Greenville People Ought to Have Quicker Mail Service.

The REFLECTOR has several times made reference to the schedule on this branch of the Coast Line and suggested that changes could be made which would give the towns along the line a much better service than they now have. We see no good reason why the present schedule of the mail train could not be materially shortened both ways and still make the same through connections. The mail ought to reach Greenville in the evening at least an hour sooner than at present and could be made to do so very easily.

If the Greenville people want a better train service they should get together and let the railroad authorities know what they wish in the matter. The people of Washington took such a step as this in a public meeting and the railroad authorities were very prompt to comply with their request for a better train service. No doubt our people will be treated as well if they take some action in the matter.

Cane From the Battle-Field.

Capt. John King, of Falkland, was here to-day and showed us a walking cane that has a history. It was cut on the Gettysburg battle field during the war and was presented to Congressman Wheeler, of Alabama. The cane has changed ownership as a testimonial of friendship two or three times since the war, and getting into the hands of a warm friend of Capt. King in Washington it was sent to him about two months ago. The cane is hickory, the head mounted with a silver horse shoe.

Washington Gets Good Train Service.

To-day a new schedule went into effect on the Washington branch of the Coast Line. The passenger train now leaves Washington at 8 A. M., returned to Washington at 7 P. M. Then a mixed train leaves Parmer for Washington at 10 A. M., the same train leaving Washington for Parmer at 3 P. M. This gives two trains a day each way over that road and will prove a great convenience to passengers and shippers.

Bethel Items.

Concert To-Night.

The ladies of the M. E. Church have secured S. D. Allison with his Graphophone and Kinetophone, and will give a concert in the Court House tonight. Proceeds for the benefit of the church parsonage. The Graphophone will be arranged so that it can be heard all over the hall and the programme contains the very best musical selections. Give the ladies a full house, and help their fund.

TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

Messrs. H. L. Coward and Travis Hooker from Greene, have been in Greenville prospecting for the past few days and as a result have bought an interest in the Star Warehouse and will be associated with Messrs. Rountree & Brown next year in the warehouse business. Tobacconists here gladly welcome these young men to our town for they will not only be an addition to the Star but will be a valuable acquisition to the market, hailing from Greene as they do in the centre of one of the finest bright tobacco producing sections of the east. The Greenville market can safely count on increasing its sales in that section, for these popular young men will bring it. And thus we have four red-headed warehousemen now on the Greenville market. Who can beat it?

When I was in Danville a few weeks ago I was approached by several exporters of leaf tobacco and asked what inducements would be offered them to come to Greenville and establish a stemmery. I offered all the encouragement that I could in a justifiable way, and since I have been home I have talked with some of our people, relative to these enterprises and every one seemed anxious to get them here. Now here comes a letter that means business which I publish in full, withholding the name of the writer for reasons. I sincerely hope that some one will take hold of the matter and build these people a good house, for unless it is a good one they will not use it.

The advent of a stemmery in Greenville conducted by this firm means the giving of employment to at least one hundred hands, and the money paid these hands will all be spent here in Greenville and our people will get the benefit of it. Besides, it will be adding another permanent and advantageous feature to our tobacco interests. Some steps must be taken to get this building equipped. If any one becomes interested and will call on me I will give them the name of the parties wanting the house and all other assistance in my power.

DANVILLE, Va. March 13, 1896.

MR. O. L. JOYNER,

Greenville, N. C.

DEAR SIR:—Can you give me the name of any one in your town, that will build us a factory to handle tobacco in and equip the building with machinery for steam drying leaf tobacco. The building would have to be at least 150x40 and three stories high, with an engine and boiler house separate one story high. We would lease the property for three or more years.

MONDAY, MARCH 16TH, 1896.

