CANT PHASE THE WEATHER BUREAU.

We score the weather bureau,
For the rain we didn't get,
And then we score it once again
For making roads so wet.

We score the weather bureau
For the breeze that doesn't blow,
And then we score it harder yet
For gales that bluster so.

We score that bureau right and left,
And up and down the land,
And still it stays in business
At the same old stand.

—Chicago Record.

Notes and Opinions.

The present house has unseated nine Democrats.

There is an old oak tree in the State of Georgia that is twenty-seven feet in diameter.

The magnolia tree was named after a French professor Magnol, a naturalist, who died in 1715.

At Oreville, Cal., there is a cherry tree only eighteen years old which is six feet through the trunk.

Too much sitting over the fire and too little outdoor exercise is fatal to the beauty of the lips.

The sacred bo-tree of Ceylon is said to have sprung from a slip of the tree under which Buddha was born.

Twelve hundred acres of land in the vicinity of Youngstown, O., have been leased by Ohio capitalists and will be developed for coal and gas.

A German inventor has evolved a bicycle trousers which, by pulling a string, can be transformed from the knickerbocker to the long garment, and vice versa.

In eighty years the Dukes of Bedford have spent $8,000,000 in improving one estate in Cambridgeshire, from which they draw $6 an acre rent. The land yields thirty-six bushels of wheat to the acre.

The Washington Post thinks that Mark Hanna should lay aside all courtesy and make that nomination on the first ballot. There will be plenty of time for courtesy after the convention adjourns.

It was reported in St. Louis that the Eastern opponents to the nomination of Major McKinley as the Presidential candidate have formulated plans to place $1,000,000 in St. Louis to help carrying the convention for an Eastern man.

Laughinghouse-Dail.

On yesterday morning, at 7 o'clock, in the Methodist Church in this place, Rev. Mr. Ebnhardt officiating, Dr. Charles O'Hagan Laughinghouse and Miss Carrie Dail, the charming and eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Haywood Dail, were united in the holy estate of matrimony. After an elaborate and elegant breakfast at the home of the bride's parents they left for a northern tour. We do not know personally the happy, fortunate groom. We know his father, the brave, elegant, chivalrous Joseph J. Laughinghouse, of Pitt, and we know his grand-father, the courtly, big-brained, scholarly Dr. Charles J. O'Hagan, of Greenville, and with such ancestors he can be nothing less than an all-round, true, big-hearted Southern gentleman. We have known the beautiful bride for the past fifteen years—since her early girlhood. Her sweet and amiable disposition, her splendid features, handsome carriage, exquisite manners and the queenly graces that have adorned her life and her daily walk in our midst all the years attracted all as admirers, and with this writer she was indeed a favorite. May the glowing of the wedded life be as bright and beautiful as the morn.—Snow Hill Standard.

At War With the United States.

No longer ago than yesterday it was said that there was less probability of an armed collision between the United States and Spain than at any time since the outbreak in Cuba, but if the Spanish banners are to be believed, that was altogether wrong. The El Heraldo, one of the leading newspapers of Madrid, for instance says that Spain is no longer fighting the insurgents, but that the conflict is with the United States exclusively. But read what it says: "The problem of the war is not in Havana; it is in Washington. If this should continue, our Generals will be discredited, our army harrassed, and we shall gain nothing. We must fight or compromise, and as our hands are tied by the United States, it is with the American republic that the compromise would have to be made. * * * We accept advices and recriminations from Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Olney as to how we should administer justice. One step more and this intrusion will lead to an international compact. It would be shameful for Spain. Is there any Spaniard who has the courage to go so far? Our policy is that not for 100 Antillers should Spain stand this humiliation."

The same journal publishes an article from the pen of a distinguished military man in Madrid, who after surveying the situation says; "Our enemy is in Washington. If this continues, a catastrophe is imminent. We must put an end to this shame if we can; if not, let us at once renounce the task as one which is either beyond our strength or unworthy of us.

