Study Program Holds Vietnamese Symposium

The Asian Studies Program of East Carolina's College of Arts and Sciences is presenting a symposium on the Vietnam war Thursday, May 9, and Friday, May 10, in the Education Psychology Building Auditorium (Room 129).

Dr. Jung-Gun Kim, ECU political science professor, who is coordinating the symposium, thinks this scholarly probe into the issues of this prime American, Asian, and world problem will be really a "different thing," offering unique insights and information to interested students and faculty, and to the public. "We are particularly honored," he says, "to have some of the nationally, if not internationally, renowned scholars from outside the campus to help us in this effort."

First Session

The first session of the convocation will open at nine o'clock, Thursday morning, following registration from 8:00 to 8:50 a.m.

The first speaker will be Dr. William C. Johnstone, professor of Asian Studies in the School of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University, and was from 1957 to 1959 co-director of the Rangoon-Hopkins Center for South East Asian Studies. In his contribution, he will deal with the history of the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Dr. William F. Troutman, Jr., whose primary research interest is the relationship of religion, morality, and politics, will speak on political dissent, its theoretical bases, and its relevance to the Vietnam war. He is chairman of the Political Science Department here.

Second Session

Dr. Quincy Wright, technical advisor to the American member of the International Military Tribunal in Nuremberg in 1945, and consultant to the U.S. High Commissioner in Germany in 1949 and 1950, will open the second session at one o'clock with a discussion of the war as it is related to international law. Dr. Wright is professor of international law at the University of Virginia.

Dr. Philip J. Adler, professor of history here, will bring the second session to an end with an inquiry into the effect of the Vietnam War on American relations with the Communist East European countries.

Dr. Adler, who specializes in East European history, was for four years an intelligence analyst for East European affairs in the U.S. State Department, spending some time in the Bureau of Intelligence and Research.

Banquet

Dr. John M. Howell, professor of political science and Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences here will address a banquet in the Buccaneer Room, Thursday night, from 5:30 to 7:30. His speech, "The Vietnam War and the Changing Concept of Domestic Matters" will deal with the application to the Vietnam War of the domestic jurisdiction concept. The domestic jurisdiction limitation on international organizations has been his major research interest.

Third Session

Dr. Ralph Braibanti, chairman of Duke University's Commonwealth Studies Committee, will deal with the implications of the Vietnam War for the future of Southeast Asia. He has been interested in and has participated as a consultant in the administrative and political development of the new states developed since World War II. He has also served on the political science committee of the board that administers the Fulbright program for established scholars.

Dr. Kim, the coordinator, will end the session and the symposium with a discussion of the role of the United Nations in the Vietnam War.

Student Body Votes On SGA Drop-Add Referendum

"We feel the institution of certain reforms in the drop-add procedures for East Carolina will remove a great deal on the problems involved in the present system," stated Jim Handlon, chairman of the Registration-Drop-Add Study Committee of the SGA. Handlon has prepared a proposal to be submitted to the student body in a special referendum this Wednesday May 8, in which students will be allowed to vote for or against a special day at the beginning of the drop-add period, in which there will be no classes. This, Handlon notes, will allow students to spend a whole day in procuring the books and materials needed for classes and in contacting professors about dropping or adding courses.

New Drop-Add Schedule

The committee has suggested that the drop-add period be reduced from three to two days, in order to include the free day planned. During this free day, no classes would be held, and professors would be required to be in their offices to allow students to confer with them. Also during this free day, students would be able to go by their classrooms to determine the books and materials needed for their classes. A list of materials required would be posted by the professors in the room where the class would be taught.

The second day of the drop-add period would be a required attendance day, which would enable professors to determine the number of students who would actually be in the class.

Greater Efficiency

Handlon and his committee have also suggested in their proposal that the number of workers for the drop-add lines be increased to take care of the increased number of students coming through in the reduced amount of drop-add time. This would enable the administration to have more lines working, reducing the time involved in dropping or adding courses.

Students To Vote

The proposal for the special referendum Wednesday, will enable the committee to determine the actual wants of the student body. Handlon says that to assure passage of the revision, a total of at least 1600 students would have to vote for the change.

If the referendum passes the issues, it will go before the Faculty Senate on May 14. The Senate had tabled a like resolution, earlier this year, precipitating the idea of holding a campus-wide referendum to determine the desirability of the plan.

Ballots will be distributed to each dorm student Tuesday night, by the hall proctors, and will be collected the following night. Day student voting will be in the University Union Lobby from 10:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Wednesday.

EC Symphonic Band Plans Spring Concert

The ECU Symphonic Band, under the direction of Herbert L. Carter, will present its Spring Concert Wednesday, May 8, at 8:15 p.m. in Wright Auditorium.

The program will feature music of many periods and a wide variety of styles, including: "First Suite" by Holst; "Concerto for Two Trumpets" by Vivaldi; "Concert Music for Band" by Gregory Kostek, ECU composer-in-residence; "Four Scottish Dances" by Arnold; "Symphonic Movement" by Vaclav Nelhybel; "Colonial Song" by Percy Grainger; "Fantasy for Band" by Brett Watson; and two marches by Boccalari and Bowles.

Highlighting the program will be the world premiere of "Fantasy for Band" by Brett Watson, a member of the ECU music faculty who teaches theory and composition.

"Concert Music for Band" by Gregory Kostek, ECU composer-in-residence, will be presented for the first time in its entirety. The work, commissioned last year by the Hickory, North Carolina, High School Band, consists of three movements which are, according to Carter, "intricate in design and virtuosic in performance."

School of Music trumpet instructors Barry Shank and James Searl will perform as soloists in Antonio Vivaldi's "Concerto for Two Trumpets," a typical Baroque concerto which alternates between the full ensemble and the soloists.

"First Suite in E flat" by Gustav Holst is considered by many to be the first major band work of the twentieth century. According to Herbert L. Carter, conductor of the ECU Symphony Band, "No more effective piece has ever been written for band."

Carter added that the "First Suite" "established an altogether new style of band writing. This suite has survived splendidly the test of over a half century of use, and has served as a model for uncounted others."

