THE LEGISLATURE.

Condensed Report of Proceedings.

THIRTEENTH DAY.

SENATE.

The Senate was called to order at 11 o'clock by the Lieutenant-Governor.

Prayer by ex-Rev. T. W. Babb, who has been here since the opening of the session lobbying for Pritchard.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Justice, to repeal chapter 277, laws of 1895, relative to divorce, and to amend chapter 117, laws of 1895, relative to sales by trustees and mortgagees.

Walker, in relation to the probate of wills.

Maxwell, to place the name of Jones R. Smith, of Wayne county, on the pension roll in grade one.

Sharp to incorporate the town of Bridgersville, Wilson county.

Smathers, to amend chapter 277, laws of 1895, adding an additional cause of divorce.

Hardison, to place Lott W. Tippett, of Onslow county, on the pension roll in grade two.

Early, to incorporate Bertie County Conference Association.

HOUSE.

The House was called to order at 11 o'clock, Speaker Hileman in the chair.

BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Daniels, for the relief of R. W. Smith, ex sheriff of Dare county.

Hauser, to place the name of Louis Grady, of Kinston, Lenoir county, a private soldier in Company I, from the regiment of N. C. Cavalry in the late war between the States, on the pension roll.

Conley, to incorporate the Commercial Bank of Marion,

Duffy, to amend section 2124 of The Code, relating to appeals from assignments of widow's years' support.

Allen, to pay J. A. MacRae money due by Randolph county for teaching district school No. 27.

Young, to compensate clerks for tabulating election returns.

Wemyss, to designate the duties and fix the compensation of the boards of county commissioners.

Harris of Halifax, to repeal section 72, chapter 159, Public Laws of 1895, relative to election expenses.

Elliott, to incorporate the Burial Society, No. 1, of Edenton, N. C.

Sutton of New Hanover, to allow active firemen, belonging to regular organized fire companies of the city of Wilmington, the amount of their city poll-tax.

Person of Wayne, to prevent sending committees to the penal and charitable and educational institutions of the State.

McKenzie, to pay special venire in capital cases (amending section 1739 of The Code.)

Babbitt, to repeal so much of chapter 173 entitled "An act to protect the cutters and sellers of mill logs in the counties of Hyde, Pamlico and Onslow, as relates to the county of Pamlico.

Person, to incorporate the town of Bridgersville, Wilson county.

Bring Back That Mule.

Jim Starkey is greatly distressed over the loss of a valuable mule. He bought the animal Thursday for the large sum of 20 cents. The animal was put in the stable and not long after was found down in the stall. It cost him 15 cents more to get that mule back on his feet. A generous supply of corn revived the animal and for awhile it looked like Jim would be ready to run a crop this year, but upon going out this morning to feed up again the mule showed up missing. A liberal reward will be paid for the return of the aforesaid mule.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Congressman Harry Skinner came home from Raleigh, Thursday evening, where he had been spending much time at work for Pritchard while the people had a right to expect him, and are paying him, to be in Washington. It is no more honorable for a Congressman to thus leave the duties the people pay him to perform than it is for a farm hand or other laborer to slip off from his employer when he ought to be at work. The REFLECTOR believes a Congressman's salary ought to be docked for willful lost time.

Homicide in Edgecombe.

[Special to REFLECTOR.]

TARBORO, N. C., Jan. 22—Last night at Knights, a small station on the Norfolk & Carolina railroad about 8 miles from here, a white man named Lee shot and killed a negro named Stephens.

It seems that Lee's son had, in the morning, struck his (Lee's) mother for some cause, and this negro, Stephens, appeared against young Lee in the trial. So young Lee's father went to Stephens' house last night, called the latter out and shot him with No. 1 shot, killing him almost instantly.

Both the Lees are in jail here.

OTHER LOCALS.

We learn that Mr. Ed. Zoeller, of Tarboro, died Thursday.

