The East Carolina University Department of Athletics thanks today's corporate sponsors Golden Corral and Multimedia Cablevision for their support of Pirate Athletics.

Golden Corral Corporation, founded by James Maynard (ECU '65) has capped two decades of expansion by being selected as one of the nation's "Great Growth Chains."

Selection to the restaurant industry's "Dream Team" was made by an authoritative trade magazine, Restaurants & Institutions. This same magazine has named Golden Corral the nation's favorite steakhouse chain two years in a row in 1992 and 1993.

Golden Corral's growth has been dramatic by continuing to expand its operations with 237 company and 193 franchise units. Today, these 430 restaurants can be found in 39 states and Mexico. Total sales continue to rise in 1995 and are projected to reach over $600 million.

Growth alone was not sufficient for the awards given to Golden Corral, according to the magazine's editors. They stipulated that winners also had to score exceptionally well in customer surveys measuring value, food quality, cleanliness, service, convenience, atmosphere, menu variety and overall customer satisfaction in the steakhouse category, traditionally one of the most highly contested industry segments.

Division I President, Irwin Roberts (ECU '66) states that Golden Corral is projecting continued strong growth with the success our second generation restaurants, otherwise known as "metro restaurants". Golden Corral has recently introduced two new restaurant designs. The first is designed for mid-market cities, 25,000 to 50,000 residents, and seats 350 quest. The second is for smaller hometown markets and will seat 250 quests. Menu variety will continue to remain broad with the Golden Corral Buffet that offers some 120 to 170 items with the latest additions being pizza and rotisserie chicken. The centerpiece of the restaurants is the Brass Bell Bakery where baked goods are prepared in full view of customers.

Raleigh, N.C. based Golden Corral Corporation and their almost 17,000 employees continue to "make pleasurable dining affordable" and in doing so has become a leader in the restaurant industry.

Multimedia Cablevision is one of the state's largest cable television operators. Headquartered in Rocky Mount, N.C. since 1976, the company serves Greenville, Kinston, New Bern, Washington, Clinton, Rocky Mount, Tarboro, Williamston and neighboring communities.

The company was a pioneer in the delivery of satellite transmitted cable programming and continues to be a leader in the industry in customer service.

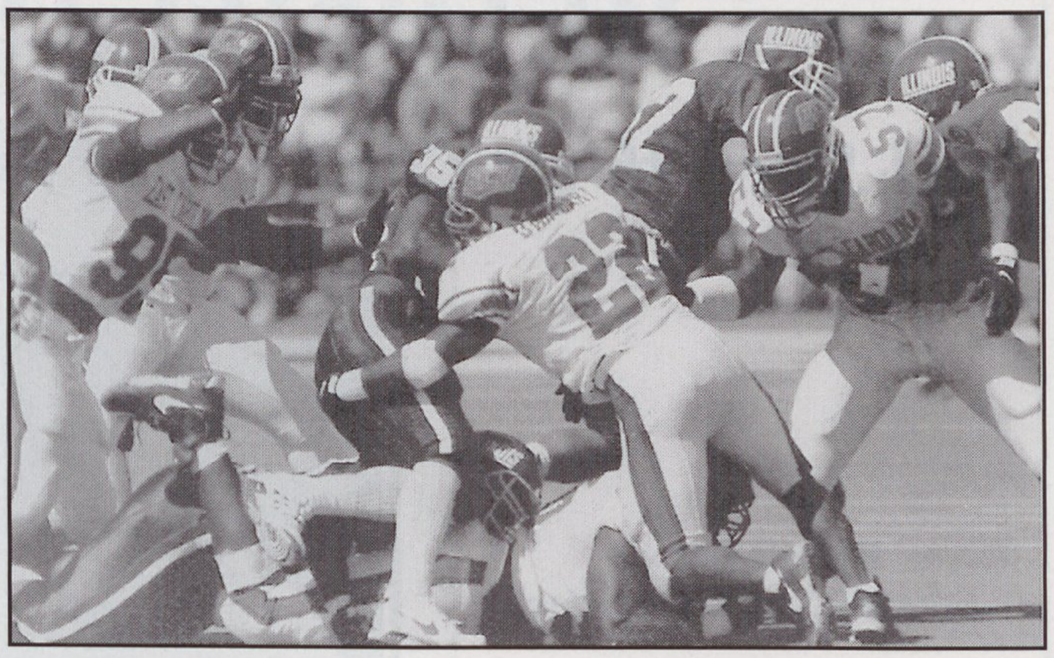

Against this year, the company was cited for customer service excellence by both the state and national cable television trade groups. Multimedia also takes great pride in its support of many community service projects. They were rewarded for their efforts in this area in 1994-95 with two state level achievements awards. Multimedia Cablevision, is a proud supporter of East Carolina University and the Pirate Club annually.

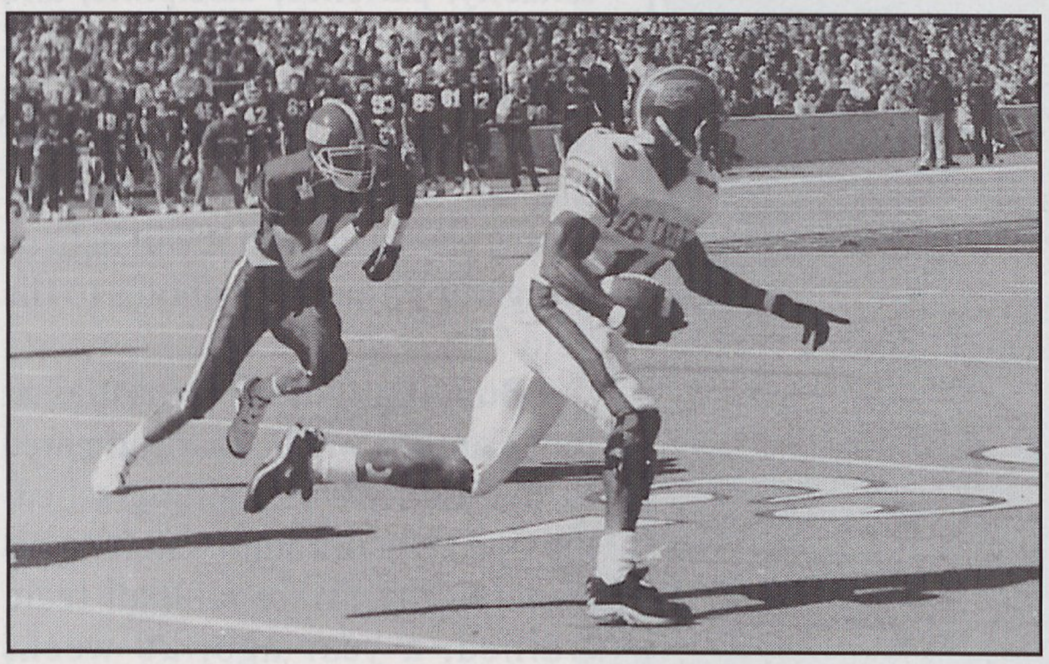

MOUNTAINEERS COMING OFF WIN OVER KENT

West Virginia is coming off a 45-7 win over Kent last Saturday, a game that gave both its offense and defense a good workout. The 45 points scored were the highest this season and Mountaineer quarterbacks Chad Johnson and Eric Boykin threw two touchdown passes each. Four different WVU receivers were their targets. The West Virginia defense turned in its best performance this season holding Kent to just 78 yards total offense. Kent gained only 14 yards rushing and just 64 yards through the air.

DEFENSE HAS STRONG DAY AGAINST ILLINI

Coming off a 7-0 loss to Illinois last Saturday, the Pirate defense is growing stronger. The Pirate defense gave up less than 300 yards in offense in back-to-back contests for the first time since 1989. Against Central Michigan, ECU allowed only 284 yards and then allowed the Illini just 215 yards. It's been 70 games since the Pirate defense last accomplished that by giving up less than 300 to Bowling Green, Cincinnati and Illinois State in 1989. The seven points allowed against Illinois also marked just the fifth time since 1984 that an ECU defense has held an opponent under 10 points.

BEASLEY LEADS WVU SECONDARY

All-American Aaron Beasley, the 1994 NCAA Division I interception leader, will be a threat to the Pirate offense today. Beasley, a consensus preseason All-American, had 10 interceptions last year to lead the nation and has two already this season, including a 49-yard touchdown return against Maryland. The senior defensive back has now returned three career interceptions for scores with an average of 54 yards per touchdown. Learn more about the WVU defender on page 67 in a Closer Look at Today's Opponent.

TODAY'S QUARTERBACKS MIRROR EACH OTHER

You'll find several similarities in ECU quarterback Marcus Crandell and WVU's signal caller Chad Johnston both in their junior campaigns. Crandell currently ranks third in ECU history with his career passing yardage of 3,872 (331 of 603) while Johnston is eighth in WVU's career list with 2889 yards (192 of 360). Crandell has thrown 30 touchdown passes to Johnston's 22 career TDs. Johnston opened the 1995 season with a 390-yard performance against Purdue just two weeks ago, the second best of his career, while Crandell threw for 392 yards and 453 yards total offense against Syracuse three weeks ago.

SMITH HONORED AT HALFTIME

ECU's all-time leading rusher, Junior Smith, will be honored at halftime as the recipient of the Hitachi "Promise of Tomorrow" award. The former Pirate standout was also recognized in the Spring for his academic achievement when named as the Texasgulf Outstanding Male Scholar-Athlete. Smith is currently on the roster for the CFL's Shreveport Pirates where he has rushed for 234 yards on 53 carries. He also has 12 catches for 104 yards. Read more about the Hitachi "Promise of Tomorrow" Award on page 110.

COOPER GETS TWO INTERCEPTIONS

Less than a year ago, Hank Cooper thought his collegiate career may have come to an end when he had to undergo knee reconstruction for torn ligaments. Against Illinois on Saturday, however, Cooper proved he is back at the top of his game, picking off two Illini passes and accounting for eight tackles. The senior from Smyrna, Ga., has started since his redshirt-freshman season (1992) and now has seven career INTs. Among his career highlights is a 95-yard interception return for a touchdown against Cincinnati as a freshman. The play is tied for the second longest in ECU's history.

MCPHAIL HONORED AS "KING OF THE GRIDIRON"

Senior Jerris McPhail was named "King of the Gridiron" for his effort against Central Michigan on Sept. 16. McPhail rushed for 178 yards and one touchdown against the Chippewas and also had two catches for 20 yards. The "King of the Gridiron" scholarship is presented at each home football game to the outstanding ECU football player for that game as voted on by the media in attendance. The scholarship, which has been given for the 19th consecutive season by Mr. R.W. Moore of Raleigh, is presented to the Pirate Club in the name of the deserving player and the money is then contributed to the general athletic scholarship fund.

LIBERTY BOWL

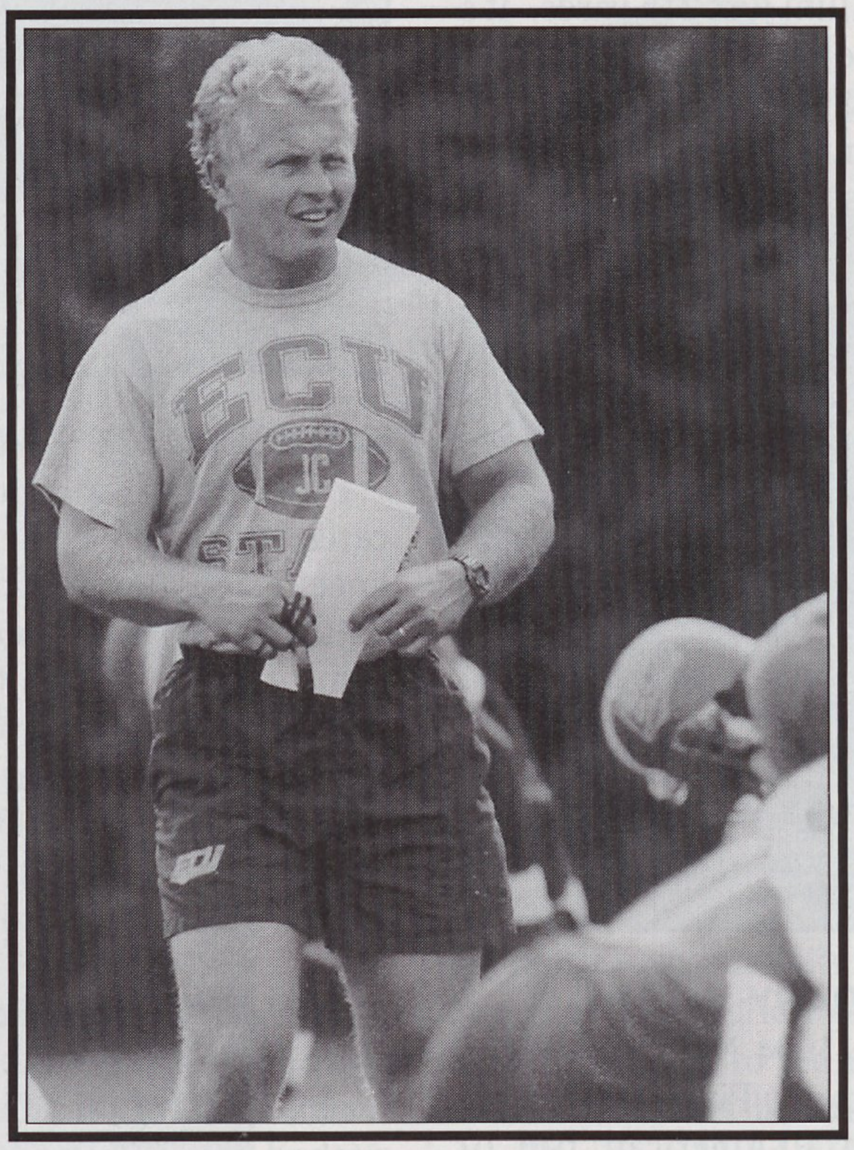

PIRATES AND LIBERTY BOWL SIGN NEW DEAL

While ECU looks to defend its 1994 Liberty Bowl Alliance Championship, it was announced last week that the Pirates will continue their association with the Liberty Bowl for two more seasons, extending into 1997. A multi-year contract has been signed matching ECU or the Conference USA champion against the fourth selection of the Big East Conference in the 1996 and 1997 post-season bowl. The Liberty Bowl Alliance for 1995 includes ECU, Cincinnati, Memphis, Southern Mississippi and Tulane. Find updated Alliance standings on page 70.

BEHIND THE SCENES

ECU Strength & Conditioning Program Is the "Heart of the Pirates"

By Eric Bartels
ECU SID Student Assistant

Jeff Connors has been with the Pirate program since 1991.

For major college football programs, the building of strength and the conditioning of an athlete is key element in establishing a successful team.

Here at East Carolina, the Pirate strength and conditioning program, if not one of the best in North Carolina, is one of the best in the nation. Strength and conditioning director and coach Jeff Connors is a great attribute in the developing of the Pirate football program as well as individual members.

