What is Happening Over the State.

There are fifty prisoners confined in the jail of New Hanover county.

There are 35 practicing physicians and 26 preachers in Charlotte.

Roads That Lead to Poverty.

That low prices of which the farmer often complains, and which he is in the habit of attributing to other causes, are in large part due to his inability to market his produce otherwise than during the great rush, in which all are anxious to sell, this being because the roads which connect his farm with the railroads are at other times impassable for loaded wagons.—Chicago Tribune.

Only.

Only a stray sunbeam? Yet it cheered a wretched abode—gladdened a stricken heart.

Only a gentle breeze? It fanned aching brows, cheered many hearts by its gentle touch.

Only a frown? But it left a sad void in the child's heart—quivering lip and tearful eyes.

Only a smile? But how it cheered the broken heart, engendered hope, and cast a halo of light around the sick bed.

Only a word of encouragement, a single word? It gave the drooping spirit new life, and led to victory.—Kind Words.

Merit challenges competition. Beware of the merchant who wants to do business on the sly and is not willing to compete with the world for your money.

Each Day.

Counting the minutes, and counting the hours,

Counting the brambles, and counting the flowers,

Counting the sunshine, and counting the showers,

It is all in the work of a day.

For to-morrow's pleasure will banish the pain;

The flowers that have faded will bloom again.

The sunshine is sure to follow the rain,

It is wise old nature's way.

The pain from the world we jealously hid,

The daily duties we bravely did,

The hope nailed down neath the coffin lid,

And the sorrowful tears that fall,

The secret we hide in our bosom, deep,

The smiles that we know, or the tears that we weep,

In His tender care, He will safely keep,

And God is over all.

—Hellen Woodward Pratt.

May Qualify.

The newly appointed Justices who failed to qualify before April 1st, may qualify under certain conditions, so says the Attorney General. A special to the Wilmington Messenger says:

Governor Carr asked Attorney General Osborne for an opinion as to whether, if the additional justices of the peace elected by the State Legislature failed to qualify on or before April 1st, there were created vacancies which he had a right to fill. There were 3,600 such justices elected and the act said they were to qualify on or before April 1st. Very few of them have qualified. The Attorney General says mere delay in qualifying does not in itself work a forfeiture of office.

He advises that where these legislative appointees have by their own negligence failed to qualify, it matters not how long after April 1st, and still fail to do so, the Governor should appoint to fill the office thus vacant. If before his appointees qualify the legislative appointees qualify the latter have the better title, while if the Governor's appointees qualify first they have the better title. If the delay in qualifying is not due to the negligence of the legislative appointees—because they were not notified in time to qualify April 1st—then the Governor should not appoint. This case has aroused very great interest. The Attorney General's opinion gives the legislative appointees the inside track.

It seems a little odd now for no court to be in session.

ORIGINAL OBSERVATION

It takes a western cyclone to make people feel blew.

To what geological formation does rock the cradle belong?

The hawk is more pious than the dove, for he is a bird of prey.

"Time is the great physician." That is because he moves with a leaden heel.

"Woman is the Sunday of man" says a philosopher. Yes and she is also man's comforter on his weak days.

A woman kicks like a college football team at having to bear crosses—unless they are made of gold and relieved by diamonds.

If men knew as much about themselves as they usually do about their neighbors they would hardly dare speak to themselves.—Orange (Va.) Observer.

Valuable Papers.

We have received from Dr. Richard H. Lewis, Raleigh, Secretary of the North Carolina Board of Health, two small pamphlets, published by the Board, entitled "Suggestions on the Prevention of Tuberculosis as We Know It To-day," and "Drinking Water in its Relation to Malaria Diseases." The first is by Dr. S. Westray Battle of Asheville, and the latter by Dr. Richard H. Lewis. They are published for general distribution and we are authorized to say that Dr. Lewis will be very glad to send to any of our readers just as many copies as they will read or agree to distribute among their neighbors.