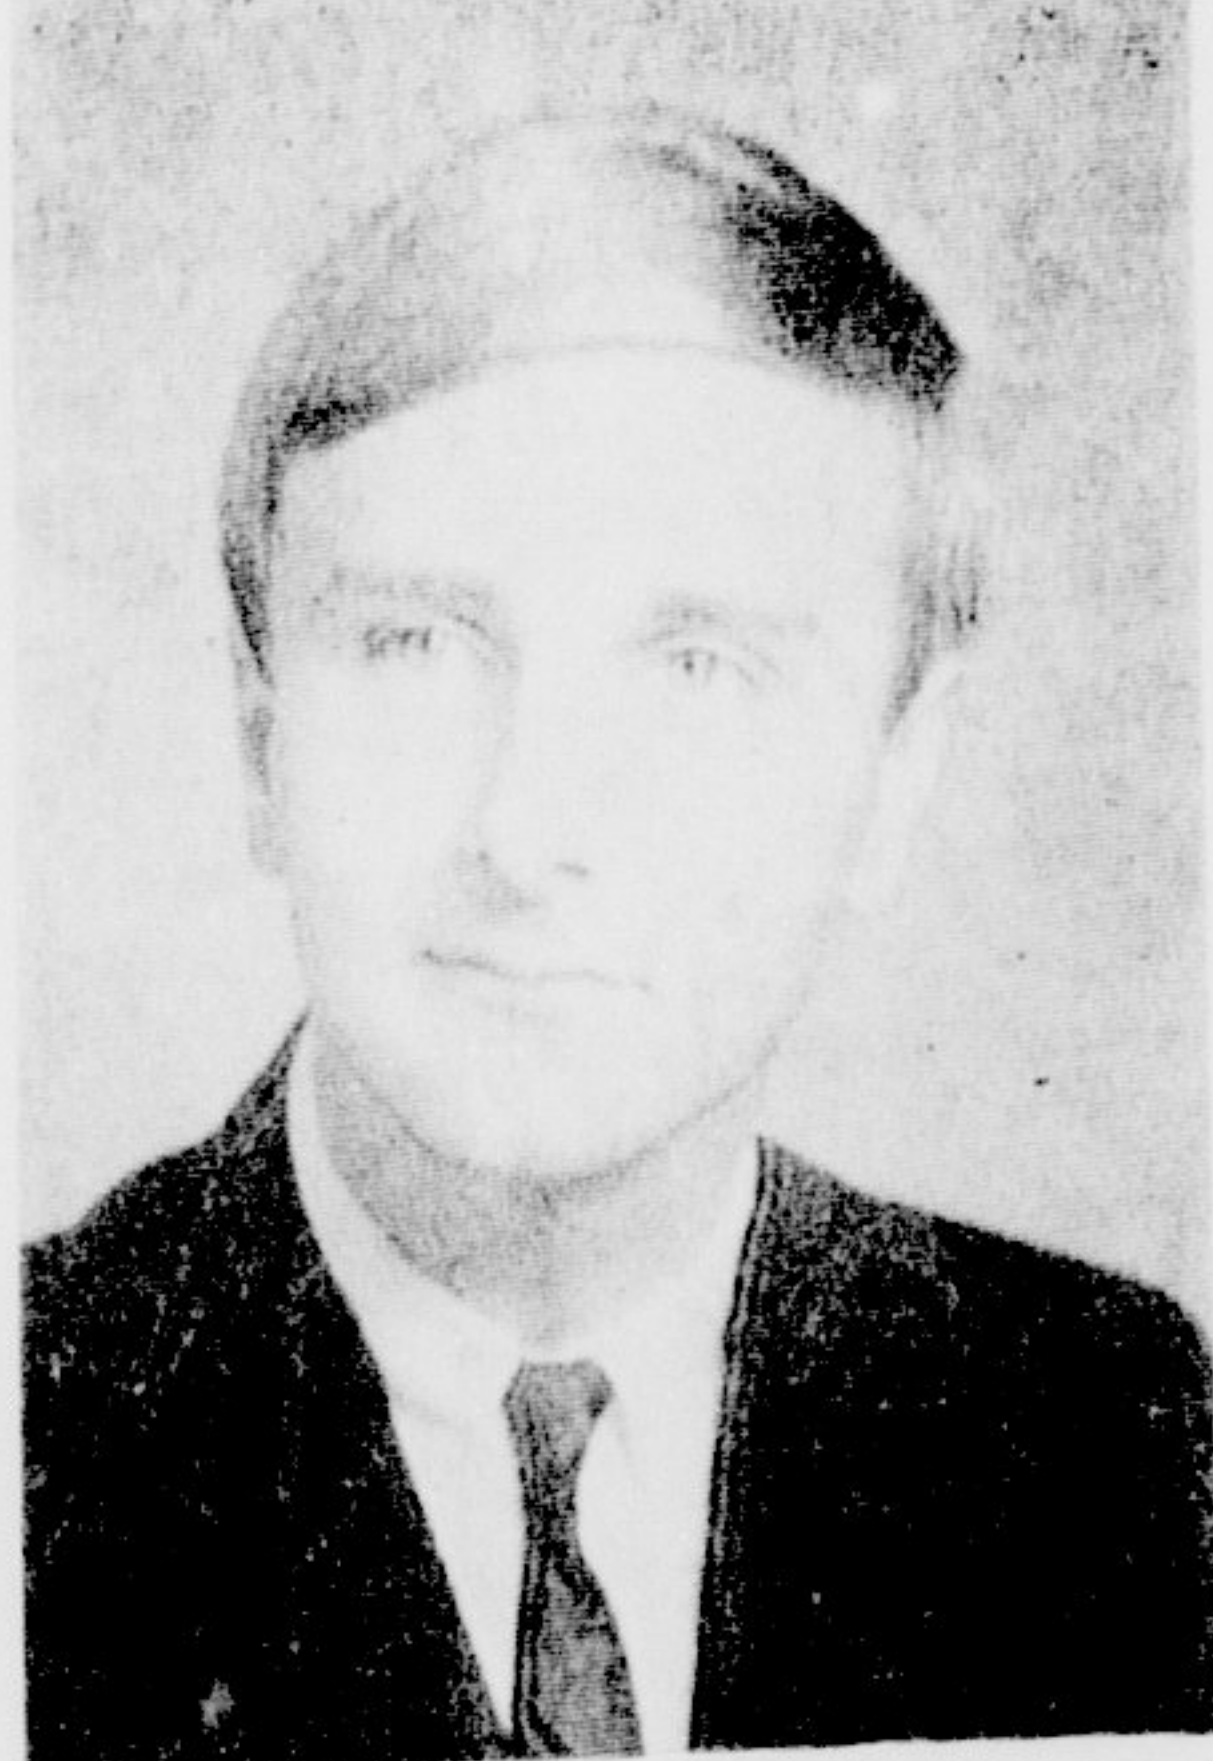

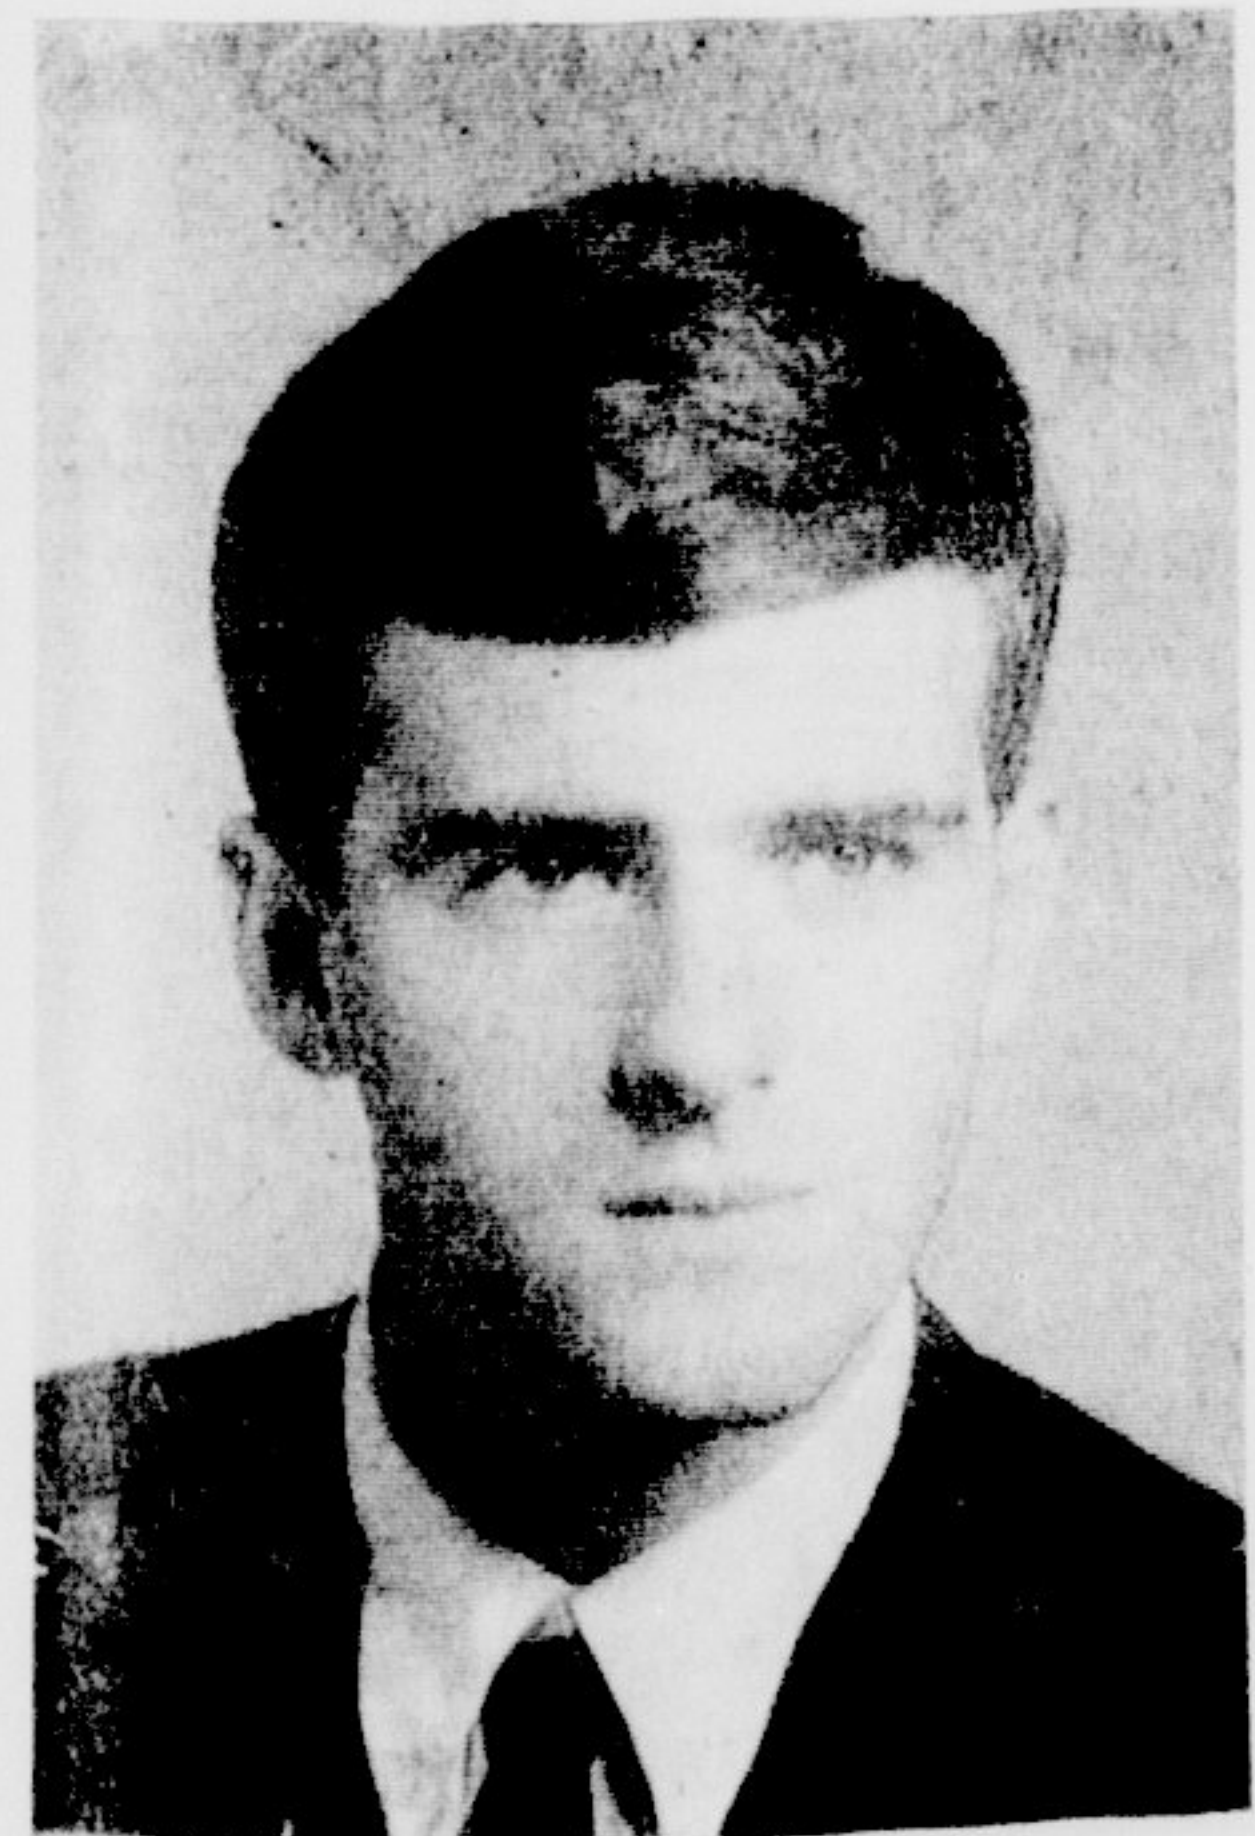

Beasley Wins New Editorship

Earle Beasley, a junior political science major, has been selected editor of the 1968-69 BUCCANEER by the Publications Board.

Beasley got the Editor's nod after the Board considered the applications of the three candidates for the office. Also running were Claudia Wingate and Janet Flint.

Beasley was president of his freshman class, chairman of the SGA Popular Entertainment Committee, a member of the Judicial Review Board, a candidate for the SGA presidency this spring, and business manager of the 1966-67 edition of the yearbook.

Beasley, who will succeed Martha Almon, who edited the 1967-68 book which was released last week, says he hopes to continue the standard of excellence set by this year's edition.

Chip Callaway and John Reynolds have been selected by the Publications Board to co-edit the 1968-69 REBEL.

Publications Board Names Reynolds, Callaway Editors

The ECU Publications Board has appointed Chip Callaway and John Reynolds next year's co-editors of THE REBEL, East Carolina's award-winning literary magazine.

Both Reynolds and Callaway were members of THE REBEL staff this year. Reynolds was co-editor and Callaway was coordinating editor for THE REBEL'S three regular issues and its satire supplement.

Their plans for next year include increasing the number of issues and competing for more awards in the college literary magazine field.

"We are (now) in competition for a $5,000 award from the North Carolina Arts Council," Callaway started. He added that THE REBEL would use the money from the award to increase its number of issues.

The new co-editors hope to continue the tradition of literary excellence set by the Fall, 1967, issue of THE REBEL, which received the All-American rating of the Associate Collegiate Press.

Both co-editors have extensive backgrounds in the editorship.

