Head Coach Ed Emory

In only three seasons, Ed Emory has molded the East Carolina program into a national contender in college football.

After two major rebuilding years, Emory's 1982 Pirate squad compiled a 7-4 record against the toughest schedule in school history. There will be no break in 1983, as the schedule is again upgraded, but it is the type of competition which Emory knows will make ECU a stronghold in the collegiate ranks.

Emory returned to his alma mater in 1980, bringing with him the reputation as being one of the finest recruiters in this region. While serving as an assistant coach at Clemson, Duke and Georgia Tech, Emory was able to recruit some of the finest players in the south and the last four recruiting classes for ECU have been among the strongest, if not the strongest, in Pirate history.

A four-year starter for the Pirates from 1956-59, Emory was three times all-conference and all-district NAIA for coach Jack Boone. His first three years were spent playing the guard position while he enjoyed a standout senior season at tackle. He was twice named best blocker and most outstanding lineman, while serving as a senor co-captain and gaining third-team all-America honors.

Emory has been successful on both the high school and collegiate levels. Upon graduation from East Carolina, he coached for Wadesboro and Bowman High's in Wadesboro; Grainger High in Kinston; and Brevard High, compiling an excellent 80-12-4 overall record.

High school honors have been many, including six coach-of-the-year awards. In 1972, Emory served as head coach for the North Carolina Shrine Bowl team, and in 1973 was head coach in the North-South Boy's Home all-star game.

In 1967 and 1968, Emory coached running backs at Wake Forest. After five highly successful seasons as head coach at Brevard High School, he shifted in 1973 to become the junior varsity coordinator at Clemson. He was named backfield coach for the Tigers in 1974 and 1975 and become their line coach in 1976.

The Lancaster, SC, native was the linebacker coach at Duke in the spring of 1977. In 1978, he returned to coaching at Georgia Tech as defensive line coordinator.

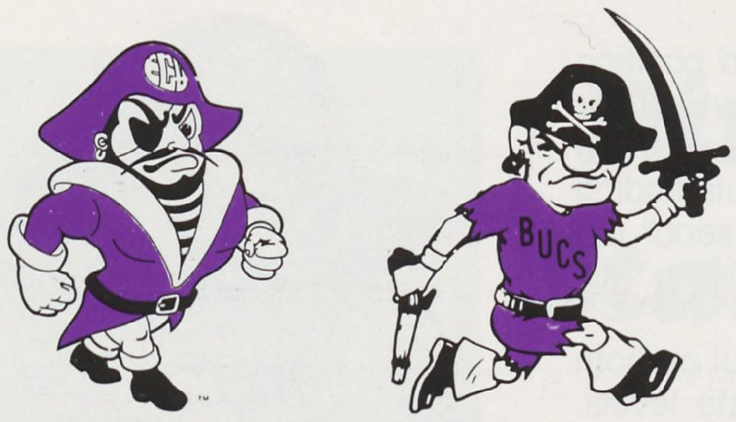
Today's Game



East Carolina - East Tennessee State

By BOB ROLLER
Assistant Sports Information Director

It's Homecoming today as the 5-2 East Carolina Pirates entertain the Buccaneers from East Tennessee State.

Today marks the culmination of a week of activities on campus, highlighted by the voting for the Homecoming Court, which the Queen will be selected from at halftime, various pep rallies have taken place in Greenville, and the traditional parade takes place today at 10:00 a.m. on Fifth Street.

Today is also Band Day as more than 1,800 performers from 20 high schools throughout the state will take part in the festivities.

The theme for the 1983 Homecoming ceremonies is "A Pirate Keepsake — Years to Treasure."

Now as the Pirate footballers prepare for the final four games of this exciting 1983 season, all those involved with the ECU program are hoping for this season to become "A Pirate Keepsake."

As the nearly 74,000 fans flocked into Florida Field last Saturday to witness their Gators' Homecoming game, they had heard reports that the opponent — East Carolina — had a pretty good team.

But many of the Florida fans wore buttons which read "Beat Auburn," referring to the Gators' next game and were more concerned with the crowning of a new Homecoming Queen on that day.

However, with 12:49 remaining in the first half, the score read 10-0 ECU and an uneasy silence spread throughout the stadium. Aided by several critical penalties, Florida rallied to take a 17-10 lead in the third quarter and the crowd felt it was time for the festivities to begin.

Then the never-say-die Pirates charged back to tie the score and were on the Florida 34-yard line on the last play of the game before bowing 24-17 to the sixth-ranked Gators.

After the battle, Florida coach Charlie Pell was greatly impressed with his team's opponent.

"Our team had to fight harder than we've had to all season," said the coach of the 6-0-1 Gators. "I mean in more times and in more situations.

"There is a lot to be said about East Carolina's attack. They challenged us at our strength (the running game). They blocked us well and they had a good game plan."

The Pirates were led offensively by big Earnest Byner, who played both tailback and fullback, while gaining 97 yards on 16 carries. Fullback Reggie Branch, gained 59 yards in his biggest offensive production of the season.

The Pirate defense has turned in two outstanding performances in the 24-11 victory over Temple along with the Florida game. Leading the way has been free safety Clint Harris, who has intercepted four passes and recovered two fumbles in those two games.

Harris' 74-yard return for a touchdown against Temple gave him the ECU record for most yards returned by interceptions in a career. The 6-0, 205-pound senior from Chesapeake, VA, now has 360 return yards (after intercepting three Wayne Peace passes last week at Florida) on 16 career interceptions.

Both Harris and Kevin Walker tied another school record during the past two contests with three interceptions in a game. Walker picked off three passes in the Temple game, while Harris gathered three last week. Harris' fourth interception, which came with the score tied at 17, was called back by a penalty.

"The Florida game is behind us now," head coach Ed Emory said. "We played the number six team in the country on even terms and had numerous chances to win the game. Now the only thing on our minds is the East Tennessee State Buccaneers."

East Tennessee State invades Ficklen Stadium this afternoon with a 2-5 record, coming off a disappointing loss to VMI last Saturday. The Buccaneers hold a 4-3-1 lead in the series with the Pirates, although ECU has won the last three meetings between the two teams.

Pirate coach Ed Emory is 2-0 vs ETSU, winning 66-23 in 1981 and 30-0 last season. ETSU's first-year coach Buddy Sasser has never faced the Pirates, but he is familiar with his team's opponent today because he played quarterback for three years at North Carolina in the late 50s.

Buc offensive coordinator Jack Huss served as an assistant coach at ECU under coach Clarence Stasavich and also was head coach for six years at Lenoir-Rhyne College.

The Buccaneers run from the wingbone offense, which is a slight variation of the wishbone where two players line up on the wing positions.

Sophomore Quarterback Robbie White assumed the starting duties for the first time last week against VMI and was hampered with four interceptions by the Keydet defense. White has completed 18 of 42 passes for 193 yards and one touchdown, while playing in four of the Bucs' games.

ETSU's leading rusher is sophomore tailback Henry Latham who has 456 yards on 82 carries, for an average of 5.6 yards per carry. Fullback Vince Redd has 407 yards on 68 carries for a 6.0 per carry average. The Bucs have moved the ball well this season on the ground, ranking 10th in the nation in Div. I-AA in rushing offense, but have been unable to get the ball into the end zone.

Redd, another sophomore, is the leading receiver with 14 receptions for 140 yards and two touchdowns.

The defense runs from the "50" formation with linebackers Gary Ingman and David Vestal leading the tackling statistics with 75 and 61, respectively. The finest defensive player is possibly sophomore defensive tackle Calvin Thompson, who will be tested heavily by the outstanding offensive line of the Pirates.

For his outstanding three-interception, one-fumble recovery and 10-tackle performance vs Florida, Clint Harris was named the ECAC Division I Defensive Player of the Week.

The award gave the Pirates four straight defensive players of the week dating back to P.J. Jordan's selection following the 13-6 Missouri victory; Chris Santa Cruz won the award for the Southwestern Louisiana game; and Kevin Walker took the honors vs Temple.

The 73,943 fans in Florida Field marked the largest crowd ever to watch an East Carolina team play. The previous high was 57,700 set this season in Carter-Finley Stadium when the Pirates defeated N.C. State 22-16.

Despite playing before only 5,461 fans in Franklin Field vs Temple, the Pirates have averaged 41,015 fans during their first seven games of 1983. Also, two of those games (N.C. State and Florida) were played before stadium record crowds.

