IT IS MCKINLEY

THE COUNTRY GOES LARGELY REPUBLICAN.

The Next Congress will have a Large Anti-Silver Majority.

NORTH CAROLINA IN DOUBT.

Both Sides Claim the State.—Fusion Carries Pitt Agau.

It is not good news for the Democrats that the REFLECTOR takes to its readers today. The telegraph company, through the exceeding inefficiency of the Tarboro office, gave us a miserably poor and rotten service, but such news as did come, indicates that Mark Hanna's money and the trusts have carried the day and the country has gone overwhelmingly Republican. We have not space at this time to comment further upon the result, but in what follows you will find the news as it came in the bulletins from 7:30 last night to 4 o'clock this morning.

New York 42 districts give Palmer 2750, McKinley 3721, Bryan 3281.

Dispatch to Chicago National Republican committee gives McKinley plurality by odd.

New York city gives McKinley 14,237, Bryan 12,260, Palmer 647.

New York city indicates a plurality for McKinley. New York State Chair, Hann Hackitt claims at 7 P. M. the State for McKinley by 200,000 plurality.

The vote in West Virginia shows a Republican gain.

Spartanburg, S. C., county gives Bryan 4,500 plurality. Bryan plurality in this State conceded to be large.

Returns in New York city indicate a plurality for McKinley in entire city.

Boston elects eleven Republican Congressmen, one Democrat, John F. Fitzgerald. One district, the tenth, in doubt.

Richmond indicates that Bryan loses heavily in all cities of the State Lynchburg close but vote in McKinley's favor.

New Orleans, 17 precincts gives Bryan 4100 McKinley 400. 40 precincts gives McKinley 8549, Bryan 4794. Levering 53, Palmer 82. In 1892 same districts gave Harrison 22000 Cleveland 3200.

Republican chairman of Kentucky wired at 3 p. m. that the indications are that McKinley would carry the State by 12,000.

78 districts of 3354 outside of New York and Kings counties give Bryan 12,784, McKinley 19,603. Same election districts in 1892 gave Cleveland 13,728, Harrison 15,532.

The Pet Goat.

There are few better pets for a ship than a well conducted goat. She soon gets passionately fond of her quarters and will eat anything from a banana to a marine spike. This goat became a sadly debauched character. She acquired in a few days such a taste for tobacco that she would refuse the most enticing delicacy in the way of green stuff for the noxious weed, and indeed she was never happy without a quid in her jaw. But this was not her worst bad habit. No one on board knew the grog bugle better than she, and punctually she was standing beside the tub at one bell in the afternoon watch, when two glasses of water and one of rum per man are served out to the different messes. There is naturally always a glass or two left when all are served. This was poured into a can, the grog tub turned upside down, the liquor poured into the shallow bottom. Then Nanny drank her tot like a man. It was too absurd to watch her conduct after this. She would skylark with any one, charge up and down the deck, but anybody who came in her way and, in fact, play the "giddy goat" all around for half an hour or so. Then, like many depraved human beings, she would coil herself up in a corner and sleep off the effects of her indulgences.—Chambers' Journal.

Financial Astuteness of a Collie.

One of the features of a popular West-Side retail store is a collie dog that possesses the peculiar faculty of being able to distinguish by their step or touch on the door latch people who "have the price" from those who have not.

For an hour the other day there was a steady stream of people going in and out of the store, but the dog paid no attention to them. Suddenly she jumped from her hiding place and rushed to the door, barking furiously. The door opened, and in came a beggar asking for alms, and the dog kept snarling and barking until he left. Then she retired to her corner and remained fully ten minutes, unmindful of the comers and goers, when suddenly she again bounded to the door and began barking. This time the visitor was one of those insinuating individuals who pretend to buy old clothes, and the dog drove him out without a word of command.

The owner of the collie says she has never been trained to this trick, and he has no idea how she picked it up, but for years she has been able to tell in some mysterious manner before she can see the person whether he is a patron or an objectionable interloper, and she has never made a mistake.—Chicago Tribune.

Foams of Habit.

A laughable story is told of an old miser, who, being at the point of death, resolved to give all his money to a nephew at whose hands he had experienced some little kindness. "Sam," said he, for that was his nephew's name—"Sam, I am about to leave the world, and to leave you all my money. You will then have $50,000. Only think! Yes, I feel weaker and weaker. I think I shall die in two hours. Oh, yes, Sam, I'm going! Give me 2 per cent, and you may take the money now!"

A SECTARIAN MULE.

This Mountain Animal Had Prejudices in the Matter of Sects.

As I jogged along the sandy banks of the Poor fork of the Cumberland river, letting my horse take its own head, I caught up with the mountaineer on a mule, also taking his time. "Good morning," says I. "It's a fine morning for riding."

"Mighty," says he, "ef y'ain't ridin' in a mule."

