To Discuss Money Question.

A. J. Warner, President of the American Bi-Metallic League, has written a letter to Hon. Charles S. Fairchild, chairman of the Committee on Sound Currency of the Reform Club, New York, in which he says:

"The Bi-metallic League respectfully invites the committee on Sound Currency to a discussion of the money question on distinctive propositions to be agreed upon, and to be carried on by questions and answers.

"I would suggest that not more than five or less than three on a side selected to conduct the discussion to be held at such time and place as may be agreed upon.

"Should this suggestion meet your approval I would suggest a meeting to agree upon the proposition discussed and the regulations under which the discussion shall be conducted."

Delightful breezes have prevailed to-day.

GENERAL NEWS.

Mr. R. J. Jones is the oldest living member of the order of Odd Fellows in Wilmington. He has been a member of the order for fifty years.

Three hundred thousand dollars worth of furniture and general merchandise was destroyed by fire in a storage warehouse in Chicago last night.

Look at Gastonia, Concord, High Point and see what cotton milling will do where enterprise and capacity direct and back up. —Wilmington Messenger.

A Populist school committee in Johnson county employed an auctioneer to let out the public school to the lowest bidder. It was knocked off at about $12 a month.

Six millions of dollars were loaned in London the other day at a trifle over half of one per cent, and yet there in that city over a hundred thousand paupers who daily look famine in the face.

Messrs. J. K. Morrison & Son and a party at Newton are shipping a car load of chickens to Washington City every ten days. A car load is about 8,000—4,000 of which go from Statesville and 4,000 from Newton.

At a church meeting recently near Chicago the question was asked whether a slippery lawyer of the congregation had "got religion." A brother lawyer answered, "I think not, unless it's in his wife's name."

The busiest men are those who think—the easiest and quickest to do business with—they build up their business by keeping in touch with the thoughts of successful business men, their sources, their methods and facilities—they count their busiest moments best spent when learning something to facilitate and increase their business, by judiciously advertising their own business and studying those of others. Keep space with the times and people by advertising.

The 26th annual meeting of the North Carolina Local Ministers' Conference meets August 14th to 18th at Rutherford College. The tabernacle is one mile out from Connelly Springs station. The cheap summer rates on the railroads will make it easy for all persons to attend. The hotels and boarding houses will accommodate large numbers at low rates.

Warning Notes Calling the Wicked to Repentance.

Some people have more reputation than character.

Many a man's religion is nothing more than a set of notions.

In the arithmetic of heaven, nothing counts but love.

The man who loves Christ will obey Him, no matter how much it may cost.

There is a good deal of religion in this world that never came from Christ.

The poorest man is not the one that has the least, but the one who wants the most.

There is more help in an ounce of encouragement than there is in a ton of good advice.

When some people say they are willing to do anything for Christ, they mean anything can be done without sacrifice or effort.

The experience of this county that has ever tried the experiment of county road building has found it to be an immense success.—Charlotte Observer.

EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY)

The Massey-Pilot Libel suit has been in progress at Norfolk for the past thirteen days. Nothing particularly startling has been drawn out and the trial has been long, tedious, and tiresome. It was expected that Mrs. Massey and Governor O'Ferrall would go on the stand yesterday.

There is some discussion just at present as to whether the act levying the taxes for the State was ever ratified. The machinery act which provides for the collection of the taxes has been the ratifying clause, but it is said that it fails to appear after the Revenue Act. The public printer has the ratifying clause after this act too but it is said that he put it there and not the Legislature. Secretary of State Coke is quoted as saying that the original act wants the ratifying clause. The matter will be looked into at once. Mr. Coke has taken steps to get the original draft of the act. If the ratifying is not there the validity of the act will be tested at once and if the Supreme Court should decide that the act is of no effect without this clause, no State taxes can be collected. It is said that the Court has already decided that the ratifying clause is necessary, and that no act is a law without it.

The Durham correspondent of the News and Observer sends that paper the following letter which he says in being sent out from the office of the negro paper published in that town:

"Special Circular, No. I,

"OFFICE OF EDITOR THE WEEKLY NEWS.

DURHAM, N. C.

"DEAR SIR: On every hand it can be plainly seen that the time has come for the negro to act for himself in all matters pertaining to his social, moral, financial and political rights, and not to be led by a set of unscrupulous individuals.

"We must act and nerve ourselves for the great battles that will soon confront us. The negro as a race has long been dormant and has done nothing to assert his independence and can never hope to rise in the scale of progress as long as this is the case.

In then goes on to state that a meeting has been held at Raleigh and plans formulated with the purpose in view of the advancement and union of the negro along all lines so as to put them in a position to demand recognition every where. The persons to whom the circulars are addressed are urged to organize clubs and report the names of officers and members to Dr. James E. Shepard, of this place.

It further says that a big State meeting will be called to meet in Raleigh late in September which delegates from every county in the State will attend.

It closes with the following words: "Get down to work and be ready to fight. The negro must shake off his lethargy and rise. For further information and literature address the secretary.

"Yours for elevation and progress,

"JAMES D. LATTA,
"Temporary Chairman."

LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS

BY O. L. JOYNER.

Richard Maury & Co., Exporters, of Danville, Va., have completed arrangements to establish a branch stemmery at Wilson, N. C., the business men of Wilson purchasing the site at one thousand dollars and giving it to them. There will be some more stemmeries started in eastern North Carolina before very long, and with one or two exceptions Greenville stands a better chance to get them than any other eastern market. Let our people get themselves together and see if these objections can not be remedied. There is only one natural disadvantage in establishing a stemmery at Greenville, writes a very prominent tobaccoist in a private letter, and of that I am not very certain, while every natural advantage otherwise that could be desired, is in Greenville's favor. The disadvantage referred to, is the humidity of our climate. With the exception of a short time, from about the 18th of Sept. to the 28th (at the time of the autumnal equinox) the climate is just as good for handling tobacco as any market in the State. This time is short and taken in comparison with the superior advantages of other markets, we think this could be very easily adjusted.

GATHERING THE CROP.

Do not be in a hurry to begin cutting your tobacco until it is ripe, and enough fully and uniformly ripe to fill a barn. A thin butcher or shoe knife well sharpened and wrapped with a soft cloth around the handle and extending an inch along the blade will do the work of cutting effectually and be easy to the hand. Try it. Put knives into the hands of experienced cutters only, men who know ripe tobacco, and will select plants uniform in color and texture, and will cut no other. Have your sticks already in the field, and placed in piles convenient, sticking a stick vertically in the ground over each pile that they may be most easily found when wanted. Pine sticks, rived three fourths of an inch by one and one fourth inches, and four and one-half feet long, drawn smooth at best.

Start together two cutters and one stick holder walking between them. The cutter takes hold of the plant with his left hand at the top near where the knife enters the stalk; with his right he splits the stalk down the center (observing to guide the knife so as not to sever the leaves) to within three inches of the point he intends to sever the stalk from the hill; and as the knife descends his left hand follows the slit or opening, and when the plant is severed from the hill, by a dexterous movement of the left hand the plant is straddled across the stick in the hands of the holder. When the stick has received about six medium plants, if intended for brights, it is ready to go to the barn, either carried by hand, if near, or hauled on a wagon, if distant. If it is necessary to use the wagon, prepare a bed sixteen feet long to hold three coops or piles, on which place tobacco as cut, and after placing twenty-five or thirty sticks of cut tobacco on each coop, drive to the barn to be unloaded.

Take a Hint From Durham.

An exchange wants to know what makes one town grow into a city while others with equally good locations remain villages.

It is because in the one case there are men of push and energy who are not afraid to spend their time and money to improve the town. They erect substantial buildings, organize stock companies, and establish factories, work for public improvement and use every means in their power to induce people to locate in their town. They tell the advantages of their town wherever they chance to be, they write about it in every letter, they send their home paper to every relative, when a friend comes to visit at their home they treat him with such kindness that he falls in love with them and the town at once.—Durham Sun.

An Omaha real estate story in Munsey's Magazine relates that a farmer came into town, called at an agent's office, and said that he wanted to trade his farm for some city lots. "All right," the dealer replied: "get into my buggy, and I'll drive you to see some of the finest sites in the world—water, sewers, paved streets, cement sidewalks, electric light and shade trees." They drove on for several miles, getting pretty far out into the country. The agent's horse went fast and his tongue still faster as he expatiated upon the beauty of the surroundings, the conveniences of the location, its proximity to the city, the abundant means of communication, the improvements made or projected, and the certainty of the rapid increase in the value of the lots. He had reached the middle of his oration when he incidentally asked his companion, "Where did you say your farm was?" "Oh," the other answered, "we passed it coming out here. It's about two miles nearer town."

One Cause of Hard Times.

Mr. Edward Atkinson shows in an article in Harper's Weekly that the deficit in the revenues of the government was caused by extravagant expenditures. Under Cleveland's first term the cost of government was $458 a head.
 That is to say that there went out of North Carolina annually $7,786,090 for the support of the Federal government, and since then the cost has been increased under the McKinley act and big appropriations. The big blunder made by the last Congress was in not reducing the tariff more than it did and cutting down extravagant appropriations. No people can be prosperous with such an outgo of taxes.—Raleigh News and Observer.

A North Carolina Land Grant.

Col A. E. Cochran, of San Diego is about to become the possessor of an immense fortune through a North Carolina land grant. His attorneys, Senator Thomas J. Jarvis and Ex-Attorney-General C.
 O. F. Davidson, of South Carolina have notified him to this effect.
 The grant, which is in the vicinity of Asheville, is about twenty miles long and eleven miles wide and comprises 100,640 acres. The land was granted to Colonel Cochran's grandfather, William Cochran, by George III in 1775.

David Scott has somewhat of a curiosity on his place on West Gaston. Some months ago he sawed off a limb of an apple tree not far from the body of the tree.
 When it bloomed in the spring a single bloom appeared in the center of the limb, which was about three or four inches in circumference. He kept an eye on it and now there is a large apple hanging there, to all appearances as sound as any on the tree.—
