THE LEGISLATURE.

Condensed Report of Proceedings.

NINTH DAY.

HOUSE.

At 11 o'clock Dr. Dixon, of Cleveland, opened the House with prayer.

There was quite a rush of bills. Among these were the following:

Cunningham, to require a duplicate of each bill introduced to be furnished.

Adams, to repeal the act providing for tax-collectors for each township in Wake.

Dewese, to amend the school law so as to strike out "chairman of county commissioners" and insert "register of deeds."

Dockery, to allow Richmond county to levy a special tax.

Ensley, of Jackson, to amend the stock law so that the expense of changing boundary fence in territory released be paid by the property-holders in such district or territory, but these not be liable for cost of repairs.

Sutton, of Cumberland, that R. P. Buxton, F. P. Williamson, D. A. Bryant, Nicholas Brown and James R. Deal be trustees of the Fayetteville Colored Normal School.

Sutton, to amend the homestead law so that whenever a homesteader with the assent of his wife shall convey the homestead allotted him he shall be entitled to have another allotted upon any lands he may have.

Sutton, to amend the law of homicide.

Arrington, to amend the charter of the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad so its track may be straightened at curves.

Peace, to amend the law as to lynching, so as to allow damages to the amount of $5,000.

Dixon, of Cleveland, to protect female clerks, by requiring that in stores, etc., where they are employed seats be provided for them for use when they are not at work.

Allen, to amend the stock law so no election shall be ordered unless petitioned for by a majority of the qualified voters, instead of one-fifth.

Chapin, to create a police board for Shelby, to consist of S. S. Marks, H. K. Winslow, W. P. Beam, J. H. McBrayer and L. A. Gettings, to hold office two years and to have the appointment of all the town officials.

Smith, of Johnston, requiring every railroad ticket sold to have the amount of purchase money paid for it marked thereon.

Smith, to provide that the buyer and not the seller of cotton shall pay weigher's fees at Goldsboro.

Sut on, of Cumberland, introduced a resolution asking Congress to re-build the United States arsenal at Fayetteville, which was burned in April, 1865.

SENATE.

The Senate was called to order by Lieutenant-Governor Reynolds at 12 o'clock, and after prayer by Rev. H. W. Norris, of this city.

The following bills and resolutions were introduced and referred:

Smathers, to amend secs. 1199 and 1200 of The Code, relating to challenges of jurors.

Person, a bill to make wire fences lawful fences in Edgecombe county; also to enact a curfew ordinance for all the towns and cities of North Carolina.

Scales, to amend sec. 7577 of The Code in regard to claims against cities.

McCarthy, resolution to clean and ventilate the Senate.

Moye, to establish a scale of fees for registers of deeds.

Anthony, to amend sec. 1273 of The Code in regard to chattel mortgages.

McNeil, to amend chap. 439, laws of 1895, in regard to the examination of school teachers.

The calendar was taken up and the McCarthy resolution in regard to cleaning and renovating the Senate was put before the Senate: "That the Senate adjourn to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock until Monday at 4 p. m. and in the meantime the doorkeeper take up the carpet and thoroughly clean the Senate."

McCaskey, Ashburn, Moye and Wakefield opposed the resolution as too expensive.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Senator John Sherman, of Ohio, will be Secretary of State in President McKinley's cabinet.

In their caucus at Raleigh Friday night, the Populists nominated Cyrus Thompson for the Senate. There is no telling yet, however, who will be elected by the Legislature, as the war over Pritchard wages as hard as ever.

ROCHDALE ITEMS.

ROCHDALE, N. C., Jan. 18.—Not seeing any Rochdale sprouts in a long time, I concluded to sow a few seed, thinking, peradventure, some of them might germinate and be of interest to some of your readers at least.

The most of us are enjoying a dull time. Farmers are hard down preparing for another crop, though none are sowing tobacco seed yet as I know of. They will soon be at it. Some are going to quit tobacco and others are going to reduce their crop, so I think there will not be as much planted this year as last. We believe in hog and hominy.