"The opinion of the loyal friends of Spain in Cuba is that if we do not make the last effort, if we do not profit by the delay of the rainy season, if Gen. Weyler is not allowed all liberty of action, our now scant hopes will be killed. The rebels receive almost daily fresh supplies of arms and ammunition. It is not possible to send to Pina del Rio any forces from the rest of the island because the cities would be exposed to the attack of the filibusters. It was expected that the volunteers would be willing to assist the troops in the trocha, but so far they have remained in silence."

The El Heraldo says: "We must fight or compromise"—well, which is it? Spain can take her choice. As the Washington Post says, the United States is not at war with Spain, but nobody is holding Spain if she feels like going to war with us.—Norfolk Virginia.

IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Matters Of Interest Over the State.

Mr. Young, for many years Superintendent of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum, at Raleigh; has been removed and an Illinois man named Place, given the place.

Ex-Judge Connor has been elected president of the Branch Bank at Wilson in place of W. P. Simpson deceased.

Grasshoppers are reported to have done considerable damage to crops in Onslow county, mainly to potatoes, tobacco, and gardens.

Pitt Boys Succeed.

Among the graduates of the A. & M. College we notice the name of W. C. Jackson of this county. The Theses presented by the graduates shows what has been the character of their instruction. For instance, Mr. Jackson's subject was: "How to Drain Soil of Surplus Water and at the same time Store up a Normal Supply for Future Use." We notice also that he is on the honor roll of the institution, having averaged on all studies over 90.

Figures Never Lie

But the figures of some ladies are very deceptive when dressed in a Skirt or Waist that is not new and stylish. To avoid this deception buy your Dress Goods where you are sure to find only the latest and best productions of dame fashion. We are just receiving new Dress Goods for summer wear and they surpass anything ever shown in Greenville. The right goods at the right prices will win customers every time. We have them.

Lang Sells Cheap.

Postoffice Corner.

C. T. MUNFORD,
We are showing an elegant stock of Wash Fabrics, all new of this season's production, and just the thing for the warm weather, such as Dimities, Organdies, Batiste Spiral Cloths, Ducks, Ginghams, Plisse and Fancy Swiss Muslins. Would call special attention to the beautiful selection of White Goods, Laces and Embroideries we have on hand, and still we are adding something new every few days. The prices are greatly reduced. The people are coming our way. Everybody admires our spring and summer styles of Clothing. No wonder the crowds come to our place one reason is, because they can buy suits that suit them, another reason is, because we have the courage to accept small profit. Low prices are quick travelers. Men who want style, elegance and durability at low cost should see our line. Our's are the worthiest garments to be found anywhere at anywhere near the price. Our customers demand Clothing of character and refinement—something above the ordinary "refinement"—fine grades, perfection of make, best taste, moderate prices are the prominent points in our clothes. We also have beautiful line of Gents Furnishing Goods which we are offering at surprisingly low figures.

FRIDAY, JUNE 12TH, 1896.

Convention Dates.

Republican National Convention, St. Louis, June 16.]

Democratic National Convention, Chicago, July 7.

Populist National Convention, St. Louis, July 22.

Silver National Convention, St. Louis, July 22.

Democratic State Convention, Raleigh, June 25.

The hotels in St. Louis are still cancelling all engagements to entertain negro delegates to the Republican convention. Where board had been secured for state delegations they are informing these delegations that they will have to lookout elsewhere for their colored delegates. The latter will all be put off at one hotel to themselves.

Commencements have been held during the present week at Davidson College, Trinity College, and the A. M. College. At each place large crowds were present and the exercises of a very high order. The reports of each college showed that the institution was in good condition and the work done better than any previous session. This closes the commencements for the year.

SOUTHERN GENERALS.

The Number Furnished by the Different Confederate States.

