

Inside

EDITORIALS.....4
 CLASSIFIEDS.....6
 FEATURES..... 8
 SPORTS.....10

Features

After three years, fraternity builds house.
 Check out page 8.

Sports

The Spiders of Richmond spin referee web on Pirates
 Read about the action on page 10.

The East Carolinian

Serving the East Carolina campus community since 1925.

Vol. 63 No. 48

Tuesday February 7, 1989

Greenville, NC

12 Pages

Circulation 12,000

Coastal ecosystems are in trouble, say professors

By DAVID HERRING
 Assistant News Editor

By the year 2000, 75 percent of all people in the U.S. will live within 50 miles of the coast, according to Dr. Donald W. Stanley of Inter-Coastal Marine Resources (ICMR).

Increasing man's interaction with coastal ecosystems could cause more problems. In an attempt to better understand our coastal ecology, the ECU department of biology and ICMR, a research arm of the Division of Academic Affairs, are studying various aspects of North Carolina's coastal and marine (estuarine) resources.

Some faculty members share joint appointments between the biology department and ICMR, enabling them to conduct research, sometimes on as many as five projects at once, and teach. According to Dr. Robert R. Christian, biology dept., the projects give ECU students the best of two worlds.

"The people (professors) we have in biology and ICMR have excellent reputations and are renowned in their fields," he said. "They are well-respected researchers having the special nature of being current in their fields and they can pass that on to students."

"In estuarine ecology neither N.C. State nor Duke has the reputation ECU has," Christian continued. "Here we are usually required to teach at least three of our courses. At Duke you wouldn't think of their star researchers teaching undergraduate students, but at ECU that's part of the game. We must teach them - and often."

"ECU has, as a group, probably the best concentration of expertise on estuarine ecosystems of anywhere in North Carolina," agreed Dr. Mark M. Brinson, biology dept. "Our work is usually some response to an ecology problem and our funding sources determine the nature of our research projects."

"Our geographical location makes it easier for us to do field work," he added. Currently Dr. Brinson is working on an assessment of N.C.'s fringe wetlands and their relation to other geographical features to determine how the development of these areas may be better managed.

According to Brinson, N.C. wetlands serve three basic functions in our coastal ecosystem: they are an important link in the food chain for the fish population, they act as nutrient buffers and help protect estuaries from runoff, and they are an important landscape in terms of maintaining land against rises in sea level and hurricane flood waters. His assessment will provide information to the N.C. state government for long term protection strategies for our wetlands.

Dr. Stanley is currently studying the pollution problems in our estuaries caused by an over abundance of high plant growth nutrients. Over the past 50 years the use of nitrogen fertilization has increased by approximately seven times.

The fertilization allows more crops to grow, but only a small percentage of this fertilizer actually goes into plants. Most ends up in streams and rivers which channel this excess fertilizer into the coastal estuaries.

Also, human sewage is a rich source of these same high plant growth nutrients and we dump human sewage into streams and rivers. "In ecology we don't have good long term records for most variables so we have to make estimates based on indirect evidence," noted Stanley, "but over the past 50 years I'd estimate that these nutrients have increased in our estuaries by about three times."

The increase causes marine plants, such as algae, to grow faster, but algae is short-lived and that which is not eaten by fish is left to die and rot. The decomposition process of these plants uses up oxygen - sometimes so much so that fish in the area actually suffocate.

These nutrients also cause some types of algae to grow which fish won't eat. This "bad" algae becomes abundant, crowding out the "good" algae and fish starve from a lack of food.

Since this bad algae is not consumed, when it dies it collects on the surface forming a scum which many people don't like to ski or swim in. This "aesthetic" pollution has occurred on occasion in the Neuse and Chowan rivers.

"Our job is to understand how much of these nutrients our estuaries can withstand before the limit is reached," said Stanley, "and we're a long way from arriving at a solution we're confident in. We have the technology to remove up to 95 percent of the nutrients from the sewage, but at a great cost. Scientists don't make political decisions, all we can do is present our findings."

Another estuarine study is being conducted by Dr. Roger A. Rulifson, biology/ICMR, on the declining population of striped bass. According to Rulifson, See ROANOKE, page 3

Speaker of the Legislature, Marty Helms, answers a query to the chair during Monday's SGA meeting. A bill was passed in the weekly meeting to amend legislative by laws. (Photolab)

SGA change legislative laws

By LORI MARTIN
 Staff Writer

The Student Government Association amended legislative procedures, heard grievances from a disgruntled legislator and approved funding for the Panhellenic Council in Monday's weekly meeting.

The SGA changed its time limitation of debate used during their meetings.

The legislature approved a time of 10 minutes for affirmative debate or the time allowed for legislators to argue for a certain resolution or bill. The new procedure also allows 10 minutes for negative debate or the time allowed to argue against a resolution or bill.

Speeches will be limited in accordance to time remaining in the round of debate. Prior to this legislation, the SGA was limited to five minutes per round of debate as stated in the SGA Documents.

But Speaker of the Legislature Marty Helms, who authored the legislation, said the SGA has been following the 10 minute procedure for as long as he has been in the government. Since the government has been using the format for some time, Helms thought it was time the amendment was added to the Documents.

In the first order of business, Legislator Valeria Lassiter addressed the legislature with the charge that two members of the SGA were guilty of misconduct during the Feb. 30 meeting.

"I, a black student legislator, was a victim of misconduct by other legislators," Lassiter said. "As I was performing my duties, a black jelly bean hit my back. I picked the jelly bean up and inquired to the legislator sitting directly behind me to whom did the item belong." According to Lassiter, the improper conduct continued.

Lassiter suggested the legislature review the conduct of the SGA and remove the two members involved in the incident from the governing body. "These legislators should not be permitted to hold any position in the SGA," Lassiter said.

One of the accused legislators, who would rather remain anonymous, said the incident was a misunderstanding. He intends to offer a private apology to Lassiter as well as an apology to the SGA in next Monday's meeting. "This is all blown out of proportion. It was purely an accident. We were eating jelly beans and one of the jelly beans fell off the table and hit her in the leg," he said.

"This was a miscommunication," Helms said. "An apology will be made and I assume it will be accepted. There were no racial intentions."

In other business, the SGA appropriated $1500 to the Panhellenic Council to help fund the publication of booklets for the sorority rush. The total cost to publish the booklets will be $2500.

According to a representative from the Panhellenic Council, the booklets will be sent to all female freshmen announcing that rush will take place one week before classes begin in the fall. This will avoid confusion during the first week of classes when rush is usually held.

Legislator Mike Hadley said he is not against the funding but the organization should have requested the money in its annual appropriation. He suggested all organizations take this into consideration when planning their budgets in the future.

A meeting will be held on Feb. 17 from 2-5 p.m. for all campus organizations to work on their annual budgets. The purpose of the meeting is to explain procedures and issue forms for making appropriation requests for 1989-90.

New admission standards may be sought by administration as number of applications soar

ECU News Bureau

With applications for admission reaching a record high, ECU officials expect new procedures to enable them to be more selective of next year's student pool.

Dr. Richard Eakin, ECU chancellor, told the Faculty Senate this week that "a new process for reviewing applications should result in higher average test scores and high school grade point averages this year."

Eugene Owens, acting director of admissions, said the new procedures for reviewing applications "enables us to be more selective" of the students accepted for admission. He said the actual number of new students to be admitted next fall has yet to be determined.

As of Jan. 26, 7,325 applications had been received for undergraduate admission to the fall, 1989, semester. This is 700, or 10.6 percent, greater than the 6,624 applications for fall, 1988, which had been received at the same time last year.

For last fall semester, ECU student enrollment was a record 15,583.

Cutoffs for both in-state and out-of-state applications were imposed earlier than usual last winter because of the large numbers.

Under the new procedures, applicants who applied for undergraduate admission by Dec. 15 were screened and are being notified this week whether they have been accepted, Owens said.

Prospective students who applied by Feb. 1 will be notified by March 15. Owens said application for out-of-state students received by Dec. 31 will be reviewed and the applicants notified by March 15.

"We've received a record number of applications," Owens said. "The process is working according to schedule. But we're not sure yet how many will be admitted."

Death of pledges cause escalation in fraternity liability insurance

By ADAM CORNELIUS
 Staff Writer

Fraternities nationwide have been evaluating induction procedures after the death of a Lambda Chi Alpha pledge in a hazing incident at Rutgers University last Spring.

The death of the pledge combined with several other incidents occurring over the past two years have led to several proposals, including a total ban on pledging. The ban would give fraternities a chance to lower their insurance rates. Although rates have been decreasing, the rates are significantly higher than four years ago.

The proposal is still under consideration by the National Interfraternity Conference. Currently the decision to eliminate the pledge period is left to the individual fraternities. On the ECU campus the only fraternity to vote on this proposal was Zeta Beta Tau, which has since disbanded.

A spokesman for the Fraternity Executive Association says that the question of banning pledging has not yet been put into effect.

"The Fraternity Executive Association has committed to discuss the issue and, as I understand it at this July meeting, is continuing with a thoughtful review of the question. We encourage each national fraternity to do so. Each national fraternity would need to embrace this policy on its own volition, so you have a variety of groups probably in different stages evaluating the idea."

Rav Madden, president of See FRAT, page 3

Remember...

Last week when it was warm and 'the Hill' was alive with activity? The cold has returned, but that teasing taste of spring is still in many ECU students' minds. (Photo by Mark Love—Photolab)

Soviets leave Afghanistan

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP)—The last Red Army convoys abandoned their garrisons and headed north for home today, Soviet officials said, bringing to an end a nine-year adventure that cost more than 13,000 Soviet lives. Hundreds of Soviet troops, meanwhile, guarded the airport of the war-weary Afghan capital as military transports ferried in loads of grain and other supplies to help ease food shortages caused by guerrilla blockades.

In Moscow, the Communist Party newspaper Pravda reported today that "the last Soviet soldier left Kabul" on Sunday. But Soviet officials in the city said about 1,000 troops would remain at the airport until the end of the week.

They said the last convoy left the capital on Saturday. Under a U.N.-brokered accord, all Soviet forces are to be out by Feb. 15.

Pravda said Soviet troops would today abandon their garrison in the western city of Shindand, the other remaining Soviet military complex in the country. The paper said Soviet troops had by Sunday removed defensive checkpoints on the Salang Highway to about 50 miles north of Kabul at the southern end of a tunnel that cuts through some of the roughest terrain on the withdrawal route.

Pravda said insurgents did not fire on Soviet convoys as they moved along the highway, the only land route to the Soviet border from Kabul. But four availances crashed down on retreating columns Sunday, killing three Soviet soldiers and injuring a fourth, the paper said.

Three officers were also injured by "terrorist grenades" in a Kabul suburb Sunday as the Soviets handed over motor vehicles to the Afghans, the newspaper said. Just across the Soviet border in Termez, where a Soviet airborne regiment arrived from Afghanistan today, military spokesman Lt. Col. Igor Dorolev said the last remaining Red Army soldiers were on the move toward the border.

He said Soviet soldiers remained in Balkh, Samangan, Baglan, Parvan and Herat provinces. The first four are located between Kabul and the Soviet border; Herat province borders the Soviet Union in the west.

Along the road behind the Kabul airport today, several Soviet soldiers dressed in padded olive green uniforms manned the bunker checkpoints, nervously clutching their Kalashnikov rifles. Andrei, a 20-year old soldier for Moldavia, said the troops would be flown home sometime before Feb. 15, but said they had not been told exactly when.

Tass today reported heavy shelling by guerrillas in the Kabul province, killing eight people, and in the cities of Gardiz and Khost in Pakista province, killing one and wounding two. Rockets and rocket-propelled grenades also hit residential areas in the city of Herat and the airport in the southern city of Kandahar, Tass said.

With the Soviet pullout, those cities have been held by the conscript army of Soviet-backed President Najib, a force that guerrilla commanders say is demoralized and crippled by desertion. The Soviet Union sent troops into Afghanistan in December 1979 to replace on Marxist regime with another and stayed to help fight the U.S.— and Pakistani-backed insurgents.

The Kremlin says more than 13,000 Soviet troops were killed and 35,000 wounded in the conflict. In neighboring Pakistan, Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze met with Pakistani officials today but said the talks had failed to bring about a political solution on Afghanistan's future.

The insurgents refuse to share power with Najib, an arrangement upon which the Soviets insist. Shevardnadze told a news conference that Moscow would continue to support the Kabul government.

"If new complications happen, if there is continued fighting, the Soviet Union has obligations to that country," he said. However, the Soviet envoy added, "We are not thinking of any Soviet re-entry into Afghanistan."

Shevardnadze, the highest-ranking Soviet official ever to visit Pakistan, told reporters he had not met with Afghan guerrilla leaders based in the country. On Sunday, guerrilla sources said Shevardnadze would meet with the insurgents today.

Leaders of the Iran- and Pakistan-based resistance signed a cooperation pact Sunday in the Iranian capital. Iran's foreign minister, Ali Akbar Velayati said. The agreement could boost the guerrillas' chances of taking over in Afghanistan and creating an Islamic republic once the Soviets are gone.

In Kabul on Sunday, Najib told about 10,000 members of the ruling People's Democratic Party that his Marxist government will survive the rebel onslaught despite the Soviet pullout.

"God is with us. The people are with us. We will win the war," he told about 10,000 party members who gathered in freezing temperatures near the presidential palace.

The East Carolinian

James F.J. McKee, Director of Advertising
Advertising Representatives

Scott Makey J. Keith Pearce
Phillip V. Cope Adam Blankenship

Ashley E. Dalton

DISPLAY ADVERTISING

Open Rate	$4.95	Local Open Rate	$4.75
Bulk Rate (Contracts)		Frequency (Contracts)
100-199 col. inches	$4.50	5 Insertions (4-11)	$4.55
200-299 col. inches	$4.40	12-25	$4.50
300-399 col. inches	$4.30	10 Insertions (4-11)	$4.50
400-499 col. inches	$4.20	12-25	$4.45
500-599 col. inches	$4.10	15 Insertions (4-11)	$4.45
600 and above	$4.00	12-25	$4.40
Classified Display		20 Insertions (4-11)	$4.40
Open Rate	$5.00	12-25	$4.35
Color Advertising		25 Insertions (4-11)	$4.35
One Color and black	$90.00	12-25	$4.20
Two Color and black	$155.00

BUSINESS HOURS:

Monday-Friday
10:00-5:00 p.m.

PHONE:
757-6366

Public objects to Congress' pay increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—The public outcry over the proposed 51 percent pay increase for members of Congress should hardly be surprising. Americans have been objecting to congressional pay raises for nearly all of the 200-year history of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Alexis de Tocqueville, a close observer of American life, offered an explanation in his 1835 study, "Democracy in America." His conclusion: Democracies are far more stingy than other forms of government when it comes to paying high-ranking officials.

Part of the reason, de Tocqueville, wrote, is that a salary level which seems inadequate to the official receiving it "appears enormous to him whose wants do not extend beyond the necessities of life. When he reflects on his own humble dwelling and the small earnings of his hard toil, he remembers all he could do with a salary which you judge insufficient, and he is startled and almost frightened at the view of so much wealth," he said.

More than 150 years later, little has changed. "We have never had a satisfactory method for setting compensation for high government officials," says Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine.

"We still do not. If contemporary public opinion were the sole determinant, the pay of members of Congress today would be the same as it was in 1789."

The root of the problem is in the Constitution. Article I, Section 6 provides: "Senators and Representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the Treasury of the United States."

That sounds well enough in theory. But in practice it leaves the question of congressional pay levels up to Congress itself, posing an always sensitive, uncomfortable and sometimes politically explosive problem.

Some of the framers of the Constitution thought it would give members of Congress a license to steal. Others argued, at pressure from incensed constituents would rein in greedy impulses.

"Bringing up the pay raise issue is about as welcome in a legislative body as a skunk is at a Sunday School picnic," says Sen. Charles E. Grassley, R-Iowa. The present congressional salary: $89,500.

The proposal by an independent commission: Increase it to $135,000 to more nearly approach the compensation offered in the private sector to lawyers, corporate executives and others with similar responsibilities.

Arlington Village Attic Sale
8:00 pm to 8:00 pm
Starts Thursday, Feb. 9th
60-75%
(Final Reductions)
All Fall and Winter Merchandise
Some Spring and Summer Merchandise
Selected Jewelry and Accessories.

Hours:
Mon.-Sat. 10-6
Thurs. 10-8

919 A. Redbanks Rd.
Arlington Village
756-1058

$1.00 A Line Will Say It All On Valentine's Day

Capture Your Valentine
WITH A

FILL OUT THIS FORM & DROP BY Valentine Love Lines

The East Carolinian Publications Building, Second Floor

COMPOSE YOUR OWN MESSAGE BELOW

RACK ROOM SHOES

BRANDED SHOES

Greenville Buyer's Market
Memorial Drive

10% OFF

Open Monday-Saturday 10-9
Sunday 1-6

TAKE AN EXTRA
OUR EVERYDAY LOW PRICE
(Except Aigler, Nike and Reebok)

PRESENT

Tuesday, February 7, 1989
8:00 p.m.
MENDENHALL STUDENT CENTER ROOM 244
Comedians will register at door beginning at 7:30
For more details, call 757-6611 Ext. 271

TWO FUN WAYS TO WIN!

WIN A SHOT AT COMEDY FAME AND FORTUNE!

U.S. College Comedy talent scouts are coming to your campus in search of the funniest college student in the country!

- Win a trip to Daytona Beach to perform before throngs of vacationing students during Spring Break and to take home the trophy of MR. & MRS. COMEDY!
- Perform live at the famous Comedy Strip in New York!
- Receive an Official U.S. COLLEGE COMEDY Award!
- Sign by the U.S. COLLEGE COMEDY COMPETITION site at your school? Then early to enter!

Even if you're not seeking comedy fame and fortune, CERTS' M&M and DORITOS' brand Cool Ranch brand flavor Tortilla Chips invite you to come by to watch the excitement and enjoy two delicious products!

WIN A FREE COMEDY CONCERT AT YOUR SCHOOL!

Save those empty CERTS' M&M and DORITOS' brand Tortilla Chip bags!

- Win a FREE Comedy Concert at your school featuring Jerry Seinfeld!
- Get your entire campus to collect CERTS' M&M and DORITOS' brand Cool Ranch brand flavor Tortilla Chip bags and deposit them at the Official U.S. COLLEGE COMEDY Entry Display!
- The school collecting the most wrappers wins!

See Official Entry Display to learn how to win. U.S. COLLEGE COMEDY COMPETITION, P.O. Box 2000, New York, NY 10108.