"Jeff Connors is an integral part of our football program," coach Logan said. "He is a right-hand man to the coaches."

In 1994, coach Connors along with coach Logan, established the "Heart of the Pirate" award in recognition of a senior football player who demonstrated not only the best physical attributes in training and preparation, but the most determination to succeed.

With out a doubt, last year's award winner was running back Junior Smith, who not only became ECU's all-time leading rusher, but was simultaneously an ECU scholar athlete. Smith, who obtained the most Pirate points based on a merit system, achieved excellence on and off the field while representing ECU's football program.

"He had great desire: he would never come out of a football game even if he was playing with pain," coach Connors said. "He was always willing to hit — he never shied away from contact."

The "Heart of the Pirate" award in only its second year of existence is more than an award. As coach Connors said it best, "It's something that they can take with them when the leave here [ECU] and apply to their lives." The foundation for the "Heart of the Pirate" is to build and emphasize the most important part of the human being — the heart.

"A heart makes a player a winner and a winner a champion," Connors said. "The heart is the inner-most part of the mind and a very powerful source."

Without proper motivation and the building and refining of the individual athlete, a high level of success could never get achieved. Utilizing various principles, Connors discusses weekly with the team the importance of each of the qualities that define the developing, the strengthening and conditioning of the heart.

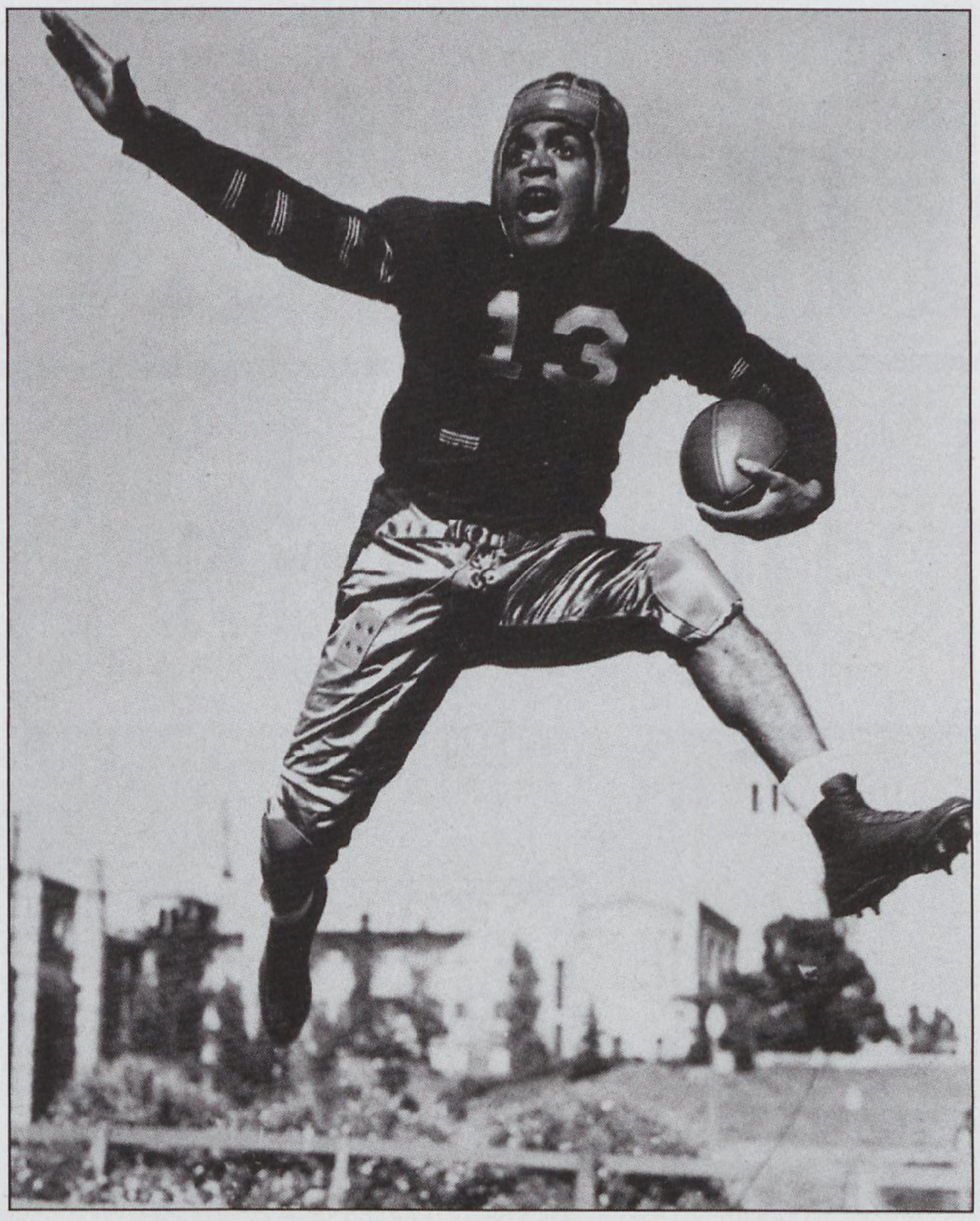

"So far [this season] we have defined the heart and incorporated tenacity, patience, discipline, and light-mindedness," Connors said. "If we can develop all of our players like that [Junior Smith] then that will complement us wherever we are physically and it will help us bring our physical attributes to the field."

Building football dynasties at East Carolina will be easy compared to the meticulous training schedule that Connors administers to his players. The Pirate football team trained, a year ago, 26 weeks straight from the hot and steamy month of August until the frigid month of December.

Coach Connors, a Salem College (W. Va.) alumnus, came to ECU prior to the beginning of the 1991 football season. His previous collegiate coaching stints found him at Bucknell where he headed the strength and conditioning program from 1989-91.

His extensive involvement with ECU's strength and conditioning program has sent him all over the country. This past summer, Connors participated as a guest speaker at the National Strength and Conditioning Association in Phoenix, Ariz. He also earned Regional Director of the Year honors for the NSCA, while receiving a nomination for National Strength Coach of the Year.

This year's senior class is loaded with talent which will make Connors' decision even more difficult. With Jerris McPhail, Morris Foreman, Walter Scott and Emmanuel McDaniel heading the list of prospective "Heart of the Pirate" candidates, beating a nationally-ranked Syracuse team may have been an easier task.

After scoring the winning touchdown, Earl suddenly realizes he has nothing to wear to the victory party.

Serving a 29 county region of over 1.8 million people, the University Medical Center is a 711 bed level-one trauma center and teaching hospital where miracles are taking place everyday.

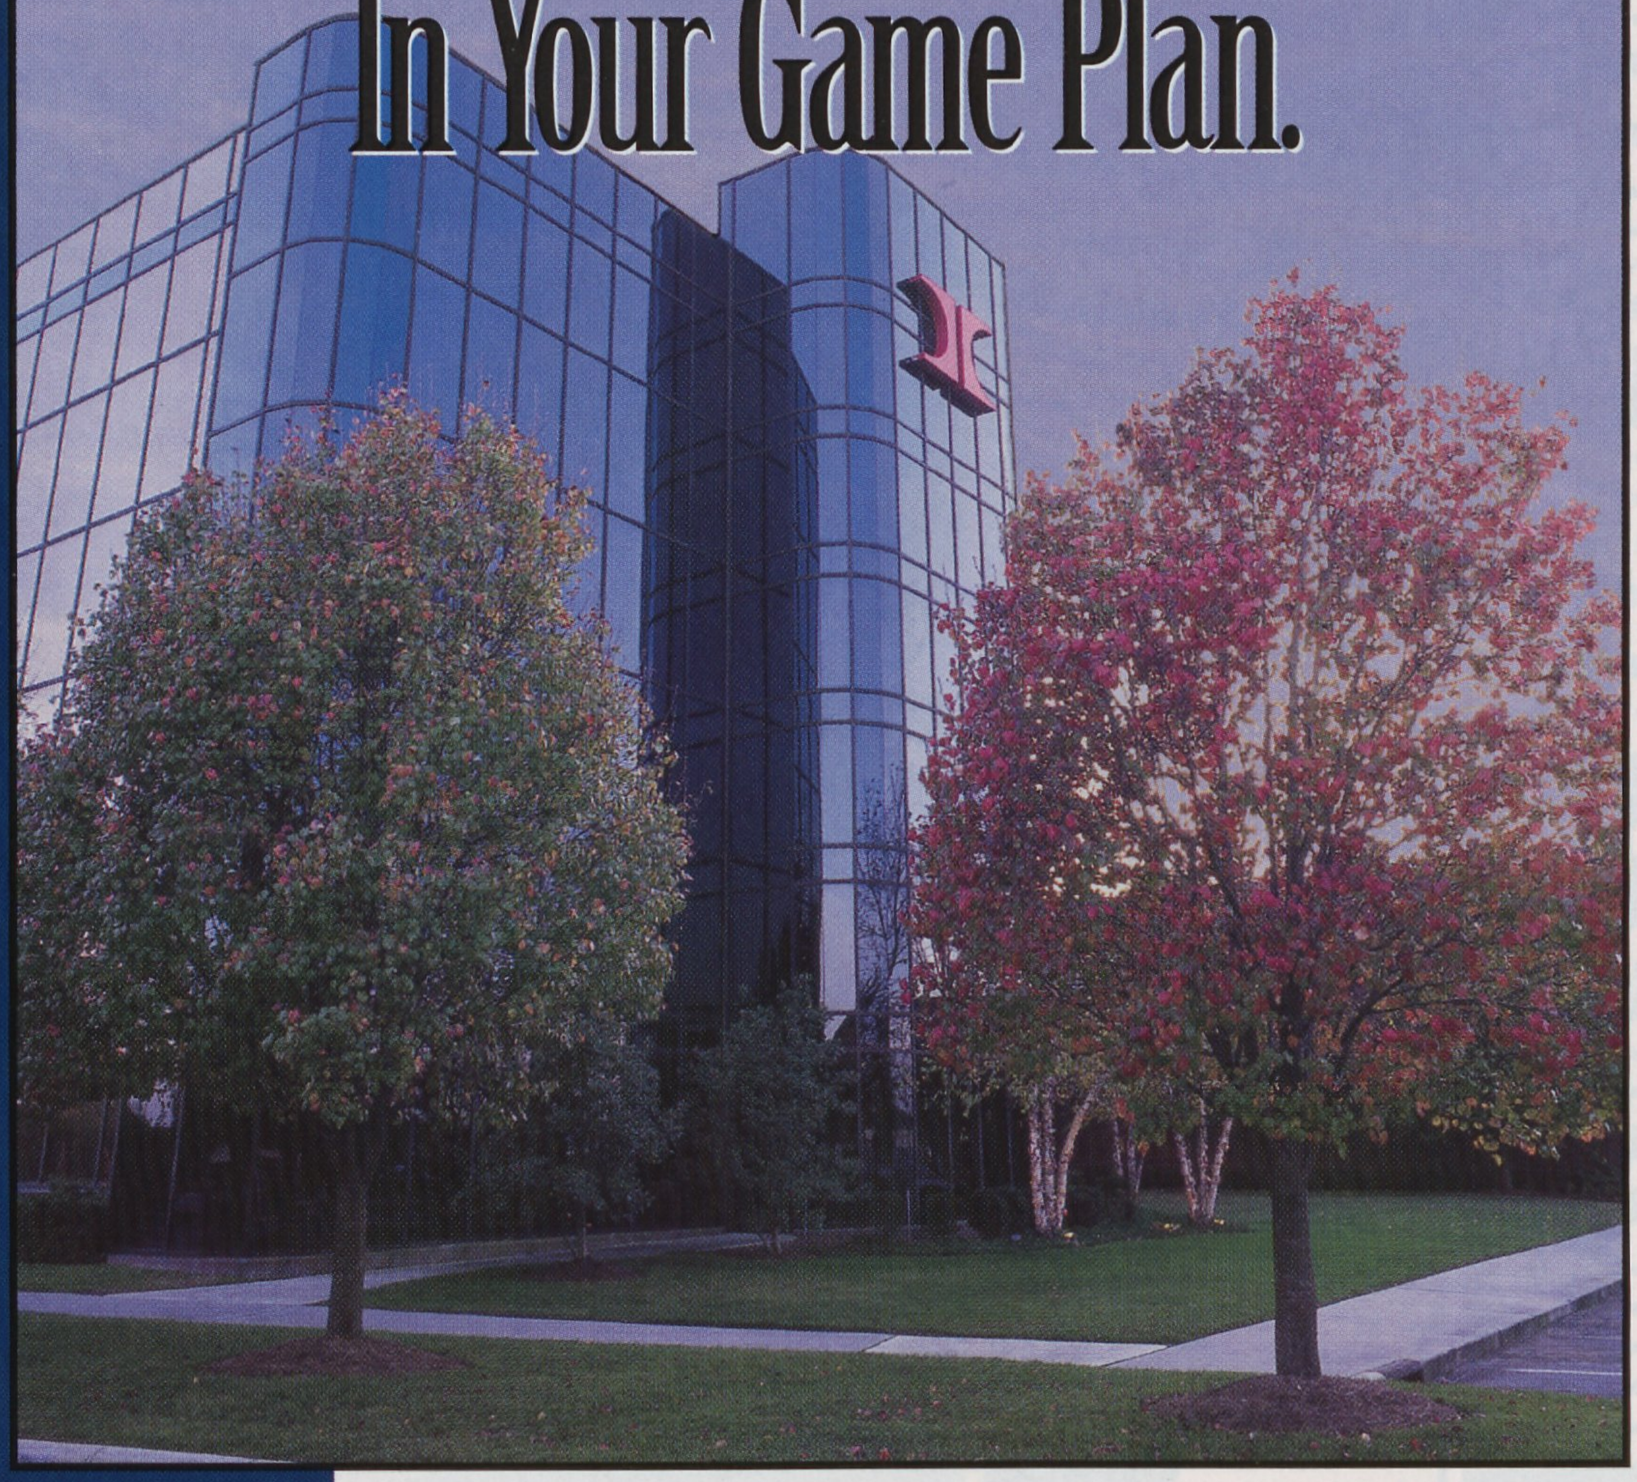

Just last year, we delivered over 3,250 babies and performed nearly 1,000 open heart surgeries. We're making a difference in life with specialized centers of care for cancer, heart disease, rehabilitation and pediatrics. We're one of the few medical centers with a mobile neonatal unit so premature babies are carefully transported to our advanced neonatal unit. When time is of the essence, East Care takes to the skies for emergency air services.

The University Medical Center is a highly sophisticated medical facility leading the way for quality healthcare in eastern North Carolina as well as across the state. It's the reason we're feeling good with healthcare in the East!

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Welcome Pirate Fans to ECU and Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium!

I want to thank you and all the faithful Pirate fans who have so openly welcomed my family and me to East Carolina University. As I've said since the beginning, I am truly excited about being a Pirate and leading this program into the next decade.