It now seems likely that Congress will adjourn at a much earlier date than has any previous Congress, in the case of a first or long session, for many years. It has been the rule with recent Congresses to protract the first, or long, session well into the summer, the fifty-third Congress having broken all records by adjourning late in September, while the fifty-second Congress adjourned during its first session at almost as late a date. Several of the large appropriation bills are already in an advanced stage, having been acted upon by both houses and submitted to conference committees. Other bills have passed the House and are before the Senate, while the remaining bills will come in the House at an early date. Among the more important bills yet to be acted upon is the naval appropriation bill. This measure has been practically committed, and will no doubt be reported at an early day. As it will carry with it considerable appropriations for new vessels, and an increase in the regular appropriation for maintenance of the fleet, it would under ordinary circumstances have a hard time; but, in the present temper of Congress, aroused, as that body has been, by recent international complications, the naval bill is likely to be promptly accepted and an early adjournment made possible.

Don't Worry.

We violate no confidence in stating at this time that the Recorder will appear next week. We deem it highly necessary to make a cheerful statement of this kind in order to assure those who take such deep concern in our welfare, the paper's welfare, that they need not wonder if it will appear. For a great many weeks the paper has appeared, and from all appearances it will continue its frolicking reckless manner for several week and months and years.

So far as the financial standing of the paper is concerned it may not be out of place to state that the paper is all right. We succeeded in securing $4,500,000 of the last bond issue, and will get our first wad of interest next month. Our foreign advertising now nets $40,000 a week; the business here in the city will amount to over $7,000 monthly, to say nothing of three subscribers who paid in wood and pig iron. We have a contract with a sewing machine company with which by paying $85 in cash we get a new $20 machine. The machine is nickel plated, has a double set of fellers, an oscillating shuttle, a bodkin eye and double gear plaiter which can be attached to a sausage grinder or a coffee mill—thus getting double strength from the coffee as well. By an arrangement with the new shoe factory which will soon be started here we will run them a small ad. and have our shoes half soled, or full soled for that matter. As we have no press there is no expense for press work, as we get that done on time. Having a pass on the railroad we ride during meal hours, thus saving quite an expense in the item of food. Our combined circulation is now 16 papers, or double the number printed by any other concern in Orange county. And so it may be seen that the Recorder is prosperous, and will continue to hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may. If we make enemies we cannot help it, as we would rather be president than be right. Long may the Archimedian lever (this is the kind of a lever nress used by our loathsome contemporary, it being jerked by Mayor Harris) but as we were saying, long may the Archimedian lever continue to press out gems of thought, and in this connection we desire to state that now is the time to subscribe. N. B.—Persons bringing wood on subscription are requested to pile the wood in the rear of the building and not put it in the office as heretofore—unless it is already cut up.

If we are not in when you call wait until the next train, we are always coming during our absence.—Hillsboro Recorder.

Something for Nothing.

There is certainly more than merely poetic justice in the experiences of the many who part with their hard-earned cash on the seductive representations of peripatetic swindlers. Whether it be the bunco man, the portrait fiend, the greengoods dealer or the lightning rod shark, it seems to matter but little. The man who has a glib tongue, unlimited assurance and no conscience whatever starts out upon the broad and enticing thoroughfares of this great country and seeks victims in every hamlet and cottage. It might be questioned whether people who are taken in this way deserve sympathy. Very much of this trouble arises from the desire to get something for less than its actual worth a laudable enough ambition if exercised in the right direction, but when it means the promise on the part of the seller to furnish some valuable article for a mere fraction of its accredited value, that fact alone ought to be proof enough that there is something wrong in the transaction.

It has often been said that those persons who do not read the papers are more likely to fall victims to every designing rascal that chooses to travel about the highways and byways of the world. But this is not altogether true, at least it is not just to say that only the ignorant and non-readers are caught in this way. Fairly intelligent persons are led astray by cupidity and avarice. They are constantly striving to get ahead of somebody, to drive a good bargain, to overreach their fellows in some way, and if they can get possession of something that looks well on the face of it and will afford a reasonable prospect of profit, they are unable to restrain their eagerness to make money, whatever the means may be. It is this class who are ever on the alert to get something for as near to nothing as they can.

Pat Could Not Differentiate Two Pains so Contemporaneous.