R. A. Willoughby says a hawk came to his place about three weeks ago, and getting caught in a steel trap carried the trap off. Last week the hawk came back, and after coming two or three nights and killing a chicken every time he went in the poultry house one morning and stayed until the chickens had all gone out. Bob Willoughby was passing and seeing the hawk on the roost went to the house for a gun and killed him. The hawk had the steel trap on one of his toes. So you see after keeping the trap for three weeks he returned it in good order. I think it can be safely said that Mr. Willoughby has more hawk feet than any man in the county. I counted about 60 one day last year.

If Madam Rumor is correct it is likely that marriage bells will be ringing in our neighborhood before these items get to your readers, that is if they do not find their way into the waste basket instead of the paper.

Essays for the Next State Press Convention.

(Concord Times.)

President R. R. Clark has appointed the following essayists for the meeting of the North Carolina Press Association for 1897.

"The Semi-Weekly for Country Towns; Its Advantages and Disadvantages"—W. S. Herbert, Kingston Free Press.

"The Country Weekly as a Newspaper; Should It Cultivate the Local Field Exclusively, or Should It Endeavor Also to Embrace the General Field?"—W. F. Marshall, Gastonia Gazette.

"The Business End of a Newspaper, the Best Methods of Soliciting Advertising and Subscriptions; Can the Cash-in-Advance System Be Strictly Maintained?"—Thad. R. Manning, Henderson Gold Leaf.

"Journalism and Politics; Can the Newspaper Best Serve Its Constituency as a Party Organ or an Independent Journal?"—A. S. Dockery, Rockingham Index.

How the Meeting "Busted."

The late W. A. Conchman, of Clark county, Ky., was the perpetrator of an extraordinary practical joke. Returning from a hunting trip one evening, he was attracted to a country church where a revival was in progress. After watching the services for awhile he climbed up on the roof to get a better view through the hole where a stovepipe was meant to go. In the excitement of the evening one of the congregation shouted out "Gabriel, blow your horn! I'm ready to go!" The temptation was too great for Conchman, and, putting his horn to his lips, he blew a blast through the flue-hole, and stampeded the congregation to a man. The grand jury discussed the propriety of indicting the sacrilegious hunter, but no proceedings were taken against him.—Washington Post.

HOME

I care not how in reckless rout The rude winds blow the leaves about; Nor how in summer vale serene They toss the gray above the green. I have—here where no cold winds be A kindly cot that covereth me, And one whose smile can cheer and charm

In the strong circle of my arm. Vain is the winter icy art. While her dear love doth warm my heart.

Within arc lights and shadows shed On sweet wee forms tucked up in bed. Hath glory such alluring gleams As children smiling in their dreams? O, world of waste and wintry snow, Give me but this—my fire-side's glow A shelter in the storm and strife, With love of little ones and wife And I shall yield all other art For that sweet love that warms my heart!

Lee's Son Failed to Pass the West Point Examination.

Among the thirty members of the United States Military Academy at West Point who were recently discharged as a result of the semi annual examinations, is Geo. Mason Lee, of Virginia. Lee is a son of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, Consul General to Havana. He is 18 years old, and was admitted to West Point last fall. Before entering the military academy young Lee was a cadet at the Virginia Military Institute, at Lexington, Va. He is the first member of the Lee family that has ever attended West Point who has not made a record in military tactics and studies. His grandfather, Gen. Robert E. Lee, the leader of the Southern Confederacy, received his military training at West Point, and was graduated first in his class. His father, Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, also took high rank at the same school.

Trade Under the McKinley Bill.

The assertion is made in evident good faith that in 1892 under the McKinley bill we had the heaviest foreign trade of our history. Those who make it are liable to deceive both themselves and others unless they get at the reality behind the figures they quote.

In anticipation of the passage of the bill, European exporters crowded this market with their products until the total of our imports for 1892 was increased a dollar a head of population. This resulted in moving out in 1892 a volume of our exports averaging $15.53 a head of population, but next year, when the bill had been in operation long enough to check in goods, exports dropped to $12.44—a loss of over $3 a head. The percentage of agricultural products exported in 1892 reached 78.69. Manufactured goods and products of the mines together were thus less than a quarter of the whole. Last year under the Wilson bill the gain in exports of manufactured goods had been so heavy that farm products were only 66 per cent of the total.