DON'T MISS IT!
PRODUCED BY U.S. COMEDY, INC.
© 1988 U.S. COMEDY, INC. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

Sponsored by the Student Union Special Events Committee

Weekly Crime Report returns

ECU Campus Security Log Book from last weekend.

Friday February 3

AM

1:05 Breaking and entering of a car located in the parking lot located at 14th Street and Berkley. Two men were arrested for possession of stolen property.

1:20 Extremely intoxicated student north of Belk Dorm.

1:22 A butterfly knife was confiscated in a dorm room. A citation for drinking underage was issued to a resident in the same dorm room.

9:00 A student reported the theft of his car bra.

PM

1:45 A larceny of a bicycle east of Garrett was reported by the owner.

Crime Report

10:35 Residents of Aycock Dorm were charged in possession of drug paraphernalia.

11:19 A loud party reported in Fletcher Dorm. Shortly afterward, three students were given citations for drinking underage.

11:56 Two residents of Umstead Dorm were issued citations for being in possession of plants belonging to the University.

Saturday, February 4

PM

8:15 Two residents of Garrett Dorm were charged in possession of a keg of beer.

11:49 Possible over dose occurred in Tyler Dorm.

Sunday, February 5

AM

1:53 Resident of Aycock Dorm was charged with drinking underage.

2:25 Resident of Aycock Dorm was charged with drinking underage.

2:45 Resident of Garrett Dorm was arrested for driving while impaired and driving at unsafe speeds.

PM

12:35 Three residents of Aycock Dorm were given citations for drinking underage.

Early Monday, February 6 AM

12:14 Residents of Aycock Dorm were charged with possession of drug paraphernalia and marijuana.

Roanoke River loses spawning bass striped bass has been declared an important national resource by Congress, bringing in around $90 million annually in commercial and sport fisheries.

Continued from page 1

"In 1986 the striped bass commercial fishery in N.C. produced landings worth approximately $189,000 and 95 percent of those landings were in the Albemarle sound," said Rulifson, "and that doesn't include the sports fishery which is much more valuable."

Every spring striped bass swim from the Albemarle sound up the Roanoke River to spawn, and this is the focus of Dr. Rulifson's study. Every four hours for two months ECU students worked around the clock taking samples from the Roanoke to determine viability

(how many will mature and hatch).

"Enough eggs are being spawned to make a successful striped bass population, but fewer are reaching juvenile age," stated Rulifson. "Viability has decreased due to over harvesting, poor water quality, a low food supply, and variations in water flow."

On the Roanoke River, near Roanoke Rapids, dams are used to regulate water flow as a source of hydroelectric power. The peak power demand season coincides with peak striped bass spawning season.

The dams are opened to increase water flow and generate more power, sometimes raising the water level by as much as eight feet in one hour. "There are documented cases of this increase in water flow interrupting the bass' spawning acts," stated Rulifson, "and we don't know how many simply swim back downstream without spawning. Moderate flow is best for egg viability and juvenile abundance."

"By understanding how nature works we can predict how nature will work when changes are made," said Dr. William G. Ambrose, biology/ICMR. He is studying factors affecting the distribution and abundance of benthic (bottom) marine communities.

The recent coastal red tide epidemic wiped out 90 percent of the state's scallop population. Dr. Ambrose is determining the feasibility of a scallop "aqua-culture" using two methods.

"We can either breed them in the lab by combining scallop egg and sperm in a test tube," he said,

"or we can put substrates along the bottom of estuaries for scallops to land on and develop. We can then collect them and allow them to grow in the lab protected from predators."

Dr. Christian concluded, "Environmental resources are becoming more scarce and valuable which must be worked into our politics and economics. People need to become more aware of environmental issues and consider them in their day to day decisions."

"But don't panic," cautioned Dr. Stanley. "There is some 'ecohysteria' out there which is unwarranted, but don't think environmental problems will go away if ignored. The point is we've done some things nature can't the Interfraternity Conference at ECU and a member of Delta Sigma Phi said that a ban on pledging would pose problems for the fraternity system.

Fraternities consider ending rush

Continued from page 1

"I don't see how they can enact it," Madden said. "Even a lot of civic clubs have a pledging period where the person has to prove themselves worthy as a member."

However, increases in insurance rates may compromise fraternities' current method of inducting new brothers. When Madden first joined the fraternity, insurance rates were $25 per member.

"Today insurance rates are $45 for each member," Madden said. "Some fraternities are paying as much as $80 per man."

In response to these rates, 32 of the 54 national fraternities banded together last fall to form Fraternity Insurance Purchasing, a group which, according to the Fraternity Executive Association would "both provide insurance at competitive rates and improve or influence operations of undergraduate chapters. Seven of the 15 members of the IFC at ECU are members of this group.

Despite this long-term increase, John Greene at the national headquarters of Phi Kappa Tau says that insurance rates have been going down since the incidents of hazing which have received national attention over the last two years.

Among these incidents, the one receiving the most attention was the death of James Callahan, who was pledging the Lambda Chi Alpha Chapter of Rutgers University when he died of alcohol poisoning during a hazing incident. The chapter was closed.

Greene attributes the insurance rate decrease to a response by fraternities and universities to the attention these incidents have been receiving.

"There is a lot more attention being paid to conduct on the campus, not only by fraternities but by universities. Everyone realizes that the situation has got to change and are taking the steps necessary to do that. I think the insurance companies are recognizing this," Greene said.

Vandals rip up art galleries on several campuses

(CPS)—There has been a run of art thefts and vandalism at Southeast Louisiana University, the University of Pennsylvania and several other campus museums and galleries in recent months, forcing officials to increase security measures and, in some cases, close exhibits to students.

Officials at Penn, for example, have tightened security and closed a hands-on display for the blind after a Sri Lankan mask valued at $400 disappeared Nov. 18.

The theft came just one week after the world's second largest crystal ball and a 2,000-year-old statuette of the Egyptian god Osiris were stolen.

At Southeastern Louisiana, vandals smashed and pilfered a student art exhibit.

As a result, campus security director Russ Martin figured it's almost impossible to keep such art objects safe while letting the public see them without new restrictions.

"Unless you have it on display in a vault, this is one of the risks you run," Martin said.

"If someone wants to break in and vandalize or steal something, they'll do it."

The New Image Tanning Special!

15 Visits For $30

Month of Feb.
SilverSolarium
Large 28 Bulb
Tanning Bed

Phone:
756-4144

Appts. From
8 am - 7:30 pm

313 Plaza Drive
Greenville, NC 27834
Behind Peppi's

Ocean Front and only 3 blocks from the most popular night spots in Daytona Pen Rods, Razzles, etc.

BREAK AWAY to the hottest action in DAYTONA BEACH

You Travel Associates Spring Break Package includes:

- Round trip transportation via deluxe motorcoach
- Seven night accommodations at one of Daytona's finest oceanfront hotels
- Optional excursions to Walt Disney World, EPCOT and other Florida attractions
- A money saving discount card
- Services of Travel Associates' on-site vacation staff
- All taxes, tips and service charges

You Drive: $113 for 4
We Drive: $178 for 4

Dates: March 4-12

Contact:
Lisa Deaton
752-2789
Renee Hiner
758-8688

SPRING BREAK

	SMALL	MEDIUM	LARGE
Cheese Pizza	$4.95	$6.85	$8.95
Cheese and 1 Topping	$5.60	$7.65	$9.90
Each Additional Topping	$.65	$.80	$.95

SPECIALTY PIZZAS

Cheese Lovers	$6.90	$9.25	$11.80
Meat Lovers	$6.90	$9.25	$11.80
Supreme	$6.90	$9.25	$11.80
Super Supreme	$7.55	$10.05	$12.75

GREAT PIZZA HUT® PIZZA DELIVERED! 752-4445

DELIVERY HOURS
SUN.-THURS. 4 PM TO MIDNIGHT
FRI.&SAT. 4PM TO 1:00 AM

DELIVERY AREA LIMITED TO EAST CAROLINA UNIVERSITY DELIVERY CHARGE 75¢

COUPON GOOD FOR JUST 7 DAYS!

ANY LARGE PIZZA OF YOUR CHOICE FOR THE PRICE OF A MEDIUM!

(COUPON EXPIRES 2/13/89)

Let Us Tempt You With Our Sample Platter For Two

Includes Dessert
$14.95

Served All Day
Tues. (Feb. 14)

Pitcher of Strawberry Margaritas...$9.95

Happy Valentines Day!

CHICO'S

Mexican Restaurant

521 Cotanche St.
757-1666

CRUISE THE BAHAMAS WITH THE CARNIVAL CRUISE LINES DURING SPRING BREAK

(DEADLINE TO SIGN UP IS RIGHT AROUND THE CORNER.)

PRICE PER PERSON: $499.00 (quad)
$525.00 (Non-ECU students)

(All transportation included as well as meals on the ship!)

- Be treated like royalty
- Eat exquisite meals
- Get a head start on your tan

SPONSORED BY THE STUDENT UNION TRAVEL COMMITTEE.

For more Information contact the Central Ticket Office, Mendenhall Student Center, Phone 757-6611

The East Carolinian

Serving the East Carolina campus community since 1925.

PETE FERNALD, General Manager
STEPHANIE FOLSOM, Managing Editor
JAMES F.J. MCKEE, Director of Advertising

TIM HAMPTON, News Editor
KRISTEN HALBERG, Sports Editor
CHIP CARTER, Features Editor
SUSAN HOWELL, Production Manager
DEAN WATERS, Credit Manager
STEPHANIE SINGLETON, Copy Editor

BRAD BANNISTER, Copy Editor
JEFF PARKER, Staff Illustrator
TOM FURR, Circulation Manager
DEBBIE STEVENS, Secretary
STEPHANIE EMORY, Ad Tech Supervisor
MAC CLARK, Business Manager

February 7, 1989

OPINION

Page 4

New Policy

Administration force-feeds students

According to Dean Carolyn Fulgham, Director of Residence Life and Housing, all students who live in dorms during the upcoming summer session must join a meal plan. In addition, within five years the administration plans to institute a year-round version of the mandatory plan.

The administration's defense of the mandatory meal plan is valid as far as it goes. In the long run, the plans would indeed provide a greater selection of food and improved campus dining facilities. And the administration apparently feels that the benefits to the students will be worth the drawbacks.

Perhaps. But is that for the administration to decide?

Clearly not. If the students are the ones to control the plan, then the administration should certainly do more than pay lip service to the student's wishes.

There doesn't seem to be any chance that that will happen. The Student Government Association's strong opposition to the measure was ignored. It seems clear that the administration has its heart set on implementing the plans, and no amount of insistence on the part of students will sway the administration from plans which have been finalized.

In addition, it seems doubtful that the administration has considered the number of students for whom it may be easier and cheaper, given the meal plan requirement, to simply find residence somewhere other than the dorms.

In sum, the mandatory meal plans are unwarranted and unwanted. It is wrong for the administration to attempt to force the plan on students, and it is equally wrong to deny the students any real say in the decision to implement the plan.

Capitol Hillbilly Mr. Smith goes to freshman orientation

By MICHAEL NEWMAN
New Republic

Here is Ben Jones, newly elected congressman from Georgia, commenting on the Washington dinner circuit after his first week in the capital: "If I never see another Swedish meatball, it'll be OK with me." Here is Barney Frank, five-term congressman from Massachusetts, on the same subject: "All receptions are total horseshit."

Someday, after years of seasoning, maybe Jones will be as eloquently cynical as Frank. For now, though, he's the official yokel of the 101st Congress. Not only is Jones a good old boy from the South; he is a former actor whose career climax came playing that very role—as Cooter, the good-hearted greasy mechanic who was always rescuing Bo and Luke Duke in the CBS series "The Dukes of Hazzard."

That's not to say Jones hasn't been around the block a time or two. He prevailed in one of the most ad hominem congressional campaigns of 1988. In the course of the campaign, he released a lengthy police record—acquired during his drinking days and including a battery charge by his former wife—to pre-empt any use of it by his opponent. But even amid vicious mudslinging, Jones managed to come off as a good old boy. When his opponent, Republican incumbent Pat Swindall, questioned his honesty, Jones alluded to the fact that Swindall had recently been indicated for perjury: "Being called a liar by Pat Swindall is like being called ugly by a possum." Jones beat Swindall by 20 points.

Jones's first step toward becoming a jaded veteran was taken in December, when he went through the standard orientation for newcomers to Congress, a 14-day crash course organized by the House Administration committee. Together with his 32 classmates, Jones sat through a seemingly endless series of presentations, on topics both mundane and meaningful. In Washington and in Cambridge, where the new members convened for a six-day "issue orientation," he was schmoozed, fed, lobbied, and lectured. Like most orientations, this one had a high percentage of seemingly pointless moments. But, also like most orientations, it succeeded in spite of itself. It gave Jones a rough overview of the next two years and put him more closely in touch with the forces that will be governing his behavior.

Jones arrived in Washington with no plans to "take this place by storm and change the world." What he wanted most was "to get settled," he said. "Set up an office that functions efficiently, [learn] the practical things that a congressman does—turning the mail around quickly, things like that." Freshman orientation caters to such concerns. One of the first events on his calendar was a seminar titled "Setting Up Your Congressional Office."

Most of orientation was closed to the media. Officials said they did this to "encourage candid discussion" and ensure "total honesty"—and to keep the sessions safe for stupidity. "We don't want some guy quoted as asking, 'Who's the Speaker?'" said one organizer. He might have worried less about inquisitiveness and more about boredom. Even Jones, one of the more earnest in the group, played hooky a few times ("I knew a lot of this stuff already," he explained. "When I was a kid, I used to read the Congressional Record every day.") At the seminar about congressional offices, several freshmen were as restless as kindergartners at nap time: they whispered to each other, manicured their nails, excused themselves to get another doughnut.

The next presentation, sponsored by the Democratic Study Group, was more lively. Three sitting congressmen were sharing their "candid" views about the coming budget crunch. It turned out they weren't worried so much about the deficit as about whether they or the Republicans were going to get blamed for it. When the question-and-answer period started, one freshman took issue with this approach. "It seems to me there's enough blame to go around," he said. His elders seemed a bit taken aback, but quickly rebounded. "Don't think of this as a budget problem," said one. "Think of it as a political problem, because that's what it is."

The second day of orientation opened with a sermon from Representative Joe Kolter, a smarmy four-term Democrat from Pennsylvania. "The honeymoon is over," he warned. "You've basked in the glory of victory; now let's talk about survival." He suggested that freshmen keep one thing in mind while pondering vexing public policy issues: "Two years down the road, you opponent's gonna have something to chew on—your voting record." Older members regaled Jones and his classmates with tales of battles past. One spoke of the first time he got up to address a committee hearing. "As soon as I stood up, one of the senior members of the committee said, 'Sit down, you smartass young punk.' So I turned to him and said, 'Shut up, you senile old bastard.'" Another listed the three most important things to do to get re-elected: "Use the frank. Use the frank. And use the frank."

One week into orientation, the freshmen made their pilgrimage to the Mecca of policy analysis, Harvard's John F. Kennedy School of Government. One of the first day's featured speakers was Alice Rivlin, a senior fellow at the Brookings Institution and former director of the Congressional Budget Office. Unlike the House budget experts back in Washington, Rivlin didn't try to lay the blame on anybody. Instead, she spoke of "having a substantial surplus in the unified budget by the end of the '90s," and the need for high levels of investment "for the next several decades." Since most freshmen were just learning how to think in two-year cycles, this caused some confusion. Rivlin was barraged with questions. How could Congress possibly institute a five-year budget plan? Or even a two-year plan? What exactly is the "unified budget," anyway? Jones said he found Rivlin's talk helpful—"every bit of knowledge is useful"—but his colleagues in the room seemed rattled.

The rest of the week's meetings were off-limits to the media, and the Kennedy School's well-trained press shepherds gently nudged us out of the room. On the whole, said Jones, the Harvard program gave "a nice overview" of the issues and was "delightful." Why? It wasn't so much the encyclopedic commentary on matters of importance, the 20-odd seminars on everything from AIDS policy to the problems of sub-Saharan Africa. No, it was something less tangible than that, something that turned Jones downright poetic. "We were spending whole days together," he said. "Going to classes during the day, socializing together at night. We really got to know each other.... And then, you know, it was Christmas-time, and a little snow was falling in Harvard Square, and we've just been treated royally. It's been a special time."

Besides digesting all the information served up during orientation, Jones had to begin setting up his office. He was getting scores of letters and phone calls every day, but he had only one staffer with him in Washington. The two of them had to contend with the swarms of eager job seekers who roamed the corridors of Capitol Hill like Hare Krishnas at airports, smiling earnestly and handing out resumes. Jones was also in demand among the media, and hardly a day passed without an interview. By the end of the second week, he had hired a few more assistants and submitted his choices in the freshman office lottery. (He got a cramped attic on the fifth floor.) He still hadn't found a site for his permanent district office, or a place to live in Washington.

One leitmotif that ran through orientation was the matter of re-election. Not that Jones—or anyone else in Congress—needed reminding. Even before he was sworn in, Jones was working on two different fund-raisers, in Washington and in Atlanta. To get re-elected, one congressman had said, it was necessary to "be a district man," and Jones took that advice to heart. He said his primary goal for the next two years is "to provide the best constituent services this district's ever had." He plans to have a mobile office roam his district, and he rattled on endlessly about answer "every piece of mail."

As for the Swedish meatballs: during orientation, Jones attended a reception practically every night. Most of these free meals weren't exactly free; those dishing them out (and those eating them) had ulterior menus. For example, Representative Bill Gray, who gave a "do," as Jones calls them, wanted to win the caucus chair (he did). And the incoming Democrats dutifully attended three receptions put on by the House triumvirate of Speaker Jim Wright, Majority Leader Tom Foley, and Whip Tony Coelho, all of who stressed the importance of party unity. The reasons for heeding party elders, though not what they once were, are still substantial. Jones received some $17,000 from the party during his campaign, and he stands to be rewarded with another tidy sum in 1990.

Forum Rules

The East Carolinian welcomes letters expressing all points of view. Mail or drop them by our office in the Publications Building, across from the entrance to Joyner Library.

For purposes of verification, all letters must include the name, major, classification, address, phone number and the signature of the author(s). Letters are limited to 300 words or less, double-spaced, typed or neatly printed. All letters are subject to editing for brevity, obscenity and libel, and no personal attacks will be permitted. Students, faculty and staff writing letters for this page are reminded that they are limited to one every two weeks. The deadline for editorial material is 5 p.m. Friday for Tuesday papers and 5 p.m. Tuesday for Thursday editions.

