TODAY'S GAME

East Carolina vs. Louisiana Tech

East Carolina returns to Ficklen Stadium today for its fourth home game of the season. The Pirates (1-4) are looking for their second win of the season after dropping three straight to Washington, Memphis State and South Carolina. Today's opponent, Louisiana Tech, comes to Greenville after having an open date last week. Prior to its open date, Louisiana Tech (1-3) earned its first win of the season, a 17-3 victory over Arkansas State.

ECU Leads Series

East Carolina leads the series with Louisiana Tech, 3-2. On the field, the series is tied, 2-2-1, but the 29-29 tie in 1989 was forfeited to East Carolina because the Bulldogs played with an ineligible player.

While the series, which began in 1968, is short in games, it's been a memorable one for ECU.

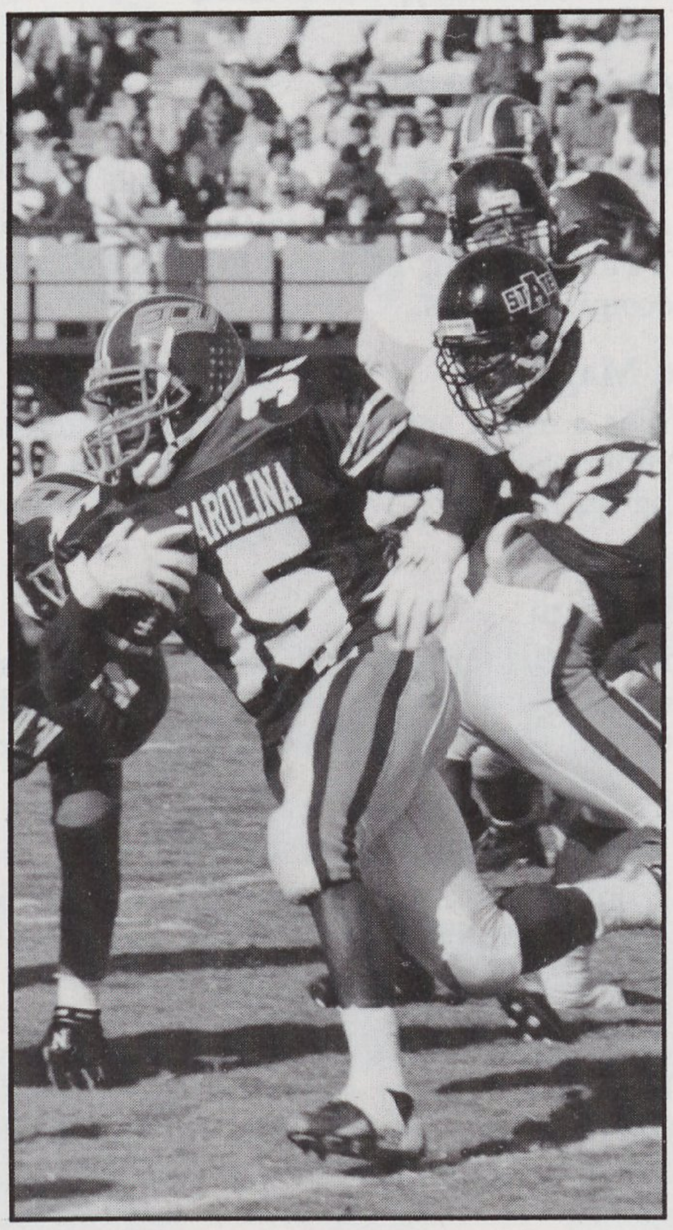

In the 1989 tie, ECU battled back to take a 29-26 lead with 1:44 left in the game at Ficklen Stadium. La. Tech's Matt Stover then hit a 39-yard field goal with 16 seconds left in the game for the tie.

The last meeting in 1990 was as memorable with Jeff Blake running for two touchdowns and throwing for another in the 27-17 Pirate victory.

Of the five meetings, the 1978 meeting in the Independence Bowl means the most to Pirate fans. In the 35-13 win, ECU's Theodore Sutton set a then-Independence Bowl record with 143 yards on 17 carries.

ECU Defense Continues To Show Improvement

Each week, ECU's defensive performance has continued to improve and is currently ranked 58th in the nation. The Pirate rushing defense ranks 38th in the nation, allowing just an average of 134.4 yards per game. Last season, ECU gave up an average of 253.4 yards per game on the ground.

Robinson Has Career-High Day

Senior linebacker Reggie Robinson had the game of his career against South Carolina, recording a career-high 16 tackles. In just his second start of his career, Robinson had two tackles behind the line and a pass deflection. On the season, Robinson has 26 total tackles with two stops for a loss of four yards.

For his performance against the Gamecocks, Robinson has been named this week's IFA Defensive Player of the Week.

Smith Fifth In The Nation In Rushing

As he continues his quest for his second 1,000 yard rushing season, ECU's Junior Smith is currently fifth in the nation in rushing, averaging 125.4 yards a game.

With 627 net yards through ECU's first five games, Smith needs just 373 yards to achieve the goal only one other player in ECU history has reached. Carlester Crumpler became ECU's only player to rush over 1,000 yards in consecutive seasons when he rushed for 1,309 yards in 1972 and 1,042 yards in 1973.

The Pirate congratulates Brooke Driskill after being crowned 1992 Homecoming Queen.

On This Date

Prior to today's game, ECU is 3-3 in games played on Oct. 16. Here's a look at games played on this date in Pirate football history:

ECU Two Wins Away From 100th Win at Ficklen

A win today and in the home finale with Tulsa on Nov. 2 would give the Pirates their 100th victory in Ficklen Stadium. Since its first game in Ficklen Stadium on Sept. 21, 1963, ECU has played host to 145 games. During that time, the Pirates are 98-46-1, winning 67.9 percent of their home games.

Seniors, Petty To Be Honored at Home Finale

ECU's final home game on Nov. 2 will honor the 1993 seniors as well as NASCAR racing legend Richard Petty.

ECU's 15 seniors and their families will be recognized prior to kickoff while Petty, along with his show car, will be at the game which kicks off at 1:30.

Next Week

The Pirates travel to Hattiesburg, Miss. to face Independent Football Alliance foe, Southern Mississippi. The Golden Eagles are 1-4 on the season and travel to Louisville today.

The East Carolina University Department of Athletics thanks today's corporate sponsors, Golden Corral and USAir, for their support of Pirate Athletics.

Golden Corral Corporation, founded by James Maynard (ECU, '65), has capped two decades of expansion by being selected as one of the nation's "Great Growth Chains."

Selection to the restaurant industry's "Dream Team" was made by an authoritative trade magazine, Restaurants & Institutions. It was the second award in 1992 from the magazine; earlier in the year it named Golden Corral the nation's favorite steakhouse chain.

Golden Corral's growth has been dramatic, rising in 1991 to sales of $449 million, a gain of 27 percent from the prior year. There are 430 restaurants in 39 states.

Growth alone was not sufficient for the award, according to the magazine's editors. They stipulated that winners also had to score exceptionally well in customer surveys measuring value, food quality, cleanliness, service, convenience, atmosphere, menu variety and overall customer satisfaction. Golden Corral was tops in customer satisfaction in the steakhouse category, traditionally one of the most hotly contested industry segments.

At its 20th anniversary, Golden Corral is projecting continued strong growth. A major factor will be the newly introduced second generation of restaurants that seat 450 guests, twice the capacity of previous facilities. Menu variety has been broadened dramatically through the new Golden Choice Buffet that offers some 120 to 170 items. The centerpiece of the new restaurants is the Brass Bell Bakery where baked goods are prepared in full view of customers.

The CEO of Golden Corral is Ted Fowler, who succeeded Mr. Maynard in 1984. Mr. Maynard is chairman of Investors Management Corporation of Raleigh, the parent corporation.

USAir is proud to be a sponsor of ECU football for the fourth year.

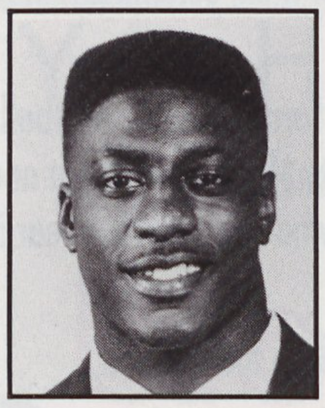

USAir has consistently rated high in the U.S. Department of Transportation statistics for the fewest consumer complaints — a good barometer of passenger satisfaction. On-time performance for the airline has been among the best in the industry for airlines of similar size over the past 15 months.

Systemwide USAir offers 2,640 daily jet departures and USAir Express provides 2,021 daily USAir Express departures. Major connecting hub airports are located at Charlotte, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Baltimore/Washington (BWI), and Dayton.

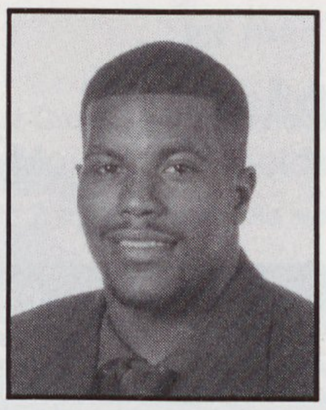

Charlotte is USAir's largest hub airport, providing Carolinians with 340 daily jet departures and 128 daily USAir Express departures to destinations like London/England, Nassau, San Juan, Los Angeles, Phoenix, Dallas/Fort Worth, Indianapolis, Boston, New York, Miami and Orlando to name a few.

USAir offers extensive service throughout the Carolinas — a total of 454 daily jet and 213 daily USAir Express flights. USAir's fleet of 428 jet aircraft is one of the youngest, most technologically advanced aircraft fleets in the nation with an average age of nine years.

Founded in May 1939, USAir today employs approximately 47,000 employees nationwide and is headquartered in Arlington, Va.

Carlester Crumpler

Junior Smith

Crumpler, Smith Move Up Record Charts

With outstanding career performances, senior tight end Carlester Crumpler and junior running back Junior Smith are working their names into the ECU record books.

Crumpler is tied for eighth with Ricky Nichols (1981-84) in career pass receptions with 65. Crumpler needs two catches to pass Hunter Gallimore (1988-91) for seventh on the all-time list.

Smith, who is currently working towards his second 1,000 rushing yard season, has 1,816 career rushing yards and needs 218 more yards to break into ECU's top-10 career rushing yardage list.

OFF THE FIELD...

College Football programs provide an economic impact that creates significant income for the local community and serves as an effective source for rallying alumni.

Communities with a population of less than 100,000 produce 55% of today's players. –1991 CFA Player Survey

College Football players graduate at a rate higher than the male student population in general. The average graduation rate for CFA players in 1992 was 59%. The national average for men, according to the NCAA Report 1991–1992 Division I Graduation Rate Summary, is 54%.

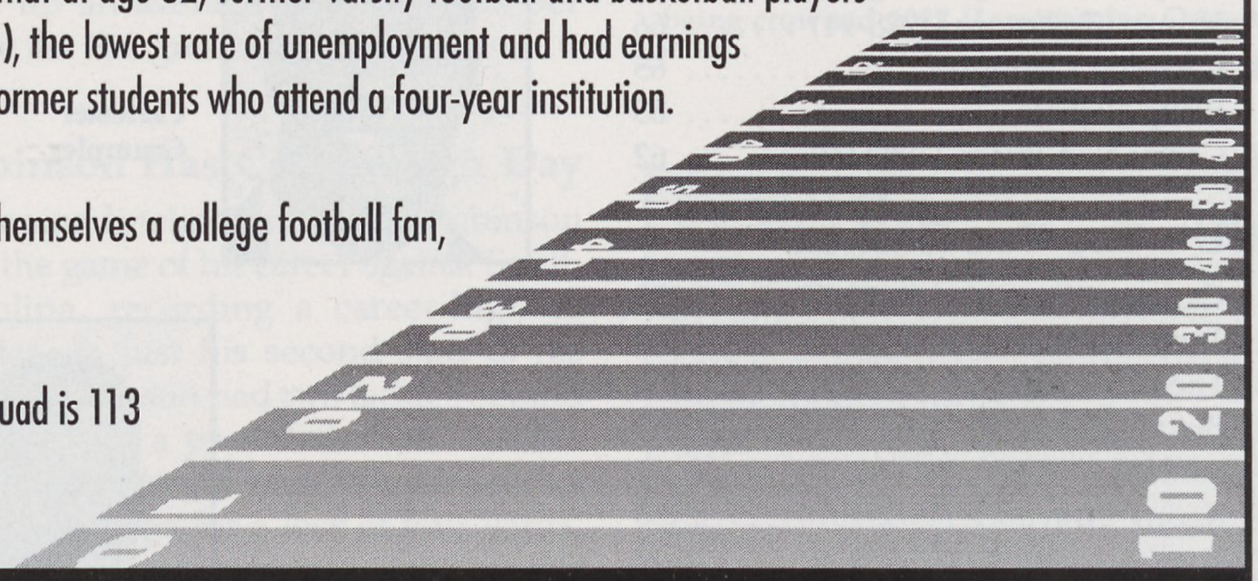

A U.S. Department of Education study found that at age 32, former varsity football and basketball players had the highest rate of home ownership (77%), the lowest rate of unemployment and had earnings that were ten percent above the mean for all former students who attend a four-year institution.

–Light and Shadows of College Athletics

Nearly four of every ten Americans consider themselves a college football fan, which calculates to nearly 100 million fans.

