LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS

BY O. L. JOYNER.

Suppose our merchants and business men were to be called upon to give three or four thousand dollars in order to establish a permanent industry here, that would turn loose in the town weekly from six hundred to a thousand dollars, would they do it? Of course it is easy to argue that a concern of that much importance, if they wanted to come here, would not stay away because the town would not give them the site on which to operate. So it wouldn't, if they could not go anywhere else, but in this day and time there are other bidders for such concerns as this. A few days ago says the Wilson Advance, the business men of that town met at Branch's bank to consider a proposition from a lot of capitalists who were intending starting a tobacco stemmery and a reordering establishment. The capitalists were turned over to a committee who showed them through the town and the principal sites. That evening another meeting was called and the merchants and business men were told by the prospectors that they would locate there if the site was given them. That means they will locate there, for the Wilson business men are not going to let that opportunity slip. A few years ago there was a large corporation who expected to establish a tobacco stemmery somewhere in the central tobacco belt. Henderson, Oxford and Durham were candidates for the establishment. When the investigating committee of the corporation went to Henderson they were taken in charge by the tobacco men and showed over the town, and when the committee asked what inducement would be offered to them to locate there, they were told to go to Oxford and Durham, and before closing the trade to come back to Henderson. They did this and in due time returned to Henderson. The Henderson people asked them how they liked Oxford and Durham. They said they liked them all well enough, and that land had been offered them very cheap. The Henderson men asked if they liked Henderson as well the other two towns, and they said yes, then said the Henderson men, if we will make the price of the land satisfactory will you locate your stemmery here, and the committee said they thought they would. Then the Henderson people told them to stake off what they wanted and they would make them a deed free of charge for it. Henderson got the factory and from that time on began to move forward. From this the merchants saved from $750 to $1,000 per week that would have gone to Oxford or Durham.

Now you merchants know how much profit there is on a thousand dollars of the kind of trade that this was. Make your own calculations and see if you could afford to gain anything to establish a business of this kind. Of course we have had no such proposition made us, but we don't know how soon such a proposition may be made. There are some people as a matter of course who would rather give something to keep anything of this kind away from the town than to get it there. These people live, always have lived and it is to be feared will live as a stumbling block in the way of doing something. They would not feel at ease doing business beside men whose business methods are so far superior to their own, hence they should not be blamed for their opposition. If we should get an opportunity of establishing a business of this kind in our midst, let the people get together and express their desire to have them come among us, and even if no inducement is offered it will have a pleasant effect.

Through an oversight in yesterday's REFLECTOR the names of Miss Nannie Fleming with Mr. J. B. White were omitted from the report of the German.

FALKLAND, N. C. JULY 5 1895.

Mr. J. M. Williams is quite sick.

A few of our people will go to Ocracoke Saturday.

Miss Mamie Mercer, of Wilson is visiting Miss Lula Warren.

Miss Bettie Bynum of Saratoga is visiting Miss Lizzie Peebles.

Many people from here attended the big races, etc, in Greenville on the 4th.

Mrs. J. M. Edwards and little son, of Wilson, are visiting the family of Mr. J. S. Harris.

The first picnic of the season in this neighborhood was given at Mayo's Mill Wednesday by the tony managers: C. H. Mayo, W. J. Cook, W. S. Newton, and W. M. Evans. A large crowd attended, many being present from Tarboro, Wilson, Greenville, Rocky Mount, Conetoe, Grifton, Farmville and Saratoga. All enjoyed the music and dancing until 12 o'clock when dinner was prepared and every one went to the table, all had as much as they could eat and even more. The table was well prepared and was managed successfully. After dinner the young folks engaged in dancing and talking to the sweethearts, the older ones looking on. Everything passed off pleasantly, ending with a nice dance in Smith's Hall at night.

There were lots and lots of pretty girls here on the 4th, both at the races and at the German. In commenting upon them a gentleman who was here remarked to the REFLECTOR: "I have seen none that surpass your Greenville girls" His head is level.