As stated in a former article, there were 474 general officers of all grades in the regular military service of the Confederacy. It may be interesting to know just how many of these were severally contributed by these States comprehended in the Southern Confederation:

Virginia—Three full generals; 5 lieutenant generals; 17 major generals and 54 brigadier generals—79 in all.

North Carolina—Two lieutenant generals; 7 major generals, and 29 brigadier generals—38 in all.

South Carolina—Three lieutenant generals; 4 major generals, and 27 brigadier generals—34 in all.

Georgia—Three lieutenant generals; 7 major generals, and 42 brigadier generals—52 in all.

Florida—One general in provisional army of Confederate States; 3 major generals, and 10 brigadier generals—14 in all.

Alabama—One lieutenant general; 6 major generals and 29 brigadier generals—36 in all.

Mississippi—Five major generals and 30 brigadier generals—35 in all.

Louisiana—Two full generals, 2 lieutenant generals, 4 major generals and 22 brigadier generals—30 in all.

Texas—One full general, 1 general with temporary rank; 3 major generals and 36 brigadier generals—42 in all.

Indian Territory—One brigadier general (Stand White).

France—One major general (Camille J. Polinae).

Arkansas—Four major generals and 18 brigadier generals—22 in all.

Missouri—Four major generals and 12 brigadier generals—16 in all.

Tennessee—Two lieutenant generals; 8 major generals—10 in all.

Kentucky—One lieutenant general, 5 major generals and 16 brigadier generals—22 in all.

Maryland—Three major generals and 6 brigadier generals—9 in all.—Augusta Chronicle.

BABY'S ANSWER.

Where did you come from, baby dear? Out of the everywhere into here.

Where did you get your eyes so blue? Out of the skies as I came through.

What makes the light in them sparkle and spin? Some of the starry sparks left in.

Where did you get that little tear? I found it waiting when I got here.

What makes your forehead so smooth and high? A soft hand stroked it as I went by.

What makes your cheek like a warm, white rose? I saw something better than anyone knows.

Whence the three-corned smile of bliss? Three angels at once gave me a kiss.

Where did you get this pearly ear? God spake, and it came out to hear.

Where did you get those arms and hands? Love made itself into hooks and bands.

Love made itself into hooks and bands. Feet, whence did you come, you darling things? From the same box as cherub's wings.

How did you come to us, you dear? God thought about you, and so I am here.

Registers His Boy's Name.

"Did you notice that man register," asked the clerk of an uptown hotel of a Washington Times writer, as a sad-faced man turned away from the desk. He had written his own name and another on the record. "He has been coming here for four or five years that I remember," continued the clerk. "The name that follows his own is that of his son, though the latter has been dead for three years."

"It is a case full of sadness. That man makes regular trips to the city, and he used to always bring his boy, a bright looking youth of about 16. The father was very devoted to him, and the boy did seem to be a rattling good fellow. They always shared the same room, always went out together, and seemed chums more than father and son. But the boy died. The next time the father came to the hotel there was a marked change in his appearance. He walked silently up to the desk and registered. After writing his own name, he placed that of his son beneath it, just as he formerly did. I called his attention to it, but a tear came to his eye, and he said nothing, so I immediately changed the subject. Ever since that day he has registered in that manner when he came to the city. Once in awhile he will order an extra dinner and have it set on the table beside him, just where his boy used to sit. He never speaks of the boy."

Unconscious Influence.

