Some of Those Who Have Carried Their Part of the Burden in Pushing Greenville Forward.

The subject of this sketch is the son of a Granville county farmer.

B. ERNEST PARHAM

grew up to eleven years of age on the farm not very far from Oxford. At an early age he bade adieu the dear old country home among the red hills of Granville and betook himself to Foughkeeper Business College, whence after a thorough course of business training he returned to Oxford and began work in the office of Davis & Gregory who were then operating a warehouse business. It was while he was employed by this firm that he first became impressed with the types of tobacco grown in Eastern Carolina. At this time there was no tobacco market of any consequence in the eastern section and a good many of our farmers will remember when they used to take their tobacco up to Oxford to sell it. The firm of Davis & Gregory sold nearly all the tobacco that was shipped from this section and in his position Mr. Parham had a good opportunity to see the best tobacco that was offered. When Davis & Gregory moved

THERE'S A FORETASTE

Of Winter in the air these days that makes brisk trading. Never before were we so well prepared for the fall and winter trade as now. See us for anything in CLOTHING from the everyday business Suit to the most expensive Suit. FRANK WILSON, from Oxford to Richmond Mr. Parham concluded to combine east, so accordingly he first stopped at Rocky Mount, there being at the time no market in Greenville. As soon as the Greenville market was opened Mr. Parham placed an order here and his purchases at this point the first year convinced him that he was on the wrong market and in the fall of 1894 he he pulled up from Rocky Mount and came to Greenville, Pitt county, when the bright tobacco grows. There is probably no buyer on any the eastern markets that has increased his business in a more wonderful ratio than Ernest Parham. In order to get an idea of the magnitude of his business now and how it has increased since he first began buying on this market just take his business for the past three years. The first year the firm of B. E. Parham & Co. bought on the Greenville market 60,000 pounds, the second year 200,000 and the out of this crop already they have bought, 700,000 pounds and by the close of the season they hope to get one and a quarter millions.
 THE KING CLOTHIER.

Mr. Parham's purchases are mainly fine tobacco and when it is considered that his tobacco costs him on an average of, say fifteen cents a pound, the enormity of his business will be presented. There is probably no man in the State today of his age, only twenty-seven years old, that has built up the business that he has, and there is doubtless no dealer in Eastern Carolina that is handling the amount of bright tobacco. We can truthfully say that we have never had a more liberal buyer on the Greenville market than Mr. Parham, and while he is always active and on the alert in buying tobacco, jealous of course of his every interest, yet there is nothing small or narrow-minded in him. Mr. Parham like all the rest of our buyers is quite a young man, and with the commendable record that he has made already a bright future indeed should be his. Mr. Parham was recently married to a most charming and estimable young woman, Miss Ora Jones, of Durham.

EVERY AFTERNOON EXCEPT SUNDAY

TO-MORROW IS THANKSGIVING DAY.

The President of the United States and the Governor of North Carolina have both named the 28th of November as a day to be set apart for Thanksgiving to Almighty God for His many blessings, and in their proclamation they urged the people to observe the day appropriately. This is a beautiful custom that has been practiced by the American people for a great many years, and if there were no other incentive than obedience to the requests of the Chief Executive of our Nation and State, this itself should be sufficient to cause our people to observe the day. But there is a far greater reason than this for its observance. God has bestowed his blessings bountifully upon us, and our thanks and praise are due Him in return for what He has done for us. Let no one be so ungrateful as to not turn aside from the pursuit of his avocation for the day and lift his heart in humble thankfulness to the Giver of all gifts. The day should be spent reverently and prayerfully—not in sport and revelry. And as it is more blessed to give than to receive, let none of us forget the poor and the orphan.

By Their Fruits

A chaplain in the army during the war was passing over the field when he saw a soldier who had been wounded lying upon the ground. He happened to have his Bible under his arm, and he stooped down and said to the man: "Would you like me to read you something that is in the Bible?" The wounded man said: "I'm so thirsty, I would rather have a drink of water." The chaplain hurried off and as quickly as possible brought the water. After the man had drunk the water he said:

"Could you lift my head and put something under it?"

The chaplain removed his light overcoat, rolled it up, and tenderly lifting the head, put it as a pillow for the tired head to rest on.

"Now," said the man, "if I only had something over me. I am so cold."

There was only one thing the chaplain could do, and that was to take off his coat and cover the man. As he did so, the wounded man looked up in his face, and said:

"For God's sake, if there is anything in that Book that makes a man do for another what you have done for me, let me hear it."

There is a world of meaning, to my mind in this incident. The need of today is acting the object lessons the Book teaches.—Selected.

What They Say About Kisses.

The girl who will argue over a kiss has at least one that she is willing to get rid of.—Dallas News.

