IDC Queen Finalists

Ten Co-eds Seek Title 'Queen Of IDC Ball'

In preliminary competition in Austin Auditorium Tuesday night, ten finalists were named from a field of thirty-eight co-eds to vie for "Inter-dormitory Ball Queen." for "Inter-dormitory Ball Queen." Ball sponsored by the IDC is Saturday night, May 18, 1963, from 8:30 until 12:30 in Wright Building. "The Majors" and "The Tuskehords" have been booked to play for the event.

A panel of ten judges consisting of the Executive Committee of the IDC, two male students at large, two female students at large, and two faculty members named the top ten lovelies by ballot. Each candidate was introduced on stage and given a pop question. Typical examples are, "Why is it important for a young woman of today to receive a college education?" "What would you do if you caught your best girlfriend with your steady?" "If your boyfriend had the money to buy you an engagement ring, and instead he bought a set of golf clubs, what would be your reaction?" Judging was based on facial beauty, poise, and personality. The contestants appeared in cocktail dresses.

An 8 by 10 picture of each of the ten finalists will be posted on a bulletin board in the men's dormitories, and an election by popular vote of the men dormitory students will decide the queen. The ten finalists will be introduced at the ball, and the queen will be crowned. Any residents of the men's dormitories had the privilege of nominating an East Carolina co-ed for queen by submitting her name to the IDC. The ball will be free to all men dormitory residents and their dates. Anyone else who wishes to attend can purchase a ticket from a member of the IDC for $1.

Army Field Band Plays; Soldiers Chorus Sings Saturday

The U.S. Army Field Band of Washington, D. C., will present a concert at EC at 8 p.m. in the Wright Auditorium tomorrow. The public is invited. Since the Department of the Army forbids the band to play at events where admission is charged, admission will be free.

The concert is being co-ordinated in conjunction with the Department of the Army.

A range of musical compositions of interest to all music lovers will be offered in Saturday's concert. Selections will include classical, semi-classical, and popular compositions; choral arrangements performed by the Soldiers' Chorus of the band; novelty numbers; and a group of stirring military marches.

Organized in 1946, the band has appeared in inaugural parades of the three Presidents the United States has had since that time, Presidents Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy. The band has also presented concerts in all 50 states as well as in Europe and the Orient.

Major Robert L. Bierly is commanding officer and director of the 100-piece band which has its own motor transportation so that it can fulfill its prime mission of visiting troops in the field and in presenting concerts in the grass-roots communities of America.

As Major Bierly put it, "No town is too small so long as there is a place in which the band can play and sufficient hotel or motel accommodations to billet the band members."

Motto of the band is "We Are the Kings of the Highway," which is in keeping with the band's travel requirements by motor and with the old Infantry song, "Kings of the Highway," which the band uses as its signature song.

Horne Announces New Psychological Exam

Students who have a degree and are planning to begin work at EC for the first time this summer will be required to take the Ohio State Psychological Examination or the Graduate Record Examination, Dr. John H. Horne, Director of Admissions, has stated.

"Students will not be admitted unless they present satisfactory scores on one of these examinations before June 10," Dr. Horne said.

"Should students show up on registration day for the first session of summer school without having completed all admission requirements," Dr. Horne continued, "they will be referred to the second session and will have an opportunity to complete the Ohio State Psychological Examination and other requirements before enrolling for the second term of summer school."

The Ohio State Psychological Examination will be offered on the campus on Saturday, June 1, and Saturday, June 8, in Room 130, Rawl Building, at 1:30 p.m. Registration for the first session of summer school will be on Monday, June 17.

The same examination will also be administered prior to the second session of summer school on Saturday, July 13, and Saturday, July 20, at the same time and place.

Those students desiring to take the Graduate Record Examination should make application directly to the Educational Testing Service, Box 592, Princeton, New Jersey, which will notify applicants about the date when the test will be administered and supply other necessary information.

EC Receives National Grant To Promote Science, Math

EC has received $8040 from the National Science Foundation to be used to implement and finance the second phase of a program for junior high school teachers of science and mathematics.

This grant is in addition to more than $85,000 the College has received from the Foundation during the past two years in connection with the first-phase Summer Institute program for junior high school teachers.

The new grant is to be used to pay teaching staff, pay tuition for participating teachers and provide funds to aid the participants in purchasing texts.

Forty in-service, 7th to 12th grade, teachers from schools within commuting distance of Greenville will be selected to participate.

