TRUTH IN PREFERENCE TO FICTION.

TERMS: 25 Cents a Month.

Vol. 3.

GREENVILLE, N. C., SATURDAY, JUNE 6, 1896.

No. 459

C. T. MUNNIFORD,

We are showing an elegant stock of Wash Fabrics, all new of this season's production, and just the thing for the warm weather, such as Dimities, Organdies, Batiste Spiral Cloths, Ducks, Ginghams, Plisse and Fancy Swiss Muslins. Would call special attention to the beautiful selection of White Goods, Laces and Embroideries we have on hand, and still we are adding something new every few days. The prices are greatly reduced. The people are coming our way. Everybody admires our spring and summer styles of Clothing. No wonder the crowds come to our place one reason is, because they can buy suits that suit them, another reason is, because we have the courage to accept small profit. Low prices are quick travelers. Men who want style, elegance and durability at low cost should see our line. Our's are the worthiest garments to be found anywhere at anywhere near the price. Our customers demand Clothing of character and refinement—something above the ordinary "refinement"—fine grades, perfection of make, best taste, moderate prices are the prominent points in our clothes. We also have beautiful line of Gents Furnishing Goods which we are offering at surprisingly low figures.

"OUR BABY."

[When a little child dies people some times say: "Oh well, it was only a baby which is equivalent to saying its loss does not amount to much and that it will not be missed. Only those who have lost one of these little ones can appreciate the following beautiful and tender lines, the author of which is unknown to us—Gold Leaf:]

It was only a baby that died to-day!
Only a baby has passed away,
Leaving its hearts and home for aye.

"Thus they whispered, but did they know
Aught of the silent, killing woe
That surged through the mother's heart?—ah, no!

Only a baby, whose small white hands
Will never be raised to her who stands
Bowed by her Master's stern commands.

Only a baby, whose little feet
Will never on earth make music sweet,
They have wandered away to a golden street.

Only a baby, whose trusting head
Will henceforth rest on a narrow bed,
Far down in the home of the silent dead.

Who hath sought a calm and beautiful rest
Leaving its tender and cozy nest
For a place less warm than a mother's breast.

Only a baby, tiny and fair,
With the golden glint on its yellow hair,
Sleeping so calmly and peacefully there.

Only a baby, but she who hath pressed,
The wee cold form to her aching breast,
Knoweth the meaning of these words best.

Ram's Horn Blasts.

A harsh word to a child may destroy an angel.

He who can laugh at himself, may laugh much.

An oath on the lips shows that the devil is in the heart.

God made some laws to show how much He hates idleness.

Putting a crown on the head puts nothing kindly in the heart.

Trouble does not come to weaken us, but to show us how weak we are.

God is always near us, though we may be far from him.

If you are praying for a revival, don't let somebody else do all the work.

It would spoil nine men out of ten to let them have their own way for a month.

As soon as we make God's word a lamp to our feet, we stop traveling in the dark.

The first real step we take toward heaven is the one we take when we say goodbye to sin.

The man who is more than filling the place he has now, is on his way to a better one.

If some men's prayers were always answered, the heavens would always be raining down fire.

If the church had a cheap bargain counter it would have more customers. A church that lowers its standard to get members, has one. But Cheap John religion does not wash or wear.

When I say that every enterprise, every business, every institution must be advertised in order to be a success, I only voice the opinion of every thoughtful, sensible business man.—Chauncey M. Depew.

Still Progressing.

The commencement exercises of the University and Wake Forest College have both been held, the former this week and the latter last week.

The success of both was phenomenal. At Wake Forest three very distinguished gentlemen delivered the addresses and the commencement is said to have been the best in the history of the college. The number of students was larger than at any previous session and the income more than paid the expenses. The trustees decided to make some additions to the buildings, notably an infirmary.

At Chapel Hill they had Vice President Stevenson and the exercises fully met the expectation of its warmest friends. The report of the work for the session has already been noticed in these columns.

Races on the Fourth.

At their meeting Friday afternoon the Greenville Driving Association perfected all arrangements for a series of races here on July 4th.

There will be four horse races for purses of $100 each, and a bicycle race for a purse of $25. Of the horse races one will be in the 3 minute class, one in the 2:40 class, one free for all, and one gentlemen's driving race to buggy.

No steps have been taken yet by the citizens in reference to co-operating with the Driving Association and having a general celebration on the 4th. It could be done very easily, and the crowd brought here on that day, which comes this year on Saturday, would materially help the business of the town. There is not much time to be lost if the celebration is to be had.

Lieut. Col. Hughes to Wed.

Mr. B. F. Sugg, First Lieutenant of the Military Company here, has an invitation to the marriage of Col. W. T. Hughes, a wealthy leaf tobacco dealer of Louisburg, N. C., to Miss Clara E. Davis, of Norfolk, Va., on the 17th of June. The officers who are invited will meet Gov. Carr and staff, General Cotten and staff, Col. Rodman and staff at Weldon in a special car and will leave Weldon at 2:50 o'clock, returning leave Norfolk at 12 o'clock that night. This is a grand affair and will be much enjoyed by those who will attend.