There is so much to look forward to as we begin a new academic year. Following are just a few of the things on the horizon for the athletics program:

• Shared Visions Campaign ... the campaign is about to wind up after three years of united effort by the University. The money raised for athletics will mean expansion and renovation of facilities, endowment for additional athletics scholarships, and continued endowment of our student development program.

• In-State Competitions ...with the support of state legislators, negotiations are in the works to resume home-and-home scheduling of our sister schools, N.C. State and UNC Chapel Hill, in football. This will be a great addition to our schedules and an incentive to those fans who have not already joined the Pirate Club to do so.

• ESPN Contract ... the guarantee of at least one nationally televised game per year is significant to our program and hopefully will lead to other TV appearances.

• Liberty Bowl Alliance ... the people from Memphis have exhibited a sincere sense of commitment to negotiating with us about our future involvement with the Liberty Bowl in some form. Surely they cannot forget the many Pirate fans who visited Memphis this past year.

We thank you for your past and continuing support of the ECU Pirate programs. Without you, none of these things would be possible.

Go Pirates!

Mike Hamrick
Director of Athletics

Mike Hamrick, Athletics Director at University of Arkansas-Little Rock for the past five years, was named Director of Athletics at East Carolina University on April 25.

Hamrick, 37, replaced Dave Hart, Jr., who left ECU in mid-March to become the Athletics Director at Florida State University.

During Hamrick's tenure at UALR, he engineered the Trojans move into the Sun Belt Conference. Twice before Hamrick's arrival in Little Rock, UALR had been turned down for Sun Belt Conference membership. Also, UALR added two sports - men's and women's golf - and funds for women's scholarships increased by over 200 percent. He also supervised a $600,000 fund-raising effort for facility improvements at UALR and increased annual fund-raising dramatically.

Also at UALR, Hamrick initiated the UALR STARS (Students Taking Academic Responsibilities Seriously) Program to enhance student-athlete academic performance. The cumulative GPA of student-athlete rose to an astonishing 2.94.

The Trojans men's basketball program has taken off under Hamrick. In 1994, Hamrick hired Wimp Sanderson, the Southeastern Conference Coach of the Decade during the 1980s while at Alabama, to coach the Trojan's men's basketball program and it immediately began to pay dividends. The Trojans, who were 13-15 in 1993-94, improved to 17-12 this past season.

Arkansas-Little Rock also played host to the Sun Belt Conference Men's Basketball Tournament this past season, finishing second to Western Kentucky. Hamrick secured the 1996 tournament for Little Rock before his departure to ECU.

Before going to Arkansas-Little Rock, Hamrick served as Assistant Athletics Director at Illinois State University from 1984-90.

At ISU, Hamrick initiated and coordinated all departmental external activities and efforts to generate revenue from private contributions, promotional and marketing programs, ticket sales, merchandising and advertising. He also served as Director of the Redbird Educational and Scholarship Fund, where donations rose from $125,000 to $900,000 per year over a five-year period. Hamrick coordinated the campaign to solicit $1,000,000 to help fund the construction of Illinois State's new sports arena and also negotiated all football scheduling and coordinated the Redbird radio and television network.

Hamrick worked as Assistant to the Director of Athletics at the University of Kansas from 1982-84. He initiated and implemented the department's entire promotional and marketing scheme and supervised nine non-revenue sports.

He began his professional career at the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, where he served as Director of Athletic Promotions from 1981-82.

While at ISU, Hamrick worked with current Wake Forest Athletics Director Ron Wellman. He also worked with Bob Frederick, AD at Kansas, who is the chairman of the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Committee.

A 1980 graduate of Marshall University, Hamrick played football where he was a two-year starter (1978-79) at linebacker. He received a master's degree in Sports Administration from Ohio University in 1981, where he also served as an assistant football coach.

Hamrick and his wife, Soletta, are the parents of three children - twin sons, Brett and Justin, and daughter Mollie Ann.

Pirate Head Coach

Steve Logan

The practice fields are the classroom. Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium is the final exam. Steve Logan is the teacher.

It's the way the fourth-year East Carolina head coach prefers it.

"When I sat down and asked myself what I enjoyed most about coaching," said Logan, "it was the teaching that I enjoyed most and if teaching is what I enjoy then I would be teaching on Saturday as well."

If you spent time watching Logan on the sidelines, you'll get a feel how the 42-year-old coach uses Saturdays as another teaching tool.

He'll take one of his young quarterbacks on the sidelines and discuss different plans, options and ideas. It's a two-way conversation and the best way for a student-athlete to know what he's doing right and what he's doing wrong.

"He doesn't pressure you, he doesn't yell at you, but he makes sure you understand what you did wrong," said Jeff Blake, former Pirate and current Cincinnati Bengals quarterback. "He makes sure you know everything about the game. He taught me how to keep my composure, how to be a leader."

The teaching and leadership roles continue also off the playing and practice fields. The Lawton, Okla. native, feels that if student-athletes are going to be the best they are going to be, it requires self-discipline, hard work and dedication.

Members of the football squad are told three things by Logan about playing football at East Carolina: 1) if you go to class and practice hard, you will play; 2) have fun playing the game of football, and; 3) play as hard as possible on every play and the wins and losses will take care of themselves.

"I like to see the responsibility for the little things fall upon the players rather than for me telling them to do it," said Logan.

"We never talk to our student-athletes about winning and losing - never," continues Logan. "We talk to them about showing up, playing every play as hard as they can play it and play to the last play of the game. We don't care who it is we're playing. We give a ton of respect to whoever that may be, home or on the road."

Using that philosophy, Logan helped direct the Pirates to a berth in the 1994 St. Jude Liberty Bowl. The Pirates won the Liberty Bowl Alliance and played Illinois in the Liberty Bowl.

Logan developed much of his philosophy through the influence of several head coaches. He worked on the staff of current Ohio State coach John Cooper at Tulsa, with former Dallas Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson at Oklahoma State, with Bill McCartney, formerly at Colorado, and with Bill Lewis at ECU.

When Lewis resigned to take the head coaching position at Georgia Tech, Logan was eager to take the role as head coach, ECU's 17th in school history.

Logan is mostly credited with the development of the Pirate offensive attack during the 1990-91 seasons when he was ECU's offensive coordinator. In 1991, ECU finished the season with an 11-1 record and reached a Top Ten national ranking.

During the 1990-91 seasons, Logan coached quarterback Jeff Blake. The Sanford, Fla. native broke or tied 32 school records before leaving ECU, including most passing yards in a game, season and career. He was named the 1991 ECAC Player of the Year.

Logan continues to monitor the offensive side of the football closely. He still coaches the quarterbacks but also makes his way around the practice field to observer his coaches in action.

In 1992, it was Michael Anderson's turn to rewrite ECU record books. The Decatur, Ga. native, broke or tied 12 school records, including all of the school's sophomore records.

This season, as in the last two seasons, Logan has tutored another young signal-caller with outstanding potential - Marcus Crandell. The Robersonville, N.C. junior, broke or tied 14 school records in 1994 after suffering a broken leg in the second game of the 1993 season, missing most of that year.

"I loved working with the kids and having an impact on their decisions in and outside of football," said Logan. "That, and the intrigue of competitive strategy, really hooked me."

Logan, an avid tennis player, and his wife, Laura, are the proud parents of two sons - Vincent (13) and Nathanael (11).

EAST CAROLINA UNIVERSITY

East Carolina University, a diverse, comprehensive university, is known for the quality and breadth of its academic programs and for its pursuit of excellence in a variety of activities.

With an enrollment of nearly 18,000 students, ECU is the third-largest institution of the 16-campus University of North Carolina system. It has a work force of more than 3,500, a faculty numbering more than 1,100 and a budget of almost $290 million.

The campus today is alive not only with the activities of its students and faculty but also with the whir and clatter of construction crews. More than 20 percent of the campus is under construction or renovation or will be in the next few months. Among the prominent projects are the Student Recreation Center, which will be completed in the spring of 1996, and the additions and renovations to Joyner Library, which will be under way for three years.

ECU students come from all 100 of North Carolina's counties, 45 states and 38 nations. Of the students, 57 percent are women, 83 percent are undergraduates and 13 percent are minorities.

The university offers 102 undergraduate degree tracks and 88 graduate degree tracks. It confers more than 3,000 degrees annually, and it has close to 75,000 living alumni.

Here is a selection of other distinctions of ECU:

- It has the largest teacher-education program in North Carolina and the 15th largest in the nation.
- It has one of the largest art schools in the Southeast and the only art program in North Carolina accredited by the National Association of Schools of Art and Design. The Wellington B. Gray Gallery is one of the largest contemporary art galleries in North Carolina.
- The School of Medicine has ranked No. 1 nationally in the percentage of graduates entering primary care fields.
- The School of Social Work is the only one in North Carolina with both undergraduate and graduate programs accredited by the National Council on Social Work Education.
- In the School of Human Environmental Sciences, the hospitality management program is one of only two such programs in North Carolina. The child life program is the first one in North Carolina.
- The music education program in the School of Music is among the largest and strongest in the Southeastern United States. The music therapy program is the only one in a state-supported school in North Carolina.
- The school of Business has the second-oldest accredited MBA program in the state.
- The university has state-of-the-art student computing labs campus-wide and some of the finest discipline-specific student computing labs in the nation.
- The Department of English publishes seven scholarly and literary journals: Children's Folklore Review, The Concord Saunterer, Minnesota Review, North Carolina Literary Review, Tar River Poetry, The Thoreau Society Bulletin and Victorians Institute Journal.

Shared Visions

THE CAMPAIGN FOR EAST CAROLINA UNIVERSITY

As East Carolina approaches the latter stages of its first-ever capital campaign, the University and its Athletics Department are experiencing tremendous support from the supporters who "share the vision".

Surpassing the original $50 million goal, the University expects to raise more than $60 million for endowed scholarships, academic expansion, faculty development, student programs and facility improvements.

Included in the goal is $15 miilion needed for ECU Athletics. The East Carolina University Educational Foundation (Pirate Club), one of the University's three non-profit foundations, is in the process of closing out its campaign effort on behalf of the ECU's athletics program.

How does Shared Visions affect you as an ECU supporter?

Four components have been identified within the "working blueprint" for this fund-raising campaign that mean growth and improvement for ECU Athletics and its fans:

✔ Expansion of Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium to accomodate more fans.
✔ Endowment of scholarships to attract the very best student-athletes.
✔ Endowment of the University's model student development program to insure that ECU student-athletes receive strong support in academic, personal and career development.
✔ Construction of a new Pirate Club Building to better serve ECU Athletics' support base.

To reach these goals, the University has established the following financial targets within the Shared Visions Campaign:
✔ $9 million for the expansion of Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium
✔ $1 million to further endow student-athlete scholarship support.
✔ $1 million to endow the student-athlete devlopment program
✔ $1 million to seed construction of a new Pirate Club Building
✔ $3 million in annual scholarship funding

This is where you, as an ECU supporter, come in. Won't you join the more than 500 Pirate fans who share the vision?

Facilities

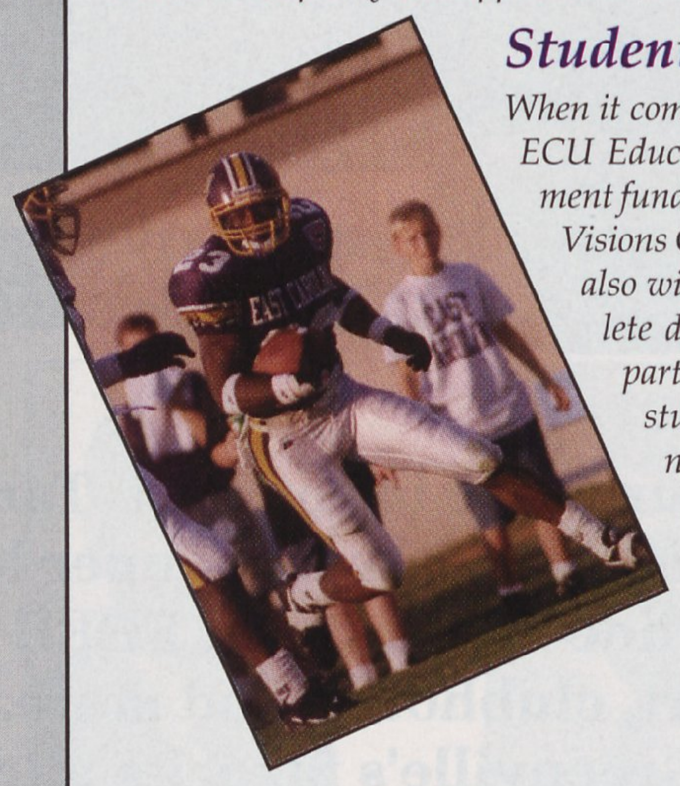

Expansion of Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium to nearly 50,000 seats is crucial to the financial health of ECU's athletics program. Dedicated in 1963, with a seating capacity of 20,000, the stadium was expanded to its present capacity of 35,000 season in 1978. Further expansion will provide:

✔Opportunity to schedule six versus five home football games annually.

✔Opportunity to upgrade home football scheduling with major Division I-A institutions by increasing ECU Athletics capability of paying larger guarantees.

✔Opportunity for major conference affiliation for ECU's football program.

Revised expansion plans call for the construction of an 8,000-seat deck atop the north side of Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium and 3,000 permanent bleacher seating in the east end zone. Following this expansion phase, further plans call for construction of a new two-story press box/club seating facility atop the south side of the stadium, followed by construction of a 10,000-seat deck above the two-story press box/club seating facility. Following completion of this phase, Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium's capacity will approach 60,000 seats.

Student-Athletes

When it comes to student-athlete scholarship funding, the ECU Educational Foundation has increased its endowment fund to nearly $2.5 million as a result of the Shared Visions Campaign. The ECU Educational Foundation also wishes to endow its comprehensive student-athlete development program within the athletics department. It should be noted that last year, ECU's student-athlete development program was recognized along with program at Penn State, Ohio State, Arizona and Georgia Tech, as being a model student-athlete development program by the Division I-A Athletics Director's Association.

Continued Support

The ECU Educational Foundation seeks to raise $1 million to seed construction of a new Pirate Club Building to be built to the front of Minges Coliseum. The two-story structure will house Pirate Club and ECU Athletics Ticket Office is on the first floor and a 500-seat banquet multipurpose facility on the building's second floor. Such a building is necessary, in order to meet the needs of an increasing Pirate Club membership.

ECU Chancellor

For Chancellor Richard R. Eakin, the terms "academics" and "athletics" are not mutually exclusive, but mutually reinforcing. He knows from personal experience.

As a Geneva College undergraduate, he majored in mathematics and physics while a member of the basketball team. He also served as President of the Student Senate and Class Valedictorian and was graduated in 1960 with the honor summa cum laude.

Today Dick Eakin is in his ninth year as ECU's chief executive officer and his leadership mark is evident throughout ECU, including athletics.

He has a vision of greatness for ECU and leads in the belief that the university can build upon and add to its elements of distinction and strong tradition for excellence in teaching, research, regional services, and athletics.

With enthusiasm and remarkable stamina, Dr. Eakin pursues this vision around the clock and on-the-road as ECU's highly visible top ambassador.