At Guilford Battle Ground on July 4th, there was a formal dedication of a monument to Col. Joseph Winston. There were five thousand people present. The address was delivered by President Winston, of the University. The statue is the gift of ex-Gov. Holt. It is made of sheet copper and looks as well as if it were bronze and is said to be as durable.

The jury has been selected for the trial of Shemwell for killing Dr. Payne. To the surprise of everyone it took only four hours to get the jury. After some instructions to the jury by Judge Boykin, court adjourned until next day when the trial will commence in a hotly contested battle. Some startling developments are expected even in the beginning of the trial.

Col. Fairbrother, of Durham, sold his paper some time ago with the understanding that he was not to edit another paper in North Carolina. Recently he returned to Durham and bought the Recorder, but he has been restrained from publishing it by his contract when he sold his paper. Not many tears will be shed on account of this result.

Who Should Advertise.

Who should advertise, is a question that has been propounded and answered in different ways.

We answer, everyone who has anything to sell, whether it is a product of hand, brain or machine, and in cases where those who wish to buy or secure anything that they cannot obtain conveniently, they should advertise.

Advertising should be treated precisely as any other investment and in nine cases out of ten it pays a better profit than anything for which money is spent. The best evidence that advertising pays is the fact that millions are invested in it by all sorts of trade and by the most successful business men in the land. No sensible man can believe that successful business houses advertise for the fun of the thing. With them it is business just as much as buying stock or selling products.

There are certain principles of trade that men ought not to ignore, and among them the principal one is regular, legitimate and persistent advertising.—Western Stationer.

Nothing so helps a town as for the news to go abroad that its people are progressive and never let an opportunity pass by unimproved for reaching a higher plane of prosperity.

A Division of Responsibility.

On the outskirts of one of our southern cities there used to be an old colored blacksmith who did a thriving business, but who, in an evil hour, took to himself a young man as partner. The money matters of the concern soon became so involved that the old man begged for a release, but the young man assured him that the law in the case of partnership was so peculiar that it couldn't be broken. Six months later, when the younger partner was away, the old man consulted a friend, found out the truth, and nailed up
the following placard:

"The partnership heretofore resisting between Micah Davis and myself is now resolved. Who owes the firm will call on me. Who the firm owes will call on Micah Davis."

When Two Virginians Meet.

The first thing two Virginians do when they meet is to take a mint julep together; they next talk kin.
If they are strangers to one another the first requisite is to locate and thus identify each other. Then they take another julep. Then the wild hunt for relationship begins and generally ends in establishing cousinship from a first to a tenth degree from a marriage somewhere between 1650 and 1895. Then they take another julep and the conversation takes this turn and goes on for hours:

"You say you are one of the Ran-dolphins of 'Curis?'"

"No; but my mother was a Page.
Her mother was a Burwell. My great-grandmother was a Carry.
My great-grandfather was a Lee.
My great-great-grandmother was a Washington and my great-great-great-great-grandfather was a Randolph, of Tuckahoe, and, ah—"

Here another mint julep stops him.—Washington Post.

To Improve Your Writing.

"I have made a discovery of value to the schoolmaster," said the fat man, and he exhibited with pride
his right hand with the ring finger tied close up to the palm in a string bridle which was passed around the thumb and tied around the waist.

"You see, it came about in this way. The end of the finger was sore and I wanted to keep it away from the desk while I was writing.
It was after I tied it up that I made my discovery. Ordinarily when I write I have an awkward habit of forming the letters by moving my whole hand and forearm. Since I have tied that finger up and do not have it to slide the hand along upon I find that I am obliged to write with a movement of the first two fingers and the thumb in the proper manner. It is a great and valuable discovery and ought to be put to use in the schools."—N. Y. Sun.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., July 5 '95.
Editor Eastern Reflector.

To-day while walking with Mr. E. S. Edwards over his farm I was shown a turkey gobbler that was setting upon potatoes as nicely as a hen sets upon eggs. Mr. Edwards had put his cull potatoes under his grape harbor to protect them from the sun. The gobbler had made a nice and well strawed nest near by and had rolled about 73 potatoes in the nest and is now setting upon them. Mr. Edwards discovered this some days ago and expects to put eggs under him as soon as he finds out the gobbler means business.
