HER BROTHER.

Who comes to greet me when I call,
And with my hat plays indoor ball
And chases it across the hall?

Her brother.

Who runs to proffer me a chair
And has a beat pin lying there,
And tells his sister if I swear?

Her brother.

Who fills my pockets full of coal
And calls attention to a hole
That's worn entirely through my sole?

Her brother.

Who nails my rubbers to the floor,
And from the water-urn doth pour
Into their depths a quart or more?

Her brother.

Who steals behind me on tip-toe
Just when I'm talking soft and low
And pipes serenely: "Is that so?"

Her brother.

Who will not go to bed betimes,
But on my knee each evening climbs
And holds me up for all my dimes?

Her brother.

Who was it that her father yanked
Upstairs last night and soundly spanked?

It was, it was—ye gods be thanked—

Her brother.

—Chicago News.

He Found Out.

"If you don't object, I'd like to ask you sumthin," said an old man with a cane and satchel as he stopped a policeman on Monroe avenue.

"Ask your question," was the reply.

"I live up in Macomb county, and I have a son Bill who comes down here purty often. The last time he was here he come home with his coat ripped up the back and dead broke and said a policeman had given him the collar."

"Well?"

"Waal, what did he git?"

"He got the collar, probably, just as he said."

"But what is the collar? That's what I want to ask."

"Why he was probably half tight and whooping along the street, and an officer took him by the collar—this way—and gave him a shake—that way—and rattled his heels together—just so—and?"

"Say, hold on! shouted the old man as he picked up his satchel and cane and hat and worked himself down into his coat.

"What's the matter?"

I've found out all I want to know. If Bill got that kind of a collar and was locked up and fined $5 to boot, I'll go home and raise his wages $4 a month and give him every Saturday for a holiday."—Detroit Free Press.

Poor House in Sight.

It's a matter of wonder how some men expect a town to grow.

They oppose any and everything on the ground that it will not help things.

They are like the boy who expected to be rich some day, though he was never known to do a hands turn but somehow he always felt that he would wake up some bright morning and find himself a millionaire.

That same boy died in the poor house.

Some men—and they are not peculiar to any locality, for they "grow" everywhere—are just like this boy so far as helping develop the resources of a town. They evidently think the town will develop itself and that some bright morning they will wake to find 20,000 new inhabitants, with numerous mills and factories humming all around them.

And a town, run by such men, will find itself in the poor house.

IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Matters of Interest Over the State.

At the A and M. College 192 students are now enrolled.

The town of Waynesville has voted $15,000 for water works.

The Atlantic Hotel, at Morehead City, has been sold to a syndicate of Washington and Richmond people in exchange for a block of real estate at Laurel, Md.

One of the best preserved old men whom we know is Mr. Ben Williams, of Williams township, who although eighty-five years old himself raised 54 barrels of corn last year, plowing it all without any help.—Pittsboro Record.

The charred remains of Mr. William Joyce were found in a shuck pen at his home in Brogden township, Sunday morning. It is presumed that he went to sleep there Saturday night in an intoxicated condition, and in striking a light set the place on fire and thus was burned alive. Deceased was in his 60th year.—Goldsboro Headlight.

Pretty Good.

We are told that a year or so ago Dr. O'Hagan, of Greenville, was driving in the country and caught up with a countryman, hauling several loads of guano home. The countryman was sitting on the bags of guano and gaily singing "Sweet Bye and Bye." Dr. O'Hagan said "Yes,—you; singing 'Sweet Bye and Bye' now, but next fall you'll be singing 'Show Mercy Lord.'" We hope our farmers, who are buying so much commercial fertilizers will not have to sing a doleful tune this fall.—Kinston Free Press.

Girls Be Careful.

The following was found on the streets to-day and we must publish it to warn the girls.