The East Carolinian

Serving the East Carolina campus community since 1925.

PETE FERNALD, General Manager
STEPHANIE FOLSOM, Managing Editor
JAMES F.J. MCKEE, Director of Advertising

TIM HAMPTON, News Editor
KRISTEN HALBERG, Sports Editor
CHIP CARTER, Features Editor
SUSAN HOWELL, Production Manager
DEAN WATERS, Credit Manager
STEPHANIE SINGLETON, Copy Editor

BRAD BANNISTER, Copy Editor
JEFF PARKER, Staff Illustrator
TOM FURR, Circulation Manager
DEBBIE STEVENS, Secretary
STEPHANIE EMORY, Ad Tech Supervisor
MAC CLARK, Business Manager

February 7, 1989

OPINION

Page 4

New Policy

Administration force-feeds students

According to Dean Carolyn Fulgham, Director of Residence Life and Housing, all students who live in dorms during the upcoming summer session must join a meal plan. In addition, within five years the administration plans to institute a year-round version of the mandatory plan.

The administration's defense of the mandatory meal plan is valid as far as it goes. In the long run, the plans would indeed provide a greater selection of food and improved campus dining facilities. And the administration apparently feels that the benefits to the students will be worth the drawbacks.

Perhaps. But is that for the administration to decide?

Clearly not. If the students are the ones to benefit from the plan, then the administration should certainly do more than pay lip service to the student's wishes.

There doesn't seem to be any chance that that will happen. The Student Government Association's strong opposition to the measure was ignored. It seems clear that the administration has its heart set on implementing the plans, and no amount of insistence on the part of students will sway the administration from plans which have been finalized.

In addition, it seems doubtful that the administration has considered the number of students for whom it may be easier and cheaper, given the meal plan requirement, to simply find residence somewhere other than the dorms.

In sum, the mandatory meal plans are unwarranted and unwanted. It is wrong for the administration to attempt to force the plan on students, and it is equally wrong to deny the students any real say in the decision to implement the plan.

Capitol Hillbilly Mr. Smith goes to freshman orientation

By MICHAEL NEWMAN
New Republic

Here is Ben Jones, newly elected congressman from Georgia, commenting on the Washington dinner circuit after his first week in the capital: "If I never see another Swedish meatball, it'll be OK with me." Here is Barney Frank, five-term congressman from Massachusetts, on the same subject: "All receptions are total horseshit."

Someday, after years of seasoning, maybe Jones will be as eloquently cynical as Frank. For now, though, he's the official yokel of the 101st Congress. Not only is Jones a good old boy from the South; he is a former actor whose career climax came playing that very role—as Cooter, the good-hearted greasy mechanic who was always rescuing Bo and Luke Duke in the CBS series "The Dukes of Hazzard."

That's not to say Jones hasn't been around the block a time or two. He prevailed in one of the most ad hominem congressional campaigns of 1988. In the course of the campaign, he released a lengthy police record—acquired during his drinking days and including a battery charge by his former wife—to pre-empt any use of it by his opponent. But even amid vicious mudslinging, Jones managed to come off as a good old boy. When his opponent, Republican incumbent Pat Swindall, questioned his honesty, Jones alluded to the fact that Swindall had recently been indicated for perjury: "Being called a liar by Pat Swindall is like being called ugly by a possum." Jones beat Swindall by 20 points.

Jones's first step toward becoming a jaded veteran was taken in December, when he went through the standard orientation for newcomers to Congress, a 14-day crash course organized by the House Administration committee. Together with his 32 classmates, Jones sat through a seemingly endless series of presentations, on topics both mundane and meaningful. In Washington and in Cambridge, where the new members convened for a six-day "issue orientation," he was schmoozed, fed, lobbied, and lectured. Like most orientations, this one had a high percentage of seemingly pointless moments. But, also like most orientations, it succeeded in spite of itself. It gave Jones a rough overview of the next two years and put him more closely in touch with the forces that will be governing his behavior.

Jones arrived in Washington with no plans to "take this place by storm and change the world." What he wanted most was "to get settled," he said. "Set up an office that functions efficiently, [learn] the practical things that a congressman does—turning the mail around quickly, things like that." Freshman orientation caters to such concerns. One of the first events on his calendar was a seminar titled "Setting Up Your Congressional Office."

Most of orientation was closed to the media. Officials said they did this to "encourage candid discussion" and ensure "total honesty"—and to keep the sessions safe for stupidity. "We don't want some guy quoted as asking, 'Who's the Speaker?'" said one organizer. He might have worried less about inquisitiveness and more about boredom. Even Jones, one of the more earnest in the group, played hooky a few times ("I knew a lot of this stuff already," he explained. "When I was a kid, I used to read the Congressional Record every day.") At the seminar about congressional offices, several freshmen were as restless as kindergartners at nap time: they whispered to each other, manicured their nails, excused themselves to get another doughnut.

The next presentation, sponsored by the Democratic Study Group, was more lively. Three sitting congressmen were sharing their "candid" views about the coming budget crunch. It turned out they weren't worried so much about the deficit as about whether they or the Republicans were going to get blamed for it. When the question-and-answer period started, one freshman took issue with this approach. "It seems to me there's enough blame to go around," he said. His elders seemed a bit taken aback, but quickly rebounded. "Don't think of this as a budget problem," said one. "Think of it as a political problem, because that's what it is."

The second day of orientation opened with a sermon from Representative Joe Kolter, a smarmy four-term Democrat from Pennsylvania. "The honeymoon is over," he warned. "You've basked in the glory of victory; now let's talk about survival." He suggested that freshmen keep one thing in mind

while pondering vexing public policy issues: "Two years down the road, you opponent's gonna have something to chew on—your voting record." Older members regaled Jones and his classmates with tales of battles past. One spoke of the first time he got up to address a committee hearing. "As soon as I stood up, one of the senior members of the committee said, 'Sit down, you smartass young punk.' So I turned to him and said, 'Shut up, you senile old bastard.'" Another listed the three most important things to do to get re-elected: "Use the frank. Use the frank. And use the frank."

One week into orientation, the freshmen made their pilgrimage to the Mecca of policy analysis, Harvard's John F. Kennedy School of Government. One of the first day's featured speakers was Alice Rivlin, a senior fellow at the Brookings Institution and former director of the Congressional Budget Office. Unlike the House budget experts back in Washington, Rivlin didn't try to lay the blame on anybody. Instead, she spoke of "having a substantial surplus in the unified budget by the end of the '90s," and the need for high levels of investment "for the next several decades." Since most freshmen were just learning how to think in two-year cycles, this caused some confusion. Rivlin was barraged with questions. How could Congress possibly institute a five-year budget plan? Or even a two-year plan? What exactly is the "unified budget," anyway? Jones said he found Rivlin's talk helpful—"every bit of knowledge is useful"—but his colleagues in the room seemed rattled.

The rest of the week's meetings were off-limits to the media, and the Kennedy School's well-trained press shepherds gently nudged us out of the room. On the whole, said Jones, the Harvard program gave "a nice overview" of the issues and was "delightful." Why? It wasn't so much the encyclopedic commentary on matters of importance, the 20-odd seminars on everything from AIDS policy to the problems of sub-Saharan Africa. No, it was something less tangible than that, something that turned Jones downright poetic. "We were spending whole days together," he said. "Going to classes during the day, socializing together at night. We really got to know each other.... And then, you know, it was Christmas time, and a little snow was falling in Harvard Square, and we've just been treated royally. It's been a special time."

Besides digesting all the information served up during orientation, Jones had to begin setting up his office. He was getting scores of letters and phone calls every day, but he had only one staffer with him in Washington. The two of them had to contend with the swarms of eager job seekers who roamed the corridors of Capitol Hill like Hare Krishnas at airports, smiling earnestly and handing out resumes. Jones was also in demand among the media, and hardly a day passed without an interview. By the end of the second week, he had hired a few more assistants and submitted his choices in the freshman office lottery. (He got a cramped attic on the fifth floor.) He still hadn't found a site for his permanent district office, or a place to live in Washington.

One leitmotiv that ran through orientation was the matter of re-election. Not that Jones—or anyone else in Congress—needed reminding. Even before he was sworn in, Jones was working on two different fund-raisers, in Washington and in Atlanta. To get re-elected, one congressman had said, it was necessary to "be a district man," and Jones took that advice to heart. He said his primary goal for the next two years is "to provide the best constituent services this district's ever had." He plans to have a mobile office roam his district, and he rattled on endlessly about answer "every piece of mail."

As for the Swedish meatballs: during orientation, Jones attended a reception practically every night. Most of these free meals weren't exactly free; those dishing them out (and those eating them) had ulterior menus. For example, Representative Bill Gray, who gave a "do," as Jones calls them, wanted to win the caucus chair (he did). And the incoming Democrats dutifully attended three receptions put on by the House triumvirate of Speaker Jim Wright, Majority Leader Tom Foley, and Whip Tony Coelho, all of who stressed the importance of party unity. The reasons for heeding party elders, though not what they once were, are still substantial. Jones received some $17,000 from the party during his campaign, and he stands to be rewarded with another tidy sum in 1990.

Forum Rules

The East Carolinian welcomes letters expressing all points of view. Mail or drop them by our office in the Publications Building, across from the entrance to Joyner Library.

For purposes of verification, all letters must include the name, major, classification, address, phone number and the signature of the author(s). Letters are limited to 300 words or less, double-spaced, typed or neatly printed. All letters are subject to editing for brevity, obscenity and libel, and no personal attacks will be permitted. Students, faculty and staff writing letters for this page are reminded that they are limited to one every two weeks. The deadline for editorial material is 5 p.m. Friday for Tuesday papers and 5 p.m. Tuesday for Thursday editions.

Crack linked to homicides

GREENSBORO (AP)— "Crack" cocaine has been linked to three homicides in the past five weeks in Greensboro, and Dunn police say it's the reason a man was beaten to death with a brick last summer on a city street.

"I've had many a junkie tell me, you suck on that pipe one time and you're in love. One time," said Michael Grimes, a Wilmington-based agent for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration. "They're just going to get hooked. Period. All of them."

Law officers say crack, long the scourge of New York and Washington ghettos, is commanding a growing share of the drug trade in towns and cities across North Carolina.

"We're seeing more homicides, more crimes of violence related to the drug. Some of the killings we've seen in armed robberies came because people were on it and overreacting," Charles Dunn, deputy director of the State

Bureau of Investigation, told the Greensboro News & Records. "Some of the child abuse cases we're seeing are tied back to it."

"It's the growing way to use cocaine in the state," Dunn said. Crack, a pure granular form of cocaine that is smoked, made its debut in the state about two summers ago, brought north from Florida by migrant farm workers, drug-enforcement officials guess.

Since then, it has gained a foothold in several small towns and counties flanking Interstate 95 and spread west to the Piedmont. As in big cities, users tend to be poor blacks in their teens or 20s who can't afford powder cocaine.

Crack, which takes its name from the "cracking" apart of one rock-hard chunk from another, usually costs about $20 for a tiny bag of two or three chunks, but comes as cheap as $8 a bag. What the buyer gets is an intense high that lasts 15 to 20 minutes.

Last week, Greensboro police say, 20-year-old Christopher Caviness bludgeoned his 45-year-old father, Charles, to death with a lead pipe while the elder Caviness was in bed. Police say Christopher Caviness, who has been charged with murder, killed his father while stealing money to buy more crack during a night-long binge.

Two other Greensboro homicides since Dec. 30 are attributed to crack deals gone sour, police said. Beginning in spring 1986, chemists in the SBI's drug-testing laboratory tried to list all of their crack cocaine receipts separately from powder cocaine but returned to a single classification in January 1987.

"We stopped when so much of it started to be crack," said Ralph Keaton, an assistant deputy director of the SBI. "It's just mushroomed."

Of about 1,100 drug samples sent to the lab each month, about half are cocaine, and of that portion, typically 20 to 40 are crack, Keaton estimates.

Among the counties sending a disproportionate number of crack cases to the lab: Harnett, Johnston and Nash, all in the east and all temporary homes of large numbers of migrant farm workers during the spring and summer.

"It was introduced here, and I guess a lot of people liked it," said William D. Powell, police chief in the Harnett County town of Dunn since June 1987. Last year, more than 100 of the 159 drug arrests in the town of 10,000 involved crack.

"I had seen crack only once or twice before I came here. I've seen it so much now I'm sick of it," he said. "I hate to say it, but we almost like to get a marijuana or regular cocaine case. It's like a change of pace."

Barbara Bush discusses her role at home in the White House

WASHINGTON (AP)— Two weeks after moving into the most prestigious home in America, Barbara Bush cannot conceal her excitement. For starters, there's the collection of presidential china: "Grover Cleveland at lunch today... Abraham Lincoln yesterday. Can you believe that?"

There's more. "The views are pretty spectacular," she says, noting she can see directly at the Oval Office from her second-floor office in the White House. "See, I can see him right there," Mrs. Bush says, pointing across the Rose Garden to the office occupied by her husband, President Bush.

In the Lincoln Bedroom, Mrs. Bush shows off a felt-covered frame that contains one of only five copies of the Gettysburg Address. "This is the only one signed and dated. You can read that. Isn't that amazing?"

"The Library of Congress man who was up here one day—I showed it to him and he looked absolutely green." A canopy bed on the second-floor "was where the four presidents before Reagan slept," Mrs. Bush says as she leads a visitor on a tour of the presidential residence. "Pretty grand, huh?"

In an interview with The Associated Press, Mrs. Bush said she "felt right at home from the very first moment." Her husband, she said, is "exactly the same" and has not changed since moving up from vice president under Ronald Reagan.

However, she said everyone else has changed and "everybody treats you differently when you're president." She said her husband has an "enormous job."

Has he philosophized about it? "No. But he's absolutely determined to do the best job he can. I see my job as trying to take some of that pressure off him," Mrs. Bush said.

"I see that as my job... to try to not to talk about those problems and also—do not talk when he's working. I mean, I think that's a big part of it," she said. "Because he knows with me, I hope, that he can curl up with his problems and study them and he's not going to have me badgering him about something else."

Rapes at Duke anger students

DURHAM (AP)— After several rapes at and around Duke University in recent months, the mood among students is one of betrayal. "The university community is viewed by them as their home, and home is a safe place, where we always go all our lives for a feeling of security," said Suzanne Wasiolek, dean for student life.

"Their home is being invaded," she said. "The one place they can feel invulnerable is at home, and suddenly that sense of security is being taken away from them."

Women at Duke are packing Mace, hair spray and whistles to protect themselves after the latest in a series of sexual assaults, but they also are dealing with issues that go beyond the attacks themselves. Some men and women see the rapes not only in terms of physical attack, but in terms of the female right to equal freedom of movement.

They fear the rapes might split the town and university because many seem to assume the rapists are from outside the campus. They are worried that all black men suddenly are being viewed with suspicion.

Some are infuriated at what they view as inadequate security measures. Students' sense of security began to be shaken in April, when a Duke student was raped in her dorm room.

A man was arrested, pleaded guilty to rape and was sentenced to 40 years in prison. The student has since filed suit against the university, saying security was inadequate.

In the fall, there was a rash of assaults and break-ins in the nearby Trinity Park neighborhood, where three women were raped in their homes in September. Police think those rapes are related.

Two more rapes occurred late in the year. On Nov. 8, a man armed with a screwdriver knocked on a student's Central Campus apartment, forced his way in and raped the student.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

YOUR FIRST STEP TOWARD SUCCESS IS THE ONE YOU COULD TAKE THIS SUMMER.

Army ROTC Camp Challenge. It's exciting and it may be your last opportunity to graduate with an Army Officer's commission.

ARMY ROTC
THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

CONTACT CPT. STEVE JONES 344 RAWL 757-6976

Student Union Coming Attractions

STUDENT UNION OPEN HOUSE
Wednesday, February 15 in the Coffeehouse basement of Mendenhall.

FREE PIZZA with Student Union coupon. Come by and meet your entertainers of ECU. Sponsored by the Committees of Student Union

U.S. College Comedy Competition
Tuesday, February 7 at 8 pm in Mendenhall Rm. 244. Comedians- Prepare a three minute routine and win a shot at Comedy, Fame and Fortune

Open to all ECU Students
Sponsored by the Student Union Special Events Committee

ILLUMINA ART COMPETITION '89
Entry dates February 15-17, 3 - 5 pm
Mendenhall, Rm. 221

$3.00 fee per entry - 3 entry limit per person

1st Place - $175.00
2nd Place - $125.00
3rd Place - $75.00

5 Honorable Mentions - $25 each

Sponsored by the Student Union Visual Arts Committee

Movies of the Week
BIRD - R
Wednesday, Feb. 8th
SWEET HEARTS DANCE - R
February 9 - 12

All films are shown at 8 pm in Hendrix Theatre unless otherwise stated and are FREE to ECU Students with valid ECU I.D.

RALEIGH WOMEN'S HEALTH ORGANIZATIONS

Abortions from 13 to 18 weeks at additional cost. Pregnancy Test, Birth Control, and Problem Pregnancy Counseling. For further information, call 832-0535 (toll free number: 1-800-532-5384) between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays. General anesthesia available.

LOW COST ABORTIONS UP TO 12th WEEK OF PREGNANCY

CHINATOWN EXPRESS

218-B E. 5th St. (University Arcade) Greenville, NC 27834 (919) 757-1183

Free Delivery (coupon not valid on Delivery) expires 3/31/89

coupon

FREE DRINK with purchase of Luncheon or Dinner combo special. (12 oz. soft drink or tea)

Lunch Special
11:30am - 4:00pm $2.95

Dinner Combo Special
4:00pm - Close $3.39

- Two Entrees •Fried Rice
- One Eggroll •Soup
- Fortune Cookie

If you're thinking of going somewhere fun for Spring Break... YOU'RE LATE!

Get off your hindparts and get down to ITG Travel at the Plaza!

Oh Yeah, Bring your Wallet.

Air Tickets, Amtrak Packages, and Cruises are in limited quantity!

Check out our low airfares and vacation packages to the Surf & Sand, or the Ice & Snow, and everywhere in between.

Call ITG and Save!

TRAVEL CENTER

355-5075
MONDAY-FRIDAY 9:00 A.M.-5:00 P.M.

Classifieds

FOR RENT

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED: Immediately. Non-smoker. To share 3 bedroom house. Will have own bedroom. 175.00 per month plus 1/3 utilities. 5 minutes from school. Call Pamela at 758-7142.

ROOMMATE NEEDED: Stratford Arms. To share 2 bedroom apt. 1/2 utilities. Free cable. $170/month. Call 756-5183 or 324-3354 on weekends.