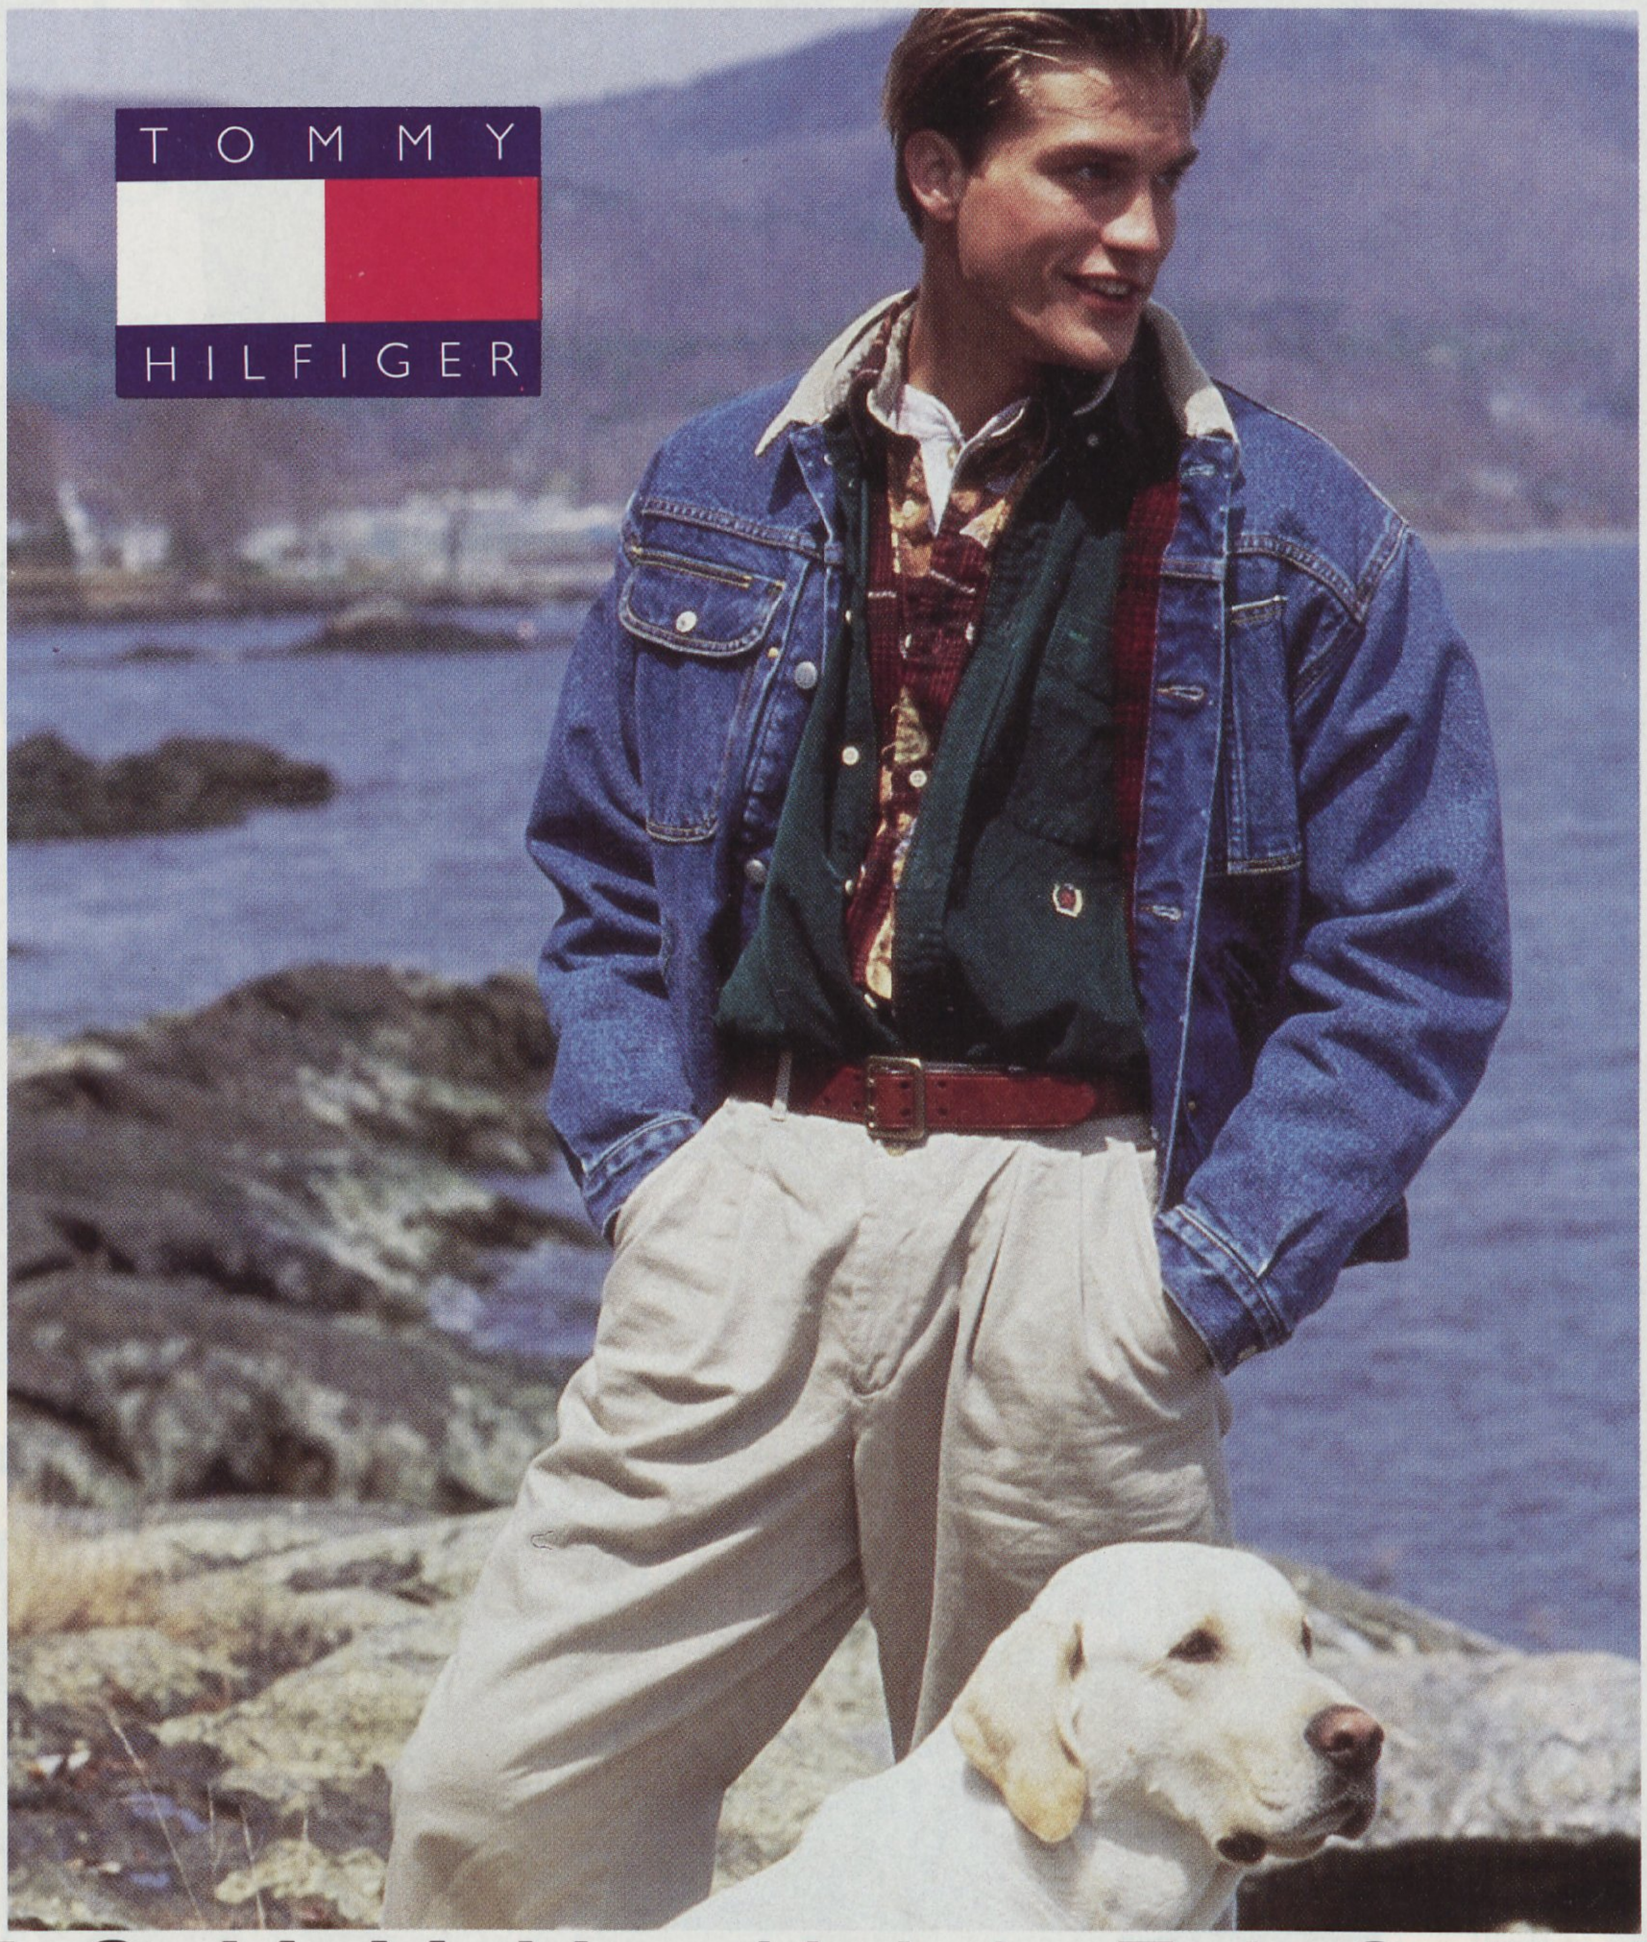

–1990 CFA Gallup study

The average size of a CFA member football squad is 113 players and averages 29 walk-ons.

The practice fields are the classroom. Ficklen Stadium is the final exam. Steve Logan is the teacher.

It's the way the second-year East Carolina head coach prefers it.

"When I sat down and asked myself what I enjoyed most about coaching," said Logan, "it was the teaching that I enjoyed most and if teaching is what I enjoy then I would be teaching on Saturday as well."

If you spent time watching Logan on the sidelines, you'll get a feel how the 40-year-old coach uses Saturdays as another teaching tool.

He'll take one of his young quarterbacks on the sidelines and discuss different plans, options and ideas. It's a two-way conversation and the best way for a student-athlete to know what he's doing right and what he's doing wrong.

"He doesn't pressure you, he doesn't yell at you, but he makes sure you understand what you did wrong," said Jeff Blake, former Pirate and current New York Jet quarterback. "He makes sure you know everything about the game. He taught me how to keep my composure, how to be a leader."

The teaching and leadership roles continue also off the playing and practice fields. The Lawton, Okla. native, feels that if student-athletes are going to be the best they are going to be, it requires self-discipline, dedication and hard work.

Members of the football squad are told three things by Logan about playing football at East Carolina: 1) if you go to class and practice hard, you will play; 2) have fun playing the game of football, and; 3) play as hard as possible on every play and the wins and losses will take care of themselves.

"I like to see the responsibility for the little things fall upon the players rather than for me telling them to do it," said Logan. "I believe in natural consequences being a strong disciplinarian."

"We never talk to our student-athletes about winning and losing — never," continues Logan. "We talk to them about showing up, playing every play as hard as they can play it and play to the last play of the game. We don't care who it is we're playing. We give a ton of respect to whoever that may be, home or on the road."

Logan developed much of his philosophy through the influence of several head coaches. He worked on the staff of current Ohio State coach John Cooper at Tulsa, with current Dallas Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson at Oklahoma State, with Bill McCartney at Colorado and with Bill Lewis at ECU.

The Logans: Steve with wife, Laura, and sons, Nathanael and Vincent.

When Lewis resigned to take the head coaching position at Georgia Tech, ECU Director of Athletics Dave Hart, Jr. did not have far to look for the school's 17th head football coach.

"It became obvious to me through conversations with Steve that he was the best man for the job," said Hart. "Steve Logan is the right person to lead this program and Steve's offensive scheme will become this program's signature."

Logan is mostly credited with the development of the Pirate offensive attack during the 1990-91 seasons when he was ECU's offensive coordinator. In 1991, East Carolina finished the season with an 11-1 record and reached a Top Ten national ranking.

During the 1990-91 seasons, Logan coached quarterback Jeff Blake. The Sanford, Fla. native broke or tied 32 school records before leaving ECU, including most passing yards in a game, season and career. He was named the 1991 ECAC Player of the Year.

In 1992, it was Michael Anderson's turn to rewrite ECU record books. The Decatur, Ga., native broke or tied 12 school records last season, including all of the school's sophomore records.

Logan continues to monitor the offensive side of the football closely. He still coaches the quarterbacks but also makes his way around the practice field to observe his coaches in action.

"What we're doing here in the passing game and with our offense, I feel, is on the cutting edge," said Logan. "I believe our offense is unlimited on how successful we can be. We just have to work hard and keep teaching the ideals that will make our program succeed."

Last season, the Pirates finished 10th in the nation in passing offense, averaging 280.45 yards per game. ECU also was 18th in total offense, averaging 421.09 yards per game.

An '83 Tulsa graduate, Logan did not play football and had plans to get a doctorate degree and become a college professor.

"I realized I wasn't going to the NFL," said Logan. "But, I had to teach in the public schools before going to graduate school. There (Union High School) they wanted me to coach football. I got addicted."

During the next five years, Logan became a high school assistant coach while he completed all but six hours of credits towards his masters degree.

Leaving Union High school, Logan coached tight ends at Oklahoma State for Jimmy Johnson. He became hooked on the college game.

"I loved working with the kids and having an impact on their decisions in and outside football," said Logan. "That, and the intrigue of competitive strategy, really hooked me."

And, since he began coaching in the college ranks, Logan has wanted to be a head coach. And, on Jan. 11, 1992, his dreams were realized.

Logan, an avid tennis player, and his wife, Lauren, are the proud parents of two sons — Vincent (11) and Nathanael (9).

Because people have cared, what began as a teacher's college nearly a century ago has become a major educational institution, offering quality programs and service in almost every academic field. Our Schools of Art, Business, Medicine, Music, and others are among the finest in our region, our state, and our nation. Our students, faculty, and staff have distinguished themselves time and again — in academics, in business, in the arts, in medicine, and in sports.

It's time, however, for ECU to take the next step, to move forward again, to become the very best it can be. Hundreds of students, faculty, staff, and alumni have taken part in an exhaustive assessment of the university's strengths. We have identified a number of opportunities to build upon our strengths, and we want to capitalize on those opportunities. ECU is ready to join the ranks of our nation's finest institutions, and we're ready to make sure it does.

Shared Visions, the Campaign for East Carolina University, is the first comprehensive fund-raising campaign in the university's history. The board of trustees, the directors of the university's three foundations, the university's development staff, and a leadership group of some of the university's most valued friends have committed themselves to its success. Under their guidance, a slate of priorities has been established, a timetable created, a core group of volunteers assembled, and the initial phase of the campaign begun.

The goal of the campaign is to raise $50 million over a period of five years. Those resources will be divided among the university's three foundations, and used for student development, faculty enrichment, program enhancement, facilities improvement, and annual support. In Strategies for Distinction, the university committed itself to:

- achieve distinction in undergraduate education.
- strengthen its commitment to excellence in teaching.
- Develop a university culture based on respect for individual rights and human dignity.
- expand existing doctoral programs and develop new doctoral programs from existing institutional strengths.
- strengthen its commitment to research, scholarship, and creative activity.
- vigorously enhance its programs in the health sciences.
- build a competitive Division I-A athletics program, based on integrity, good management, and vigorous academic support services.

Those are also the goals of Shared Visions. Improvements of the type we've planned, ambitious as they are, require generous private support. Shared Visions offers our friends a chance to help provide that support, to share in the adventure of moving ECU confidently into the next century.

We can make no greater investment in the future of our region than to support the Shared Visions Campaign. With your support, our gal — the realization of our visions — will certainly be achieved.

East Carolina University is a diverse, comprehensive university known for academic quality and for the pursuit of excellence in those areas most compatible with its mission, history and opportunities.

Founded in 1907 as a school for the training of teachers, ECU has grown and developed in progressive stages as a liberal arts college, a regional university and since 1972, part of the 16-campus University of North Carolina system. ECU was designated a university by an act of the N.C. legislature in 1967.