Pat came to a dentist's office one day with his jaw very much swollen from a tooth which he desired to have pulled. But when the suffering son of Erin got into the dentist's chair and saw the gleaming forceps, he positively refused to open his mouth. The dentist hit upon an effectual scheme, however. He got his office boy to jab Pat with a pin and when he opened his mouth to yell he grabbed the tooth and out it came.

"It didn't hurt as much as you expected, did it?" the dentist asked, smiling at ruse. "Well, no, replied Pat, hesitatingly, as if doubting, the truthfulness of his admission. "Bat," he added, placing his hand on the spot where the boy jabbed him with the pin, "I didn't think its roots went so far down as that."—Leavenworth (Me.) Evening Journal.

HE LOVES HER STILL.

I watch her clear-cut cameo face
Against the crimson curtain's fold;
The gaslight glimmer on the gold
Of tresses twined with classic grace.
The season's beauty, do you say?
Indeed, I see she holds a court,
Whose smiles and jests and quick retort.
Keep her from listening to the play.

Why should she heed the oft-told tale
Of faithful love upon the stage?
She knows full well, in this our age,
Wealth and ambition turn the scale.

O, I loved her once, long since;
A year, a century ago—
Before I went abroad, you know;
But I was neither peer nor prince.

And so we parted. Here to-night
By chance I see her, and again
With throb and thrill of sudden pain
I feel my heart stir at the sight.

The drama ends. Ah, fair coquette!
Folded in furs she quits the place;
If I should meet her face to face,
Will she remember, or forget?

The Savannah News notes that official figures printed in Madrid, papers are to the effect that up to March 1st there had been sent from Spain to Cuba 118,000 troops, and that the war, which has now been in existence a year, has cost the Spanish Government $50,000,000.

THE FAMILY BATHROOM.

An Indispensable Adjunct to a Well-Ordered Household.
It is one of the most surprising things in the world why people who have the ordinary comforts of life should build houses without bathrooms.

The farmer needs the bath much more than his city neighbor, and could have it at a small cost. A bathtub is not expensive, and with a good force-pump and a barrel or two as head water, can be arranged without the aid of skilled labor. If the house is already built and there is no room for the bathtub, it might be put into the kitchen, or even into the family living room. A heavy curtain or a strong screen could conceal it, and, when not in use, a cover could be closed down over it, and it would be quite out of the way. But a little ingenuity and work will fix it in fine running order in any ordinary dwelling.

There are many houses where there is a range, with hot and cold water, but no bathtub. This is an omission that should not be tolerated. A small tank, with force-pump and drainage, can be supplied for a very little money, and if the house is not warm enough to keep this without freezing, it is time some measures were taken to insure anti-freezing conditions.

A well-equipped bath-room, with closet, can be arranged in any dwelling where there is even a tolerable supply of water. The kitchen sink can drain through the pipes, the water from the weekly wash will clear them out, and if there is proper ventilation and a suitable outlet there will be nothing unsanitary in the outfit.

Of course, the more water the better, but as every house is, or should be, supplied with a never-failing well, the muscle expended in pumping is very well used in this direction. By all means have the health, comfort and safety of the family provided for by proper and sanitary bathroom and closet arrangements.—N. Y. Ledger.

GREENVILLE, N. C., Feb. 26th, 1896.
J. L. SUGG, Agent Victor Safe Co.,
Greenville, N. C.

DEAR SIR:—I am pleased to say that the Victor Safe you sold me some five or six years ago preserved in tact all its contents in the late fire in Greenville on the 16th inst. The safe stood at a point in my office in the Opera House block that must have been one of the hottest parts in the great conflagration. It contained many papers and other things of value. When it was taken out of the ruins and opened, some twelve hours after the fire, everything in it was found to be safely preserved and in good condition. I cheerfully make this statement of facts in recognition of the valuable service rendered me by this safe and you are at liberty to make such use of it as you may see proper.

THOS. J. JARVIS.