GREENVILLE, N. C. Feb. 21, 1896. Dearest—

While sitting thinking of you i thought i would write you. You can not love two girls. i hope you love me, i thinks the world of you but i know you does not care for me, lock up your heart keep safe the key don't forget me untill i forget thee. You is the idol of my heart how could i live without you.

From your loving girl,

LOCAL NOTES.

Court has moved along faster this week than last—at least there were no long cases to occupy so much time and more of them were disposed of.

According to the calendar there are but a few more days of winter left. It looks now like the weather is going to put in some hard licks during these remaining days to make up for lost time.

It began snowing about 9 o'clock this morning and continued all day, enough falling to have made two or three inches in depth, but the ground was so wet the snow melted as fast as it fell.

For a few Saturdays past the REFLECTOR has not published a letter from a citizen upon the best steps to be taken for the town's advancement. Remember our columns are open for such subjects.

FOR SALE.—One-half interest in the property on South East corner of Evans and Third streets, near Court House, in Greenville. Property unencumbered. For particulars and terms, call on FRIDAY, MARCH 13TH, 1896.

The Evening News, C. W. Hunt editor, made its appearance at Burlington Wednesday. It is a five column paper (same size as the REFLECTOR) and as its name implies gives the news.

"I do not believe," said W. J. Arkell editor of Judge, the other day, in San Francisco, "that a man in active business can afford to take any office, no matter how high it may be. During President Harrison's first term he offered me the post of Minister to Japan. Said I, 'Mr. Harrison, there is no office you could name that I would take, no matter how high.' 'Why,' said he, 'do you not think you ought to sacrifice your personal wishes sometimes when you can be of service to your country?' I replied that I didn't think so, so long as there were so many volunteers. When he had volunteers he shouldn't use the draft."

"Accidents?" said the old sea captain. "No, we never have any to speak of on this line. Why, one trip about a year ago the ship caught fire down in the hold, and we never discovered it till we got into port and began to discharge."

"That's strange. What put the fire out?"

"Why, it burned down through to the sea and the water put it out. Couldn't burn the water, you know."

And the captain walked away smiling, while the interlocutor was so astonished that he never thought of asking why the ship didn't sink.—London don Speaker.

Why Not?

A foreigner, who has not been long in this country, and is learning our language, thus liberates his puzzled soul in verse:

If a lot of little mouse
Are a lot of little mice,
Why are not a lot of houses
Called a lot of little mice?
If a lot of little geese
Are a lot of little geese,
Why are not a lot of mooses
Called a lot of little meese?

A Competent Witness.

A little girl was in the witness box and as usual, before she was allowed to be sworn, she was examined by the presiding judge—Mr. Judge Maule—as to her understanding the nature of an oath and her belief in a future state. "Do you know what an oath is, my child?" asked the judge. "Yes, sir; I am obliged to tell the truth." "If you tell the truth where will you go when you die?" "Up to heaven, sir." "And what will become of you if you tell lies?" "I shall go to the naughty place, sir." "Are you quite sure of that?" "Yes, sir; quite sure." "Let her be sworn," said Maule. "It is quite clear she knows a great deal more than I do."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Plant Walnut Trees.

The tree for which $30.00 was paid in cash sometime ago still stands on an island in Catawba river up at Bridge water. What we wrote about was advice to farmers and land owners to plant walnuts and rear walnut trees. We took occasion to write something on the same line about two years ago. We say now again poor land can be made rich by rearing walnut trees on it. Look under any walnut tree and see if the soil is not rich. As we said 160 trees can be planted on each acre and land cultivated with profit, and benefit to the trees. We said that in 20 years trees could thus be grown which would be worth $75.00 or even more per tree. We now say furthermore, that of the 160 trees planted on each acre at least 100 of them should arrive at the stage of maturity without interference to the crops and an actual enrichment of the soil; and also, that if the man will study the nature of each tree as it grows he can train them to curl and also probably to produce a burl.—Hickory Press.

Boys and Matches.

