I am making room for a dandy Spring Stock and will lower prices on all goods to accommodate them. The new year caught us with a little too many goods to carry over so will rush them out at bottom figures. See me for great bargains. C. T. MUMFORD, Next Door to Bank, Greenville.

TO THE PRESS OF NORTH CAROLINA.

GENTLEMEN:—For several months past it has been your pleasure to encourage through the columns of your papers, what is known as the "Leader's Popular Fund," a fund to be collected, with which to purchase some testimonial for the United States Cruiser "Raleigh," the warship named in honor of our capital city.

Your hearty, sincere and unselfish endorsement in support of the raising of this fund, has given its promoter inspiration and courage to persevere, in the work, and no less confidence in the successful result of this fund has been given by the untiring and patriotic efforts of those ladies who have acted as sponsors for the fund in their respective towns and cities. To the unflagging zeal and endeavor of these sponsors, is the present amount now collected and deposited to the credit of the fund, largely due.

Gentlemen of the Press of North Carolina, as it was your Press which conceived and put into positive execution this plan of saving the State from the reproach which vested upon her good name, and thereby aroused the pride and patriotism of our people, which has found material expression through the efforts of those sponsors who have forwarded the sums collected, it now remains for you to happily complete the work so ably begun and thus far so successfully carried out.

The Press has given public approval, and it now remains for it to give material expression in way of contributions, and to this end the undersigned requests that every newspaper in the State make up a contribution from its own office; every one in each newspaper office can give some amount, from Editor to pressman, and if so desired contributions may be solicited from among the friends and constituents of each newspaper.

Let every printer in the State add his or her mite to this fund, and the sum thus raised for the testimonial which will be presented to the Cruiser "Raleigh" will do credit to the patriotism, liberality and name of the Old North State.

Every contribution will receive recognition and credit. It is requested that contributions be sent as soon as possible, to the "Leader's Popular Fund," Southport, N. C.

Fraternally,
Charles L. Stevens,
President N. C. Press Association.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 10, '96.

The whip of the Quay-Platt-Reed combine seems to be just as effective among the republicans of the Senate as it was in the House, but it had to be heavily laid upon some of the republican Senators before they would agree to support the tariff bill arranged by Mr. Reed and passed by his House, without amendment. They swore through two long caucuses that some McKinley amendments should be attached to the bill or they would not support it, but at the third caucus Boss Quay's wielding of the combine whip was more than they could stand and they agreed to support the bill without amendment, thus scoring another decisive victory for the Quay-Platt-Reed combine. But this does not make it certain that Mr. Reed's tariff bill will pass the Senate. Some votes will have to be gotten either from the democrats or the populists to pass it, and if it passes President Cleveland will never sign it.

There is a very decided difference of opinion in Washington as to how that call for bids for the purchase of bonds will result, the majority seeming to be on the side of those who think private individuals will not bid, because they haven't the gold.

Senator Gray, of Delaware, jumped upon the idiotic idea advanced by Lodge, of Mass., and supported by Chandler ("Little Billee"), of N. H., that the editor of the New York World had committed high treason by obtaining and publishing the views of prominent Englishmen on the Venezuela matter and the issue of bonds, with the following vigorous language: "Now, in the evening of the nineteenth century, you cannot bark on the track of the dead centuries and attempt to stifle expression or effort to obtain expression in this country or abroad. In this country and in all civilized countries a just public opinion is the final arbiter of all questions. It is not necessary for me to say, if this suggestion is seriously made, that it is impossible in this day and hour to attempt any inquisitorial interpretation of a statute for the purpose of stifling an expression of public opinion."

There are lots of lawyers in both House and Senate who regard the Supreme Court decision against the constitutionality of the income tax as a mistaken one, but Senator Vest is the first one of them who has openly attacked the decision. In the course of a speech answering Senator Sherman's recent financial speech, Senator Vest said of it: "In my judgment no judgment has ever in the history of the country been rendered which has done so much to destroy the influence of that high tribunal and excite distrust on the part of the people of this country." He declared that he would not trust himself to say in the Senate what he thought of that decision, but would leave it to members of the court who dissented therefrom, and he read from two of those opinions. Referring to the effect of the decision he said: "It marks a new era, and I greatly mistake if the time does not come when neither soft words nor moneyed praises will prove a sufficient apology."

If Gov. Morton could have heard the conversation at a conference held at the Washington residence of Senator Quay one night this week it might have been worth good money to him. Those who met Senator Quay were Boss Platt, Joe Mauley, J. S. Clarkson and Chauncey I. Filley. The conference lasted nearly all night.

It was really amusing to hear Senator Morrill, chairman of the Finance Committee, which has a majority of Republicans, disclaiming responsibility in the name of the Republican party for the action of the committee in reporting a free coinage bill as a substitute for the House bond bill.

