 pm

WCTI · NEW BERN abc 12

Ed Rigsby...

"Mr. Douglas was and still is the chief inspiration in my distance running. I left New York my junior year and came to North Carolina, but we still communicate. Being a former champion he knew his sport, and all the runners respected his judgement. Its important to a runner to trust his coach, especially to know the coach understands his particular event."

Asked about what he thought his biggest race was, Rigsby recalled two.

"The conference cross country meet my freshman year was a great thrill. It was my first experience with big time college running and finishing seventh was quite a thrill."

The race everyone identifies Rigsby with is the six mile run in last year's outdoor conference track and field meet. It was generally conceded that William & Mary would sweep all five places as they did in the three mile.

As Rigsby recalls, "Last year, the coach predicted I couldn't finish fourth in the six mile and I wound up third. The week before at the Pembroke meet I ran terribly and Coach (Bill) Carson was down on my performance. So I told him we'd decide about my performance at the upcoming conference meet."

HE'S ALONE

What Rigsby did was stun the crowd and the competition by taking the bronze medal in the six mile with a time fo 30:39.4.

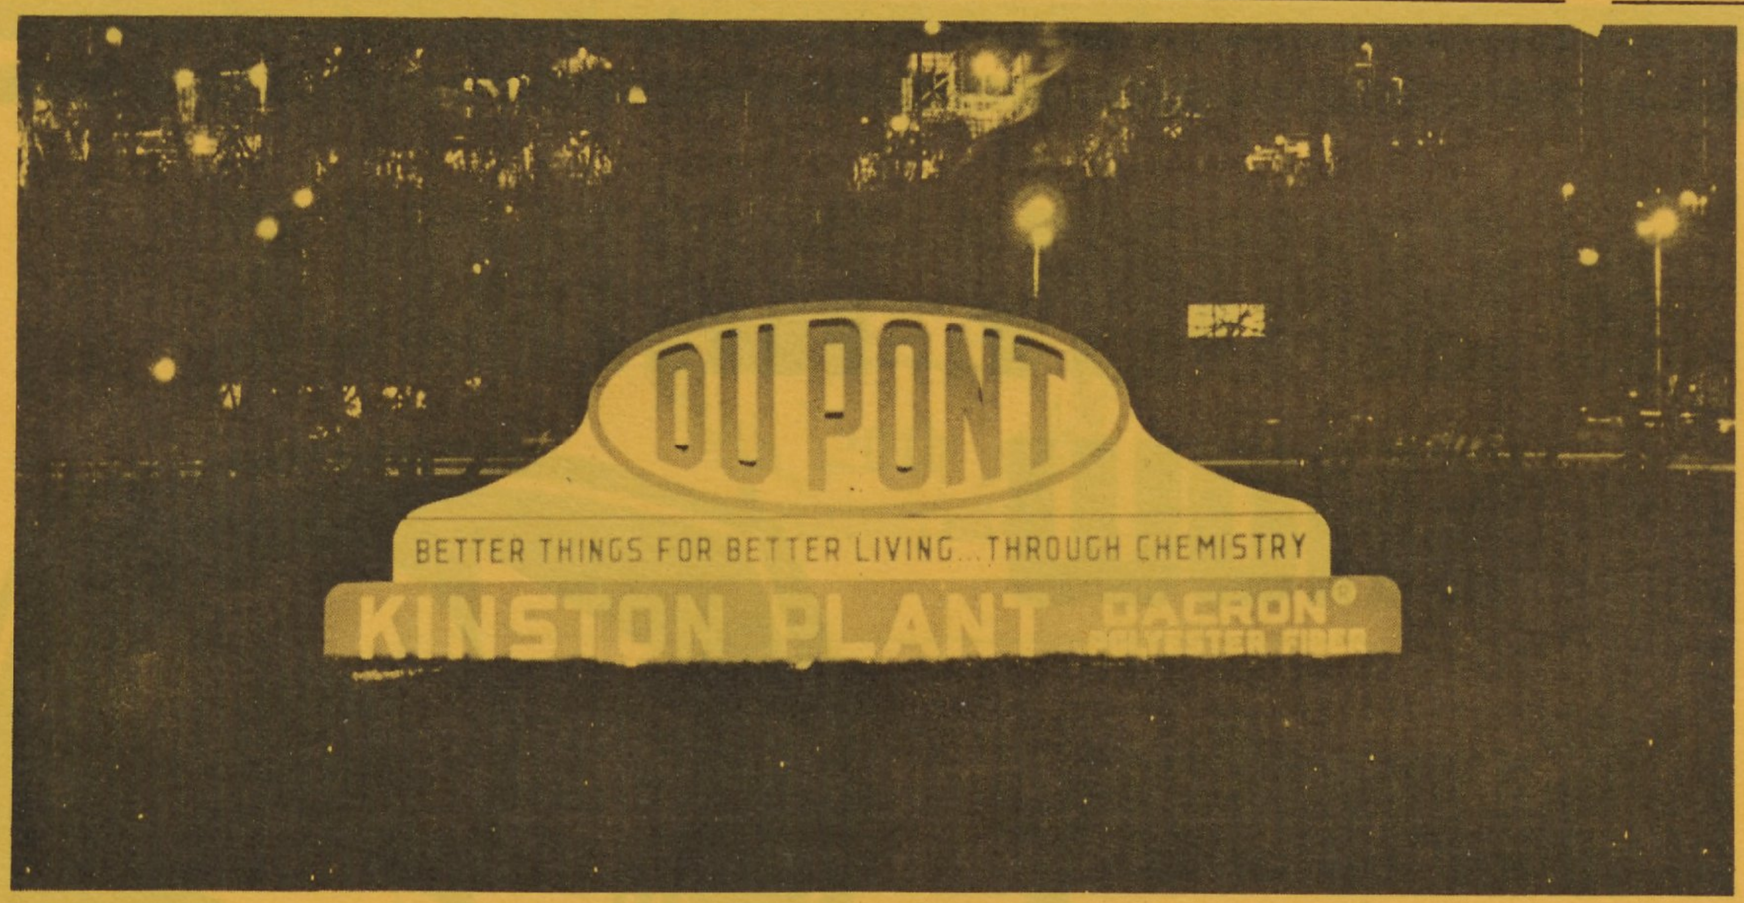

One of Rigsby's goal's for the coming season is a double medal performance in the three and six mile, a task requiring considerable preparation.

To prepare for this plus the cross country season, Rigsby goes through a rigorous training schedule. Each morning at six he runs five miles, then returns for seven more miles in the afternoon plus a variety of interval running. A total of 84 miles a week, often in blistering heat, is needed to approach his goals.

"Last year, I came in out of shape and gradually worked up to the conference meet. This year, I'm in excellent shape, so my chances of cracking the top five are greatly improved."

Pedestals fit few athletes. But possibly the distance runner belongs on such a plateau. For his is not a sport of sunshine or indoor comfort or post season rest. He runs in driving rain or sweltering heat.

Possibly, as one writer pointed out, only Thoreau can understand the distance runner, for like Thoreau they quest for the simplicity and rusticity of life. Though it may be appropriate to simply describe him by saying, "He's alone."