Florida entered its game with ECU allowing but 83.4 yards rushing per game. However, the duo of Earnest Byner and Reggie Branch had gained 87 yards in the Pirates' first nine rushing attempts and the Pirates ended the game with 209 yards rushing.

When ECU took the opening drive and marched 80 yards in 10 plays to take a 7-0 lead, it marked the first time this season that the Gators had allowed a touchdown in the first quarter.

Also, Florida's touchdown with 42 seconds remaining in the first half was the first TD allowed by Pirate defenders in the first half since the second game of the season vs. N.C. State.

Pirate fullback Reggie Branch enjoyed a "homecoming" of his own last weekend when he played at Florida. The junior lives only a few miles from Gainesville in nearby Sanford and captalized on his chance to play before family and friends by gaining 59 yards on 12 carries.

Split end Stefon Adams enjoyed possibly his finest hour as a Pirate last Saturday, catching six passes for 90 yards. During ECU's final drive, the junior from High Point caught three consecutive passes for 58 yards.

Henry Williams still ranks number one in the nation in kickoff return yards with 31.9 yards per return. The 5-6 junior ranks eighth nationally in punt returns with an average of 13.4 yards per return.

Quarterback Kevin Ingram has moved into fifth place on the career pass completion list for ECU. The senior signal-caller presently has 116 completions and he needs 18 more to move ahead of Leander Green (1976-79).

* * * * * * * * *

The 59 pass completions this season ranks Ingram eighth on the season list, and he needs but 28 more to move all the way up to second place. The top spot is held down by John Cassazza, who had 112 completions in 1970.

PIRATES ATTACK FAST FARE!

Pirate fans were seen converging upon all 13 Fast Fares in the Greenville/Ayden area recently in an attempt to stock up for what may prove to be the most successful tailgating season in ECU history. One Pirate fan drew his sword in an

ECU's Intramural Program One of Nation's Finest

By BOB ROLLER

"Participate rather than spectate" is the catch-phrase for East Carolina University's Department of Intramural Recreational Services, and Director Wayne Edwards has virtually made sure that ECU students follow that creed.

With a phenominal 50 percent of the student body participating in at least one of 45 different sports or activities, the intramural program boasts one of the highest participation rates in the country.

ECU's program, guided by Edwards for the past nine years, really took off when "the University made a total commitment to have an excellent intramural program," Edwards said.

While the focal point of Pirate athletics this fall has been the tremendous play of ECU's football team and the support it has received both locally and nationally, Edwards feels that it's also important for the students to be involved in activities.

"With the support that intramurals receives from the University and the students, it shows that we're behind the entire athletic program," he said. "I think it's very important for the average student to feel he or she has an opportunity, as well. That shows a total commitment to every student."

The intramural program is a division of Student Life at ECU and is funded through a designated student fee. From that fee, a student receives the chance to participate in anything from flag football to a putt-putt tournament, with access to an indoor swimming pool, a weight room fully equipped with the latest Universal machines, as well as, any of the 45 sporting events.

During a typical day, one of the major sports (flag football, basketball, volleyball, soccer or softball) will begin at 4:00 p.m. and run until midnight in order to get all of the games in.

"We have as many as 200 basketball teams, 180 softball and flag football teams that must be scheduled to play during the respective seasons," Edwards said. "We had 84 bowling teams sign up for this year. Actually the response here is tremendous, and while it can get a little hectic in the office with so many students coming by to sign in their team or check a schedule, it has its rewards, too."

One of the greatest aspects of ECU's program is its sports medicine facility, which is one of only two in the nation. Here, participants can have treatment for injuries and be taped before a game with approval from a certified trainer. There is a training room equipped with whirlpools for injured participants.

"We feel that our sports medicine department is a great boost for the program," Edwards said. "There are trainers at the various sporting events which involve contact and now immediate preventative medicine is available to the students. Also, it gives them a feeling that someone is looking out for them when they can come to the training room for treatment instead of just suffering from a sprained ankle and limping back to the dormitory room."

In keeping with the University's commitment to the intramural program, Edwards has a staff of four fulltime professional assistants headed by associate director Nancy Mize; assistant directors Robert Fox, Pat Cox and Jamie Moul. There are also five graduate assistants who are available during the day for students to confront with questions concerning their sports.

"We have a good mix of ECU graduates and graduates from other Universities throughout the United States which allows us to draw on other school's ideas, as well as, perfect our own," Edward said. "For schools the size of East Carolina, our program is as good as anywhere in the country."

Although Edwards will not boast about the program, many have considered it as fine as any and certainly one which meets the needs of ECU's 13,000 + student body.

"This work is exciting because you are able to receive immediate feedback from the students," Edwards said. "You work closely with them and see them in situations which are different from the classroom. And I think that intramurals is a healthy way for the students to get away from some of the pressures and, at the same time, continue learning through their involvement."

The Intramural-Recreational Services offers something for everyone. It is responsible for women's, men's and co-recreational opportunities for all students. Its offices are housed in 204 Memorial Gym. The following is a breakdown of the IRS' activities and services.

- INTRAMURAL ACTIVITIES
  From arm wrestling to video games, the intramural program covers the entire sports field. The Wide World of Intramurals offers everything from the tradition sports to such unique activities as Almost Anything Goes, a takeoff from the television show, co-recreational roller hockey and a soap-opera trivia game.
- ADAPTIVE RECREATION
  The adaptive intramural-recreational program provides a variety of recreational opportunities for ECU's handicapped student population. Handicapped students are encouraged to participate in as many of the regularly scheduled intramural and recreational activities as possible. Also, specialized programs and services are offered for the mobility and visually impaired students, and special assistance is provided for the hearing impaired population upon request. The "Partner Program" provides those handicapped students who wish to participate in both scheduled and non-scheduled recreational activities.
- SPORT CLUBS
  Competitive, recreational and instructional clubs combine to make the total sport club programs both diversified and comprehensive. Current sport clubs include Frisbee, Karate, Rugby, Soccer, Surfing, Team Handball, Archery, Lacrosse and Raquetball. New clubs are initiated whenever sufficient student interest is demonstrated. Sport clubs compete with collegiate club teams from several southeastern states.
- RECREATIONAL SWIMMING
  Over 35 hours of recreational swimming are available each week through the Memorial Gym and Minges Coliseum pools. Early morning, mid-day, afternoon and evening hours are scheduled for each weekday, with an expanded afternoon schedule available during weekends.
- INFORMAL RECREATIONAL OPPORTUNITES
  Free play opportunities are regularly available in both Minges Coliseum and Memorial Gymnasium. Minges Coliseum includes a freeweight facility and raquetball courts; the Memorial Gymnasium facility includes gymnastics, fixed weight and exercise rooms, and a multi-purpose gymnasium. An outdoor recreational area consisting of courts for basketball, volleyball, tennis and horseshoes is located adjacent to Tyler and Belk residence halls, and is lighted for night play. Playing fields located in the Ficklen Stadium, College Hill and Allied Health areas are available for informal student utilization when not scheduled for intramural activities.
- RECREATIONAL EQUIPMENT CHECK-OUT SERVICES
  Students may check out a wide variety of recreational/sports equipment from the Memorial Gymnasium equipment room (115). Such items as basketballs, footballs, golf clubs, tennis and racquetball racquets, softball gloves, volleyball standards/nets and horseshoe equipment are available at no charge. There are nominal fees for canoe, backpack and tent rentals.
- SPORTS MEDICINE PROGRAM
  An intramural-club sport sports training room is located in room 111 of Memorial Gym. Sports Medicine services include preventative taping, first aid care, follow-up treatments and rehabilitative services. A full-time certified trainer, a graduate assistant trainer and several student trainers provide quality care for any ECU student.
- FITNESS PROGRAMS
  Non-credit classes in aerobic fitness, jazz exercise and personal defense are offered each semester and during the summer sessions.
- OUTDOOR RECREATON
  The Outdoor Recreation Center (113MG) provides resource information relevant to canoeing, hiking, camping, horseback riding, hang gliding and rafting. Outdoor recreational equipment rentals (canoes, backpacks, tents and camping accesories) are coordinated through the center, as is the Adventure Trips program.

Director of Athletics Dr. Ken Karr

Dr. Ken Karr has been a major driving force behind East Carolina's rise to national prominence in intercollegiate athletics.