In addition to his duties on THE REBEL, Callaway has served as associated editor of "Burntoast," the literary magazine of the North Carolina Governor's School.

Reynolds is presently editor of the Southern Inter-Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association.

EARLE BEASLEY

Drop-Add Referendum

The SGA Registration—Drop-Add Study Committee, after months of intensive study, has come up with a proposal to revise certain aspects of the current Drop-Add procedure, and will submit their plan to the student body in a special referendum Wednesday.

The key part of the committee's proposal is the planned institution of a "free day" prior to the first day of the Drop-Add period, during which no classes would be held and professors would be required to be in their offices for conferences with students.

The concept of the "free day" forms the very heart of the SGA plan. All the other parts of the proposal are aimed at making that day possible and workable. So, in essence, a student's vote in the Wednesday referendum will be either for or against that day of no classes.

The proposal, if passed, has the potential to alleviate many of the problems plaguing those students who must bear the present agony of dropping or adding classes. It will give the student an opportunity to confer with advisers or professors in the privacy of an office, rather than his having to run all over campus to catch the professor as he begins or leaves a class. It will also give the student a chance to obtain the books and materials needed for his classes prior to their first meeting, since professors will be required to make such a list of books and materials and post it in the classroom in which the class is to be held.

This plan will also be of great benefit to the administration, since it will give the registrar an accurate indication of exactly how many people will be in each class, prior to the opening day of Drop-Add. This will enable him to have cards on hand at the Drop-Add center for each seat available in each class. This will prevent seats being reserved for people who have dropped out of school, or who have gone directly to the Drop-Add center.