FOR RENT: Bedroom in house. Near ECU campus. Utilities included. Whole house privileges. $165.00 per month. Call 758-1274 after 6:00 p.m.

FOR RENT: 1 bedroom upstairs apt. Screened in porch. Utilities included. Near ECU campus. $250.00 per month. Call 758-1274 after 6:00 p.m.

MALE ROOMMATE NEEDED: Stratford Arms. $165.00/mo. plus 1/2 electric. Private room. Available now. Call 355-4547. Ask for Brad.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED: To share 3 bedroom apartment at Eastbrook. Only $120.00/month and 1/3 utilities. Available March 1st. Call 752-3678.

ROOMMATE NEEDED: To share 3 bedroom apt. with 2 other females. $173.00 per month plus 1/3 utilities. Plantation apts. 355-6731.

ROOMMATE NEEDED IMMEDIATELY: Tar River Estates. Private room $118.75 per month.

FOR SALE

79 FIREBIRD FOR SALE: Good condition. V6, automatic, AM/FM, air conditioning, new tires. $1750.00. John: 551-2460 (day), 830-5295 (eve).

ATTENTION - GOVERNMENT SEIZED VEHICLES: From $100.00. Fords, Mercedes, Corvettes, Chevys. Surplus Buyers Guide. 602-838-8885 Ext. A-5285.

ATTENTION - GOVERNMENT HOMES: From $1 (U-repair). Delinquent tax property. Repossessions. Call 602-838-8885 Ext. GH 5285.

LASER PRINTER USERS: HP and Apple laser printer toner cartridges can be recycled! Huge $5 savings. Satisfactor guaranteed. For details call RANDMONI at 1-800-332-3658.

AMSTRAD PC 1512: IBM compatible, 20 MB hard drive, 360 KB disk drive, mouse, color monitor, microsoft MSDOS V3.2, digital research DOS plus, "GEM Desktop," "Gem Paint," "Gem Doodle," "Basic 2." Assorted games & business software included. Make offer. 756-6805.

FOR SALE: Earth Cruiser, like new $125/neg. 758-8891.

FOR SALE: Schwinn Beach Cruiser. Like new—$100. 758-8891.

FOR SALE: Sachs Moped 1980. 450 miles. Excellent to get around campus. $500. 758-8891.

CLOTHES GALORE! Sizes 6-14. Guess/Gasoline jeans, outfits priced from $1-25.00. Guys stuff too. 355-6731.

10 SPEED BIKE FOR SALE: Girls free spirit, very good condition. $0 dollar, 752-4224 after 6:00 p.m. Day time call 752-2814 leave message.

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE: Yamaha 360 street bike. Two helmets. Good condition. $600.00. Call 752-4224 after 6, daytime call 752-2814, leave message.

FOR SALE: Mako electric guitar and 100 watt Gorilla amplifier. Good condition. $450 value—selling for $200. Free R&R instruction video. Call Wayne 752-1182.

BIKE FOR SALE: Panasonic 2000 10 speed. Like new, only ridden once. Retail $225.00, sell for $75.00. Must sell—355-0764.

IBM: Color monitor with stand, also CGA card, like new, $250.00. Phone: 758-2400, ask for Trish.

SERVICES OFFERED

PARTY: If you are having a party and need a DJ for the best music available for parties: Dance, Top 40, & Beach. Call 355-2781 and ask for Morgan.

WORD PROCESSING AND PHOTOCOPYING SERVICES: We offer typing and photocopying services. We also sell software and computer diskettes. 24 hours in and out. Guaranteed typing on paper up to 20 hand written pages. We repair computers and printers also. Lowest hourly rate in town. SDF Professional Computer Services, 106 East 5th Street (beside Cubbies) Greenville, NC 752-3694.

NEED A DJ: Hire the ELBO DJ. Call early and book for your formal or party. 758-1700, ask for Dillon or leave a message.

PAPERS TYPED/RESUMES COMPOSED: Call 756-9136.

HELP WANTED

FEMALE RESIDENT COUNSELOR: Interested in those with human service background wishing to gain valuable experience in the field. No monetary compensation, however room, utilities and phone provided. Mary Smith REAL Crisis Center 758-HELP.

STUDENT NEEDED: To post advertising materials on campus bulletin boards. Work own hours with good pay. Write Campus Advertising, P.O. Box 1221, Duluth, GA 30136-1221. (404) 873-9042.

FREE SPRING BREAK VACATION IN CANCUN: Become a College Tours representative on your campus and get a free trip. Nothing to buy—we provide everything you need. It's a little work for a lot of fun! Call 1-800-727-0055.

TUTORS NEEDED: For all business classes. Contact Lisa at Academic Counseling, Dept. of Athletics 757-6282 or 757-1677.

RESORT HOTELS: Cruiselines, Airlines, & Amusement Parks. NOW accepting applications for spring and summer jobs, internships, and career positions. For more information and an application, write national Collegiate Recreation Service, PO Box 8074, Hilton Head, SC 29938.

NEW ENGLAND BROTHERS/ISTERS CAMPS: (Mass.) Mah-Kee-Nac for Boys/Danbee for Girls. Counselor positions for Program Specialists: All Team Sports, especially Baseball, Basketball, Field Hockey, Soccer and Volleyball, 25 Tennis openings; also Archery, Rifle and Biking; other openings include Performing Arts, Fine Arts, Yearbook, Photography, Cooking, Sewing, Roller skating, Rock-climbing, Ropes, Camp Craft, All Waterfront activities (Swimming, Skiing, Sailing, Windsurfing, Canoeing/Kayak). Inquire J & D Camping (Boys) 190 Linden Ave., Glen Ridge, NJ 07028; Action Camping (Girls) 263 Main Road, Montville, NJ 07045. Phone (Boys) 201-429-8522; (Girls) 201-316-6660.

ATTENTION - HIRING! Government jobs - your area. Many immediate openings without waiting list or test. $17,840-$69,485. Call 602-838-8885. Ext. R5285.

OVERSEAS JOBS: Also Cruiselines. $10,000-$105,000/yr. Now Hiring! 320+ Listings! (1) 805-687-6000 Ext. OJ-1166.

CABIN COUNSELORS & INSTRUCTORS: (Male and Female) for western North Carolina 8 week children's camp. Over 30 activities including Water Ski, Tennis, Heated swimming pool, Go-Karts, Hiking, Art... Room, meals, salary and travel. Experience not necessary. Non-smoking students write for application/brochure: Camp Pinewood, 20205-1 N.E. 3 Court, Miami, Florida 33179.

SOCCER COACHES NEEDED: The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department is recruiting for 10-14 part-time soccer coaches for the Spring Indoor Soccer program. Applicants must possess some knowledge in soccer skills and have patience to work with youth. Applicants must be able to coach young people, ages 5-18 in soccer fundamentals. Hours approximately 3-7 p.m. Monday through Friday. Some night and weekend coaching. Program will extend from March 13, 1989 to May, 1989. Salary rate starts at $3.55 hr. Application will be accepted starting Mon., February 6. Contact Ben James at 830-4550 or 830-4543.

PERSONALS

SINGERS WANTED! If you've sung in a chorus and would be interested in a low-pressure singing experience, come and sing in Choral Lab 3-4 Mon. & Wed. Faculty Welcome. Call Dr. Rhonda Fleming, 757-6331 for more information.

BIG MONEY BIG PRIZES: Warc Talent Show coming soon!

BE ON THE LOOKOUT: For information concerning Warc Talent Show coming soon. Big money! Big prizes!

THE ALPHA XI DELTA PLEDGES: Would like to announce the sale of Monogram Lollipops for American Lung Association. Come by the Student Store Mon., Feb. 6 Thurs., Feb. 9 from 8-2. Help us support American Lung with these great Valentine's gifts for only 75 cent!

LOST: ID behind the Attic Sat. night. Initials on ID are V.S.—was in blue leather. I.D. holder. $50 reward if returned. Please contact Pam or Tricia at 752-6105 or 758-6731. PLEASE!

GIRLS, GUYS: Poolside parties and major tanning at Daytona Beach, Spring Break '89. Call Keith, Kelly, Ron and Wayne at 752-4693 for more information.

NEED HELP: With house cleaning, yard work, baby-sitting, etc? RENT-A-BROTHER, 18 Feb. 1989. Call PHISIGMA Pl 9 a.m. - 10 p.m. M-F 758-7535 or 752-9723.

THE BROTHERS OF THETA CHI: Would like to congratulate the following men: Mike Brown, Luke Fisher, Tommy Goodin, Tripp Little, Paul Palermo, David Puzera, David Russel, Donald Sawyer, John Scott, Paul Southerland, David White. They're the new Theta pledge class. We're glad you chose Theta Chi, now it's time to be the best pledge class we've ever had. Roll Chi!

BARBARA LAMB: She's the best! Congratulations on making Panhellenic Prez. So here's to you, and your new acquisition! We knew only you could fill that position! We're behind you, through thick and thin. We'll support you from not till the end! —Love, Alpha Xi Delta Sisters & Pledges!

PI KAPPA ALPHA: Thursday night just couldn't be beat! Partying down, at famous Third Street! It was quite a night, raising the dead—AZD and PIKA.

ENOUGH SAID!!

PIKE'S: How 'bout that Thursday morning breakfast? THE ONLY way to start a GREAT day!! —Love, the AZD's.

AOP: Superbowl Sunday was a definite blast! No matter whether it was a kick, run, or pass. The Bengals gave the Niners a scare, but for the most part, none of us cared, cause our MVP was the imported beer! So if y'all are willin', there's no need to fear, we'd love to meet ya the same time every year! —The Theta Chi's.

HAPPY HOUR WITH THETA CHI: And Pantana's on Wed. night 9 to closing. P.B.'s is the best place to be, so let's make that line even longer than usual. Plus, classes before 12 on Thurs have been cancelled! Whata bargain!

THETA CHI: And Pantana Bob's present Happy Hour Wed. 9 to closing. Let's start Spring early this year and begin the ECU four day weekend in style.

DZ'S: Thursday night was really hot. We couldn't do another shot. Kamikaze's got us going. After the beer bongs there was no slowing. The party turned into a dance. Oh, Kinsey, have you found your pants? We had a blast. Let's do it again! —The KA's.

AZD'S: Thanks for helping us out at rush. Also, we had a killer time at the party following rush! Let's do it again real soon. —Phi Tau.

PHI TAU PLEDGES: Congratulations on choosing the best fraternity on campus—Phi Kappa Tau—a Legend of All Time.—The Brothers.

GIRLS: KA little sister rush begins tonight. Come by and meet the brothers and lil' sisters of Kappa Alpha. 8:00-11:00 at the KA House.

PAMELA JEAN: The Rose Bowl Queen! Congratulations! We love ya. —Robbie, Hosen & Blah.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHAS: Congratulations to the new AM's. —Crescent Girls.

DISPLAY CLASSIFIED

HOUSE OF HATS for LADIES HATS AND ACCESSORIES (Latest Styles and Colors) 403 Evans St. Greenville, NC, 27834 (Downtown Mall) 758-3025

DISPLAY CLASSIFIED

ABORTION "Personal and Confidential Care" FREE Pregnancy Testing M-F 8:30-4 p.m. Sat. 10-1 p.m. Triangle Women's Health Center Call for appointment Mon. thru Sat. Low Cost Termination to 20 weeks of pregnancy. 1-800-433-2930

DISPLAY CLASSIFIED

OUR RESUMES MAKE A DIFFERENCE ACCU COPY THE RESUME PEOPLE 758-2400 Next to Choice in the Georgetown Shops

DISPLAY CLASSIFIED

PITT COUNTY DRIVING SCHOOL SERVING ALL AGES PHONE: 355-6552 (9:00 - 5:00) 756-7457 (After 5:00) 1807 SOUTH CHARLES STREET GREENVILLE, NC 27858

HEY GREEKS! Come hear nationally known speaker Bob Boyd at the ADP house Tuesday, February 7 at 9 p.m. The topic is Love, Sex, and AIDS and it is sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ.

ANGEL FLIGHT RUSH: Monday, Feb. 6, 7:00 p.m. at the Detachment. Tuesday, Feb. 7, 7:00 p.m. at Colonel Patton's House. Wednesday, Feb. 8, 7:00 p.m. at Chico's. For more information, call 752-5431 or 752-9334.

PHI TAU LITTLE SISTERS: Bring your girlfriends to rush tonight. The Brothers only want the best candidates for little sisters. After all, the best already are little sisters!

PHI TAU BROTHERS: Can't wait to party tonight. We are bringing over some great girls to be little sisters at the best fraternity! —Love, Theta Kappa Tau Little Sisters.

VAMP CREW: William, Jimbo, Markus, and Scooby—I love you guys! We need to road trip again real soon! —Love, the Nickster.

DELTA ZITAS: ... Thanks for helping make our rush that much more successful. Maybe you could invite us over for dinner sometime. —With much love, the Brothers and Pledges of Kappa Sigma.

TO A SPECIAL ALPHA PHI: I had a great time at the formal. Thanks for coming with me. —Clint.

TO ALL NEW SORORITY SISTERS: The Brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon would like to congratulate you on your success. May Greek life be all you want it to be and more.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON AFTER-NOON DELIGHT: Fridays at Grog's. Beverage specials and doors open at 5:30. Check out Kev, the host with the most.

AZD-PIKA DUEL BASH: Like 3rd Street wasn't enough, we pushed on to the Fizz, where we really got hammered! Thanks for a thrashin' good time. —The Pikes.

DISPLAY CLASSIFIED

VALENTINE'S DAY ROSES? CALL BONITA'S BOUTIQUE OF FLOWERS AND GIFTS for Special... Phone 355-7888. Greenville Square Shopping Center. (just down from K-mart)

WIN, LOSE OR DRAW: Coming February 13 —Pika.

HEY GIRLS: Pi Kappa Alpha Lil' Sister Rush tonight 7-10. Come experience the finest lil' sister program on campus. The Attic.

SIGMA BASKETBALL TEAM: We're so lucky to have such a wonderful team representing us. Way to go on your past win and good luck the rest of the season. —Love, Sigmas.

KATHRYN SEPENZIS: Congratulations on being KA pinned! The best to you. —Love the Sigmas.

KELLY GREER: Congratulations on getting Panhellenic Vice President. —Love the Sigmas.

SIG EPS: We had a great time at the social, it looks like you all got a great group of guys. Let's get together again soon! —Love the Sigmas.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA CRESCENT GIRLS: Welcome back, thank you for last semester, we had a blast on Monday nights. Hope to see you back for Rush Feb. 7 & 8 at 8 p.m. at the House. —The Brothers.

HAPPY HOUR: At the Fizz. This and every Thursday night. 9 p.m. until —Pi Kappa Alpha.

DISPLAY CLASSIFIED

WOULD YOU LIKE TO LEARN TO SHAG?
5 Weeks
Tuesdays
$25.00
SHAG LESSONS
At the new Ramada Inn
Starts Feb. 14
Beginner 7:00
Intermediate 8:00
Advanced 9:00

WE DELIVER!
DOWNTOWN GREENVILLE
5:00 pm - 12:30 am
758-7979
SUBWAY

Boxers Wanted:
THE BOXING
March 28, 29, 30
Minges Coliseum
Boxer Registration
757-3042 or 830-1094

Announcements

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Christian Fellowship will be held every Thurs. at 6 p.m. in the Culture Center.

COLLEGE WORK STUDY

If you have been awarded college work study for Fall Semester and/or Spring Semester, you are encouraged to contact the Co-op office about off-campus placements. Call 757-6979 or contact by the GCB, room 2028.

LOST?

Something missing in your life? We've found it and we want to share it with you. Jenkins Art Auditorium. EVERY Fri. night at 7:00.

CAMPUS CHALLENGE

If you are challenged everyday with problems that you find hard to overcome, join us for the uncompromised word of God. Every Fri. night at 7:00 in the Jenkins Art Auditorium.

TRAVEL COMMITTEE

Hey you guys! Come join the fun on the Student Union Travel Committee's cruise to the BAHAMAS over Spring Break.

There will be dancing, swimming, relaxing and tons of other things to do aboard ship. All transportation and "all you can eat" on the Carnival ship!! The ship will dock at Freeport and Nassau, so come on and shop until you drop in the world's biggest marketplace!

CCF

CCF would like to invite you to our bible study every Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Rawl 130. Bring your Bible and a friend as we study the book of Hebrews. Call Jim at 752-7199 if you need a ride or further info.

ART GALLERY

Gallery Security Position, must be qualified for university work study program. Hours: Mon. 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sat. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and additional hours during the week. (10 to 15 hours per week). If interested, please call Connie — 757-0665 or Lou Anne 757-6336.

TUTORS NEEDED

Tutors needed for all business classes. Contact Lisa at Academic Counseling, Dept. of Athletics — 757-6282 or 757-1677.

RACQUETBALL DOUBLES

A registration meeting for Intramural racquetball doubles teams will be held Feb. 7 at 5:00 p.m. in Biology 103. Men's and women's partners are welcome!

FREE THROW CONTEST

A free throw contest sponsored by Intramural-Recreational Services will be held Feb. 9 in Memorial Gym from 3:00-5:00 p.m. and in Minges Coliseum from 8:00-10:00 p.m. Winners will receive Intramural championship t-shirts. Register on-site with your ECU I.D.

SLAM DUNK CONTEST

Registration for the annual Intramural slam dunk contest will be held Feb. 14 at 5:00 p.m. in BION-102. Women as well as men are invited to sign-up. The goal will be adjusted for women participants. Michael and Michelle Jordans should attend.

WEIGHT LIFTING CONTEST

Muscle and muscleless bound men and women should attend the Intramural weight lifting meeting for the annual weight lifting contest Feb. 20 at 5:00 p.m. in GCB 1026.

FINANCIAL AID ORIENTATION

Information and applications for 1989-90! Feb. 9, 4:00 p.m., Hendrix Theatre—MSC.

Information and applications for 1989-90! Feb. 9, 4:00 p.m., Hendrix Theatre—MSC.

SOPHOMORES AND JR.'S

Earn over $600.00 this summer. Earn $100.00 a month during your last two years in college. Become a part of the Army ROTC Dept. here at ECU. Attend the summer officer leadership course at Fort Knox, Kentucky. Info. meeting will be held on Feb. 9 at 18:00 hours in room 339 Rawl. It's not too late for you to earn a commission prior to graduation. For more info, contact Capt. Steve L. Jones, Rawl 344, 757-6974.