Very few readers of the New Testament probably ever stop to think how brief the biography of Christ is, and how much must have been omitted from the narrative. There must have been another history of the Divine Teacher, written, not by the hands of His disciples, but in the hearts of those whom He had cheered and helped and healed by the way. There must have been a beautiful unwritten gospel passed from mouth to mouth for many generations, the light of which faded very slowly as the night of barbarism and wandering came on. For a personality like Christ's, filled with divine compassion and love, must have poured itself out in a thousand and unseen rivulets as well as in the great channels so definitely marked in the New Testament story. There must have been thousands to whom He spoke words which were not recorded; there must have been multitudes whose lives were renewed by His power of whom no mention is made. As this was true of the divinest personality known to men, so it is also true of every human personality. The most searching and influential power that issues from any human life is that of which the person himself is largely unconscious. It flows from him in every form of occupation, in every relationship. In rest or in work, in silence or in speech, at home or abroad. There are hosts of men and women who are healers and teachers and helpers almost without consciousness of the fact. Light shines from them and help flows from them at times when they are utterly unconscious that the hem of garment is being touched. The real test of the possession of the highest power of character and the most perfect devotion to the noblest things in life is not the quality of the direct touch; it is the presence of the virtue even in the hem of the garment.—Outlook.

TEMPERANCE DEPARTMENT.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:—If you will allow me some space in your temperance column, I would like to have something to say to the children on the subject of temperance. I would like to show them how they may become Little Prohibitionists, and help to make people better by encouraging them to abstain from strong drink. UNCLE TED.

[Uncle Ted is welcome to space in the Temperance Department, and we hope the children will watch for his letters and profit by what he tells them.—Ed.]

One White Cap Desperado Killed and One Other Wounded.

The people of Lucama, in Wilson county, have been greatly incensed of late over depredations committed upon the property of L. F. Lucas. A gang of law breakers had torn down his fence time and time again and burned the rails. Not satisfied with this they determined to burn two new tobacco barns, and Monday night was fixed for the commission of the crime. Mr. Lucas got information of this, and he immediately came to Wilson and consulted ex-Solicitor John E. Woodard, one of the best prosecutors in the State. Acting upon his advice Mr. Lucas and five friends secreted themselves near the barns, and awaited further developments. About 10 o'clock some men approached the barns, and four went to the residence of Mr. Lucas when they were ignited. The four men, who went to the house of Mr. Lucas, seeing two men approaching and thinking that it might be Lucas and his son, fired upon them, killing Rob Watson instantly and dangerously wounding Jethro Rowe. As they were white caps it is inferred that they were on their way to join the gang of desperadoes, and fell at the hands of their own friends.—Raleigh News and Observer.

There Was Lots of It.

Among a lot of fresh air fund children sent to the seaside last summer was one poor little waif who did not join in the other children's games, but was found alone down on the rocks surveying the ocean. "Wouldn't you like to come and play some games with the other little girls?" she was asked. "Oh, no, sir," said the waif, "I'd rather look at the water." "And what do you find of interest in the water?" "Oh, there's such lots of it," said the waif, enthusiastically, "and it's the only time in my life I ever seed enough of anything."

Listen for Angel Music.

The children at Bethlehem are told by their mothers that on Christmas eve a choir of angels sings above the place where Christ was born. Travelers say that on this evening scores, and sometimes hundreds, of children may be seen in the open air, looking up into the sky, waiting to hear the angels sing.

Ancient Makers of Shoes.

Shoemakers were at first called sandal-makers, and there is little doubt that sandals and rough buskins, or socks (covering the legs like gaiters), were the first specimens of shoes.

HELLO GIRL'S DISCOVERY.

She Listened to the Vibrant Tenor Voice at the 'Phone.

In the Detroit Electrical works there is a night watchman who possesses an exceptionally fine tenor voice, and when he has nothing else to do he sings to keep himself awake, says the Detroit Tribune. Up in the big telephone exchange a dozen girls are told off for night duty. They are, like the tenor, fond of the songs of the day, but, unlike him, they are not allowed to sing, and they grow lonely after the calls begin to be few and far between and the murmur of the street traffic below has ceased.

Some months ago, it is related, one of the girls who had answered a call from the electrical works, overheard the watchman singing his favorite song. She listened as long as she could without arousing the ire of the unmusical individual at the other end of the line, and then confided her discovery to the rest of the girls. There was a short but eager council of war, and the girl who made the discovery was deputed to call up the harmonious watchman and ask him for a song. The watchman, who must be quite a phenomenon in that he is a tenor and also "an extremely bashful young man," required a little coaxing, but eventually complied with the request. All the other girls "cut in" on the line, and the watchman was encored so often that his throat was sore when the concert was finished.

