Vol. 3.

GREENVILLE, N. C., MONDAY, JANUARY 13, 1896.

No. 335

I am making room for a dandy Spring Stock and will lower prices on all goods to accommodate them. The new year caught us with a little too many goods to carry over so will rush them out at bottom figures. See me for great bargains. C.T. MUNFORD, Next Door to Bank, Greenville.

BEAUTIFUL HANDS.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

As I remember the first fair touch
Of those beautiful hands that I love so much,

I seem to thrill as I then was thrilled
Kissing the glove that I found unfilled—
When I met your gaze and the queenly bow

As you said to me laughingly, "Keep it now!"

And dazed and alone in a dream I stand
Kiss the ghost of your beautiful hand.

When first I loved in the long ago,
And held you hand as I told you so—Pressed and caressed it and gave it a kiss,

And said, "I could die for a hand like this?"

Little I dreamed love's fulness yet
Had to ripen when eyes were wet,
And prayers were vain in their wild demands

For one warm touch of your beautiful hands.

Beautiful hands! O, beautiful hands!
Could you reach out of the alien lands
Where you are lingering, and give me
to-night

Only a touch—were it ever so light—
My heart were soothed, and my weary brain

Would lull itself into rest again;
For there is no solace the world commands

Like the caress of your beautiful hands.

IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Matters of Interest Over the State.

In one week five stores in the town of Beaufort were broken into by burglars.

Samuel Williams and wife, of Beaufort, have been jailed for drowning their infant child.

The Morganton Herald says the Waldenses are building a pretty stone church at their settlement in Burke county.

S. P. Satterfield, clerk of the last House of Representatives, was on Saturday convicted in Wake county Superior Court for negligence in regard to the assignment act matter.

The Enquirer says that at Mouro,
a brute of a father took his little son
into a bar-room and poured liquor down
him until the little fellow was drunk.
The boy tried to get away from his father but was held by him hard and fast. The Enquirer well adds that "words fail to tell of the devilry of such a man."

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The Treasury gold reserve is now down to about $56,000,000.

Mrs. Alva E. Vanderbilt, the divorced wife of Wm. K. Vanderbilt, was married Saturday to O. H. Belmont in New York.

A steamer and three sailing vessels lives were lost.

The municipal authorities have refused to grant Col. Robert G. Ingersoll permission to deliver a lecture on Shakespeare in Little Rock, Ark., Sunday, February 2nd.

The French tax bicycles at a rate of about $2.25 each a year, the yield in 1894 being about $400,000. There are said to be some 360,000 "machines"
in France and the number increases rapidly.

THE BONNER CASE.

(Special to the Reflector.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Court convened this morning for the purpose of trying Uriah and Sherrill Bell, Wm.
Brantly and David Credle for the murder of J. B. Bonner, of Aurora, on Saturday night, November 23rd. Judge W. A. Hoke is presiding. The day has been consumed in selecting a jury out of a special venire of 350 men. Both the state and defense are strongly represented by able counsel. The trial probably begins to-morrow afternoon.
There is an immense crowd in attendance.
No one is allowed in the Court House except the venire and those who have passes from Judge Hoke and the attorneys, while the jury is being selected.

Will give you daily proceedings.

Failure and Success.

Many men in town ought to have gone to their business this morning with lighter hearts and a stronger determination to push forward to success, after hearing the sermon of Presiding Elder Hall in the Methodist church Sunday night. It was a splendid discourse, containing much practical thought upon failures and successes in both the business and Christian world. Failure, said he, arises from one's being in the wrong calling, again from an unwillingness to expend sufficient energy, and again
through an unwillingness to sacrifice
all—life if need be—upon the pursuit.
Success in any undertaking comes through fitness, energy, sacrifice.

Beneath every wreck, whether of a business or Christian life, is a human being—a son of God and a brother of man—who should have sympathy and help instead of the harsh criticism that drives him to despair.

Mr. Jackson Wins.