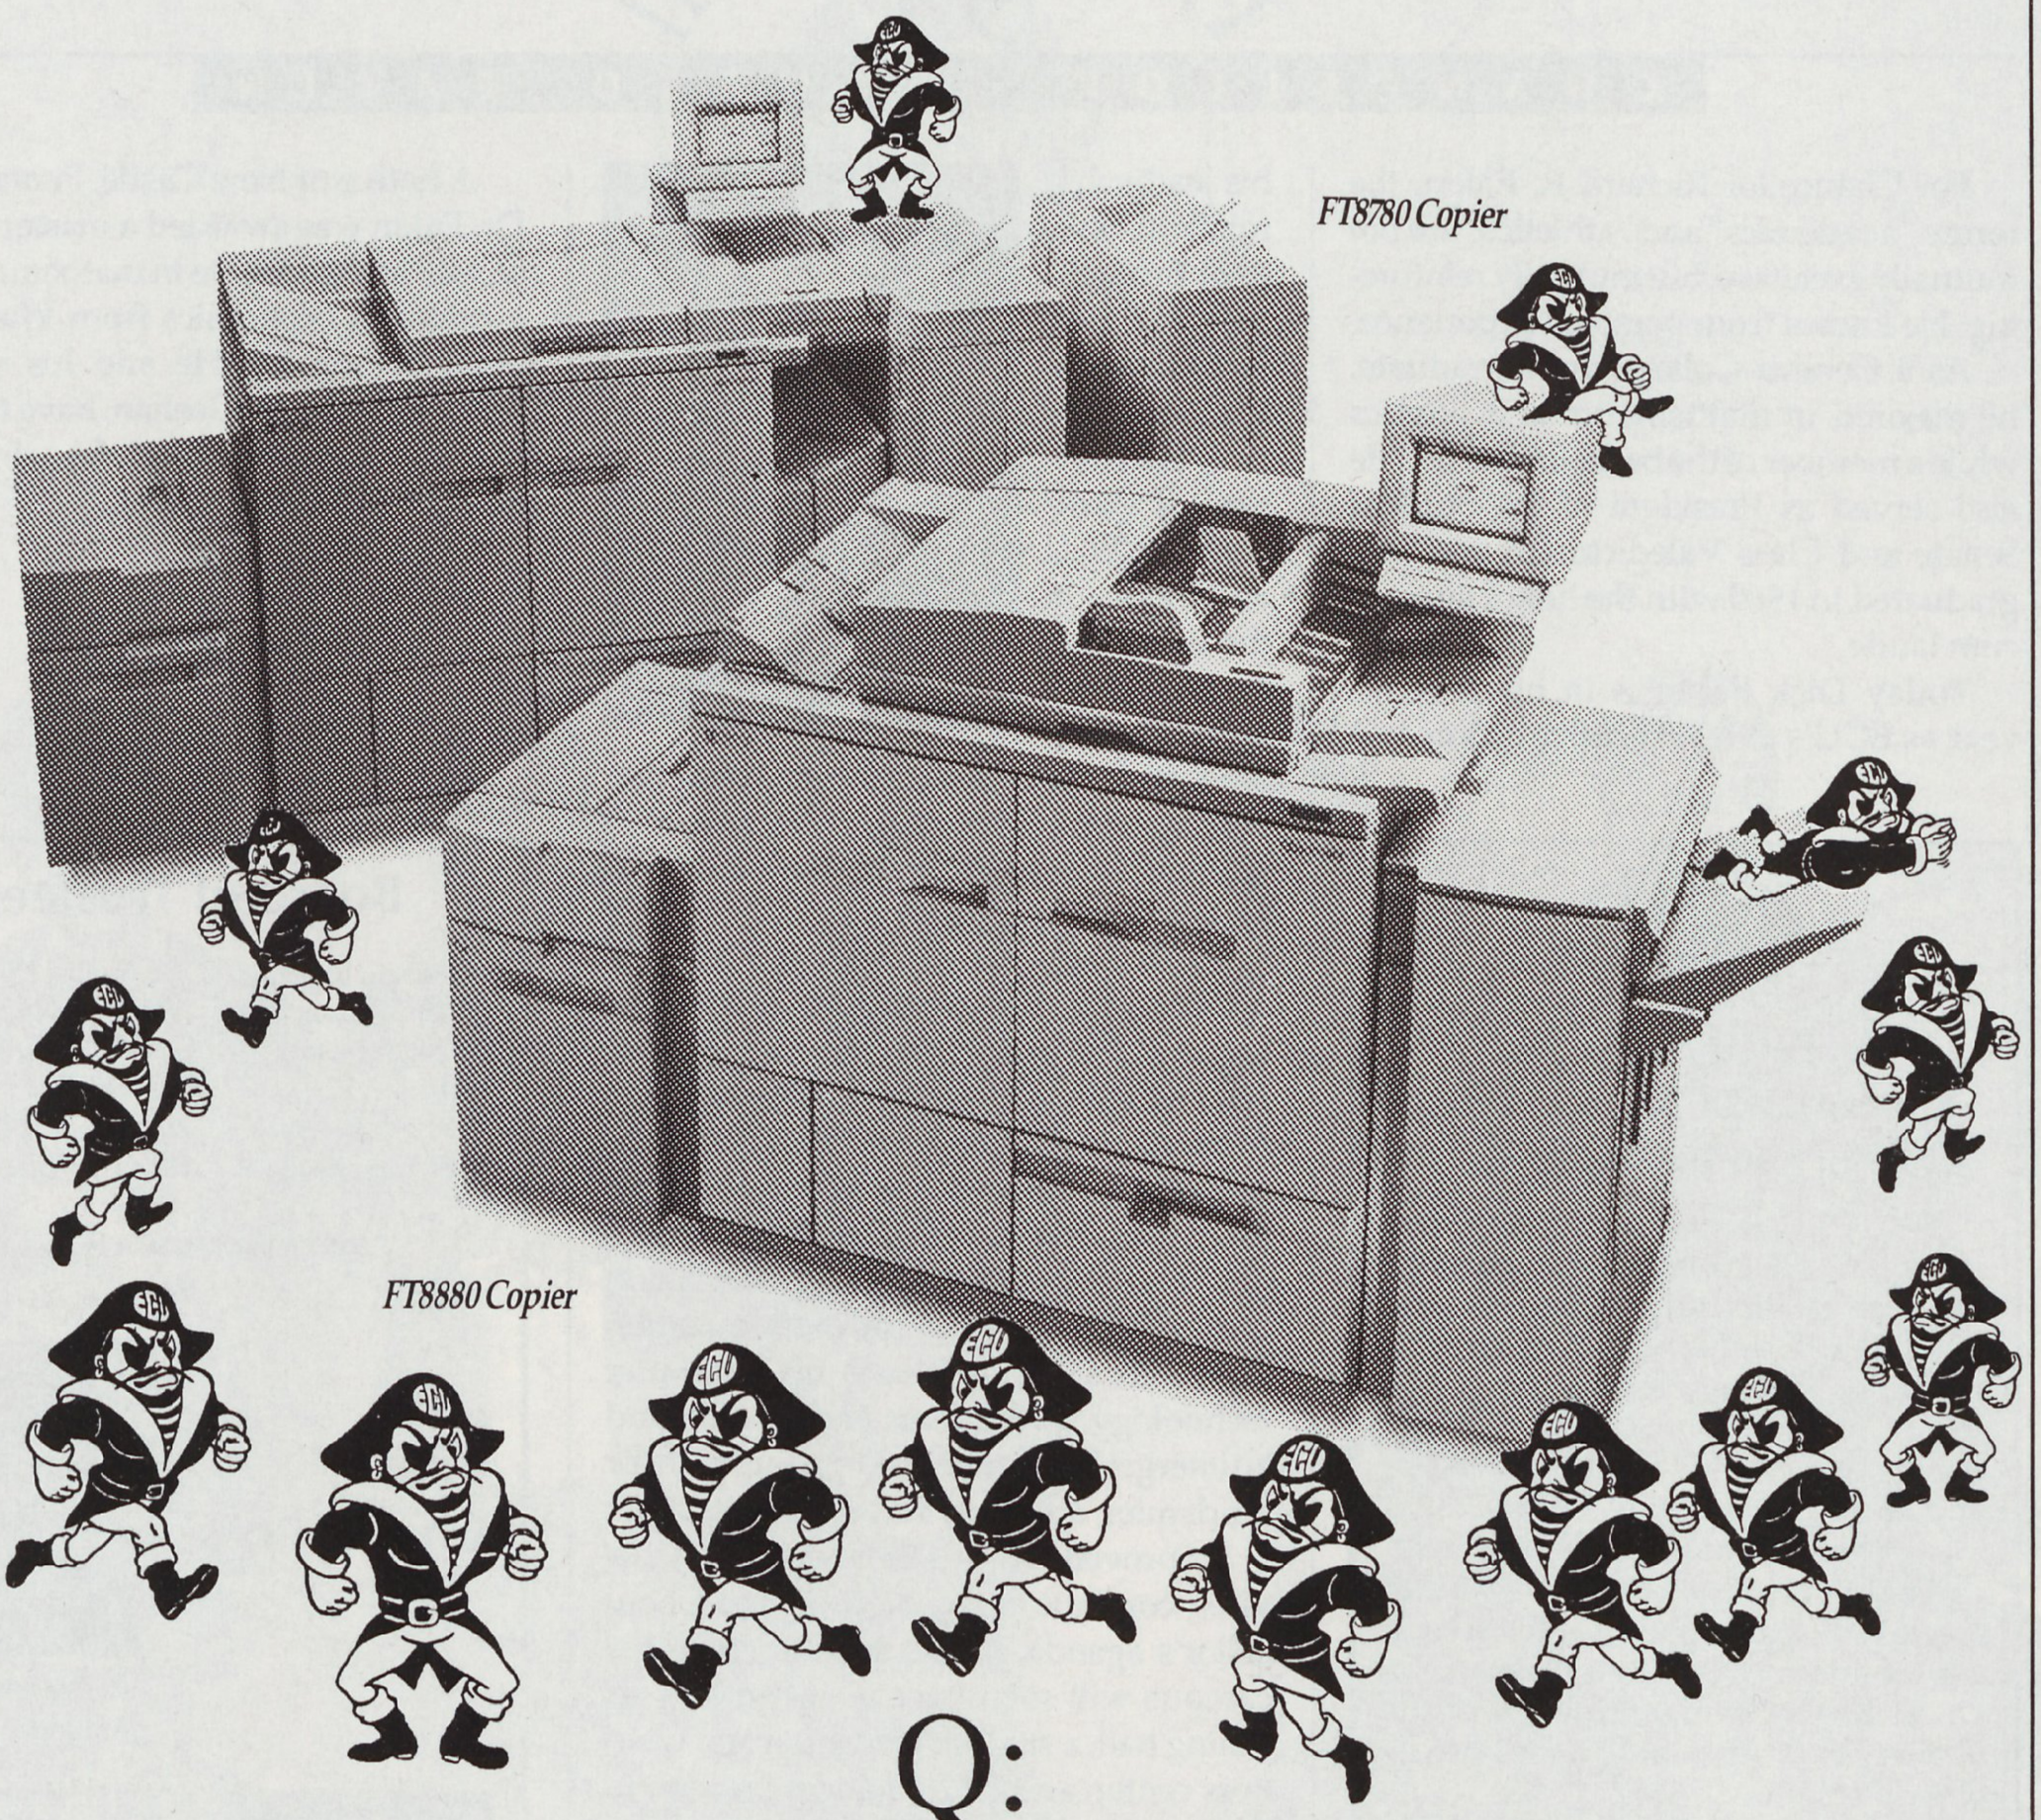

With an on-campus enrollment of 17,500 students, ECU is organized into academic and health sciences divisions. It has a College of Arts and Sciences with 19 academic departments and professional Schools of Medicine, Nursing, Allied Health Sciences, Health and Human Performance, Business, Education, Industry and Technology, Human Environmental Sciences, Social Work, Music and Art. It has a research-oriented Graduate School which offers advanced degrees including the Ph.D. and the doctorate in educational leadership. Through its Division of Continuing Education and Summer School and University College, ECU offers many academic programs as well as programs for personal and professional enrichment.

ECU's strategic goals include achieving distinction in undergraduate education, a commitment to excellence in teaching, respect for individual rights and human diversity, expansion of doctoral programs, strengthening and stimulating research, scholarship and creative activity, improvement of teacher education and public schools, recruitment and support of academically proficient and talented students, and effective advancement of the University.

ECU has a Center for International Studies and sponsors several foreign exchange programs with campuses in Europe, Central America and Asia. It has gained international attention for its graduate program in Maritime History and Underwater Research.

With two commencements each year, ECU confers degrees upon 3,500 students annually and has more than 67,000 living alumni around the world. Its on-campus enrollment makes ECU the third largest university in the state of North Carolina, and off-campus extension programs and non-credit educational offerings attract an additional 3,000 students per year.

ECU is a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) with Division 1A programs in 10 men's and eight women's sports. In football, ECU is independently (non-conference) aligned, while most other programs are affiliated with the Colonial Athletic Association.

CHANCELLOR RICHARD EAKIN

For Chancellor Richard R. Eakin, the terms "academics" and "athletics" are not mutually exclusive, but mutually reinforcing. He knows from personal experience.

As a Geneva College undergraduate, he majored in mathematics and physics while a member of the basketball team. He also served as President of the Student Senate and Class Valedictorian and was graduated in 1960 with the honor summa cum laude.

Today Dick Eakin is in his seventh year as ECU's chief executive officer and his leadership mark is evident throughout ECU, including athletics.

He has a vision of greatness for ECU and leads in the belief that the university can build upon and add to its elements of distinction and strong tradition for excellence in teaching, research, regional services, and athletics.

With enthusiasm and remarkable stamina, Dr. Eakin pursues this vision around the clock and on-the-road as ECU's highly visible top ambassador.

Strategic planning has been the linchpin of the Chancellor's administration. From it has evolved new degree programs, new and stronger centers for excellence, campus beautification and modernization of facilities, an emphasis on computer technology for students and faculty, and an energetic, focused fund-raising plan for academics, athletics, and medicine.

Improved campus life and student services continue to be high on the Chancellor's agenda. Under his direction, the campus will soon have a state-of-the-art dining hall, a student recreation and wellness center, and a $26 million addition to the campus library. ECU's reputation as one of the leading family practice, primary care medical schools in the country is being enhanced with new centers for the treatment of cancer, diabetes, heart disease, and alcohol and drug abuse.

In pursuit of ECU's goals, Chancellor Eakin is chairman of the Board of Directors of the College Football Association (CFA), holds leadership positions with the Southern Association for Colleges and Schools (SACS), and is in the forefront of economic and community development in Greenville and throughout Eastern North Carolina.

Prior to his ECU appointment in 1987, Eakin served for 23 years as a member of the mathematics faculty at Bowling Green State University, where he was also a vice president.

A native of New Castle, Pennsylvania, Dr. Eakin was awarded a master's degree as well as a doctorate in mathematics with a minor in economics from Washington State University. He and his wife, the former Jo Ann McGeehan, have two adult children, Matthew of Charlotte and Maridy of Raleigh.

Eakin Named Chairman of the Board for College Football Association

ECU Chancellor, Dr. Richard Eakin, is the new Chairman of the Board for the College Football Association.

The CFA represents most major Division I-A college football programs in the United States. Exceptions include programs affiliated with the Big Ten and Pac-10 conferences.

A total of 65 schools are members.

Eakin's election to the post came in a vote by board members at the annual CFA convention on June 6. He succeeds Dr. E. Roger Sayers, president of the University of Alabama, in the board's chair position.

"I think it will have a positive outcome for us," said Eakin, in commenting on his new leadership role.

"It certainly reflects the fact that East Carolina is respected among the members of the College Football Association," he said.

"Dr. Eakin's appointment is a very prestigious one which casts East Carolina University in a very favorable light. The challenges ahead are significant in nature for us and college football in general. Having our Chancellor in this role within the CFA is certainly a positive for all concerned."

Dave Hart, ECU Director of Athletics

Eakin has served on the CFA Board of Directors for the past three years. He is the representative for football programs that are independent of conference affiliation.

Ficklen Stadium

September 21, 1963, was a great day in ECU football history. During a game in which East Carolina College defeated Wake Forest University, a dream was realized — the new James S. Ficklen Stadium was dedicated. In less than two years, $283,387 had been raised to build the new stadium — an amount that exceeded a $200,000 campaign goal.

In its early years, the stadium included permanent stands only on the south side, a small press box, and lighting system. In 1975, installation of a new lighting system turned Ficklen Stadium into one of the best-lighted stadiums in the Southeast. Then, in 1978, the seating capacity was expanded from 20,000 to 35,000 seats, and a three-level press box and modern scoreboard were constructed. In 1983, the playing surface was treated to a complete renovation, from drainage to gravel base and treated topsoil to new grass.

Now that Pirate football is a major and well-established regional attraction, it is time for Ficklen Stadium to expand once again. And now that ECU football is poised and positioned for major conference affiliation, Ficklen Stadium must be brought up to new standards.

"Everyday I hold a vision of taking an East Carolina football team on to the field in front of 50,000 Pirate fans and winning on the very last play of the game."

— ECU Head Football Coach, Steve Logan

Plans for Ficklen Stadium Expansion

- Phase I — Completed prior to the '93 season, this phase involved the replacement of the original section of the south side of Ficklen Stadium. Due to concrete flaking, the State mandated replacement of this section. At the same time, all of Ficklen Stadium's concrete seating areas were sand-blasted and sealed, and under-supports were refurbished.
- Phase II — Construction of a two-story structure from end zone to end zone above the south side of Ficklen Stadium. The two-story structure will house a modern press box facility on the first story and an enclosed donor seating area on the second story. Estimated cost is $9.5 million, to be raised through private contributions during the Shared Visions Campaign.
- Phase III — Decking of the south side of Ficklen Stadium will increase seating capacity to nearly 50,000, providing East Carolina University with a modern stadium large enough to showcase the Pirate football team and meet increased fan interest. Expansion of Ficklen Stadium as planned will help ECU attract major Division I-A football teams to Greenville. It will also enhance the opportunity of major conference affiliation for the Pirate football program.

Shared

The Campaign for Ea

In March 1993, Chancellor Richard R. Eakin and the university's Board of Trustees announced the Shared Visions Campaign for East Carolina University.

As one of the university's three non-profit foundations, East Carolina University Educational Foundation joins the Shared Visions Campaign in preparing to launch a new era of distinction and achievement at East Carolina University. The Educational Foundation's special mission is the athletics program — an area of university's life which has never received support via public funds. Private support has always provided the margin of excellence.

The university seeks to raise $50 million for academics, the medical school, and the Pirate athletics program. As part of the campaign goal, the Educational Foundation seeks to raise $14 million of the Shared Visions Campaign goal, to expand and improve Pirate athletics facilities, endow student-athlete scholarships, and enhance the student-development program.

Participation in the 1992 Peach Bowl and in the 1993 NCAA basketball tournament have focused national attention on ECU as no other activities could. The benefits of this visibility extend to every department and program of the university, and to all students and alumni. Gifts that strengthen the athletics program help build ECU's national reputation. In addition, the Pirate athletics program has a profound economic impact on Pitt County and the region. Future successes will only account for an even greater economic impact.

However, athletics at ECU stands at a crossroads. ECU's athletics program's financial strength is modest compared to its accomplishments. "Of the 67-member CFA institutions, the Pirate athletics budget is at the bottom five percent (5%) of member institutions," stated Dave Hart, Jr., ECU's Director of Athletics. "We have got to expand our base revenues, if ECU is going to be able to achieve excellence at the Division I-A level. The Shared Visions Campaign is vital to the Pirate athletics program's financial condition, and could not have come at a more important time!"

"The Shared Visions Campaign, in many respects, will dictate the future of ECU Athletics. The campaign affords an exciting avenue for significant financial development at the most crucial time in the history of our athletic program."

— East Carolina Director of Athletics, Dave Hart, Jr.

Shared Visions

East Carolina University

To increase operating revenues, the Pirate athletics program must increase revenues from season and individual game ticket sales. Within existing facilities — Ficklen Stadium and Minges Coliseum — there is literally very little room for significant increases in revenues. These facilities must be expanded and upgraded to accommodate more spectators and project a desired image for the 90's and beyond.

Currently, the Pirate athletics program has $1 million in endowed scholarship funds. This is small in comparison to scholarship endowments maintained by other athletics programs which ECU competes against. By further endowment of student-athlete scholarships, the Educational Foundation will move closer to its goal of full scholarship funding of ECU's sixteen sports program.

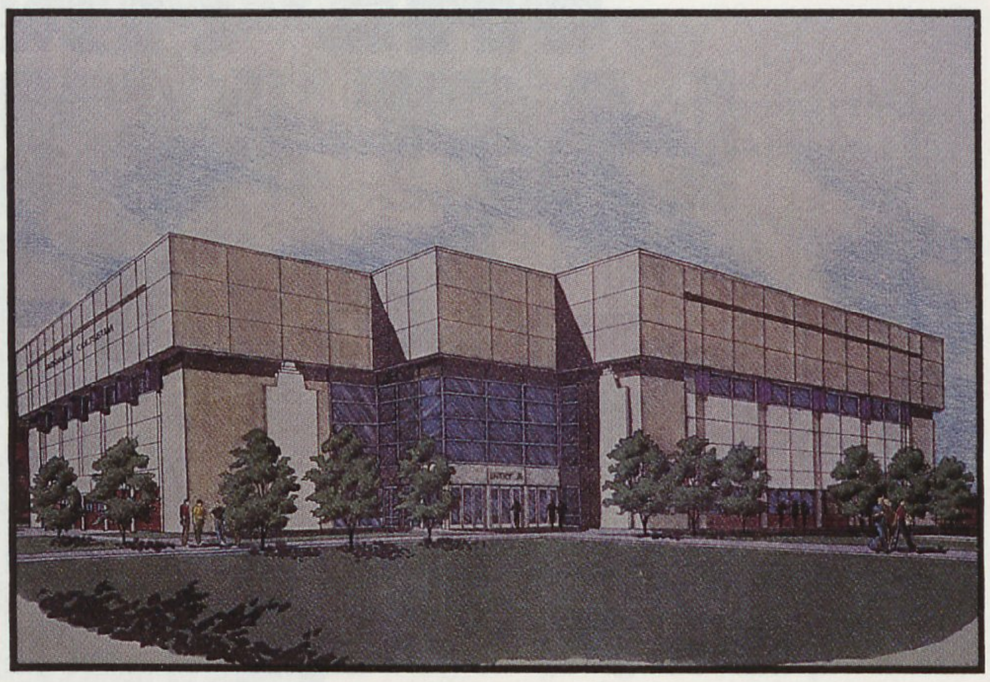

Of equal importance is the further endowment of ECU's student development program for Pirate student-athletes. As one of the model programs within the NCAA, ECU's student development program focuses on the nurturing of Pirate student-athletes throughout their college years in the areas of academic, personal and career development. Bob and Margaret Ward of Burlington, N.C., recently contributed $500,000 towards the establishment of a $1 million endowment for the Pirate student development program.

Enhancement of facilities, a strong scholarship base and a well funded student development program are all essential to ECU's athletics program. Falling behind and missing golden opportunities at this crucial stage would, indeed, be lamentable in the development of the athletics program and of Pirate student-athletes.

And because no state funds are allotted to ECU's athletics program, private support is necessary for the success of Pirate athletics. The opportunities are at hand. The time is now. The response from ECU's alumni and fans must be — Yes! Invest in ECU Athletics. The return is well worth the investment.

"The Minges Coliseum renovation represents the beginning of a new era of East Carolina basketball. Shared Visions is so essential to the improvement of our program and continued pursuit of excellence throughout our university. To me, Shared Visions is a total commitment by all ECU fans and alumni to have the best and be the best."

— ECU Head Basketball Coach, Eddie Payne

Minges Coliseum

Since it opened in 1967 at an original cost of $2 million, Minges Coliseum has been a "much used" facility. In recent years, it has become increasingly apparent that Minges Coliseum is an outdated facility, and must be brought into the twenty-first century if athletics and academic components of the university are going to meet their needs. Committed to such progress, the university has developed plans for renovation of Minges Coliseum into a modern 7,800-seat arena. Renovation plans call for:

- Chair-back seating
- New playing surface
- Air conditioning
- Modern concession stands
- New rest room facilities
- New locker space

Upon completion, Minges Coliseum will be a comfortable, well-designed arena, which will be used by ECU and the region to attract topflight entertainment, host university and athletic events, and provide modernized space for physical education and special population needs. Athletics, physical education and intramurals have worked hand-in-hand in the planning of this renovation project.

Gift Opportunities

Individuals and businesses who contribute to the East Carolina University Educational Foundation during the university's Shared Visions Campaign, will receive certain benefits from their participation. For gifts of $10,000 to $1 million, contributors will receive rights to purchase season tickets in the enclosed donor seating area proposed for Ficklen Stadium and V.I.P. seating planned for Minges Coliseum. Maintenance of these seat rights will require a minimum annual contribution to the Educational Foundation's scholarship fund.

For contributions of $100,000 or more, contributors are offered certain athletics facility naming opportunities, which will remain in perpetuity.

All contributors of $1,000 or more to this campaign for ECU athletics, will have their names prominently recognized at ECU's athletics facilities complex, and receive Pirate Club membership priority points for contributions made. Further, all gift pledges can be paid over a five-year period. It is important that Pirate Club members maintain their annual support levels so that the Educational Foundation can meet its goals for unrestricted scholarship support of ECU student-athletes.

DAVE HART, JR.-DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Dave Hart, Jr., who has gained national recognition for his skills in areas of athletics management, public relations, marketing, and fundraising, enters his sixth year as Director of Athletics at East Carolina University.

Since being appointed Athletics Director on December 21, 1987, by ECU Chancellor Richard Eakin, Hart has become one of the country's most respected athletics administrators.

In making the appointment, Chancellor Eakin stated that, "Dave has an exceptional understanding of all aspects of athletics administration, has a strong commitment to excellence and integrity throughout the men's and women's programs, and possesses, in my judgement, the leadership qualities to develop our athletics program and move it to new levels of achievement."

Hart has done just that in leading ECU's athletics program. East Carolina athletics has moved to another level as it relates to image and respect. Last spring, as the University completed its Southern Association of Colleges and Schools accreditation program, the Athletics Department received one of four commendations from the SACS review team for the manner in which athletics is managed at ECU. In addition, the Athletics Department completed the NCAA's Pilot Certification Program as one of 38 universities which volunteered their participation in the pilot program which has since become mandated.

Since becoming Director of Athletics, Hart has structured several programs of significance within the department. The most notable one is ECU's comprehensive Student Development Program for all student-athletes. Last winter the Athletics Department received a half-million dollar gift from Bob and Margaret Ward of Burlington, North Carolina, earmarked for Student Development. During Hart's tenure as Athletics Director, ECU student-athletes have made significant progress academically.

Facility enhancement has also been very evident during Hart's tenure. Renovations to Scales Field House (non-revenue sports), Harrington Field (baseball) and the football practice facility, compliment very nicely ECU's beautiful Ward Sports Medicine Complex which is one of the finest facilities of its kind in the entire nation. This coming Spring a nine-million dollar renovation of Minges Coliseum will be underway which will include chairback seating, air conditioning, a new playing surface, new concession stands and new locker rooms for the men's and women's programs. The renovation project will take ECU's basketball programs to a new and exciting level.

Phase One of a three-phased stadium renovation and expansion plan was completed in August. The original section of the Stadium, on the Press Box side, was replaced. Plans are in place to extend the Press Box to both goal lines in order to accommodate club level seating. Phase III of the Stadium Expansion Project calls for an upper deck on the north side of the Stadium taking the seating capacity to approximately 50,000. Phase III is targeted for 1996.

Pirate athletics continue to gain in exposure and credibility under Hart's tenure. Pirate football completed the best season in school history in 1991, finishing 11-1 and #9 in the nation, the ECU baseball team has made four trips to the NCAA tournament since 1988, and the Pirate golf team captured their 5th CAA golf crown in the last six years. The Pirate Basketball team won the CAA Championship this past winter, making the first appearance in the NCAA Tournament since 1972.

Hart was named associate director of athletics for external relations and executive director of the Pirate Club in 1985. His duties included the raising of funds for athletic scholarships through the Pirate Club, as well as overseeing all external areas of the athletic department.

