ANNUAL ALUMNI EDITION

Five Years Of Alumni Award

Four persons—the recipient-elect, the person who is to make the citation, and two members of the Advisory Committee who counted the votes and then stored the ballots for safekeeping—know an important secret of the Alumni Association. That secret is the name of the 1945 recipient of the Alumni Award.

But there is no secret on how the name was chosen. The process is well known, with facts supplementing those recorded in the recent Alumni Bulletin.

When on March 9, 1940, the Executive Board adopted the suggestion of Miss Estelle McClees to establish the annual award, the Advisory Committee was asked to formulate the standards, and the Board immediately expressed the following plan for action:

The chosen graduate must have done outstanding work in and made a notable contribution to some particular field. The graduate should have been "loyal to the College". The name should be kept secret until the day of commencement. The citation should be conducted by the Advisory Committee that the Association secretary would have only ceremonial duties in connection with the procedure. The Advisory Committee should have the power of nominating and of voting.

When the Advisory Committee met to decide the standards, the difficulty of defining "outstanding work" and "notable contribution" and "particular field" became apparent. Because this is a teachers college, should the work be confined to teaching? Should a two-year graduate be ineligible even though hundreds of the two-year normal graduates are "outstanding" in many fields? Should "notable contribution" not be recognized if it were in the field of homemaking and citizenship in a local community? Should "loyalty" require membership in the Alumni Association? Should the award be set up such limitations as to exclude graduates whom alumni deemed worthy?

To all these and other sharply conflicting questions the committee replied in the negative. It decided to give the alumni themselves opportunity by their nominations to indicate the general direction "outstanding work" in and notable contribution to some particular field. Today, studying the files on the Awards and the nominations, the committee believe it was right in that decision.

The records show the alumni tend to nominate teachers, in every educational branch: high school teachers of history, mathematics, and science who have stayed long in one community; a prominent teacher of drama; a primary teacher who has served as president of the Association of Childhood Education in North Carolina, and another who is also the music leader in her town; a "title teacher" in a Western North Carolina college and another in Teachers College of Columbia University; a professor of education in a South College; a supervisor of elementary education in a Kentucky city; and one who was a science teacher and a staff member of the Southern Workshops in eleven Southern States.

But also alumni have expressed decisive approval of an alumna who, recognized as a business manager, leads the business and professional women's club in her city, and of another who is director of the Red Cross in several North Carolina counties, both of whom are homemakers and leaders in civic and church circles. Alumni have nominated an alumna with an enviable record in the insurance business; a high-ranking social service worker in Louisiana; and an alumnus who has risen to the rank of lieutenant colonel in fighting for his country and world peace.

Within the past five years twenty-two individuals have been nominated. Only ten of these were members of

DR. H. J. MCGINNIS

Dr. H. J. McGinnis Writes Letter

Dear Alumni:

As we approach the end of another college year we again send you, through the alumni issue of the Teco Echo, cordial greetings and news of your Alma Mater.

We follow your activities with great interest and take keen pride in your accomplishments. Through the medium of the Alumni office and the full-time Alumni Secretary, Mrs. Garner, we hope our fellowship in the future may be more abundant and more satisfactory than it has been at times in the past.

These are strenuous, trying times; nerves are frayed and spirits are sorely tried by personal problems not wholly unrelated to the spiritual and physical turmoil found in all the world. Dissension, bickering and criticism are too often dignified as a defense of some sort of freedom. Personal license at times supplants orderly democratic procedures and the irresponsible assume prerogatives reserved properly to others.

With the approach of the end of the world military conflict, the declaration of peace and the return of those separated from homes and loved ones, our sense of social balance should be restored and each of us will find a greater satisfaction in the normal routines of daily life.

Your Alma Mater, with your encouragement and support, will continue to render the same fine quality of educational service it has been giving for the past thirty-six years. The time is ripe and the College is ready to move forward aggressively and constructively with its program of teacher training. It will contribute its part, also, to the readjustment of our returned service-men and service-women who can profit by the educational facilities offered here.

The importance of education in all its aspects is being stressed today over all the world as never before. Those who have chosen education for their life's work must take the lead, point the way, and assist as far as possible in every worthy educational endeavor.

With every good wish for your personal success and happiness I greet you.

Sincerely yours,

Howard J. McGinnis, President.

W. A. A. Holds Its Annual Dance May 12

The Woman's Athletic Association held its annual dance Saturday, May 12, with the Greenville Marine band furnishing the music. The theme of fairy land was carried out very effectively in the decorations. At the close of intermission the figure was formed and led by the president, Dot Peele.

Dr. Edsall Speaks At I. R. C. Meeting

At the regular meeting of the International Relations Club on April 24, 1945, Dr. Edsall spoke on "Treaty Making in the United States." "Unless peace can be organized," he said, "the present catastrophe will repeat itself." He brought out some of the dangerous obstacles in our present treaty making process and mentioned ways of avoiding them. One of the obstacles named was the power of the president to make treaties with two-thirds vote of the Senate. Although many major treaties such as the Guadalupe Hidalgo were passed only by a few votes, others of equal importance were defeated by a small minority. He went on to say that the Senate's power to delay has proven to be the power to kill, and the existence of a minority veto cripples foreign relations.

One of the possible solutions mentioned by Dr. Edsall was a constitutional amendment to the effect that treaties be made with consent of both houses of congress, however, there is little probability of this occurring. Other solutions mentioned by him were to transfer the right to act on treaties exclusively to the House or to the President subject to disapproval by Congress in a given length of time.

It was stated by Dr. Edsall that the best way to insure a good government is to take an active part in settling its problems, one of which is treaty making. Judging by past experience should another chance be taken?

Dr. Ponder Speaks At Chapel Service

Showing how the concept of public welfare work is based on the principle set forth by Thomas Jefferson in the constitution that "All men are created equal with the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness", Mr. Graham Ponder, of the State Public Welfare Department in Raleigh, addressed chapel assembly May 29.

The nature of welfare work is closely tied up with this ideal, the speaker said, in that during the last depression the physical sustenance of many was maintained, self-respect was restored, and freedom (liberty) was impossible without freedom from want. The last part—happiness—though intangible itself, may be sought by all, which is what Mr. Ponder said he believed Jefferson meant.

There are one hundred departments of public welfare in North Carolina, one in each county, explained Mr. Ponder. The jobs of all are multiple, dealing with aid to dependent children, to those of special problems, such as delinquency, neglect and ill-treatment and with General Relief to the poor of insufficient means for the bare essentials.

The latter aid is supplied by county funds only, whereas the former is supplemented by state and county funds. A movement is on foot in Congress now to overcome this deficiency.