Three quarters of earth science and three quarters of mathematics will be offered during the 1963-1964 school year. These courses are especially designed for the program. The courses will carry senior-graduate credit with credit for both the graduate and undergraduate certificate renewal.

A Do-It-Yourself Laundry?

Students awoke Tuesday morning to find the central campus fountain once again in the spotlight. This time, instead of a catfish, they found an oversized bubble bath. Evidently someone tripped and spilled a bottle of the bubbly stuff into the fountain. Perhaps someone needed a place to wash his laundry and used an entire box of detergent. Only the culprit knows.

Parker Stages One-Man Show

Staged as one of a series of one-man shows by seniors in the School of Art, an exhibition of paintings by Douglas C. Parker is now hung in the Kate Lewis Gallery, Rawl Building.

Nine abstract oils, several of them striking in their brilliant colors, make up the major part of the show. Included also are three representational oil paintings, two of them portraits. A drawing and a collage complete the works being shown.

SAFETY CONSCIOUSNESS

In line with recent trends toward safety consciousness on the East Carolina campus, and with an eye to reducing the carnage on the campus, we decided to run an editorial about general highway safety.

It's a grim business. But regardless of the words of warning which appear in the columns of this newspaper—and in the countless columns of other newspapers across this vast land of ours—the carnage on the nation's highways continues at an alarming rate.

Last year was not an exception. In fact, the year 1962 stands infamously as the most tragic in the history of highway safety. According to an authoritative report by The Travelers Insurance Companies, 40,500 persons were killed last year in U. S. traffic accidents. It was an all-time high for a single year and erases the previous record of 39,969 fatalities set in 1941.

Moreover, highway accidents injured an additional 3,345,000 people in 1962. This, too, is a shocking total—a total which exceeds by nine percent the comparable figure for 1961.

To be sure, this is tragic news. However, we cannot help but feel the real tragedy lies with the public at large which apparently finds precious little motivation for joining the battle to save lives on the highways.

Perhaps in the final analysis the communications media are armed with poor ammunition. Statistics, by and large, make poor copy even though they deal with a situation which last year directly affected 3,385,500 lives. Countless others were involved indirectly.

So the question continues to arise: how can we translate 3,385,500 casualties into a meaningful figure?

Consider, if you will, the combined population of cities like Atlanta, Boston, Dallas and San Francisco. Add to that sum the number of people living in Albuquerque, Des Moines and Salt Lake City. Then add the total population in Butte, Montana . . . and in Cheyenne, Wyoming . . . and in Tucson, Arizona . . . and in Wheeling, West Virginia.

When you total the number of men, women and children living in these 11 American cities, you will have a sum approximately equal to the number of highway casualties in this country last year.

It's an appalling number. Worse yet, most of these casualties were not caused by mechanical failure or by poor driving conditions.

The simple fact is that nearly nine out of every 10 highway accidents were caused by driver error and lack of judgment. At the same time, The Travelers report also points out that more than 80 per cent of all accidents occurred in clear weather and on dry roads.

This, we devoutly hope, makes our point. We believe these facts stand as mute testimony that the dramatic reduction of highway deaths and injuries can only be accomplished if we as drivers are determined to stand up and be counted in this annual battle against senseless slaughter on the nation's roadways.

QUIBBLERS

Apparently, quibbling exists as a foible of legislatures other than our own student senate. We recall how earlier this year the student senate held up needed legislation while they debated for an hour or more over whether to give some group sixteen dollars for a set of dishes. They went on in the next five minutes to give out almost $3,000.00.

The NC state legislature is doing the same thing now. They have debated the issue of the proposed name change for State College for several months, meanwhile delaying action on the remainder of the education bill. Makes one wonder about these "guardians of the people's trust."

OUR APOLOGIES

The members of the election committee and the student senate and whomever else we thought responsible for allowing the outgoing seniors to vote for next year's senior representatives deserve an apology. They did not originate that policy. It has been the policy "for a long time." All they did was perpetuate it.

ELECTICISM

In A Different Vein

Several little quotable-quote type things have popped up recently and we can't resist passing them on. In an old Saturday Review the other day we read comments on manufacturers and their mottoes. One company manufacturing arch-support shoes claims that their shoes "make street-walking a pleasure." The best one came from the Mercy Baby Foods Company. Their motto — "The quality of Mercy is not strained."