During his first two years in that position, the Pirate Club experienced record-setting growth as it surpassed the coveted $1 million mark in contributions for the first time ever. The 1987 campaign saw another record performance under his direction as the Club exceeded the $1.2 million level.

Hart first joined the ECU athletic department in 1983 as an assistant athletic director for marketing. It was the first time that ECU had ever employed a full-time staff member for marketing, and it immediately brought dividends.

ECU's marketing program gained national attention for the rapid growth in crowd participation through tailgating and other promotional efforts. Hart was also responsible for implementing the "Great Pirate Purple/Gold Pigskin Pig-Out Party," which is a weekend extravaganza surrounding the spring football game.

Additionally, attendance at home football games increased greatly as evidenced by the fact that 11 of the top 12 crowds in Ficklen Stadium history have entered the turnstiles since the 1983 season. Promotional ventures such as the "Ain't It Great to Tailgate" idea have added to the atmosphere at Pirate home games.

Hart has served on several prestigious committees during his tenure as Athletics Director, including the Committee for Integrity and Image in College Athletics. He currently serves on the Missions and Values Committee. Hart chairs the CAA's Marketing Committee and is a member of the conference committee on expansion.

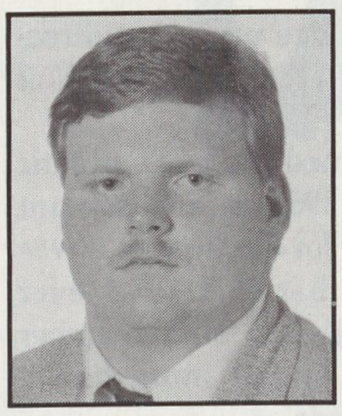

Hart is a popular speaker at the national level and has authored articles for a number of national publications. He has made numerous speaking presentations at conventions and seminars on program management, marketing, fundraising, and personnel transition. For the past seven years he has been an instructor at the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics' Management Institute.

Hart, just the fifth athletics director in ECU history, received his undergraduate and graduate degrees from the University of Alabama, earning a B.S. in English/Speech in 1971 and a master's degree in 1972. He attended Alabama on a basketball scholarship and was a graduate assistant coach for the Crimson Tide program in 1972. He won nine varsity letters in football, basketball and baseball at Annapolis (MD) High School where he was also an All-State basketball and football player.

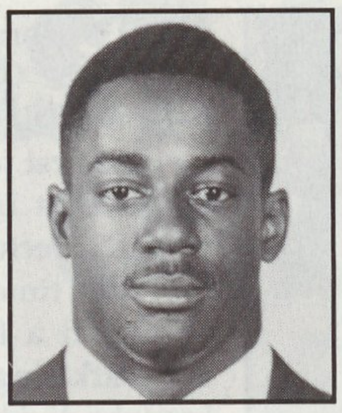

He is married to the former Pam Humble of Tuscaloosa, AL, and they have three children — Ricky (21), Jamie (19), and Kelly (16).

In the game of life, everyone can win.

R.W. and Joan Moore, co-captains of R.W. Moore Equipment Company's winning team, believe in making everyone a winner.

At a football game, it's fun to pull for your favorite team. It's too bad that someone has to lose.

Fortunately, in life, there's a way we can all come out winners. Here's how. By treating each other with respect and concern. By disciplining ourselves to work hard and focus on what's important.

And by putting aside our differences to strive for the common good.

So today, pull for your team, and tomorrow, pull for everybody to win!

PIRATE SPIRIT/TRADITION

Alma Mater

of East Carolina University

Praise to your name so fair,
Dear old East Carolina.
Your joys we'll all share
And your friends we'll ever be.
We pledge our loyalty
And our heart's devotion.
To Thee, our Alma Mater
Love and Praise.

Here's To The Pirates

by Mitch Doub, Joe Distefano,
Tom Goolsby, Phil Marnell

Here's to the Pirates of ECU!
We're going to raise our battle flag high,
We're going to sing it long,
Shout it loud;
And then they'll know
That we are Pirate Proud.
Because the battle's been fought,
And now it's won,
And everybody knows
that we're Number One!
Because we're full of Pride,
We've got them bowing to our side,
Here's to ECU!

Traditional

by Ron Jacobs

We're from East Carolina
the Purple and Gold;
The Pirates of the country
No others quite as bold.

— GO PIRATES —

Stand up for the Pirates
As we go to the Victory
So let's give 'em a hand
Come on folks, Let's stand!
and show 'em, we're from EC!

School Colors

Old Gold and Royal Purple were established as the official ECU colors in 1909.

Nickname

The Pirate, a symbol of East Carolina University and its athletic teams, was adopted from the legend and lore of coastal North Carolina and was a natural choice for a nickname when intercollegiate athletics began at the school more than 57 years ago.

Pirates, fierce and colorful, were prominent in North Carolina's colonial period. The state's Outer Banks which jut far out into the Atlantic were ideal hideouts for these legendary gangsters of the high seas. Many had homes and families in small villages along the Carolina coast.

East Carolina University's interest in pirates and sea lore began in 1934. That year, the Tecoan, the yearbook for what was then East Carolina Teachers College, carried pirates as its theme. The pages were filled with paintings and sketches of patched eye figures, tall ships and buried treasure. The book referred to the tales of the infamous "Teachy the Pirate" often told by natives in the nearby historic town of Bath.

Retired Numbers

Four numbers have been retired in the history of East Carolina University's football program. Those are numbers 16, 18, 29 and 36.

The jersey number 16 was last worn by Robert Faris, a kicker from Falls Church, Va. Faris was killed in an automobile accident while returning to campus for fall practice prior to his senior season in 1967.

The jersey number 18 was last worn by Norman Swindell, a blocking back from New Bern. The most valuable player on the 1965 team, Swindell drowned near his home during the Christmas holidays following the 1965 season.

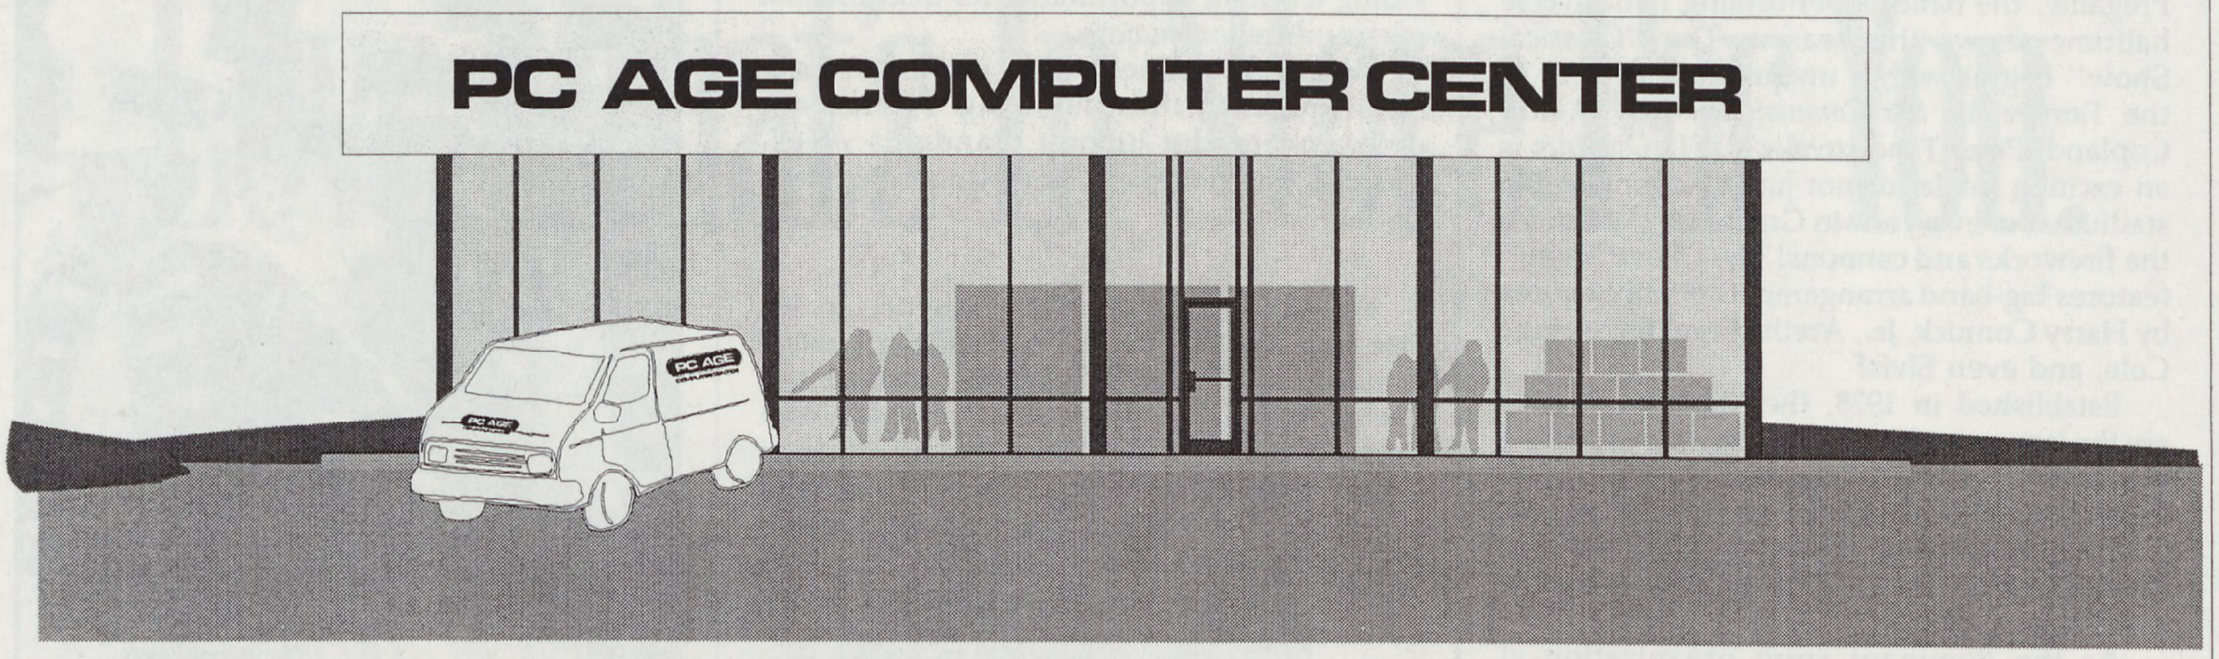

The jersey number 29 was worn by James Speight, running back from Greenville. The MVP of the 1957 and 1959 squads, Speight still holds the school record for most points in a single game with 26, while third on the all-time rushing list with 2,700 career yards.

The jersey number 36 was worn by Roger Thrift, a quarterback from New Bern, N.C. He earned letters during the 1949 and 1950 seasons. His jersey was retired by the Student Government Association.

Speight and Thrift are members of the ECU Athletics Hall of Fame.

MARCHING PIRATES

This Fall is an exciting time for Marching Pirate fans! In addition to the popular Pirate Pregame, the band is performing two diverse halftime shows this season. The "Classical Show" begins with a unique arrangement of the Fanfare for the Common Man by Aaron Copland. Peter Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture is an exciting finale for not just everyone in the stadium, but everyone in Greenville. Watch for the fireworks and cannons! The "Love Show" features big-band arrangements of popular hits by Harry Connick, Jr., Aretha Franklin, Natalie Cole, and even Elvis!

Established in 1938, the Marching Pirates are the largest and one of the oldest performing ensembles on the campus of East Carolina University. This diverse group of approximately 200 students represents a wide variety of disciplines from each school within the university.

As the dominant spirit organization at ECU, the Marching Pirates perform at every pep rally and home game, and will perform at the ECU vs. Virginia Tech game in Blacksburg, Virginia. In addition, the band presents exhibitions at high school band contests throughout North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia.

The Marching Pirates not only provide entertainment at athletic events, but this highly visible organization also plays an active role in recruiting for the university and its outstanding School of Music. The band also serves as a type of laboratory course by providing teaching opportunities for instrumental music education majors.

Given this unique position in the university environment, the Marching Pirates are dedicated to the highest standards of excellence, entertainment, and education.

Welcome to Christopher Knighten in his first year as Director of the Marching Pirates. A native of Texas, Knighten received the Bachelor of Music Education degree from Baylor University and the Master of Music degree in wind conducting from the University of Colorado at Boulder. He is a candidate for the Doctor of Musical Arts degree in instrumental conducting at the University of Colorado.

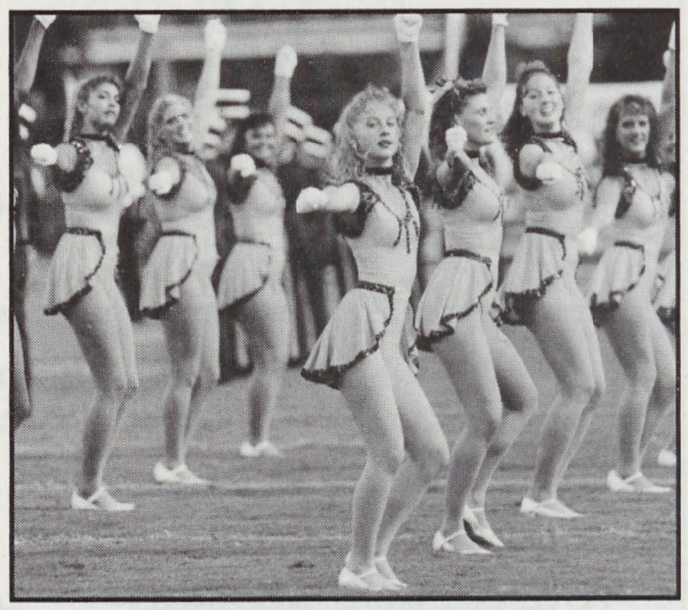

Prior to his appointment at East Carolina University, Knighten held similar positions at the University of Colorado at Boulder, Baylor University, and Richland High School in Ft. Worth, Texas. He has written shows performed at two Orange Bowls, the John Hancock Bowl, the Copper Bowl, and the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade.

Jill Wagner, feature twirler, is a senior fashion merchandising major with a minor in business. A native of Tabb, Virginia, she has twirled since she was five years old and currently holds the titles of "College Miss Majorette of the East" and "College Miss Majorette of Virginia." Wagner not only competes nationally, but also enjoys teaching young twirlers and majorette squads.

We hope you enjoy the 1993 Marching Pirates!

Homecoming: A Timeless Tradition

By Warren Sumner, SID Student Assistant

Flashback. Springtime in Greenville during the early years of East Carolina Teachers College. A warm breeze blows over the school's homecoming ceremony; soon a new queen will be crowned. The candidates shift back and forth in anticipation, smiling a nervous smile, waiting and hoping for the announcement of their name.

We now return to the present. It is Fall 1993 in Ficklen Stadium. This year's candidates for homecoming queen have all been chosen. They soon will stand in front of the thousands of Pirate faithful, awaiting the announcer's decree. Except for the fashions, the season and the location, not much has changed in the ceremony since those early days. There is a common bond that links every past ceremony to the present. An almost magical sense of connection.

The candidates and the anxious onlookers will soon "Live the Magic" of this bond, and the people who work behind the scenes to make Homecoming happen would have it no other way.

The ECU Homecoming Committee works diligently every year to make sure that the time-honored traditions surrounding the ceremony do not go unheeded. Faced with the prospect of heightened media coverage and subsequent greater visibility, the members of this group must weigh the factors of holding onto these traditions while they continually update the ceremony to fit modern times. According to Mike Preston, the committee member in charge of handling the Homecoming weekend's entertainment, the group is fighting hard to do just that.

"ECU Homecoming is full of tradition," Preston said. "There is always the Piratefest celebration, the parade, the football game and, of course, the halftime show. We are concentrating hard to hold onto those rich traditions."

Preston said that he had done extensive research on the history of the ceremony at East Carolina, but that poor record keeping made gaining information on the early days of Homecoming difficult.

"The Homecoming history is kind of sketchy," Preston said. "No one is quite sure when it started ... some people think it was as early as 1907 when the college opened, but we can't be sure. We know that it was going in the 'teens' but we can't be sure exactly when the first one was."

"The theme was developed in our steering committee last year," Marshall said. "It was suggested by Tony Cox, the former director of the Marching Pirates. After the committee sent in all of their ideas, we found that to be the best one."

Local residents and ECU students alike will be able to see the Homecoming magic firsthand at many activities which the University has planned. This year's parade will be broadcast live on WITN-TV and according to Preston, the annual Piratefest will be "bigger and better" this year.

In an attempt to add a multicultural flair to the event, the university will feature a "step show" followed by a performance by comedian Derek Fox III, known for his appearance on the hit show "Def Comedy Jam." Preston said he hopes that these attractions help to start a new tradition at ECU.

"There will be a lot of heightened excitement surrounding this year's ceremony," Preston said. "We hope that these attractions we have planned will draw all races, colors and creeds to our activities."

ECU Faculty Members Get Firsthand Look at the Day in the Life of a Student-Athlete

By Warren Sumner, SID Student Assistant

Everyone who follows Pirate football knows that ECU's head coach, Steve Logan, is considered a teacher on the field. As Logan and the ECU athletic staff take an active interest in the academic achievement of their players, it is only fitting that they allow some of those players' academic instructors an opportunity to see what the lives of student-athletes are like.

This year, the Department of Student Development has opened a window to five faculty members to allow them to experience firsthand the daily demands on a college football player. According to Pam Overton, the head of the program, the faculty members were selected through the surveys of student-athletes and their recommendations. Overton said the focus of the program was to bridge the gap between athletics and academics.

"The purpose of the program is to have faculty members interact more with student-athletes," Overton said. "It will give [faculty members] a chance to see what a typical day is like for our athletes."

Dr. Jean Mangun, a professor of biology and the guest coach for October 2nd's game against Memphis State, has had several ECU football players in her Introduction to Biology classes over the years. She said that the experience of watching ECU football from behind the scenes helped confirm some of the suspicions she had about the rigorous schedule of ECU's student-athletes.

"It was very educational for me to see what players are like on the field," Mangun said. "It was very useful to see the 'athlete' side of a student-athlete. They have a pretty action-packed schedule from early in the morning to late in the afternoon. I gained a lot of respect for the dedication they give to their sport."

Mangun called being on the sidelines for the game "a fun experience," and said she was very impressed with Logan's emphasis on his players' academic success.

"He seems to be a tremendously sincere person. He always seems to be doing something to make sure his players succeed in the classroom and as football players. I think the current quarterback situation is really killing him because he wants to see them move at a healthy pace. I don't think he wanted to put in any of those freshman QB's too quickly, because I think he treats them like a fine wine: never use them before their time."

Dr. Fred Schadler, of the School of Business, echoed Mangun's observations about the Pirate coach from his experience at ECU's opener against Syracuse.

"Coach Logan seems like an extremely caring individual," Schadler said. "He seems legitimately concerned with the academic success of his players. I found him to be a truly admirable person."

Schadler said he was amazed at the mental demands the game put on the athletes and was impressed with their ability to grasp the intricacies of the Pirate gameplan when he attended an offensive meeting with the players and coaches.

"I couldn't believe the way they understood all those plays, I was lost," Schadler said. "You are tempted to think, 'well if they can learn this they can learn anything' but you have to think that if they take the time to learn all these plays when would they have time for anything else?"

Both professors expressed admiration for the way ECU's athletic department prioritized academics and said they felt the program was headed in the right direction.