The boy who carries matches is about as dangerous as the fellow who points the unloaded gun at you. Recently we printed an account of two young boys setting the woods afire on the eastern edge of town, and it was only by hard work that the destruction of property was prevented. Last week some boys set the fence on fire, on Davie avenue, between the residence of Dr. L. Harrill and Mr. Tom Murdoch (the property owned by Mr. J. J. Sullivan), and only a timely discovery and prompt work prevented what would have probably been a serious conflagration. We do not know that in either of these cases there was any intention on the part of the boys to do serious damage; or that it occurred to them that disaster might result, but this does not help the matter.

A gentleman who was in the Landmark office when this last fire was reported, told of an incident within his knowledge, which occurred recently in the upper edge of South Carolina. A load of straw was being put into a barn. A boy playing on the inside had a match in his pocket. He struck the match. Result: Barn burned and boy with it.

It is an extremely delicate matter to advise parents about the government of their children, but in view of recent occurrences it may not be amiss to say that parents of small boys should impress it on them (either by moral suasion or with the limb of a 'simmon tree) that they must not carry matches.—Statesville Landmark.

16 to 1.

She had been reading up on the financial question and she had heard the only gold bug merchant of her town spouting at a lively rate about a ratio of 16 to 1, which he opposed, of course. She had a little gold dollar hid away among her trinkets and things, so she thought it a good time to make the piece of yellow metal do good service.

She walked into the store of the gold bug and said, "I would like to see some nice dress goods, please"

"Certainly," said the obliging yellow metal advocate, pulling down some late style fabrics.

"What is this worth?" she asked, with a winning smile.

"Only one dollar a yard, and its—"

"Would you take sixteen silver dollars for 16 yards?"

"Oh, certainly, Miss, sixteen silver dollars will buy sixteen yards."

"And you would also take gold in payment at a proper ratio?"

"Gold!" he said, "why you know I prefer gold to silver, yet—"

"I will take sixteen yards, please."

The obliging merchant soon had the package nicely wrapped.

The sweet young thing then laid down $1 in gold, took her package and walked out, remarking, "I believe you favor a ratio of 16 to 1. Good day."

"Oh, here, come back!" shouted the merchant, but the young lady had gained the street, and the silverites, who were standing by, had a hearty good laugh at the expense of the gold bug, who had been taken in on the free coinage plank of the silver men.

How to Become Beautiful,

Eat fruit for breakfast.
Eat fruit for luncheon.
Avoid pastry.
Shun muffins and crumpets.
And buttered toast.
Eat whole-meal bread.
Refuse rice puddings.
Decline potatoes if they are served more than once a day.
Do not drink too much tea or coffee.
Wash the face every night in warm water.
Sleep eight hours a night.

Effie—Mamma, when I'm grown up, and if I don't marry anybody, shall I be an old maid like Aunt Tabitha?

Mamma—Yes, dear.

Effie—And if I marry, shall I marry somebody like papa?

Mamma—Yes, darling.

Effie (after a pause)—Well—it is a hard world—for us women.—

Skating Suits.

Fashionable women have returned to their love of skating, and some pretty fur-trimmed costumes will be worn in their rather exclusive rinks. These differ little from the cloth tailor gowns seen every day, but are slightly shorter in the skirt, and not too wide. Well-fitted jacket waists with fur vest or a fur Eton jacket set on are prescribed by tailors, while others wear the new belted jackets of baby-lamb or of seal-skin, with a cloth skirt bordered narrowly with the same fur. A bright bit of color is liked for these cloth frocks, as purplish-red, or leaf green, or else golden-brown trimmed with Capucine velvet or with glowing poppy red. Capes are not affected by skaters while on the ice, though useful afterward to prevent chill. A small close hat with soft puffed crown, or a genuine turban of fur or of cloth or velvet is far preferable to wider-brimmed hats for skaters.—Harper's Bazar.

From the Irish Standpoint.