"I don't know about that; some of the pleasantest rides I've had in the mountains have been mule-back."

"That's case yer didn't have ter ride one only when yer wanted ter. Ef yer do it frum needcessity, it's different."

"That one you're on seems to be a pretty good one."

"'Bout ez good ez a mule ever gits ter be, I reckon," he said in a tone indicating his lack of faith in the mule.

"What's the matter with him?"

"He's got his notions."

"What are they? Notions to kick the top rail off the fence?"

"No; he ain't much uv a kicker; he kinder 'pears ter have a satisfied sort uv mind an takes things pretty much ez they come."

"Then what ails him?"

"Well, I want ter git over on t'other side uv the fork, an I can't till I git up here about two miles whar thar's a boat, so's I kin ride over in that."

"Why don't you ride him over?"

"That's what I don't like about him."

"Why?"

"He's a Baptis' mule an I'm a Meth'dis'."

This was a poser and quite beyond my scope of comprehension. I had heard of religious prejudices, but they had never gone so far as to affect any other animal than man.

"You will have to explain that point," says I. "It's too far over for me."

"Well, it's this a-way," he said, with a short laugh. "Yer see, I got this critter from a Baptis' preacher that had raised him from a colt, an had rid him fer seven ye's on circuit, an wouldn't a parted with him fer no price, only he wuz goin ter Mizoury an couldn't take the mule along. He was a power ter work, an the preacher used ter help out his wages lettin the mule ter people when he wuzn't ridin him. That's how I come ter git him. Well, the preacher never said nothin, an I never axed nothin, an the fust Sunday after I got him I rid off ter the Meth'dis' meetin, never thinkin nothin. About a mile from the meetin house I had ter ford the fork, an the water wuz purty deep that mornin, but the mule knowed the way, an I jis' let him have his head. An, by gum, he done it, fer when he got ter the deepest place he stopped squar' in the crick, tucked his head, h'isted his heels an sent me kitin over his years inter the water whar it wuz four feet deep of it wuz a inch, an soused me clean outen sight."

"Did he run away?" I asked as the mountaineer paused a moment to think over it.

"Nary a run," he said. "When I come up, sneezin an a-snotin, he wuz waitin thar fer me ez quiet ez yer gran'mammy, an I got on an rid out. Yer see," he concluded, "the dern mule knowed I wuz a Meth'dis', an ez he wuz a Baptis', born an raised, he jis' run his doctrine onter me an soused me all over when he had the chance. He's too good a mule ter kill, an ef he ever does that agin I'll kill him shore. So's not ter give him no temptation, I never try no more fordin with him."—Washington Star.

Lincoln's Postoffice Money.

"While at Washington," said Mr. Wanamaker, "it came under my notice at the postoffice department that Abraham Lincoln, in his early life, had been postmaster at a small Ohio town. In the changes that took place the office was consolidated with Salem, and the man twice wanted for president was for once not wanted for postmaster."

"Years afterward it was discovered that no settlement had reached Washington of the affairs of that little postoffice. A visit was made to Mr. Lincoln and the case stated. He rose from his desk and walked over to a chest of drawers and took out a bundle of papers, among them an envelope containing $17 and some cents, the exact sum in identical money of the government safely in keeping until called for. As he handed it over to the agent of the postoffice department he said: 'There it is. I never use any other man's money.'"—Philadelphia Record.

CHOOSING A BRIDE.

A Gay Custom in Russia That Has Its Merry and Sad Aspects.

An ancient custom is yet maintained in Russia at the Christmas season, in which the festivities of the day are made to play a permanent part in the lives of those who are chief in the frolicking.

Some person of importance in the district announces that the annual fete will be held at his house. Thither, at the appointed time, hasten the young men of the countryside; thither come, no less eagerly, but with decorous tardiness, the maidens of the place. There are dances and songs, games and feasting, but all else is but the prelude to the great event, when chance is made the handmaid of love. At the arrival of the proper hour the hostess gives a signal and withdraws into an apartment, accompanied by all the girls. The lasses are ranged upon long benches, where they pose, a tittering phalanx of freshness and beauty, with naught in their smiling affability to suggest that a scratch on blooming cheek might reveal the Tartar.

The hostess is supplied with long strips of broad cloth, and with this she straightway muffles each and every maiden. She twists it deftly over and about the head, until hair and features are hopelessly veiled; she winds it about the neck, the shoulders, the waist and on until the sprightly and lissom figure of the girl is merged in the rude outlines of a papoose.

This is the preparation. The action follows, when one by one, in an order determined by lot, the young men of the party enter the room. Each in turn approaches the veiled row of loveliness and examines it. Eyes and ears are useless; touch is everything. The puzzled suitor seeks to penetrate the baffling folds and locate the personality of his idol. When at last he has made his choice, he is privileged to remove the swaddling clothes and behold the identity of his prize. This is the consummation—the moment of rapture or despair when soul answers soul in the love light of the eyes, or when disappointment speaks in the stifled sigh or shows in the averted eye.