Since being named July 11, 1980 as only the fourth athletic director to serve ECU since the inception of the position on the Greenville campus in 1947, Karr has guided the program toward greater exposure and success.

He has been instrumental in upgrading the Pirate football schedule to where there are now home-and-away series with powers such as Florida State, Miami (FL) and Temple, as well as facing Pittsburgh, Missouri, Flordia, West Virginia and Illinois.

Karr also played a major role in East Carolina's admission into the Eastern College Athlete Conference (ECAC), which offers an automatic bid to the NCAA championship tournament to the winner of the conference tournament. He was named treasurer of the ECAC-South in 1983.

Karr came to ECU from San Diego State where he served as athletic director from 1969-1979 and as chairman of the Department of Athletics in 1980.

While developing an excellent San Diego State athletic program, Karr also was very active on the national scene with the NCAA. In 1975, he was elected to the NCAA Division I Basketball Committee for a three-year period. His appointment to that committee was renewed for another three years to run through 1982. This is the committee which determines the schools to fill all slots in the NCAA post-season basketball tournament.

The Holiday Bowl, a post-season football game held in San Diego, was begun in 1978, with Karr playing an instrumental role in getting the game sanctioned by the NCAA. Karr served on the Board of Directors and the Executive Committee of the Holiday Bowl in 1978 and 1979.

Prior to his tenure at San Diego, Karr served as an assistant director at the University of Arizona. In 1964-67, he was an assistant football coach at Wake Forest and from 1952-54, he served at three high schools and two colleges on the football staff.

Karr holds a bachelor's degree in physical education from Illinois State University and a master's and doctoral degree in physical education from the University of Illinois.

Karr is married — wife's name Priscilla — and has two children.

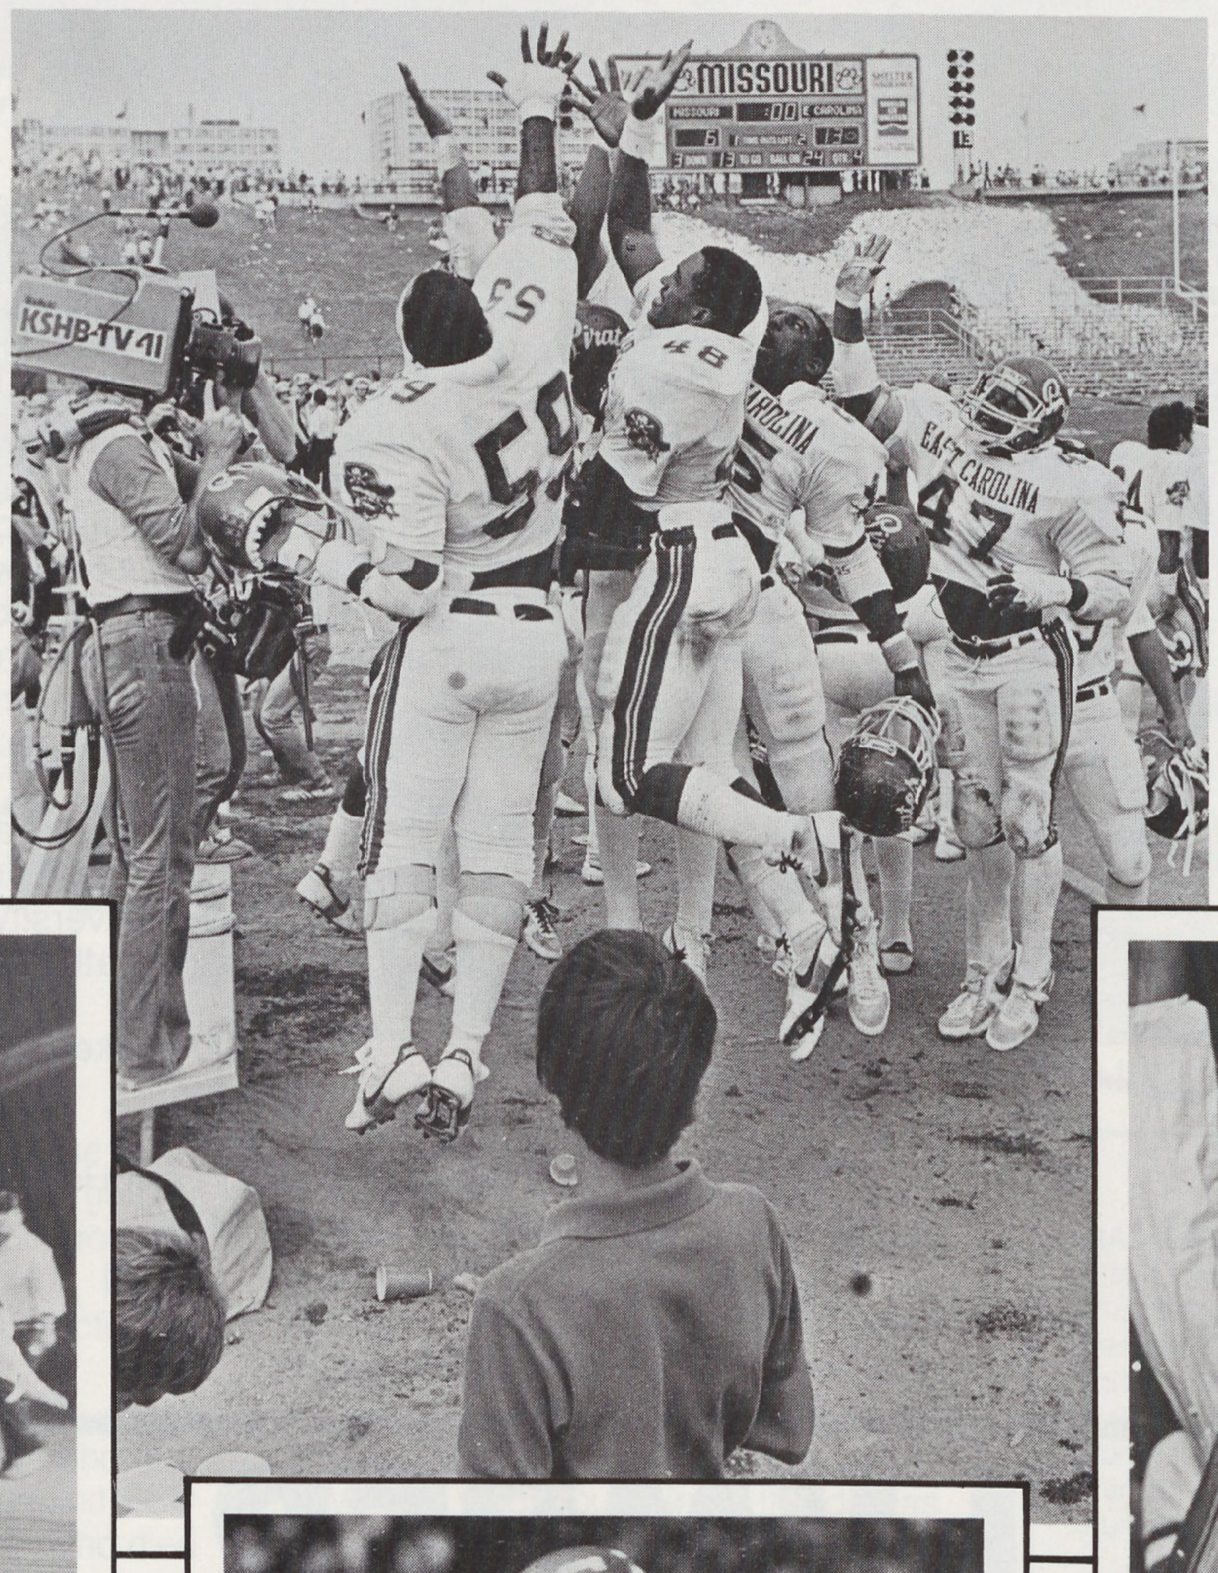
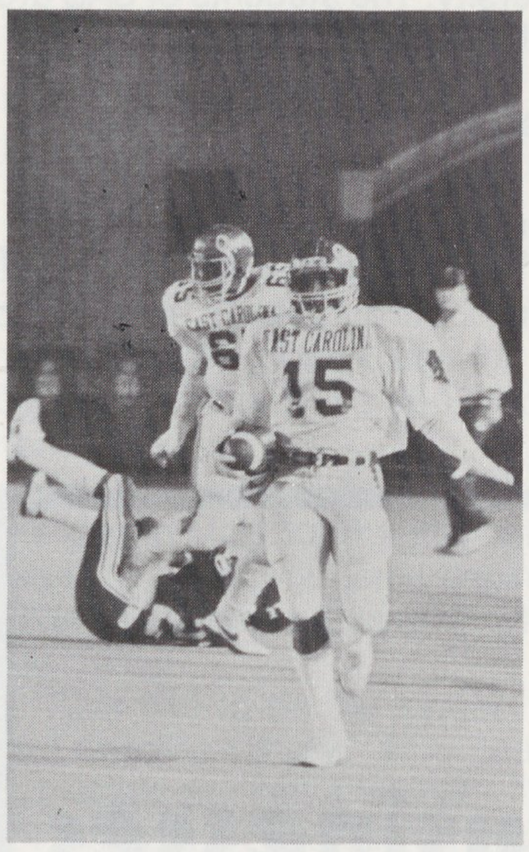
1983 — The Best Is Yet To Come