Strategic planning has been the linchpin of the Chancellor's administration. From it have evolved new degree programs, new and stronger centers for excellence, campus beautification and modernization of facilities, an emphasis on computer technology for students and faculty, and an energetic, focused fund-raising plan for academics, athletics, and medicine.

Improved campus life and student services continue to be high on the Chancellor's agenda. Under his direction, the campus has a new state-of-the-art dining hall and is building a student recreation and wellness center, and a $30 million addition to the campus library. ECU's reputation as one of the leading family practice, primary care medical schools in the country is being enhanced with new centers for treatment of cancer, diabetes, heart disease, and alcohol and drug abuse.

In pursuit of ECU's goals, Chancellor Eakin holds leadership positions with the Southern Association for Colleges and Schools (SACS) and the College Football Association (CFA), and is in the forefront of economic and community development in Greenville and throughout eastern North Carolina. He was chairman of the CFA Board of Directors during 1993-94.

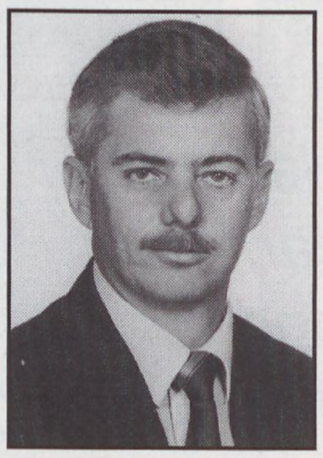

Before his ECU appointment in 1987, Dr. Eakin served for 23 years as a member of the mathematics faculty at Bowling Green State University, where he was also a vice president.

A native of New Castle, Pennsylvania, Dr. Eakin was awarded a master's degree as well as a doctorate in mathematics with a minor in economics from Washington State University. He and his wife, the former Jo Ann McGeehan, have two adult children, Matthew of Charlotte and Maridy of Raleigh.

TEAMWORK!

Teams, not individuals, win the game. The quarterback, the running back, the center, the defensive linemen, the safety... . It takes the efforts of every one of them to win the game.

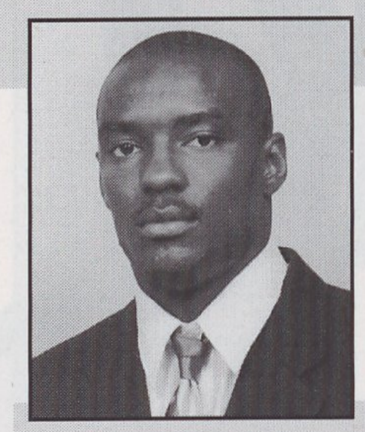

R.W. Moore's team is just as deep. Staff...product support representatives...service technicians...the parts department...the accounting staff. In the field or behind the desk, they're all essential members of our winning team.

The next time you need to buy heavy equiment, make sure you join a winning team. Call R.W. Moore Equipment Co.

Here's To the Pirates

by Mitch Doub, Joe Distefano, Tom Goolsby, Phil Marnell

Here's to the Pirates of ECU!
We're going to raise our battle flag high,
We're going to sing it long,
Shout it loud;
And then they'll know
That we are Pirate Proud.
Because the battle's been fought,
And now it's won,
And everybody knows
that we're Number One!
Because we're full of Pride,
We've got them bowing to our side,
Here's to ECU!

Why Pirates?

The Pirate, a symbol of East Carolina University and its athletic teams, was adopted from the legend and lore of coastal North Carolina and was a natural choice for the nickname when intercollegiate athletics began at the school more than 57 years ago.

Pirates, fierce and colorful, were prominent in North Carolina's colonial period. The state's Outer Banks which jut far out into the Atlantic were ideal hideouts for these legendary gangsters of the high seas. Many had homes and families in small villages along the Carolina coast.

East Carolina University's interest in pirates and sea lore began in 1934. That year, the Tecoan, the yearbook for what was then East Carolina Teachers College, carried pirates as its theme. The pages were filled with paintings and sketches of patched eye figures, tall ships and buried treasure. The book referred to the tales of the infamous "Teachy the Pirate" often told by natives in the nearby historic town of Bath.

WE ARE THE PIRATES ... E-C-U!!!

Retired Numbers

Four numbers have been retired in the history of East Carolina University's football program. Those are numbers 16, 18, 29 and 36.

The jersey number 16 was last worn by Robert Farris, a kicker from Falls Church, Va. Farris was killed in an automobile accident while returning to campus for fall practice prior to his senior season in 1967.

The jersey number 18 was last worn by Norman Swindell, a blocking back from New Bern. The most valuable player on the 1965 team, Swindell drowned new his home during the Christmas holidays following the 1965 season.

The jersey number 29 was worn by James Speight, running back from Greenville. The MVP of the 1957 and 1959 squads, Speight still holds the school record for the most points in a single game with 26, while sixth on the all-time rushing list with 2,276 career yards.

The jersey number 36 was worn by Roger Thrift, a quarterback from New Bern. He earned letters during the 1949 and 1950 seasons. His jersey was retired by the Student Government Association.

Speight and Thrift are members of the ECU Athletics Hall of Fame.

ECU Athletics

A Program for the 90's

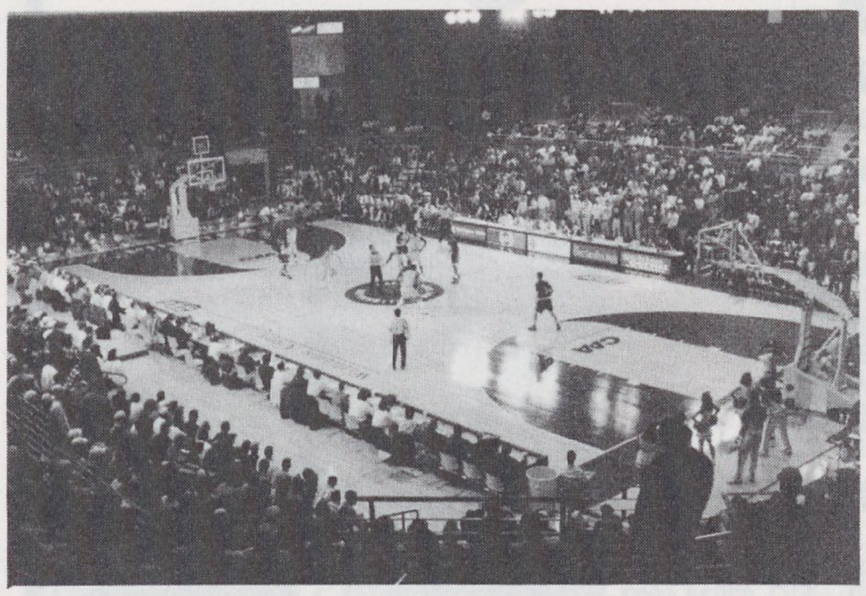

Entering the half-way point of the 1990's, the East Carolina Athletics Department continues to maintain a high standard of excellence throughout the Colonial Athletic Association, as well as on a national basis.

ECU has come a long way since 1965, their first year as a NCAA Division I member. The commitment and dedication toward Pirate Athletics has never been so to football, other sports, including women's athletic events will be broadcast in the exclusive national television package.

eminent, with renovations and upgrading of facilities, both today and in the near future.

In 1994, Williams Arena at Minges Coliseum, the home of the ECU men's and women's basketball squads and volleyball team, went through major renovation becoming a state-of-the-art facility.

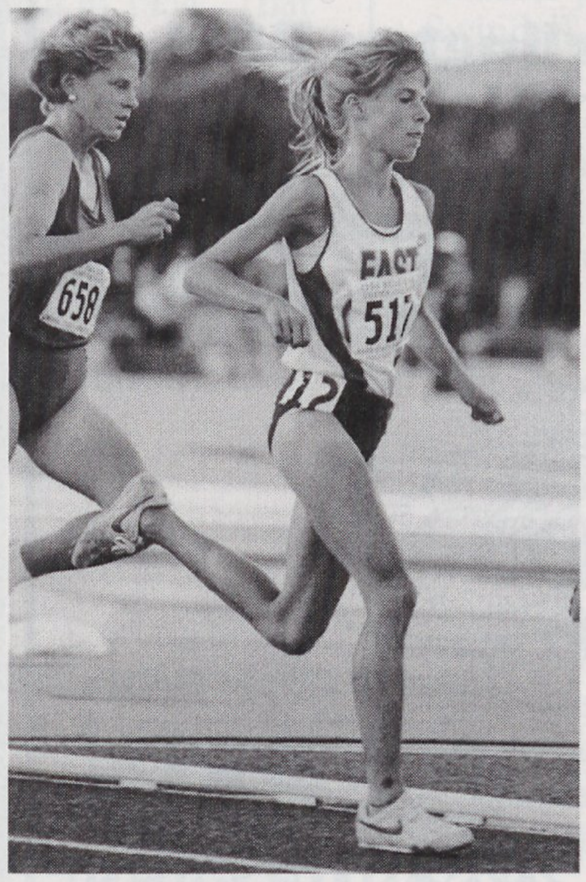

Following the renovation to Minges Coliseum, the shift will turn to Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium, where the home of the Pirate football team will sport a new look heading into the 21st century. The upgrade is scheduled to increase the seating capacity to 50,000, while adding a new state-of-the-art press box by the year 1998.

Perhaps the most exciting news for East Carolina Athletics in the 90's was in February, 1995, when ESPN announced a multi-year agreement to air ECU football through the end of the decade. In addition

The success of the ECU athletic programs in the 1990's have played an important role in this circle of events. The Pirates have showcased many fond memories the ECU faithful will never forget.

In 1991, the ECU football team ranked ninth in the nation after finishing the season with an 11-1 record and a 37-34 victory over N.C. State in the Peach Bowl.

Two years later, the men's basketball squad got hot at the right time, winning three consecutive games at the CAA Tournament, thus gaining a berth in "March Madness". Eddie Payne's Pirates faced number one ranked and eventual national champion, North Carolina in the first round of the tournament in Greensboro, N.C.

The ECU baseball team has continued their rich tradition on the diamond. Since capturing the 1961 NAIA National Championship, the Pirates have won 10 conference titles in three different conferences, including five crowns in the CAA. ECU has gained five berths in the NCAA Regional Tournaments over the past 10 years.

Also during the 1990's, ECU has a strangle hold on the CAA golf title, having won the league title five straight years.

In 1994, ECU had its first NCAA female All-America, as Dava Rhodes claimed eighth place in the 10,000-run at the NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

The Pirates have had their fair share of players winning the NCAA crowns in individual statistics during the 90's. In 1992, softball pitcher Jenny Parsons led the nation in wins, while teammate Michelle Ward set a new record for stolen bases in a season. During the 1992-93 women's basketball season, Gaynor O'Donnell finished number one in the nation in assists per game average.

ECU has turned out numerous athletes that have gone on to the professional ranks including; Robert Jones and John Jett of the Dallas Cowboys, Jeff Blake of the Cincinnati Bengals, Theodore "Blue" Edwards of the NBA's Boston Celtics, as well as Bob Patterson of the California Angels.

However, the success isn't just on the fields, or courts. ECU has built a highly-regarded athletic student development program. The goal at ECU is to recreate an atmosphere where the student-athlete can become well-rounded in all aspects of life. ECU has been chosen as one of five institutions nationwide to serve in an advisory role for the NCAA Life Skills Program.

The program has paid off tremendously, as at least seven recent student-athletes earning GTE-CoSIDA Academic All-America honors. ECU also garnered honorable mention honors by the College Football Association for football graduation rates for the last two years season.

As the 21st century approaches, ECU looks to carry on its tradition of having a solid and "well-rounded" athletics department.

The Cowboys meet the Redskins every night.

There's a place in Greenville that's winning over new fans every day. A restaurant where you'll find the perfect match-up of low-key country music and the sound of peanut shells crunching on the floor. And a friendly staff that's fast on their feet and quick with a smile.

Of course, we're talking about Lone Star Steakhouse & Saloon. Now don't fill up on the peanuts; the good times and great food are just beginning.

Lone Star is the only restaurant where you can enjoy the true flavor of real mesquite. And while we're famous for our filets, ribeyes, and New York strips you just might want to try our chicken, seafood, or maybe tackle a rack or two of our mouth-watering baby-back ribs. Whatever you're in the mood for, we serve it up in Texas-sized portions with all the trimmings at lunch and dinner.

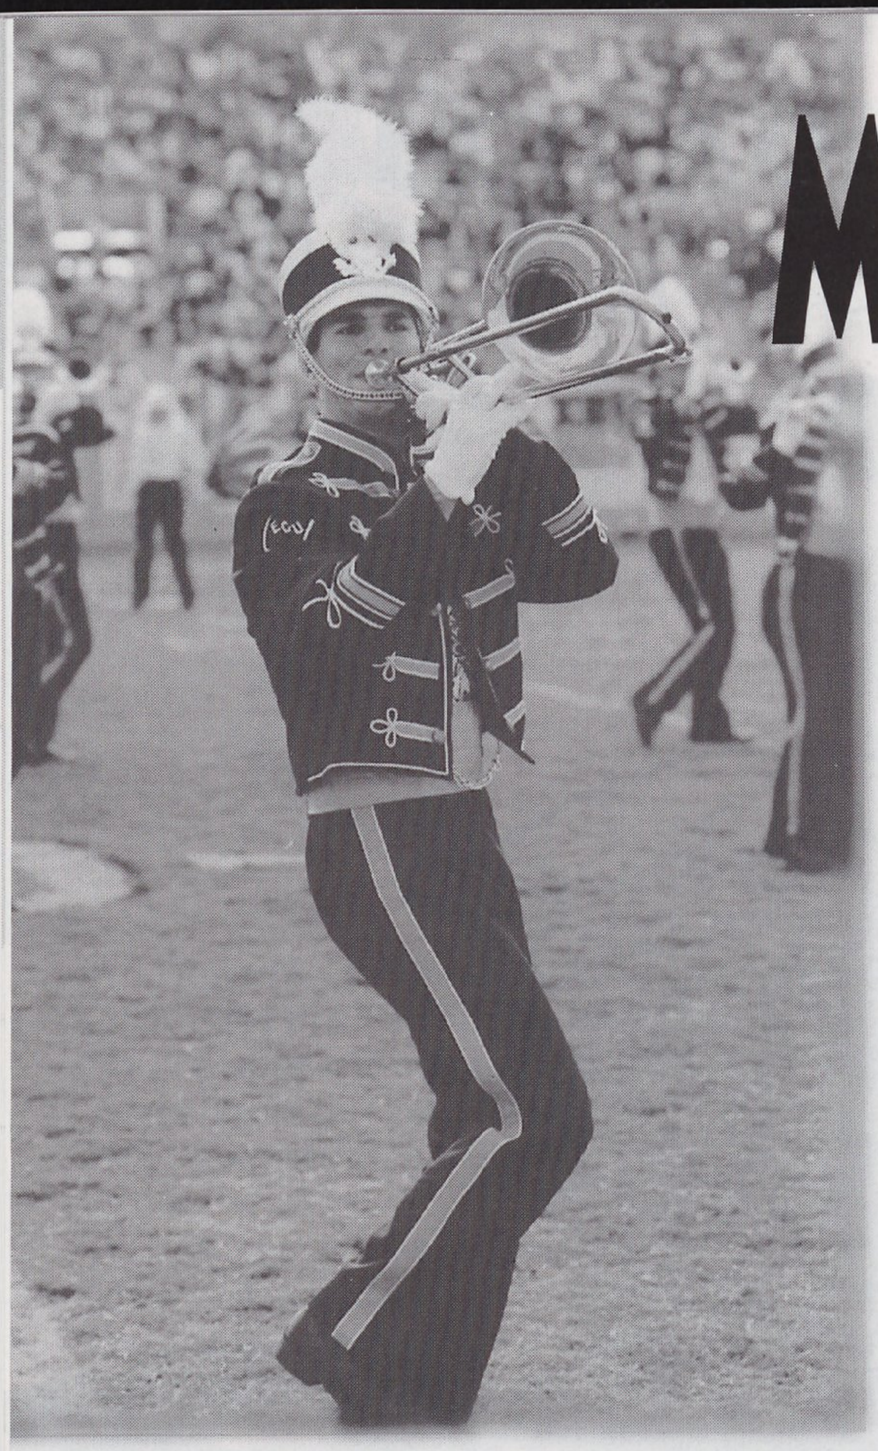

So give us a try we're not far from the stadium. Cowboy boots not required.