Sometime ago the REFLECTOR offered a prize of five months tuition in English branches at Greenville Male Academy to the boy who would bring us the largest list of subscribers for a year to our weekly before 6 o'clock on the 11th of January. The contest closed on last Saturday evening, and the prize was won by Mr. J. L. Jackson.
He brought us just twenty subscribers,
a pretty good list, and for his work gets a scholarship that is worth $15 to him. Other smaller lists were brought in but he was well in the lead. The REFLECTOR congratulates Mr. Jackson upon his success, and feels gratified that the prize has gone to a worthy young man who will prove a credit to himself and the school.

During this year we shall have other prizes to offer and give notice to the boys to be on the lookout for them.

Maxims for Advertisers.

An advertisement is a Gabriel's trumpet that makes the dead business arise.

Advertisements never quit work on holidays.

An advertisement is on terms of familiarity with the richest man as well as the poorest.

A business that won't stand advertising, won't stand long.

What a merchant pays in advertising,
the customer saves in buying from him.

Business energy finds its best expression in an advertisement.

An advertisement is a divided paying investment.

Only the stupid people now-a-days
do not read advertisements.

An ounce of advertising will grow into a pound of business.

If you don't see what you want consult an advertisement.

It's Just This Way:
—WE ARE IN THE—CLOTHING

business to make money. We want to sell all the goods possible. It is our desire to put prices as near cost as any merchant safely can.
Some Clothiers may sell below cost and prosper, but we can't. We want every buyer to be pleased. It is a part of our business policy to please patrons so well that we can almost count on their future trade with certainty.

MONDAY, JANUARY 13TH, 1896.

In 1894 there were 219 newspapers in North Carolina. Last year there were 235. Of these 20 are dailies, 170 weeklies, 32 monthlies, 5 semi-monthly.

If Presidential elections came only once in ten years it would be the best thing that ever happened to this country. Politics, politics! One hears and reads so everlasting much it becomes nauseating.

Nobody wants a war between England and the United States.—Morgan-Herald.

The Herald is much mistaken if it thinks nobody wants a war between England and the United States. As a matter of fact we know peopleright here in Statesville and Iredell county who are rather anxious for a war between these two countries, and they wouldn't care if hostilities began to-morrow.

South Carolina Ahead of North Carolina.

We learn from the Charleston News and Courier that during the past year South Carolina has forged ahead of all the other Southern States, even North Carolina and Georgia, in the business of cotton manufacturing.

MY CHILD IS WITH GOD.

"Flowers are wanting in Heaven to-day," An angel said to me, "And we have enough save a few more buds, Your little bud I would see."

I turned me about and brought forth my child, The angel looked in his face and smiled:

"There is nothing fairer on high," said he, "I will take this bud, if it pleaseth thee."

It may fail to me—Ah! who can tell— In after years to remember well What the angel asked to-day: And to wish with many, and many a tear I had parted that day with my bud so dear And granted my God "His way."

So I took the babe to my loving breast And nursed, and soothed, and sang him to rest, The angel meanwhile smiled, "He is sleeping" I said, "let him not awake

Till the glory of God around him break" And I gave him my little child.

Then I turned and bowed me long on the ground, I rose. Neither angel nor child I found,

But I have no fears, and I love to think

Of those lilies at the fountain's brink. My child is with God, and can lack for naught,

And I know that, sometime, when God shall please, I shall meet him again 'neath the shadowless trees.

—Presbyterian.

This is a Reading Age.

An exchange truthfully says: "There was a time when business men could do without advertising, but it has gone to return no more. Those were the days of stage coaches and tallow candles. Now everything is done in a rush and the man who does not move in a hurry gets left.

This is a reading age. People expect the newspaper to keep them informed upon everything. They want information in their homes before they buy. Hence the superiority of newspaper advertising over all other forms. Put this in your pipe and smoke it. The most successful merchants are the most persistent advertisers."

He said, "Amen!"

At a certain church in this city Sunday night last an incident occurred that occasioned a ripple of laughter. The minister was preaching an eloquent and effective sermon, in the course of which he dwelt for sometime on the subject of separation, by death, of loved ones, stating that "some of the congregation had, no doubt, lost a dear friend—a father, a mother, sister or brother, or probably a beloved wife." At the utterance of the loss of a beloved wife an old gentleman who is a good Christian, but a little hard of hearing, and who has recently married his second wife, roused up and exclaimed: "Amen, Bless the Lord."—Concord Standard.

