ORIGINAL OBSERVATION.

Eternal indigestion is the price of Christmas pie.

To accumulate dollars you must have sense to start with.

You had better resolve not to make any new resolutions for this year.

Worms are better friends than are the people who seek to fatten on us before death.

It may require more time and means to raise a flower than a weed, but the market is better.

The friend who tells you what to do and not to do is a greater nuisance than an avowed enemy.

The groceryman is a person of great valor, for he always has plenty of "sand"—when the sugar requires it.

A woman will spend more time in selecting one bonnet than a man will in choosing hats during his whole lifetime.—Orange (Va.) Observer.

Superior Court.

January term of Pitt Superior Court convened this morning, Judge W. S. O'B. Robinson presiding. Judge Robinson has been on the bench for two years, but this is his first court in Pitt county. His charge to the grand jury was a good one, and he spoke very plainly and forcibly on such crimes as are most degrading and immoralizing to society, and urged the jurors to use their best efforts to put down such. The moral tone of the charge ought to have a good effect. It is well that Judges should sometime talk on morality, virtue and sobriety, as the masses of the people often stand sorely in need of instruction on these things.

The juries for this week are as follows:

GRAND JURY.

W. R. Parker, Foreman, W. H. Adams, Nasby Mills, J. L. Thigpen, C. C. Case, Sherrod White, J. S. Brown, Oscar Johnson, J. J. Evans, J. T. Tugwell, W. H. Jenkins, Warren Langley, H. H. Hardy, M. C. Manning, J. H. Beardsley, John G. Taylor, N. H. Stokes and George Mooring. Officer of the jury W. S. Briley.

PETIT JURY.

David Hyman, G. W. Pittman, Jos. Tripp, James Brown, M. M. Stokes, W. J. Warbritton, S. D. Overton, W. O. Barnhill, R. C. Council, J. H. Starkey, A. E. Garris, Fred Cannon, L. H. Worthington.

Will Celebrate Their Tin Wedding.

The REFLECTOR acknowledges receipt of a ticket of invitation from Judge and Mrs. W. J. Montgomery, to be present at the tin wedding of their daughters, (Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Register, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sherrill) Tuesday evening, Jan. 5th, 1897, at half past eight o'clock, Concord, N. C. It would give us very great pleasure to be able to attend. Mr. Sherrill is editor of the Concord Times, and secretary and treasurer of the North Carolina Press Association.

What the Old Man Worships.

One day last week a number of the King's Daughters went out to the County Home to take some Christmas goodies and serve a dinner to the inmates. One of the good ladies not forgetting the opportunity for some missionary work along with other good deeds, asked an antiquated and dilapidated colored inmate if he knew why we celebrate Christmas every year. The amazement of the ladies can be well imagined when the old man replied: "La, yes, Missus, its fer de publikin party."

OTHER LOCALS.

The schools all opened this morning. County Commissioners in session today.

The best paper in which to advertise is the one which possesses the confidence of the community in the highest degree. The high character of the paper will throw a mantle of credence over all of the advertising in its columns.—Charles Austin Bates.

Boiling Wells.

Out in Mr. T. A. Nichols' neighborhood, in Beaver Dam township, there is a sensation. The cause is the rather peculiar action of certain wells. Since the December snow three wells in the same vicinity have gone to boiling. All over the bottom of the wells the water boils and bubbles like a pot, and there is an accompanying singing noise that can be heard some distance away from the wells. The boiling seems to have no effect at all on the water, neither changing the temperature nor muddying it. Some of the neighbors don't know what to think of the wells and are getting uneasy about them.

Skinner and Butler.

The Wash'ngton Star says according to a prominent North Carolina Republican in the city the senatorial situation down there has developed a new and unexpected phase. Representative Harry Skinner, Populist, has been in favor of the election of Senator Pritchard from the beginning in the event Pritchard would pledge himself to act with the silver men on financial questions. In case of Pritchard's refusal Skinner has had an eye on the place himself. He is now said to have become unconditionally in favor of the election of Pritchard, and is doing all he can for his election. This position, it is said, has led Skinner to diplomatically notify Senator Butler that if he persists in his opposition to Pritchard he, Skinner, will oppose the re-election of Butler four years from now and will be a candidate himself. If Butler will cease his fight on Pritchard Skinner will let Butler come back to the Senate without Populist opposition.