In the same issue John Ciardi was discussing the current or now past fad of fifty-mile hikes. He said one reader had suggested the hike craze was an anti-intellectual trend, replacing fast reading with fast walking. Another expressed a desire to see some shoe company manufacture shoes with a clock and a pedometer built into the soles.

A friend recently made a nice quip. He's in Hawaii on the island of Maui and one of the wealthiest families on the island is the Baldwin family. He tells us that practically everywhere you look you find a memorial this or that to the Baldwins. The monkeys throw coconuts down from the trees and you pick them up half expecting to see "Baldwin Memorial Coconut" inscribed on the side. This year the Baldwins donated the money for a large Baldwin Memorial Church and our friend wrote us that he really couldn't understand the furor this had caused. "After all," he wrote, "the Baldwins have to be nice to God. He's the only one who owns more than they do."

We attended a meeting recently at which a young lady blistered our hide good, although we naturally thought rather pointlessly. But it reminded us of a poem by Rudyard Kipling called "The Female of the Species." Part of it is as follows:

She is wedded to convictions — in default of grosser ties;
Her contentions are her children,
Heaven help him who denies!
He will meet no suave discussion,
but the instant, white-hot, wild Wakened female of her species warring as for spouse and child.

So it comes that Man, the coward, when he gathers to confer
With his fellow-braves in council, dare not leave a place for her Where, at war with Life and Conscience, he uplifts his erring hands

To some God of Abstract Justice—which no woman understands.

And Man knows it! Knows, moreover, that the Woman that God gave him

Must command "but may not govern — shall enthral but not enslave him.

And She knows, because She warns him, and Her instincts never fail,

That the Female of Her Species is more deadly than the Male.

And that's all, brother.

Wolves

(ACP) Once upon a time, says
THE PLAINSMAN, Little Red Riding Hood's mother decided it was time for the girl to go to college.

The mother warned of the greedy wolves she might encounter during her trip through the college. At Auburn University, Auburn, Ala., Miss Hood had to pay a large sum of money for only three books. At the end of the quarter she took the books to the bookstore to sell.

She had taken special care not to harm the books so she could get most of her money back (the Hood family was not at all wealthy). But she was shocked to learn that they would give her only half of what she originally paid. She heard, though, that the book store would up the price of the book to nearly the original price and sell it again next quarter.

Unfortunately, this nursery rhyme has no hunter to kill the wolf and allow Little Red Riding Hood to live happily ever after.

Elections

Dear Editor:
Funny thing about the senate and class elections—

Sometime last week there was a meeting of the candidates running for class and senate positions.
From what I've been able to find out, some number under one-half the total number of candidates were informed of such a meeting and attended. As a consequence for not attending, each absent candidate was fined $2. The meeting was Thursday night, and the announcement of the meeting came a day later in the EAST CAROLINIAN.

Ask the chairman of the Elections Committee, and he will tell that it is not his job to publicize filing dates and send notices about meetings. What exactly is his job then?

Yours Truly,
Bill Tharrington

WRITERS IN RESIDENCE

(I. P.) Not one, but eight writers-in-residence have been named by Hollins College for the 1963-64 academic year, President John A. Logan, Jr., announced here recently. Novelist Robert Penn Warren, William Golding, Peter Taylor and Andrew Lytle, and poets Allen Tate, Karl Shapiro, Richard Wilbur and Howard Nemerov will each pay visits of several days to this campus during the coming year.

They will consult with literature students, read student creative writing manuscripts, take part in seminars, and give public readings.
Hitherto Hollins has had a distinguished writer-in-residence for the entire year. Howard Nemerov, who was recently named consultant in poetry at the Library of Congress for the next year, has been at Hollins during the current session. Last year the British novelist William Golding was in residence, and before that it was critic-novelist John W. Aldridge.

For the 1963-64 session, however, it was decided not to have a single writer present throughout the school year, but instead to invite a series of well-known authors for short visits to the campus.
"We hope to have at least one writer here for several days during each month of the school year," President Logan said. "It will be a privilege for our literature student to be able to meet and discuss fiction and poetry with such eminent practitioners of the art."

Warren, whose novel "All The King's Men" is generally recognized as one of the noteworthy works of 20th Century fiction in America, is known as a novelist, poet, and critic.

Golding's novel, "Lord of the Flies," is currently the most widely read work of fiction on American college and university campuses.

Taylor, who teaches at Ohio State University, is one of the most highly regarded of post-World War II Southern writers.