"You can read about the rigors faced by the players in the papers but there's nothing like seeing it in person," Mangun said. "The athletic staff here at ECU monitors the players very closely and reinforces to them that they are students first."

"Everyone in the program seemed to show a true concern for student learning," Schadler said. "That was comforting. You really can't guess how big Division I football really is until you see it firsthand and it doesn't seem to be easy for a player to handle."

OUTSTANDING STUDENT-ATHLETES

R.W. Moore Scholarship

The "King of the Gridiron" scholarship is presented at each home football game to the outstanding East Carolina University football player for that particular game as voted on by the media in attendance.

Junior running back, Junior Smith, was named "King of the Gridiron" for the Memphis State game as he rushed for 146 yards and one touchdown. Smith's 146 yards was the fifth best rushing day of his career.

Mr. R.W. Moore of Raleigh, president of R.W. Moore Equipment Company, initiated the scholarship in 1977. This season marks the 17th consecutive year for the presentations.

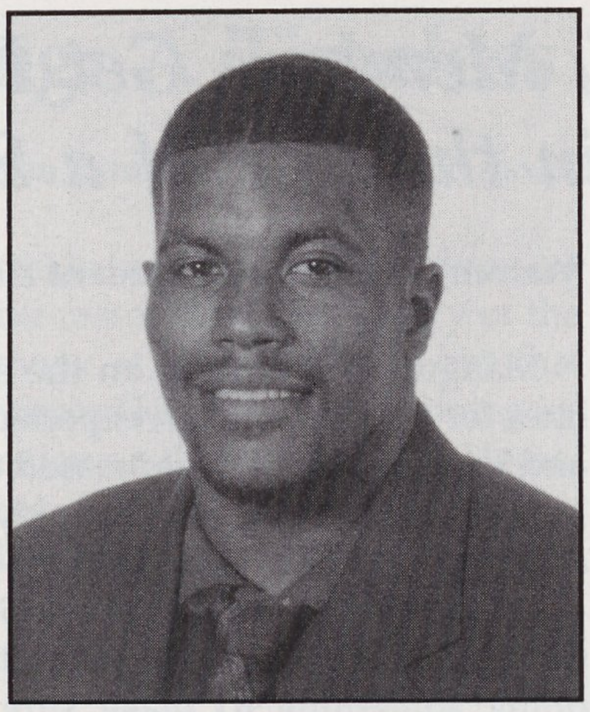

The scholarship carries a $1,000 value and is presented in the name of the deserving player to the ECU Educational Foundation (Pirate Club). The money is then contributed to the general athletic scholarship fund.

East Carolina University extends its appreciation to Mr. Moore for this outstanding service to the University and the athletics department.

The award, a $4,000 academic/athletic scholarship, is given in his name by Sprint/Carolina Telephone.

Since 1984, Sprint/Carolina Telephone has contributed a scholarship for each home game and it is a donation that ECU officials greatly appreciate.

Football Academic Leadership Team

Promoting Academic Excellence

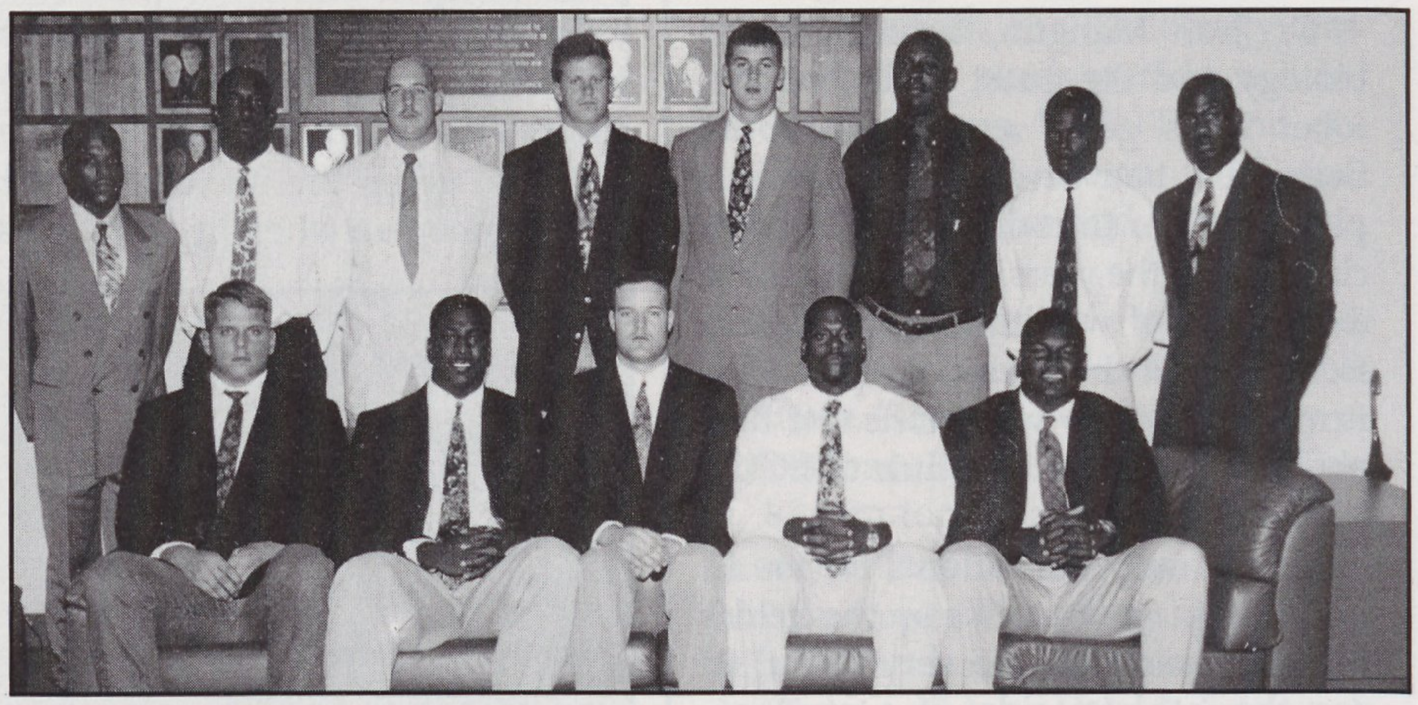

In 1992, the East Carolina Student Development Office and the ECU football office initiated the Football Academic Leadership Team (A.L.T.) to promote academic excellence and team leadership. Heading into the 1993 season, the team has proven successful.

Following its theme, "Winning with Teamwork," A.L.T. is comprised of 15 members of the football squad and serves as a liaison between the office of Student Development and members of the football team.

Along with leadership on the field, members have a variety of objectives and responsibilities with A.L.T.

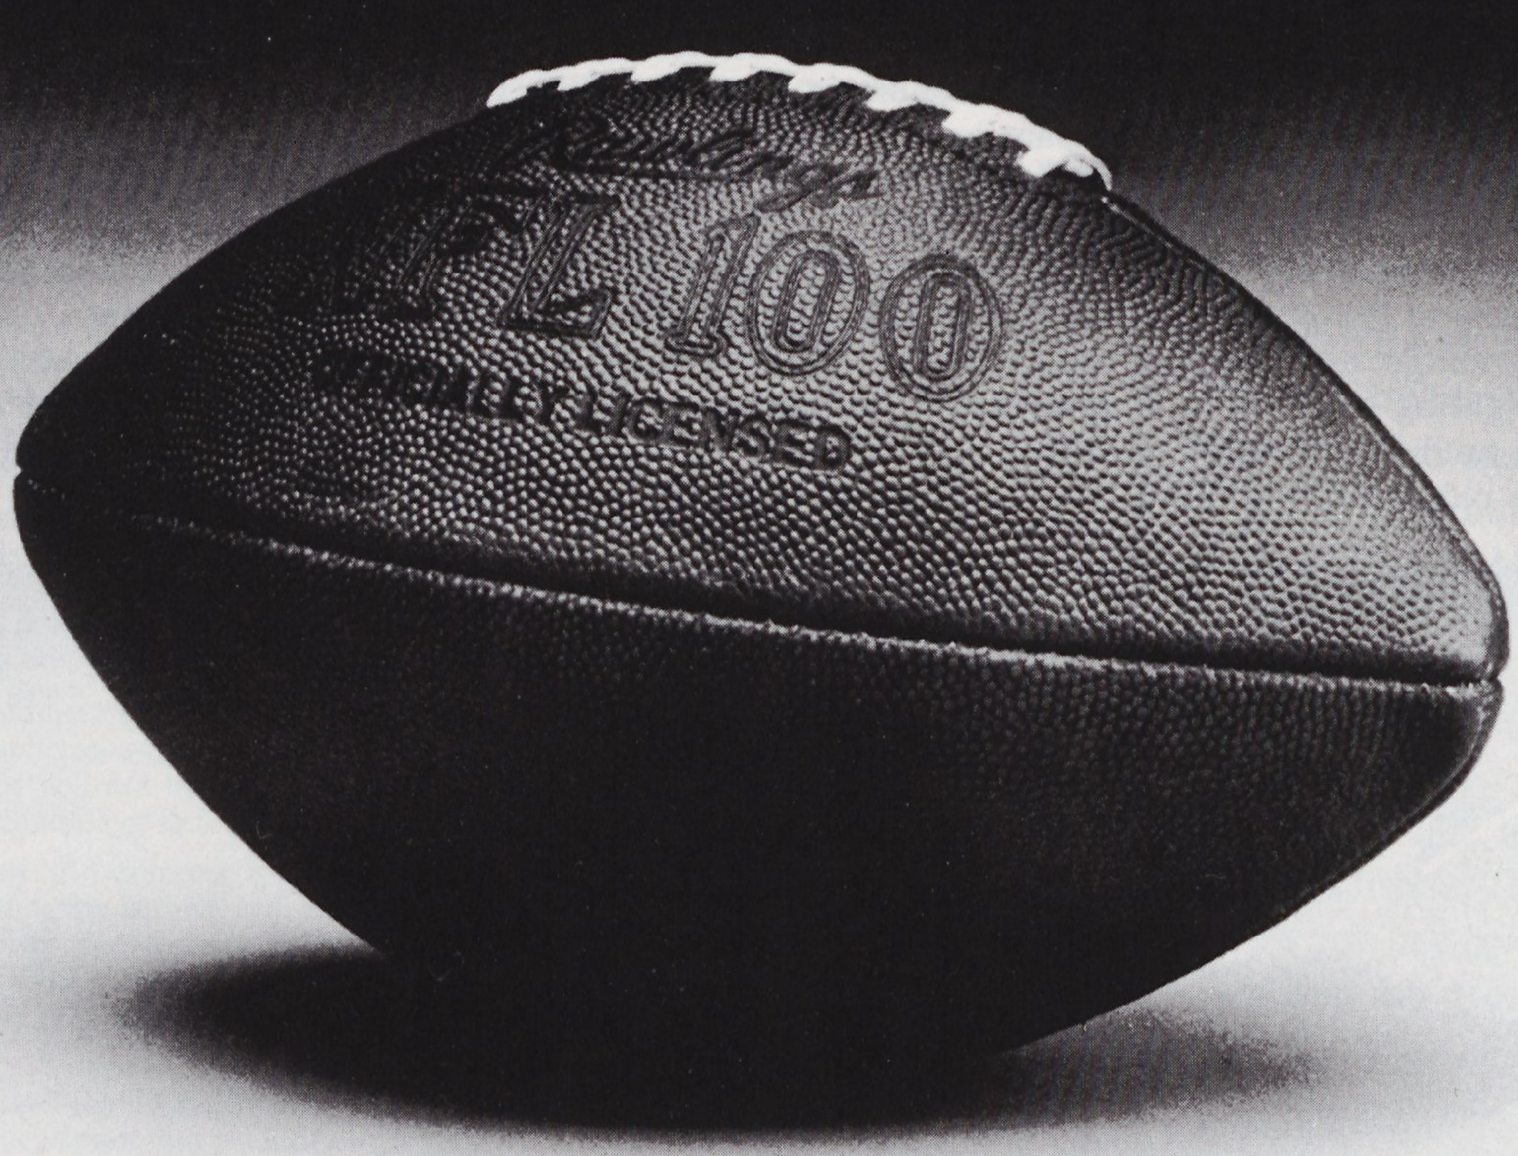

They include: creating a positive, winning work ethic in the classroom; challenging fellow teammates to maximize their potential; serving as role models and mentors for fellow teammates both on the field and in the classroom; assisting the Student Development office in communicating academically-related issues to the squad; providing support and/or recognition to team members on academic matters and serving as ambassadors for the football program at official functions.

Members of the A.L.T. also assist in the Faculty Guest Coach Program during the season and participate in the "Athletes for Education" speakers bureau in which student-athletes encourage academic success.

FICKLEN STADIUM

The James Skinner Ficklen Memorial Stadium was dedicated on September 21, 1963, with East Carolina defeating Wake Forest 20-10.

The dedication game was the culmination of a dream come true for then East Carolina College and all of eastern North Carolina. The original plan was announced on Oct. 7, 1961, by Dr. Leo Jenkins, Chancellor of the College, at a meeting of the Society of Buccaneers.

Within a year, $283,387 had been raised, although the goal had been only $200,000. With the funds in hand, Ficklen Stadium was built.

The stadium was named for the late James Skinner Ficklen, a Greenville resident, who distinguished himself as one of America's leading tobacconists. At the time of his death in 1955, Ficklen was President and Chairman of the Board of the E.B. Ficklen Tobacco Company of Greenville. He was a close friend of the College and established a financial aid foundation, the Ficklen Foundation, to aid students of the College.

The original stadium consisted of the permanent stands on the south side, a small press box and the old lighting system which was removed after the 1974 season. Total cost was $300,000.

The north side permanent seating was constructed in 1968, increasing the stadium seating capacity to 20,000.

The first major change in Ficklen Stadium was the lighting systems, a change that occurred just before the 1975 season opened. The old inner stadium lights on six poles were removed and replaced with six towers outside the stadium. The system is a combination of metallic and incandescent lights. There are 288 fixtures of 1500 watts each on six 162-foot towers. Cost of the system was $450,000.

A radical change greeted fans as the 1978 season opened. An expansion on all four corners boosted Ficklen's seating capacity from 20,000 to 35,000, the third largest stadium in North Carolina. This expansion was made possible with 2½ million dollars through a drive in the spring of 1977.

In addition to more seats, an ultra-modern press box with three levels and an elevator for access was built. The much needed press box has space for 92 writers and an entire floor for electronic media. Also, a modern scoreboard with a lightbank message center was placed on the east end of Ficklen.

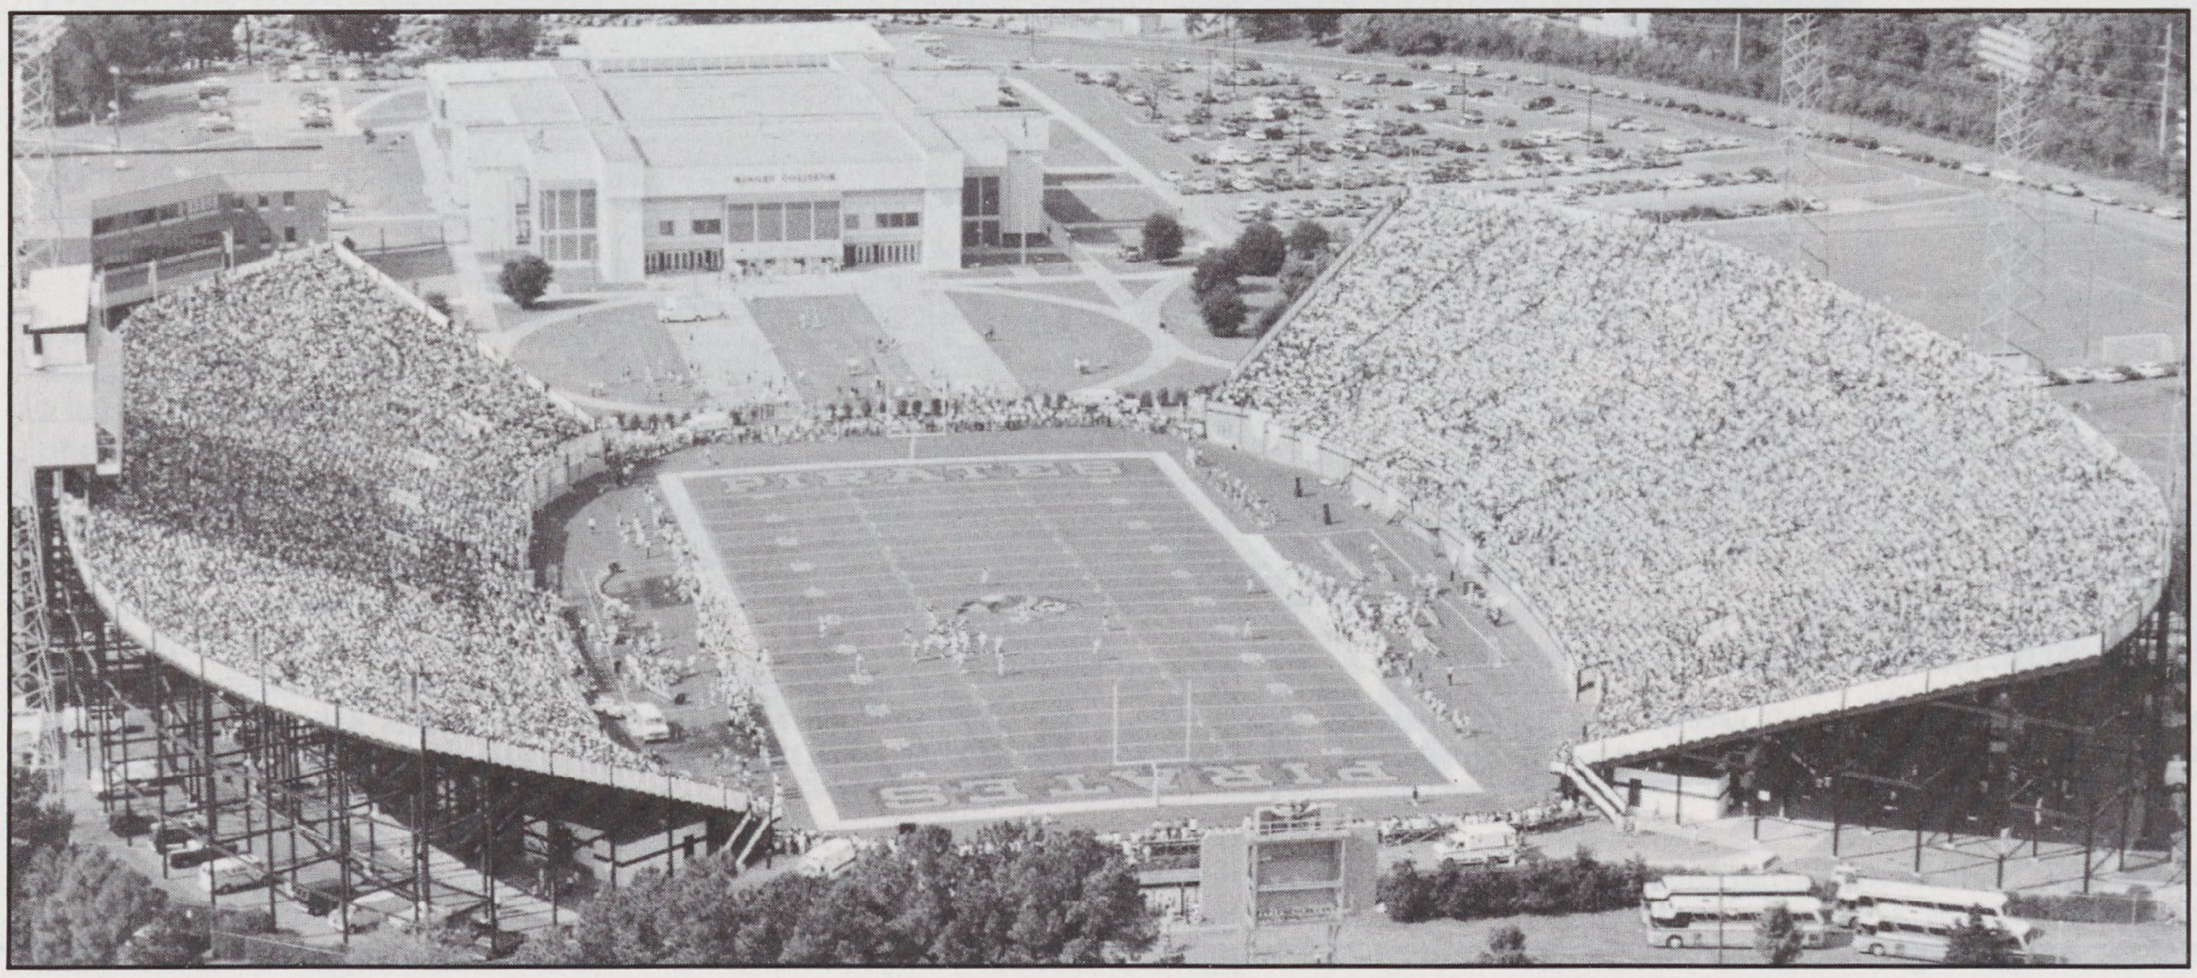

During the summer of 1983, a complete renovation took place on the playing surface. A new drainage system, a new base of gravel and sand, new treated topsoil and a new grass was installed. The new grass, Tifton 419 Hybrid Bermuda was sprigged at the rate of 600 bushels per acre.