With four games remaining on the 1983 slate, the East Carolina Pirates have already accomplished more quite possibly than any other ECU football team in history. The Pirates presently stand at 5-2, after winning five straight, including road victories over N.C. State, Missouri and Temple, and two narrow road losses to nationally ranked Florida State and Florida. Following is a pictorial look at the Pirates' success story of 1983 . . .



A 13-6 win at Missouri opened many eyes to just how good the Pirates are in 1983. Here, the Pirates count down the clock in the background with a group effort "high five." (Photo by Lou Clemmons)



Henry Williams has taken Greenville by storm since his arrival from junior college last spring. The 5-6, 180-pound speedster started the season with two touchdown returns and hasn't looked back. He presently leads the nation in kickoff returns and stands eighth in punt returns, with a total of four touchdowns. (Photo by Stanley Leary)

The Spirit Behind ECU Athletics . . .

Dear Students,

At this time you may be asking yourself, what is the role of the Student Athletic Board (SAB)? Three good words to describe our role are . . . Involvement . . . Promotion . . . Participation. We are charged with the task of promoting ECU's intercollegiate athletic program by recognizing our athletes and building school spirit.

If one, two, or all of the varsity sports interest you, we hope you will plan on becoming involved with us. Hard work on the part of many different students will be the vital ingredient for SAB's success — seeking out new projects, conceiving events, expanding existing programs, and promoting each sport fully, takes time, planning and organization.

On behalf of the members of SAB and myself, we encourage you to take an interest in ECU's athletics and help us to generate a positive spirit for our great University. The students of SAB are truly . . . the spirit behind ECU athletics.

The 1975 North Carolina Game

Pirate FLASHBACK

Oct. 25 1975

Cornerback Ernest Madison halts a UNC runner.

CHAPEL HILL — In one of the most emotional major college football games of its time, East Carolina thoroughly outplayed the University of North Carolina in recording a 38-17 victory in Kenan Statium.

But the Pirates' finest hour came one day too late for the man who had been such a driving force behind ECU athletics, Clarence Stasavich, who died that Friday.

"This has to be the biggest win in East Carolina history," ECU coach Pat Dye would say that afternoon. "You've got to give a lot of credit for this win to the man who passed away yesterday. He had so much to do with us being able to reach this point."

The game and the ball that won it were dedicated to Coach Stas.

A crowd of 42,000 saw the Pirates outgain and outdefend the favored Atlantic Coast Conference representatives, who had never lost to a Southern Conference team during coach Bill Dooley's nine-year tenure.

Mike Voight, UNC's brillant tailback, scored the game's first touchdown with a one-yard run and the Tar Heels led 7-0. Then the Pirates seized control of the game with a 21-point first quarter blitz and finished the day by killing the clock on the UNC seven-yard line.

Quarterback Ken Strayhorn scored ECU's first touchdown on a six-yard run. The next two touchdowns came with stunning swiftness.

Voight fumbled on the first play after the kickoff and safety Jim Bolding recovered for ECU on the 19. On the second play, running back Mike Weaver hit tight end Clay Burnette on an 18-yard halfback pass to give the Pirates the lead for good.

Voight, who would finish the day as the game's leading rusher with 209 yards on an incredible 42 carries, again fumbled and Pirate linebacker Harold Fort pounced on the loose ball at the ECU 47. On the first play, freshman Eddie Hicks broke through a gaping hole and went 53 yards for the score and the Pirates led 21-7.

Carolina fought back, scoring on a six-yard TD run by Voight and added a 32-yard field goal by Tom Biddle just before the half and the score was 21-17 in favor of the visitors at intermission.

ECU wasted no time in moving forward to begin the second half. A 43-yard run by fullback Raymond Jones featured an 80-yard drive that made the score 28-17 when Willie Hawkins scored from the five.

Another Carolina miscue gave the Pirates great field position and Strayhorn scored from the seven to make the count 35-17. From then on, it was a matter of time. Bolding's second interception of the game set up a 30-yard field goal by Larry Paul to end the scoring.

East Carolina's Marching Pirates

The East Carolina University Marching Band has quickly gained a reputation as a crowd pleaser at halftime ceremonies during the football season.

The Marching Pirates, with over 250 members for the 1983 season, are considered to be among the top marching band organizations in the South and on the East Coast with over one-third of its members attending ECU's School of Music. While halftime ceremonies were once reserved for trips to the concession stands, now many Pirate faithful remain in their seats to view the patented and stunning performances.

"Our aim is to entertain the crowd and I think that we've been very successful at that," says the band's director, Tom Goolsby, who returns to lead the group after a leave of absence in 1982. "We are very fortunate at East Carolina to have such an appreciative crowd during the games and that makes us want to perform that much better."

The band spends countless hours on the field practicing for the shows which culminates into a remarkable Saturday performance which East Carolina football fans have come to expect. Goolsby has evenly mixed the band's music, adding everything from today's popular hits to classical pieces.

The band works up different routines each week around a centeral show, which includes numbers this season such as "Pictures of Spain," "Spanish Dreams," "Free," a popular hit by the group Chicago, Earth, Wind and Fire's "Fantasy," and a special drum solo, "Mayazumi Concertino." Goolsby has promised a surprise ending to this year's shows which he is sure everyone will recognize.

Along with the large number of band members, the Pirate Color Guard, Flag, Pom Pon and Rifle teams, along with featured twirlers will fill the field with pageantry.

The 1983 staff includes: Director Tom Goolsby; Assistant Director Dan Freeman; Color Guard Instructor Ernest Miller; Percussion Instructor Brent Montgomery; Head Drum Major Robbie Carol; and Assistant Drum Majors Mike Pollard and Marty Harding.

The University

Seventy-six years of growth and advancement mark the history of East Carolina University. Since the institution began as a teachers school in 1907, East Carolina has grown along with the town of Greenville and the region.

Following its motto, SERVIRE, East Carolina has become one of the South's most rapidly developing institutions of higher learning.

Its development has occurred in giant steps in the heart of a region described 25 years ago as a "sleeping giant," just then being stirred to awaken. Then during the last two decades especially, East Carolina experienced spectacular growth, mushrooming from a relatively small liberal arts college into a major university, the third largest in the state, with more than 13,000 students enrolled today.

East Carolina was given university status by an act of the General Assembly of North Carolina in 1967 and with it a mandate to raise and expand its programs and services. Four years later it became a constituent campus of the consolidated University of North Carolina system.

Today, East Carolina has 18 academic departments in its College of Arts and Sciences, nine professional schools including North Carolina's newest school of medicine, the General College, the Graduate School and the Division of Continuing Education.

East Carolina's professional schools are: Allied Health and Social Professions, Art, Business, Education, Home Economics, Medicine, Music, Nursing and Technology.

Undergraduate degrees are offered in 105 bachelor's degree programs along with 107 minor program concentrations. The Graduate School offers 73 master's degree program areas, six sixth-year programs and five programs granting doctoral degrees.

The doctoral programs, in basic medical sciences, were approved by the Board of Governors in the fall of 1979. This authorization represents a special milestone in the progress of the University, placing it among the six private and public institutions in North Carolina to offer Ph.D. level graduate students.

The School of Medicine offers four-year professional MD degrees.