Gov. Jarvis in Raleigh.

The Press-Visitor was glad to see Hon. Thos. J. Jarvis in the city to-day and to have a pleasant talk with him concerning the situation in North Carolina. Gov. Jarvis has the true interest of the State at heart, and if all Democrats would take the view of the present situation that he does, deprecating discord and lack of confidence in each other, and realizing the necessity of unity and harmony and tolerance, the party would be in much better condition. It is a fact, as Gov. Jarvie remarked to us to-day, that there is too much bickering among Democrats and too much disposition to suspect each other of selling out when any plan of combination or campaign is advanced from any Democratic source. Gov. Jarvis stands for Democratic accord and unanimity. Speaking of the possibility of two State conventions being held, he says that wisdom would suggest that the representatives of the party when they meet here, consult together and decide what is best, and that when they have decided let the decision have the unanimous support of the entire party.—Raleigh Press-Visitor.

Talk about climbing poles, but one of the linemen here at work on the telephone exchange can run right up them.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 5th, '96.

A bombshell has been exploded in the camp of the jubilant McKinleyites by the positive announcement that Speaker Reed will not under any circumstances play second fiddle in the McKinley orchestra. Mr. Reed is a thoroughly disgusted man. He thought he had his party in hand as well as he has had the Republican majority of the House, and it hurts him to be knocked out by the man who has less ability than any of the prominent candidates for the nomination; and makes him mad to see men who had pledged their support to him falling over each other to announce their allegiance to McKinley.

President Cleveland was not surprised when Congress passed the River and Harbor bill over his veto, nor has that changed his opinion of the merits of the bill, and predictions are freely made that a very small portion of the money appropriated by the bill, now a law, will be paid out by the present administration. There are more ways to kill a dog than hanging him.

The Butler bill prohibiting the further issue of bonds without the consent of Congress was passed by the Senate, the vote being 32 to 25, silver being the dividing line, but was quickly shelved by the House, which voted to lay it on the table, after it had been adversely reported from the Ways and Means committee.

Unless the difficulty of keeping a quorum present in the House, which is becoming greater every day, shall delay the transaction of business Congress will adjourn by the middle of next week, probably a little earlier. But there are several members of the House who stop everything by raising the point of "no quorum" everytime they get the opportunity. There is no expectation of doing anything else than to finish up the regular appropriation bills.

Ex-Gov. Campbell, of Ohio, who is considered by many to stand a good show for the Democratic nomination, is in Washington. He doesn't believe there will be a split in the party at the Chicago convention. Speaking about it, he said: "I feel quite certain that when the Democrats meet in National convention at Chicago they will exercise good enough wisdom and moderation to frame a platform, liberal enough and broad enough for all members of the party to stand upon. I believe that conservatism and good sense will prevail, and that differences of opinion will be subordinated to party welfare. The silver men appear to be in the majority and will doubtless exercise the rights always accorded a majority, but that is no reason for imagining that the party will split into fragments, as has been so cheerfully predicted by a good many people who don't in the least know what they are talking about. The Democratic party has survived too many ordeals to dread shipwreck now, and it will continue to exist and to win victories as it has been doing from the beginning."

It would be amusing, if it were not such a really serious matter, to see the care with which the republicans in Congress are guarding their talk in Cuban affairs. Such men as Senators Sherman and Chandler, who were talking nothing but ripsnorting jingoism a few weeks ago are now as mum as Quakers on the subject. The reason is that somehow or other the republicans have become convinced that President Cleveland is getting ready to beat Congress at its own game, by an early recognition of the outright independence of Cuba. Whether the President has any such intention is a matter about which those who could speak by authority will not talk. It is probable that the republican scare grew out of President Cleveland saying to Senator Sherman and two other members of the Committee on Foreign Relations, who called at the White House to discuss Cuban affairs, that he thought recognition of the independence of Cuba was preferable to recognizing the Cubans as belligerents.

It is now openly conceded even by such sturdy opponents of silver as Secretaries Smith and Morton that a large majority of the delegates to the Chicago convention will be silver men, but there is much less talk of a bolt by the opponents of silver than there was when the control of the convention was in doubt. In fact, a number of the strongest advocates of the gold standard in Congress have voluntarily stated to silver Democrats their intention to support loyally the ticket and platform of the Chicago convention. So far the Democrats in Congress are doing very little talking about any particular candidate for President, and while most of them have a personal preference there is nothing like a concentration of sentiment upon any one man.

YOUR TROUBLES.

JOSEPHENE POLLARD.

Keep your troubles to yourself,
Put them on an upper shelf;
Far away as they can be,
Where no eye but God's can see.
Other people have their share
Of affliction, pain and care;
Why should you, though sorely tried,
Burden them with yours beside?

Daily brooding o'er your grief
In no way affords relief,
But intensifies the smart,
Turns the arrow in the heart.