The College Classroom According to Margaret Capen

Each week, we'll take you on campus and in the classrooms at East Carolina University for the latest in educational techniques, theories and projects. This week's feature on the School of Business' Margaret Capen is the second of this year's series.

By George Threewitts
ECU News Bureau

Few would argue with Margaret Capen's candor about her field of expertise.

"Statistics," she said, "can be very dry." But Dr. Capen's School of Business classes on statistical analysis and managerial economics are often standing-room-only because she has the knack for putting pizzazz in this sometimes dreary subject.

Her talent regularly draws praise from her students and faculty colleagues, and this year it brought her the prestigious $7,500 Award for Excellence in Teaching from the Board of Governors. She also won a 1994-95 Advising Award from ECU.

"It is important to get the students interested in the subject, but the motivation comes when the students feel their professors have an interest in them," explained Capen, who teaches in the Department of Decision Sciences.

"We tend to think it is a one-way street. We stand up there. We give a lecture. They are supposed to learn it whether or not they have any motivation to learn it," she said.

She says the first thing she does with a class is to learn the names of the students.

"Since I know who they are, they are more likely to prepare and to participate. Effort on my part thus results in effort on their part," she said.

The South Carolina native joined the business school in 1981 after six years as a graduate assistant at the University of South Carolina.

She grew up in Darlington and knew from the time she was eight years old that she wanted to be a teacher. Her mother taught in the public schools.

Now starting her 15th year at ECU, she continues to impress her colleagues and endear herself to her students with the effort she puts into her profession.

Her teaching effectiveness scores over the years are near perfect. She won the Commerce Club (School of Business Alumni Association) teaching award in 1985 and 1991 and an ECU Teaching Excellence Award in 1991. She was also selected over the past four years as the outstanding teacher in the MBA graduating class.

She teaches a graduate statistics course every semester and gives her students projects that have relevance in industry concerns. Some of the companies benefiting from the projects include Hyster-Yale, Abbott Labs, Carolina Telephone, BB&T and Greenville Utilities.

Dean Ernest Uhr and Decision Sciences Chair Robert Schellenberger nominated Capen for the Board of Governors award. They wrote:

"It is not clear to us whether it is the dynamism of her lectures, the real world emphasis or the commitment of so much time and effort to work with students as their projects evolve that makes students so pleased with her performance. We suspect that it is all of these factors."

Judith Hunt, a management professor, remarked on how Capen's reputation of teaching excellence comes from the students who "have survived very well in courses which originally would have been considered both difficult and potentially boring."

"Managerial economics — no offense to the economists — is one that students dread, but when Maggie is teaching the course it is standing-room-only," she said.

How does she achieve this?

She uses examples from day-to-day living in her lectures. She also motivates her students by letting them get to know her as a person.

She is quick to share a joke with her class, especially tales about people who enjoy statistics. Her office wall and file cabinet are pasted with cartoons about stereotyped "boring" statisticians.

In class, she often uses her pet dogs in statistical examples, and she invites personal questions on nearly all topics except for one — weight.

"I tell my students there is only one thing they can't ask me, related to numbers, and that is my weight. I'll answer any other question, but on that one I'll lie," she said.

More likely, she will invoke the so-called "confidence interval," better known as the "margin of error," and will say that her weight "falls within one or two standard deviations of the average for all five-foot-nine females in the United States."

"Humor helps sell a product or a concept," she said. "I don't see why we can't have a good time and at the same time learn something.

Capen said she also believes in the "golden rule" for instruction — teaching others the way she would like to be taught. But most of all, teaching is her labor of love.

"To me, teaching is a wonderful job. I am getting paid for doing something I love to do. Not too many people can say that and be as happy 15 years into their careers as they were when they started."

Danny Kepley

ECU Hall of Famer Blitzes Broadcast Booth

By Brian Hardy
ECU Sports Information

Danny Kepley, an East Carolina Hall of Famer, is once again making noise in the football world. The former Pirate linebacker great known best for his tenacious style of play that earned him the nick-name "Captain Crunch", is today making waves from the broadcast booth. A ten-year veteran of the Canadian Football's Edmonton Eskimo's, Kepley can be seen regularly on the Canadian Broadcast Corporation's (CBC) broadcasts of CFL football. Kepley has also become a regular on ESPN and ESPN2's coverage of the league.

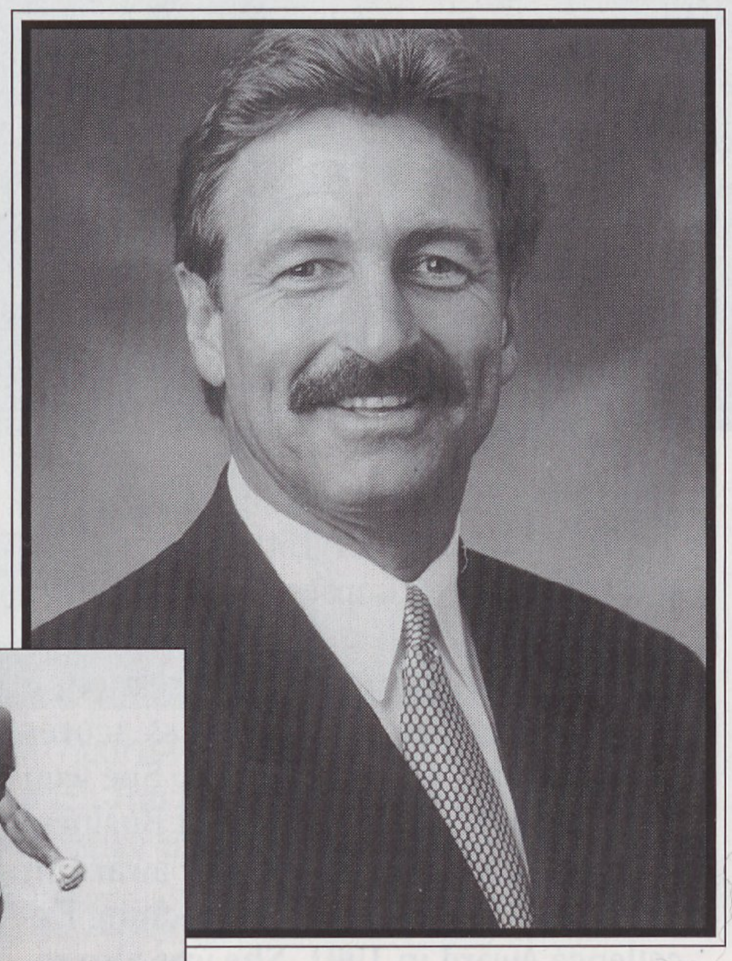

A native of Goldsboro, Kepley left ECU in 1974, however he made a lasting impression on Pirate football during his career. Playing the middle linebacker position for both Sonny Randle and Pat Dye, Kepley became the first player ever at ECU to earn All-America honors when he was named to the AP third team in 1974. "He's the best linebacker in North Carolina and one of the best I have ever seen," said Dye.

As the leader of the so-called "Wild Dogs" defense, Kepley helped lead the Pirates to their third consecutive Southern Conference Championship his senior year, recording 119 tackles, two fumble recoveries, and two interceptions. "It was the greatest time of my life," reminisced Kepley of his years as a Pirate. "To be able to go to school and make friends like Butch Strawderman, Billy Hibbs, and Buddy Lowery is very special."

In 1975, Kepley signed as a free agent with the NFL's Dallas Cowboys. However, that same year, Dallas also drafted three other defensemen in their "Dirty Dozen" draft class including Cowboy greats Randy White, Bob Breunig, and Hollywood Henderson. "They drafted Hollywood in the first round, and the last cut come down to me and him," said Kepley.

From Dallas, the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League came calling for Kepley's services. During his 10-year career with the Eskimos, Kepley was a five-time Western All-Star and a five-time All-Canadian. In 1978, 1980, and 1981 Danny won the prestigious Schenley Award, given to the league's Most-Outstanding-Defensive-Player. Kepley was the leader of the defensive unit that helped lead the Eskimos to six Grey Cup Championships. "We won our first Grey Cup in 1975," recalled Kepley. "Then we won five consecutive cups from 1978 to 1982. That will probably never be equalled."

In 1985, Kepley hung up his cleats but remained with the team to coach the linebackers. After the '85-'86 season, he left the organization for personal reasons. "I didn't adapt too well," said Kepley. "It was the hardest thing that I've ever had to do. I still wanted to be out there."

After a two-year hiatus from football, Kepley returned to the sport he loved when the Eskimos offered him a position with as a radio color commentator. Kepley stayed with the Eskimo Radio Network until 1990 when he learned of an opening with the Canadian Broadcast Corporation as a football analyst for the network's "The CFL on CBC" telecasts. "Ray Lancaster had been doing color for them," said Kepley. "He left CBC to take Edmonton's head coach, so I auditioned."

Since taking the position in 1990, Kepley has built a reputation as a quality broadcaster and has built a large fan base among CFL fans. "Danny brings great insight as a commentator" said CBC publicist Susan Proctor, whose network is considered the ABC of Canada. "He adds a lot to the quality of the broadcasts." Kepley's talent and popularity is demonstrated by his assignments. In one weekend, Kepley may be called upon as many as three times, flying all over North America, covering games. "He is our number one color commentator," said Proctor. "Wherever we go, people want to talk to him. He has high visibility."

In 1994, Kepley success with CBC led to his affiliation with ESPN and ESPN2 with their coverage of the league. "Danny was brought to our attention due to his popularity through CBC," said ESPN Co-ordinating Producer Mo Davenport. "He is enormously knowledgeable of the CFL and his contacts through the league made him a good choice." After splitting time with two other broadcasters in 1994, Danny impressed ESPN executives to the point that they named him the featured color commentator with play-by-play announcer James Curry.

Kepley looks forward to a long career in his new found profession. He says that the CFL has a bright future in Canada and the United States with expansion teams and the possibility of new long-term T.V. contracts with U.S. networks. The CFL currently has 13 teams including five teams in the United States and is the oldest professional sports league in North America.

One of the greatest things for any person in life is to have the opportunity to combine their work with their play. For Kepley, he has been fortunate enough to find a the point where those two mediums intersect. "If I can't play football anymore, then this is the next best thing," said Kepley. "It sure is easier getting out of bed after a game, I can tell you that for sure."

Cary Godette

Former Pirate All-American Now A Member of Inaugural Carolina Panthers' Staff

By Dave Pond
ECU Sports Information

When Dom Capers was hired as the inaugural head coach of the expansion Carolina Panthers, it was important to both he and team owner Jerry Richardson that a number of the team's personnel have football ties to the region.

Enter 1976 East Carolina All-American defensive star Cary Godette.

Godette, 41, possesses a resume dotted with numerous area coaching positions, including two stints with the Pirates.

"I've always wanted to coach on the professional level," Godette said upon being hired by the Panthers as the squad's first defensive line coach, "and am ecstatic with the opportunity to join a new organization and build a winner from the ground up."

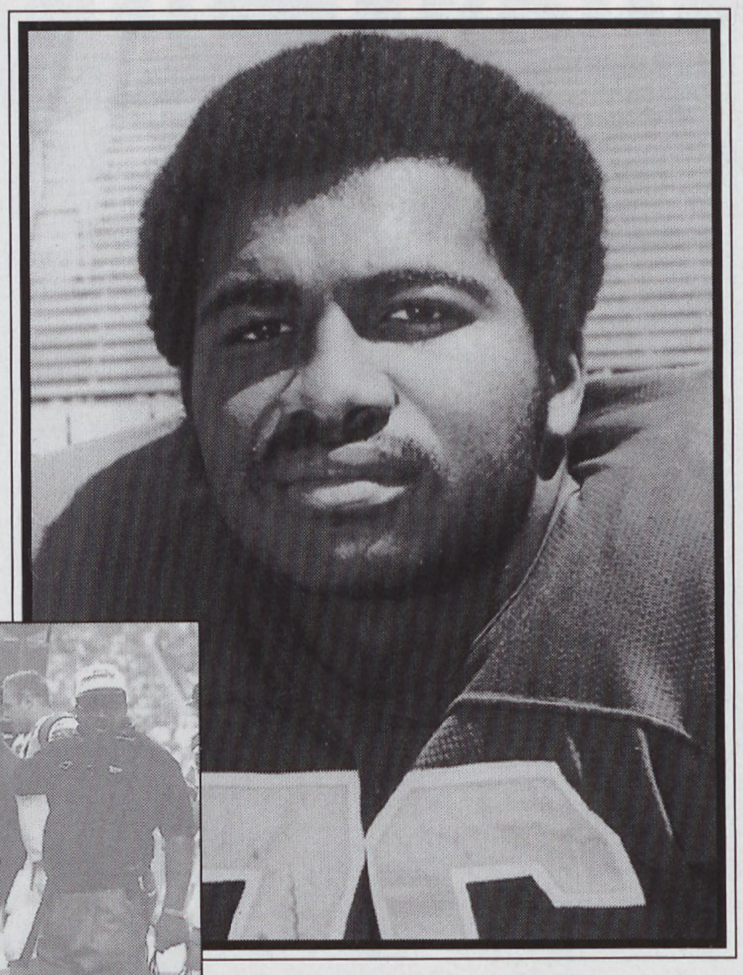

This was not Godette's first true experience with professional coaching. In 1992, Godette worked with Jimmy Johnson's Dallas Cowboys.

"I had the opportunity to work with the defensive line for three weeks in the preseason," he said. "Working with the Cowboys did an excellent job in preparing me for my job with Carolina."