Future plans call for expansion of Ficklen Stadium, with an upper deck. That would add an estimated 15,000 seats, giving the stadium a capacity of 50,000. Also, plans call for a renovation of the press box, enlarging it to include a club seating level.

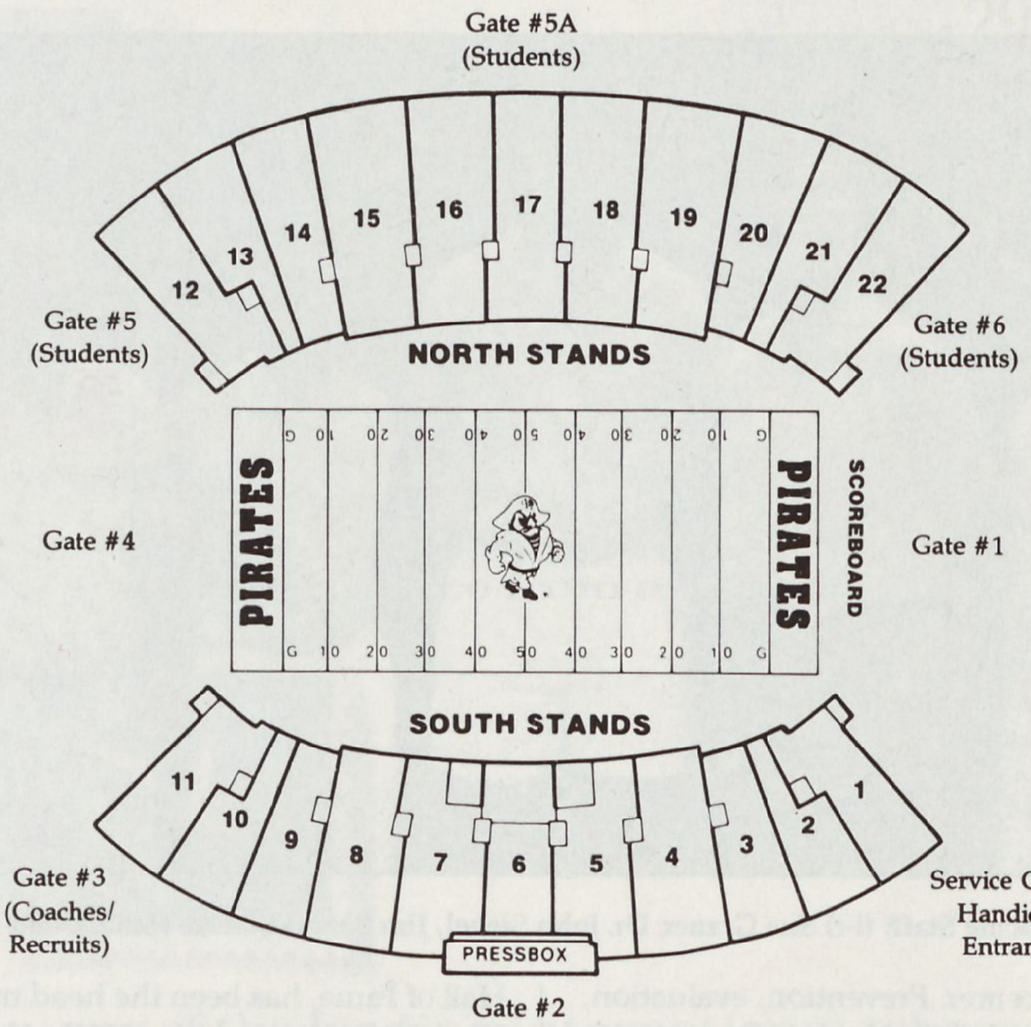

In 1992, the season attendance record fell in Ficklen Stadium as the Pirates drew a school-record 164,068 fans for five home games.

SPORTS MEDICINE

The East Carolina University Sports Medicine Division and Curriculum, reputed to be one of the finest programs in the Southeast, affords every Pirate athlete the best available care and treatment of injuries.

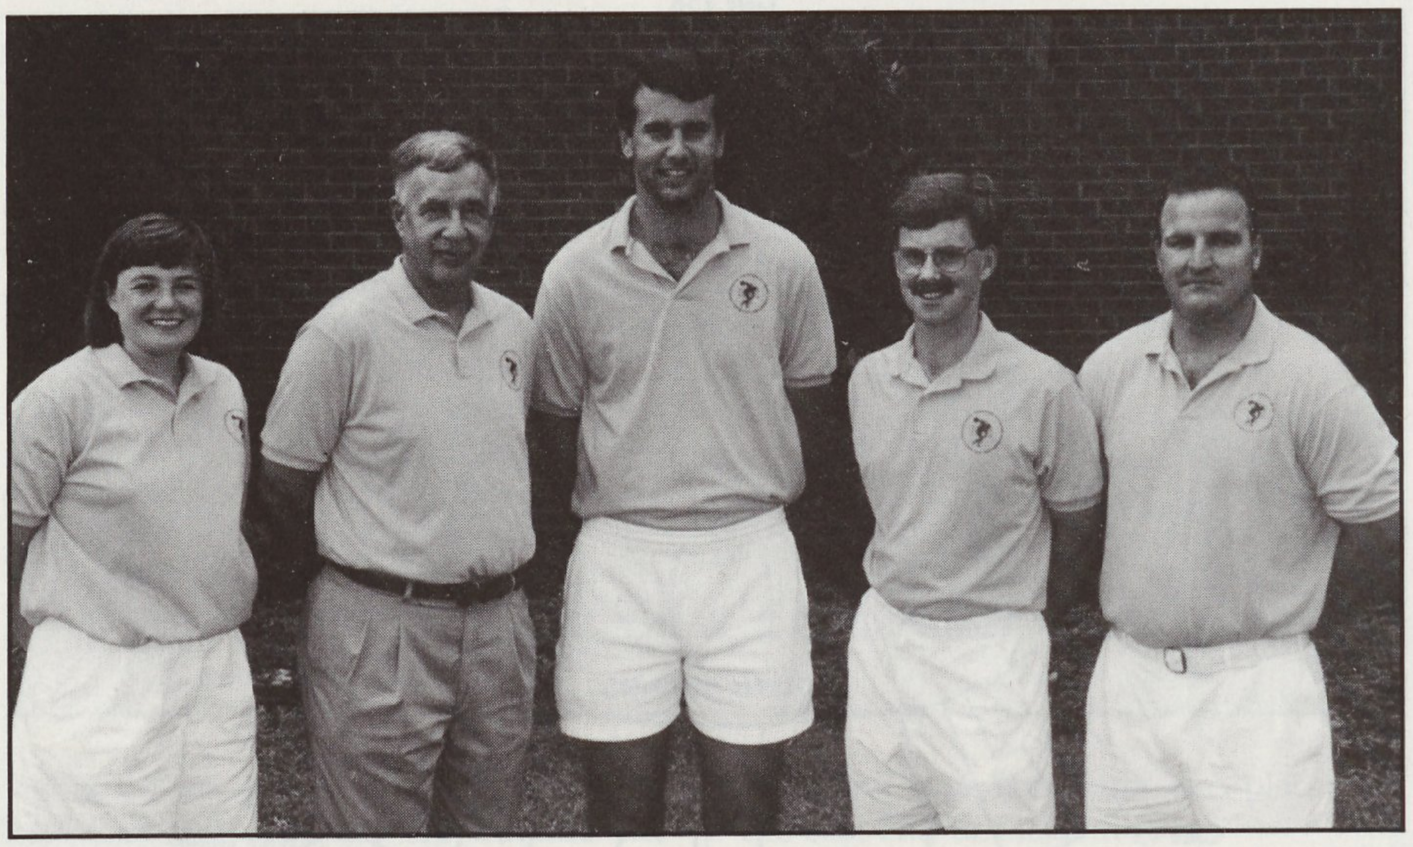

The East Carolina sports medicine program offers the best possible prevention, evaluation, immediate treatment, and rehabilitation of injuries.

Acting Head Trainer Mike Hanley, Assistants Jim Bazluki and Sue Graner, Graduate Assistant Mike Myers and Team Physician Dr. John Siegel oversee the sports medicine program for football. All serve on the staff of the ECU Sports Medicine Conference and as faculty for the Sports Medicine Curriculum within the School of Health and Human Performance.

They are assisted by more than a dozen community-based professionals who lend valuable time in the athletic health care and instructing the 30 to 35 undergraduate students enrolled in ECU's sports medicine educational program for athletic trainers. Dr. Edwin Bartlett and Dr. Tally Lassiter, Jr. are the orthopaedic consultants for football.

The Sports Medicine Center is in the Ward Sports Medicine Building. The Division, which has been in operation since 1971, is now able to better serve the student-athletes and educate sports medicine student athletic trainers using the latest, state-of-the-art facilities and equipment.

The Sports Medicine Staff are in attendance at every athletic event that involves East Carolina University athletes. Radio communication from practice field to the center is a must and a sports medicine vehicle provides instant transportation for injured athletes to the center. Prevention, evaluation, treatment, and rehabilitation are the main objectives of the Sports Medicine Division and when an injury does occur, the staff provides on-the-spot treatment to make certain the injury does not become more serious.

The Sports Medicine Curriculum, a part of the School of Health and Human Performance, is the only undergraduate athletic training program approved by the NATA in Eastern North Carolina and one of only two in the state.

The ECU Sports Medicine program has produced quality athletic trainers who have excelled in the Sports Medicine Field. Ronnie Barnes, now a member of the ECU Athletics Hall of Fame, has been the head trainer of the New York Giants since 1980. Also working with professional athletic teams are Tommy Craig as head trainer of the Toronto Blue Jays and Jamie Reed who serves as athletic trainer for the Baltimore Orioles.

Other graduates of the program work nationwide as collegiate and high school trainers as well as in recreational and sports medicine practices.

Dedication, sincere sensitivity, and individual attention are the basic motivators which distinguish East Carolina University's "Sports Paramedics" from any others. People helping people in a first-class setting. That's East Carolina Sports Medicine!

Pirate Sports Network

Pirate football may be heard throughout North Carolina as well as portions of South Carolina and Virginia via the Pirate Sports Network, owned and operated by the East Carolina University Athletics Department.

All operations of the Pirate Sports Network are coordinated, produced and directed by Jeff Charles, Director of Electronic Media at East Carolina.

This year's Network is anchored by WDLX 93.3 FM with its 100,000 watt signal that blankets all of Eastern North Carolina. Key market affiliates include WCRY 1460 AM Fuquay-Varina (Raleigh), WGLD 1320 AM (Greensboro), WTOB 1380 AM (Winston-Salem), WAAK 960 AM (Charlotte-Gastonia), WOJY 1490 AM (Hampton, Virginia) serving Tidewater. WCZI 98.3 FM is the Flagship station.

Jeff Charles, "Voice of the Pirates," with Carlester Crumpler and Steve Gowan.

Carlester Crumpler, ECU's all-time leading rusher, begins his sixth year as analyst, Steve Gowan hosts the pre-game, half-time, post-game shows and updates scores, Warren Baker and Tom Doyle serve as engineer-producers with Martin Fuerer handling sideline duties. Spotters include Aaron Beaulieu and Jim Bass. Britt Purtee is the statistician.

Charles begins his sixth year as "Voice" of the Pirates and his fourteenth year of college play-by-play. The Piqua, Ohio native served as the "Voice" of Virginia Tech and Furman University and also broadcast Big Ten play-by-play for the University of Illinois. He also served as sports director at WSB Atlanta where he handled Peach Bowl duties and hosted a nightly talk show on the 50,000-watt clear channel station.

In addition to his duties at ECU, Charles works Metro Conference basketball telecasts for Raycom and does selected telecasts for Home Team Sports. He has also worked college basketball games for ESPN.

Charles and his wife Debby have one son Britt, and a daughter Heather, deceased.

Anheuser-Busch returns for its 17th year as the primary network sponsor.

Joe Raymond Peace:

Re-Building the Bulldog Program

By Warren Summer, SID Student Assistant

Louisiana Tech coach Joe Raymond Peace is a perfect example of someone who is carrying the weight of the world on his shoulders. After completion of a 5-6 record in his fifth year as head coach of the Bulldogs, Peace is faced with the task of bringing his program past the .500 mark this year despite returning only five starters from a deceptively good unit. The Bulldogs may have had more losses than wins last year, but those defeats came at the hands of some of the nation's elite programs. The unit fell to national champion Alabama by only 13 points and lost to powerful Southern Mississippi by only a field goal.

Now in a new season, Peace finds himself in a rebuilding process once again.

Q: What is the most frustrating aspect of your job?

A: I'd have to say that all the things you are looking at in the future of Division I football, the cuts that will be made on programs and such. It's really a tough league to play in.

Q: As a nineteen year veteran of college coaching, you have seen a great many players come and go. How do the players of the 90s differ from those you coached at the beginning of your career?

A: It's a lot different today. I think that these players are a reflection of our society in general. I think the society plays a big part in how they do. You have a lot more kids from broken homes today. When I started, about all you had to do was be a football coach. These days, you have to be a coach, a father, a disciplinarian and a psychologist. You have to be all of these things all wrapped up in one.

Q: Coach, last year your team was plagued by a number of close losses. What, if anything, will you do differently this season to help reverse this trend?

A: Well, nothing really. In last year's schedule we played four teams in the Top 25 and all of them went to play in bowl games and they all won. It is extremely difficult to win when you have seven road games, even though we came out on top against Baylor. It's always tough when you go to places like West Virginia and Alabama to play. We had 28 seniors last year and went into some of the toughest arenas in college football to play, but those games would be tough on anyone.

Q: Coach, as your program is in a rebuilding stage, you are set to make a trip to Greenville to play another rebuilding program at ECU. What concerns you about playing the Pirates?

A: I'd have to say what concerns me the most about playing ECU is their defensive speed. They are known as a team that plays hard on both sides of the ball, they have a great tight end and very talented receivers. They could be extremely tough.

ECU EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION

The East Carolina University Educational Foundation, better known as the Pirate Club, is the fund-raising arm of the East Carolina University athletics program. Money raised through the Pirate Club's annual fund drive is used to help fund Pirate student-athlete scholarship costs. The Educational Foundation's goal for 1993 is to turn over a record $975,000 in unrestricted scholarship funds to the University's Athletics Department. Future goals of the Pirate Club include full-funding of all student-athlete scholarship costs associated with ECU's sixteen men and women's sports programs by 1995. In today's dollars, that translates to approximately $1.7 million in unrestricted scholarship support.

Today, the Pirate Club has thirty-five community chapter organizations, which are the "backbone" of the Pirate Club organization. Although the majority of community chapters are located in North Carolina, the Pirate Club has community chapters in Georgia, South Carolina, Virginia and Washington, D.C., serving the majority of its 4,500 contributing members. In addition to receiving a sense of pride and personal satisfaction from investing in the lives of ECU student-athletes, Pirate Club members receive certain other benefits including priority in purchasing season football and basketball tickets; priority in purchasing bowl and post season game tickets; private and semi-private parking at home athletic contests; access to the Pat Draughon Donor Lounge and access to the Pirate Club Building during ECU athletic events; monthly updates on the Pirate athletics program through the "Purple Report"; and various recognition items.

To our many Pirate Club members, we thank you for your continued support. To those of you who are not members and who share a dream for ECU athletics, we extend an invitation to you to join the Pirate Club today and help move the Pirate athletics program to even greater heights.

Winning The Big Ones!

You don't win the big ones alone. It takes a coordinated and concentrated team effort. And winning seasons are measured by more than touchdowns and field goals. They're the result of individuals working together to achieve a common goal — to be winners.

The Greenville-Joyner Agency points with pride to all the pirate teams of ECU whose achievements throughout the years have brought national recognition to ECU.

The road becomes a second home for those connected with collegiate athletics. Indeed, being on the road and traveling thousands of miles each year is a major part of the job.

Almost every facet of the job — recruiting, scouting competition, making public appearances, etc. — are activities that keep athletic personnel on the move.

The "wheels" that keep East Carolina's athletic program rolling are a group known as Courtesy Car Dealers, and they play a vital role in allowing the Pirate staff to meet their demands.

Far more than just a fringe benefit, these cars given by the East Carolina Courtesy Car Dealers are necessities for a growing and successful athletic program.

The entire East Carolina staff wishes to thank each dealer providing a car to this fleet of courtesy cars. We hope our fans will look to these fine people for their automotive needs at every opportunity.

Thanks Courtesy Car Dealers! You keep the wheels of East Carolina athletics rolling.

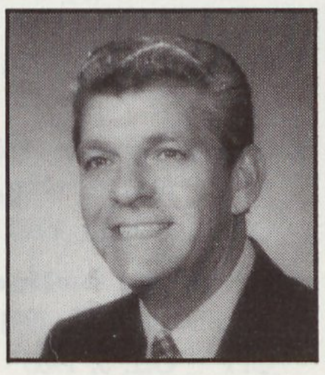

Thanks also goes to Adam's Auto Wash of Greenville. Adam's helps keep ECU's courtesy cars looking clean.

ATHLETICS HALL OF FAME

The East Carolina Athletics Hall of Fame was initiated in 1974 as an organization to honor those individuals who have, by direct participation in East Carolina University intercollegiate athletics, brought outstanding recognition to themselves and to the University.

The first honorees were inducted during Homecoming festivities at halftime of the East Carolina-The Citadel football game in 1974. Ten members were selected for the first year. Since then, the Hall of Fame has grown to over 50 members. During the 1993 Hall of Fame Weekend, ECU will honor its newest inductees: John Christenbury, Charles Futrell, Leora "Sam" Jones and Jim Raynor.