In closing, Mr. Ponder asserted his belief in the Public Welfare Work's ideal of "equality" and "life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness" for all.

GOLD STAR ALUMNI

Morris Abeyounis, O. D. Andrews, J. B. Christenbury, Graham Coward, John Denton, Jesse Gray, John C. Johnston, W. A. Lovette, Thomas Meeks, Henry Matt Phillips, Jesse Lyle Rollins, Bill Sledge, Elmer Smith, William Vaughan, Joseph Walker, George West, Stanley Woolfolk, Stephen A. Wooten.

MISS ANNIE L. MORTON

Miss Morton Writes Letter To Alumni

Dear Alumni:

At this season our thoughts turn to Commencement and you. Again, it is my privilege to remind you that we are hoping to have you with us this year.

As always at commencement time, the campus is yours. However, we are having to make very definite plans to assure your happiness and comfort while you are with us. Rooms in the dormitories will be available for those who notify us by Tuesday, May 29.

The classes of '20, '35 and '44 are our honor guests this year. Complimentary meal tickets will be given to the members of those classes when they register in Cotten Office provided we have been notified by May 29. Meal tickets for members of other classes may be purchased. These tickets are thirty-five cents each except Sunday dinner which is fifty cents. As in the past the luncheon on Saturday is complimentary.

We realize that travel restrictions and other war time obligations will make it impossible for most of you to be with us this year. If you cannot come, we will understand, yet we hope some of you have planned to be with us. If you can come will you please send a postal card to me or to the Alumni Office by Tuesday, May 29, stating when you will arrive and how many meals you will want?

Most sincerely yours,
Annie L. Morton.

27 Alumni Now Work At ETC

The College is trying to use its former students whenever and wherever possible. Today there are twenty-seven alumni employed on the campus.

The primary purpose of the College is to train students to teach in the schools of North Carolina; however, you will notice the varied positions which alumni are holding here on the campus as in other parts of the State. They are as follows:

Teaching: Misses Ann Redwine, Ruth Faison, Christine Johnston, Ruth Modlin, Frances Lamb, Estelle Greene, Deanie Boone Haskett, Mildred Watkins and Florine Clark; Messrs. Christine Williams Tripp, Sarah Ann Morris Proctor, Elizabeth Evans Savage, Annie Ives Andrews Sellers, Joyce Hill Hales, and Mr. Harold A. McDougle.

Alumni Secretary: Mrs. Ruth Blanchard Garner.

Dean of Women's Department: Mrs. Elizabeth S. Smith, Misses Ruth White and Sallie Norwood.

Secretarial Work: Misses Tommie Lou Corbett, Janie Eakes, Rosalie Brown, Messrs. Mildred Mattacks Owens, Louise Tadlock Davis, and Edna Moore Loftin.
Dietitian: Miss Alya Ray Taylor.
Electrician: Mr. James Brewer.

1,000 Members Alumni Goal For 1945-46

Ballots reveal that the Alumni have voted, by an overwhelming majority, to raise the dues for membership in the Alumni Association from one dollar to two dollars per year.

At the recommendation of the Executive Board, which met on August 23, 1944, ballots were mailed each of the 488 paid members and votes were cast by the "active" members raising the dues.

The dues are now more nearly on the same level with other institutions of similar ranking and it is hoped that this raise will eliminate the necessity of asking for an annual gift from the Chapters and will enable the Association to do more constructive work in the future than in the past.

The goal for 1945-46 is 1000 members. May the Association count on you!

Alumni Office
East Carolina Teachers College
Greenville, N. C.

As an expression of loyalty to the College and to the Alumni Association, I hereby pay two dollars ($2) for my annual dues.

I understand that this membership is to cover from now until Alumni Day of Commencement, 1946, and that it included a subscription to the Teco Echo, the college paper, until June, 1946.

My address will be shown below until further notice:

Mrs. Marcom Is Elected President Of Alumni Assn.

MRS. J. L. MARCOM

Mrs. J. L. Marcom (Augusta Woodward) was elected president of the Alumni Association for the next two years (1945-'47). She is well qualified for the position as she has been an active member of the Association since graduating in 1924, and is thoroughly familiar with all phases of Alumni work. During the past nine months she has been president of the Association filling the unexpired term of Mrs. Clem Garner who became Alumni Secretary, served as vice-president on two different occasions, and was secretary and treasurer during 1937-'39. She has been interested in chapter work and has been president in both the Rocky Mount and Raleigh Chapters.

Mrs. Marcom is an English teacher in the Hugh Morson High School, Raleigh and is active in religious, civic and professional circles of the city.

Mrs. Lonnie W. Rogers (Nancy Brantley) was elected vice-president. She has served as vice-president of the South Piedmont District (1942-'44), was instrumental in organizing the Charlotte Chapter, and has held several important offices in it. She is a "Life Member" of the Association.

Miss Ruth Modlin, president of the Greenville Chapter 1944-'45, and fifth grade critic teacher at the Training School, was elected treasurer. She succeeds Miss Grace Smith.

Miss Smith has been interested in the Alumni Association since 1914 when she graduated. She has been a capable and efficient treasurer for the past six years. She has also served as secretary of the Association and has functioned on several important committees.

The other candidates for the offices were Mrs. Robert W. Fennell (Kara Lynn Corey) for president; Mrs. Haris W. Haskett (Margaret Patrick) for vice-president and Mrs. Thornton Meeks (Ruth Willard) for treasurer.

Alumni President Writes Letter To Alumni

Dear Alumni,
As you already know we will not be able to have a normal Alumni Day because of O. D. T. regulations. Since this is true I will not be able to see a great many of you on that day, therefore I want to take this opportunity to express to you my personal appreciation for the work you have done in your local chapters. I am indeed proud of the fine reports that have come from you.

I am also grateful for the splendid work which has been done by our capable secretary, Mrs. Garner. She has handled the work of the Association in such an entirely satisfactory manner that it has had a highly successful year. I hope that those of you who do attend Alumni Day will have the privilege of meeting her and hearing a report of her work.
Augusta Woodward Marcom
Alumni President.

Senior Home-Ec Majors Honored At Dinner

Seniors majoring in Home Economics were entertained at a buffet supper Wednesday evening, May 9, by the Home Economics faculty in the receptions rooms of the New Classroom Building.

Dr. Katherine Holtzclaw, head of the Home Economics Department was chief hostess. The meal was in charge of the Sophomore class in Foods.

Guests other than the Home Economics seniors included Dr. and Mrs. H. J. McGinnis, Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Frank, and Dr. P. A. Toll of the faculty, Miss Venetia Hearne of Ayden, Miss Evelyn Grimsley of Winterville, Miss Maude Ketchum of Robersonville, Miss Louise Swann and Miss Abbe Strawn of Greenville.