Although its growth in size and new programs has been phenomenal, East Carolina University places emphasis upon academic excellence, upon quality rather than quantity.

East Carolina's physical growth is, in itself, a continuing wonder.

The original campus site — on which the first six buildings were constructed in 1908 — has expanded to a 411-acre campus with 64 buildings. The campus physical plant is valued at nearly $100 million and is constantly being improved and beautified.

A large, modern medical school campus is being constructed on a site several miles west of the main campus in Greenville.

The athletic complex includes a newly-enlarged football stadium, expanded from 20,000 to more than 35,000 seats in 1978. Its press box and lighting are regarded as the finest facilities in the South.

Located in the mild, sunny climate of the Carolinas' coastal plain, East Carolina attracts the bulk of its student body from the 50 or so counties in the eastern tier of North Carolina and southeast Virginia, and from along the eastern seaboard as far north as New York and New England.

Greenville, N.C., itself is a pleasant, pretty city of some 38,000 population located in a rich agricultural region which is the world's leading producer of bright, flue-cured tobacco, and also a leader in production of peanuts, soybeans, cucumbers and other fruits and vegetables. Greenville is less than two hours drive from the famed Outer Banks of North Carolina and the beaches, seafood and recreation-rich Pamlico and Albemarle Sounds and other Atlantic coastal estuaries.

A great many of the more than 36,000 living alumni who have come to East Carolina from other states have chosen to stay in eastern North Carolina to live and work, and have become successful, prosperous and happy citizens of this growing region. There are many other alumni who were attracted to the school and its educational opportunities while serving in the armed forces at such nearby bases as the Camp Lejeune and Cherry Point Marine bases, Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base, or at Fort Bragg, N.C.

East Carolina's faculty of 750 highly-trained professors and academicians engages in research activity supported by some $5 million in annual funding. Remarkable growth of faculty research activity has been noted in recent years. The libraries contain collections of more than 500,000 bound volumes, 8,516 serial subscriptions, 600,000 units of microfilm, 5,201 phonodisc/tape recordings, 320 manuscripts collections comprised of 500,000 items and the latest in library-loan systems. The Computer Center also has the latest in modern computer capability to serve the campus.

In all, East Carolina is fulfilling its potential as a university which is increasingly prominent as a center for educational opportunity and service.

Approximately 13,000 students in 150 programs attend the University.

Enthusiasm for Pirate athletics is a common bond for all.

One of the most beautiful campuses in the state, East Carolina serves as a focal point for education.

PIEDMONT AIRLINES

JOIN THE FASTEST-GROWING FAN CLUB IN AMERICA.

At Piedmont, we've been winning new fans at a record-setting pace.

This past year alone, for example, we counted over 8.5 million. A million more than the year before.

So, why are so many fans flocking to our gates?

We think it's because we offer an alternative. An aerial game plan that gives the air traveler a lot of options.

For instance, nonstops and directs where the other airlines offer only connections.

Or fast, easy connections through airports that are smaller and less congested.

In short, it's a strategy that has helped us gain ground almost everywhere we've gone.

Which has helped make us, since 1978, the fastest-growing major airline in America.

The Ed Emory Pirate Football Camp

As Ed Emory's football program strengthens itself each season, so does his Pirate Football Camp held each summer. The 1983 session was the largest in East Carolina's history with 300 youngsters in attendance.

The purpose of the Pirate football camp is to provide for football excellence through individual instruction of football skills, striving for their perfection. The professional coaching, provided by the entire Pirate staff, will place a major emphasis on all phases of the game both offensively and defensively. The fundamentals of running, passing and kicking will all be stressed.

The camp is available to boys ages eight through rising senior in high school, and there will be no contact in the workouts. Individual instruction will be the primary concern to allow for maximum learning and development.

"We look upon our camp as being an instructional football camp," said ECU assistant coach and camp director Rex Kipps. "We believe that the individual attention that each player receives on both the fundamentals and the more complex parts of the game will benefit the youngsters the greatest."

Coach Emory, now in his fourth season with East Carolina, has turned the ECU program into a major contender in the collegiate ranks in just a few short seasons. Before returning as head coach to his alma mater, where he played for Pirate teams from 1956-59, Emory was an assistant at Georgia Tech, Duke, Wake Forest and Clemson Universities, and for 10 years was one of the most successful head high school coaches in North Carolina.

Coach Emory has been involved with the development of numerous professional players during his coaching stints. Since coming to ECU in 1980, eight of his players have gone on to play professionally with either the National Football League or the United States Football League.

The Wheels Of ECU Athletics

The road becomes a second home for those connected with collegiate athletics, particularly coaches. Indeed, being on the road and traveling thousands of miles each year is a major part of the job.

Almost every facet of the job — recruiting, scouting competition, making public appearances, etc. — are activities that keep athletic personnel on the move.

The "wheels" that keep East Carolina's athletic program rolling are a group known as Courtesy Car Dealers, and they play a vital role in allowing the Pirate staff to meet their demands.

Far more than just a fringe benefit, these cars given by the East Carolina Courtesy Car Dealers are necessities for a growing and successful athletic program. Without their support, recruiting could not be done. Competition could not be scouted and public appearances would not be made.

The entire East Carolina staff wishes to thank each dealer providing a car to this fleet of courtesy cars. Each doing so is noted on the next two pages.

Thanks Courtesy Car Dealers! You keep the wheels of East Carolina athletics rolling.

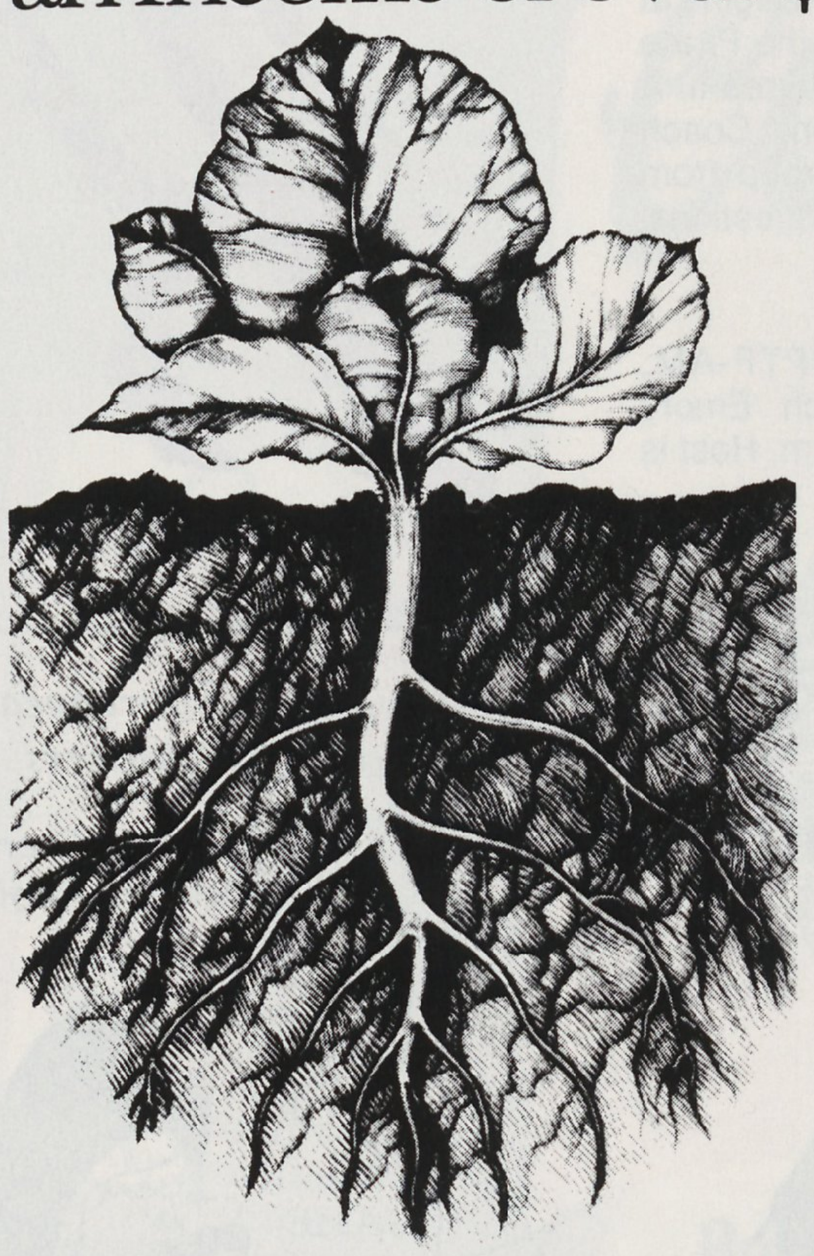
The Humble Beginnings Of A $2.1 Billion Crop.