The Geo. P. Rowell Advertising Agency, of New York, gets out a Newspaper Directory in which it tries to inveigle newspapers to place advertisements at $150 a page. It also publishes a weekly magazine called Printer's Ink in which 25 to 50 cents per line is charged for reading notices, and about $100 a page for display advertisements. It has been trying hard to get up State departments for this latter publication and a recent issue of it attempted to ridicule the papers of those States which would not advertise in it. Of the North Carolina papers it said "they prefer home advertisements, which pay better." We rather think this is a compliment to the North Carolina Press. This same agency that charges such high rates for advertising in its publications has the cheek to offer advertisements to newspapers at about one-third price with a 25 per cent. commission, invariably wanting "top of column next to reading-matter." We are glad the papers of this State take but little stock in Rowell, and the sooner they cut entirely aloof from advertising agencies, or refuse to give them space at less than regular rates, the better it will be for the papers. It is amusing, too, to see how this Rowell agency, after treating papers as it does, tries to get them to help along its fight with the Postoffice Department to get Printer's Ink admitted at second-class rates of postage.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April, 13, 1895.

Democratic Senators are at a rule in favor of the republicans reorganizing the Senate committees and taking the responsibility for legislation at the next session of Congress, but they do not favor the proposal which has been informally made to ignore the right of Senator Morrill, of Vt., to become chairman of the Finance committee in order to give that place to Senator Sherman. Senator Voorhees the present chairman of that committee, having said that he expected to turn committee over to Senator Morrill at the beginning of the next session, was asked if he thought Senator Morrill would relinquish his claim to the chairmanship in order to give it to Sherman. He replied: "I certainly do not. Why should he? He is as vigorous as many younger men, and any effort to displace him would be shameful, after his many years of service on the committee. I should personally resent a movement of that character."

So much has been said about what the Finance of the Senate may do at the next session of Congress that Senator Voorhees' diagnosis of that committee is interesting as well as valuable. He says: "It is a silver committee now, and it will continue to be a silver committee regardless of the views of the additions which the Republicans may make to it. Mr. McPherson, a Democrat, is the only member of the committee as at present organized who will not be a member of the next Congress, and he is the only Democratic member who is opposed to silver. The other five Democratic member will, with Senator Jones, of Nevada, constitute a quorum of the committee, even if the vacancy should be filled by the appointment of an anti-silver Republican, but if the silver Republicans should succeed in getting one of their own number on the committee the silver majority will be just that much more pronounced."

No official under the Treasury department who may hereafter get into trouble through any sort of delinquency or misconduct will be allowed to resign. Secretary Carlisle has issued an order to all the chiefs of bureaus that in such cases recommendation for the removal of the offending person must be made to him. This may appear to be a small matter, but it is really an important reform. It has been the custom for many years to allow employees detected in some dishonorable transaction to retire from office by the resignation route, leaving nothing upon the records to indicate that the retirement has been under a cloud, and complaints have been made by those who have afterwards lost money by supposing these men to be honorable because of their department record. The record will in future show these things as they really are.

The Goldsboro Argus gives the following: "Look at this and think of how far the disgrace of North Carolina and the unsavory reputation of her late, but now happily deceased legislature, has spread. This morning a gentleman here received a letter from New York city addressed to 'Mr. _____, Douglassville, N. C.' The letter was mailed in New York Saturday and the post office people passed it along to Raleigh without a minutes' hesitation."

Every boy no matter what his circumstances may be, should learn a trade of some kind. Even if he has no idea of pursuing the trade as a means of livelihood through life, he should learn it and make an effort to excel in that particular line. It imparts habits of care and industry that will be beneficial throughout life, and it not unfrequently happens that reverses in fortune make it very convenient and profitable to fall back on a trade learned in early life.—Goldsboro Argus.

Supposed Mrs. Livermore Did.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore is a woman revered alike in her family and neighborhood, yet her greatness does not always appeal to a certain small boy who belonged to a family residing in the vicinity. He was one day found by his sister swinging on the gate. When she reprimanded him for doing what he was forbidden the irreverent youth remarked: "I don't care for you, nor ma, nor pa, nor the ox, nor the ass, or anything that's anybody's." "Oh, Will!"
 exclaimed the shocked little girl, "do you know who wrote those words you use so?" "Don't care," was the reply. "Mrs. Livermore, I s'pose."—Boston Home Journal.

The Human Voice.