Our heaviest years of exports were 1880, with $16.43 for each head of our population; 1881, with $17.23 a head, and 1892, with $15.53 a head. In total foreign trade 1892 was $1 a head of population below 1880 and $2 below 1881, while 1893, a McKinley year, with only $25.08 in foreign trade to the head of population, was $3 a head below the foreign trade of 1873.

The threat of the McKinley bill increased exports by increasing imports. As soon as the law went into operation it began to suppress imports, and of course to force down exports in so much. This is what the figures show and they are official.—New York World.

A Case Without Parallel.

A negro woman, whose name we did not learn, was killed at Conover Saturday. For some reason the woman was tired of life and determined to commit suicide. She went to a well and putting some boards across it tied a rope around the cross beam and around her neck for the purpose of hanging herself. While making these arrangements the boards slipped from over the well and the woman fell into it. The rope broke and she was precipitated to the bottom of the well. When taken out the woman was unconscious and died in a short while. A piece of the rope was around her neck and is supposed to have assisted in her death. We have learned no further particulars of the affair.—Hickory Times.

Found in a Gold Mine.

The field around the Rudisill gold mine is full of abandoned shafts of various depths. A local gold mining prospector who was examining some of these shafts yesterday, explored one that was 60 feet deep and from the bottom of which a 30 foot tunnel opened. The mouth of the shaft was overgrown with briars and bushes. When he reached the bottom of the shaft he found evidences of animal life and exploring the tunnel he found a family of eight rabbits, a cat a dog and one possum. They all appeared to be in good condition, but what they existed upon was a mystery. He captured the whole family, turning the cat and dog at liberty and taking the rabbits and possum home.—Charlotte Observer.

A little while ago we read from some doctor that bananas were the greatest, most nourishing and healthful food in the world, and now comes a New York doctor who insists that eating them raw is the next thing to suicide, and that they should always be baked. Now we are looking for some one to insist that ice cream should be boiled and watermelons roasted.

A Rowan man man tells the Stateville Landmark of an incident in that county that is a little out of the usual run. At the last election three of the candidates on the fusion county ticket in Rowan had two sons each, all old enough to vote. Every one of the six sons were strong Democrats and every one of them voted against his father.

Napoleon and Robert Fulton. The emperor had revealed the truth to his favorite brother when he said that he himself would never attempt a landing on British shores, but that he might send Ney to Ireland. It is a significant straw that when Robert Fulton offered to make the flotilla independent of wind and wave by the use of steam Napoleon, the apostle of science, friend of Monge and Volney, member of the Institute, displayed very little scientific interest. For some time past he had been coquetting with the American inventor, granting him inadequate subsidies to prosecute his schemes for applying steam power to various marine engines of destruction. He probably intended to keep others from using Fulton's inventions. That he made no fair trial of them himself would seem to show that he had no real use for them.—"Life of Napoleon," by Pro-

LIFE IN GREAT CITIES.

Some of the Moral Dangers as Seen by Professor Adler.

"The Moral Dangers of Life in a Great City" formed the theme of Professor Felix Adler's recent lecture in Carnegie hall. Among other things he said:

Among the difficulties of bringing up children in the city is the getting of right associates for them. The moral relation of neighborliness is obliterated in a city. We don't know our next door neighbor. We don't know whether it is proper to allow our children to associate with others. The most powerful educators of a child are his associates. If you send your child to a school attended by children of the wealthy, these children will probably have the outward polish of politeness, but to take that for good morals is the worst mistake in the world. If you send your child to a public school, you can have no idea as to what associations he may form. A remedy for this would be the establishment of endowed schools, from which the improper class could be weeded out. The public school evils could be mitigated by making the classes smaller, by the establishment of disciplinary schools and by paying more attention to development of character as the aim and end of education.

Another evil of cities is the repression of children in play, which is the exercise of faculties for the pleasure of exercising them. Repression of play injures the child physically and morally. In the cities he is forbidden to shout, to walk on the grass in the parks or to pick flowers, and the tenement house children have no resource from their two or three room homes but the streets. The things they learn there we all know. Children should have winter as well as summer excursions to the country. They should have playgrounds in summer and play halls in winter in the city.

My second point is the perversion of the play instinct among adults.