There may be some truth in this story, which will interest North Carolina politicians until the election is settled. If the populists vote for and re-elect Pritchard this time it will no doubt be with an understanding that they are to have the senator four years from now. Not even Skinner would consent to the populist voting for Pritchard unless with a clear understanding on this point. If Skinner sticks to Pritchard and helps him to pull through the supposition is that Pritchard will back Skinner four years from now with republican aid, this jeopardizing the chances of Senator Butler, who has arrayed himself strongly against the republicans this time, and who has incurred their ill will. An arrangement like this, it is said, would be almost a guarantee to Skinner that he could succeed Butler.

Skinner has been the only populist in North Carolina to defy the leadership of Butler, and for this reason Butler mistrusts him. It is known that Butler would not consent to the election of Skinner this time if he could help it.

The situation altogether is said to be the knottiest that Senator Butler has tackled. If he loses this time, with an understanding between Skinner and Pritchard, he will probably have lost his seat in the Senate. If he succeeds in defeating Pritchard his hold on North Carolina politics will have become strengthened and he will be able to succeed himself. Knowing these facts Senator Butler is said to be working every combination he can to defeat Pritchard. The latter's victory is the undoing of the former, unless he should be able to overcome a powerful republican and populist combination which would have for its object his slaughter.

The Death Roll of 1896.

The State has lost heavily of its strong men of all vocations during the past year. It is a sad reflection that comes to one in running over the files of a paper to note the passing away of useful and patriotic citizens, many of them in the prime of life, others gathered like ripened sheaves. Those most widely known whose death this paper has recorded in the year that was rung out last night were: William G. Upchurch of Wake, Dr. W. M. Clark of Franklin, Capt W. F. Drummond of the Seaboard Air Line, Capt. Wm. H. Smith of Halifax, Dr. Columbus Durham of Wake, John H. Watson of Orange, George W. Blount of Wilson, David B. Gaither of Catawba, Rev. C. F. Harris, D. D., of Guilford, Col. Robert L. Steele of Richmond, Alfred Williams of Wake, J. A. Womack of Chatham, Col. Duncan Shaw of Cumberland, Dr. John T. Finlay of Wilkes, A. B. Pierce, of Halifax, Edgar W. Nye (Bill Nye) of Buncombe, Dr. Lucian Hanks of Chatham, Hon. George Davis of New Hanover, Hon. Charles W. McClammy of Pender, Maj. John Cox Windar of Wake, Rev. G. W. Harman of Halifax, Col. Wm J. Martin of Mecklenburg, Rev. W. R. Warwick of the North Carolina Conference, ex-Governor Thomas M. Holt of Alamance, Edward M. Nadal of Wilson, Col. John E. Brown of Mecklenburg, Hon. John H. Dillard of Greensboro, Wm. B. McKoy of Harnett, Rev. Thomas H. Pritchard, D. D., of Mecklenburg, Col. William Johnston of Mecklenburg, Dr. John D. Bellamy of New Hanover, Maj. A. M. Lewis of Wake, Rev. J. B. Bobbitt, D. D., of Wake, William W. Vass of Wake, Rev. W. W. Albea of Forsyth, Dr. B. A. Sellers of Alamance, Dr. W. G. Stephens of Caswell, Dr. L. L. Sasser of Johnston, Col. Paul F. Faison of Wake, Rev. R. B. Sutton, D. D., of Wake, Rev. W. B. Doub of Durham, Rev. T. W. Guthrie of Richmond, Dr. D. T. Mallard of Buncombe; George M. Hardin, Sr., of Durham, Robt. E. Carr of Durham, Dr. Robert D. Dickson of Richmond, Dr. Wm. B. Meares of Davidson, E. D. McNair of Edgecombe, Wm. B. Boyd of Craven, Rev. L. L. Hendren of Craven, W. P. Simpson of Wilson, Maj. A. D. Crudup of Vance, Col. E. D. Hall of New Hanover, Rev. Daniel Keid of the North Carolina Conference, Capt. C. M. D. McCauley of Union, John L. Westcott of Brunswick, Rufus Galloway of Brunswick, Rev. J. B. Bailey of the North Carolina Conference, J. W. Goslin of Forsyth, Prof. R. M. Browning of Guilford, Geo. W. Thompson, Sr., of Chatham, and Maj. Sidney M. Finger of Catawba.