To be selected, a committee of nine persons must vote with two-thirds of those giving their approval. Those five shall be the official selection committee. To be eligible for selection, a person must not have been connected with the University in the capacity to which the nominee is being elected for a minimum of ten academic years.

The Hall of Fame is located on the second floor of the Ward Sports Medicine Building. Dedicated in 1990, it features plaques honoring the members and a Hall of Fame guide.

A LOOK AT '93-'94 PIRATE BASKETBALL

East Carolina's basketball fortunes have certainly picked up since the Pirates claimed the Colonial Athletic Association title last season.

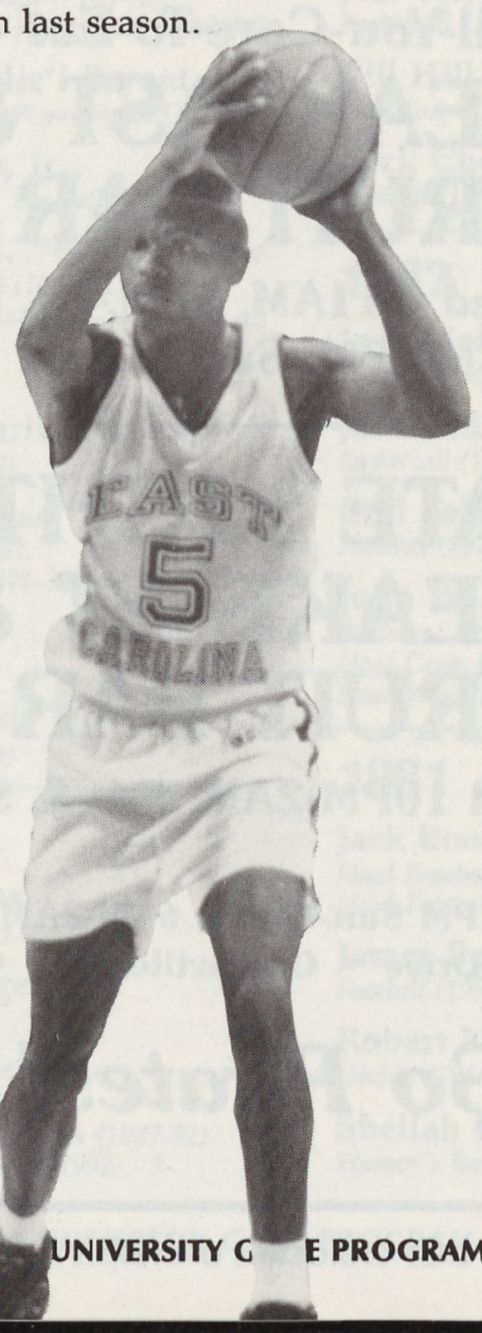

Recruiting analyst Bob Gibbons has picked ECU's spring recruiting class 11th in the nation. Put that along with the Pirates' four returning starters, and Coach Eddie Payne's squad should be improved from last season.

ECU finished the regular season last year at 10-16. But, three wins in the Richfood-Colonial Tournament in Richmond, Va., and the Pirates were crowned CAA champs. The Pirates fell to eventual national champion North Carolina, 85-65, in the first round of the NCAA Tournament.

The Pirates will miss seniors Ike Copeland, Ronnell Peterson and James Lewis from last season's squad.

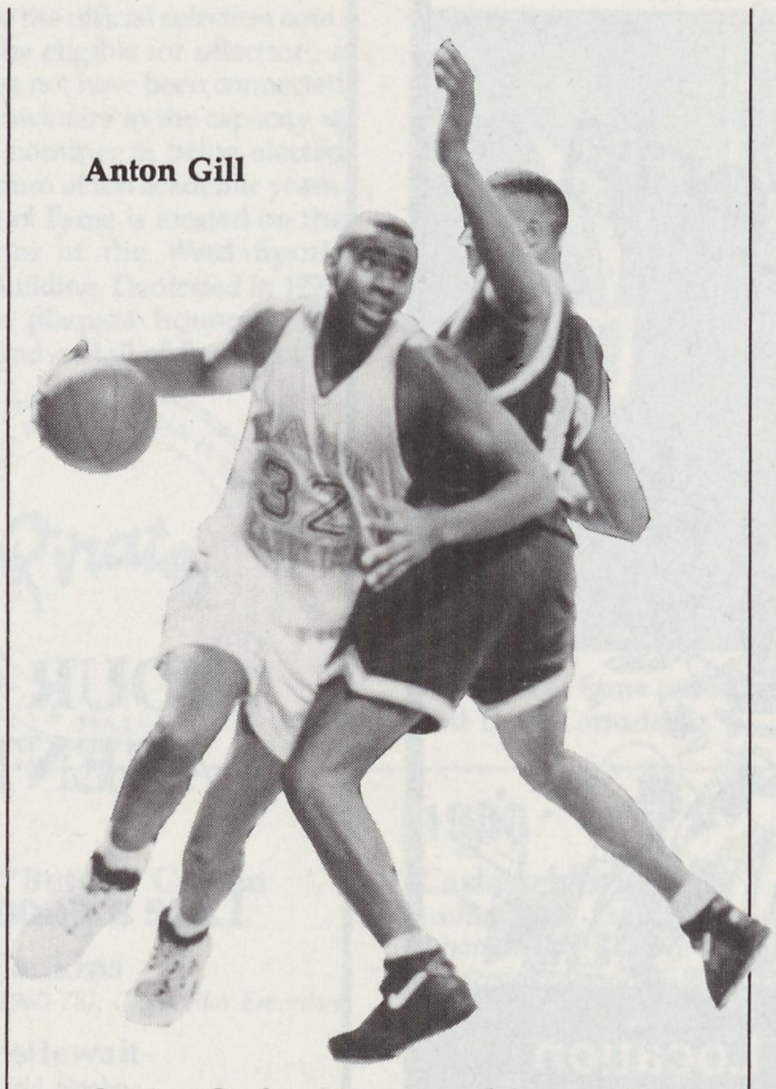

Senior Lester Lyons and sophomore Kareem Richardson combine to give East Carolina one of the best backcourts in the CAA. Lyons averaged 15.4 points, 2.7 rebounds, 2.6 assists and 2.3 steals per game last season. He was named MVP of the Toledo MVP Classic and the CAA Tournament.

Richardson earned his starting berth late in the season and the Pirates became a much better squad. ECU was 7-7 in games Richardson started and 6-10 when he came off the bench. He finished the season averaging 7.1 points, 2.0 rebounds and 2.5 assists per game. He was a CAA All-Rookie Team selection last season.

Lester Lyons

Anton Gill

Senior Curley Young and junior Anton Gill return to start in the front court. Young, a defensive specialist, peaked in the CAA Tournament last season. He averaged 6.1 points and 3.5 rebounds per game last year and had 15 points against James Madison in the CAA Tournament title game.

Gill started much of last season at power forward, but could be moved to center this year. Gill's offensive prowess is proven, averaging 10.3 points per game and shooting 49.3 percent from the floor last season.

Returning players Wilbert Hunter, Kevin Armstrong, Simpson Toliver and T.J. Long will add depth in the front court.

Hunter averaged 6.0 points and 3.0 rebounds last season and started the first 13 games, but his production fell off at the end of the season.

Armstrong was still coming back from knee surgery last season. He played in 19 games, averaging 0.8 points and 0.7 rebounds last year. One of just two four-year players, Armstrong could play a backup role at the power forward position.

Toliver could also play a supporting role in the front court. Last season, as a freshman, he averaged 0.7 points and 0.7 rebounds per game. He'll need to add some bulk during the off-season to be a major contributor in 1993-94.

Long, a walk-on sophomore guard, averaged 0.8 points and 0.3 rebounds in four games last season.

The new class of Pirates should play a key role in the upcoming season. Don Douglas, a 6-11 center, redshirted last season. He has the benefit of knowing the system and an extra year of developing skills.

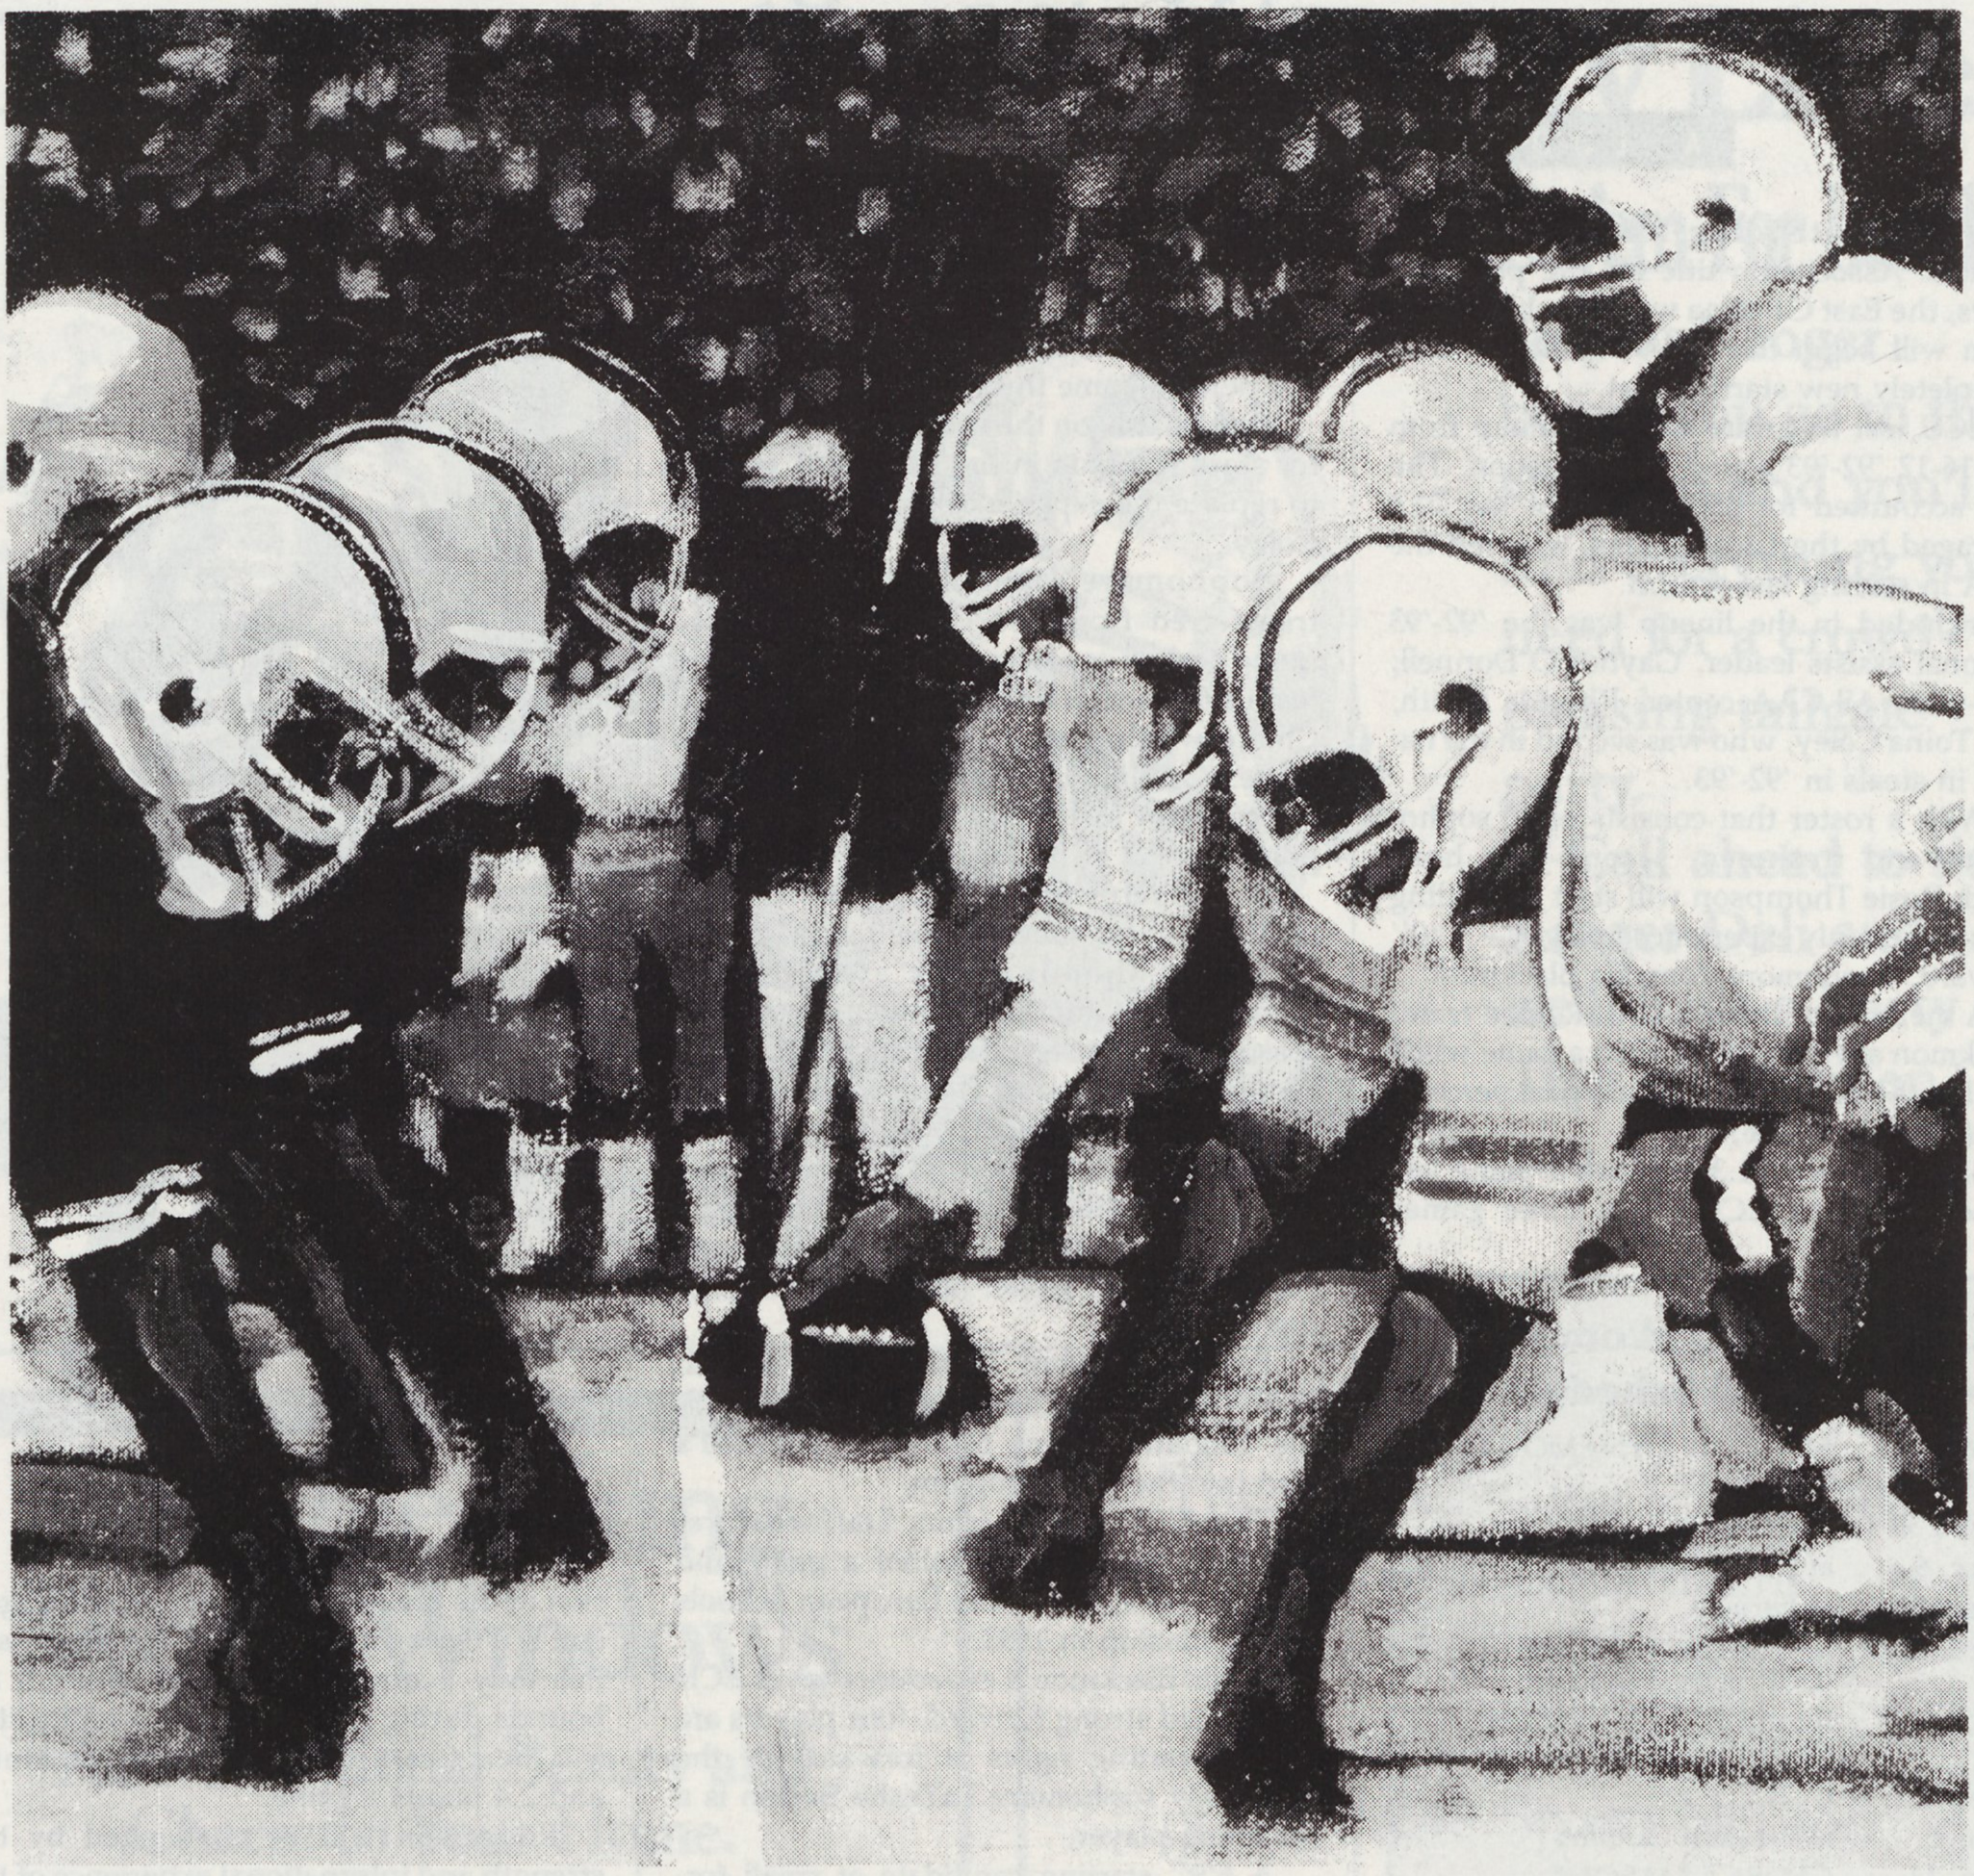

Chuckie Robinson, a junior college transfer, and freshmen Tim Basham, Chuck Jones and Louis Moore, will vie for playing time at the forward spot. Skipp Schaefbauer, Mr. Basketball in the state of Minnesota in 1992-93, will play a reserve role in the backcourt.