We must all play. It is the preservative of the mature. We need this if we would keep them fresh and elastic. Bright conversation, music, the drama and games are modes of play. Chess, checkers, whist, are all healthful methods of play, but you pervert all this the moment you play for a stake, for the efficacy of play is bringing the faculties into disinterested exercise with no object aimed at. Otherwise it becomes something else—gambling, for instance.

Among the causes of gambling is the love of excitement, which is one of the most prominent moral evils of city life. This excitement causes nervous diseases among women and nervous prostration among men. It causes the craving for the newspaper. Many men of education never read anything but a newspaper. There is a bubbling excitement of the brain which the newspaper feeds—it gives you something that will fix your restless mind for a moment. To check this excitement, form the habit of solid, consecutive reading of books.

Another cause of perversion of the play instinct is the desire to have something for which we have rendered no equivalent. This is at the bottom of many of the social evils of the day. In gambling the winner has no right to the winnings because he has not earned them, and the loser has no right to lose—he has no right to squander wealth that he or some one else has earned. Every gentleman should object to a dollar, as a thievish dollar, that he has not earned, or some one for him.—New York Tribune.

Bronze Turkeys.

John Chamberlain, the epicurean hotel keeper, prides himself on the discovery to the outer world of the superior excellence of the Rhode Island turkey in firmness and sweetness of flesh and delicacy of flavor. These celebrated birds are the progeny of ancestors imported from England, and the hue of their plumage has given them the other name of "Bronze turkeys."

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Monthly Illustrated

Edited by ALBERT SHAW

"If only one magazine can be taken, we would suggest the REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as covering more ground than any other magazine."—Board of Library Commissioners of New Hampshire, 1896.

THIS magazine is, in its contributed and departmental features, what its readers, who include the most noted names of the English-speaking world, are pleased to call "absolutely up to date," "thoroughly abreast of the times," "invaluable," and "indispensable." It is profusely illustrated with timely portraits, views, and cartoons. Its original articles are of immediate interest, by the best authorities on their respective subjects. The Editor's "Progress of the World" gives a clear, rightly proportioned view of the history of the human race during the current month. The "Leading Articles of the Month" present the important parts of the best magazine articles that have been written in every part of the world. The newest and most important books are carefully reviewed. Indexes, chronological records, and other departments complete the certainty that the reader of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS will miss nothing of great significance that is said or written or done throughout the world.

THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

TO THE PEOPLE OF PITT COUNTY:

Our energies have never relaxed. Our efforts have never ceased to give you the best selected stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

from which to select your purchases. We confidently believe and unhesitatingly claim that ours is the store of all stores in our county from which to

for the coming year. Goods are sold on time and at close credit prices to customers of approved credit.

Goods sold for cash at figures that tell of the wonderful influence of gold, silver or greenbacks. When they enter into our possession they are again converted into the

we can buy for the benefit of our many friends and customers. Do not hesitate or be led away, but come back to your friends, who will take care of your interest and work the harder to make of you a stronger customer and better friend of straight forward, honest dealing between man and man.

We are the friend of the rich man, poor man, of you all. See us and be treated right at the People's Store.

ADRIAN SAVAGE.

Our Oldest Native Citizen.

On Friday, 15th, Mr. Correlius Kinsaul celebrated the 79th anniversary of his birth. He is the oldest native born white person now living in Greenville. We all hope that "Uncle Neal" may have many more happy years.

IN A NEW PLACE.

My many friends and customers can now find me in the Phoenix building, one door north of the Greenville Bank. I have purchased the S. M. Daniel stock, and combining my own with it am now prepared to serve your wants from one of the largest and best selected stocks of fresh family

Change in Mail Route Agents.

The postal department has changed the route agents on the Weldon and Kinston and A. & N. C. railroads; by taking off Mr. M. N. Hales and putting him on as helper between Baltimore and Pittsburg, Owen Parrott has all the work on the A. & N. C. R. route, and Mr. H. H. Wilson has all the work on the Weldon and Kinston road.

Several years ago there were two route agents on the A. & N. C. R. R. alone. Before the last change three agents did all the work on both roads, each working two weeks and laying off one week.

Mr. Hales' salary is cut from $1,000 to $900 a year. Mr. Wilson gets $1,000, the same salary as before, and Owen Parrott gets the same.—Kinston Free Press.
