Friday: generally fair.

St. Paul's Mission Band.

On Friday evening, Aug. 23rd, the members of St. Paul's Mission Band with a number of invited guests assembled at the residence of the President, to take part in one of the most enjoyable social gatherings ever held in this community. An interesting programme consisting of music, readings and recitations were rendered, and the history of the work of the band since its organization was read by the President, Miss Bessie Jarvis. A short address by Mr. W. S. Bernard setting forth the purpose of the band and the methods of work followed. In concluding he extended an invitation to all guests present and five responded and were enrolled as members of the band.

The remainder of the evening was spent in conversation and music. Later, refreshments were served, and when good nights were said hearty expressions of pleasure assured the committee of arrangements that increased interest in the work of the band had rewarded their efforts.

Big Tomato.

Allen Warren & Son offered to the person growing the largest tomato free plants for next season. Mr. W. T. Lipscomb wins the prize, having grown one that weighed 1 pound and 15 ounces.

The warehouses did not wait for Friday to have a big break this week. They had a whopper to-day. The fact is the breaks are good every day, but of course better some days than others.

THE ROUSS ROBBERY.

Mr. R. E. Cox Entirely Exonerated.

There was considerable excitement here on Tuesday over an item in the New York World that came Monday night, giving particulars of a wholesale robbery of C. B. Rouss, the great New York merchant, and using the name of a young man named Cox among others implicated in it, who the people here at once recognized as being Mr. R. E. Cox, of Greenville. The REFLECTOR at the time refrained from mentioning the affair at all, feeling satisfied that so excellent a young man as Bob Cox could not possibly have been a party to such a crime, and not wishing to cause suspicion to rest upon him even for a moment we waited for further developments which all his friends believed would exonerate him.

The developments have come, and his friends are gratified that Bob is not only fully exonerated from any complicity with the crime, but has also been highly complimented for the assistance he rendered the detectives in working up the case for his employer. His father, Mr. W. H. Cox, Wednesday night received the following letter from the detective in charge of the case which fully explains itself:

NEW YORK CITY, Aug. 27, 1895.
MR. W. H. COX,

DEAR SIR:—I write you this in justice to your son, who owing to my mistake in judgment, has been temporarily involved in trouble at Rouss', but who is now all right and again in the employ of the firm, however, in another capacity, that of detective, working in conjunction with Mr. Rouss, Jr. and myself. Your son not knowing the character of one Hyman with whom he roomed, brought himself by that act under my suspicion, and as I at that time had sole charge of the case against the "crooks" in the store and knowing and having evidence of Hyman's "crookedness" erroneously on the old theory "birds of a feather, &c.," reported your son, not having any evidence against him whatever except as stated above. Of course he was a total stranger to me and I did not know his fine character or I would never draw him into the case.

After we found our mistake we made him the offer and Mr. Rouss requested him to assist us in the pursuit of the criminals, and owing to his efforts a sum of money was paid into the store to day from stolen goods which would never have been recovered except for his energy and persistency in looking it up.

When he assumed the role of detective he of course left the store for outside work, and the ignorant carrier boys and knowing, but malicious clerks, associated his name with that of the "crooks" and by statements to reporters got his name into the papers as if he were in connection with them which pained him very much, but which we will rectify at once. I will say that it will not be long before all parties will be brought to justice.

Yours with respect,
MARK BEAUREGARD.
With C. B. Rouss.

The four warehouses had 50,000 pounds of tobacco to-day, of which the Eastern sold 20,000. Prices are still high and everybody is satisfied.

You don't see many idle people about the streets. It is not hard to get work in these tobacco handling times.

There will be a moonlight excursion on steamer Myers, Friday night, 30th, under the management of Mrs Charles Skinner and Miss Bessie Jarvis, for benefit of the Episcopal church.

We hear that a day or two ago a merchant offered a farmer 8 cents for his cotton crop this year to be delivered any time before January first. It looks now like the price will reach 8 cents this fall. See our reports.

Quay wins his fight at Harrisburg, and it may result in two conventions is one report from said city. Another is that the anti-Quay forces are on top. We are of the opinion that Quay will win.

Gen. Ransom has been re-appointed Minister to Mexico. There was never any doubt as to the fact that President Cleveland would give him the place again, but some of his friends were fearful as to results. The appointment was made last Saturday and Gen. Ransom is in Washington making preparations to leave for Mexico at some early date.

At Fleetwood today there was to be another race between the three famous pacers, John R. Gentry, Joe Patchen and Robert J. in a free for all pace for a purse of $5,000.