Just try a 10c. box of Cascarets, the finest liver and bowel regulator ever made.

Do you reckon Greenville will ever have another opera house? Our town is missing all the amusements.

A. B. Edington is fixing a display of wall paper in his store showing how the paper appears when put up.

Wonder if steps will be taken this year to get a tobacco or cotton factory in Greenville. The town needs both.

A number of small enterprises might be established in Greenville and they would be a wonderful help to the town.

The Greenville Telephone Co., is preparing to extend its line to Snow Hill and give us communication with that town.

The tobacco warehouses have had fair breaks this week. There is still much tobacco in the county and it comes in every day.

The well on Evans street near the Phoenix building is being worked on again. It seems hard to get good water there or much of it.

Remember if you want a set of Harness or your Harness repaired that I can be found next to Haskett's Hardware store. J. R. CORY.

Drummers continue to arrive in large numbers, much to the delight of our hotel keepers. We all love to see the boys around. It is an evidence of business.

Munford has just received his first stock of spring slippers in ox blood, tans, patent leather and Columbia black. They are beauties and will delight the ladies.

Jas. B. White has launched out on his own hook and has opened a first-class grocery store on Evans street, next to S. T. White's, where he says he will keep everything nice for the inner man. Everybody knows clever Jim White and his cleverness will bring him good trade. We predict that he will be successful. See his advertisement in this issue.

While the legislators are giving to themselves copies of the very valuable Colonial Records of North Carolina, they might remember the editors who take special interest in North Carolina and in all that concerns her history, remarks the Wilmington Messenger.

If the Hanna-McKinley combine becomes established at Washington in full accordance with its own program, it will do a smashing business, one, that is, that will break up everybody who is not protected by some sort of connection, direct or indirect, with the combines in general.—Richmond Dispatch.

Having wasted many days over what ought to have been a part of the last campaign and decided at the polls, the Legislature has elected gold-bug Pritchard to the Senate. It is to be hoped that the constitutional amendment requiring the election of United States Senator by the people will soon be adopted.

The Change.

January 12th, 1897, is the date of the ending and the beginning of two political eras in North Carolina. On that date the reins of the government of our Commonwealth passed completely out of the hands of one political party into those of another.

While the legislators are giving to themselves copies of the very valuable Colonial Records of North Carolina, they might remember the editors who take special interest in North Carolina and in all that concerns her history, remarks the Wilmington Messenger.

As a rule, real estate is not assessed or its full value in New York city.

A PLEA FOR THE INSANE.

The election of a United States Senator now being out of the way, it is expected that the Legislature will get down to business, a considerable portion of which will be the changing of State officials.

Yet, while recognizing the right of the present administration to make these changes, the voice of humanity is heard protesting against a change in the management of the asylums.

The same arguments that prevailed then are good now. It would be a grievous wrong to the unfortunate insane of the State to take away from them the people they have learned to love; who have their cases in hand, and who are gradually bring them back into the light—and to put them in charge of strangers, totally unacquainted with their habits and conditions.

Let all the other offices be changed, but when it comes to disturbing the life of the inmates of the State's asylums the administration should pause. As humanity triumphed over partisanship in 1876, so it should do now.

Dreams are curious things. About a week ago a West Philadelphia girl dreamed that she had lost her watch, and in the morning she looked in the place where she always put her time-piece, to discover that it was gone.

Some of the Wilson merchants were treated to a little sleight-of-hand performance last week. A traveling fakir was the artist. He would enter the store, purchase some article of slight value and offer in payment a large bill, requesting at the same time that the change be mixed—part paper and part silver.

Every man ought to pay his debts—if he can. Every man ought to help his neighbor—if he can. Every man and woman ought to get married—if they can.

Every man should do his work to suit his customers—if he can. Every man should please his wife—if he can. Every wife should please her husband—if she can.

The Prison Labor Question.