Defeat Of Germany Does Not End War

The real test for our patriotism has just begun. Too many of us thought when Hitler and his gang were crushed, we could return to our happy-go-lucky American way of living.

Now we can take that nice vacation that has been our dream for so long. For be it from me to disillusion anyone, but it takes more than a few weeks for reconversion to take place, and complete reconversion will not be realized until the Nips are smashed to their knees.

The government is asking us not to travel on the railways because they will be crowded in the months to come with war supplies to the west coast and from there they will go to all points in the Pacific.

To The Alumni From The Editors

Dear Alumni: This issue of our paper is "your" paper. We have given space to be used for your news.

In this issue we hope you will find out what has happened to your fellow classmates. As the years have gone by, many of you have lost contact with friends.

Because of lack of space we have had to give full accounts of only three classes—the '20, '35, and '44 classes. However, this does not mean that we have forgotten other classes.

Many of you receive the paper regularly, and still for those that do not, we will say we never forget our Alumni. Each issue there is a column devoted to Alumni Reports, also since the war started we have had a column about our boys in service.

The staff joins us in saying that we hope you will be here for Alumni Day on June 2.

Very truly yours, Jean Goggin and Mary Young Bass.

Work To Avoid That Last Minute Rush

There are only two more weeks in this quarter. Many of us have put off what we should have done the first of the quarter, saying that we would do it later.

Lets see if the next week we can't finish our outside work so that we will have to worry only about our exams.

Student Help Needed For Seventh War Loan Drive

On May 14, the Seventh War Loan Drive began. It is up to the people to buy all of the bonds that they possibly can because the more bonds we buy the sooner our boys will come home.

There are only going to be two war loan drives during 1945. Therefore, we should try to buy at least the same number that we have been buying before.

It is the duty of each and every one of us to invest more generously in war bonds to supply the needed materials in the Pacific, which will in turn bring victory and lessen the number of lives lost.

Poppy Day To Be Observed At ECTC

Saturday, May 26, has been declared "Poppy Day". The poppies to be sold are made by veterans of World War I and the proceeds will go to the Veteran's Hospital.

When Robert St. John was here he made the statement that everyone should visit a veteran's hospital at least once a year. Since most of us haven't the privilege of visiting these hospitals, it is our duty to do all that we can to aid the men who made personal sacrifices for a cause that seemed to be in vain.

Success Is For Those Who Are Hard To Satisfy

Of some people it is said that they spend their time "reaching for the moon." They are always striving for the things that are way beyond them; maybe it is happiness, maybe comfort, maybe friends, and maybe the fulfillment of an ambition.

Thus, a person who spends his life struggling toward a goal and never reaching it, is still much better for having tried. The person who is content to quit as soon as he becomes reasonably comfortable is the one who will remain mediocre.

Have a lofty goal to push toward. As soon as you reach that one, set another for yourself. Don't be content to be just "average"—be outstanding. All it takes is a little effort and determination.

Alumni on the Stand

By Bobbie Parrish

Since this is an Alumni Issue, a few representative alumni have kindly consented to take the stand.

QUESTION: What, on looking back on your college days, stands out as the highlight, or most vivid experience?

Miss Mary L. Lowder (Class of '26): Many pleasant memories rush to my mind whenever I think of my "School Days at ECTC". Without having to consider, however, the top experience that springs to my mind and heart is the vesper services, especially the ones held on the lawn from the porch of Wilson Hall.

Next, the summer school course in Shakespeare, while the college was yet small enough to know and enjoy in a friendly way one's classmates and teachers.

Miss Joyce Dunham: My happiest and most cherished moments were those spent in Miss Austin's conversational French, and French poetry (in fact, all my contacts with her were pleasant ones); also, working with the Junior and Senior classes as their President, and attending the many entertainments that ECTC always affords her students. To make the story complete, there is the matter of "Intermezzo", the listening room, and picking violets on back campus.

Mr. Bernice Jenkins: Remembering ECTC, it seems everything I did there was a highlight. Walking on the campus, studying for various tests, classes in history under Dr. Hilldrup, English with Dr. Posey, and Dr. Baughan, psychology under Dr. Adams and those courses under Mr. Deal; talkfests with Miss Jenkins, visits in the Y-Store, playing hearts in Ragsdale, talks with Dr. Flanagan—all those things I remember with pleasure.

Miss Deanie B. Haskett: The work done in organizing the Teco Echo stands out in my memories. (She was its first editor-in-chief . . . and also the first student to take her master's degree from ECTC). Many hours were spent in the staff room writing news, editorials, mapping the paper, correcting proofs, and getting it running smoothly.

Mrs. Annie Andrews Sellers: (Now a faculty member). Many little things which I recall with a warm glow are fused together in my memory of a really happy time. Some of these pleasures are: On the two days (Monday and Fridays) when we could go down town,—provided you had on hat and hose!—and sit in "Lautares", as do Kares' or Bissette's; stealing radishes and other edibles from the gardens on faculty row (especially Dr. Adams'); the few shows we were allowed to see, in groups, but without permission to sit beside any men; initiations were always big doings, sometimes we'd walk the poor freshmen nearly to death on hikes; the dancing (among girls, of course) held from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 in the gym, which is now the day students' room; talking to Mr. Holmes and listening to his stories over at the power plant; the grand participation in all the sports; waiting breathlessly for some entertainment to come so we could put on evening dresses; riding the old elevators in Austin; and gathering (before lights out at 10:30) to tell ghost stories. These are just a few things, but although they were simple and harmless, we thought it was all pretty wonderful.

Mr. Herbert Waldrop: It has never ceased to amaze me that in one 50 minute class period, Miss Davis could somehow manage to ask at least two questions to every single student—and usually just as he was easing off to sleep. Moreover, I never understood why boys back there were made to take domestic science and weave pretty baskets, etc.—or why we weren't allowed to watch the gals play basketball, especially when they wore huge woolen bloomers, middy blouses, and stockings! . . . but we weren't. So, my most vivid remembrances are the things I could never understand, and if anyone has the answers, I would still like to hear them.