Lytle, currently editor of the Sewanee Review, is author of "The Velvet Horn" and other novels.

Tate, Professor of English at the University of Minnesota, is a major figure in 20th Century American poetry.

Shapiro, whose poems of World War II catapulted him into national prominence, is one of the controversial figures in the current literary scene. He is editor of the literary magazine "Prairie Schooner."

Wilbur, who teaches at Wesleyan University, is generally considered among the three of four important American poets of the post-World War II generation.

Industrial Arts Dept.

To Offer New Course In Power Mechanics

Bill Wallen prints on the offset press.

Mr. Kelsey, woodworking instructor, helps a student use the drill press to drill a lamp base hole.

Students in the Industrial Arts Department are engaged in laboratory and classroom activities in industrial arts in order to eventually lead to the development of understanding of the manufacturing industries in our culture.

Students are primarily prepared for teaching, however, some are employed by industry in personal departments, directing employee training and quality control. Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science and Master's Degrees are offered by the Industrial Arts Department.

Courses are offered in the areas of woodworking, metal working, power mechanics, graphic arts, electronics, and drafting. In addition to teaching college courses in industrial arts, the Department also offers courses at the elementary level at Wahl-Coates.

The metal shaper is one of the essential machines in the metal shop.

A new course in power mechanics will soon be offered which will be concerned with transportation by means of nuclear power or electric and gasoline engines. This type of power mechanics is something which is new in the country and will be the first of its kind in this state.

Many safety precautions are taken to prevent accidents. The Department follows a system of painting the machines which was developed by Pittsburg Paint Co. and used by many industries. This system employs painting the base color of the machine green, the moving parts yellow and the switches orange. Also, the corners of the benches are painted with yellow and black latched marks. Metal grinders and power saws are furnished with guards, and students working on the metal grinders must wear goggles. Covered cans are provided for oily rags, to prevent spontaneous combustion. The paper cutter in the Graphic Arts section is equipped with a guard.

The Industrial Arts Department employs a staff of nine with 118 students enrolled. Since Dr. Bing became the head of the Department about 13 years ago the Department has increased its size. Recently it has moved into the bottom floor of the new addition to Flanagan and the existing facilities were renovated.

Extra fees for Industrial Arts courses are low. Students pay only for the materials they use, which usually averages about $5 a course.

'Young Voices' Publishes Poems Of Students Jennings, Kendall

Helen Jennings
No available photo of Mary Kendall

Helen Martha Jennings and Mary Core Kendall, students at EC, recently had poems published in Young Voices, the 1962-63 poetry anthology of the Inter-Collegiate Poetry Congress.

The Poetry anthology, edited by Henry Allen Paper and Walter O. Kaelber, is a collection of works by college students throughout the United States. Four works by North Carolina authors were accepted, two from EC and two from UNC.

Miss Jennings, a freshman, has been writing poetry for approximately a year. She was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., and now lives in Richmond, Va. Writing ability is a quality which seems to run in her family—her younger sister, Kathleen, has had poetry published also.

Mrs. Kendall, a resident of Garrett Hall, makes her home in Wilmington, N. C. She writes as a hobby.

Duggins Replaces Robinson As Head Of Marching Pirates

Marcus Duggins, freshman student in the School of Music, has been named Drum Major of the East Carolina College Marching Pirates.

The Band, one of the outstanding bands in the South, has staged this year halftime shows for football games; performed for the Homecoming Day Parade; and during the Christmas season, participated in various community events in Greenville and other towns of the state.

Mr. Duggins replaces Reginald Robinson of Mount Holly and will act as drum major of the band during 1963-1964. Prior to enrolling here, he served for three years as drum major of the Oxford High School band.

He is a member of the East

Carolina College Symphonic Band, Varsity Band, Orchestra, and Men's Glee Club.

Education Major Receives Teachers Assn. Scholarship

Judy Louise Biggs of Rocky Mount, junior education major at EC, is one of four North Carolina students to be awarded a $200 scholarship for the year 1963-1964 by the Mary Morrow

Scholarship Committee of the North Carolina Classroom Teachers Association.

Miss Biggs was selected on the basis of her character, financial need, personality, evidence of promise in the teaching field, and scholastic achievement in the upper-one-third of her class.

Recipients of the State CTA Mary Morrow Scholarship awards must be willing to teach for at least two years in the public schools of North Carolina immediately following graduation.