The Faculty Senate some time ago studied a like plan, and then tabled it for further work. The referendum Wednesday is necessary to prevent this plan from receiving the same fate. Enough affirmative votes would furnish the Senate a mandate from the student body, and would virtually assure the passage of this reform.

The voting process is quite simple, since ballots are being delivered to and picked up from each dorm room on campus. This practically eliminates any reason for a poor turnout by dorm students. The procedure for day students is little more complicated, with polls set up in the University Union lobby.

The SGA has done its job. Now it is up to the individual student, who will largely determine the future of Drop-Add reform.

All Is Not Sunshine

A letter in today's Forum charges the EAST CAROLINIAN with failing to realize "that all is not sunshine and that certain aspects of life at this university require discussion."

East Carolina University today is in the throes of change from a small teacher-oriented college to a major university. As such, there are a great number of things that need to be improved. The EAST CAROLINIAN fully realizes that there are many things wrong here, and that it is the function of the newspaper to attempt to bring about changes.

There are many ways to effect the initiation of such improvements. However, there is only one way for this newspaper to be a true voice of the wishes of the student body, and that is through responsible, accurate reporting and editorial policy. Very little has ever been accomplished in this world by the use of unfounded criticism and bitter personal attack. A desire for betterment, in order to be effective, must be built upon the implementation of the proper channels for change in administration and SGA policy.