Tobacco provides American farmers with an income of over $2.1 billion a year. It's one of the United States' most valuable money crops.



As a major supplier of U.S. leaf to world markets, A.C. Monk is a vital link between the people who grow the tobacco and the people who buy it.

And we've always tried to work in the best overall interests of both.

But we're especially proud of our working relationship with U.S. growers.

The people who work the tobacco crops, from seedlings all the way to market.

They're the people who keep the tobacco industry going. And we never forget it. MONK

Pirate Sports Medicine

Rochel Rittgers, Greg Beres, and Rod Compton.

East Carolina University's sports medicine department has earned the reputation of being one of the nation's leaders in the dual capacity of on-the-job experience and classroom training.

Under the direction of Rod Compton, who is entering his 14th season with the Pirates, the ECU program offers the best possible prevention, immediate treatment, and rehabilitation of injuries for its athletes.

Compton, a certified athletic trainer and a member of the National Athletic Trainers Association (NATA) and the American Orthopaedic Society for Sports Medicine, earned degrees from Ohio University and Bowling Green State and served as Editor in Chief of the NATA Journal for more than six years. He also directs the ECU Sports Medicine Conference which is held annually in late April on the East Carolina campus.

Compton is assisted by acting team physician, Dr. James H. McCallum, who is the Director of the ECU Student Health Services Center, and two new assistant trainers for the 1983 season. Rochel Rittgers and Greg Beres. Both Rittgers and Beres are certified athletic trainers by the NATA.

Also assisting in the effort of preventative medicine are 16 excellent community-based professionals who lend valuable time to the program and 30 to 35 undergraduate students majoring in East Carolina's heralded athletic training curriculum.

East Carolina's Sports Medicine Center, located directly behind Ficklen Stadium, is a modern and functional training facility. Contained within its air-conditioned and adequate space are equipment for rehabilitation and immediate treatment, and equipment for preventative development of the body such as isokinetics (Orthotron and Fitron), and isotonics (free-style weights). Also included in the facility are whirlpools, treatment tables, and other modern equipment such as ultrasound for the necessary consistent treatment and care for Pirate athletes.

The "Sports Paramedics", as Compton refers to his staff, are in attendance at every athletic event that involves ECU athletes. Radio communication from the practice field to the center is a must and a sports medicine vehicle provides instant transportation for injured athletes to the center.

The Sports Medicine Curriculum, a part of the Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Department at East Carolina, is the only undergraduate athletic training program approved by the NATA in eastern North Carolina and one of only three in the state.

A student of the program can receive as much as 2,500 hours of on-field training experience over a four-year span, as well as, the requirements in the classroom to emerge with possibly the most overall experience of any program in the country.

A number of sports medicine graduates have continued to work in the field. They include: Ronnie Barnes (N.Y. Giants); Craig Sink (N.C. State); Byron Schulken (UAB); Keith Luxton (Davidson); Tommy Craig (Toronto Blue Jays organization); Jon Woodworth (Kinston Eagles); Johnny Blake (S. Durham HS); Kirby Patterson (Richmond County HS); Jamie Reed (U.S. Naval Academy); Florence Cottrell (Kansas St.); Karen Rauss (Winthrop College); Jim Keating (Southern Sports Medicine Center in Marietta, GA); Scott Applegate (Miami, O); Sue Evanko (Georgia); and Tony Sutton (Florida).

"A person interested in becoming an athletic trainer," says Compton, "should have certain basic characteristics, two of which are a strong love of being involved with sports and a strong interest in helping others."

"People Helping People in a first class setting."

East Tennessee State University

East Tennessee State University, a growing institution of 9,500 students, is located in the northeastern tip of the state of Tennessee, set amid the peaks and wide, rolling valleys of the Southern Appalachian mountain range.

Almost one million people live within a 50 mile radius of the University, in and around the communities of Johnson City, Bristol and Kingsport — which comprise the Tri-Cities.

Opening in 1911, ETSU has rapidly progressed from a two-year institution educating teachers for public schools of Tennessee, to a three-year curiculum in 1919, and to a four-year college in 1924, at which time, the original name was changed to East Tennessee State Teachers College. In 1943, the institution's name was changed once again to East Tennessee State College. the current name came about in 1963 when the institution achieved university status.

A member of the State University and Community College System of Tennessee, the University is organized into four colleges and four schools — the colleges of Arts and Sciences, Business, Education and Medicine; and the schools of Applied Science and Technology; Graduate Studies, Nursing and Public and Allied Health.

In addition to the day and evening classes offered on the main campus, the University also offers courses through University centers in Kingsport and Bristol. The Nave Paramedical Center in Elizabethton is an academic unit of the University and offers associate degree and certificate programs in several paramedical specialties. A wide selection of workshops and non-credit short courses are offered throughout the year on the main campus, at the University centers, and at locations in the community as the need arises.

The main campus consists of 366 acres and 81 buildings with more than 1,644,000 net assignable square feet near the commercial district of Johnson City. In addition, the Kingsport University Center consists of 97 acres and 48,939 net assignable square feet, and the Nave Paramedical Center in Elizabethton consists of 10 acres and 14,270 net assignable square feet. The Quillen-Dishner College of Medicine consists of approximately 9,000 net assignable square feet on the adjacent Veterans Administration facility as well as rental or lease of 21,600 net assignable square feet for three area Family Practice Centers.

East Tennessee State's physical education, convocation and athletic facility is quite probably the only building in the world which contains a football field and a medical college.

After all space allocations were made for the athletic department, the physical education and recreational department and various administrative offices, there was still enough room in the tri-level structure to devote the entire second floor to ETSU's Quillen-Dishner College of Medicine for offices and research laboratories.

In addition to being the home for the Buccaneer football team, the basketball, track, tennis, gymnastics and rifle teams host opponents in Memorial Center.

The facilities include Gentry Field (the football field) with Astroturf surfacing, the main Tartan-surface basketball court, a six-lane 1/6 mile Tartan-surfaced track, six racquetball/handball courts, seven tennis courts, a combination volleyball/badminton court, rifle range, two auxiliary gymnasiums and a physical education research laboratory.

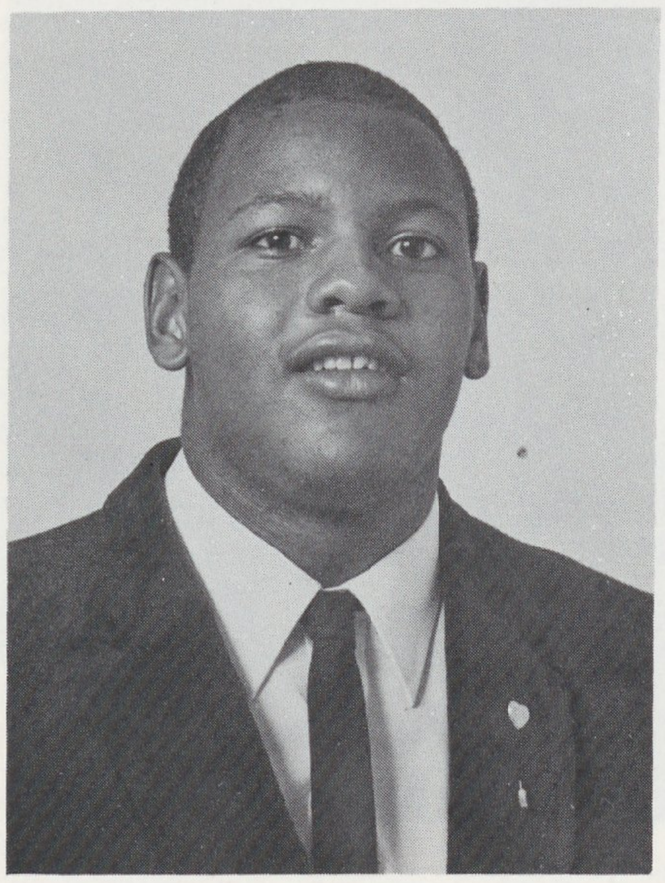
ETSU Tackle

Thompson Visitor In Foes' Backfield



By BILL VILONA

Calvin Thompson emerged from a lengthy post-practice shower, dressed in a muscle T-shirt and carrying an armload of books.