ILLUMINA

The Ultimate Chance for all students to show their artistic talents! The Spring art competition will be accepting entries Feb. 15-17 from 3-5 p.m. in rm. 221 Mendenhall. Entry fee is $3.00/entry and each participant may submit 3 pieces. First place $175.00, 2nd place $125.00, 3rd place $75.00 and 5 honorable mentions of $25.00. The Illumina reception will be Feb. 20, 7-9 p.m. in Mendenhall Gallery. Unselected pieces must be picked up by Feb. 19 or no later than Feb. 20 by 3 p.m. due to lack of storage.

PARTICIPANTS NEEDED

Participants for asthma research study.

Males age 18-45, with mild to moderate asthma. Compensation available. Please call 551-3159.

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Interested in spending this summer in remote parts of the world? The Overseas Development Network (ODN) is sponsoring internships for students and recent graduates in the Philippines, India, Bangladesh, Nicaragua, Bolivia, Belize, and our own Appalachian mountains. Any major can apply. Length of stay varies from 3-6 months. For more info, contact Marianne Exum (h) 830-9450 & (w) 757-6271. Hurry! Applications Deadline—Feb. 17.

ECU NAVIGATORS

"Flight 730," the weekly get-together of the Navigators, continues its streak of good Bible study every Thur., 7:30-9 in Biology 103. The non-stop, no-frills meeting is designed to help you develop a closer walk with God. In-flight refreshments served. No ticket required, just reserve your time.

CANDY-O-GRAMS

Inter-arsity will be selling candy-o-grams for Valentine's Day in front of the Student Store Feb. 8-10. Proceeds will go towards Habakkuk coming to ECU in late March.

COOPERATIVE ED.

Cooperative Ed., a free service offered by the University, is designed to help you find career-related work experience before you graduate. We would like to extend an invitation to all students to attend a Co-op info. Seminar in the GCB. Seminars for: Spring '89 Feb. 9, 4 p.m., room 2016; Feb. 13, 4 p.m., room 2016; Feb. 16, 1 p.m., room 1014; Feb. 20, 1 p.m., room 1014; Feb. 23, 4 p.m., room 2016; Feb. 27, 4 p.m., room 2016.

PHI BETA SIGMA

A formal smoker will be held Feb. 9 at 7:00 p.m. in NGB, room 2002. All interested young men are invited to attend. BLUE PHII!

AMNESTY INT'L

Amnesty Int'l. Group 402 is looking for persons to assist in its "Brazilian Campaign." The group meets every fourth Wed. at 8 p.m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 401 E. 4th St., in the upper floor—enter from the 4th St. entrance. Next meeting: Feb. 22. Students welcome!

Announcements

FINANCIAL MGMT. ASSOC.

The Financial Mgmt. Assoc. will hold a meeting on Feb. 8 at 4:30 p.m. in room 3009 GCB. The guest speaker will be Mr. Archie Jennings of Shearson Lehman Hutton, Inc. All are welcome to attend the meeting.

HEART FOR ART

Annual Valentine's Day Sale presented by School of Art Metals Department. It will be Feb. 8-10, 13-14. Displays are to be found in the foyer and top of the ramp (3rd floor) Jenkins Art Bldg.

PRIME TIME

If you are wondering about God's love for you, then come to "Prime Time" and discover it through fellowship and hearing God's word at Rawl in rm. 130 every Thurs. at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments served.

BCST HONOR SOCIETY

ECU Broadcast Honor Society will meet Wed. at 5:30 in Joyner, rm. #234. Pictures will be taken for the yearbook. All members should attend.

COLLEGIATE DECA

On Feb. 13 at 2:00 p.m. in GCB 2010, DECA will be having a Valentine's Day party. The faculty and staff of the BVTE Dept. are cordially invited. DECA members please plan to attend.

WATER HOCKEY CLUB

Underwater Hockey Club will be playing Wed. at 8:00 p.m. at Memorial Gym. Snorkeling equip. nor skill is necessary, but if have either, please bring. The next dates of play will be Feb. 14 at 9:00 p.m., Feb. 15 at 8:00 p.m., Feb. 28 at 9:00 p.m. and Feb. 22 at 8:00 p.m. Every night of play will be at Memorial Gym. If any questions call Craig Cannon 752-7620 or Chi 752-8124. See everyone interested underwater.

SOCW/CJ APPLICATIONS FOR SPRING, 1989

Students must have received and turned in their applications to the major by Feb. 10. Faculty interviews must be completed by Feb. 27. The group meeting with Prof. Gartman will be on March 1 & 2 at 5:00 p.m. in Ragsdale 218. You must attend either the March 1 or 2 meeting.

CABARET

The Performing Arts Series and the Dept. of University Unions present CABARET, the smash Broadway musical. This professional performance will take place on Feb. 21, 8:00 p.m. in Wright Auditorium. This production is being staged by Daedalus Productions, who brought PURLIE to Wright Auditorium last year. Don't miss this exciting musical of decadent, delightful, and dazzling entertainment. "Life is a Cabaret, Old Chum, Come to the Cabaret." Tickets for CABARET are on sale in the Central Ticket Office, MSC. Telephone 757-6611, ext. 266. Office hours are 11:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m., Mon. - Fri.

POLISH NAT'L RADIO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The Polish National Radio Symphony Orchestra will appear as part of the Performing Arts Series on Feb. 22, 8:00 p.m. in Wright Auditorium. Over 100 members strong, this symphony is led by Antoni Wit and features guest pianist Piotr Paleczny. The program for this grand evening includes: Strauss—DON JUAN, Op. 20; Chopin—CONCERTO No. 2 in F Minor, Op. 21; and Brahms—SYMPHONY No. 2 in D Major Op. 73. Tickets for this event are on sale now in the Central Ticket Office, MSC. The number is 757-6611, ext. 266. Office hours are 11:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m., Mon. - Fri.

ANGEL FLIGHT RUSH

Feb. 6, 7:00 p.m. at the Detachment; Feb. 7, 7:00 p.m. at Colonel Patton's house; Feb. 8, 7:00 p.m. at Chico's. For more info., call 752-5431 or 752-9334.

EXPRESSIONS

Expressions is now accepting poetry and short stories for publication in the April issue. Articles can be left at the office or the Media Board secretary's office, located in the Publications Bldg. across from Joyner Library. The first issue for Spring semester is expected to arrive in a few weeks.

MSAAB

The Minority Student Affairs Advisory Board will sponsor a Black History program entitled: "Continuing the Legacy" in Jenkins Aud. on Feb. 7 at 8:00 p.m. The keynote speaker is Dr. Larry Smith. Music will be rendered by Charles Maxwell and the ECU Gospel Choir. Also featured on the program will be Calvin Cherry who will perform an African dance.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The Lady Pirates will be back at Minges on Feb. 11 after a five-game road trip. They face James Madison at 7:00 p.m. At halftime there will be a Quincy's dinner giveaway and a performance by the Pure Gold Dancers.

MINORITY ADVISORY BOARD

In honor of Black History Month, the MAB will be sponsoring "Continuing the Legacy" on Feb. 7 at 8:00 p.m. in Jenkins Aud. Please come and help us celebrate Black History.

GMAT

The Graduate Mgmt. Admission Test will be offered at ECU on March 18. Application blanks are to be completed and mailed to GMAT, Educational Testing Service, Box 966-R, Princeton, NJ 08540. Applications must be postmarked no later than Feb. 15. Applications may be obtained from the ECU Testing Center, room 105 Speight Bldg.

NTE (SPECIALTY AREA)

The National Teacher Examination—Specialty Area Exams—will be offered at ECU on April 1. Application blanks are to be completed and mailed to the Educational Testing Service, Box 911-R, Princeton, NJ 08541. Applications must be postmarked no later than Feb. 27. Applications may be obtained from the ECU Testing Center, Room 105 Speight Bldg.

MEDICAL COLLEGE ADMISSION TEST

The new 1989 Medical College Admission Test (MCAT) applications have arrived in the Testing Center, Speight Bldg., room 105. The next test date is April 29. Applications must be completed and postmarked no later than March 31.

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS

The College Republicans will be meeting in rm. 212 tomorrow evening at 7:00 p.m. All new members welcome, all old members strongly urged to attend.

SERVICE AUCTION

A Service Auction sponsored by the student chapter of ASID is scheduled for Feb. 23 from 7-9 p.m. The auction will be held in room 205 of the Home Ec. Bldg. All proceeds will benefit the physically disabled. Donations are tax deductible. Services include: Housecleaning, baby sitting, car washing, yard work and window washing. Students & faculty & staff are encouraged to attend!

KAYAKING CLUB

The Kayaking Club will meet again on Feb. 7. The meetings are held in Memorial Gym at 8:30 (downstairs). Time will be spent in the pool learning basic skills.

Trips will also be planned. The pool fee is $1.00. Newcomers are certainly welcome. Come down and 'yak with us.

ECU LAW SOCIETY

Our next meeting will be at 7:00 in rm. 1012 GCB on Feb. 9th. We will be having a guest speaker. Plan to discuss dates for a trip to the U.S. Supreme Court. Members and newcomers are asked to attend.

RETURNED PEACE CORPS VOLUNTEERS

A representative from the N.C. Peace Corps Assoc. will be on campus Feb. 9 from 7-9 p.m. in room 1003 GCB with a slide show prepared by NC RPCVs. Come and share your PC experiences with the next generation.

BLACK FACULTY SYMPOSIUM

Members of the Organization of Black Faculty and Staff (OBLFS) will present their current and/or on-going research interests during Black History Month. Presentations will be held each Mon. during the month of Feb. in the Ledonia Wright Afro-American Cultural Center from 11:30-1:30. Students, faculty and staff are encouraged to bring a brown bag lunch and enjoy the discussion. Sponsored by the Office of Minority Student Affairs.

SPECIAL SCREENING

Tonight at 7 p.m. in B-04 in Joyner Library, see the new video, America Hurts: The Drug Epidemic. Stay for a while and discuss what is happening on campus concerning Substance Abuse Prevention. This is in conjunction with National Collegiate Drug Awareness Week, Feb. 6-12. Sponsored by the Office of Substance Abuse Prevention & Education. For more info., call 757-6793 or come by 303 Erwin.

IMPROVING STUDY SKILLS

Learning how to improve your study skills for greater success in college. The following mini course and workshops can help you prepare for the added workload of college or help to increase your GPA. All sessions will be in 313 Wright Bldg. Feb. 13, Making & Using Notes, 3-4:30 p.m., Feb. 14, Making & Taking Notes, 3-4:30 p.m. You may attend all the topic sessions or choose the ones where you need the most improvement.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Meeting every Wed. night at 7 p.m. Come join us for fellowship and fun. Look for on-campus posted announcements for meeting location or call 758-5082 for more info.

VALENTINE CANDY-O-GRAMS

Valentine Candy-O-Grams will be on sale in front of the Student Store Wed., Thurs. & Fri. from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. Proceeds will go toward the Multi-Media Production of "Habakkuk," which will be presented March 27 & 28. There will be free general admission for "Habakkuk."

CLASS PICTURES

Class pictures will be taken Feb. 9th & 10th in the Buccaneer Office from 9-12 & 1-4. This is the last chance for individual pictures to be put in the class section of the 1989 Buccaneer!

BAKE SALE

Buy your sweetheart a sweet for Valentine's Day! The Decision Science Society will be sponsoring a bake sale on Feb. 13 from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. in front of the Student Store. Baked goods for sale will include cup cakes, cookies, and other edible delights. Proceeds from this sale will be used to fund future Decision Science Society activities.

ASH WED. SERVICE

Worship God Wed. night at 5 p.m. at the Methodist Student Center then enjoy a delicious, all-you-can-eat home cooked meal and good fellowship. The meal is $2, $1.50 for members, + 1 cent credit for each aluminum or steel can you bring to be recycled. Call 758-2030 for more info. Sponsored by Presbyterian and Methodist Campus Ministries.

PSI CHI

Psi Chi will have initiation for new spring members and election of new officers on Jan. 9 at 4 p.m. in the Psi Chi library - Rawl 302. All members are required to attend.

READ

THE EAST CAROLINIAN

Tar Landing Seafood
Daily Special
6 oz. Sirloin with Shrimp
(Fried, Boiled, or Broiled) served with French Fries or Baked Potato, Cole Slaw and Hushpuppies.
only $5.99
105 Airport Road
758-0327
Banquet Facilities Available

INTRODUCING:

The All New Rafter's

Wednesday - LADIES NIGHT

- $2.00 Ice Teas!
- Ladies FREE

Thursday - TIAJUANA TEA PARTY!

- LADIES FREE!
- $2.00 TIAJUANA TEAS!

TRY THE RAFTERS CHERRY BOMB!

Valentine's Day
ROMANCING IN RIO!
$1.25 HIBALLS
FEB 14
JEANS ALLOWED!
Rio! The Club

LADIES NIGHT OUT

COUPON
FREE MEAL
BUY ONE SHRIMP DINNER
GET ONE OF EQUAL SIZE
FREE
Small $5.25
Regular $6.25
Large $7.25
(Beverage not included.)
Good any time. Dine-in or Take-out.
(Offer expires Feb. 28, 1989)

FOSDICK'S
1890 SEAFOOD

2903 S. Evans St.
Takeout Orders: 756-2011
Additional Parking Available

BE MINE LOVE

Candy

Gift Ideas:
Sweatshirts
T-Shirts
Stuffed Animals
Glassware

STUDENT STORE
East Carolina University
Wright Building

Cards Gifts

The Gift cannot be a Book

FOR YOUR VALENTINE I LOVE YOU

Pi Kappa Phi house manager Randy Bishop reflects on moving into the newly-built fraternity house. The house is the first new fraternity house built at ECU. (Photo by Thomas Walters, ECU Photolab)

Pi Kappa Phi gets house

By ALICIA FORD
Staff Writer

After three long years of staying in apartments and dorms, the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity is reunited again in a new house where the old one once stood on Hooker Road.

The original house was located on the corner of Fifth and Eastern streets. During the mid-1970's a few of the braver brothers decided to lay out nude on the roof. When the chancellor's wife drove by and saw them, they were kicked off campus and moved to Hooker Road.

They lived in this house until it was condemned by the city of Greenville in spring 1985 due to basement flooding and other irreparable damages. The house was empty until it was torn down in September 1988 and a new, two-level, western style A-frame was built in its place.

The new house was completed in January, and 12 brothers moved in on the third day of class this semester. Rick Miller, the Pi Kapp's Archon President, helped supervise the move. "It took us about two to three days. We finished on a Friday and had the official housewarming party that Sunday," said Miller.

One of the brothers who lives in the house, John Dickens, a leisure systems studies major, also helped on moving day. "It was a lot of fun. We didn't really party until that weekend when we had everybody settled in," said Dickens.

The house is valued at $200,000 and the Pi Kapp's alumni donated almost $60,000. Pi Kappa Phi Properties co-signed a loan for the chapter to help to pay for the rest.

The new house sits on three and a half acres of land and has a lake, complete with ducks and a bridge, in front of the driveway. Directly behind the lake is a four-court basketball court that the fraternity raised the money for and built themselves.

The party room overlooks the basketball court, and except for four double bedrooms, it takes up most of the downstairs. Eight of the Pi Kapp's share these rooms, and each has an adjoining bath.

The den, kitchen area, and four single bedrooms are located upstairs. Each bedroom contains new furniture that was donated with the house, and includes a bed, dresser and desk. "We had to pay for the TV ourselves, but the couches and chairs were all donated by alumni brothers," said Miller. The money for the television and basketball court was earned during fundraisers like car washes and selling doughnuts.

The Pi Kapp's are planning on building additions onto the house in the near future. A volleyball court and a 30' by 32' deck, complete with a hot tub, is in the making. They also hope to have a stage built on the deck. Some of the brothers are members of the band 180 Proof, and they plan to perform at a number of the parties and fundraisers.

Vice-president Barry Oliver is also the drummer for 180 Proof. "We hope to have the deck and stage built by April so we can be ready for the parties and activities we have planned this summer," Oliver said. A communications leisure systems studies major, he is a senior at ECU.

The Pi Kapp's currently have 31 active members and 17 pledges. In order to live in the house you are put on a waiting list. When another brother moves out you can move in, and it usually takes about two years to wait. The fraternity is planning an official ribbon-cutting ceremony on February 18.

Does having a brand new house help upgrade the Pi Kapp's image and popularity? "Definitely," said Miller. "On the average, we have 10 to 15 guys pledge a semester, and this semester we had 17. We're really happy and extremely pleased with the new house."

Royal Court Lp rocks

By TREY BIEN
Radio Star

Editor's note: I was just sitting at my desk, doing those editorial-type things, when my good buddy Trey Bien from over at WZMB, New Rock 91 called. He said, "Hey, have I got a surprise for you."

Breathlessly, I waited to hear what the surprise was. ZMB was having another birthday party? drivin' n' cryin' was coming to town?

"No, no, no," he said. "Not that good. I finally have those record reviews we promised you." I was let down, until he brought them over. I read them, and you took up residence in my heart again.

These two hip albums can be heard frequently on 91.3, so call up and request those babies. And look for the boss WZMB Top 13 album chart right here every Thursday.

The Royal Court of China's second album, "Geared and Primed," is one of the best albums I've ever heard. "Geared and Primed" offers a unique blend of Billy Idol mixed with Guns and Roses, all while maintaining slick production and expert musicianship.

Jeff Mays on lead guitar blisters through the fast tracks such as "Tijuana Go" and "Geared and Primed" and still has the diversity to bring the tempo down to "Six Empty Bottles." While listening to this album you can definitely hear influences of Zodiac Mindwarp and Cult.

The vocals on "Geared and Primed" are relentless. Joe Blanton works in perfect synch with the bass line, wailing guitars and pounding drums into one of the tightest albums of the year. The Lp marks a definite change for The Royal Court of China from their first album.

Their debut album was much slower and sounded more like a folk album than a rock album. "Geared and Primed" is a rock record that pulls no punches from start to finish. One day this group will be HUGE, just remember you heard them here first.

The Masters of Reality mark the return of producer Rick Rubin. This group has one of the most original sounds I've heard in a long time. The Masters of Reality display the eeriness of the Doors, the breakneck rhythms of X, and the tightness of the Cult. Imagine what Led Zeppelin would sound like with Rick Rubin producing them.

"Domino" and "The Blue Garden" are perfect songs to exemplify their sound. The songs take on a kind of dark, eerie mystery feeling with a laser pitched guitar to blaze through the haze.

"On Looking To Get Rite" the group displays a definite Led Zep acoustic sound. The Masters of Reality's self-titled debut album is a refreshingly different sound.