The Meanest Man.

A few nights ago it was very cold and a number of gentlemen were sitting close up to a red-hot stove swapping yarns, when one gentleman told the following circumstance that took place in an adjoining county: A man (still living) rode up to the house of a poor widow woman, who took boarders to support herself and children, and spent the night. The good woman knowing the man, that sometimes he conducted public worship, at night and in the morning asked him to hold family prayers, which was done. On leaving in the morning he asked what he owed. The lady was reluctant, about charging him anything, but, said she would charge him only 50 cents for feeding him and his horse supper and breakfast and taking care of them at night. The man fumbled his purse and handed her 10 cents, remarking that he had had family prayers twice, 20 cents each time, making 40 cents, and that ten cents was the amount he owed her. The gentleman who related this called him the "stingiest" man he ever heard of. He used the wrong word, he should have said the "meanest."—Graham Gleaner.

A DOG'S DIARY.

Evidently Authentic and Throwing Light on Several Canine Mysteries.

Monday, Nov. 11, 10 a. m.—Am unchained. Large party with guns. Sport. Hurrah! Smell out master, dance round him and place both fore paws on his knickerbockers. Am reprovved. Why? There are two more black dogs, strangers to me, and a brown spaniel whom I have met before. The spaniel is a fool. His ears are ridiculously long and flap in the most absurd manner. His nose is broad, his eyes bulge and his legs are bandy. A dog like this is only fit for hedgerows. Exchange tiptoe courtesies with the two black strangers. Growl at them. They growl back. We are all reprovved. Why?

10:20.—Corner of a covert. Heard keeper say, "There was a hundred pheasants drawn into that covert." This is ripping. Master applies whip twice, but not very hard. Tells me he does it to "steady" me. Such rot! Forgive him. Five pheasants come out my way. I kill two with a right and left and miss another with my second gun. Sun must have got into my eyes. Shall I go after dead birds new or wait? Better wait. Got thrashed last time for running after birds before beat was over. Guns going off to the right and left. Brown dog so far has killed nothing. One of the black dogs named Sailor has killed four. Ridiculously conceited dog that. Eight more pheasants come to me one by one. Kill five. Miss three. Brown dog smiles audibly. Shall cut the brown dog or bite him in the back. Shout from beaters. "Hare forward." I'll have his fur or die in the attempt. Comes galloping out on my right. I miss him twice. I'll show him who can gallop. Off after him. Distant shouts from master. Who cares? Into a ditch. Out again. Across plowed field. Hare still in front. Am gaining. No, am losing. Hare is a silly animal; shall give it up and go back. By the bye, got thrashed last time for doing this. Wonder if I shall be thrashed again. Better assume contrite expression. Do so. No good. Am thrashed. Howl. Never was a Spartan dog. Beat over. Pick up dead birds. Mouth full of feathers. Am sent to look for a bird wounded by brown dog, who has shot disgracefully and made a perfect fool of himself. Track bird to ditch. Faint scent to right. Follow up 50 yards, then through hedge; back again. Got him. Return covered with burs, with bird in mouth. Am patted. Brown dog, who has been thrashed, hints that he doesn't think much of the performance. Offers to carry bird for me, "if I am tired." Should like to see him dare to touch it.—London Punch.

Nippon.

The Japanese residents of Chicago have a club called the Chicago Nippon club. "Nippon," says one of the members, "is really the name of our country, and the nickname 'Japan' came about in this way: The Chinese pronounced 'Nippon' as 'Yappon,' and then the Portuguese traders shortened it into 'Japan,' but the Japanese speak of their country as 'Nippon,' so our club is the 'Chicago Nippon club.'"

An Unfortunate Little Girl.

Dear Mr. Editor—I have written a novel in 3 volumes, and if you will take great care of it and not let it get dirty, you may read it. As it is a sycological (sic) novel, and I have taken great pains with it I think you ought to pay me something large for it—perhaps 5 pounds. I want a new frock, and the money would be nice. I have tried before to write, but the world is dreadfully unkind to me, and indeed I have sometimes suspected that there is a conspiracy against me. But I thought, Mr. Editor, that you would be fair. My life has been of no use up to now, and I am 15; so, dear Mr. Editor, please write soon to your little friend.—Good Words.