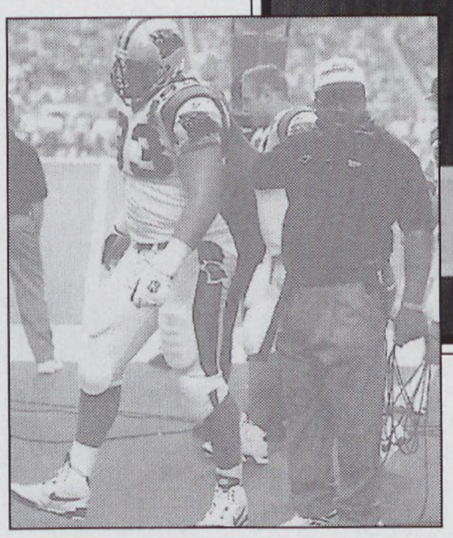

Godette returned for his second ECU coaching stint in 1990 after working as an assistant coach at Fayetteville's Terry Sanford High School for one year. With the announcement of his hiring on January 19, 1990, the New Bern native forecasted big things were ahead for Pirate football.

"I'm really excited about coming back to ECU," Godette said. "I feel that we can get the Pirate program back to the winning tradition that we had [in the past]."

He was right. A year later, the Pirates were on their way to an 11-1 record, a national Top-10 ranking and a Peach Bowl championship.

Godette—A 1976 All-American

Today—Defensive Line Coach for the Carolina Panthers

"The bottom line is that that team was made up of a bunch of guys who busted their butts and played hard through the last play of every game," Godette said. "In 1991 the program was kind of down [in terms of losing seasons], so they had to establish some kind of identity on the field for themselves."

Prior to joining Capers on the Panthers' staff, Godette served as the 1994 defensive line coach for N.C. State, and earned his second Peach Bowl Championship ring in four years.

After coaching at both schools, Godette became increasingly aware of the importance of the ECU-N.C. State football rivalry.

"I played in the second game of the ECU-N.C. State series," he said. "Restarting the series is something that needs to be done. I'm happy to see that the legislators stepped up and made them play each other.

"In January of 1992 [ECU vs. N.C. State Peach Bowl], fans had to travel over 400 miles to see a game that they should have only had to travel 90 miles to see. They went to Atlanta and filled the stadium anyway. These types of regional rivalries are good for college football."

After graduating from East Carolina in 1977 with a B.S. degree in physical education, Godette joined Pat Dye's Pirate coaching staff and served as the schools defensive ends coach from 1977-79. He left ECU in 1980 to coach under Dye at Wyoming.

Godette traded his Wyoming coaching clipboard for that of the Cincinnati Bearcats in 1983, and coached the program's outside linebackers, tight ends and defensive line until 1989, when he returned to Eastern North Carolina and Sanford High.

During his senior season in 1976, Godette registered 54 tackles, including 10 sacks and 16 tackles-for-loss. He was named to numerous All-State teams and was both an AP and RECAP All-American and competed in the 1976 American Bowl.

Almost 20 years later, Godette has used that successful foundation to reach the professional ranks of football.

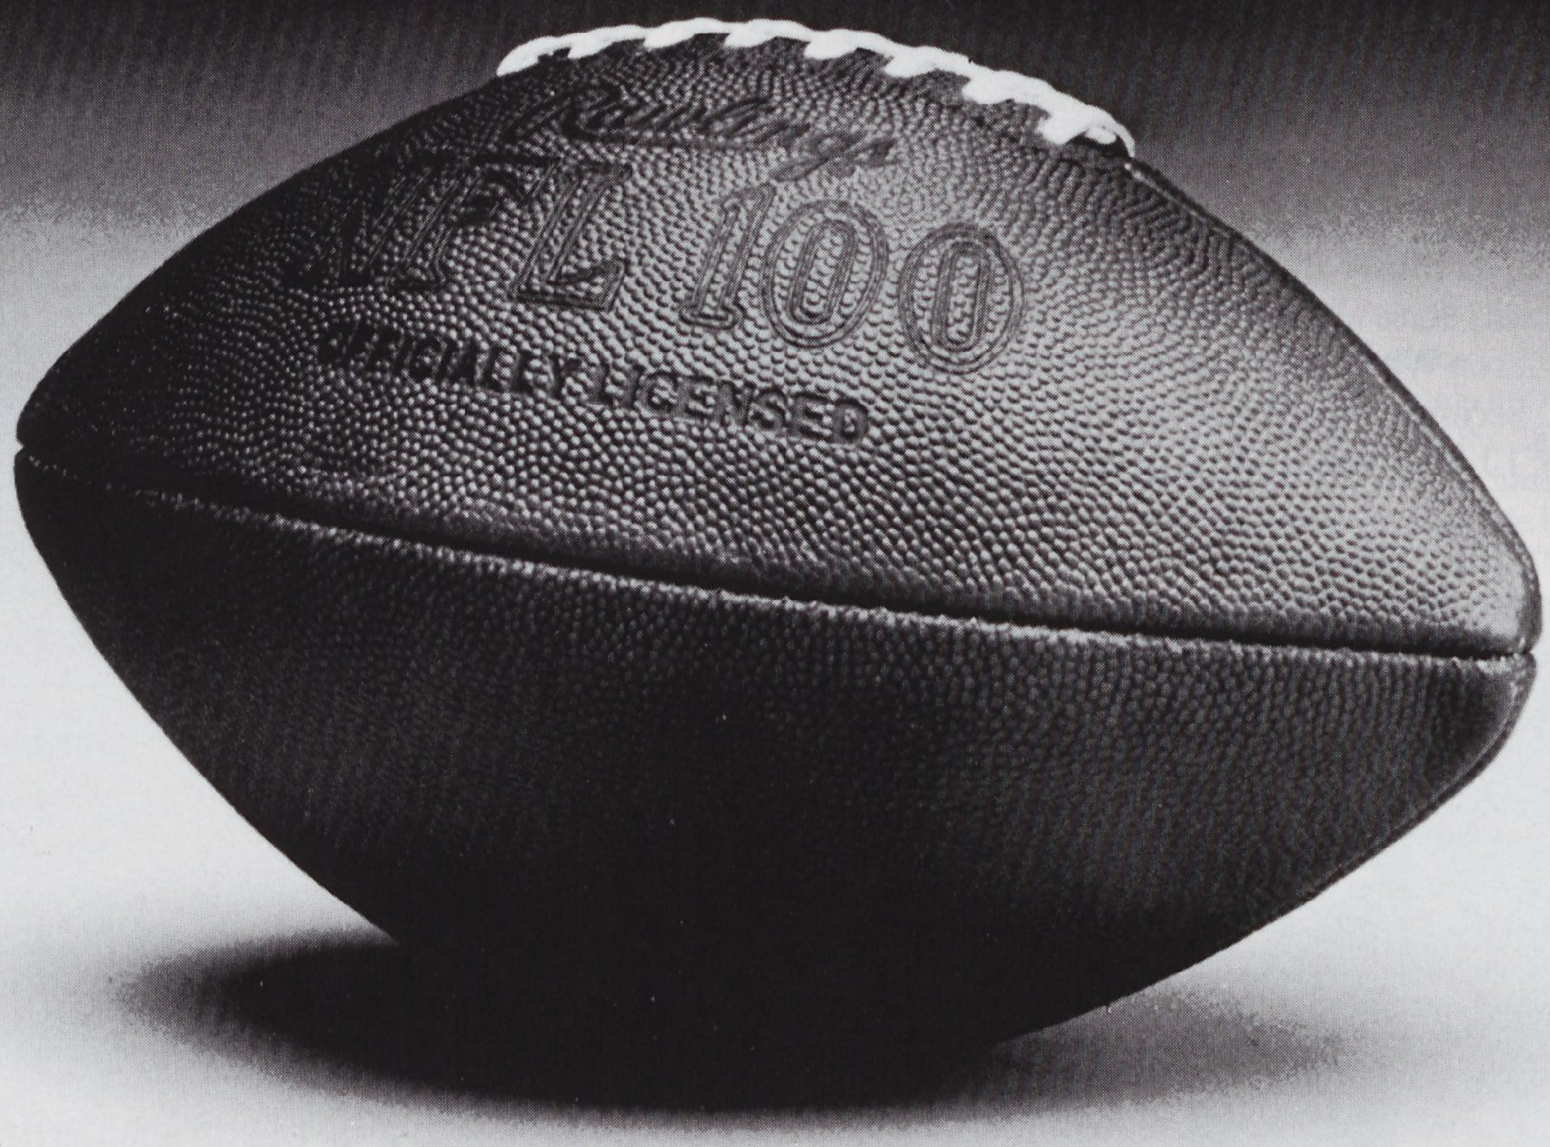

We congratulate him on his success and wish the best to Cary, who was married in August 1992, and lives in Charlotte with his wife, Ruby.

Home of The Pirates

Dowdy - Ficklen Stadium

The home of Pirate football is Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium. Originally dedicated as the James Skinner Ficklen Memorial Stadium on September 21, 1963, the stadium was renamed in April, 1994, after Ron and Mary Ellen Dowdy, of Orlando, Fla., announced a $1 million gift to the ECU Educational Foundation. The gift will go toward the planned expansion of ECU's football stadium.

Ron Dowdy, who is a member of the school's Board of Trustees, currently oversees commercial leases, residential apartments and several other enterprises, as part of Dowdy Properties in Orlando.

Dowdy, a 1966 graduate of ECU, has been involved with many civic organizations, including the Executive Committee of the Florida Citrus Sports Association, the Board of Directors for the Florida Citrus Bowl, the Board of Directors at Humana Hospital Lucerne in Orlando and the Senior Citizen Advisory Committee in Orange County.

The original plan for the stadium was announced on Oct. 7, 1961, by Dr. Leo Jenkins, Chancellor of the College, at a meeting of the Society of Buccaneers.

Within a year, $283,387 had been raised, although the goal had been only $200,000. With the funds in hand, Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium was built.

The original stadium consisted of the permanent stands on the south side, a small press box and the old lighting system which was removed after the 1974 season. Total cost was $300,000.

The north side permanent seating was constructed in 1968, increasing the stadium seating capacity to 20,000.

The stadium was named for the late James Skinner Ficklen, a Greenville resident, who distinguished himself as one of America's leading tobacconists. At the time of his death in 1955, Ficklen was President and Chairman of the Board of the E.B. Ficklen Tobacco Company of Greenville. He was a close friend of the College and established a financial aid foundation, the Ficklen Foundation, to aid students of the College.

The first major change in Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium was the lighting systems, a change that occurred just before the 1975 season opened. The old inner stadium lights on six poles were removed and replaced with six towers outside the stadium. The system is a combination of metallic and incandescent lights. There are 288 fixtures of 1500 watts each on six 162-foot towers. Cost of the system was $450,000.

A radical change greeted fans as the 1978 season opened. An expansion on all four corners boosted Dowdy-Ficklen's seating capacity from 20,000 to 35,000, the third largest stadium in North Carolina. This expansion was made possible with 2-1/2 million dollars through a drive in the spring of 1977.

In addition to more seats, the current press box with three levels and an elevator for access was built. The press box has space for 92 writers and an entire floor for electronic media. Also, a modern scoreboard with a lightbank message center was placed on the east end of Dowdy-Ficklen.

During the summer of 1983, a complete renovation took place on the playing surface. A new drainage system, a new base of gravel and sand, new treated topsoil and a new grass was installed. The new grass, Tifton 419 Hybrid Bermuda was sprigged at the rate of 600 bushels per acre.

The 1992 season saw the season attendance record fall in Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium as the Pirates drew a school-record 164,068 fans for five home games.

Future plans call for expansion of Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium, with an upper deck and endzone seating. That would add an estimated 10,000 seats, giving the stadium a capacity of nearly 50,000. Scheduled to begin following the 1996 season, the expansion is the result of the contributions of the University's Shared Visions Capital Campaign. Due to the generosity of loyal Pirate fans, the Dowdy-Ficklen expansion is scheduled to be complete for the 1997 season.

West Virginia's Aaron Beasley

By Shelly Poe
West Virginia Sports Information Director

Has success spoiled Aaron Beasley?

"No, not spoiled, because everything comes and goes," says West Virginia's All-America cornerback, the Mountaineers' first consensus preseason All-American in more than a decade. "But I've definitely enjoyed it.

"I take it for what it's worth — those honors and awards can't be your whole focus — but I want to take advantage of it, too. I think that's part of my role as a team leader. If people want to recognize me as a great player, that just brings attention to West Virginia and to our secondary."

The most recognizable element of what many think is West Virginia's best-ever secondary, Beasley earned first team all-BIG EAST and second team All-America honors last year when he led the NCAA with 10 interceptions (a WVU single-season record).

Those numbers coupled with an outstanding spring practice, propelled the senior from Pottstown, Pa., to the top of almost every All-America and all-conference list this summer — Beasley has been recognized on 16 different All-America squads. "There's no question that the attention is great," Beasley admits. "But I think it's helped me — my pride in those honors pushes me."

So success has helped Aaron Beasley, and the Mountaineer secondary, too. "We know we have talent, but we've been here long enough that we know we have to work at it, all the time," the product of Valley Forge Military Academy says. "We're always working and always running on the field, but we've leaned that the little things will help us get ahead, so we make sure to lift and to workout and to study films together. I'm lucky that I have teammates like I do."

Teammates like Mike Logan "who has battled back from injuries and I respect that" and Vann Washington "who has worked through an injury this preseason but he will be there" and Charles Emanuel "who is always there, very steady — I just love working back there with him." Beasley credits, too, his numerous coaches, up through current mentor Jerry Holmes. "They all have had a different type of experience, and it's been a great learning process, especially in developing technique. Each one teaches it a little different, but we've really learned to backpedal and to turn. It's stuck with me now. Now even when I play other sports, I'm out there on the basketball court backpedaling and keeping my feet."

The All-American has learned a lot during four years at West Virginia. "I think the biggest change has been in terms of mental attitude. When I first got here, I was nervous about everything, and when I had to play as a true freshman, I was really scared to be out there the first couple of times, scared to make a mistake.

"But now that I'm older, it comes much easier — football, the games, the practices, school. You learn that as you go along.

"If the young guys on the team want to know anything, they should ask me, not because I'm an All-American, but because I've been through it all. I've made mistakes. I've gotten beat. I've been there, but I've learned. And even now, I know that one day, it could all fall down."

So Beasley continues to work but also to enjoy the sweet fruits of his labors. "I think one of the best rewards was making the Playboy All-America team," he says. "That was a great trip to Phoenix, and I met a lot of other All-Americans. And you know what? We treated each other on the same level — nobody was trying to act like a superstar, but we were just football players hanging out together. That was a great situation and I hope we will all keep in touch."

Are there other rewards? "Well, I think my family has been enjoying these honors, but they would never tell me," he laughs. "We're a very close-knit family, and this has only make us closer — they are very protective of me to make sure no outsiders or agents try to move in.

"But they are proud of me and I'm glad I've make them proud," Aaron says. " I gave my father my bowl ring, and now he wears it out, he wears it to church, everywhere. But he deserves it, because he's always encouraged me to stay focused and keep a steady head. And my mother has always been there for me — she's a great lady and I love her very much."