Mrs. F. Edgerton Baker: I'll never forget the time Dr. Adams asked a heterogeneous group to take an intelligence test. A few days later, two of my dear "friends" offered to go ask Dr. Adams what our scores were. When they returned they said Dr. Adams was so surprised at my grade—that I must have been sick with a cold that day. My grade was 79, and 80 was a moron. Of course, their grades were very good. Well, for the next few hours, I went through purgatory. I didn't hear a word Dr. Slay was saying in physics. I thought of the money my parents were wasting—how people reached an intelligence level, and just couldn't go any further, how I had fooled my classmates, how hard physics was for me, etc. My friends who kept smiling at me had pity in their faces for me in my time of woe. . . . Finally, after an hour of sheer misery I raced to see Dr. Adams. He greeted me with "I haven't had time to grade those tests yet!" I could have kissed him and on two certain others committed murder. If Dr. Adams remembered me at all, he'd probably say "How is the moron today?" For he called me that for weeks.

Also, I'll never forget how hard we worked on the dining hall for the Jr.-Sr. Banquet to decorate it like a sleek yacht. It was so beautiful it thrilled us to look at it. . . that night we didn't even know we were tired it was all so grand.

Of course, I recall with sorrow, also, the death of that beloved President and man, Dr. Wright.

Supplement To May Court Article In Last Issue

Due to an oversight these names were left out of the article on the May Court girls last issue.

Coming from Henderson, N. C., Mary Windley is now a Junior at ECTC, majoring in Home Ec. and Social Science.

She has been an active member of the Poe Society for three years and during her freshman and sophomore years was a member of the YWCA. Also, during her sophomore year Mary served on the cabinet of the Methodist Student Association. She has been elected of Wilson Hall for next year

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

By Betty Jervis

Illmar and Wilma Kearney are identical twins from Snow Hill. They were born on their mother and father's tenth wedding anniversary which was on Valentine Day. While they were in high school they were members of the North Carolina Symphonic Choir and made tours to New York and California. They say that they hope to go back to California some day.

This is their third year at ECTC and they are commerce and social science majors. Both say that Miss Dempsey is their ideal teacher. They have been members of the Commerce Club, Alumni Daughters and Sons and the Emerson Society all three years. This year they joined the Alpha Sigma. Wilmar has been chosen its secretary for next year, while Illmar was chosen treasurer of the Alumni Daughters and Sons. During their junior year they were treasurers of the Emerson Society and Illmar was president of the Alumni Daughters and Sons as well as a member of the Cooperative Council. They say that they want to finish which automatically causes her to be a member of the Women's Judiciary.

Different from most girls who nearly always have a favorite in the movie kingdom, Mary has none. She's crazy about pictures and likes all the stars. But there is one particular song and that is "Sunday, Monday, or Always." When talking about food I think she picked one that was the most scarce—T-Bone steak. As a hobby she likes to sew and being a Home Ec. major it just takes her a jiffy to fix up house hold materials and I think she plans on getting plenty of experience in this later on.

Going back to "favorites"—I asked Mary what her favorite subject was and Leona quickly said "Nat". I do believe she's holding something back from us. Could "Nat" belong to the Air Corp? I've heard her heart does "tailspins" whenever she hears the roar of a plane. (This was supposed to be a secret!)

Mary, when asked about her future, seriously said it all depends on the war. So here's hoping it comes out O.K. for her, or as the Air Corp would probably have it—Here's hoping every thing will be 4. 0.

Margaret Person, better known to most of you just "Person" was another attendant for the May Court. She hails from Louisburg and is now a Junior at ECTC, Majoring in Home Ec. and Science.

Person, as you all probably know is very understanding, cooperative, and has a wonderful personality (Line forms to the right, gentlemen!) She has been rather active her three years here on the campus.

To begin with, in her freshman year she received the Dunforth Scholarship given by the YWCA, to Camp Miniwanca, Michigan; this was for being an outstanding student in leadership. Margaret was also Assistant Advisor for the Freshman "Y".

In her sophomore year she was kept busy with her duties as Assistant Treasurer for the Student Government Council and as Vice-President of the Poe Society.

This past year she has served as a College Marshal, Secretary of the Home Economics Club, and I think the freshman will remember her as Chairman of Initiation Services for the Poe Society. (It was all in fun girls!)

To start off next year she has been elected as President of the Home Ec. Club.

Now for some of her favorites, as for food Margaret will be satisfied with just plain home cooking. She likes Dave Clark and Greer Garson when it comes to movies and just about swoons when she hears "Till Then". Margaret's hobby is collecting snapshots but she says "that's in a rut" due school and get them a job together, later they want to meet the right one and have a double church wedding.

Most people think Wilmar and I am identical twins and we are often asked how it is possible to tell us apart. We usually smile and say, "Just remember she is Wilmar and I am Illmar." About the only time we were really confused was when our mother gave one of us two doses of water.

Our favorite song is "I dream of You", our old favorite is "Stardust". We like to travel and plan some of the things we would like to do after we finish school. It's strange, but we usually like the same boy. We are often asked how we get out and how we decide who will read the mail first. Well, we usually get our mail addressed to the "Kearney Twins", of course, there are exceptions.

If you have the idea that it's hard to tell us apart, just remember that if you don't guess right the first time, you are bound to be right the second.

to scarcity of films.

I asked her what she did in her spare time and before she could answer her roommate said "giggled". After her giggle on that one, she said she spent most of her time working in and from the classroom building for labs.

Talking to her about her love life is a problem unless you know a certain Jackson. Whether there's any connection is a secret but when she finishes school she said, "I plan to teach two or three years then settle in a comfortable bungalow and in time have two children". We sincerely hope your future is what you hope for and lots of good luck.

SCUMMING

By The Keyhole Korrespondent

The old keyhole correspondent has been snooping around again but it seems that all the girls are studying rather than out man hunting. After all, there isn't but two more weeks of school, but here goes!!

Ellis, we hear that the Fleming Hall girls are missing you lately. What has Jarvis Hall got that Fleming lacks????

Mary Ellen, who is the attraction at the library every night? Could it be Ray or is it Alex?

"Baby", did Dick put that dreamy look in your eyes??

Shorty whose plaid coat is that floating around in the basement of Ragsdale Hall??

Brownie, we notice you are getting mail from that Sergeant in Germany again. Is he back at the head of the list??

Reba, what is Woody going to do after you leave at the end of school?? Don't you think you should come to summer school, or is he coming to Gatesville every week-end?

We hear Grace Davis is going to see her one and only in California. Could it be a matrimonial trip, Grace????

Edna Vann, we heard you had a whopping good time at Chapel Hill last week-end.

We notice that "Jackie" hasn't been getting around much lately. We wonder if Jack could have anything to do with it????

Snag, we haven't been seeing much of you around on campus since Flossie left. What is the matter?? Have you sworn off of women?????

We notice that Jerry is still being very true to Charles. Keep it up and maybe he will be home real soon.

LAST YEAR'S GRADUATES HONORED

By Rosalie Brown

The year the class of 1944 will have their first time gathering. Members of this class have followed various paths as their letters to the alumni office have proven.