THE SOUTH TO THE WEST.

Under the above caption the Manufacturers' Record of December 28, 1894, said:

Reports from Nebraska bring tidings of great distress and of thousands of people in dire need of food. The corn crop—Nebraska's main staple—failed almost completely, the yield for the whole State having averaged only six bushels an acre.

Members are satisfied and everything working harmoniously. Over 500 dwellings are now in course of erection, with 6,000 of the advance guard now upon the lands.

This telegram, sent out at the request of the editor of the Manufacturers' Record, immediately received a warm response, and in a few hours thereafter telegrams and letters of commendation were received from Hon. Hoke Smith, Secretary of the Interior; Vice-President Baldwin, of the Southern Railway; President Hoffman, of the Seaboard Air Line; Governor Crouse, of Nebraska, and many others North and South.

While the South thus gave freely and abundantly of its bounteous crops to aid others in distress, it set in motion forces that are destined to have a wonderful effect upon our entire country. It helped to break down the barriers that had stood between the sections, and by this one act the South made a deep impression upon thousands and tens of thousands of farmers in the North and West.

THE AMERICAN TRIBUNE SOLDIER COLONY COMPANY.

Indianapolis, Ind, December 30, '95. R. H. Edmunds, Editor and General Manager. Manufacturer's Record, Baltimore.

DEAR SIR.—I see the Manufacturers' Record has given space at times to our Georgia colony. It must be remembered that one year ago, when at a loss to know where I could best locate this colony, I chanced to read your article headed "The South to the West."

"Nothing would open the eyes of the Northwestern farmers to the possibilities of the South so much as a trainload of corn from the South shipped to the unfortunate farmers of Nebraska."

This I watched with interest, and to our great surprise, when the shipments were made, found convincing evidence of what the South could produce, and the result is that today the South has among our colony members many hardy Nebraska farmers as a result of that shipment.

I at once gave up looking further, and felt fully convinced that if I could get the lands and a healthy location, the State of Georgia would be my location. Through the efforts of one of the best men Georgia ever produced, ex-Governor W. J. Northen, I took up the question of location, and now we are settled among the pines of Irwin county, Georgia, building a city and preparing the lands for cultivation.

Your efforts have been the means of locating, at least, our colony, and I want to give you the credit for it.

With best wishes, I am, Loyally yours, P. H. FITZGERALD, President Colony Co.

This great movement of population is commanding wide attention everywhere. It has started many thousands of others to studying the South, and soon half a million people a year will be crowding into this favored land.

ORDERED OUT HIS AD.

Once on a time a man there was who strongly did desire A rest to take from business cares— In short, get out, retire, He told his friends of his intent, He got out bills, in fact, To close his stock and business out He used his utmost tact. But, strange to say, his trade held up New goods he had to buy, It looked as if he couldn't quit, No matter how he'd try. Until one day a friend explained Why he such trade had had, And now he's out of it for keeps— He's ordered out his ad!

TRAINING CHILDREN.

Mothers Should Watch Each Temperament and Guide Accordingly.

Why cannot mothers show more common sense in the training of their little ones? Why can't they take into consideration natural temperament and inherited tendencies?

There are those, of course, who are wise enough to make allowances in this respect, but are assured that the average mother, in training her children to habits of obedience, order and good deportment, makes as many mistakes in the direction of over-training as the reverse by not making due allowance for the temperament of the child.

I remember a mother whose course of training must have been a torture to her child. That mother was one of those line and rule women whose every glance expressed calculation, a woman of such rigid propriety and method that no ordinary event could in any way disturb her calm, cool equanimity.

I have not seen that child for a number of years, and I often wonder if under such severe training as she has undergone she could have retained her naturally gay, ardent, impulsive and affectionate nature, or whether she has become a coldly decorous automaton. For it is without doubt quite possible to remodel the plastic mind and disposition of a child.

He Returned From Heaven.

The absentminded man, who is also religious, walked into church while the organ was breathing forth a long, low melody that seemed to be the music of heaven. And as he listened to it his air grew more preoccupied, a light not of earth came into his suffused eyes, all the better elements of his nature were moved in accord with the melodious strains, and for that moment he was not of earth.

Then he walked into his pew and started to take off his overcoat. So preoccupied was he that he did not realize he was pulling off his other coat until he stood there in his shirt sleeves in full view of the worldly congregation, which tittered so it could be heard.

Then the man who had been in heaven a moment before came suddenly back, and his feelings were like unto those of the suffering souls in hades.—Louisville Post.

Content.

The fountain of content must spring up in the mind, and he who has so little knowledge of human nature as to seek happiness by changing anything but his own disposition will waste his life in fruitless efforts and multiply the griefs which he purposes to remove.

That Same Old Question.