The Victor Safe is made in all sizes, convenient for home, farm, office or general business use. Every Safe sold with a guarantee to be fire proof. Prices range from $15 up.

SEVENTY PIEGANS JUST ALIKE.

In Full War Paint They Marched Into a Cave One at a Time.

"A member of the Canadian mounted police, Lieut. McDonough, told me," said Capt. Partello at the Officers' club, "the following incident of a band of Crees and a solitary Piegan Indian, which is novel and interesting. It occurred about 100 miles from Fort Walsh. A band of Cree Indians woke up one snowy morning to find that about one dozen of their choicest ponies had been run off during the night. Pursuit was soon organized, and within a few hours a fresh trail was found in the snow. After following the trail some 30 miles it entered a river bottom and headed for a wooded island in the middle of the river.

"Smoke was seen rising from the trees, and an opening, which seemed to be the mouth of a cave, appeared in plain view. Presently a single Indian, a Piegan, showed up in front of the opening. He was in war paint, and there was a dog at his heels. Pretty soon the dog scented the Crees and began growling and barking. The Piegan looked up, glanced a moment about him, and then instantly entered the cave. In about ten seconds another Piegan came around the rocks and also went in; then another and another and another, there being but a few seconds between them. The Crees lay silently in the bushes watching and counting, until upward of 50 Piegans had come around the rocks and gone into the cave, and still they kept coming. What seemed remarkable was the fact that all these Indians were, to all appearances, exactly the same size, were dressed and painted alike, each carried a Winchester rifle, and, most remarkable of all, each one seemed a little lame in the left foot, limping slightly.

"They were a gaudy crowd, and the Crees counted 70 of them. The superstitious Crees naturally concluded that the evil spirit had something to do with it, for there was no doubt that there were 70 Piegan Indians on the island, who were exactly alike.

"So thoroughly were they filled with the idea that the devil was mixed up with the mystery that even when the reinforcements arrived, which was in a few hours, they were reluctant to attack the island. That night one Cree, less superstitious than the rest, crossed over the ice to investigate. On approaching the supposed cave he was surprised to find it was no cave at all, but simply an opening leading some ten feet into the rock, where it made a turn and came out on the other side. It required but a glance to understand what had seemed so mysterious before. There was but the remnant of a single camp fire, the ponies were gone, and not an Indian was in sight. The apparent presence of 69 other warriors was a sharp trick on the part of the Piegan warrior to deceive his enemies and gain time for his escape, which he accomplished in good shape."—Buffalo Express.

Two Irish Anecdotes.

An Irish relation of mine found two countrymen in the dust of the highway. The uppermost was thumping the beaten foe severely. The newcomer cried: "Let him get up. 'Tis a cowardly thing to hit a fellow when he's down." The victor panted: "Yer honor'd never be after asking me to let him up av ye knew the thrubble 'twas I had to down him." The same gentleman tells how he visited a wild-beast show, and saw a countryman come in, bearing unmistakable signs of having had a glass too much. A tiger scratched the back of the hand with which the man grasped a bar of the cage. The laceration was severe, and the pain great. The sufferer danced about and twirled his shellelagh, crying: "Let him out, let him out, till I have me will av him." A companion tried to soothe the frate dancer with this neat impromptu: "Never mind, Pat! Sure he only wanted to scrape acquaintance wid ye!"—Westminster Gazette.

GREENVILLE Male Academy.

The next session of this School will begin on MONDAY SEPT. 2, 1895.

and continue for ten months.

The course embraces all the branches usually taught in an Academy.

Terms, both for tuition and board reasonable.

Boys well fitted and equipped for business, by taking the academic course alone. Where they wish to pursue a higher course, this school guarantees thorough preparation to enter, with credit, any College in North Carolina or the State University. It refers to those who have recently left its walls for the truthfulness of this statement.

Any young man with character and moderate ability taking a course with us will be aided in making arrangements to continue in the higher schools.

The discipline will be kept at its present standard.

Neither time nor attention nor work will be spared to make this school all that parents could wish.