BASKETBALL

"Rebuilding" is a general term which usually characterizes tough athletic roads ahead. For East Carolina basketball coach Tom Quinn, this year is a rebuilding year, but Quinn quickly adds: "We are not approaching it as such. We will be young, and will make a lot of mistakes. But our recruits bring pure talent with them. This is our best recruiting year since I've been at East Carolina."

The Pirates graduated four starters, including the team's leading scorer, Earl Quash. Three lettermen return, including 6-foot-9 center Nicky White.

The key to the team rests with White, returnees Roger Atkinson and Ken Edmonds, and an excellent crop of young, lanky talent led by 20-plus point per game scorer Buzzy Braman from Springbrook, Md., 6-8 Larry Hunt of Shelby, N.C., 6-6 Robert Jeter and 6-3 guard Reggie Lee, a stellar player. Except for Long, Lee, Hunt, and Braman top the list of incoming frosh while Geter, 6-1 guard Donnie Owens and 5-9 guard Mitch Stoller top the list of junior college recruits.

Tom Marsh, who returns at forward, was a talented but lost commodity in 1972-73. He scored 15 points in his first regular season outing before suffering a knee injury which sidelined him for the season. At 6-6 and with two years of experience, he could be an invaluable member of the 1973-74 Pirate cage club.

Quinn will also be counting on qualified and partially tested personnel up from the junior varsity team which compiled a 9-3 record. Forwards Al Edwards and William Hill could provide depth and rebounding ability while Randy Stone could help at guard. Chuck Mohn, a 6-5 sophomore, cannot be overlooked.

Several "ifs" further characterize the Pirate squad. "If" the freshmen come along, Coach Quinn's opening game lineup could include as many as four. "If" that is the case, the front line could average 6-8 or more.

"If" everything falls into place, the Pirates will face a murderous early season schedule which includes Duke and North Carolina State on the road back-to-back. Home games in December include UNC-Wilmington to open the season, Davidson, and Fairleigh Dickinson.

East Carolina has a long layoff during the holidays—from Dec. 16-29—which Quinn hopes to use to further develop his young, but talented squad.