Mary Sue Moore, last year's most popular senior, holds the position of Assistant Director of McCall School Service. Her job consists of writing notices and sewing educational copy and doing layouts for advertisements, bulletins, releases and notices. This promotion is held on through contact with Home Economics teachers and Home Demonstration agents all over the county.

Mary Sue is constantly meeting friends and exciting people and she plans to live in New York.

Last September Jane Vaan attended Spanish School of Aeronautics for six months taking a weather forecasting course. She accepted a position with the Chicago and Southern Airlines and took off for Memphis, Tenn. and a girl friend are the first two women ever employed for the position with this company. In the fall she will begin actual forecasting and will be two of the few women in the world to hold such a position. They take many flights to various places with the terrain for which they will be forecasting.

Bernice Mayo received his boat license in the Navy last summer, after which he was sent to Quartermaster School at Bainbridge, Maryland. He was given a medical discharge in February and returned home where he is now helping his father. He will enter his Alma Mater next fall and begin work on his Bachelor's degree at the time. May 1944 he married to the former Miss Lillian Ross of Greenville.

Johnnie Rickles has been in Extension work. She is Assistant Home Demonstration Agent in Martin County.

Miss Waddley is a laboratory technician, social chemist assistant at the Agronomy Research Laboratory at State College. Her work consists of running tests for calcium, magnesium, potassium, phosphorus, nitrogen, and P-4, on soil and plant samples. She says she enjoys the work very much, and Raleigh is her home every day.

Lorraine Moore is living in Wake Forest and teaching school in the first grade at the Rolesville Schools in Rolesville. "I find the work quite interesting and hope to continue with it for the next few years," she says.

Wilma Lewis is teaching the first grade at Tar Heel School, Tar Heel.

Grace Taylor is teaching the fourth grade at Grantham School, Grantham, Goldsboro.

Margaret Lewis, Ruth Davis, Edna Louise Powell, and Virginia Lee Henson are teaching in Roanoke Rapids.

Jessie Mary Williams is teaching in Burnett Yancey High School, Yanceyville, N. C. She is a Vocational Home Economics teacher. She is a Girl Scout Troop Leader and says she enjoys her school work and outdoor activities very much.

Bernice Blue is teaching the fourth grade in Laurel Hill.

Mary Alice Cozart says she is "not married, but engaged to be married after the war." Until that time she will continue teaching. This year she has been teaching Vocational Home Economics in Franklinton.

Florence Morris is teaching English in the Calvert County High School, Prince Frederick, Maryland. She writes, "I never dreamed that teaching would be so interesting and so much fun. I am planning to do graduate work at U. N. C. next year."

Pansie Deai is Assistant Home Demonstration Agent in Bryson City.

Frances Belle Turnage is teaching in South Boston, Virginia.

Bonnie L. Davis, Kate Evans, Helen James, Dorothy Pearsall, Helen Register, Dorothy Mae Sasser, Dorothy Shearin, Mabel Spence Watson, are all in New Hanover County Schools, Wilmington.

Annie Bartholomew, Rena Bate-man, and Christine Hellen are teaching in Henderson.

Myrtle Massengill is teaching in Four Oaks.

Ed Beddingfield is at Chapel Hill. Carol Leigh Humphries is Educational Director for the Temple Baptist Church in Wilmington and plans to attend the Baptist Seminary, Louisville, in the fall.

Sara Hunter took a trip to New York, Washington and Baltimore last summer following graduation. In the fall she began work as Mathematics teacher in Welcome High School. In addition to teaching four classes in Mathematics she coached girl's basketball.

Iris Herring began her teaching career as a third grade teacher in Wallace. Stronger than the call for teachers was a call to serve our country at war. Now is an Apprentice Seaman in the Weves. After school is out she will leave for training at Hunter College, N. Y. She says she loves teaching and wants to try again when the war is over.

For a month after graduation Lillian Boyette Arrington supervised a camp for underprivileged children. "Just a small camp in Bertie county, but a big experience," she writes. She has been teaching first grade in Maxton. On January 21, she was married to Lt. Charles E. Arrington, of Canington, Virginia.

Mrs. Blanche W. Jackson (the former Blanche Weldon of Henderson) is teaching at the Belvoir School. She was married several years ago and stopped school, but returned last year to finish with the class of 1944.

Another Vocational Home Economics teacher is Gladys Munford who is with the Wendell School system. Willie Copeland has been teaching the seventh grade in the Littleton High School. Doris Williams has been employed as secretary for the United Life and Accident Insurance Company in Kinston since last October.

Rachel Dixon and Emily Burns are in Paulsboro, New Jersey, where they are working with the Research and Development Division for Socony-Vacuum Oil Company. The work consists of running tests and experiments on projects still in the research stage, and in some cases directly connected with the Army and Navy.

Elnore Mason is working at Cherry Point.

Jean Strickland has been a student at Scarritt College for Christian Workers this year. She has completed one year in religion and hopes to work here in the North Carolina Conference as a religious education director in the Methodist Church.

Doris Hockaday and Garnette Cordle have been working on their Master's degrees at Teachers College, Columbia University, in New York City. They will receive their M. A. degrees in Early Childhood Education in June. This summer they are planning to be assistant teachers at Vassar Nursery School.

Evelyn Jones Heidenreich writes that the most important thing which has happened to her since graduation was receiving her M.R.S. degree. She and T/Sgt. Ralph Heidenreich were married July 13, 1944. From June until January 19 she was employed at the Union Bus Station as book-keeper, and says she enjoyed it very much for accounting always was her favorite subject. Due to the ill health of her mother she has been staying home since January keeping house and "getting good experience" until her "fighting Marine" comes home.

Dave Owens, president of the 1944 class, has been in the Army for the past year. "My life for the past 12 months has been not unlike the accounts published about G. I. Joes in books, magazines and newspapers, except that I have not been overseas." He is editor of the FORT BRAGG POST, official camp newspaper. "That was a lucky break the day I was offered the position, for I have never stopped learning new things about a work I would like to follow as a vocation," says Dave. Closing his letter was a poem to his class:

"Here's to the Class of '44,
Perfect, to the letter.
Here's to this year—and many more
To a Class that couldn't be better!"

Rosalie Brown spent last summer as Director of Dramatics and Music, Camp Teedy-Usk-Ung, Hawley, Pa. For two months during the fall she worked as Assistant to the Director at the local USO in Greenville, after which time she left for Miami, Fla.

where she spent five months as a Food Cost Accountant. At the present time she is employed in the Treasurer's office here at ECTC, taking Ruth Allen's place who resigned to get married.