"Which," asked the earnest youth, "which is the more pleasurable, realization or anticipation?" "It depends," said the Cumminsville sage, "on whether you allude to getting a tooth pulled or getting married."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Master's work may make weary feet, but it leaves the spirit glad.—Elizabeth Charlotte.

Do to-day's duty, fight to-day's temptation, and do not weaken and distract yourself by looking forward to things which you cannot see, and could not understand if you saw them.—Charles Kingsley.

Failure after a long perseverance is much grander than never to have a striving good enough to be called a failure.—George Eliot.

"No man ever cast the wealth of his life and the crown of his devotion at the feet of Jesus without quickening the earth with a diviner life and uplifting it with new courage."—Heron.

Sin is destructive anywhere. It is the same yesterday, to-day and forever. When Achan hid the wedge of gold and the goodly Babylonish garment under a tent, he doubtless said this is a sin that can hurt nobody. But the deadly effect of that secret sin manifested itself in the defeat of Israel.

IF YOU HAD A LOAD OF WOOD TO SELL and told every man you met that you had a load of wood to sell, and every man you met that you had a load of wood to sell, and every man you met would in turn tell every man he met that you had a load of wood to sell, it would, in course of time, become pretty well circulated that you had a load of wood to sell; but why not cut it short—not the wood, but the method—and place a good ad in a good newspaper and tell everybody at once.

MANX SUPERSTITIONS.

How Witches Were Manufactured and Evil Eye Influences Killed.

It is curious that in the isle of Man the term butch or witch is applied to either sex. As a proof of this we may mention that a writer in The Mona's Herald newspaper of Jan. 24, 1844, in commenting on a famous witchcraft case which had recently been adjudicated upon, remarked, "According to popular belief, if the witch swears he has not done it and does not wish to do it, he cannot witch again." Another curious and novel idea is that it was supposed to be possible to manufacture a witch. The method of doing so was given to our informant by an old man about the year 1875, who said that he had it from the victim herself, then an old woman. An old woman who had practiced witchcraft and charms during a great part of her life had grown very feeble, and so, being wishful to endow her daughter with similar powers, made her go through the following performance:

"A white sheet was laid on the floor, and beside it was placed a tub of clean water. The girl was made to undress and go into the water, and after thoroughly washing herself to get out and wrap herself in the sheet. While she stood in the sheet she had to repeat after her mother a number of words, the exact nature of which, as she was in an abject state of terror, she had forgotten, only remembering that their general purport was that she swore to give up all belief in the Almighty's power and to trust in that of the evil one instead. The old woman died soon afterward, but the girl made no attempt to practice the attributes with which she was supposed to have been endowed."

If cattle were supposed to be bewitched, it was customary, till quite recently, to burn one of the herd, usually a calf, both for the protection of the others and to detect the bewitcher, for it was supposed that while the animal was being burned he would be certain to appear on the spot, and if he could not get the animal's heart into his possession he lost his power in the future. It was believed that if cattle which died of disease were buried one would be lost for each one so treated. Dust was also efficacious in such cases.

Thus Train remarked that "if a person supposed to have the evil eye passed by a herd of cattle and one of them were taken suddenly ill the owner of the cattle would hasten after him and take the dust from his shoes if possible, or, if not, from the ground he had just trodden, and apply it to the sick beast, or even if an animal were taken ill without any one endowed with the evil eye having passed near it it would probably be cured by the dust from the threshold of a person close by who was notoriously a possessor of the evil eye."—Antiquary.

Stephen Girard, Hero.
A tablet "in commemoration of the courage and humanity displayed by Stephen Girard during the epidemic of yellow fever prevailing in Philadelphia in the year 1793," in Girard college in Philadelphia, discloses a phase of character in the philanthropist not generally understood. During the fever epidemic he gave up his business and his luxurious home and assumed the superintendency of a yellow fever hospital. He took up the work others recoiled from, and did the work because it was his duty.—New York Evening Post.

Tommy Suggests a Remedy.
"I can say of our neighbor, Mark-along," observed Mr. Tucker, "that he gives away a great deal in charity and that his left hand never knows what his right hand is doing."

Built a House in a Bottle.

A few years ago the writer saw a genuine curiosity which had been made by a little blind boy in Chicago. It was nothing more or less than a miniature house, made up of forty odd pieces of wood, which was placed on the inside of a very common looking four ounce medicine bottle. The general verdict of all who examined the wonder was that it would puzzle a man with two good eyes to put the pieces in the bottle, to say nothing of the task of gluing them together so as to make them resemble a house.—St. Louis Republic.

DAILY REFLECTOR.

Keeping Constantly at it Brings Success.

JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING

Creates many a new business,
Enlarges many an old business,
Preserves many a large business,
Revives many a dull business,
Rescues many a lost business,
Saves many a failing business,
Secures success to any business.