"Hey C," yelled a teammate. "You want us to wait for you. Can you handle this publicity?"

"Aw man," came the blushing response, as Thompson cradled a night's worth of homework. "This is for all of us."

The off-the-field personality of Calvin Thompson is one of a shy, soft-spoken man — almost to the point of meekness. Football fields and opposing offensive lineman have a way of turning this Clark Kent into a ferocious, aggressive tackler and one of the finest defensive players in the Southern Conference."

"Calvin Thompson," says East Tennesse State defensive line coach Sam Betz, "is one of those guys that speaks with action."

And that's exactly what the sophomore from Tampa, Fla. has done in just two seasons at ETSU. Currently he is the team's third leading tackler and leads in tackles for losses.

His number 78 is around the ball on just about every play. Thompson loves to spend his time in opponents' backfields.

"I think I've learned more technique than last year," Thompson said. "Being a freshman last season I got so much experience, but didn't learn technique. This season we run more of a technique slow down defense."

At 6-foot-1, 220-pounds, Thompson relies more on quickness than brawn. He beats opponents with cat-like moves, darting past a would be blocker before getting stood up.

"I don't go for that manhandle stuff," said Thompson. "I try to get up under."

"He's so quick," said Betz. "You can improve quickness, but you can't teach it. Calvin reacts to what a lineman does."

"Calvin's like a halfback playing tackle," said ETSU coach Buddy Sasser. "He goes at it so hard."

Thompson has always enjoyed action. When he was growing up, he used to quickly change football gear for gym shorts and tennis shoes and head for the basketball court. Perhaps it's one reason for his quickness on the gridiron.

"My football coach in high school would tell me not to play basketball, but I had to do it. It made me feel better," Thompson explained. "I used to go to the gym and do some running and shooting."

Childhood life was not always simple for Thompson. He grew up in a poor section of Tampa, reared by only his mother. Because of his background, some recruiters shied away.

The green hills of East Tennessee looked like a whole new world to Thompson when former Buc coach Pete Kuharchek introduced him to ETSU two winters ago.

"I had never been out of Florida," Thompson related. "I wanted to get away from Tampa. I couldn't stay there. ETSU was straight up with me. They didn't talk a lot of jive like other schools.

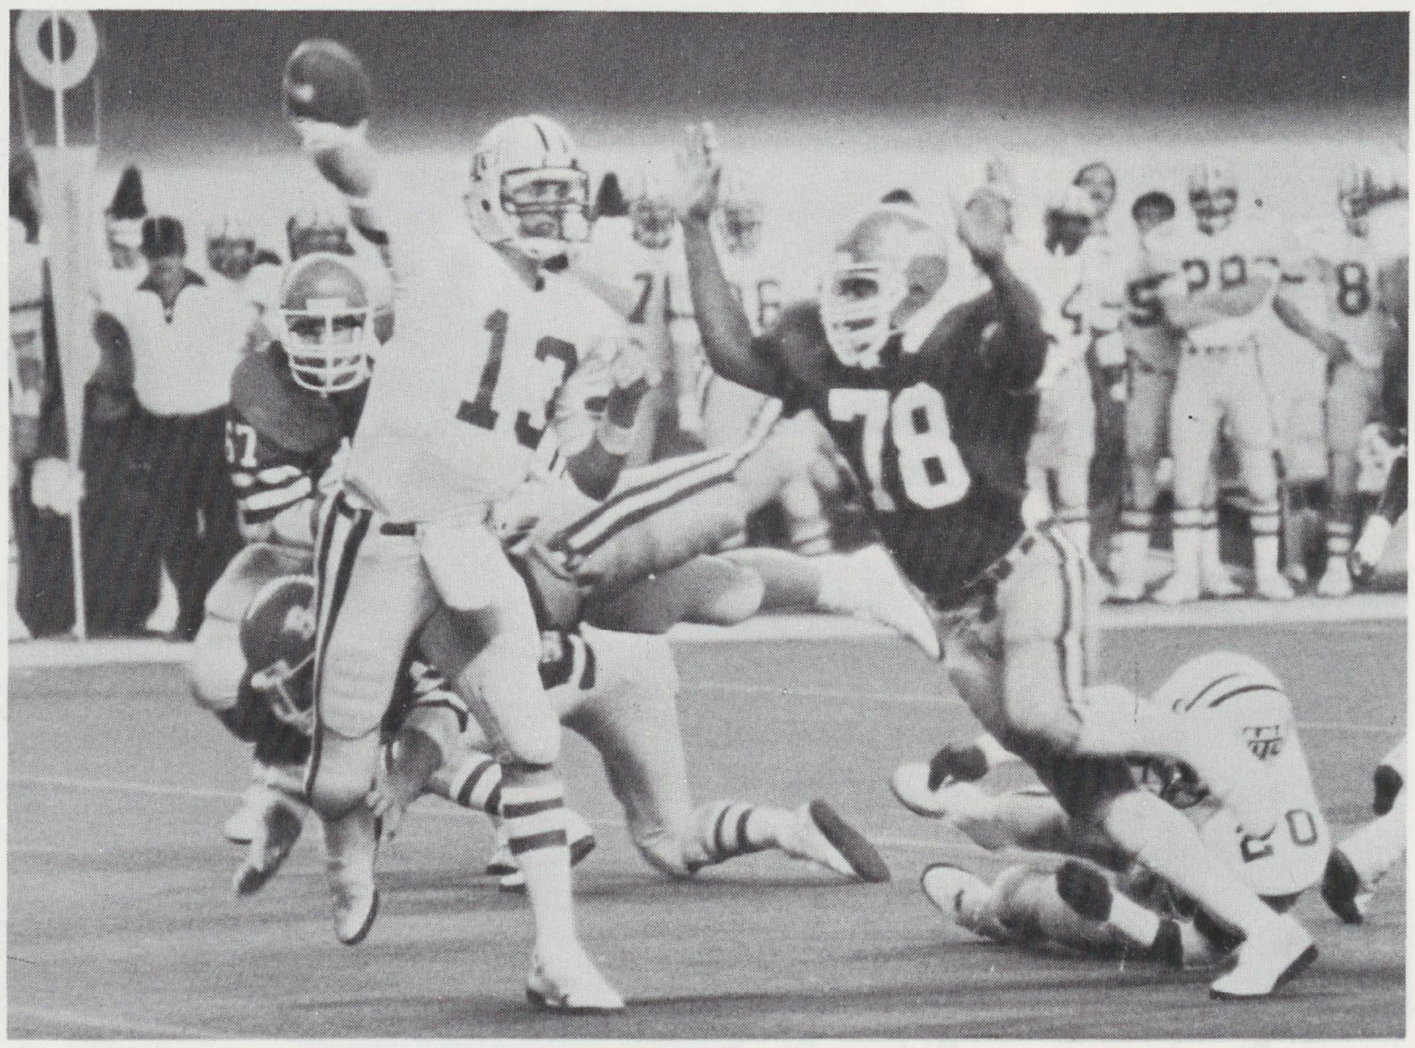
"I've changed a lot since I've been here, grown up. I used to be kind of a momma's boy. I was the middle child in the family, but now my older brother and sister have moved on so I'm kind of the man of the house."

Thompson has always believed in practicing like he plays. He gives a full day's work whether it's just a late Monday drill or a goal line stand during a game.

"I enjoy football," he said. "I figure if I practice hard I'm going to play hard."

"He's a joy to coach," said Betz. "He is such a great athlete. He gets to the football and plays with such intensity."

Off the field, one might never guess.



SILENT CAL — ETSU's Calvin Thompson (78) lets his play do the talking.