This newspaper can do little until some of the major wrongs of the present system are presented by the persons involved. It was for the presentation of such ills that the Forum was, and is, intended. When those persons who have legitimate grievances against the administration or student body realize that presentation of their cases to the rest of the student body is better than constant grumbling to a select group, then the EAST CAROLINIAN, the SGA, and the administration will be in a position to begin working to remedy some of those problems.

Laundry Refunds

To the Dormitory Students:

Don't you think it's about time the dormitory students at this school do something about the $5.00 laundry fee that they are forced to pay each quarter? Suppose a student never uses the services that the laundry offers (as I never did). He still has to pay the $5.00. At the end of the year he will have paid $15.00. Multiply this by 2,000 students living on "the Hill" and the total comes to $30,000! Of course, many students use the facilities, but how many do not?

What I am interested in finding out is, where is all this excess money going. Are the employees enjoying fat salaries at the student's expense. I think the laundry owes us an explanation, and a refund of all unused money.

Sunny Editorials

To the Editorial Editor:

It seems to me that the EAST CAROLINIAN is lacking in certain areas of journalism, such as the editorial page. My impression is to discuss matters which are controversial or which the editor feels need correction of some sort.

The past editor had nothing but praise or conciliatory words for the administration and the student body of ECU. The new editor looks as if he will give more of the same to his readers.

I assume the editor of the paper realizes that all is not sunshine and that certain aspects of life at this university require discussion. Perhaps one of these days the editor will summon his courage to write as he should.

Dim Future?

To the Editor:

I read with interest the recent articles by Mr. Whittemore and Mr. Mulvihill concerning certain questionable practices on some part of some members of the administration. The cases cited by these two writers are examples of injustice so great that they defy description. If these writers are in fact correct in their assertions, and there is considerable evidence to indicate that they are, then an odious crime has been committed against the student body and the University community as a whole.

Many people worked long and hard to win the fight for University status. Why, then, do some insist on proving East Carolina unworthy of the title by implementing injustice toward those who dare question the validity of certain cultural mores?

A university is, by common definition, a place where the validity of ideas and concepts is examined and tested. Why, then, do some seek to squelch the expression of alternative ideas? Is long hair an a priori sign of evil? Does a moustache or a beard render one immediately and undeniably perverted? Are women so innately inferior that they must be physically isolated in closed study in order to be educated? Do girls learn less in slacks? Must students accept the value system of others without question? Have we arrived at so perfect an existence that questioning is no longer permissible.

Such questions run through the minds of many members of the University community, and we often wonder what answers are offered by those entrusted with positions of power, for in their hands lies our fate. If such practices as resulted in the cases illuminated by Mr. Whittemore and Mr. Mulvihill are continued, the future of East Carolina as a University is dim indeed.

Respectfully,
William Schienger
Dept. of Psychology

Our school is becoming more clean, white, and clinical every day. At the rate the new buildings are going up, I'm beginning to wonder whether the new structures are made out of cardboard or not. As we become well known nationally for athletics we forget the other aspects of being a University.

What about our wonderful library? It is so pitifully lacking that it is easy to let things ride. How many times have you been hopelessly frustrated by the lack of books necessary to complete your assignment? Don't worry, though. Our University Administration is building us a fine athletic reputation. Bah!

Kick-back Department: An interesting bit of information has recently come to light concerning certain members of the ECU staff who are moonlighting. Of course, I've got nothing against moonlighting, but when these higher-ups get their hands into things where the student's money is involved . . . then it is a crime . . . For instance, who owns a sizable portion of Buccaneer Courts, and who profits from being a member of the Telephone Company? These are just a few instances.

David Lloyd, this is your conscience speaking. Remember last year when you were campaigning through the dorms? One of the main planks in your platform was a free inter-dormitory phone system.

What has happened to it? Don't tell me that the Administration powers have forced you to go back on your idea? To my knowledge you haven't even appointed a committee to study the inter-dorm phone situation. It was a great idea when you suggested it; now why not carry it through?

"For Those Who Really Care Department": Scott Dorn has finally had those water fountains that I have been writing about put in. I guess the MRC finally tracked down the crack ECU Maintenance Squad down. Congratulations, boys! ! !

Remember when the WRC came out with those closing hour questionnaires for female dorm students? Do you also remember how they were written up in the EAST CAROLINIAN, and everyone thought that a new era had begun? Well, we're still taking our dates in at 12:30 every weekend. This time the WRC can't be blamed. Someone else has thrown a monkey wrench into progress again . . . as usual.

This segment is dedicated to Ronnie Gollobin. In one of his old columns he remarked that rats were seen leaving Old Austin in greater numbers than usual. He hoped that this didn't have the same meaning as rats leaving a ship. I tend to think it does.

Old Austin has been condemned for some five years now. The third floor was condemned around 1946. It is still standing due to some body's whim. The Pinkerton men that abound there are assigned to watch the building to make sure that no one begins looting when it collapses. In Raleigh, Old Austin has been considered "torn down" for five years. What they don't know . . .

Since OA is in danger of falling down, before July (latest demolition date) the equipment must be moved. I assume that it is being done at night with heavy trucks hauling the material away. Why is there such a cloak of secrecy pulled over the vault?

Who is hiding what from the students?

And finally I'd like to make a public apology to Dean Mallory for something I wrote in my last column. My source of information was wrong.

The EAST CAROLINIAN urges all students, faculty members, administrators, and members of the University community to express their opinions in writing.

The EAST CAROLINIAN editorial page is an open forum in which such articles may be published.

Letters to the Editor, which may be rebuttals to previous articles or any short, opinionated articles will be printed under the heading of ECU Forum. Letters must be typed and signed by the author. Authors' names will be withheld by request. Letter should be addressed to ECU Forum, c-o the EAST CAROLINIAN.

The editors reserve the right to edit for clarity and length. However, the intent of the article will not be altered.

Signed articles on this page reflect the opinions of the author and not necessarily those of the EAST CAROLINIAN. Unsigned articles are written by the editor.

Angel Flight Backs ROTC With Dedication And Service

By NELDA S. LOWE
Features Editor

While the memory of the Military Ball lingers, the East Carolina unit of Angel Flight is spotlighted. Without the Angels, the Ball could hardly have been a success.