But this unique tenor is as fastidious as he is shy. It is said that there was only one girl at the "central" who can induce him to sing, and she is the maiden who made the original long-distance-concert discovery. When the other girls begin to grow tired at night, she calls up the electrical works, and the watchman sings for her, unconscious of the fact that all the girls have "cut in" on the line, and that he is singing to the entire night force of the exchange. The others hint that there is a romance in it, but that is a matter which concerns only the young watchman and the girl at the "central."

OUR PLAYING CARDS.

Conclusion That the Suits Originated in Arrow-Shaped Characters.

"I have it," exclaimed an enthusiastic whist player who was engaged in a rubber at a Madison avenue whist club, relates the New York Herald.

"No you haven't," answered his partner. "It was trumped."

"I don't mean the trick," replied the first; "I refer to the origin of the characters on the cards. They have always puzzled me. I have studied the matter, read all that has been written on the subject and have never until this moment been satisfied as to how the cards came to bear the shapes we call hearts, diamonds, clubs and spades. Just now, as those spots representing the four suits lay there together, the significance of their forms flashed on me."

"Well what is it?" asked his partner. "Simple as can be," answered the other. "Look at those four suits and see how much alike they are in form. Can't you see they are all arrows? Cuneiform, and no mistake. They quite evidently originated with the old Assyrian inscriptions. I have no doubt that these figures originally represented arrowheads. When the Germans adopted the heart, bell, leaf and acorn on their cards they preserved the ancient form. Here are four varying shapes of the arrowhead, likely coming from four different and opposing tribes. Hence conflict between the suits as we play the game to-day."

The Sea Cucumber.

The sea cucumber, one of the curious jelly bodies that inhabit the ocean, can practically efface himself while in danger by squeezing the water out of his body and forcing himself into a narrow crack, so narrow as not to be visible to the naked eye. He can throw out nearly the whole of his inside, and yet live and grow it again.

"Mama, why don't women take off their hats in church?"
"Because, child, their husbands are not there to tell them when they get their hats on straight."—Chicago Record.

Sub—Would you call Miss Bloomers the lady ex-President of the Female Cyclers' Club, or the "ex-lady President?"
Editor—Bloomers, you say?
Sub—yes.
Editor (crustily)—Ed—Lady, of course.

"I can say of our neighbor, Harkaloug," observed Mr. Tucker, "that he gives away a great deal in charity and that his left hand never know what his right hand is doing."

"Why doesn't he take boxing lessons?" asked Tommy Tucker.—Chicago Tribune

The other day a bulletin reading: "St. Louis struck by a cyclone and wrecked" was sent to London. On the bulletin boards it appeared in this form: "The steamer St. Louis has been wrecked by a cyclone. One thousand lives lost."

It probably never occurred to the Englishmen who posted the bulletin that there is in Missouri a city bearing the same name as the steamship, remarks the Savannah News.

Dr. Denry M. Field, while attending the meetings of the National Editorial Association at St. Augustine, Fla., at which there were present 396 editors, looked them over as they were seated at table in the dining-room, and he was struck by their abstinence. He says: "Sitting near the entrance of the hall and thus seeing from end to end, I did not see a single man touch a glass of wine or mug of lager beer! I confessed that I was surprised at what I could have hardly believed except for the testimony of my own senses, but which was most gratifying, not only for the editorial profession, but for the country which they represent.—The Union Signal.

Making Him Happy.

"And are you really the gentleman who writes those funny things for the morning paper?" asked the ingenuous girl.

"I am," admitted the humorist, with as much modesty as he could command.

"There is one thing I would like to know. What makes you put the name of some other paper after the funniest ones?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.