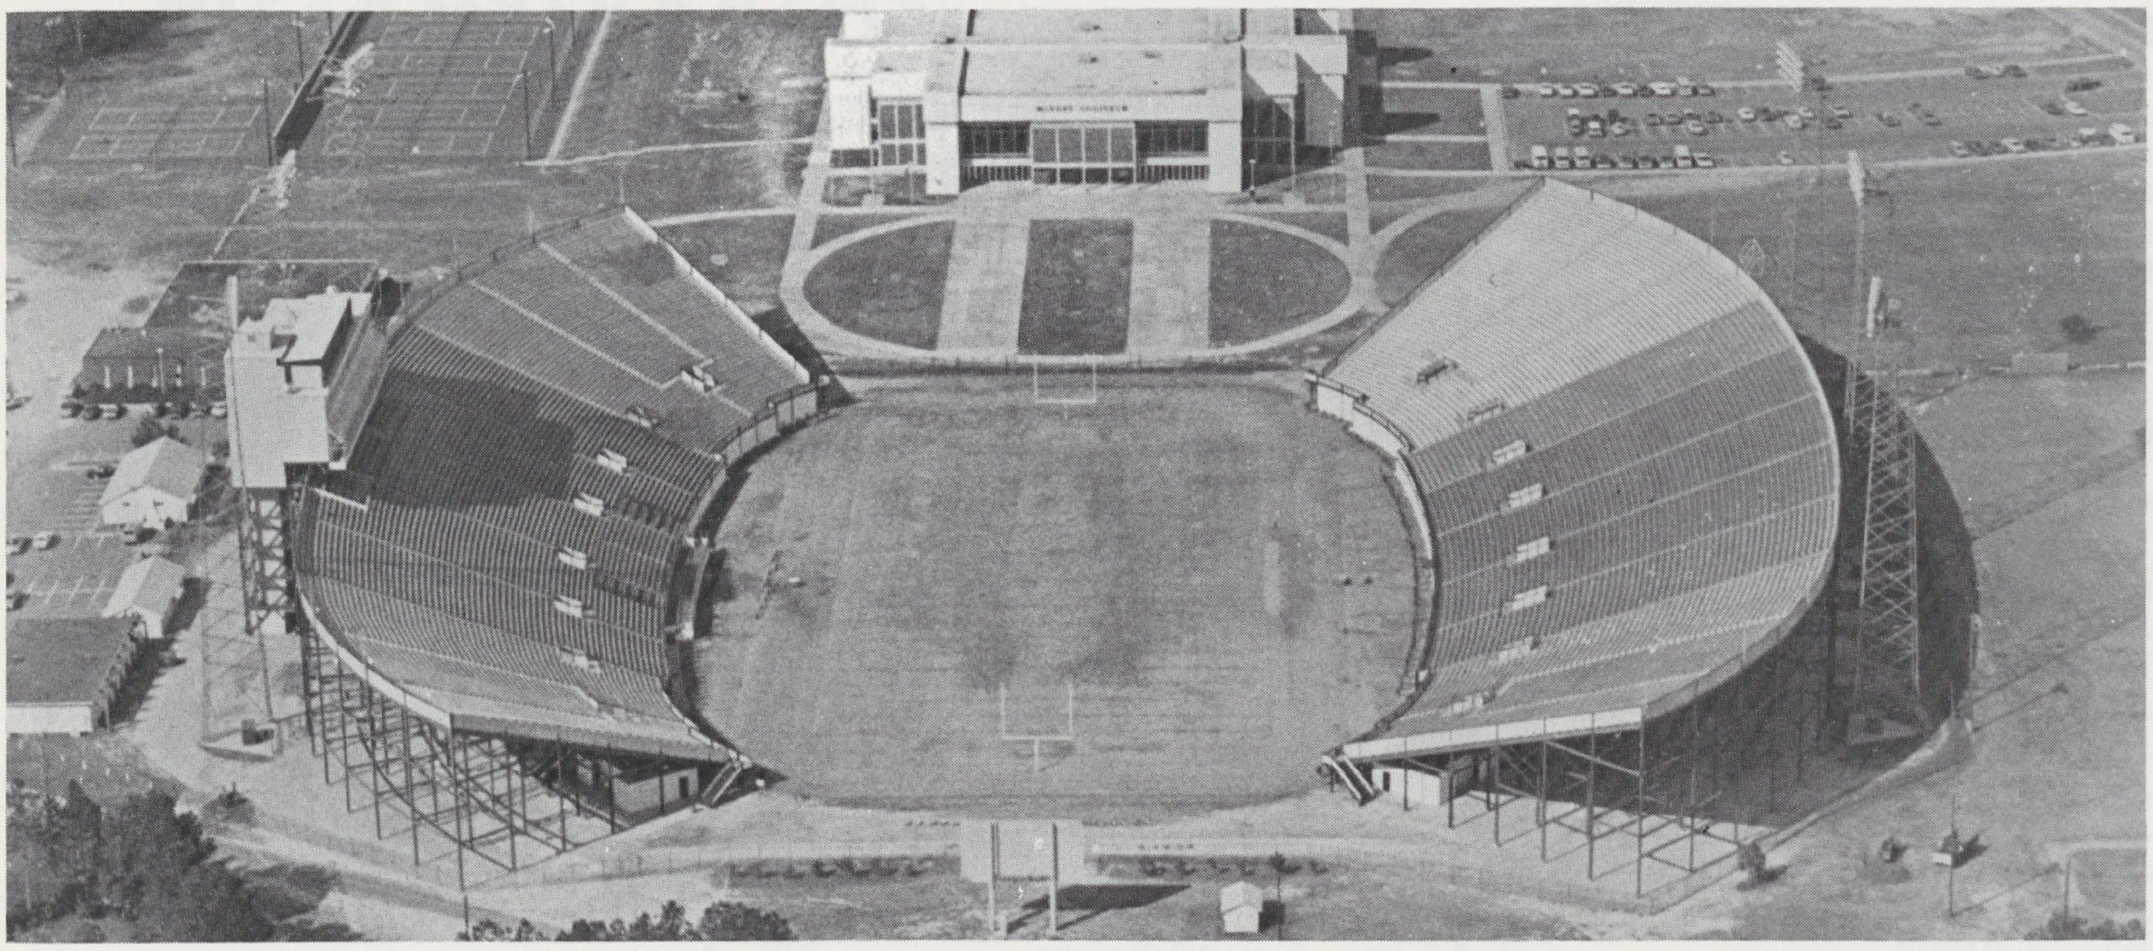
Ficklen Stadium



The James Skinner Ficklen Memorial Stadium was dedicated on September 21, 1963, with East Carolina defeating Wake Forest 20-10.

The dedication game was the culmination of a dream come true for the then East Carolina College and all of eastern North Carolina. The original plan was announced on Oct. 7, 1961, by Dr. Leo Jenkins, Chancellor of the College, at a meeting of the Society of Buccaneers.

Within a year, $283,387 had been raised, although the goal had been only $200,000. With the funds in hand, Ficklen Stadium was built.

The original stadium consisted of the permanent stands on the south side, a small press box and the old lighting system that was removed after the 1974 season. Total cost was $300,000.

The north side permanent seating was constructed in 1968, increasing the stadium seating capacity to 20,000.

The stadium was named for the late James Skinner Ficklen, a Greenville resident, who distinguished himself as one of America's leading tobacconists. At the time of his death in 1955, Ficklen was President and Chairman of the Board of the E.B. Ficklen Tobacco Company of Greenville. He was a close friend of the College and established a financial aid foundation, the Ficklen Foundation, to aid students of the College.

The first major change in Ficklen Stadium was the lighting systems, a change that occurred just before the 1975 season opened. The old inner stadium lights on six poles were removed and replaced with six towers outside the stadium. The system is a combination of metallic and incandescent lights. There are 288 fixtures of 1500 watts each on six 162-foot high towers. Cost of the system was $450,000. Engineers say ECU has the best lighted stadium in the southeast.

A radical change greeted fans as the 1978 season opened. An expansion on all four corners boosted Ficklen's seating capacity from 20,000 to 35,000, the third largest stadium in North Carolina. This expansion was made possible with 2½ million dollars through a drive in the spring of 1977.

In addition to more seats, an ultra-modern press box with three levels and an elevator for access was built. The much needed press box is one of the finest in the country with space for 92 writers and an entire floor for electronic media. Also, a modern scoreboard with a lightbank message center was placed on the east end of Ficklen.

During the past summer, a complete renovation took place on the playing surface. A new drainage system, a new base of gravel and sand, new treated topsoil and a new grass was installed. The new grass, Tifton 419 Hybrid-Bermuda was sprigged at the rate of 600 bushels per acre. The playing field is approximately two acres.