The scholarships, provided through donations of teachers, are awarded annually by the North Carolina Classroom Teachers Association, a division of the North Carolina Education Association. The scholarship was named in memory of the first president of the Classroom Teachers Association.

Miss Biggs, an outstanding student among campus organizations, has served at EC as president of the Association for Childhood Education and as treasurer of Tau Sigma, honorary educational fraternity. She is also a member of the student National Education Association and of the Wesley Foundation.

Her name has appeared on both the Honor Roll and Dean's List of Superior Students.

Heath Receives NSF Scholarship For Research

Linda Katherine Heath, a junior, has been granted a scholarship from the National Science Foundation for undergraduate research participation this summer at N. C. State College. She will be working with J. R. Mauney, Cotton Physiologist there, from June 10 through August 17.

Last summer Miss Heath did research study with cotton embryos at N. C. State. In this capacity, she used auxins in an effort to produce callus production in cotton. She anticipates continuing this field of research in June.

Miss Heath is specializing in biology and science. Her name has appeared on the Honor Roll and the Dean's List of Superior Students.

Carter Observes French Musicians, Instruments

Herbert L. Carter, director of bands at EC, as a member of the "Leblanc Ambassadors of Music," will make a ten-day tour of France May 6-16 to observe the manufacture of musical instruments in French plants, to become better acquainted with new French music, and to hear performances by musicians and music groups there.

As a guest of the Leblanc Corporation, manufacturers of musical instruments in this country and France, Mr. Carter will be one of a selected group of 90 music educators, woodwind specialists, and professional musicians from the United States who will make the tour. The group will make transatlantic crossings by jet plane and will travel by motorcoach as they visit such centers as Paris, Moulins, Vichy, Tours, and Chartres.

Mr. Carter, a clarinetist, plans especially to observe work being done in the Paris Conservatory of Music and in a secondary school, and to collect music unavailable at present in this country for band and woodwind instruments.

For the Ambassadors, the Leblanc Corporation has also arranged a program of sightseeing and entertainment.

Putnam, Langston To Study With Summer Dance Festival

Clyde Putnam and Cappy Jo Langston, members of the Theater Dance Group at East Carolina College, have been accepted as participants for the nine-week summer session of the world renowned Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival in Massachusetts. At Jacob's Pillow, they will study all forms of concert dance under teachers with international reputations. Ted Shawn, Dean of American concert dance, is the founder and director of Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival. He has furnished an outstanding dance faculty each summer for the last 22 years at the festival. This summer the faculty will include such famous names as Ted Shawn and Myra Kinch (Contemporary Dance), Margaret Bland (Classical Ballet), Goya, and La Mer (Ethnic Dance), and others.

It is considered quite an honor to be chosen as a student at Jacob's Pillow since only one-third of the applicants are typically accepted. Miss Rose Griffith, instructor of the Theater Dance Group, studied at Jacob's Pillow the summer of 1957. Mrs. Griffith, wife of Dr. Robert Griffith of the Psychology Department at EC, sponsored Mr. Putnam and Miss Langston's applications.

Both Mr. Putnam and Miss Langston were members of the dance company for the musical, "The Upright A Mattress," taking the roles of Sir Harold and Lady Beatrice. These two talented dancers have participated in other dance performances on campus and on local TV. Miss Langston is also the current president of the Modern Dance Club at EC. All students will receive college credit for the dance courses completed at Jacob's Pillow. They will return to EC in August and will be expected to take leading dance roles in theatrical productions at the college next year.

Senior Music Student To Appear In Recital

Mrs. Betsy Hancock Bullard, senior music student, will appear in her graduating recital Sunday, April 28, at 3:30 p.m. in McGinnis auditorium. She is one of a small group of 1963 graduates sponsored by the School of Music in a series of honors recitals by students of outstanding talent. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Bullard is well known in this section of the state through appearances in leading roles in the annual spring musicals at the college, in Opera Theater productions, and in other music programs.

At EC she has had the leading woman's roles in "South Pacific," "Guys and Dolls," and "The Old Maid and the Thief" and, in addition, sang solo parts in "Sister Angelica" and "Faust." She has also been soloist in "The Messiah" and the 1962 concerto program and with the College Choir.

Mrs. Bullard will be assisted on Sunday's program by Terry Coley pianist, and Mrs. Theresa Shank violinist.