ECU hosts comedians

High school class clowns never die... they go on to college! And now, comedians at 100 colleges around the country will have a chance to get their act out of the classroom and into the spotlight by entering the third annual "U.S. College Comedy Competition!"

ECU has been selected to host the competition at 8 p.m. tonight in Mendenhall 244. Those wishing to perform should register at 7:30.

A professional comedian from New York will warm up the audience, and then contestants will have their performances videotaped.

Certs and Doritos have teamed up to send professional club comedians and college comedy talent scouts on the road between January and March in a nationwide search for the crown prince—or princess—of college comedy. Comic hopefuls from ECU will get the chance to perform their best 3-minute stand-up routine before fellow students and the College Comedy cameras. Each contestant's routine will be videotaped for review by our national judge, Jerry Seinfeld.

Four finalists will be selected by Jerry Seinfeld to compete for the title of "The Funniest College Comedian" at the U.S. College Comedy Competition finals in Daytona Beach during Spring

Break in March. Based on the number of entries in last year's 100-campus search, Certs and Doritos expect a minimum of 2,000 contestants to give it "the old college comedy try."

Finalists will receive an all-expense paid trip to Daytona, four days of VIP accommodations, and a trip for two to Los Angeles to see the taping of Comic Relief III. Jerry Seinfeld will open the finals, then each of the finalists will take the stage in an effort to get thousands of Spring Breakers laughing.

Entrants will receive a free tee-shirt and there will be Doritos for the whole crowd.

Tintin turns 60, still adventurous

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Tintin, the moon-faced Belgian comic strip reporter who trots around in knickers in action-packed tales, has quietly turned 60.

The intrepid young scribe—a trademark tuft of hair rising above the round face with the peg nose and beady eyes—first appeared Jan. 29, 1929 in a cartoon strip in a weekly insert for youngsters in La Vingtieme Siecle, a now defunct Brussels daily.

The rest is history, or at least years of happy reading and re-reading for comic strip lovers in 30 nations who have devoured the 23 Tintin albums in any of 33 languages.

His albums have sold more than 100 million copies worldwide, said Viviane Vandeninden, organizer of "Herge, Dessinateur" (Herge, Cartoonist), a retrospective of the work of Tintin's creator, George Remy. He signed his work Herge which are his initials in French, spelled backward.

Herge died of cancer in 1983 at the age of 76. He raised the low-key craft of comic strip drawing into an art form.

His albums are gems of storytelling and drawing. They put Tintin—who never aged and only late in life exchanged his puffy pants for slacks—into fast-paced tales that took him from the Soviet Union to Africa, and from the opium dens of the Far East to the skyscrapers of America.

He even explored the moon in two strips in the late 1940s whose drawings remain timeless to this day.

Herge's death has done wonders for the price of original Herge drawings which fetch upwards of $100,000, depending on quality.

Baker learned blues from dad

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — They call the music she coaxes from her six-string acoustic guitar the Piedmont blues, but to Etta Baker it is the language of joy and remembrance.

It sounds that way, too, as she lightly picks out the melody of "Dew Drops," the first tune she can remember her daddy playing more than 70 years ago in the Caldwell County foothills.

"A-many mornings I've been awakened by my daddy's banjo, and the smell of ham cooking and apples frying," she said. "And it was impossible to lay in bed when I smelled all that good food, and my daddy playing."

"It's just been a wonderful life, as far back as I can remember."

Folklorists regard Baker, at 75, as one of the finest guitarists in two-finger picking style that characterizes the Piedmont blues. On Jan. 18 in Raleigh, she and seven other masters of traditional arts will be honored as the first recipients of the North Carolina Folk Heritage Award from the N.C. Arts Council, worth $2,000 apiece.

After 23 years of work at a Morganton textile mill, she now performs at festivals nationwide, including Jazz Charlotte.

Baker has no formal music training, nor can she read music. But, she said from her small frame house under a spreading magnolia tree, "I dream music. I hear chords in my sleep."

Born in the Johns River community of Caldwell County, where her father hunted and farmed for a living, she grew up near Richmond as the last of eight children. The family, which later returned to North Carolina, had black, Cherokee and Irish - and musical - bloodlines.

Boone Reid, her father, played banjo, fiddle and guitar; her mother played harmonica and Jew's harp. Her brothers and sister also played the eclectic mix of traditional mountain tunes and popular music in their racially mixed community, at shuckings and house parties where music was sometimes made all night.

"I've seen my daddy dance, and he was a tall man, but so light on his feet that you could barely hear him on the floor," she said.

Before age 3, she was plucking out notes on a small guitar as it lay flat across her lap. It was during the family's time in Virginia that she first heard "the most sweetest music"—the blues.

"I've had people ask me how the blues make me feel, and I say they make me feel good," she said. "It's supposed to be based on somebody's sadness, but aren't you glad it's somebody else's and not yours?"

She's known now for her inventive performances and the delicate picking style she developed.

"I make myself play every day about one hour and 45 minutes," she said. "If I make a sound that doesn't sound just right, I'll do it all over again. I just want to get to the point where I can tell myself, 'Etta, you can play.'" "But I'm not there yet. I'm working on it, though."

Baker was first recorded in 1956 for the influential album "Instrumental Music of the Southern Appalachians" and two years later left the mill for music.

She sometimes plays with her sister, guitarist Cora Phillips, as they did during the 1982 World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn. The pair won the N.C. Folklore Society's Brown-Hudson Award for contributions to folk arts that year.

It was at the fair that she composed her lively "Knoxville Rag," the result of those chords that come to her in bed.

Her nine children, of whom eight survive, continue the family's musical tradition on piano and guitar. Daughter Darlene often accompanies her on festival trips, she said, while Dorothy has a beautiful singing voice. Baker rarely sings.

As she tends her garden and her zebra finches at home, the music of Boone Reid haunts her still. She got a banjo a year ago and a fiddle this month and is teaching herself to play them, too.

These dorm residents score passing students as Greenville scores a 9.5 for great weather last week. (Photo by J.D. Whitmire, ECU Photolab)

Sean Young is a good actress

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The film world has yet to get a fix on Sean Young, whose very name contributes to the confusion.

A first glance, though, eliminates any question about gender. With a slender, leggy figure, near-perfect face and long dark hair, she is obviously all woman.

Such attributes might indicate an empty-headed set decorator. That's about all she contributed in such films as "Young Doctors in Love" and "Stripes." Then last year she dazzled audiences with her performance as the sensuous Washington mistress caught between Kevin Costner and Gene Hackman in "No Way Out."

Correction

In "A day in the life of a theater major" (Feb. 2), Nina Blanton's name was misspelled.

Pi Kappa Phi house manager Randy Bishop reflects on moving into the newly-built fraternity house. The house is the first new fraternity house built at ECU. (Photo by Thomas Walters, ECU Photolab)

Pi Kappa Phi gets house

By ALICIA FORD
Staff Writer

After three long years of staying in apartments and dorms, the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity is reunited again in a new house where the old one once stood on Hooker Road.

The original house was located on the corner of Fifth and Eastern streets. During the mid-1970's a few of the braver brothers decided to lay out nude on the roof. When the chancellor's wife drove by and saw them, they were kicked off campus and moved to Hooker Road.

They lived in this house until it was condemned by the city of Greenville in spring 1985 due to basement flooding and other irreparable damages. The house was empty until it was torn down in September 1988 and a new, two-level, western style A-frame was built in its place.

The new house was completed in January, and 12 brothers moved in on the third day of class this semester. Rick Miller, the Pi Kappa Phi Archon President, helped supervise the move. "It took us about two to three days. We finished on a Friday and had the official housewarming party that Sunday," said Miller.

One of the brothers who lives in the house, John Dickens, a leisure systems studies major, also helped on moving day. "It was a lot of fun. We didn't really party until that weekend when we had everybody settled in," said Dickens.

The house is valued at $200,000 and the Pi Kappa Phi alumni donated almost $60,000. Pi Kappa Phi Properties co-signed a loan for the chapter to help to pay for the rest.

The new house sits on three and a half acres of land and has a lake, complete with ducks and a bridge, in front of the driveway. Directly behind the lake is a four-court basketball court that the fraternity raised the money for and built themselves.

The party room overlooks the basketball court, and except for four double bedrooms, it takes up most of the downstairs. Eight of the Pi Kappa Phi share these rooms, and each has an adjoining bath.

The den, kitchen area, and four single bedrooms are located upstairs. Each bedroom contains new furniture that was donated with the house, and includes a bed, dresser and desk. "We had to pay for the TV ourselves, but the couches and chairs were all donated by alumni brothers," said Miller. The money for the television and basketball court was earned during fundraisers like car washes and selling doughnuts.

The Pi Kappas are planning on building additions onto the house in the near future. A volleyball court and a 30' by 32' deck, complete with a hot tub, is in the making. They also hope to have a stage built on the deck. Some of the brothers are members of the band 180 Proof, and they plan to perform at a number of the parties and fundraisers.

Vice-president Barry Oliver is also the drummer for 180 Proof. "We hope to have the deck and stage built by April so we can be ready for the parties and activities we have planned this summer," Oliver said. A communications leisure systems studies major, he is a senior at ECU.

The Pi Kappas currently have 31 active members and 17 pledges. In order to live in the house you are put on a waiting list. When another brother moves out you can move in, and it usually takes about two years to wait. The fraternity is planning an official ribbon-cutting ceremony on February 18.

Does having a brand new house help upgrade the Pi Kappa Phi image and popularity? "Definitely," said Miller. "On the average, we have 10 to 15 guys pledge a semester, and this semester we had 17. We're really happy and extremely pleased with the new house."

Royal Court Lp rocks

By TREY BIEN
Radio Star

Editor's note:
I was just sitting at my desk, doing those editorial-type things, when my good buddy Trey Bien from over at WZMB, New Rock 91 called. He said, "Hey, Haze I got a surprise for you."

Breathlessly, I waited to hear what the surprise was. ZMB was having another birthday party? drivin' n' cryin' was coming to town?

"No, no, no," he said. "Not that good. I finally have those record reviews we promised you." I was let down, until he brought them over. I read them, and joy took up residence in my heart again.

These two hip albums can be heard frequently on 91.3, so call up and request those babies. And look for the boss WZMB Top 13 album chart right here every Thursday.

The Royal Court of China's second album, "Geared and Primed," is one of the best albums I've ever heard. "Geared and Primed" offers a unique blend of Billy Idol mixed with Guns and Roses, all while maintaining slick production and expert musicianship.

Jeff Mays on lead guitar blisters through the fast tracks such as "Tijuana Go" and "Geared and Primed" and still has the diversity to bring the tempo down to "Six Empty Bottles." While listening to this album you can definitely hear influences of Zodiac Mindwarp and Cult.

The vocals on "Geared and Primed" are relentless. Joe Blanton works in perfect synch with the bass line, wailing guitars and pounding drums into one of the tightest albums of the year. The Lp marks a definite change for The Royal Court of China from their first album.

Their debut album was much slower and sounded more like a folk album than a rock album. "Geared and Primed" is a rock record that pulls no punches from start to finish. One day this group will be HUGE, just remember you heard them here first.

The Masters of Reality mark the return of producer Rick Rubin. This group has one of the most original sounds I've heard in a long time. The Masters of Reality display the eeriness of the Doors, the breakneck rhythms of X, and the tightness of the Cult. Imagine what Led Zeppelin would sound like with Rick Rubin producing them.

"Domino" and "The Blue Garden" are perfect songs to exemplify their sound. The songs take on a kind of dark, eerie mystery feeling with a laser pitched guitar to blaze through the haze.

"On Looking To Get Rite" the group displays a definite Led Zep acoustic sound. The Masters of Reality's self-titled debut album is a refreshingly different sound.

ECU hosts comedians

High school class clowns never die... they go on to college! And now, comedians at 100 colleges around the country will have a chance to get their act out of the classroom and into the spotlight by entering the third annual "U.S. College Comedy Competition."

ECU has been selected to host the competition at 8 p.m. tonight in Mendenhall 244. Those wishing to perform should register at 7:30.

A professional comedian from New York will warm up the audience, and then contestants will have their performances videotaped.

Certs and Doritos have teamed up to send professional club comedians and college comedy talent scouts on the road between January and March in a nationwide search for the crown prince—or princess—of college comedy. Comic hopefuls from ECU will get the chance to perform their best 3-minute stand-up routine before fellow students and the College Comedy cameras. Each contestant's routine will be videotaped for review by our national judge, Jerry Seinfeld.

Four finalists will be selected by Jerry Seinfeld to compete for the title of "The Funniest College Comedian" at the U.S. College Comedy Competition finals in Daytona Beach during Spring

Break in March. Based on the number of entries in last year's 100-campus search, Certs and Doritos expect a minimum of 2,000 contestants to give it "the old college comedy try."

Finalists will receive an all-expense paid trip to Daytona, four days of VIP accommodations, and a trip for two to Los Angeles to see the taping of Comic Relief III. Jerry Seinfeld will open the finals, then each of the finalists will take the stage in an effort to get thousands of Spring Breakers laughing.

Entrants will receive a free tee-shirt and there will be Doritos for the whole crowd.

Tintin turns 60, still adventurous

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Tintin, the moon-faced Belgian comic strip reporter who trots around in knickers in action-packed tales, has quietly turned 60.

The intrepid young scribe—a trademark tuft of hair rising above the round face with the peg nose and beady eyes—first appeared Jan. 29, 1929 in a cartoon strip in a weekly insert for youngsters in La Vingtieme Siecle, a now defunct Brussels daily.

The rest is history, or at least years of happy reading and re-reading for comic strip lovers in 30 nations who have devoured the 23 Tintin albums in any of 33 languages.

His albums have sold more than 100 million copies worldwide, said Viviane Vandendind, organizer of "Herge, Dessinateur" (Herge, Cartoonist), a retrospective of the work of Tintin's creator, George Remy. He signed his work Herge which are his initials in French, spelled backward.

Herge died of cancer in 1983 at the age of 76. He raised the low-key craft of comic strip drawing into an art form.

His albums are gems of storytelling and drawing. They put Tintin—who never aged and only late in life exchanged his puffy pants for slacks—into fast-paced tales that took him from the Soviet Union to Africa, and from the opium dens of the Far East to the skyscrapers of America.

He even explored the moon in two strips in the late 1940s whose drawings remain timeless to this day.

Herge's death has done wonders for the price of original Herge drawings which fetch upwards of $100,000, depending on quality.

Baker learned blues from dad

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — They call the music she coaxes from her six-string acoustic guitar the Piedmont blues, but to Etta Baker it is the language of joy and remembrance.

It sounds that way, too, as she lightly picks out the melody of "Dew Drops," the first tune she can remember her daddy playing more than 70 years ago in the Caldwell County foothills.

"A-many mornings I've been awakened by my daddy's banjo, and the smell of ham cooking and apples frying," she said. "And it was impossible to lay in bed when I smelled all that good food, and my daddy playing."

"It's just been a wonderful life, as far back as I can remember."

Folklorists regard Baker, at 75, as one of the finest guitarists in two-finger-picking style that characterizes the Piedmont blues. On Jan. 18 in Raleigh, she and seven other masters of traditional arts will be honored as the first recipients of the North Carolina Folk Heritage Award from the N.C. Arts Council, worth $2,000 apiece.

After 23 years of work at a Morganton textile mill, she now performs at festivals nationwide, including JazzCharlotte.

Baker has no formal music training, nor can she read music. But, she said from her small frame house under a spreading magnolia tree, "I dream music. I hear chords in my sleep."

Born in the Johns River community of Caldwell County, where her father hunted and farmed for a living, she grew up near Richmond as the last of eight children. The family, which later returned to North Carolina, had black, Cherokee and Irish - and musical - bloodlines.

Boone Reid, her father, played banjo, fiddle and guitar; her mother played harmonica and Jew's harp. Her brothers and sister also played the eclectic mix of traditional mountain tunes and popular music in their racially mixed community, at shuckings and house parties where music was sometimes made all night.

"I've seen my daddy dance, and he was a tall man, but so light on his feet that you could barely hear him on the floor," she said.

Before age 3, she was plucking out notes on a small guitar as it lay flat across her lap. It was during the family's time in Virginia that she first heard "the most sweetest music"—the blues.

"I've had people ask me how the blues make me feel, and I say they make me feel good," she said. "It's supposed to be based on somebody's sadness, but aren't you glad it's somebody else's and not yours?"

She's known now for her inventive performances and the delicate picking style she developed.

"I make myself play every day about one hour and 45 minutes," she said. "If I make a sound that doesn't sound just right, I'll do it all over again. I just want to get to the point where I can tell myself, 'Etta, you can play.'" "But I'm not there yet. I'm working on it, though."

Baker was first recorded in 1956 for the influential album "Instrumental Music of the Southern Appalachians" and two years later left the mill for music.

She sometimes plays with her sister, guitarist Cora Phillips, as they did during the 1982 World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn. The pair won the N.C. Folklore Society's Brown-Hudson Award for contributions to folk arts that year.

It was at the fair that she composed her lively "Knoxville Rag," the result of those chords that came to her in bed.

Her nine children, of whom eight survive, continue the family's musical tradition on piano and guitar. Daughter Darlene often accompanies her on festival trips, she said, while Dorothy has a beautiful singing voice. Baker rarely sings.

As she tends her garden and her zebra finches at home, the music of Boone Reid haunts her still. She got a banjo a year ago and a fiddle this month and is teaching herself to play them, too.

These dorm residents score passing students as Greenville scores a 9.5 for great weather last week. (Photo by J.D. Whitmire, ECU Photolab)

Sean Young is a good actress

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The film world has yet to get a fix on Sean Young, whose very name contributes to the confusion.

A first glance, though, eliminates any question about gender. With a slender, leggy figure, near-perfect face and long dark hair, she is obviously all woman.

Such attributes might indicate an empty-headed set decoration. That's about all she contributed in such films as "Young Doctors in Love" and "Stripes." Then last year she dazzled audiences with her performance as the sensuous Washington mistress caught between Kevin Costner and Gene Hackman in "No Way Out."

Correction

In "A day in the life of a theater major" (Feb. 2), Nina Blanton's name was misspelled.

Louisianans cook gumbo dishes

OPELOUSAS, La. (AP)—Rachel Thompson had never tasted shrimp in her native Louisiana, which is famous for its seafood, and Ronnie Emonet had never heard the wind moan through the piney hills of his own state.

Both are 16 and represent the best hope for dismantling a wall of mistrust built generations ago by two clashing cultures, says Carole Andrepoint of Opelousas, who turned a joke into a serious experiment that worked.