Nine people received M. A. degrees in 1944 and all of them are teaching. Mrs. Mattie Lee Jackson Barnes is at Orrum. Mrs. Ivy Cooke Snyder and Nancy Darden are in Norfolk. Mrs. Joyce Hill Hales is here at the College. Mr. Palmer Holt is at Olivet Nazarene College in Illinois. Mrs. Marjorie Phillips is at Stokes. Mrs. Luella L. Stancill is at Middleburg. Mrs. Erma Small Turner is in Elizabeth City and Minnie May Whittington is in Snow Hill.

Class Of '20 Honored

Class Of 1920 Has Sixty-Six Members

The 1920 Class, which is honored this year, had 66 members to graduate. It has the distinction of being the last class to attend East Carolina Teachers Training School and the last class to attend only two-year normal graduates. Two of its members—Gertrude Chamberlain and Virginia Pigford—were the first to receive a degree from East Carolina Teachers College in 1922 and the first to receive a degree from any teachers' college in North Carolina. Both have traveled far from the old North State—the former to the Philippines and the latter to the West Coast.

1920 Class President Writes Letter

Dear Class Mates,
It is with a certain amount of regret that I look forward to June 2nd, due to the fact that I will be unable to meet you at our dear Alma Mater. Just think, it has been twenty-five years since the day we left to go out into the world as individuals. Some has passed on, some became famous in different respects. Many are mothers—Oh, I do wish that I might be there to hear each and everyone tell about what has happened and yes, to see what charm, time has bestowed upon each because we are in our prime of life and at an age to exhibit and offer to the world our best.

At the time I left you, I had dreams of all you and other young girls marrying—I did! It has been quite a happy life; I taught ten years of this time. I also have three children. My husband, who is a farmer, and children are all living. At this particular time, I am doing my bit by teaching—I started last year. Have two grades in the Oriental High School at Oriental, N. C. I am driving a school bus, keeping house, and helping take care of 1000 turkeys. Don't say I am not doing any teaching because I am. You know the ECTTS did not turn out any poor teachers in the '20 class.

Classmates, please think of me when you meet; I would be right there if I did not have such a noble son (aren't your children noble?) graduating at the same time from Porter Military Academy in Charleston, S. C. I cannot be in both places and I am quite sure you can understand.

Please write me a letter, card, or something telling me all about what you did. Can't some of you ever come to see me? Oh, I would love to have you; my husband would too. We live on the highway to Oriental, N. C., at a little place called Merritt—it has two or three homes, etc. You would be so welcome—yes, we would have fried chicken, ham, vegetables, and all the things (and the only things) of nature with which God has so blessed the country.

I hope your sons return safely home; I am praying for them. I haven't any in service but I never forget yours.

Mildred McCotter, 1920 Class President.
Mrs. Hugh E. Sawyer.

Class Members Have Widely Varied Jobs

Elizabeth Bass, married a Methodist preacher and went as a missionary to Belgian Congo. She lost her husband, returned to the States, and has married again, but has left no address with the Alumni Office.

Ruby Daughtridge is now Mrs. W. Turner Hinnant, who has recently moved from Rocky Mount to Charlotte and is an active member of the Alumni Chapter there. She has three children. Milton is in the Army stationed at the Walter Reed Hospital fitting limbs for wounded service men. A few months ago he was a guest at the White House when Mrs. Roosevelt entertained veterans from the hospital; he was admitted because he was pushing a major's wheelchair. John is a student at State, and Mary Bryant is in high school in Charlotte.

Helen Elliott (Mrs. Jake W. Lassiter) was selected Northampton County's Woman of the Year for 1942. She has lived in Conway since her marriage in 1938 and has taken an active part in Church and community affairs. For seventeen years she has been superintendent of the primary department of the Methodist Church and secretary of the Children's Missionary division. She has worked in the P. T. A., the Home Demonstration Club, and the Northampton County Alumni Chapter, which was active before the war and gas rationing. Before her marriage she taught in Vanceboro, Bethel, and Conway. She attended summer school at University of North Carolina in 1923, Columbia in 1925, and Duke in 1927. She has two sons, Jake, fifteen, and James, twelve.

Thelma Elliott returned to get her A. B. degree in 1941. Her address when last contacted was Halifax.

Agnes Ellis is teaching second grade in Whitakers, where she has been for the past fourteen years. She has also taught in Dunn and Spring Hope.

Lila D. Faircloth, star of the junior play, The Romancers, married Dr. S. H. Straun, a dentist. Her prophesy, "She will work most all the while and never take a rest" has been fulfilled for she has been very active in church and civic organizations in Marshville where she lived until July, 1944, when she moved to Concord. She has been president of Mother's Club, later known as the Womans Club, Band Parents Club of the High School and Woman's Missionary Union of the Baptist Church. She has also served as counselor for the Junior Royal Abassadors and helped to organize and taught in the Jack and Jill Kindergarten of Marshville. This spring she was elected Associate superintendent of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Cabarrus Baptist Association. She has four children. Martha, the oldest, is a junior in ECTC, and is especially prominent in musical groups of the campus. Helen is a senior in the Concord High School. Steve Jr. is in the eighth grade and Joy is in the sixth grade.

Blanche Farabow, (Mrs. W. B. Crews) writes, "I feel that what little contribution that I have made to humanity has been largely due to my training there (ECTC) and inspiration from my dear mother." She was married to Mr. William B. Crews, a merchant in Oxford, and has lived there for twenty years. Mr. and Mrs. Crews have two children, Caroline, thirteen, and Billy, nine.

Carolina Fitzgerald (Mrs. Harry Everett) has lived in Baltimore and New Bern but at present is in Selma. She has a daughter about twelve years old.

Ruby Garris began teaching at the Blind School in Raleigh when she graduated and has remained there ever since. She returned to the College, did work on her A. B. degree, and graduated in 1934. She has been an active member of the Raleigh Chapter of the Alumni Association, serving as president and chairman of many important committees.

Marguerite Hensley married W. W. Magill, a graduate of Purdue University and a member of the faculty of the University of Kentucky. She has lived in the famous Blue Grass Region since 1922. She has been active in the University Woman's Club, the U. D. C., the Federation of Church Women, the P. T. A., the Home Makers Club, a member of the First Methodist Church serving on the official board, president of Woman's Society for Christian Service and superintendent of children's division of Sunday School for the past eighteen years. She has two daughters, Elsie Jean, fifteen, and Peggy Page, eleven. Mrs. Magill issues a special invitation to each of the '20 class saying, "When ODT says 'Go', the latch string is always on the outside in 'our old Kentucky Home,' especially to our 'Tar Heel' friends."