The Pirates open the 1993-94 season in Charlotte, N.C. on Nov. 29 against UNC Charlotte. ECU's non-conference schedule also includes two in-season tournaments — Dec. 3-4 at the Mount St. Mary's Tournament and Dec. 30-31 at the Wisconsin-Green Bay Tournament.

A LOOK AT '93-'94 LADY PIRATE BASKETBALL

After contending for the Colonial Athletic Association title for the past four years, the East Carolina women's basketball team will begin the '93-'94 season with a completely new starting cast.

ECU lost its entire starting lineup from the 16-12 '92-'93 squad to graduation. The five accounted for 55.8 points of the 70.4 averaged by the Lady Pirates, who led the CAA in scoring last season.

Included in the lineup was the '92-'93 national assists leader, Gaynor O'Donnell; first-team All-CAA center, Rhonda Smith; and Toina Coley, who was second in the nation in steals in '92-'93.

With a roster that consists of 10 sophomores and freshmen, second-year head coach Rosie Thompson will start rebuilding around her only experienced player — 5'10'' forward, sophomore Tomekia Blackmon.

A member of the CAA All-Rookie team, Blackmon averaged 9.7 points a game while leading the conference in field goal percentage (100-165, 60.6%).

She averaged 21.3 minutes a game last season, missing ECU's last three games with an ACL injury to her left knee.

Blackmon's rehabilitation from knee surgery in March has been successful and sports medicine officials expect her to be at 100 percent come the season opener.

Five guards on the ECU roster will battle for starting rights in the backcourt, having to replace the experience of O'Donnell and Coley.

Sophomore Danielle Charlesworth transferred from the University of Richmond and sat out last season. An All-Rookie team selection as a freshman at Richmond, Charlesworth played in 28 games as a reserve. Coming into the season, Charlesworth looks to be ECU's top candidate at point.

Three returning guards will also be challenging for starting roles.

Senior Shonda Baker averaged 2.1 points a game and 11.6 minutes a game last season as a transfer. Baker started in three games last season and Thompson hopes she can build on that experience this year.

Sophomores Belinda Cagle and Angela James saw limited time as freshmen. Cagle played in 25 of 28 ECU games and averaged 5.8 minutes per game. James saw action in just 13 games.

Freshman guard Justine Allpress continues ECU's new international tradition as the England native follows O'Donnell's lead into the ECU program.

The 5'7'' guard from Staffordshire, England, averaged 25 points a game and was the top scorer in the European Schools Championship in 1993.

While Blackmon's experience gives ECU a seasoned strong forward, four players are up for starting rights at forward. Of the four, only sophomore LaTesha Sutton is a returning player.

A 5'9'' starting candidate at small forward, Sutton played in 15 games as a freshman, including nine CAA contests. In the CAA tournament, she averaged 19 minutes a game, filling in for the injured Blackmon.

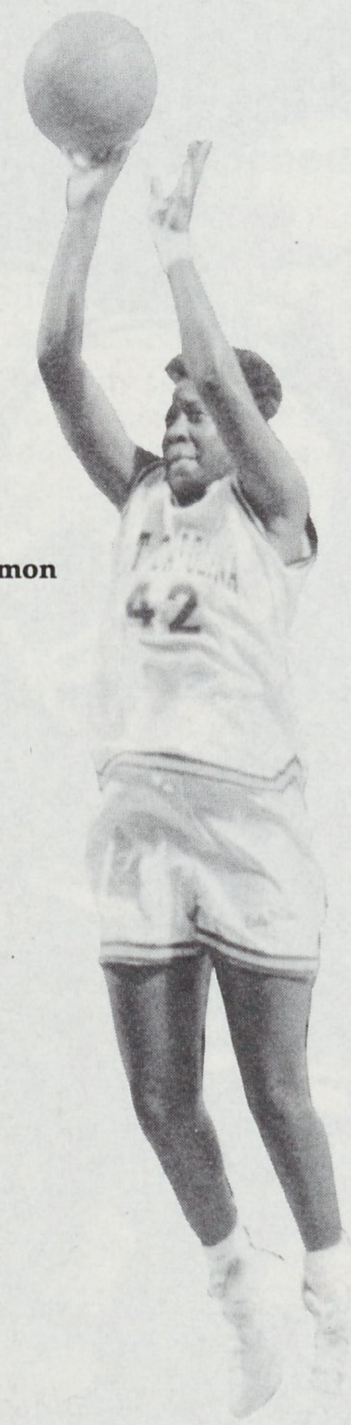

Three true-freshmen could interchange with Blackmon and Sutton in the starting forward positions.

Krystal Collins, a 6' forward from Dixon High School, could earn the starting nod with her outside shooting ability. Collins averaged 21.6 points a game as a senior playing center and will need to improve her ball handling skills for the forward spot.

Like Collins, 5'11'' freshman Shay Hayes from Pomfret, Md., shows offensive potential and could come into a starting role.

Tracey Kelley, a 6' freshman forward from Middletown, Md., will provide ECU depth at the strong forward despite lack of collegiate experience.

ECU's top post position remains a question in the pre-season. Senior Janet Rodgerson is a three-year letterman, however, she has only averaged 1.2 points and 1.8 rebounds during her career. As a junior, the 6'2'' Bear Grass native averaged six minutes and 2.4 points a game.

Tomekia Blackmon

Rodgerson will be challenged by the strength and international experience of the Sweden native, Michaela Wallerstrom. The 6'2'' freshman averaged 16.5 points a game last season and led her team to the World Cup playoffs in 1992.

With a roster of untested talent, the Lady Pirates have been picked seventh in the pre-season CAA polls.

The conference race could be one of the strongest ever with two-time defending CAA champion Old Dominion returning an all-star cast including two-time CAA Player of the Year, Celeste Hill.

Along with a strong CAA schedule, ECU faces a strong non-conference slate in the '93-'94 season.

After opening the season with three road games, ECU travels to the UCF Holiday Classic with Division I powers Alabama, Kentucky and North Carolina. The Lady Pirates open their home schedule on Jan. 5 with Duke and also host North Carolina State in February.

CAMPUS FEATURE

STORED BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

Joyner Library staff faces incoming tide of printed and electronic information.

By Tony M. Rumple, ECU News Bureau

Once again history is repeating itself on the campus of East Carolina University. Faced with an increased enrollment and the ever increasing body of published knowledge, the staff at the James Yadkin Joyner Library is putting some of its books into storage.

The last time this happened was prior to the renovations to the original structure and the completion of the West Tower in 1974. Even as the original library opened in 1954, it was inadequate for the 2,400 student enrollment.

"We have somewhere between 950 thousand and 1 million volumes in our present collection," said Dr. Kenneth E. Marks, director of Academic Library Services at ECU. "To that you have to add the manuscripts and archives, the electronic equipment, the microfilm collections and a variety of things that aren't counted as books."

Presently there are about 75,000 volumes from the collection stored in a warehouse a couple of miles from the main campus and it is also, according to Marks, "completely out of space."

Storage, however, is not a cheap alternative. This year warehouse rental will be $46,000. Nor is it a safe one for library employees or materials. "We have problems with things getting into the building," Marks said, "Snakes, birds and other critters find their way inside."

The most alarming incident happened last summer. When a courier opened the building he found it filled with termites. "Termites and books are just about as bad as termites and houses," Marks said.

The books and other items stored there are not put into "cold storage" though. They are still used by students, faculty and others for research projects, although there can be up to a 24-hour delay in getting the materials in hand.

"These are materials that the library can identify as the lesser used," said Marks. "While not in as high demand as things published in 1991, 92 or 1993, they still have value for research work. The demand is going to continue to increase which will require additional warehouse space and staff to retrieve material. The problem is going to get worse rather than better over the next three or four years," he said.

"What we are faced with is that we can't take any more chairs or study stations out of the library. We add, automatically, between 30 and 35 thousand volumes to the collection every year. That means that next summer we will have to add another 30 to 40 thousand volumes into storage. And again the next year. Within about two years, we could have about twenty percent of our collection in storage." Those numbers, he added, don't take into consideration the materials from manuscripts and archives.

A positive vote in the November 2 election would allow ECU, among other things, to build a new building to house all the materials in the library's vast collection. "That should allow us to bring back to Joyner Library everything we have in storage and have room for growth," said Marks. In the meantime, he added, "we still have to find room for three more years of storage."

Marks said that it would be a mistake for a voter to assume that a new, modern and functional library would benefit only the faculty and students enrolled at ECU. "As a state-supported institution, the library's collections are accessible to anybody who comes in the front door. We share the materials through various public and community college libraries throughout the entire state."

Dr. Kenneth E. Marks, director of Academic Library Services at East Carolina University, is surrounded by some of the 75,000 volumes the ECU library was forced to put into storage. Another 35,000 volumes will be added each year until the university library is increased in size. (ECU News Bureau Photo by Tony Rumple)

PIRATE PROFILE

Pirate Pitching Staff Ranks Among Best in Nation

By Kerry Nester, SID Student Assistant

Ask any coach, manager, owner or fan in the country about what it takes to have a winning baseball team and the answer you'll most likely hear is good pitching.

East Carolina definitely has the arms to earn the wins. Last season the Pirates finished fourth in the country with a 4.07 earned run average. Just what did this success mean to the team?

"There are a number of factors," Head Coach Gary Overton said. "First and foremost, it speaks exceptionally well of our staff as a whole. Each and every young man that was involved in that pitching staff, certainly, they can take tremendous pride in their accomplishments."

Coaching of the pitching staff rests on the shoulders of assistant coach Roger Williams. A 1985 graduate from the University of North Carolina, Williams holds the all-time victories at UNC with 24 wins.

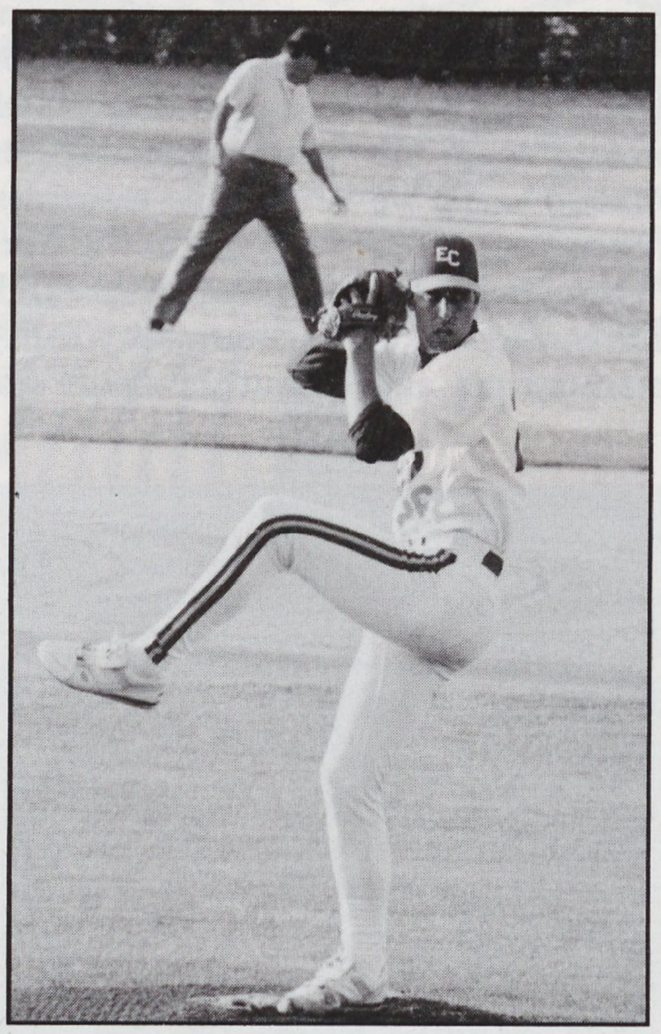

"Second, as a team effort, finishing fourth in the country simply exemplifies strong individual performances based on a team concept, so I speak for Coach Williams and myself when I say we're both very proud of what they accomplished," Overton said.

Leading the way for the Pirates were three exceptional pitchers, all of whom are returning this spring. Mike Sanburn, Lyle Hartgrove and Johnny Beck all contributed to the cause with exceptional years. Their 1993 ERA's were 2.31, 3.45 and 3.39, respectively.

"We're very fortunate as a program not only to have those three young men involved with our teams," Overton said, "but to also have them returning as our top three performers from last season."

Unaware of the team's opportunity to finish ranked in the top five in the country in ERA, Coach Williams didn't inform the team until near the end of the season, probably to keep from interrupting their performances with extra pressures.

"We didn't even know about it until the year was just about over," Lyle Hartgrove said. "So, when Coach Williams told us, we were all very proud to have been a part of the effort. I personally was proud that everyone contributed to keeping it down, not just one or two people."

Mike Sanburn led the Pirates with a 2.31 ERA last season.

Williams classifies Hartgrove as mainly a sinker, slider type pitcher with a good changeup. Sanburn as being a very knowledgeable pitcher with a good curveball and able to spot his fastball just about anywhere he wants to put it. Finally, Beck as a little more powerful pitcher, noted mostly for his fastball, curveball and changeup.

"All three of those guys are a pleasure to be around," Williams said. "They're very hard workers and extremely coachable, to be able to come to work and be around those kind of pitchers and players just makes my job that much more enjoyable."

Indeed the Pirates have much to look forward to in 1994 with the return of the starting rotation. "We've had some excellent years and certainly last year was one of our best," Overton said. "A lot of the credit has to go to Coach Williams, I think you have to start with the pitching staff and we're certainly gearing ourselves up for that in 1994."

Pirate Athletic Updates

ECU Volleyball Takes Second In Holiday Inn/Golden Corral Lady Pirate Invitational

The ECU Volleyball team went 3-1 in round-robin play last weekend at the Holiday Inn/Golden Corral Lady Pirate Invitational to finish second of five teams.

ECU's Staci Winters and Melanie Richards both earned All-tournament team honors in the ECU tournament and the three wins boosted the Lady Pirates' record to 8-15 on the season as they prepare for Colonial Athletic Association action next weekend. ECU will travel to Washington, D.C. to face American and George Mason on Oct. 22-23. The Lady Pirates will host CAA opponents James Madison (Oct. 29) and William & Mary (Oct. 30) in Minges Coliseum.

Final Home Soccer Game Set for Monday

ECU's Soccer team wraps up its home schedule on Monday as it hosts Elon at 4 p.m. on the ECU soccer field. The Pirates then have four road games to end the regular season and will play in the CAA Championship Nov. 4-7 in Richmond.

The Pirates have held their own against a tough schedule this season and are currently 3-9, not including two matches against UNC Wilmington and Methodist this week.

ECU had two close matches with nationally ranked teams between Sept. 30 and Oct. 2 as it fell to #25 Wake Forest, 2-1 and #10 William & Mary, 2-1.

ECU Runners Take on North Carolina's Best

ECU's cross country team travels to Cullowhee today to compete in the North Carolina Cross Country championships and are looking for its best finishes ever. Freshmen Dava and Tara Rhodes have had top-ten finishes in each of their meets this season and could be racing for the state title. Last year, ECU's women's team finished seventh at the meet, while the men finished 12th.

Swimmers Gearing Up for 1993-94 Season

ECU's swim teams opened competition for the upcoming season on Oct. 5 with their annual pentathalon.

For the men, outstanding performances were turned in by freshman Chris Bembenek and senior Brian Soltz. Bembenek placed first in the 100 butterfly and set a new pentathalon record in the 100 backstroke.

For the Lady Pirates, the top finishers were freshmen Melissa Phillips and Lesley Hawley. Phillips swam a time of 1:10.74 to give her a first place win and a pentathalon record in the 100 Butterfly. Overall, five records were set at the meet.

The Pirates will have their Pirple/Gold meet on Oct. 19 at 3 p.m. in Minges and dual meet competition opens on Nov. 30 at Virginia Tech.

Smith Proves Great Things Can Come in Small Packages

By Kerry Nester, SID Student Assistant

At 5-6, 174 pounds, East Carolina junior running back, Junior Smith, has heard the word, "can't," or phrase, "you're too small," many times throughout his young career.

Junior Smith

"With my size and height, lots of people have doubted I would be where I am today, playing at the collegiate level," Smith said. "When someone tells you that you can't do something, this is a motivational factor to prove them wrong."

And prove them wrong he has. In his senior year in high school, Smith gained 2,454 yards on his way to leading the state in rushing and accumulating the second highest season total in state history.

Going into the game at South Carolina, Smith ranked 37th in the nation in all-purpose yards with 127.75 per game and 11th in rushing yards with 123.0 per game. Last year, he became the first 1,000 yard rusher since Tony Collins did it in 1979 and barring injury, will almost certainly surpass the 1,000 yard mark again this season.

These statistics are impressive, but do not tell the whole story about Junior Smith. He is a complete player capable of running, receiving and blocking. "Coming out of high school, coaches were concerned about my ability to block and catch," Smith said. "I've worked extremely hard in those areas and now I'm confident in my ability to do both."

In 1992, Smith had 10 catches for 38 yards while coming off the bench much of the season for Cedric Van Buren, who incidentally, relied on Smith as a prime blocker much of the time. This year, Smith had accounted for four receptions totalling 19 yards heading into the South Carolina game.

With the success Smith has acclaimed since last season, opposing defenses are focusing their attention on stopping Smith first. "Last year, they were keying more on the pass, which in turn opened up the run," Smith said. "This year, we're still using the same philosophy of executing plays, moving down the field quickly and scoring points, only we're using the run first to open up the pass."

A scheme which up until the injury to Marcus Crandell was working effectively. Since Crandell's injury, the Pirate offense has stalled somewhat trying to develop a game plan for backup Chris Hester.

"From last spring throughout the summer, everything we did in practice was focused around Marcus's abilities as a quarterback," Smith said. "Since his injury, we had to change our plan a little to accommodate our other quarterbacks, so we're a little out of sync right now."

All is not lost, however. Smith still believes the Pirates can turn adversity into achievement with six games remaining on the schedule after South Carolina. "We can still turn this thing around; people don't realize we're only four games into the season," Smith said.

True enough, there's still time to accomplish a successful and winning season. "I'd like to finish the remainder of the season healthy and find a way to become a leader on offense and keep everyone's spirit up," Smith said.

This task will be made more easily for Smith through his upbringing. Smith has developed a tremendous character for a young man under the spotlight of thousands of spectators each Saturday afternoon.

"I credit my parents for the way I am as a person today," Smith said. "They're such an inspiration for me every time I hit the field. They've done so much for me through the years, I just want to find a way to make them proud of me."

This no doubt will carry over to Smith's leadership ability as he becomes a senior next season. Young Pirates can look up to Smith for finding their way through the pressures of college football and keeping up the grades.

Academics are another important part of Smith's endeavors as he knows not every player can depend on the National Football League as an outlet to success. "It's been a childhood dream of mine to play in the NFL," Smith said. "But my academics are extremely important to me, I have to be prepared for life without football."

Smith is majoring in Physical Education and will pursue a career in coaching following his departure from football as a participant. "I'd love to be a coach one day," Smith said. "Preferably at the college level, if not, I'd be more than happy coaching in high school."

So, while the burden of carrying the Pirate offense doesn't rest solely on the shoulders of Junior Smith, ECU fans can feel more at ease with his presence in the backfield. Can he carry the load? Let's just tell him, no, he "can't", and watch what happens!

Editor's Note: Junior Smith rushed for 135 yards against South Carolina and ranks fifth in the nation this week in rushing.