The program for the recital will include such varied numbers as "Vissi d'arte" from "Tosca"; a group of songs in German by Schumann, Wagner, and other composers; Vaughan Williams' "Searching for Lambs"; and Rummel's "Ecstasy."

Kizer, Graham, Evans Attend ACE Conference

Three delegates are representing the EC chapter of the Association for Childhood Education at the 1963 ACEI Study Conference at Miami Beach, Florida, Saturday through Sunday, April 20-22.

The conference features the theme "Essentials for Every Child." The EC students will participate in seminars entitled "Developing Values Inherent in the Democratic Way of Life" and "Understanding Culture through Science" at the conference.

Some of the questions which will be discussed by the EC delegates are "How do we help children view themselves and their social relationships?" and "How can children be helped to grow in appreciation and understanding of culture?"

Representing the EC chapter of the ACEI at Miami are Helen Ann Kizer, Judith Ann Graham, and Charlotte Merle Evans.

ALPHA DELTA PI

The pledges of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority completed a fund-raising project last Saturday. The girls held a car wash at the Tacker Atlantic service station on the New Bern highway. It was a very successful pledge project. The pledges washed thirty cars.

Warren, Perry Attend Meeting

Miss W. Warren and Miss Perry of the School of Nursing at EC attended the annual meeting for members of the Executive Council of the North Carolina League of Nursing and the North Carolina State Nurses Association Thursday, April 18, in Asheville. While there, they also attended the annual convention of the North Carolina League for Nursing. Both meetings were held at the Sheraton Hotel, Asheville.

Miss Warren serves as Treasurer of NCSNA and Miss Perry as Chairman of the Membership Committee of NCLN.

The Convention featured "Our Challenge for the Future."

SPORTS REVIEW

By RON DOWDY

Last Tuesday's column about being admitted or not to the Southern Conference caused quite a ruckus. So, I shall elaborate further.

After conversing with Earl Aiken I have learned quite a bit about this subject. There is very little possibility that East Carolina will be admitted into the Southern Conference within the next three years. In order to play these teams we have to have a financial guarantee to assure them that they will not lose any money. EC needs a new and larger basketball court, the field house is in the distant planing stages; and a track. At present the thin-clads don't even have a track to practice on, much less to use for competitive play. We need facilities in order to participate in Home-to-Home scheduling.

Even though the school lacks in the facilities, it lacks even more so in student support. The school, as well as the individual teams, need the student support to let the people of the area know how interested we are in our athletic teams. Will it be possible for the students to unpack their suitcases for the sports in order to attend them? Not only are the students needed in attendance, but more so in their cheers. port the teams. Will the students support the new cheers?

With the fall will come new and better cheers to support the teams, will the students support the new cheers?

There will be 4,500 seats reserved for the student body in the cement section of the new James Ficklen Stadium. Will we be able to fill them?

Mr. Aiken feels as though it would be an "honor" for EC to be admitted into the Southern Conference. this year or even in years to come.

It has been mentioned that the Sports Department slights the minor sports here on campus. There just isn't as much to write about an event in track, tennis or golf. We will try to straighten out all complaints.

With the release of the statistics one can readily see that the "B. and B." boys are two powerful threats. Carlton Barnes and Buddy Bovender are leading the team in almost all of the departments. To watch them and their smoothness on the field is really thrilling. The double-plays they execute are sometimes unbelievable. Bovender started the second-half off right when he went 3-4 against Camp Lejeune last Monday. He hit a triple and also homered. Barnes was hitless. And THAT'S THAT!

Stan Sanders, well-known area sportscaster, has officially been named the sportscaster for the NEW EC football network. Information about the network has not been completed yet, but will be published when it is.

Barnes Leads Baseball Team With .408 Batting Average

Carlton Barnes, the husky 5'10" sophomore Physical Education major from nearby Wilson, as expected, has paced the EC baseball team with his bat during the first half of the season. He led the team in more than half of the different categories.

Barnes, a powerful threat at the plate in his lead off position, batted .408 during the first twelve games. With his high batting average, he batted out three home runs with thirteen runs batted in. Barnes was also at bat the most number of times with the most base hits and walks.

In a close second place, freshman second baseman Buddy Bovender pounded out a close seventeen hits with seven runs batted in and a hefty .384 batting average.

Outfielder and pitching ace Lacy West and right fielder Merrill Bynum both top the rugged .300 mark. West batted .333 with eleven hits and six runs batted in. Bynum batted .325 with thirteen hits and eight runs batted in.

