

a heavy heart with the old soldiers. There is no place in the world of calculated
 - to call to my mind retrospectively more pleasant than the soil of old Lebanon, for it was there I spent my boyhood days, and the remembrance of many a warmly little fellow, who with me, spelled once the first lesson in the old bay school houses, and the dignified men and deportment of the home in of the life, through all their trials and disappointments are as fresh and as well defined