Mrs. Milward Adams, of Chicago, is lecturing on the possibilities of the human voice. She divides the voice into six tones, from the tone of power and command down to that of "contentment, peace and happiness." According to Mrs. Adams, the difference between the American and English voice lies mainly in the different register used, the English woman using the upper tones and rising cadence, which is more musical in effect, while the American voice drops from the center tone down, exhausting the vocal chords and producing a strident effect.

To the Pole by Balloon.

In the meeting of the Swedish Academy of Sciences at Stockholm on February 18 the aeronaut, Andre, read a paper about his proposition to reach the north pole by aerial navigation. He argued that the conditions for a balloonist are most favorable from every standpoint.
 The present highly developed technique of aerial navigation would enable a balloon rising at Spitzbergen in the early summer to take advantage of the warm aerial current blowing northward at this season, and to finish the trip across the unexplored Arctic regions in about thirty days. He estimates the entire expense of his voyage at about thirty-five thousand dollars.

Too Sudden.

He—Dear Clara, will you be my wife?
 She—Harry, I have tried every sort of way to bring you to a proposal. I have experimented with the baby stare, reckoned by my friends as particularly fetching; I have tried the soulful glance, and also the down-drooping lid; I have, with apparent artlessness, led the conversation up to a point where it seemed impossible for you to avoid asking for my hand and heart; but all, all without avail. Harry, I will not answer you at once. I will think the matter over. I will give you time. I feel that to accept you at once were too sudden.—Boston

FOR COUNTRY CUSTOMERS.

Remarkable Growth in Cities of a New Branch of Business.

"There is an establishment out in Chicago that employs nearly 300 clerks and does a business of several million dollars a year, but which does not carry a dollar's worth of stock," said Postmaster Hesing, of the Exposition city. "Not long ago it sent out no less than 500,000 circulars to prospective customers. It is merely a purchasing agency for persons living outside of the city who need articles and do not find it convenient to buy them in person. The concern will buy anything for anybody, according to a well-arranged system. All the customer has to do is to send a description of the article wanted and the amount he is willing to pay for it, and it is gotten by an agent of the establishment and shipped to him at once.

"Suppose, for instance, a man in a remote town wants an overcoat of blue cloth, with a velvet collar, for which he will pay $10. He sends his breast and waist measurement and the money to the firm, and in twenty minutes after his order is received the coat is bought and packed up and at the freight or express office.
 No charge is made to the customer, as the firm has an arrangement with numerous retail mercantile establishments by which it gets a certain discount off from the market prices, and in this way makes heavy profits. I have been told that the discount ranges all the way from 5 to 15 per cent., so it is easy to see how remunerative the business is.
 Absolute honesty characterizes all its dealings, and consequently, very few articles are returned by customers as unsatisfactory."—Washington Star.

History of Henry VIII.

A small boy in one of the Germau-town public schools wrote a composition on King Henry VIII. It read as follows: "King Henry 8 was the greatest widower that ever lived.
 He was born at Annie Domino, in the year 1066. He had 510 wives besides children. The first was beheaded and afterwards executed, and the 2d was revoked. Henry 8 was succeeded to the throne by his great-grandmother, the beautiful Mary Queen of Scots, sometimes called Lady of the Lake, or the Lay of the Last Minstrel."—Exchange.

Felling Trees by Electricity.

Trees are now felled to a considerable extent by electricity. A platinum wire heated white hot by the current is used, stretched between two poles, as a saw. There is less work than with a saw, no sawdust is produced, and the charring of the surface of division tends to prevent decay. In some cases the time required to fell a tree by this method is only one-eighth of that necessary for sawing.—Eclectic.

Setting Hens.

We overheard a conversation about John Horne's setting hen. Ambrose Johnson said that he set a hen on thirteen eggs and she hatched sixteen chickens and left eight eggs in the nest. Ed. Foley said that was nothing as he had a hen that had been setting five weeks on brick bats and he expected every morning to see her come off with a brood of brick houses.

"Rongalcrbackards"

Saturday's issue of the DAILY REFLECTOR was the latest in getting out of any day since the paper started, our job printing department being crowded more than usual with large orders. In the rush two pages of the paper were printed "heels upwards," and not discovered until too late to make a change. However, the paper is small enough to be turned around so that no one had to stand on his head to read, hence we suppose such a misprint can be pardoned.