Think of others who have known
Greater sorrows than thine own,
Keeping all their wounds concealed,
Heroes of life's battlefield.

Give of treasures you possess,
Loving care and tenderness;
Cheerful smiles of sordid pelf,
Keep your troubles to yourself.

The Two-Thirds Rule.

It is already becoming a question whether the two-thirds rule will be adopted in the Chicago convention or not. That rule, let it be remembered, does not apply to the ordinary proceedings of national conventions, but only to the nomination of a candidate for President of the United States. Inasmuch as the silverites may fear to trust their cause in the hands of a convention in which a two-thirds rule obtains, they may take time by the forelock, and if they have the strength may provide against the adoption of a two-thirds rule. To provide for operating under a two-thirds rule will be, of course, to place the silverites at the mercy of the convention if they have not the strength to make their platform suit the nominee. The silverites will be quick to try to proceed to take care of themselves by declining to adopt a two-thirds rule, but it is likely that quite a number of the silverites will vote for that rule.

We some time ago explained the operations of the two-thirds rule, and referred to the refusal of the Tilden convention of 1878 to drop that rule. Truth to say, it does look, at first blush, as if a majority vote ought to suffice either to make nominees or to uphold a platform. Put this point will not be settled before the 7th of July.—Richmond Dispatch.

He Fell in a Trance.

He came hurriedly into the little hardware shop his eyes scintillating, his breath coming quickly and his fat fingers shutting and opening just like the hero of a melodrama when he has been accused of robbing his gray-haired employer, and indignation sticks in his throat like corn in a chicken's gullet. He was a small man, but he tackled the big proprietor in a fearless manner.

"Say," he began "didn't you sell me a patented household article last week?" The proprietor groaned. He knew what was coming. He wondered how many more complaints would be brought in that day.

"Yes, I sold it to you," he admitted. "You guaranteed that the folding-bed would never get out of order, didn't you?"

"I did." "You swore that the cooking stove would never smell of kerosene, eh?"

The proprietor nodded.

"That the clock would not run down? That the baby-rocker would put the kid to sleep promptly at 9 o'clock? That the sewing machine parts would run noiselessly? That in the morning when we got through with it we could fold it up so that we could put it on the centre table as a banquet lamp? You admit all these things?" concluded the small man, growing redder and redder every moment.

"Yes, I admit it all, all, all!" cried the proprietor, in despair. "Heavens, why did I try to sell that thing!"

"Well," and a smile broke over the face of the small man, "everything you guaranteed has worked like a charm—my gracious, man, what's the matter?"

The proprietor had fallen to the floor in a trance from which there is no waking.—N. Y. World.

Paternal Advice.

"Ben," said the old colored deacon to his son, "you done gradivated now, en you's gwine out into de great en wicked worl'."

"Yes, suh." "En you wants ter heed my xwise?" "Yes, suh."

"Well, dis is erbout all I got ter say to you: Don't go into de poultry business when de moon is shinin', en always be sho' en keep in de front part er de mule!"

The national Prohibition convention met at Pittsburg, Pa., last week. There was a fight over the platform. One set wanted to confine it to the single issue of prohibition and the others wanted to tack on free coinage, woman suffrage, Sabbath observance and other things. The single issue folks won and nominated Joshua Levering, of Maryland, for President, and Hale Johnson, of Illinois, for Vice President. The other crowd, led by ex-Gov. St. John, bolted and nominated another ticket with J. H. Southgate, of Durham, N. C., for Vice President.

"Do you consider it lucky to pick a horseshoe?" "Yes; if it isn't hot.—Roxbury Gazette.

"Do you let your wife have the last word?" "She never has any last word."—Boston Courier.

The following is the latest version of a familiar old poem, as we find it in an exchange: "Mary had a little mule, and it followed her to skule, and the teacher like a fule, stepped up behind the mule and hit him with a rule, and then there was no skule."

Says an exchange: Don't be afraid of spoiling any one with kindness. It cannot be done. Instead of spoiling it beautifies the character, cheers the heart and helps to raise the burden from shoulders, which, though brave, sometimes grow very tired.

An Editor in a Quinary.

The Staunton News is having an experience common to every news paper-inability to please everybody. One citizen has stopped the paper because here is too much baseball news in it, and another because there is not enough, baseball news. It is utterly impossible to fill a newspaper, of whatever size, with matter which will be equally acceptable to every reader, as everyone not an idiot must know.

"Twins."

All the world likes to see a liar caught in the lie. No one regrets when the parent who tries to palm off a twelve-year-old child as only nine, in order to escape paying a full fare, is correct by the child himself.

It was at the railroad station, and she was trying to buy half-fare tickets for her two children. "How old are they?" asked the ticket seller. "Only six." "Both of them?" "Yes; they's twins."

Canadian English.

When Jean Baptiste goes on his travels he takes a ticket, with a check for his baggage, and enters a train. (He used to go to the station in a gig, according to M. de Gaspe, but I never heard him use the word, though I know he patronizes the cab-stand rather than the "place de faecres.")