IF YOU HAD A LOAD OF WOOD TO SELL

and told every man you met that you had a load of wood to sell, and every man you met would in turn tell every man he met that you had a load of wood to sell and every man you met would in turn tell every man he met that you had a load of wood to sell, it would, in course of time, become a pretty well circulated that you had a load of wood to sell; but why not cut it short—not the wood, but the method—and place a good ad in a good newspaper and tell everybody at once. "Delays are dangerous," and a good newspaper would start in where the last man left off and keep on telling everybody that you had a load of wood to sell; or anything else. A QUEER PROPOSAL.

It Was Made on the Fly, but It Caught the Girl.

An aristocratic young lady of Magdeburg, Germany, had spent some time at the country seat of her uncle, and a young cavalier from Berlin had been paying much attention to her. Everybody thought it would be a good match for both, and affairs went on swimmingly, until the day drew near when the young lady was to return home. The nearer the day came the more disappointed were the young miss and her mother at the failure of the young man to ask the all-important question. Finally they left their relative's house in great dismay, and just before leaving the young lady remarked to her uncle that it probably was as well for both, as her mother had not much use for such a "chicken hearted son-in-law." They left on the train on the narrow gauge railroad connecting the valley with the nearest town.

After they had gone the young man questioned the uncle why the young lady had gone away so angry and hardly noticed him when bidding goodby. The uncle, a blunt ex-soldier, repeated the remark made by his niece when leaving to the young man, who was touched to the quick by the insinuation of cowardice contained therein. He was very much in love with the lady and had abstained from broaching the subject on account of his not considering it proper to propose anywhere but at the young lady's home, which he intended visiting before long.

This remark, however, roused his sense of honor, and, without saying another word, he mounted his horse, which happened to stand ready for an outing, and galloped after the train, which had gone a quarter of an hour before. Owing to benign Providence and the management of the country railroad he caught the train before it had reached the next station—Cracow. He spied the young lady at the window of a first class compartment, and, riding up to the train before it came to a full stop, almost shouted breathlessly: "My dear Miss —, I ask for your hand. Yes or no?" In the Station Cracow, just as the train arrived, a "Yes" was joyfully given by the young miss and tearfully approved by her mamma.—Exchange.

Grows Its Own Heads and Tails.

Darwin, the great naturalist, is authority for the statement that earthworms possess the remarkable faculty of reproducing a head or a tail in case an accident occurs to either end. If one be cut in two at the middle, the tail will immediately set about repairing damages and growing a new head. The head end is also equal to the emergency, and within a surprisingly brief period of time grows a tail of its own.

Thinking and Doing.

I have been a great deal happier since I have given up thinking about what is easy and pleasant and being discontented because I could not have my own way. Our life is determined for us, and it makes the mind very free when we give up wishing and only think of bearing what is laid upon us and doing what is given us to do.—George Eliot.

The Microscope.

The illumination of opaque objects for the microscope has, for high powers, been hitherto almost impossible. M. Ch. Fremont has described an extremely ingenious method of carrying out the desired end. Inside the body of the microscope is fixed a concave mirror, which reflects the bundle of rays of light received through an aperture in the side, and rendered parallel by an interposed prism, through an object glass, on to the object under examination. It is difficult, without seeing the contrivance, to understand how the eye, and at the eye piece end, can see the object. This is clearly provided for by the simple expedient of boring a hole through both mirror and prism in the track of the rays passing from the objective. From this device great service is anticipated in the chromo photographic study of the movement of microscopic beings.

Force of Habit.

A laughable story is told of an old miser, who, being at the point of death, resolved to give all his money to a nephew at whose hands he had experienced some little kindness. "Sam," said he, for that was his nephew's name—"Sam, I am about to leave the world, and to leave you all my money. You will then have $50,000. Only think! Yes, I feel weaker and weaker. I think I shall die in two hours. Oh, yes, Sam, I'm going! Give me 2 per cent, and you may take the money now!"