In England, a question that agitates us is discussed—that of prison labor. Sir Edmund Du Kane presents one phase of the subject in The Contemporary Review:

The fact has evidently never been considered by those who assume that industrial work can be introduced as the general practice in prisons on the supposition apparently that the moral effect is the only point to be considered. It is only a small residue who can be profitably employed.

To find employment even for this limited number is not without difficulties, the principal of which is to find customers for the work they can do. Evidently the prison department itself has wants which prison labor can supply, and accordingly, since the prisons have been united into one department, a great development of this work has taken place, such as was not possible when each prison was an isolated unit. Tailoring, shoemaking, tin working, weaving, knitting and many other like trades are now carried on in certain local prisons for the supply of the whole number. A very large amount of building work, involving carpentering, bricklaying and iron work, has been carried on in local prisons, and this, with the baking, cooking, washing, etc., absorbs a large number of the available prisoners. But there is still a large residue for whose work outside consumers must be found, and this residue will be larger if the gross number of prisoners should again increase.

The Bull and the Government Papers.

Here is a comical adventure that some members of an English ordinance survey met with while touring in the south of Scotland. In the prosecution of their calling they entered a field belonging to a crusty old farmer. Seeing the strangers looking about in a way he could not understand, the farmer approached. "What are ye loitering in the field for?"

"Oh, we have a right to go anywhere," returned one of the com-

ny. "We are surveying, and here are our government papers."

"Paper here or paper there," returned the farmer, "oot ye gang oot o' my field."

"No, we shan't," returned the man, "and you are rendering yourself liable to prosecution for interrupting us."

The farmer said no more, but went over to his shed, which opened into the field, and let out a vicious bull. The bull no sooner saw the redcoats than he went for them in full career. The surveyors snatched up their theodolite and flew for their lives, while the old farmer, in great glee, yelled after them:

"What are ye running for? Can ye no show the bull yer government papers?"—Harper's Round Table.

English Wild Cattle.

The British islands have a race of wild cattle. Three herds are known to exist—one in the chase of Chillingham castle, the property of the Earl of Tankerville, in Northumberland; one in that of the Duke of Hamilton, at Hamilton castle, in Scotland, and one at Drem, in Dumfriesshire.

Beggars' ticks is the common name of Bidens chrysanthemoides. It is so called from the small hooks with which the seed case is provided, by which it attaches itself to almost any substance with which it comes in contact.

The wasp, like the bee and almost every other insect, is infested with parasites. Wasps have been captured which had two or three dozen parasites clinging to their bodies.

The fern is indicative of fascination. In Saxony the present by a lover to his sweetheart of a handful of ferns is equivalent to a proposal.

The Huns number in their annals four great kings—Attila, Bleda, Ellac and Dengezic.

A centimeter of the metric measure is almost exactly four-tenths of an inch.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Monthly

Illustrated

Edited by ALBERT SHAW

"If only one magazine can be taken, we would suggest the REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as covering more ground than any other magazine."—Board of Library Commissioners of New Hampshire, 1896.

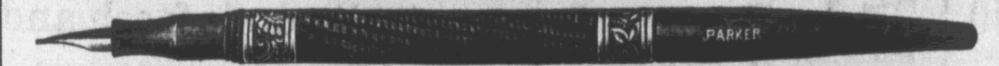

THIS magazine is, in its contributed and departmental features, what its readers, who include the most noted names of the English-speaking world, are pleased to call "absolutely up to date," "thoroughly abreast of the times," "invaluable," and "indispensable." It is profusely illustrated with timely portraits, views, and cartoons. Its original articles are of immediate interest, by the best authorities on their respective subjects. The Editor's "Progress of the World" gives a clear, rightly proportioned view of the history of the human race during the current month. The "Leading Articles of the Month" present the important parts of the best magazine articles that have been written in every part of the world. The newest and most important books are carefully reviewed. Indexes, chronological records, and other departments complete the certainty that the reader of the Review or Reviews will miss nothing of great significance that is said or written or done throughout the world.