Pirates Edge Camp Lejeune For Ninth Win

The Pirates started the second half of their schedule on the right foot last Monday as they edged the Camp Lejeune Marines, 6-4

In the ninth victory for the Pirates, ace hurler Lacy West won his fifth. West, a lanky 6'4" senior from Asheboro, went the route as he gave up 10 hits, walked four, and struck out four, while allowing four runs.

The Pirates scored four of their runs in the third and the Marines scored of their three runs in the seventh. In the third, frosh second-baseman Buddy Bovender led off the inning with a home run to start the Pirates going. Junior Green and rightfielder Merrill Bynum singled, after which first baseman Tommy Kidd ended his prominent batting slump by sailing the fourth pitch over the fence for a three-run homer for the Pirates.

The Marines fought back in the seventh with back-to-back singles by Tom O'Leary and pinch-hitter Tom Harrington. After two outs, first baseman Hal Norton drove both men across the plate as he doubled down the line. Norton later scored on a single by Cicero McClellan.

WORK in EUROPE

MORE TRAVEL GRANTS

Apr. 19, 1963—The American Student Information Service, the only authorized placement service for American students seeking summer jobs in Europe, has increased from 1500 to 2000 the number of travel grants it will award students applying for positions in Europe.

Job openings now available in Europe include positions at factories, resorts, hospitals, farms, summer camps and in offices. Applications are received until May 31.

Interested students may write (naming your school) to Dept. H. ASIS, 2 Ave. de la Liberte, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, for a 20-page prospectus, a complete job selection and application. Send $1 for the prospectus, handling and an airmail reply.

The first 5000 inquiries receive a $1 premium for the new student travel book, Earn, Learn and Travel in Europe.

Esquire's CLUB & CAMPUS FASHIONS

NEW WINES IN OLD BOTTLES pretty well sums up the Spring sportswear story. All your old favorites are present and accounted for—only some of them have as many disguises as a James Bond thriller!

SEERSUCKER COMES ON STRONG again this year. Casey Stengel of sportswear fabrics—a hardy perennial whose clean-cut look guarantees that you'll look the same. The news in the current vintage is the widening of the stripes. Look for seersuckers with bold new striping ranging from just under half-an-inch to anywhere in the medium range—it's a sure sign of '63. Slacks and jackets, shirts and walk-shorts—all will turn up in the traditional seersucker pin-striped pattern as well, in blues, greys and browns with white.

GLEN-PLAIDS PULL A SECOND SWITCH

in seersucker this season. Available in blends of cotton and polyester fibers, these new glen-plaid seersucker shirts and jackets are most striking in black-and-white or brown-and-white combinations. They mix well with solid-color slacks and knit shirts. Let your conscience—and your budget—be your guide!

THE "LOOK OF LINEN" moves to the fore in fabrics, to let you take the rough with the smooth in your sportswear. Whether it's pure linen made of flax fibers, or the practical blend of polyesters with flax, this textured set of threads can't be topped! Natural tan is the most popular color, with light blues and olive in place and show position. You'll find these textured fabrics in crisply tailored jackets, slacks, sport shirts and walk-shorts. Intrepid spirits on the fashion front will like the new linen-look jacket of bold, blazer stripes to jazz up an otherwise conservative wardrobe.

MADRAS HAS THE INDIAN SIGN

—East Indian, that is—on Spring and Summer sportswear again this year. This brilliant plaid is doing business at the same old stand, adding a colorful note to jackets, shirts and walk-shorts. The stop-press news in Madras is that it now comes in bigger, bolder plaids and lighter backgrounds to make a new fashion point.

GOOD GUYS AND BAD GUYS both will go for the new "Western-style" sportswear—even if the only thing waiting in the corral is a convertible. The steady eye can pick this trend out of the crowd, with its yoke-front and contrasting border stitching. Made of denim and denim-type fabrics, these sport shirts and slacks are styled with the lean, narrow, action look.

FASHION UNDERFOOT emphasizes the casual, comfortable look of the slip-on, with the moccasin leading in popularity. The canvas-topped deck shoe with rubber sole is no longer a purely practical shoe for sports. You can get them now in slip-ons as well as laced models. And there's a new color in the cards—besides the standard white and navy blue, this year's models come in a natural hemp color with a rough weave—the "Linen Look" mentioned earlier.