Through their support, Beasley has become a great one himself, and he is anxious to pass that along to his teammates.

And to Washington and Logan and Emanuel, who may be next year's All-Americans, what advice would Beasley give? "Well, they already know how to have fun, so I would tell them to stay in school, enjoy their senior year and make it a great one. They are great friends and talented teammates.

"And I hope they'll remember — to be the best, you have to take a chance every once in a while. Every defensive back gets beat, every quarterback calls the wrong the play, but if you fail, you will still benefit from the hard work you've invested.

"And when you succeed, when you pick that pass or beat the man who doesn't respect you — well, you know it's worth it," Beasley grins. "Because it's so much fun. That's what I get out of it."

Success hasn't spoiled Aaron Beasley yet.

About WVU

Educating students is West Virginia's top priority. Teaching at WVU means more that lecturing. WVU faculty involve students through service learning projects, hands-on research, the newest technology, foreign exchanges and innovative programs. Students emerge from WVU with a broad liberal arts education and preparation for successful careers.

Fourteen colleges and schools offer 167 degree programs from the bachelor's through the doctoral level. Undergraduate programs range from aerospace engineering to theatre, from medical technology to recreation and parks management, from landscape architecture to speech pathology and audiology.

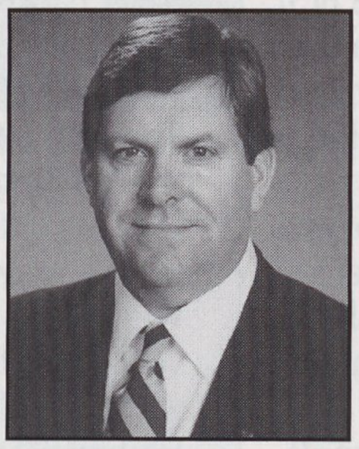

The University also offers a highly competitive physical therapy program - the only accredited one in the state - a redesigned nursing curriculum, a new College of Engineering and Mineral Resources and the state's only accredited College of Business and Economics. WVU just introduced a ground-breaking five-year, dual-degree program to educate future teachers. At program's end, students will receive a master's degree in education and a bachelor's degree in the subject to be taught.

Graduate students can choose from more than 100 programs, including professional programs in medicine, dentistry, law and pharmacy.

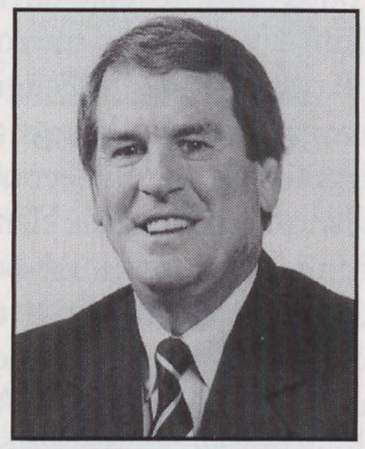

The University's programs attract students from all of West Virginia's 55 counties, all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and 77 other nations. Enrollment in the fall of 1994 was 22,500 and the University has more than 120,000 living alumni through 93 affiliated alumni chapters located around the world.

Head Coach

Don Nehlen is in his 16th season at the helm of West Virginia Football. The 1958 graduate of Bowling Green took over the school's football program in December 1979 and the rest is history.

One of the 20 winningest active coaches nationally, and the most successful coach in the West Virginia's first century of football, Nehlen is the pride of West Virginia.

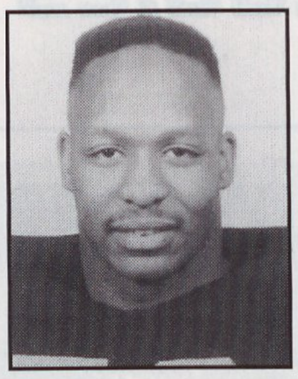

He has transformed the program into a contender for the national championship, taking the Mountaineers to 13 winning seasons, nine bowls, two undefeated campaigns and the 1993 BIG EAST Championship.

Nehlen entered the 1995 season with a coaching record of 163-97-8 seasons and has tutored 13 first team All-Americans, including consensus All-American punter Todd Sauerbrun in 1994. In addition, at least one Mountaineer has been selected in the NFL draft during 14 of Nehlen's 15 seasons at West Virginia.

ECU Educational Foundation

The East Carolina University Educational Foundation, better known as the Pirate Club, is the fund-raising arm of the East Carolina University athletics program. Money raised through the Pirate Club's annual fund drive is used to help fund Pirate student-athlete scholarship costs. The Educational Foundation's goal for 1995 is to turn over a record $1,050,000 in unrestricted scholarship support to the University's Athletics Department. Future goals of the Pirate Club include full-funding of all student-athlete scholarship costs associated with ECU's 18 men and women's sports programs. In today's dollars, that translates to approximately $1.8 million in unrestricted scholarship support.

The "backbone" of the Pirate Club organization is its thirty-five community chapters located in North Carolina, Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia and Washington, D.C. Each chapter is lead by a local chapter president who implements locally, the fund-raising plans of the Educational Foundation.

A recent innovation started four years ago, is the Pirate Rep program. This program has put nearly 300 committed, well-informed volunteers in their respective community, making solicitations to increase support for Pirate Athletics.

In addition to receiving a sense of pride and personal satisfaction from investing in the lives of ECU student-athletes, Pirate Club members receive certain other benefits including priority in purchasing season football and basketball tickets; priority in purchasing bowl and post-season game tickets; private and semi-private parking at home athletic contests; access to the Pat Draughon Donor Lounge and access to the Pirate Club Building during ECU athletic events; a subscription to the Pirates' Chest; and various recognition items.

To our many Pirate Club Members, we thank you for your continued support. To those of you who are not members and who share a dream for ECU Athletics, we extend an invitation to you to join "the team behind the team" today and help move the Pirate Athletics program to even greater heights.

Courtesy Car Dealers

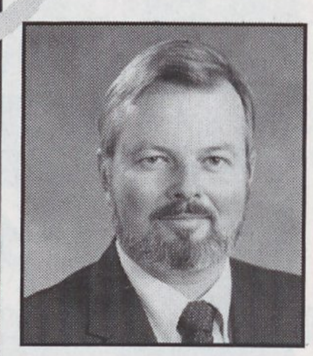

The "wheels" that keep East Carolina's athletic program rolling are a group known as Courtesy Car Dealers, and they play a vital role in allowing the Pirate staff to meet their demands.

Far more than just a fringe benefit, these cars given by the East Carolina Courtesy Car Dealers are necessities for a growing and successful athletic program.

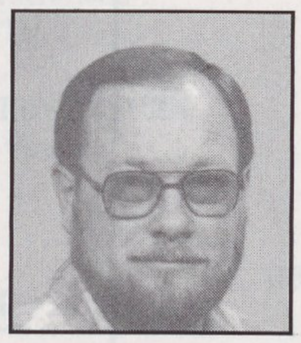

The entire East Carolina staff wishes to thank each dealer providing a car to this fleet of courtesy cars. We hope our fans will look to these fine people for their automotive needs at every opportunity.

Thanks Courtesy Car Dealers! You keep the wheels of East Carolina athletics rolling.

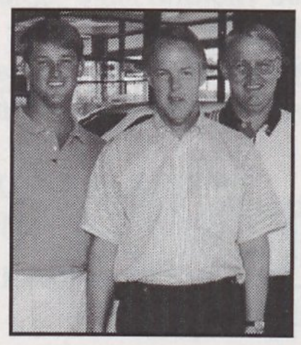

The Pirates also thank Joyce Draughon of Dunn, N.C., Craig Tallberg of Tallberg Chevrolet in Wilmington, N.C. and Ashley Hill of Toyota of New Bern, N.C. for supporting the ECU Courtesy Car Program.

Athletics Hall Of Fame

1994 Inductees: Joe Shanabrough, Hal Baird, Mary Denkler and Bob Patterson.

The East Carolina Athletics Hall of Fame was initiated in 1974 as an organization to honor those individuals who have, by direct participation in East Carolina University intercollegiate athletics, brought outstanding recognition to themselves and to the University.

The first honorees were inducted during Homecoming festivities at halftime of the East Carolina-Citadel football game in 1974. Ten members were selected for the inaugural year. Since then, the list of Hall of Fame members, that has grown to over 60 members, includes a world class triathlete, a three-time Olympian, professional golfer and athletic trainer along with a host of members whose association with ECU makes every Pirate proud.

During the 1995 Hall of Fame Weekend, ECU will honor its newest inductees: Jim Bolding, Otis Melvin, Kathy Riley and Mike Tomberlin.

The Hall of Fame is located on the second floor of the Ward Sports Medicine Building. Dedicated in 1990, it features plaques honoring the members and a Hall of Fame guide.

PIRATE BASKETBALL

More Games . . . More Action . . . More Excitement . . . Your Ticket Has Arrived to Pirate Basketball in the new Williams Arena at Minges Coliseum!

After seven years as a successful assistant, Joe Dooley brings his fire and intensity to the Head Coach's role that has Pirate players excited. Coming off back to back winning seasons, Coach Dooley and the Pirates are looking forward to playing more games in the friendly confines of home rather than on the road in 1995-96. Pirate fans can look forward to the return of a solid nucleus of quality players while adding five new faces expected to make an immediate impact on the hardwood this winter.

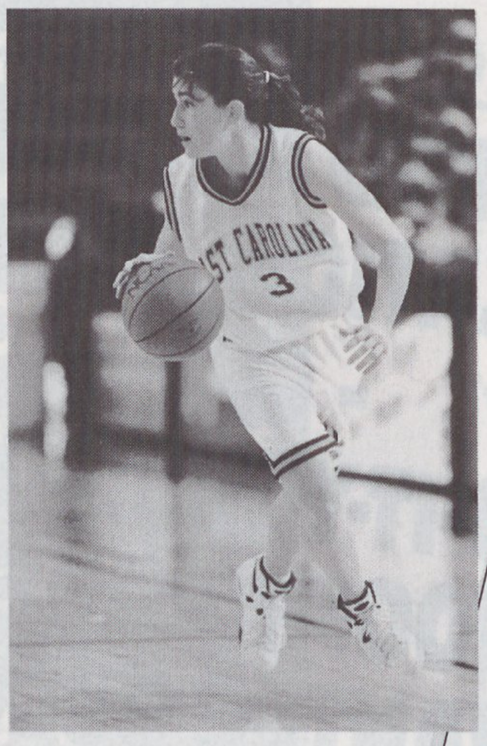

This will be the first full season in Williams Arena at Minges Coliseum. This fan friendly arena has it all. Thirty-five video monitors, chairbacked seating, convenient concessions and restroom access, and great sight lines for fans to see all the action. Opposing teams are already talking about the spirited, intimidating atmosphere being created on the Pirates' home floor. From the team entrance to the final buzzer it's loud, it's fun, and it's electrifying!

Order Your ECU Men's & Women's Season Tickets Today! 1-800-DIAL ECU

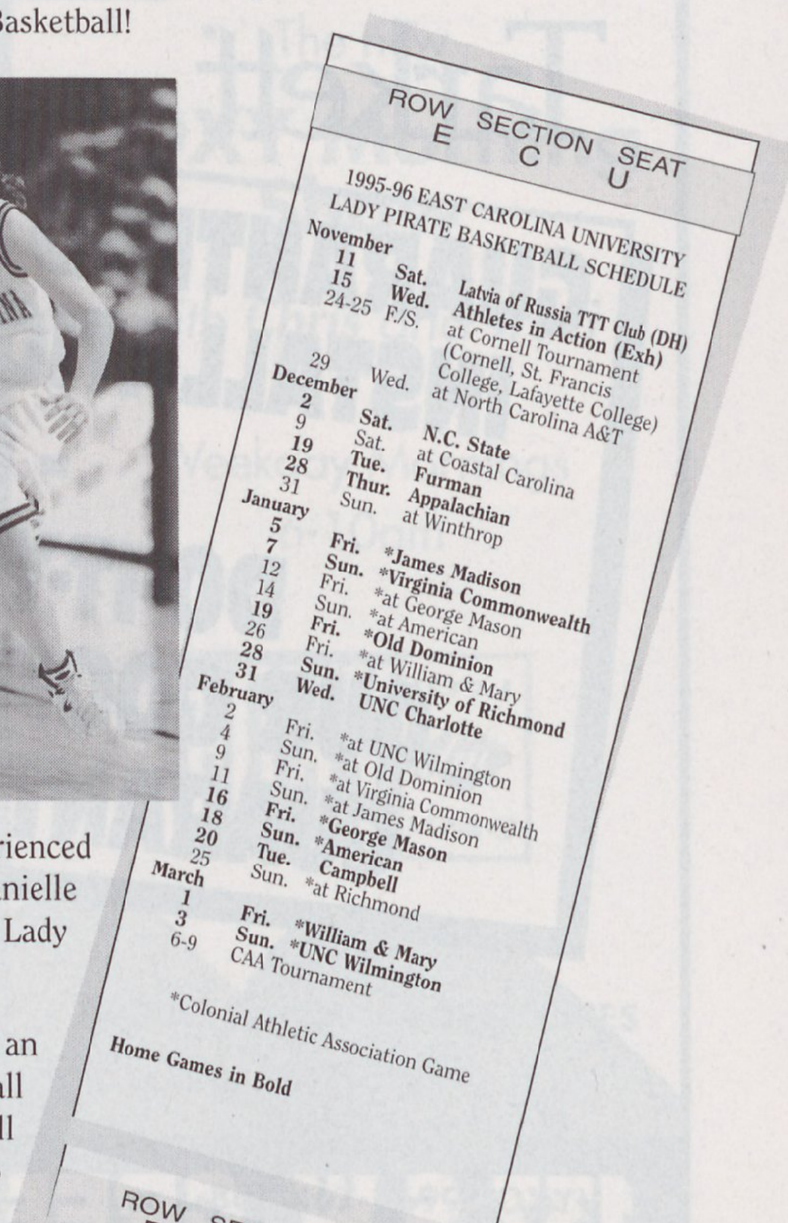

Season tickets tripled last season and are expected to increase again. With less than 5,800 comfortable chairback seats available to be sold and exciting times ahead in Williams Arena at Minges Coliseum, seats will be at a premium in the near future. The excitement is building and now is the time to get on board with season tickets. Your Ticket Has Arrived for ECU Basketball!

LADY PIRATE BASKETBALL

Your Ticket Has Arrived! With the arrival of new Lady Pirate Basketball Head Coach Anne Donovan, excitement surrounding the Lady Pirates is at an All-Time High.

A three-time All-American and Olympian, Donovan brings with her a world of experience, including the Naismith National Player-of-the-Year Award and a National Championship as a member of the 1979-80 Old Dominion Lady Monarchs. After playing semi-professional basketball in Japan and Italy for several years, Donovan has been an assistant coach at her alma mater since 1989. On May 15th, she became only the sixth woman in history to be inducted into the National Basketball Hall of Fame.