Orene B. Hollowell, who returned to school and received her A. B. degree in 1923, writes, "I am still going strong as a spinster school ma'am! I have been elementary principal in Reidsville since 1929. I have done graduate study at Columbia and WUNC. Fishing is my hobby during the summer—at Edenton. This is bait for any of you who would like to bite."

Kathleen Kennedy became Mrs. E. D. Whichard in April, 1920, and stopped school rather than finishing her two-year course. She still lives in Greenville. She has two children, Bob and Kathleen; Kathleen is a student at the College this year. Bob is with the Seventh Army in Germany; his wife and small son live with the Whichards.

Ruth Loy is now Mrs. Wayland Winborne. She lived in Kinston and Rocky Mount before "settling down" in Wilson seventeen years ago. She writes, "I stay busy keeping house, doing work in church, American Legion Auxiliary and Red Cross."

Ruby Mercer (Mrs. Bernice Stone) has one daughter, Bernice Mercer, who graduates from Louisburg High School in June and expects to attend

ECTC in the fall. Mrs. Stone is teaching at Justice and has taught almost every year since leaving college, in Franklin, Nash, and Greene Counties.

Ollie Moore (Mrs. Julian E. Jenkins), formerly of Goldsboro, will receive a degree in Social Welfare work in June from the Richmond Division of William and Mary College. Before her marriage, her husband, who was a tobaccoist, had lived in China. She has two children—a daughter who is in high school and a son in grade school.

Annie Belle Quinerly, now Mrs. Ellis Joyner is living in Decatur, Ga.

Martha Ratchliffe taught three years in Salisbury and then married J. Roy Henry, of Tarboro, who died in 1934. Mrs. Henry and her twelve-year-old son still live in Tarboro, where she is teaching fourth grade in Central School; her son is in the sixth grade.

Callie Ruffin married Paul R. Worsley in December, after leaving school in the spring of 1920. They have lived in Rocky Mount ever since. They have two children, Charles, twenty-two, now in the Marine Air Corps, stationed in California, and Janice, a junior at Mary Washington College.

Ethel Southerland got her A. B. degree in 1938. She was living in Raleigh.

Carrie Teer, her husband, James M. Snipes, and two sons, James Jr., twenty-two, and Charles, nineteen, are tending a herd of 45 milk cows on their farm near Hillsboro, Route 2. She taught only one year before marrying, but has been substitute teacher in her community ever since.

Lula Wade married William Thomas Moss of Youngsville, N. C. on June 26, 1926. He is a breeder of Percheron horses and Hereford cattle. Her seven-year-old son, James Thomas, a Junior at State College, was awarded the North Carolina Future Farmer's degree in July, 1943. At the Seventeenth National Future Farmers of America Convention in Kansas City, Missouri, 1944, he received the Degree of American Farmer. Before marrying, Lula taught in Apex, Youngsville and Bladenboro. Since 1931 she has taught third grade in the Youngsville Graded School. By attending summer school and by extension work, she has raised her certificate from a Grammar Grade B to a Primary A.

Zelma Wester (Mrs. C. J. Thoroughgood) writes, "There has been nothing 'spectacular' in my life since my graduation from college. The years have been most pleasant ones, however." She taught for two years in Four Oaks, one year in Salisbury, and two years in Franklinton, her hometown. In 1925 she went to Raleigh to teach and has been there ever since. In August, 1931, she married Clyde James Thoroughgood and they have one son, "Jimmie," who is almost three years old.

Alice Whitehurst (Mrs. Robert J. Barbee) was the star in the "Mascoot," the first opera to be presented by a class on the campus. She is living in Greensboro, where her husband is an architect. She has two boys, Bobbie and Jimmie.

Henrietta Zahniser has recently lost her husband, Mr. Elvin Jones. She has a son, Elvin Ray, who is attending Greenville High School. She has been active in the P. T. A. of the Third Street School, working in a quiet, unassuming way. She has taught in Bethel and Siler City, but has lived in Greenville since her marriage.

Ruth Brown (Mrs. J. D. Aman) lives in Greenville. She has three children Helen, eighteen, who is at Greensboro College, Frances, fifteen, who is a sophomore in High School and Johnnie, twelve, who is in the sixth grade at the Training School.

ECTC Alumni Are Well Known People

Annie Laurie Brinkley McDonald has been elected president of the North Carolina Education Association for 1945-46. She has just completed a year's graduate study in health education at the school of public health at the University of North Carolina. She received a two-year-diploma in 1927 from ECTC, her A. B. from Lenoir Rhyne and her M. A. degree in education at the University of North Carolina.

Virginia Page Spencer, 1942, has written a three-act play, "Calliope" which was presented by the Carolina Playmakers in their theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 10, 11, 12, as the 20th premiere production of new American plays. The scene is laid in a village on the eastern coast of North Carolina.

Estelle McClees, '32, former ECTC Alumni Secretary, has been appointed a member of the State Textbook Commission by Governor Cherry and Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Frances Barnes, '37, will do demonstration teaching for the English Institute at U. N. C. this summer. She majored in English and first taught for two years in Pitt County. She received her master's degree from Columbia and is now teaching in Leaksville.

James W. Butler, the only boy enrolled at the College in 1923-24, was recently re-elected executive secretary of the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce, a post which he had held for the last four years.

Clifton Britton, A. B. '40 and M. A. '42, has been elected president of the Carolina Dramatics Association. Mr. Britton is teaching and coaching dramatics in the Goldsboro City Schools. He has presented several outstanding plays during the year.

The Association when they were so honored. Of those who have received the award two were leaders in the Association before their profession took them to distant States, and two were prominent Association leaders when they were elected. All recipients and nominees have taught at least one or more years, and all have been active in professional, civic, and church groups. Thus have all shown their "loyalty" to the College; they have followed its ideal: "To Serve."

All nominations have been made by chapters; none has been offered by a member of the Advisory Committee. All elections have really been by the Alumni; the votes of the Advisory Committee have never so affected the chapter votes as to change the outcome if only alumni votes had been counted.

During the past three years the representatives appointed by the Association president to cast the final votes have been the presidents of the chapters. These have studied the data on all the nominees and then cast the chapter vote. One president had the data read at a chapter meeting, and by secret ballot the members made the selection for the president.

The Advisory Committee will be glad when peacetime conditions again allow the chapter representatives to meet at the College for the voting. Reading and discussing the data together tends towards a unanimous vote, and gives opportunity for the

Districts Divide Alumni Work

Alumni work in the State of North Carolina is divided into six geographical districts using the same boundaries as those used by N.C.E.A. Over each district is a vice-president who is elected on the even years by secret ballot to serve for two years.