It is the law of custom that this twain should become man and wife. If the custom is broken, a heavy forfeit must be paid by the unwilling person. But it is rarely that happiness fails in the result. Chance, it is well known, is open to a bribe. And the lovers who would fail to offer her bribes would hardly deserve happiness. In their whispers before the hour of trial amorous conspiracies for the cheating of ill fortune are made, and the lover may depend upon his ingenious innamorata to convey to him the concerted signal whereby will be determined her identity and their mutual happiness. —New York Herald.

Disappearance of the Quaker.

We take it that the Quaker idea of cultivating "the stillness and the quietness" which have so great an effect upon their children's education is identical in effect with that practice of "retreat" for which thousands of minds in our fussy generation have so deep and we may add so ineffectual a longing. Even their peculiarities of dress and language have long since ceased to excite ridicule and are hardly more distinctive than those of earnest socialists or of the newest successful Protestant denomination. Perfect toleration, however, which has benefited so many creeds, has almost killed the Quakers, and in the hour of triumph of their most prominent ideas their society is dying, or nearly dying, of want of votaries. They have leavened the community, and they are being absorbed into it. One would have thought that thousands of families would have joined their communion as a kind of intellectual "retreat," safe from the pressure of a battling world, but it is not so, and if they have not for a few years actually decreased they are never without the apprehension that, in this country at least, they may disappear, swallowed up in the multitude of those who agree with and yet do not belong to their communion. —London Spectator.

The Siege of Lisbon.

When Lisbon was besieged by the Spanish in the fifteenth century, such Portuguese as were captured were maimed. Their eyes were put out, their noses, lips or ears were cut off, their finger nails or fingers amputated, and in this miserable plight they were sent back into the city with the announcement that when it was taken all the defenders would be similarly treated.

Avenging Amuck.

A Malay is intolerant of insult or slight; it is something that to him should be wiped out in blood. He will brood over a real or fancied stain on his honor until he is possessed by the desire for revenge. If he cannot wreak it on the offender, he will strike out at the first human being that comes in his way, male or female, old or young. It is this state of blind fury, this vision of blood, that produces the amuck. The Malay has often been called treacherous. I question whether he deserves the reproach more than other men. He is courteous and expects courtesy in return, and he understands only one method of avenging personal insults.—Malay Sketches.

A Shaker Cure.

Among the Shakers there is a singular and very ingenious medicinal custom. If a member of the fraternity has taken cold, her companions seriously set themselves to work to make her angry. They make disagreeable personal remarks about her until she blushes with indignation. Then her blood is heated, and the theory is she will be able to throw off the chill from which she has been suffering.

Lion Strength.

For a short distance a lion or tiger can outrun a man and can equal the speed of a fast horse, but they lose their wind at the end of half a mile at most. They have little endurance and are remarkably weak in lung power. Their strength is the kind which is capable of a terrific effort for a short time.

Education, briefly, is the leading human minds and souls to what is right and best and to making what is best out of them. The training which makes men happiest in themselves also makes them most serviceable to others.—Ruskin.

DRESS GOODS.

It gives us pleasure to announce that we are now displaying the most extensive and attractive stock of wool Dress Fabrics ever imported by us, selected with the utmost care as to desirability of weave, beauty of effect and excellence of quality; the result has been to enable us to present a superb variety of superior grade goods in a truly wonderful assortment of the most recent creations of wool and silk and wool "fashion's favorites."

Handsome materials and fashionable fabrics will be difficult to obtain this season, for the reason that importation are much below the average, particularly in fine silks and dress fabrics, and the American manufacturers have been obliged to curtail their productions.

Each department of our business is fully prepared to show the newest and correct materials, styles and colorings for fall and winter, and we strongly recommend an early examination of the various departments.

Wilson Air-Tight Heater.

With Patent Automatic Smoke Doors.

The Wilson Heater, which is a stove for house heating, is the most remarkable that has ever been patented.

In the first place it radiates more heat than any stove known, and will save 25 per cent. in fuel over any stove made.

Second, with two or three ordinary sticks of pine stove wood it will keep the fire from 36 to 48 hours, and with ordinary care the fire will never go out.

Third, being entirely closed at the base there is no danger of fire, and it is the cleanest stove in use. It is not necessary to remove the ashes oftener than once a month. These stoves are made of different styles—the small one, which is made for bed-rooms, is especially recommended for health as well as comfort.

The Wilson Heater has a great advantage over any similar stove, because it has Patent Automatic Smoke Doors, which prevent the smoke from coming into the room when you take the top off to put in the wood. These doors are so constructed that they can be taken off and put back on in one minute. These stoves can be seen our store, come and look at them.