Angel Flight, sponsored by the Arnold Air Society to serve as unofficial hostesses for the Air Force ROTC, did much of the planning, organizing, and decorating for the annual Ball. Thus, the Angels play an integral part in an event which has become a tradition here.

Besides their assistance with the Ball, Angel Flight also seeks to keep morale within the ROTC and to further the Air Force and its mission and traditions. Its service functions have included helping with blood drives, collecting for UNICEF, joining with Arnold Air Society to give Christmas parties for underprivileged children, collecting used clothing for Vietnam refugees, and collecting paperback books for American servicemen in Vietnam.

This year, in one day, the Angel Flight and ROTC collected $2,500 for the March of Dimes Marchathon. The Angels have also used their own personal money to buy cards and gifts for patients at the local convalescent home and have spent much time visiting and talking with the patients.

A voluntary drill team has been formed by interested Angels, consisting of sixteen girls who march "just for the fun of it." This year the drill unit marched in the East Carolina Homecoming Parade, the Greenville Christmas Parade, the Washington Christmas Parade, and the Azealea Parade in Wilmington.

Members of Angel Flight also have a chance to travel during the year, as ten girls represented the local unit at the National Conclave in New York.

The local unit is not without personal honors. EC's Angel Flight was selected as the most outstanding in area B-2, one of 17 areas in the United States. The Flight was also proud to have Linda West represent the area as its Queen in the National Angel Flight competition.

Headed by Commander Dine King, the local chapter consists of thirty-five members. There is no military obligation and membership is open to interested students who have a "C" average.

The Flight is a close-knit organization of girls working together, according to Executive Officer Linda Mahan, who commented, "Angel Flight is not just an organization, it is a sisterhood. We work with the boys in ROTC, but we also work with and for each other and Angel Flight."

The Angels' advisor, Maj. Kevin T. Ryan, Jr. stated, "What a privilege it is to serve in a helping capacity for the angels! These charming ladies have not only helped the AFROTC Cadet Corps but have immeasurably contributed to the campus and the local community. These girls are fine young ladies who are developing into mature, responsible citizens through their service and dedication."

HAPPY QUEEN—Jane Burgess was named Queen of the 1968 Military Ball Saturday night. The sophomore history major was selected from a field of two other candidates, Jere Gallagher and Elaine Harris, for the Arnold Air Society honor.

EC Judicial System Defender Scorns Apathy

(Ed. Note: This is the first in a series of articles on the ECU judicial system.)

By CHLOE CRAWFORD

The Public Defender for the Men's Honor Council is Jens Bang, a junior from New York and a geography major.

His duties, as stated in The Key, are: to explain to the accused his obligations, prior to the hearing; to explain to the accused the charges against him and the procedures of the hearing; to inform the student of his rights according to the student constitution and the Men's Honor Council Constitution; and to remind the defendant that the Council will help him as much as possible within the bounds of the Honor System.

At the hearing the Public Defender must present the accused's case completely, and see that he is given his constitutional rights.

Finally, the Public Defender must explain the verdict and penalty to the defendant and inform him of his right to appeal to the Review Board. The Defender may also accompany the student to see the Dean of Men at some time after the hearing.

When asked how he feels about his job, Jens pensively slipped back in his chair, thoughtfully stroked his chin, and replied, "I feel that the Public Defender is beneficial to the accused student, not in reversing decisions, but in obtaining leniency for him. My prime concern is trying to prevent a verdict of suspension and at the same time try to keep my personal opinion out of the case."

In answering a question on the effectiveness of his job, Jens stated that students are "more capable of putting themselves in the place of the accused, and could thus judge with more understanding than could faculty members."

After a brief pause, the Defender added, "However, the effectiveness of my job and of the entire Council is grossly decreased by the lack of interest shown by the majority of students. They don't mind criticizing when a verdict contrary to what they feel is just is given, but they will not take the time to look into the functions and duties of the Honor Council."

"Student apathy is not only harmful to the Honor Council, but in nearly all areas involving the intellect. Students are more concerned about when the Tams are going to be here, than when exams are coming up. There is a definite lack of atmosphere on campus in anything but social activities. Social life is important as a part of college life, but it is not the only part. Until this prevalent apathy is removed, the effectiveness of the entire Student Government Association will be incomplete."

Film Series Ends With 'Othello'

By ROY C. DICKS

A full evening of dramatic entertainment will be offered this Thursday evening, May 9, when the final International Film for the '67-'68 season will be Shakespeare's "Othello." The film stars the famous Sir Laurence Olivier along with members of the National Theatre of Great Britain.

This wide-screen, Technicolor spectacular will be shown at 7:00 p.m. in Wright Auditorium. The film is a complete production of the play, running almost three hours with an intermission.

For this, his latest effort, he was again nominated for Best Actor. In "Othello," Olivier brings vividly to life the tragic story of the passion-ruled Moor who, tricked into believing his wife unfaithful, murders her, and then remorsefully suffers the consequences.

Work And Expenses In Vain Error Foils Evaluation

"Due to improper key-punching by the Arista Data Processing Center of Raleigh, the 1967-68 faculty evaluation can not be distributed to faculty and students at this time," said Frank Harden, who headed the committee which compiled the report.

Thirty-five professors were improperly key-punched by the processing firm, thus rendering the evaluation useless in its present state. The error was discovered when one of the professors questioned the validity of his survey. Upon examination, the committee found that his cards, and those of 34 other faculty members were erroneously compiled.

The mistake was found after the manual containing the report had been published and sent to East Carolina. Arista's head key-puncher said they had checked the material after it was key-punched, but somehow the 35 cards had been overlooked.

Harden said the entire matter had been turned over to SGA President David Lloyd, who is attempting to secure compensation for the error from the key-punch company.

"I deeply regret that this unfortunate error was made and will prevent the presentation of the faculty evaluation guide at the promised time. Also, the members of the committee have invested a great deal of time and work into the venture, and I hope a solution can be determined by the SGA and the company, in order that this work shall not have been done in vain," Harden said.

Folk Festival Slates Final Entertainment

Following a successful opening Friday and Saturday nights, the University Union Spring Folk Festival will continue Monday and Tuesday nights, featuring a variety of local talent in a coffeehouse atmosphere.