Western District — Mrs. B. M. Bennett (Elizabeth Stewart) '17 and '28, former president of the Alumni Association, has taught in Louisburg, Whitakers, Kernersville, Nash county, High Point, Elmira School near Burlington, and Forest City. In 1941 she was elected Executive Secretary of the Rutherford County Chapter of the American Red Cross. "I always enjoyed teaching, but I am enjoying my Red Cross work more than anything I have ever done," writes Mrs. Bennett.

North Western — Adminta Eare, '43, has been teaching in the Wiley School in Winston-Salem ever since leaving College.

South Piedmont, Mrs. Irving Sawyer (Glennie Mangum) graduated in 1924, taught school for two years, married in 1926, has been keeping house but within recent years has been substitute teacher in Charlotte. Mrs. Sawyer says, "I have certainly found my old interest in teaching easily revived. It is something you don't easily get away from. Many thanks again to ECTC."

North Central — Mrs. L. L. Carpenter (Lucille O'Brian) graduated in 1916, received an A. B. at Limestone College in 1932, lived out of the state for twenty-one years where her husband taught at various colleges, returned to N. C. in 1943, has been busy with various jobs in government service, has worked with the Baptist Sunday School Board and is now connected with the Baptist Book Store in Raleigh. Her husband is editor of the Biblical Recorder, The State Baptist Paper.

Southeastern — Mrs. A. E. Brown (Hannah Cuthrell) who married immediately after graduating in 1917, has missed only 3 commencements. She attended Durham Conservatory of Music. Her husband is a Methodist preacher and so she has lived in many towns in East-north Carolina. She has four sons, three in service—two of whom attended ECTC. Her daughter is a student at Greensboro College.

Northeastern — Wita Bond, has taught Math in Rocky Mount ever since receiving her A. B. degree in '29. She got her M. A. from Duke in 1936.

representatives to choose the person who is to present the award. The Advisory Committee believes that the Award plan has been and can continue to be one of the finest Association activities. It encourages alumni to make "notable contributions" wherever they are. It is a means of gathering histories of widely scattered graduates and of developing in their fellow alumni pride in their accomplishments.

The one regret which the present advisers have is that each year only one nominee could be elected. All have been worthy of the honor; all have been proof that the alumni have high standards for judging work and

Greenville Has 5 Former State Alumni Presidents

Greenville, the home of East Carolina Teachers College, has five former state alumni presidents, Mrs. A. J. Moore (Nell Pender) who was the first president (1912-14) is now interested in U. S. O. Miss Estelle Greene, 1916-18, and Miss Deanie B. Haskett, 1932, are both critic teachers in the Greenville High School. Mrs. A. F. Smith (Elizabeth Smith) 1933-35, is Assistant Dean of Women at the College and Mrs. Clem Garner (Ruth Blanchard) is Alumni Secretary.

The Raleigh Chapter can boast of four former presidents. Mrs. D. H. Osborne (Louise Smaw) who was president in 1919-21; Mrs. O. K. Joyner (Christine Vick), president in 1935-37; Mrs. J. C. Holland, (Alla May Jordan) president in 1941-43; and Mrs. J. L. Marcom (Augusta Woodard) who has been serving since September 1944, are all active members of the Chapter and the Association.

Charlotte Chapter has three former presidents in its membership. Miss Pattie S. Dowell, who was president in 1923-24, is now teaching at Winthrop College, Rick Hill, S. C., but still keeps her membership in Charlotte. Mrs. A. S. Bynum (Emma Cobb) who was president during 1924-25, was recording secretary for the Chapter during the past year. Mrs. Frank S. Johnston (Helen Watson) who was president during 1930-32, is living at Paw Creek but has her membership in Charlotte.

Roanoke Rapids Chapter has two—Miss Ruth Dean, president in 1922-'23 and Miss Ruth Lowder, president in 1925-28.

The others are scattered throughout the state and south. Edna Campbell, 1914-16, in Valdosta, Georgia; Mrs. L. L. Stancill (Luella Lancaster) 1918-19 and 1937-39, in Middleburg; Mrs. L. C. Ferrell (Ophelia O'Brain), 1921-22 in Kinston; Miss Bonnie C. Howard, 1928-30, in Louisville, Kentucky; Mrs. J. R. Thompson (Lillie Dawson) 1932-33, in Goldsboro; and Mrs. B. M. Bennett (Elizabeth Stewart) 1939-41, in Forest City.

character. Perhaps an honor roll of nominees not yet elected should be published in recognition of both the nominees and those who offered their names.

In 1939 the College president, from a list of names suggested by the Executive Board, appointed the following Advisory Committee: Miss Emma L. Hooper, chairman, Miss Maria D. Graham, Miss Ruth White, Dr. A. D. Frank, and Mr. J. B. Cummings; and in 1941 and 1943 he re-appointed this committee, with approval expressed by the Association

Phi Sigma Pi Holds Banquet

The Tenth Annual Banquet of Phi Sigma Pi, Tau Chapter, was held in the Proctor Hotel building, Friday, May 11, 1945, at which Mrs. J. E. Spillman made the dinner address.

Mrs. Spillman, who formerly was for thirteen years assistant treasurer of ECTC and for years Commissioner of Unemployment Compensation in North Carolina and who now is Manager of the War Man Power Commission of Pitt County and Compliance Inspector for the Eastern District of North Carolina, addressed the fraternity brothers, their wives and their guests in a short talk about her work with the War Man Power Commission and the need for white collar workers who will work with brain, brawn and skill.

Brother Sam Strickland gave the invocation while Brother Edna B. Worth delivered the welcome speech to those that were present. Dinner, which consisted of roast turkey, pork, green peas, mashed potatoes, tomato salad, hot rolls, cream, wafers and also, Brother Edna Charlton introduced the program.

Later, Dr. Beecher Foxworth, speaker, introduced with humorous allusions the incoming and outgoing officers of the fraternity. "Good night Ladies" was sung by the Brothers.

Retiring officers are: Edna B. Worth, president; Debra T. Green, vice-president; John D. Charles, secretary; Sam B. Strickland, treasurer; Beverly W. O'Neil, historian; and Stuart T. Triple, sergeant-at-arms.

Officers for next year are: Edna Crandall, president; John I. Johnson, vice-president; Leslie Vance, secretary; R. Truman Cherry, treasurer; M. Nell Posey, Jr., historian; Fagan Taylor, Jr., sergeant-at-arms.

president of the respective year. If these members Miss Graham has been active with the Alumni since the first year of the College and has performed many services besides the special ones which the Advisory Committee was appointed.