To "advertise judiciously," use the columns of the REFLECTOR.

WEATHER BULLETIN.

Sunday, fair.

JANUARY JOLLITIES.

Squibs Picked up With Cold Tongues.

The train was late again Friday evening.

Three qualities of Tobacco Cloth at Lang's.

I still carry the Southern Leader, the best 5 cent cigar made. D. S. SMITH.

NEWS.—The best Flour is Proctor Knott sold by S. M. Schultz. Try a 24 lb bag.

Don't forget Lang is selling at cost to get ready for moving to another store.

You never know how many people want your wares until you commence to advertise them.

Will you need a ledger for the new year's business? The Reflector Book Store has all sizes.

For tablets, school paper, pencils, pens and inks, etc., Reflector Book Store is headquarters.

While the weather is cold get one of those Spear's Self Feeding Stoves at S. E. Pender & Co's. Just received a new supply.

A full supply of blanks for land mortgages, chattel mortgages, deeds and crop liens at REFLECTOR office. We can now fill all orders.

Hope Fire Company will have a meeting Monday night and Capt. Griffin requests a full attendance of the members.

The REFLECTOR was slightly in error, Friday, in stating that the tobacco boys were arranging to give a banquet and ball. It will be a banquet only, without the ball.

Say, do you know,
If trade is slow

(The dull times may have killed it),
You will be wise

To advertise?

For that will soon rebuild it.

Saved With The Engine.

The fire at the mill, Friday afternoon, demonstrated the value of the fire engine when an ample supply of water is at hand. Several times the flames burst through the sides of the burning building only to be extinguished by a well directed stream from the hose. There was plenty of water and the fire was kept confined within the shaving room and was soon flooded out. Both the fire companies, white and colored, worked valiantly. In this one instance property was saved the value of which covers many times the cost of the fire engine. However, if a fire should occur in some part of the town where water could not be had the engine would be worthless in fighting it. A great risk is being run in allowing the town to remain without a water supply.

COURT-INGS.

Some Plead Before His Honor, Some Elsewhere.

J. W. Wiggins went to Rocky Mount to-day.

W. T. Haydn, of Washington City, is in town.

Rev. C. M. Billings went to Scotland Neck today.

Mrs. J. D. Murphy, of Asheville, is visiting Mrs. A. Forbes.

R. W. Crenshaw returned from Lynchburg Friday evening.

Miss Leta McGowan returned home from Trenton this morning.

Mrs. R. H. Horne has moved into the Perkins house on Fourth street.

Miss Nellie Bernard, of Durham, is visiting the family of C. M. Bernard.

E. A. Taft and wife arrived from Lonsburg, Friday evening, to visit relatives.

Rev. N. H. D. Wilson has moved into one of the Elliott houses on Co-lanch street.

J. E. Langley, of Richmond, arrived Friday evening to visit parents and left this morning.

Alex. Heilbronner went to Norfolk today and will return here next week to complete his visit.

Mrs. W. M. Lang came over on the morning train from a visit to Kinston and left for her home at Farmville.

Charles Cobb has purchased the Henry Sheppard house, corner Pitt and Third streets, and moved into it Friday.

Presiding Elder B. R. Hall arrived Friday evening and held quarterly conference in the Methodist church. He went out to Bethlehem today to hold the conference of Ayden circuit, and will return to Greenville to preach Sunday night.

Mr. Alfred Williams, the oldest citizen of Raleigh, died Thursday. He was in his 91st year.

Speight & Co., handle the leading brands of fertilizers for cotton, tobacco and potatoes. Read their advertisement.

For some time past, says the Burlington News, Mr. Joel Isely and George Rippey, colored, his former slave, have been inmates of the home of the Aged and Infirm of this county, both old and decrepit. Sunday night Mr. Isely died, and old man George ministered to his last wants as he has all these years. We never heard before of master and slave being inmates of the same county home, and we doubt there being another case on record. Old man George is now left alone and will miss the pleasant task of waiting on his old master. What changes do come!

Snakes in January.

Mr. J. W. Smith tells us as he was coming to town Friday morning he saw a colored man chopping something in the road and upon investigation he found he had killed a poplar leaf snake about 4 feet long and as large around as his wrist. Who ever heard of a snake crawling about the 10th of January?

Church Services.

Methodist church.—Sunday-school at 9:30 A. M. Preaching at 11 A. M. by Rev. N. H. D. Wilson, and 7 P. M. by Presiding Elder B. R. Hall.

Episcopal church.—Sunday-school at 9:30 A. M.

Baptist church.—Sunday-school at 9:30 A. M.

Presbyterian church.—Sunday-school at 9:30 A. M.

A CARD.

We wish to return our sincere thanks to the citizens of Greenville and the fire department for their timely aid on yesterday in extinguishing the fire at our mill.
Respectfully,