Tuesday

Dianne Leonard and Eddie McDaniel will open the final night of the coffeehouse series, at 8:00 p.m. Leonard will play guitar and sing, while McDaniel backs her on guitar.

At 9:00 p.m., Randy Mishoe and Alton Buzzby will make their contributions to the Festival. Poetry and folk music will be presented by the two.

Highlighting the evening's entertainment will be The Last Resort. This will be their second performance in the current coffeehouse series. The group is composed of Gordon Watts, Eddie Rhodes, and Judy Tuttle.

SGA Interviews Delegates For National Model Legislature

College students today are more interested and more involved in current national and international problems than ever before. With this increased awareness, however, has come the frustration of being unable to effectively express these interests.

It is the desire of the National Model House of Representatives to provide an exciting and interesting forum for this unexpressed, yet most important opinion.

The National Model House of Representatives will be a five-day conference held in one of New York City's largest hotels on October 23-27, 1968. Students from across the country will be selected in the same proportion as these states are represented in the United States House of Representatives.

This will make for over 400 students representing each of the fifty states in the nation. Delegates will be assigned political parties and committees prior to arrival.

Metcalf Presents Mississippi Film

The travel-adventure film, "The Mighty Mississippi," will be presented on Tuesday, May 7, at 8 p.m. in Wright Auditorium. This program was scheduled for February but had to be postponed. James Metcalf, noted adventurer and photographer, brings this final event on the 1967-1968 Lecture series, and admission will be by ID Cards for students, faculty and staff. Tickets for the public will be available at the door for $1.00 each.

At the conference, students will propose and debate bills in committees and in general sessions of the House. These bills will inevitably include topics such as the Vietnam war, the urban-Negro problem, and the tax reforms. In what will be the highlight of the conference, the delegates will vote for the next President of the United States.

The situation will be simulated where the election is given to the House of Representatives because no candidate has received a majority of the electoral college votes. The election will provide a true expression of student sentiment. Through national news coverage, this sentiment will come to the general public's attention.

East Carolina has been invited to send a delegation to the National Model House of Representatives. Interviews for the event will be held May 8 at 7:30 PM in Room 305 of the SGA offices.

All students who are interested are urged to attend. Those interested, but unable to be present for the interviews, are requested to contact Cherry Stokes in Room 312 of the SGA offices prior to the interviews.

Organizational News

AFROTC

On Friday May 3, the Air Force ROTC Detachment at ECU held its Annual Field Day, an activity consisting of various contests between the cadets, a softball game, and a picnic.

At 4:00 p.m. Friday afternoon the cadets assembled in their respective Flights and competition began, consisting of such events as an 8-man mile-relay race and a piggy-back race. Then the cadets moved to the softball field where a game between the Group Staff (Junior and Senior Officers) and the Champion Flight for the Quarter, commanded by Cadet Captain John D. Wilkinson, was played. The Champion Flight had been determined by a softball tournament held prior to Field Day. After the softball game, all cadets and their dates adjourned to Elm Street Park, where a picnic was held.

The credit for this years great success on Field Day goes to Cadet Captain Millard F. Sloan, who organized and supervised Field Day.

Poetry Forum

Juanita Tobin, guest poet from Raleigh, presented the ECU Poetry Forum with a reading April 24 at its regular meeting in U.U. 201.

Mrs. Tobin, a nurse at Dorothea Dix Hospital, is the author of "In Grape Time" which is currently being offered to publishers. She is also preparing a second book, "Thunder Road, N.C.," which will be completed soon.

In addition, Mrs. Tobin has been published in professional journals. She will be featured in "Trio in Scarlet," the fourth pamphlet to be published by the Poetry Forum later this year.

Prior to Mrs. Tobin's reading, regular members of the Poetry Forum presented their latest works. Members reading were: La Verne Hanners, David Lawson, Wood Thurman, Whitney Hadden, Barbara Knott, Carrol Hallman, Mike Posey, Carrol Honeycutt, Charles Wiley, Robert Chetkin, and Robert McDowell.

The Poetry Forum is composed of faculty members and students who share an interest in writing, reading, and criticizing poetry. It is directed by La Verne Hanners of the English faculty.

Pi Mu Epsilon

East Carolina's chapter of national mathematics honor fraternity Pi Mu Epsilon was officially installed on Thursday May 2, when Director-Chairman of Pi Mu Epsilon, Dr. John Eaves presented the charter to President John Staley.

The chapter at East Carolina is to be known as North Carolina Delta.

The officers of the fraternity are: John Staley, president; Carroll Bynum, vice-president; Judy Dudley, secretary-treasurer; Thornton Stoval, chairman, scholarship committee; and Robert Woodside, faculty advisor.

Before being officially inducted, the fraternity began as a Math Club in the fall of 1966. In the winter of 1967-68 the club petitioned to the National Honorary Mathematics Fraternity for a local chapter. Early in April the Governing Council of Pi Mu Epsilon voted unanimously to approve the petition.

Dr. Eaves gave the pledge to the 24 students and faculty members making this chapter number 135 throughout the Nation.

Following the induction ceremonies a banquet was held at the Candlewick Inn. Dr. Eaves had nothing but praise for the East Carolina Math Department in his speech after the dinner.

Pi Mu Epsilon joins the list of some fifteen Honor Fraternities on campus.

Davidson Bats Out To Bucs As EC Gets Closer To Top

Davidson College battled the Bucs down to their last out before surrendering a 5-4 decision to the Bucs in an important Southern Conference game on Saturday.

Two Games With Furman To Decide Divisional Winner

The win moved the Bucs one step closer to the Southern Division championship as they now have a 6-1 record. Remaining on the conference schedule is a double-header with Furman this Saturday at 1:30 p.m., which will decide the winner of the division. Furman, after downing The Citadel by 3-2 in 10 innings remained in second place with a 4-2 record. For the Paladins to win, they must win all their remaining games, including a double-header sweep over the Pirates.

The Pirates wasted scoring opportunities in both the first and second innings before they finally broke the scoring ice with a single tally in the third.

Jimmy Lanier slammed a triple with one out and then Carey Anderson promptly singled him in for a 1-0 Buc lead.