Timothy O'Hooligan was carrying on a clandestine correspondence with a certain young lady of his acquaintance, and he called at the post office to see if there were any letters for him.

"Have ye any letters for me?" he asked.

"What name, sir?" asked the clerk.

"Tim Murphy."

"No. There are no letters for that name."

"And do you think I'd be after tellin' ye me roight name, ye spalpeen," returned Tim, angrily.—Pick-Me-Up.

GET A GOOD SAFE.

GREENVILLE, N. C., Feb. 26th, 1896.

J. L. SUGG, Agent Victor Safe Co., Greenville, N. C.

DEAR SIR:—I am pleased to say that the Victor Safe you sold me some five or six years ago preserved in tact all its contents in the late fire in Greenville on the 16th inst. The safe stood at a point in my office in the Opera House block that must have been one of the hottest parts in the great conflagration. It contained many papers and other things of value. When it was taken out of the ruins and opened, some twelve hours after the fire, everything in it was found to be safely preserved and in good condition. I cheerfully make this statement of facts in recognition of the valuable service rendered me by this safe and you are at liberty to make such use of it as you may see proper.

THOS. J. JARVIS.
The Victor Safe is made in all sizes, convenient for home, farm, office or general business use. Every Safe sold with a guarantee to be fire proof. Prices range from $15 up.

THE AMERICAN HUSBAND

He is Totally Unlike the Generally Accepted Type.

Slandered by Foreigners as a Patient Burden Bearer of the Household—The Fact is He is an Ideal Mate.

There is a theory that the patient, unexact financial agent who is supposed to typify the genus husband in America—who, like charity, suffereth long and is kind, thinketh no evil, and giveth all his goods—is woman's ideal of a mate, but this is a slander. The dull submission of the overlaid ass is not the quality which ordinarily excites feminine respect.

That brilliant, greedy figure, hung with jewels, who stands aloft in the social car, laying the goad upon the bowed shoulders of the humble, overworked married slave who draws her chariot, is purely a figment, evolved out of the notebooks of snallow foreigners rushing express through the country to make a volume of travels. In reality the American husband is the most exacting of his kind. He demands gayety, physical and mental charm, a high cultivation of all her powers, and an infinity of careful performed duties from his wife.

If the American woman is brilliant and ornamental it is because the American husband will put up with nothing less. In older civilizations woman finds in married life all the conditions prepared for her; rules made which she has only to obey; a careful code of precedents which she has only to follow.

Here a woman may be within a period of seven days transported from a country boarding school to the most conspicuous position in the land, and without previous training be called upon to receive ambassadors and preside at state dinners.

The husband who elevates his wife from the washtub in a mining camp to the palace of a millionaire expects her to create out of the chaos of her previous experiences an ordered social world between the morning and the evening of her first day of wealth—and she does it and likes it, and loudly proclaims that this exacting creature is the most delightful example of husband known.

Curiously enough, the real person is as unlike as possible to the generally-accepted picture of the typical American husband, with his narrow, sordid, bank-clerk soul, his neglected mind, and his cynical estimate of woman as a fantastic child with an insane lust for luxury.

Perhaps the typical husbands of other nations have been as much belied, and the Frenchman is not the sensualist who thrusts the woman's pretty babies from her arms into alien hands in order that her attentions may not for a moment be distracted from himself nor her labors diverted from his business.

Perhaps the German woman is not really an unpaid, contemptuously-treated upper servant, nor the Englishwoman the victim of a selfish, domineering master.

At all events, but few women find all the unpleasing characteristics of the type combined in their individual specimens of the national husband.

Home Training.
If mothers would only realize the full significance of the truth expressed in the trite saying: "As the twig is bent the tree inclines," the next generation of men and women would surely be better in every way, for it is true that the future well-being of the man or woman, physically, mentally and spiritually, depends upon the thousand and one little acts of seeming unimportance that make up the child's daily life. It is the home training the child receives that makes its future "for better or for worse."—Womankind.