Andrepoint, a member of the Louisiana Tourism Board who has been active in international youth exchange programs for years, jokingly told a friend one day, "If you want to have a real cultural exchange, have folks from north Louisiana come to south Louisiana. It's like two different countries."

An almost visible line across the center of Louisiana separates the staid upstate Protestants from the Catholic Cajuns, who make time for work around a busy schedule of consuming the full cup of life.

The descendants of the exiles from Nova Scotia make up a third of the state's population and those of different ancestry living in south Louisiana have absorbed the laid-back lifestyle of the Cajuns.

Former Gov. Edwin Edwards, the first French-speaking Catholic elected to the state's highest office this century, says the division is more a perception than anything else, but "a perception can be real."

"The barrier exists in the minds of those who have not had the opportunity to visit one end of the state or the other," he says.

"But invariably when they do, they come away with an amazement of how much in common they have."

"The barrier is exaggerated but it's there," adds Gov. Buddy

Roemer, whose family plantation is not far from the Arkansas border in north Louisiana.

Edwards and Roemer agree that an exchange program aimed at youths can eventually erase the perception.

The idea for the exchange program gnawed at Andrepoint and finally she talked with Linda Graham, her Ruston counterpart at a tourism meeting in Baton Rouge.

"I told her I had an idea about two cities having an exchange program and the more we looked at it, the more we like it," she says. "We talked to our mayors, school officials and civic leaders. Now, we've done it."

In a recently ended two-week program, about 20 Ruston high school students spent a week in Opelousas and an equal number of the south Louisiana students stayed in Ruston.

Host families provided homes and meals, treating their guests like their own kids, Andrepoint says.

The mayors and civic leaders visited each other's municipalities and, like the kids, discovered that even with the cultural difference, people are just folks and get different views of what they see, depending on personalities.

"The people are more free, more open down here," says Rachel, who attends Ruston High School. "Up north, we're very polite, but down here..."

"I like Ruston better than here," says Teleameckus Anderson, a 16-year-old junior at Opelousas High School. "They're so nice. The hills are beautiful."

"The family I stayed with made me feel like we were related," says Emonet, a junior at Opelousas Catholic.

Andrepoint, meanwhile, says Cajuns can learn from the other lifestyles, maybe find a middle ground.

Cowboys write good poetry

ELKO, Nev. (AP)—The 300 cowboys in town this week ain't here to rope steers or whoop it up at a saloon. No sirree, mister, these folks are the biggest bunch of prose-packin' smile-slingin', versifying-est cowboys you ever saw, and they're here for the annual Cowboy Poetry Gathering.

It ain't all doggie doggerel, and you better smile when you quote 'em pardner.

Upwards of 7,000 visitors have jammed this northeastern Nevada town of 13,000 for the five-day event, which began Wednesday and wraps up Sunday.

The area's 40 motels have been booked for weeks. Ten-gallon hats dot Railroad Avenue and Commercial Street, and more spill out of the Branding Iron Bar.

The crowds have come to hear the cowboys recite their bunkhouse ballads, sing soulful songs and tell of hard and high times on the range.

The activities have filled every available meeting place in town, from the Elko Convention Center to the bar at the Stockman's Hotel.

The buckaroos don fancy duds for the gathering — broad-brimmed Stetsons, silver buckles and handmade pointy-toed boots — but their sunburned faces, calloused hands and faraway gaze tell their own tales of hard and solitary lives.

One such poet is Waddie Mitchell, who runs 2,000 head of cattle on a ranch near Jiggs. Before he came to the gathering, he had to make sure there was enough hay put out and find a baby sitter for his five children.

Mitchell began writing verse during long winters on the range. Like most cowboy poets, he didn't show his work to many people because poetry didn't quite fit the cowboy image.

But the first cowboy poetry gathering five years ago brought a lot of sagebrush scribes off the prairie.

One of Mitchell's poems tells the plight of Tom O'Dell, found behind a bar with his throat cut. When "they got him to the hospital he wouldn't sign a complaint against the fella who done it because he was a friend of his."

Mitchell and Baxter Black, who will sing and tell stories at the Saturday night finale, are big guns in the cowboy entertainment world. They have been on "The Tonight Show," and Black's records are available anywhere Western music is sold. Black, a veterinarian from Brighton, Colo., earns a six-figure income from his performances.

Gary McMahan, a singer, songwriter and poet from Bellvue, Colo., who claims to have the only yodeling dog, recited this verse at one gathering:

"Two things in life that I really love,

That's women and horses, of that I'm sure of.

So when I die please tan my hide,

And tool me into a saddle so

Boy Scout loves caves

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP)—James H. Smith was a terrified, 14-year-old Boy Scout growing up in Georgia when he entered his first cave.

"I was scared to death," Smith recalls. "There were large lakes and large streams. People put on scuba diving equipment and went under water."

"I remember thinking, 'I'll never do that.'"

Now, some 19 years later, Smith has won a national award for his work in cave exploration, and he is working on a master's thesis on the caves of the Huautla Plateau in Mexico.

Smith received the 1988 Lew Bicking Award, presented by the National Speleological Society to outstanding explorers.

Bicking, an aggressive spelunker from Baltimore who died in an automobile accident, explored caves in the East — particularly in West Virginia — during the 1960s.

Smith is credited with tripling the number of known caves in Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia that are more than 400 feet deep.

Good Teachers Are In Demand

...and we're training good teachers.

The School of Education is searching for a few good students to enroll in an innovative Teacher Education program.

- 9-week Summer Research Project with UNC-CH Faculty Mentor
- Rising Senior Minority Undergraduates
- Humanities, Social Sciences, Natural Sciences, Biomedical and Environmental Engineering.
- Skills Enhancement Workshops Available.
- Room and board plus $1500 Stipended.
- Application Deadline March 1, 1989.
- Period of Program May 30, 1989 to July 28, 1989.

For Application Forms and Additional Information Contact:

Dr. Larry Smith
204 Whichard Building
East Carolina University

CLASS PICTURES

Class pictures will be taken on February 9th & 10th in the Buccaneer office from 9 - 12 and 1 - 4

This is the LAST Chance for individual pictures to be put in the class section of the 1989 Buccaneer

Introducing...

BOULEVARD BAGEL

... DELI SANDWICHES ...
327 Arlington Blvd
Greenville, NC 27834
(919) 355-3311

All Bagels 'N Bread Baked Fresh Daily

6 FREE Bagels

with any Dozen
(Not valid with any other coupon)
(expires 2/21/89)

Butter Bagel & Coffee
95¢

(expires 2/21/89)

FREE Pepsi

with any Deli Sandwich

(expires 2/21/89)

WHERE THE SUN ALWAYS SHINES™

SunSational

Tanning And Toning Center, Inc.

Tan in Luxury...

Get your base tan now, Spring Break is just around the Corner

Lose Inches...

Toning Special
$60 Unlimited per/month

1414 Charles Blvd.
Greenville, NC
Phone:
758-0404

DAYTONA PRIME

 featuring Daytona's hottest Spring Break hotels ***

- TEXAN: Home of Daytona's hottest club 701 South
- TRAVELODGE BOARDWALK: Next door to the International Nightlife & sunshine at its best
- INTERNATIONAL: The Spring Break favorite. Best location on the strip.
- TRAVELODGE SEABREEZE: Located only 500 feet from the Plaza. Right in the center of the action.
- CLARENDON PLAZA: Daytona's hottest rooms & clubs. Plenty of action. Our premium hotel.
- CARRIAGE HOUSE: One of Daytona's finest hotels with a classic ambience.

- Driving Package Without Transportation $ 125.00
- Full Package With Transportation $ 185.00

Upgrades Available (small additional charge)

- Kitchentte
- Oceanfront Room
- Premium Hotel Upgrade - Clarendon Plaza

Arrangements by ECHO TOURS INC.

YOUR TRIP INCLUDES:

- Swift, rugged, air-conditioned vans. The hotels are located on the middle of the action. Each hotel has a great pool and party deck. Unlimited complimentary breakfast and dinner for you and your traveling companions. (Specify the appropriate hotel details.)
- Round trip motor coach transportation via highway to Daytona Beach. (Round-trip motor coaches use the newest state routes available.)
- Pool deck parties and activities every night of the week. Featuring the famous Sun-Belt Strip contest.
- Optional excursions available to Disney World, sport party, and more.
- An entire night of bar and restaurant discounts to save you money at places you would go anyway.
- The services of our tour guides and representatives to show parties and take great care of you.
- All taxes and gratuities.

THE BEST OF EVERYTHING TO INSURE YOU THE BEST SPRING BREAK!

★ Best Hotels-Guaranteed
Our hotels surpass the competition in quality. Please Compare.

★ Best Location in Daytona
Don't let a poor location ruin your trip. (The Daytona strip is 23 miles long!)

★ Shouting Distance from Everything
The top bars, restaurants, expos and free concerts (not a taxi ride away. Like other trips)

★ Top of the Line Luxury Coaches
For the most comfortable party trip to Florida.

★ Pool Deck Parties Every Day
The hottest, biggest parties in Daytona Beach!

★ You might find a cheaper trip, but why risk your Spring Break cash on a cheap imitation!

To Sign Up Or For More Info

752-4693
Ron, Keith, Kelly

Pirates lose in last :13

Richmond holds on to upset ECU, 56-54

By CHRIS SIEGEL
Assistant Sports Editor

On Friday, Head Coach Mike Steele celebrated a birthday and his Pirate team was looking to give him a belated birthday present Saturday by knocking off league leading Richmond. But it wasn't meant to be as the Pirates missed three opportunities in the final :13 seconds to tie the game. Richmond held on to win, 56-54.

"You have to give Richmond credit. They played a good game," Steele said. "If we beat Richmond tonight, we send a message to the rest of the conference that we can beat anyone."

The 6,150 fans who packed Minges Coliseum were treated to an exciting ballgame. The crowd was the second largest on the season and the eighth largest in Minges history.

The teams came out at the start of the game a little tentative. They exchanged baskets the first five minutes of the game with neither team really taking charge. Then with 14:17 to play the Spiders mounted a run.

With the score tied at 12, Richmond went on a 9-2 run. Ken Atkinson highlighted the run by scoring five points on a jump shot and a three-point shot. The run by the Spiders gave them a seven point lead, 21-14.

But the Pirates fought right back and started a scoring spurt of their own. ECU rattled off 12 of the next 14 points, the most damaging coming from three-point shots by Kenny Murphy and Gus Hill. Blue Edwards capped off the run with a thundering two-handed dunk that put East Carolina up by three, 26-23.

Just as the home town fans started to get into the game and could smell an upset, Richmond quieted them. This time they did it by going on an 18-6 scoring run. Benj Taylor came off the bench to ignite the Spiders and hit two three-pointers. The close of the first half saw the Spiders up by nine, 41-32.

"In the first half, they had a lot of open shots," Steele said. "We knew we would have to come out the second half and play solid defense and stop their transition game."

And play defense the Pirates would: ECU limited the Spiders to 15 points in the second half and a dismal 28.6 percent shooting percentage. But even that was not enough to pull out the upset as Richmond also played fine defense in the half.

East Carolina came out fired up in the second half and took it right to the Spiders. Edwards ignited his team and the crowd by making a two-handed breakaway dunk to start the second half. The dunk cut Richmond's lead to seven, 41-34.

The next 12 minutes, the Pirates and Spiders would play hard-fought, physical basketball. ECU clawed and scratched their way back in to the game. And after a 15-8 run, the Pirates found the game tied with 6:40 remaining, 49-49.

Following two baskets by Atkinson, Richmond found themselves up by four with 4:37 left in the game, 53-49. Kenny Murphy answered with a three-pointer, but Atkinson fired up a three-pointer of his own and the lead was still four, 56-52.

With 2:08 left to play, Edwards hit a turnaround jump shot to pull ECU within two, 56-54. That would be the last bucket either team would score. But the action in the last two minutes was fast and furious.

After exchanging unsuccessful possessions, the Pirates found themselves with the ball and :13 seconds remaining in the game. ECU called a timeout and Coach Steele set up the inbound play.

"We ran our special. We wanted to get the ball to Gus at the top of the key," Steele said. "If he was open, he was to take the shot. If not he was to look for Blue inside."

The play ran as designed. The inbound pass went to Hill who was so open, he took a dribble in to get a closer shot. But as he fired the shot up, the defense extended out and blocked the three-point attempt. Reed Lose immediately fouled Scott Stapleton, who had picked up the loose ball.

With nine seconds, Stapleton had a chance to ice the game for Richmond at the free throw line. He missed the front end of the one-and-one and ECU got the rebound. They pushed the ball up court to Hill who took a three-pointer from the left corner. The shot missed, but went out of bounds off a Richmond player with two seconds remaining, setting up the last chance for the Pirates.

With two seconds to go, ECU had the ball out of bounds under their own basket. The pass went to Hill under the basket. He was forced to put up an off-balance, fall-away jumper that rimmed out and Richmond had preserved their slim two point win.

"We played outstanding defense the second half," Steele said. "We fought on the boards and competed. We held them to just 15 points in the half and they still find a way to win. They're a good team."

Richmond Coach Dick Tarrant summed up his feelings in one statement: "We were very fortunate to win."

The Spiders were led by senior point guard Ken Atkinson who scored 16 points and dished out five assists. Atkinson scored the last 10 points for the Spiders. Richmond's leading scorer Mike Winiacki was held to just 13 points and only two in the second half. This output was almost

See PIRATES, page 12

Blue Edwards dazzles the second to largest crowd at Minges Coliseum with a slam dunk in the beginning of the second half. Edwards' dunk brought the Pirates to within seven at 41-34 (Photo by J.D. Whitmore, ECU Photolab).

ECU Head Coach Mike Steele shows his discontent at the way a call was made in Saturday night's game (Photo by J.D. Whitmore, ECU Photolab).

Pirates open against Bowling Green

New football schedule announced

By CHRIS SIEGEL
Assistant Sports Editor

East Carolina University officially announced the 1989 football schedule on Friday and the home town fans will get to see a lot of the Pirates in the beginning of the season. Three of the first four games will be in Ficklen Stadium.

The 11 game schedule for the Pirates includes five home games and contests against four teams that played in post-season bowl games in 1988. These teams include No. 2 ranked Miami (Fla.), South Carolina, Syracuse and Southern Mississippi.

The Pirates open the 1989 season on Sept. 9 against Bowling Green in Ficklen Stadium. This is a change from many tentative schedules that had the first game scheduled for Sept. 2 against Southern Mississippi. That game has been moved to Thanksgiving weekend (Nov. 25).

New Head Coach Bill Lewis will have the luxury of playing the majority of the beginning of the season at home. The Pirates will travel to Cincinnati on Sept. 16 and then will face Illinois State on Sept. 23 in Greenville. The game against ISU will mark Parent's Weekend. On Sept. 30, ECU will square off against Louisiana Tech in Ficklen Stadium. During halftime of the game, the ECU Athletic Hall of Fame will have inductions.

The Pirates then travel to South Carolina on Oct. 7 and following a week off, return home to face Virginia Tech. The VPI game will also be ECU's Homecoming game of 1989.

East Carolina then travels to Syracuse on Oct. 28, Miami (Fla.)

See FOOTBALL, page 11

Gamecock coach dies at 51

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina coach Joe Morrison, who brought the Gamecocks into the national spotlight with the success on the football field and controversy off it, died of a heart attack after playing racquetball with three friends. He was 51.

Morrison had been playing racquetball at Williams-Brice Stadium for about a half hour with defensive coordinator Joe Lee Dunn, attorney Edward "Punky" Holler and businessman Ken Wheat before he suffered what Providence Hospital spokeswoman Dawn Catalano called a "massive heart attack."

Morrison, who had a history of heart problems, was taken to Providence, arriving at 8:44 alive but unconscious. He was pronounced dead at 9:04 pm, Catalano said.

Morrison was not feeling any pain but did have a "small, funny sensation near his elbow" after playing racquetball, Athletic Director King Dixon said. But when the players shook hands they noticed Morrison's hands were "awfully cold," Dixon said.

Dunn called trainer Terry Lewis, who in turn contacted a team doctor, who checked Morrison's pulse and heartbeat, Dixon said.

"I think they were well within the range when the doctor got there. But they prevailed upon Joe to spend the night in the hospital to have a complete check, which Joe agreed to," Dixon said.

First, however, Morrison decided to take a shower. But during the shower, he collapsed. He was found there by one or more of his playing partners, who began performing cardiopulmonary resuscitation on the coach, Catalano said.

Morrison, a smoker, underwent a surgical procedure for removal of a blockage in a coronary artery in March 1985.

Dixon said Morrison, who had been on the road recruiting almost constantly since the season

See COACH, page 12

Women lose to Richmond

By CAROLYN JUSTICE
Sports Writer

East Carolina's women's basketball team dropped its fourth Colonial Athletic Association game Saturday, as it lost to the University of Richmond, 78-70.

The Lady Pirates, now 9-9 overall and 4-4 in the CAA, took their second loss to the Lady Spiders this season. In January, the two teams met at Minges with UR winning the 67-58 decision.

ECU's Sarah Gray led ECU with a career-high 32 points. Only the eighth ECU women's player to ever score 30 plus points in a game. Gray also led the way on the boards with seven rebounds.

Richmond scored four players in double figures. Pam Bryant and Beth Spence scored 17 points each as the Lady Spiders improved their record to 16-3 overall and 6-1 in CAA play.

Despite shooting 56 percent in the first half, ECU still trailed

UR, 29-33 at the half. The Lady Pirates were consistent from the floor shooting 55.8 percent for the game while the Lady Spiders shot 57.4 percent.

East Carolina will look to get back on the winning track on Wednesday as they travel to Delaware State in non-conference action.

The Lady Pirates will return to conference action Feb. 11, when they host James Madison University.

ECU Tennis season underway

By CLAUDINE WURST
Sports Writer

East Carolina's tennis teams gear up for their opening games this season. The men began their spring schedule Saturday against Duke in Durham. The women play their first match against William & Mary March 9, at home.

The men's team had their first match against Duke Saturday at Durham. The Pirates were defeated by the Blue Devils 6-0. Although the men lost, Head Coach Bill Moore said, "The team did well for the first time out and the matches were close."

"For the next few games, we will be working on pulling the team together," Moore said.

"With so much depth and potential, we are still working our line-up."

Last year, the men's team finished sixth in the CAA Fall Tournament. This year, Moore said, "The Pirates will do well because of the overall depth of the team."

There are seven returning players, a transfer student and three competitive freshmen who compose the Pirates. Bobby MacPherson is a junior transfer student from the top-ranked tennis team of Anderson Junior College in South Carolina. Sammy Tuni, a freshman, is the No. 1 ranked player in Algeria, Africa.