Upon her arrival, Donovan looks to bring the Lady Pirates back to championship form with an experienced squad. The team will be led by six seniors, including 1994-95 Co-MVPs Tomekia Blackmon and Danielle Charlesworth. Under the leadership of Coach Donovan ECU fans are in for an exciting season of Lady Pirate basketball.

This year will be the first full season in newly-renovated Williams Arena at Minges Coliseum. With an enticing home schedule including rival N.C. State in the home opener, Lady Pirate basketball tickets should be in demand more than ever! The atmosphere generated at Lady Pirate basketball games is one the whole family can enjoy. Several new ticket packages have been established to accommodate fans of all ages.

Academics and Athletics

At East Carolina University, athletic and academic excellence are inseparable goals for student-athletes. The University is committed to the academic success and graduation of students participating in its athletics program. The Department of Athletics supports this commitment with extensive counseling services in order to maximize the success of every student-athlete.

Under the direction of the ECU Student Development Staff, headed by Pam Overton, Pirate student-athletes have reached new heights in academic achievement during the past few years, including having seven student-athletes named GTE-CoSIDA Academic All-Americas.

The ECU Athletics Department is committed to its Student Development Program and the understanding that student-athletes become well-rounded in all aspects of life.

East Carolina University is proud to be one of 47 pilot schools participating in the NCAA's Life Skills Program and one of five serving as model programs. The NCAA and the Division IA Athletic Directors Association have developed a life skills program for student-athletes to help them bridge the gap from college to career and in the process make meaningful contributions to their communities.

Stacey Green and Junior Smith were selected as ECU's Outstanding Scholar-Athletes for the 1994-95 seasons.

The mission of the CHAMPS (Challenging Athletes Minds for Personal Success) Program is to provide a personal development program designed to reach each student-athlete based on his or her individual needs. The focus of the program is on the student-athlete, as a whole person-academically, athletically and emotionally-and on your changing needs and skills during college and in the years after graduation.

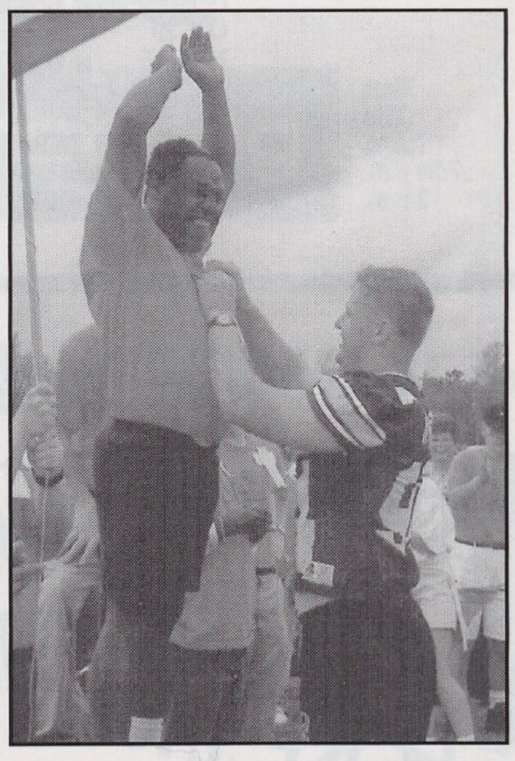

The CHAMPS program is comprised of five key commitments that address critical areas of personal development: (1) The commitment to Academic Excellence (2) The commitment to Athletics Excellence (3) The Commitment to Personal Development (4) The Commitment to Serve and (5) The Commitment to Career Development.

Ultimately the CHAMPS Program is designed to help student-athletes realize higher academic achievement, a higher level of maturity, self-responsibility and greater overall success. As a participant in this program, ECU is dedicated to carrying our all the program's goals and commitments.

The Office of Student Development does this with a staff dedicated to the principle that the development of the student-athlete is the most important objective.

Among the Academic Development Services available for student-athletes are tutorial programs, study-halls, academic skills development, orientation, athletic department convocation, and reading and math assessment.

Additional programs such as interview skills workshop, tutorial recruitment and training, leadership development seminars, a speaker's bureau and community service programs are an important part of the student development program.

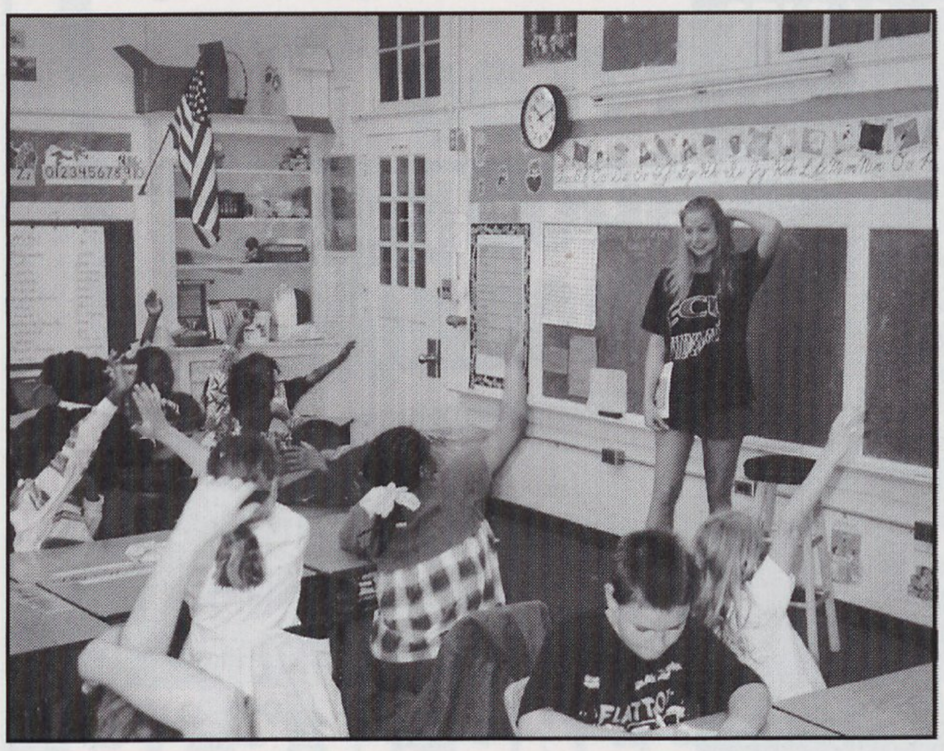

With ECU's Pirate Partners program, everyone's a winner as ECU student-athletes work with local community services.

The athletics department has set up several prestigious awards for ECU student-athletes.

For the past six years, Texasgulf, Inc. has sponsored the ECU Outstanding Scholar-Athlete Award. The award is designed to be the most prestigious that is presented annually to a male and female athlete. Texasgulf also recognizes an All-Academic team selected from the highest cumulative GPAs of each team.

Student-Athletes also serve on the Student-Athlete Advisory Council, which serves as an advisory organization for the Office of Student Development and the Department of Athletics.

During the year, ECU student-athletes work to give back to the community by participating in the "Athletes for Education" Speakers Bureau and the "Pirate Partners" community service program. Both allow for positive interaction between the student-athletes and the Eastern North Carolina community.

ECU student-athletes participate in the Athletes for Education Speakers Bureau throughout the year.

Pirate Swimmer Sets Record for Panama

By Nicole Inman
ECU Sports Information

For someone who never even wanted to swim, East Carolina's Chris Bembenek has more than learned to like it.

As a freshman, the junior backstroker from Annapolis, Md. shattered the 100 and 200 backstroke records established several years earlier.

"When I came here I improved about three seconds in my 200 Back, my time was 1:53 and I dropped down to 1:51," Bembenek said. "I was just happy to set the freshman and varsity records."

During his sophomore season, Bembenek continued to swim strong times in his events, proving to be a real force for the Pirates. Following last season, Bembenek, who has dual citizenship, was invited to represent the Republic of Panama at the 1995 Pan-Pacific games held August 10-14.

That experience affected Bembenek in several ways. Not only did he get the chance to compete against the best swimmers in the world, he proved that he, too, was one of the best. He established new times in both backstroke events for Panama and was also a member of the 400 medley team that place eighth with a combined effort of 3:57.43.

"It feels real good [to set the new records]. It makes me feel real happy, real proud," said Bembenek.

Now both the East Carolina University and Panamanian record-holder, Bembenek enters his junior year with two things on his mind-the upcoming season and the 1996 Olympics.

"It looks like he's really motivated," said head coach Rick Kobe. "I thing it's really focused him on this season that he's got an opportunity to compete at the Olympic games. I think it will insure him having a great season."

With so much to think about, Bembenek's routine hasn't altered. Only now he seems a bit more focused, especially when it comes to meets.

"Chris is very much a mental swimmer. He's a totally different person when he goes to meets — he's an animal," revealed assistant coach Jeff Pishko, who described Bembenek as "a windmill in the water."

Bembenek responded with a nod. "When I get to a meet and I get ready for a race," he explained, "I don't think about the guys next to me. I either want to win or do a best time. And I'm going to give it a 100% effort every time, no matter what."

That's interesting coming from a guy who was never even interested in the sport at first. Bembenek credits his mother for making him the swimmer he is today.

"She made me stick through it until I liked it. I used to not like it at all," Bembenek said with a smile. "Then I found out what swimming could do for me and my mom really showed me what it could do."

Not only was his family an influence, Bembenek offers thanks to the head coach Rick Kobe and the ECU swimming program.

"They stuck with me through my good times and my bad times," said Bembenek. "This year we have a really good team and I think we're going to turn a lot of heads."

Turning heads seems to be a given with Chris Bembenek. Since his initial season with the Pirates he's turned lots of them. With a distinguished resume and commanding presence in the water, Chris Bembenek will certainly swim his way to another outstanding season.

"I'm just going to give it all I got. I can't swim any other way."

QUALITY TEACHERS FOR QUALITY EDUCATION

Hitachi and CFA Award Junior Smith Teaching Scholarship

"A child miseducated is a child lost."

-- John F. Kennedy

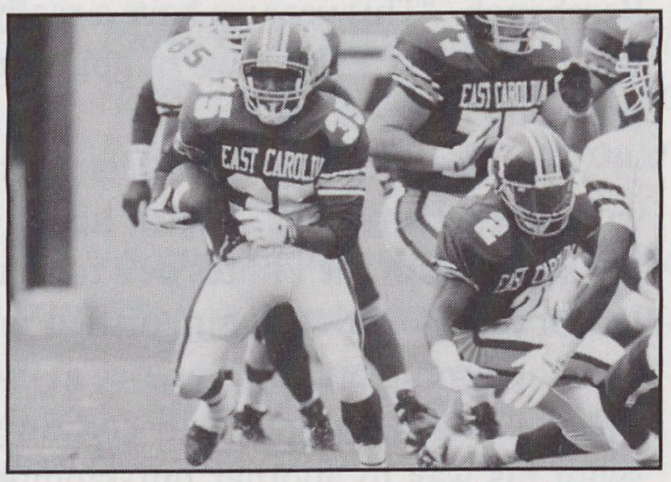

The future of this great nation lies with the success of educating its youth. No one is more aware of that than Hitachi, Ltd. and the College Football Association.

For that reason, Hitachi and the CFA joined forces in 1992 to initiate the "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" program. Three years later, it remains the largest corporate-funded scholarship program in college football.

The program provides $5,000 scholarships to students at each of the 67 CFA member institutions who have excelled in academics and harbor a desire to pursue teaching as a profession. The scholarship funding can be used to defray the cost of the recipient's graduate studies or certification requirements in the field of education.

Junior Smith was selected as East Carolina's 1994 recipient of the "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" scholarship.

"I believe that being a student-athlete at East Carolina has helped me develop special leadership and interaction skills," says Smith. "I feel that the children in today's society, especially young males, need a big brother/father figure to look up to."

Smith is ECU's career leading rusher with 3,745 yards on 732 carries for an average of 5.1 yards per carry. He also holds the school marks for single game and season rushing yards.

The program was conceived in response to a forecast by the U.S. Department of Education showing a critical need for quality teachers in America at all grade levels.

By encouraging young men and women to pursue teaching as a career and in sharing their mutual goals of improving education, Hitachi and the CFA are confident they will help today's students to become tomorrow's quality educators.

"The need for role models who exhibit leadership, motivation and team spirit is greater than ever," Gale Sayers stresses.

The "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" program provides an opportunity for college football and the world's sixth largest corporation to work together in a partnership that cements a basic philosophy of each organization focusing on the importance of education. By granting scholarships to individuals who aspire to pursue a career in teaching, the program endeavors to upgrade both the quality and number of people entering the teaching profession.

Those eligible for scholarships are senior or graduate student football players, student coaches, student managers and student trainers. Applicants must intend to pursue a career in education.

"The most rewarding aspect of our three-year partnership with the CFA has been the positive impact this program has had in helping America's students," says Koichi Ueno, president of Hitachi America, Ltd. "Since it is education that empowers each of us, we are pleased to have formed such a powerful partnership with the CFA."

The national spokesman for the "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" program is Gale Sayers. Well known for his illustrious collegiate and professional football career, Sayers set an example by pursuing an advanced degree in education and later served as a college administrator. Today, a successful businessman, Sayers tours the country, speaking out on the importance of education.

"Even though football does not last forever, it does offer skills and leadership qualities that do," says Sayers. "The 'Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow' winners recognize that, unlike athletic careers, education is the only thing that can never be taken away from them."

For 145 players, 29 student trainers, 11 student managers, 14 student coaches, and two student academic assistants, receiving the "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" scholarship has helped to punctuate that theory.

"The CFA believes that football provides a training ground that will assist in the preparation for those seeking a career in education," says Chuck Neinas, executive director of the CFA. "Whether it be as a player or in a support role, football is hard work, and it teaches leadership, discipline and team spirit -- all attributes that can be transferred to the classroom."

These are the qualities shared by each of this year's 67 award winners, qualities that will help shape our country into the 21st century.

ECU

Student Stores

The ECU Student Stores is a self-supporting service, owned and operated by the university, offering new and used textbooks, school and art supplies, computers and peripherals, room accessories and officially licensed ECU apparel for those involved with the university and university activities. The Student Stores receives no state funding or student fees, relying solely on receipts to cover the cost of merchandise, operating expenses and capital expenses. Any profit derived from the sale of merchandise is returned to the students through contributions to the Resource Scholarship Fund.

Scholarships totaling more than $1,250,000 have been supported by the ECU Student Stores since 1989, giving students the opportunity to further their education. These scholarships cover a wide spectrum of students. From athletics to academics, as well as to those in financial need, the ECU Student Store has provided funding for more than 500 scholarships. While your support is appreciated by store management, it is the students that benefit most when you make your purchase at the ECU Student Stores.

Whether you are here to cheer on the ECU Pirates or are visitors from another school, our common goal is to support the education of these athletes as they learn and grow, both on the field and in the classroom. We at the ECU Student Stores share that spirit and are proud to confirm our ongoing contributions to the academic mission of East Carolina University. Thank you for your support which makes our contributions possible.