These men and others, whose names we do not now recall, have been among the States foremost sons in every department of life. They will be sadly missed in the years that are to come when the roll is called for patriotic action and useful service.—Raleigh News and Observer.

The State of Virginia makes $50,000 a year by the labor of her penitentiary convicts, but the complainants made that they are crowded like cattle in their cells. Some of the papers are justly scoring the authorities for this, and contend that if the State sells the products of the labor of the convicts at such profit she should sell the convicts more like human beings than like cattle.—Greensboro Record.

Sensible Talk.

The following timely suggestions from Raleigh Press-Visitor. What our contemporary says is worthy of heeding and acting upon and as such we commend the advice to our readers both in town and country.

The five wide-awake, practical and sensible people of today are those who are looking ahead and not those who are loitering in the recollections of the events of yesterday. We have had the turmoil and upheaval of an election and the hilarity and merry making of a Christmas tide and the next thing in order is to look forward to the work which will unfold itself before us with the new year. The Press-Visitor, after the bickerings of political strife and the jolity and mirth of the holiday seasons bespeaks its readers a prosperous season of actual prosperity and bids them set their faces towards compassing it. Let us fall to business industry with renewed zeal and energy. There is nothing more healthy for the individual man or for the community at large than for every one to push his business, and now that the diversions of the fall and midwinter have passed into history let us put our shoulders to the wheel with a vim and let us make the thrill of reviving commercial activity felt in our community and all around it.

A Good Platform For 1897.

The Manufacturers Record, of Baltimore, in its first issue of 1897, makes the following address to its "esteemed contemporaries in the South."

"Suppose we all unite for 1897 in a persistent effort to awaken public interest in material affairs, to encourage home enterprises, to give special attention to all new undertakings, to discourage all political demagogism, to frown down every attempt to arouse hostility to capital, to do all that is possible to make the South a safe and attractive place for the investment of money, to untiring work to show our people the importance of immigration and the equal importance of encouraging the immigrants who do come. This is a common platform on which the "gold bug," the "silver bug," the "straddle bug" and all other "bugs" except the humbug can unite to the everlasting benefit of the South, and thus of every individual who engages in the work. Are you ready?"

There is hardly a country under the sun in which tobacco is not used and grown, and yet, it is only within the past few years that an attempt has been made to cultivate it for commercial purposes in those of our States which were looked upon as outside of the tobacco belt. Now it is grown to a greater or less extent in nearly every State in the Union, and also grown to a greater or less extent in nearly every country in the world. The average world's crop is estimated as 2,200,000 hogsheads, of 1,000 pounds each, of which the United States produce 530,000 hogsheads, British India comes next with 385,000 hogsheads, Russia next with 154,000, Austria-Hungary following with 143,000. China produces 110,000 hogsheads, Germany 77,000, Cuba, Duch India and Turkey in Europe 66,000 each, Brazil 60,000, Japan 49,000, France 44,000, the Philippine Islands, 44,000, Persia 40,000, Turkey in Asia 33,000, the Cape Colony 22,000, Bosnia and Herzegovina 20,000, Columbia 12,000, Belgium 10,000, Algiers and San Domingo 9,000 each, Argentina, Paraguay, Mexico, Porto Rico, Australia, Holland and Greece 6,000 each, while other European and Asiatic countries all raise some. With a showing like this, the question should not be where "tobacco can be grown" but where it can't be.—Wilmington Star.

In the Same Boat.

A student at Williamstown college had been married a short time previous to entering the college and was led to fear that this fact might debar him from enjoying some of the privileges of the institution. Accordingly, in a great state of perturbation, he called to see President Hopkins. After some conversation the young man at last managed to stammer, with a crimson face, apropos of something entirely irrelevant, "I—I am a married man!" "Ah," said President Hopkins, smiling at him with great benignity, "so am I." And there the student's trouble ended.—San Francisco Argonaut.