All of the new members bring added strength to the team this season. "The men will be quite competitive, and highly ranked in the conference," Moore said.

The Lady Pirates also finished sixth in the CAA Tournament last year. They have four returning members and four new players: Brandi Dutcher, freshman; Ty Meyers, senior; Heather Mason, sophomore; and Elizabeth Henderson, junior. "This will be a building semester for the team," Assistant Coach Lynn Gorsky said.

This is also the first year for both of the coaches. Moore comes to ECU from East Stroudsburg University in Pennsylvania where he was director of tennis in 1987-88. Moore received his doctorate in sports psychology at the University of Virginia where he

See TENNIS, page 12

Pirate's Booty Officiating assisted Richmond

By KRISTEN HALBERG
Sports Editor

Hello sports fans. All across campus faithful Pirate fans continue to weep and dwell over Saturday night's game. The physical contest between the No. 1 team in the CAA, Richmond, and the seventh place Pirates proved to be an exciting and entertaining game for the packed Minges Coliseum, but, to no avail, East Carolina would not leave the court with a victory.

The Hoopsters played their hearts out, letting up only once when Richmond stretched their lead 41-32 by the end of the first half.

ECU then buckled down, regained the lead and went on to lose 56-54 in the last :13 seconds when, after three attempts, the Pirates could not get the ball in the basket.

But perhaps more disappointing than the loss itself was the fact that Richmond was playing with a three player handicap.

The Spiders had three extra players on the court throughout the game. I thought only five players could be on the court at one time. This must be a new NCAA rule for away games.

To make things even more difficult for ECU, Richmond dressed these three extra players in black and white striped uniforms instead of the traditional blue and red uniforms the Pirates are accustomed to seeing when they play Richmond.

Finally, to really make the Pirates scratch their heads, Richmond gave those three players the power and the whistles to stop the game at any given time to call fouls against East Carolina while simply shutting their eyes to any Richmond foul.

Now to an average viewer, these three extra players might seem like they were the officials

See OFFICIATING, page 11

Pirate swimmers head to the CAAs

By KRISTEN HALBERG
Sports Editor

Navy is the favorite in conference swimming and diving for the men and women according to ECU Head Coach Rick Kobe as his team prepares for the Colonial Athletic Association Championships to be held Wednesday-Saturday.

"For the guys, we see the [CAA] meet as a two team meet, us and the Naval Academy," Kobe said. "Navy will be our only competition."

The Middys were the CAA champions last season beating the Pirates by 14 points. "We hope we are 14 points better and Navy is 14 points worse," Kobe said.

The Midshipmen have been tough throughout the season and look to take the CAA championship meet, but Kobe is optimistic that his team can give them a run for their money. "I think us and Navy will probably be a good 200-250 points ahead of the next best team," Kobe said.

For the women, Navy also won last year and look to be the favorites again prior to CAA competition. Kobe explained the real competition will come from the Dukes of James Madison. "Us and James Madison will probably be fighting for third," Kobe said.

ECU swam JMU during the regular season action. "She should win but it is going to be tough," Kobe said.

For the men, Kobe predicted Raymond Kennedy to be a powerhouse for the Pirates as he should regular season and in a hard-fought contest, the Lady Pirates just narrowly escaped the wrath of James Madison to win it in Harrisonburg, Va., 153-147.

Kobe said William & Mary would probably fill the second place position.

Meredith Bridgers, the NCAA qualifier and ECU record-holder in both the breaststrokes, is a stronghold for the Lady Pirates as she is almost a shoe-in to win both 100 and 200-yard breaststrokes. "Meredith will easily win in both the breaststrokes," Kobe predicted.

Sherry Campbell, also an NCAA qualifier on both the one and three-meter diving boards, should also prove to be tough to beat. However, she has lost twice win both the 100 and 200-yard breaststroke events. Kennedy won the 100-yard breaststroke and the 200-yard individual medley in the CAA's last year when he swam a 57.93 in the breaststroke and a 1:55.40 in the IM.

Andy Johns is also favored to win in both the 100 and 200-yard butterfly.

Kobe has been resting his swim and dive teams before CAA action but the work in preparing has been more involved. "The work we do is a little more quality kind of work while swimming less yardage," Kobe explained.

The swimmers will also shave their bodies before competition.

Kobe said that a few swimmers still have a chance to qualify for the NCAA's because most of the fastest times come out of the conference championship meet.

Head Coach Rick Kobe supervises the performance of the swimmers (Photo by ECU Photolab).

Football schedule released

Continued from page 10
on Nov. 4 and then return home to play Temple on Nov. 11 in the final home game of the season. ECU finishes the season on the road with games at Pittsburgh, Nov. 18 and Southern Mississippi, Nov. 25.

"Obviously, it is a very challenging schedule, as you can tell by looking at it," said Lewis, who comes to ECU after spending nine years at the University of Georgia. "It means we will have to be the very best team we are capable of being to be successful."

ECU Athletic Director Dave Hart, Jr. also announced that series contracts have been signed with Pittsburgh and Tulane for the early 1990's. South Carolina, Southern Mississippi, Virginia Tech and Cincinnati have all signed contract extension.

There has also been an extension with West Virginia for the 1995 and 1996 seasons. Akron has been added to the schedules for the 1991 and 1992 seasons.

1989 EAST CAROLINA UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

- Sept. 6 BOWLING GREEN (7 p.m.)
- Sept. 16 at Cincinnati (7 p.m.)
- Sept. 23 ILLINOIS STATE (Parent's Weekend)

Officiating questionable

Continued from page 10
on the court and it turns out, they were.

Richmond is a tough, aggressive team who loves to get physical with their opponents. Saturday was no exception for the Spiders as they played with the same style and intensity against the Pirates as they had in ECU's last confrontation with Richmond and against other opponents all season. And even with this push and shove style of play, East Carolina did not go to the free throw line until 26 minutes into the game.

Officiating is a tough occupation. This nonglorious job requires an official to maintain a fair and just game of basketball while at the mercy of a hostile home crowd. But the key word here is fair, something that the officials failed to review in their officiating manuals before arriving on the court.

No one can say with total confidence that East Carolina would have beaten the Spiders had the officiating been better. And while the ECU vs. Richmond basketball game will go down in the record books as just another game the Pirates lost for the 1988-89 season, ECU players, coaches and fans will daydream of the win that almost could have been.

- (7 p.m.)
- Sept. 30 LOUISIANA TECH (Hall of Fame Inductions) (1:30 p.m.)
- Oct. 7 at South Carolina (TBA)
- Oct. 21 VIRGINIA TECH (Homecoming) (2 p.m.)
- Oct. 28 at Syracuse (1:30 p.m.)
- Nov. 4 at Miami, Fla. (TBA)
- Nov. 11 TEMPLE (1:30 p.m.)
- Nov. 18 at Pittsburgh (TBA)
- Nov. 25 at Southern Mississippi (TBA)

ALL HOME GAMES IN CAPS

DOWNTOWN GREENVILLE
208 5th STREET
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK
11 am - 1 am SUN. - WED.
11 am - 2 pm THURS. - SAT.
WE DELIVER!
5 pm - 12:30 am
758-7979

Pick up you Favorite Subs and Salads at our other Greenville Location:
THE PLAZA MALL
756-2110

$1.00 OFF
on any Footlong Sub or Salad with purchase of Medium soft drink Delivered

FREE
Buy any 2 Footlong Subs or Salads and Medium soft drink and get a FREE Footlong Delivered

FREE MONEY FOR COLLEGE

SCHOLARSHIP INFORMATION FOR STUDENTS WHO NEED

Every Student is Eligible for Some Type of Financial Aid Regardless of Grades or Parental Income.

- We have a data bank of over 200,000 listings of scholarships, fellowships, grants, and loans, representing over $10 billion in private sector funding.
- Many scholarships are given to students based on their academic interests, career plans, family heritage and place of residence.
- There's money available for students who have been newspaper carriers, grocery clerks, cheerleaders, non smokers etc.
- Results GUARANTEED

CALL For A Free Brochure
ANYTIME (800) 346-6401

Why Trust Your Pictures With an Out of Town Lab?

INSTANT REPLAY WILL DEVELOP YOUR PICTURES WHILE YOU WAIT

INSTANT REPLAY
ONE HOUR PHOTOS AND PORTRAITS
"Quality, Convenience and Personal Service"

THE PLAZA

(next to Annabelle's)
355-5050

- | | | |
|---|---|--|
| FREE REPRINTS
ONE FREE REPRINT WITH EACH TWO PURCHASED. ONE COUPON PER VISIT. | FREE 2ND SET OF PRINTS
AT TIME OF PROCESSING. LIMIT 2 ONE COUPON PER VISIT. | FREE ENLARGENTS
WITH PURCHASE OF ANY COLOR ENLARGEMENT UP TO 11" X 14" RECEIVE 2ND ENLARGEMENT FREE. LIMIT 2 |
|---|---|--|
- (expires 2/20/89) (expires 2/20/89) (expires 2/20/89)

PERSONAL PORTRAITS

INSTANT REPLAY

ARE GREAT, TRADITIONAL AND LONGLASTING GIFTS

Valentine's Special

$29.95*

(normally $50.70)
2-8x10's 3-5x7's
12-Wallets

*Price includes Sitting Fee

Riverbluff Apartments We Welcome Parents And Students

- Fully Carpeted
- Large Pool
- Free Cable
- Bus Service/1.5 miles from campus
- Under New Management

10th Street Ext. to Riverbluff Rd.
758-4015

LUNCH SPECIAL

MON.-SAT.
11 AM - 3 PM

#12 - 8 oz. Round Sirloin
Potato Bar
Sundae Bar
$2.99

Hot Bar and Salad Bar only an additional $1.99 with a meal
FREE DESSERT BAR
with All Steak Dinners
TAKE-OUTS OKAY

Western Star

2903 E. 10th St. - 758-2712

Daily Specials
10% Discount on Regular Priced Items
With Student I.D.

DON'T MISS IT!

"ROLLIN' IN THE DOUGH"

NEW! YOU COULD WIN $500. CASH!!

RULES: EACH TEAM MUST CONSIST OF ONE MALE AND ONE FEMALE. THE FEMALE WILL ROLL IN THE HONEY THEN ROLL IN THE MONEY. HER PARTNER WILL PICK OFF THE MONEY THAT STICKS TO HER. THE COUPLE THAT PICKS OFF THE MOST MONEY WINS THE CASH!!!!

FRIDAYS AT 10 PM

Stadium Cleaners & Shirt Laundry

FREE SHIRT LAUNDRY
Bring in 4 Shirts and Pay For 3 ONE IS CLEANED FREE!

205 East Tenth Street
Next to Hardee's & McDonald's
Open Mon-Sat 7 AM-6 PM
Phone 758-2701

CLEANERS

$FREE Dry Cleaning $ Bring in Any 3 Items & Pay For 2...one is cleaned FREE. <small>(Lowest priced garment is cleaned free)</small> Present this coupon when you bring in your clothes	$FREE Dry Cleaning $ Bring In 3 and Get 1 FREE. <small>(Lowest priced garment is cleaned free)</small> Present this coupon when you bring in your clothes	$FREE Dry Cleaning $ Bring In 4 and Pay For 3... 1 is FREE. <small>(Lowest priced garment is cleaned free)</small> Present this coupon when you bring in your clothes
---	--	--

$FREE Dry Cleaning $

South Carolina coach dies of heart attack

Continued from page 10
ended, had been sick about a week ago with a flu or virus that had left him "feeling awfully weak."

"Coach Joe Lee Dunn said he had never seen Joe feel so badly in his life physically," Dixon said.

Morrison, who played in the NFL for the football Giants from 1959 to 1972 as a running back and an end, came to South Carolina after previous coaching stints at both Tennessee-Chattanooga and New Mexico. Morrison's career record was 101-72-7 over 16 seasons.

He was 39-28-2 in six seasons at South Carolina, including 8-4 in 1988, when he took the Gamecocks to the Liberty Bowl, where they lost to Indiana 34-10. South Carolina has never won a bowl game, losing all eight it has played.

The season was a controversial one, however. The Gamecocks faltered near the end, losing four of their last six games. That came on the heels of allegations by former Gamecock defensive lineman Tommy Chaikin.

In a story in Sports Illustrated, Chaikin, who played at South Carolina from 1983 to 1987, said he and other players used steroids and about half of the 1986 team used the muscle-building drug. Chaikin also said some players used drugs such as cocaine and LSD.

Morrison said he had heard rumors some players might have been using steroids but the allegations were never substantiated.

The allegations by Chaikin have prompted a grand jury investigation that is expected to continue when jurors reconvene later this month.

University President James Holderman said he didn't think Morrison was under any added pressure this year.

"I don't think he was under any more stress than any football coach was under," Holderman said.

Dixon agreed.

"I did not detect any more stress on Joe this year," Dixon said.

Morrison's private life was the focus of intense scrutiny two years ago when it was learned he had had a child by a woman he began seeing while he was at New Mexico. The woman, Barbara J. Button, moved to South Carolina after Morrison became head coach there.

Morrison acknowledged he was the father of Ms. Button's daughter, Lisa Nicole Morrison, who was born June 12, 1982 in Albuquerque, N.M.

Despite the controversies, Morrison was known as a winner as a coach and a player.

Pirates lose to Richmond in final seconds of the game

Continued from page 10
seven points under his season average.

"We ran a box and one against Winiecki," Steele said. "He got a lot of easy baskets and layups against us the first game. Tonight, we really played him well and kept him from getting those easy shots."

ECU senior Blue Edwards led the way for the Pirates. He scored a game-high 21 points on 10-19 from the field. He also grabbed five rebounds and had four assists. Kenny Murphy also had a fine game chipping in with 15 points. Murphy was 3-4 from three-point range and had four assists.

Edwards 21 points gives him

515 points on the season. This moves him to fourth on the single-season scoring list at ECU. He needs 20 points to surpass Marchell Henry for third and Edwards needs 185 to pass Oliver Mack for the all-time single season scoring record.

Senior point guard Jeff Kelly dished out two assists to tie him for the career assist record. Kelly's two assists gave him 232 for his career. This tied him with former ECU star Curt Vanderhorst. Kelly's next assist will give him the outright record.

The loss moves the Pirates to 10-10 for the season and 4-5 in the CAA. Richmond runs their record to 14-7 and an unblemished 8-0 in conference.

		East Carolina (54)						Richmond (56)
		MP	FG	FT	R	F	A	PT			MP	FG	FT	R	F	A	PT
Edwards	39	10-19	1-3	5	3	4	21	Shields	18	1-3	0-0	5	2	0	2
Hill	28	2-11	0-0	4	4	2	6	Stapleton	26	3-5	0-2	3	2	5	6
Love	18	0-0	0-0	3	1	0	0	Winiecki	40	6-9	1-3	9	3	1	13
Kelly	29	2-3	0-0	1	2	2	4	Atkinson	40	6-15	1-2	1	2	5	16
Murphy	36	6-11	0-0	5	1	4	15	English	38	3-9	2-2	5	1	3	8
Lose	33	2-5	2-2	6	3	4	6	Taylor	25	3-8	0-0	3	0	1	9
Perlich	7	0-1	0-0	0	0	0	0	Blair	1	0-0	0-0	0	0	0	0
Mote	5	1-2	0-0	0	1	0	2	Webb	8	1-1	0-0	1	1	0	2
Team							5	Bryant	4	0-0	0-0	0	0	0	0
Totals	200	23-52	3-5	29	15	16	54	Team
								Totals	200	23-50	4-9	30	11	15	56

East Carolina.....	32	22—	54
Richmond.....	41	15—	56

Tennis team preview

Continued from page 10
was also the assistant coach from 1982-86.

A native of North Carolina, Moore resides in Greenville with his wife and two children. Moore also serves as a sport psychology consultant to collegiate tennis teams and professional athletes.

Lacrosse season to open

If you enjoy all the nonstop action of hockey and the physical contact of football, then you'll love lacrosse. Lacrosse a mainly Northeastern game that combines finesse with a lot of physical play.

The East Carolina Lacrosse Club began practice for their spring season at the end of January. The lacrosse club, coached by Duke Whelan, is looking forward to another successful season. Many returning veterans, along with new freshman, help to make up a strong team both offensively and defensively this season.

The lacrosse team has many home games this season with their first one against Maryland. The game is Sunday Feb. 26, at 1 p.m.

If you want to see a finesse game, packed with actions and physical contact, come support Pirate Lacrosse in their seven home games.

Register Now to get on the Mexican Connection to Cancun, Mexico

Courtesy of Chico's & American Airlines

And win a Trip for Two 7 Days - 6 Nights Crown Plaza Hotel

• Register anytime at Chico's in Rocky Mount or Greenville (two trips will be given away!)

No purchase necessary. You need not be present to win. Must be 18-years-old to register.

521 Cotanche 757-1666

At Coffman's we're also interested in your future.

Let's Deal With The Basic Suit... so you can get the most out of that very important interview.

The navy or charcoal suit is basic to any wardrobe. especially in the desirable dacron/wool blend which is the best all-year fabric. We highly recommend these suits for the about-to-graduate senior and the young Professional Businessman. Normally priced at $325.00, this very special group of Austin Reed suits in their Westminster series will be priced at

$285.00
(For a limited time only)

Downtown Greenville
Carolina East Mall
Tarrytown Mall, Rocky Mount

(Inquire about our college charge account for this event.)

ALL JEWELRY

1/2 PRICE

Bracelets Necklaces Earrings Charms

50% off at

Diamonds Watches Sterling Fancy Rings

The Coin & Ring Man

On The Corner Below "Fizz"
400 S. Evans Street
(Closed for Lunch)

10:00-5:00 M - F
10:00-3:00 Sat.

12:30-1:30

752-3866

East Carolina Playhouse presents

The Boys in the Band

"...CONTAINS AN EXTREME FRANKNESS OF LANGUAGE. THE BEST AMERICAN PLAY IN SOME SEASONS ... NOT FOR EVERYBODY. JUST FOR SOPHISTICATED PLAYGOERS." — N.Y. TIMES

FEBRUARY 8, 9, 10 & 11

McGinnis Theatre — 8:15 p.m.
GENERAL PUBLIC: $5.00 — ECU STUDENTS: $3.00

CALL: 757-6829

Be a part of National Collegiate Drug Awareness Week
February 6 - 12

special screening of AMERICA HURTS: The Drug Epidemic

Tues., Feb. 7, at 7 pm
B04 Joyner Library

sponsored by
Substance Abuse Prevention & Education Office

757-6793