"What would you do, miss, if I should attempt to give you a kiss?" "I certainly should set my face against it, sir!"—Albany State.

A southside girl is indignant because a young man kissed her when she wasn't looking. It has since been found out that she had her eyes shut.—Greenville News.

Mrs. McBride (entering the kitchen)—"Bridget, didn't I see that policeman kiss you. Bridget—"Well, mum, sure an' vez wouldn't hev me lay meself open to arrest for resistin' an officer, mum"—New York Dispatch.

Magistrate—"You are charged with rushing up to this young lady and kissing her against her will, and I sentence you to— Prisoner—"The charge is true, yr honor; but she had been eating onions." Magistrate—"Then I sentence you to kiss her again."—New York Weekly.

Half the Battle. When a store can win the readers of its advertisements to a belief in their truthfulness, and can instill into them the idea that its ads talk about what is actually there for them to see, the greater part of its advertising battle is won. The question of its continued success then depends upon keeping up to the expectation aroused by the advertising.—Newspaper dom.

Two Brothers Dead.
STON-REXVON
 For many years two unmarried brothers, John Dowdy and Hiram Dowdy, lived together in the western part of this county. They lived alone, waited on themselves, did their own cooking, and had everything in common. That is, they owned and used all their property jointly, without keeping separate accounts, and each intended that the survivor should have all their joint property. Last month one of these brothers—Hiram Dowdy—died and the survivor (John Dowdy) removed to Winston to live with his nephew, Dick Dowdy. But the old man soon followed his dead brother, for last week he too died, and thus inseparable in their lives, in death they are not divided. They were both quite old, over seventy years of age. Chatham Record.

MURDERERS CAUGHT.

The Assassins of J. B. Bonner are in Washington Jail.

(Special to Reflector.)

Washington, N. C., Nov. 27.—

Dave Credle, who had been arrested for the murder of J. B. Bonner, at Aurora, made a full confession before the Coroner's jury. He says that Uriah Bell, Sherrill Bell, Wm. Brantly, Jr., and himself had formed a gang to rob. Uriah Bell was captain of the gang. They had attempted two other robberies, prior to the killing of Bonner on Saturday night, but failed in both of them to carry out their purpose.

Credle's statements are corroborated by other evidence. The parties are all under arrest and have been sent on to the Superior Court for trial. They are all now in jail here and an effort will be made to try them at the present term of court.

Bonner's store key was found where Credle had hid it and the notes and papers which the murdered man had in his pocket have also been found.

All the parties named above are white, and had heretofore been looked upon as respectable citizens of their community. The whole affair has caused intense excitement.

It is said that at the time of the murder Bonner begged piteously for his life and offered to give them everything he had if they would not kill him.

NOTICE.—Our barber shops will be closed tomorrow on account of Thanksgiving day.

J. A. SMITH,
A. B. PENDER,
HERBERT EDMUNDS.

The drama "Among the Breakers" to-morrow night at the Opera House is for a worthy cause and should be patronized. Let everybody go and see Biddy Bean. She is just grand.

At one time this morning there were thirty bales of cotton on main street. The entire lot was purchased by J. B. Cherry & Co. at 8.17 1/2. Capt. C. A. White also bought twelve bales at 8.15. In all there have been a hundred bales on the market today, but these were the highest prices paid.

Observe the Day.

Let us ask if there is a merchant in Greenville whose business has not been sufficiently blessed for him to afford to close up tomorrow and observe Thanksgiving Day? Of late years the custom of closing on Thanksgiving Day has been so general that scarcely an exception has been noted. And we believe there will be no exception tomorrow.

NOVEMBER NOTES.

Sung in the Key of "G"—Join the Choir of Readers.

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day.

The turkey is crying murder today.

WANTED.—A good messenger boy. REFLECTOR OFFICE.

NEWS.—The best Flour is Proctor Knott sold by S. M. Schultz. Try a 24 lb bag.

This has been another lively day with the tobacco warehouses.

Don't miss the drama "Among the Breakers" to-morrow night. It is brim full of fun and is really a "bines exterminator."

Poor turkey! He dies today and will have grace said over him tomorrow.

Those who buy Groceries of me once are sure to come again. The reason is I keep nice, fresh goods. D. S. SMITH.

To-morrow being a general holiday all places of business and the schools will be closed.

See "Jond" in "Among the Breakers" at the Opera House to-morrow (Thanksgiving) night. He is clean out of sight. If you don't go you will miss a treat.

As we will observe Thanksgiving Day the DAILY REFLECTOR will not be issued tomorrow.

The postoffice will only be open long enough to receive and forward mail to-morrow. The money order department will not be opened.

LOST.—On the road from Falkland to Greenville, Sunday, a red pocket book containing $33 and expense account. Liberal reward offered. Apply to this office. M. L. WALTERS.