The Davidson Wildcats tied it up in their half of the fourth as Pat Reed walked to lead off the inning and scored one out later as Hank Strickland doubled him in to tie the game.

Wildcats Take Lead In 7th

In the seventh inning, the Wildcats struck for the lead and knocked starter Vince Colbert out of the box. Cliff Patterson led off with a single and then stole second. He moved to third on a ground out, and Coach Smith brought in Dennis Burke to relieve.

Netters Rack Up Victory From AC

The Buc netters repeated an earlier victory over Atlantic Christian College as they took a 7-2 win over the Bulldogs. The Bucs had defeated the Bulldogs by 7-2 on March 25th.

As in their first win over the Bulldogs, the Bucs spotted the Bulldogs a victory in the first match, then went on to sweep the rest of the singles, and lose one of the doubles matches.

Summary:

- Ken Rand (ACC) defeated Wayne Amick, 7-5, 6-3.
- Graham Felton (ECU) defeated David Hales, 6-1, 6-1.
- Chuck Taylor (ECU) defeated Ivey Thompson, 12-10, 6-4.
- Bill Ransone (ECU) defeated Ed Gwaltney, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.
- Charles Van Middlesworth (ECU) defeated Gary McMahan, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.
- Marion Edwards (ECU) defeated Charles Collins, 6-0, 6-0.
- Thompson-Hales (ACC) defeated Amick-Ransone, 6-3, 7-5.
- Felton-Edwards (ECU) defeated Rand-Gwaltney, 6-2, 6-0.
- Taylor-Van Middlesworth (ECU) defeated Collins-McMahan, 8-6, 6-2.

Wade Shepard then hit a sacrifice fly to score Patterson to give the Wildcats their brief lead at 2-1.

The Bucs came bouncing right back to grab a 4-2 lead in their half of the eighth inning. Jim Snyder led off the inning with a walk and then stole second. On an infield hit by Dave Goings, Snyder went to third, putting runners on the corners. Dave Winchester then came through with a single to score Snyder from third to tie the game at 2-2.

Taylor Comes Through With Big Hit

An error on the play allowed Goings and Winchester to move up, putting runners on second and third. Roy Taylor then doubled to score both runners for a 4-2 lead.

In the top of the ninth, the Bucs got what proved to be the winning run as Wayne Vick smacked his second homer of the year, a solo shot to right.

Davidson then rallied, and the Bucs had to bear down to win the game. Patterson again started things off as he ignited this uprising with a single with one out. Mackie Reavis singled and Frank Murphy walked, loading the bases. After another out, Gordon Slade drilled a hit to center scoring Patterson and Reavis and closing the score to 5-4.

Ron Hastings was then brought in and he got the final out on a pop-up to short right. For Dennis Burke, it was his fourth win in five decisions this year.

Thinclads Rank Fourth In State Track Meet

The East Carolina track team finished fourth in the State Meet held in Durham as they climbed from a ninth place finish in the 1967 meet.

Duke and North Carolina swap places with the Blue Devils winning this year while the Tar Heels came in second with 52 points, seven behind Duke's winning total of 59 points. Johnson S. Smith finished third again this year as they corralled 33 points.

The Pirate Thinclads got 28 points as they edged out N.C. State with 24, N.C. College with 22, and A&T with 16 points. A total of 17 teams, representing most of the colleges and universities in the state, competed in the meet held at the Wallace Wade Stadium Track.

The Bucs had two individual winners in the meet. Dennis Moody won the shot as he set a new school record with his winning heave of 53 feet, 3 3/4 inches. Peter Moe won the high jump as he cleared 6-4 to win.

The mile relay team of Bill Frisbey, Lee Mauney, Jim Carrell, and Ed Whyte set another school record with a clocking of 3:18.2, good for fifth place.

In other events, Ken Voss finished third in the mile with a time of 4:16.6 and fourth in the two mile run with a time of 9:24.8. Jim Carrell was third in the 120 high hurdles with 14.3; Ed Whyte was fourth in the 440 with 1:49.2; Bill Frisbey was sixth in the 100; Dennis Moody was fourth in the discus with a toss of 142'-6"; and John Murray was sixth in the pole vault.

JV Crew Team Rows To Victory

Racing to a convincing victory, the East Carolina jayvee crew team whipped the University of Alabama and Jacksonville University junior varsity boats to take first place in the jayvee division of the Wilmington Regatta.

In rowing to their ninth straight win, the junior varsity zipped around the course in a fine time of 6:55. The Buc junior varsity is considered to be one of the South's strongest crews in that division and is a leading contender for the competition in the upcoming Dad Vail Regatta.

For the varsity, it was tough luck again as they came in third behind Jacksonville and Alabama. The Pirates protested the outcome of the race as the patrol boat swamped the ECU crew. At the time, the Pirates were out in front of the pack by two full lengths and seemed headed for victory until fate struck in the form of the patrol boat.

Greek Concer

The Interfraternity Council's Annual Greek Week, May 4.

Greek Week, the highlight of the campus' festivities, featured a week-long competition climaxed with a weekend of entertainment.

James B. Mallory, Dean and Fraternity Advisor, stressed the purpose of Greek Week to stress all the things that should stand for scholarship and service.

Scholarship was rewarded with a banquet Thursday night, plus going to the individual fraternity with the prizes.

Greek Games

Two days of games tested physical endurance of the pledges and the things that they pledged to do. The competition was stiff, but it was fun.

Monday, April 29, the Greek pledges were held at the athletic field behind Field House. Events included: 60-yard sack race, football throw, 200-yard relay, barrow race, and standing jump.

The Greek Track Meet Tuesday to determine the fraternity athletic champion. Fraternity participation was as well as athletic participation.

Service to the community part of the fraternity's purpose was performed Saturday, April 27. The Greeks turned out to collect money for the American Cancer Society.

At road blocks set up by passing motorists contributed to the Interfraternity "Greek Cancer Drive." In and around Greenville, road blocks were manned by a total of 100 members of the fraternities on campus, whose names were given to the Pitt College of the American Cancer Society.

Working in cooperation with the Assistant Dean of Men and supported by several Greenville business leaders, President Gary Phipps was pleased with the outcome of the fund-raising campaign. "The drive was a success," he said, "only because of the perfect fraternity participation."