The record of the horses is as follows: John R. Gentry 2:03 $\frac{1}{2}$. Joe Patchen 2:04, Robert J. 2:01 $\frac{1}{2}$.

The following horses will it is said, also enter: Star Pointer, record not given. Rubenstein 2:06 $\frac{1}{2}$. Mascot 2:04. Directly 2:07 $\frac{1}{2}$. It will be an interesting race and we would like to see John R. Gentry come out winner.

Ex-Senator Jarvis spoke to an immense crowd at Morgantou on last Tuesday. One of our exchanges has the following to say in reference to his speech:

"The speaker was in good form calm, earnest, indignant upon occasion, and eloquent at the close. The attention of his audience was marked, his argument lucid, exhaustive and full of common sense. His illustrations, though homely, were effective, and his speech had a good effect upon party prospects. This is the universal opinion.

"Senator Jarvis closed with an eloquent appeal to the descendants of the men who surrounded Ferguson on King's Mountain to girdle with fire this latest attempt to plant the flag of English moneyed supremacy over our land."

A Handful of Laconics.

To be a good listener is to possess as great an art as to be a good talker.

The girl who is the close confidant of her father makes, in nine cases out of ten, the best kind of a wife.

A pretty woman, with nothing but her fairness to offer, invariably attracts men. But she seldom holds them

It is singular and yet a fact that the virtues we are most loath to believe possessed by others are those we are incapable of ourselves.

It is a habit with some people when they wish their own virtues to look the whitest, always to use the faults of others as a background.

The lover, women complain, does not always survive in the husband. But is it not equally true that the sweetheart does not always survive in the wife?

VALUE OF A MINUTE.

Nature Utilizes inconceivably Small Spaces of Time.

Napoleon, who knew the value of time, remarked that it was the quarter-hours that won battles, says the Boston Advertiser. The value of minutes has been often recognized, and any person watching a railway clerk handing out tickets and change during the last few minutes available must have been struck with how much could be done in these short periods of time.

At the appointed hour the train starts and by and by is carrying passengers at the rate of sixty miles an hour. In a second you are carried twenty-nine yards. In one twenty-ninth part of a second you pass over one yard. Now, one yard is quite an appreciable distance, but one twenty-ninth of a second is a period which cannot be appreciated.

Yet it is when we come to planetary and stellar motions that the motion of the infinite divisibility of time dawns upon us in a new light. It would seem that no portion of time, however microscopic, is unavailable. Nature cannot perform prodigies, not certainly in less than no time, but in portions so minute as to be altogether inconceivable. The earth revolves on her axis in twenty-four hours. At the equator her circumference is 25,000 miles. Hence, in that part of the earth a person is being carried eastward at the rate of 509 yards per second—that is, the moving over a yard, whose length is conceivable in the period of one five hundred and ninth part of a second, of which we can have no conception at all.

But more, the orbital motion of the earth round the sun causes the former to perform a revolution of nearly 600,000,000 miles in a year, or somewhat less than 70,000 miles an hour, which is more than 1,000 miles in a minute. Here, then, our second carries us the long distance of about nineteen miles. The mighty ball thus flies about a mile in the nineteenth part of a second.

VERY SAD.

The Scotchman Didn't See Where the Joke Came In.

The appreciation of a jest is not possible to everyone, and those persons who lack the power of perceiving a joke are often funnier, unintentionally, than are the intentional jesters. On a European steamer was a Scotch gentleman coming to America, who was soon distinguished among his fellow-passengers for his disability in the matter of appreciating humor, and several Americans set to work to see if they could not tell him some story of which he would see the fun.

All sorts of anecdotes, good and bad, were tried, some true and some apocryphal; and at length when the supply was mostly exhausted and the Scotchman was as unmoved as ever, one of the Americans told this whimsical and absurd story.

He said that a man and his bride started on their bridal tour on an ocean steamer, and were taken violently ill almost as soon as the boat started.

The voyage was exceedingly rough, and both bride and groom became so dangerously ill that it was found necessary to put them in separate staterooms. Neither manifested any especial interest in the other, so deathly sick were they both. At last the steward went to the stateroom of the husband and said to him: "I am very sorry, but I have come to tell you that your wife is dead." "That's good," the seasick husband returned feebly. "I wish I was."

The story, such as it was, of course turned upon the old joke about seasickness. The Scotchman listened to it in profound silence, and when it was finished he heaved a melancholy sigh.

"Ah," he commented. "Very sad, I'm sure. What was the name of the parties?"

And after that they gave up all attempts to make him see a joke.
