PHILOPENA.

Her hand lay cozily in mine

That lovely even tide;

I marked her eyes upon me shine

With glowing pride;

I stroked her tresses, glowing fair

By gaslight's mellow sheen;

In soft delight we waded there

A fillippen.

The dainty forfeit was to be,

If I should lose—ah, well,

A very trifling thing, see,

And yet I'll tell;

So regisly she hinted this,

Then glanced neath drooping lids—

The forfeit was a loving kiss

And pair of kids.

She waded course; I paid the debt;

We waded been quite long;

The supper not regretted yet;

Our life's one song.

My home's a paradise so fair,

And now, with drooping lids,

She gazes, while I fondle there

A pair of kids.

Col. I. A. Sugg has received a letter from the Mayor of Chapel Hill saying there is a young man by the name of Henry McLawhorn strolling around the streets of Chapel Hill in a demented condition, and saying he is from the county of Pitt. If there is such a man from the county, the REFLECTOR nor Col. Sugg does not know of him. If he has friends in Pitt county they should look after him.

MONDAY, MARCH 1, 1897.

WASHINGTON LETTER

(From Our Regular Correspondent) WASHINGTON, Feb. 26th, 1897.

Senator Hill's resolution calling upon Secretary Olney for copies of all communications to and from Consul General Lee which was adopted by the Senate without a dissenting voice, is intended to solve the mystery as to the truth of the sensational statements saying that Gen. Lee had either actually tendered his resignation as Consul General to Cuba, or threatened to do so, unless the administration gave him better backing than it has been giving him in his fight to secure justice for Americans arrested in Cuba. It is believed that it was intended as an affront to President Cleveland. It is customary in such resolutions to request the President to furnish the desired information, if in his opinion it is compatible with public interests. Senator Hill ignored the President entirely, and his resolutions asks Secretary Olney for the information. Congress feels very ugly towards the administration on account of its Cuban policy, but there is no time left to do anything now, except to pass the appropriation bill.

Mr. Bryan was in Washington two days this week, and was the recipient of much attention. He was also the central figure in several important political conferences.

Representative Bailey, of Texas, gave the republicans a good-natured raking over in a speech which did not overlook the assistant republicans, about their embarrassment in distributing 60,000 offices among 350,000 applicants, and made the prediction that every one of the fifty Congressional districts which the republicans carried last November by majorities of less than 1,000 would go democratic at the next election. "Four years ago," said Mr. Bailey, "you laughed at our embarrassment; now we laugh at yours. You have no more chance of escaping the wrath of the office seekers at the next Congressional elections than we had of escaping the disapproval of the people for the maladministration of the administration about to retire from power."

That a majority of the republicans in the House would like to see the civil service law thrown overboard was shown by the hearty applause with which they received the assertion of Delegate Flynn, of Oklahoma, that if he had his way he would wipe out the civil service law and fill every office with a republican within twenty four hours after McKinley's inauguration. Representative Grosvenor, of Ohio, also jumped all over the civil service law and declared his belief that it would be repealed. Representative Bailey in reply to a direct question as to what he thought of the law, promptly said: "I think it is a humbug," and when asked why the democratic party didn't repeal it when they had the power he said: "We didn't have sense enough then, but we shall know better hereafter." Representative Brosus, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Committee on Civil Service Reform, defended the law, and accused Grosvenor of having by his talk against it "flashed a sword in the heart of the President-elect," whatever that may mean. Whatever Mr. McKinley may do there is little doubt that Grosvenor will have a numerous support if he wishes to lead a fight against the law in the next House, and it will not be surprising if he does it.

The Senate Committee on Public Lands has this week been trying to get at all the bottom facts connected with the recent issue of a Florida land and patent for 24,000 acres to Mr. Perrine, Mrs. Cleveland's stepfather. Senator Tillman, who is a member of the committee, has been especially active in cross-examining the witnessing who have appeared before the Committee. The Committee has not yet reached a conclusion as to the regularity and legality of the patent.

Notwithstanding the protest of fruit importers, who claim that foreign fruits do not compete to and material extent with American products, inasmuch as they are mostly put on sale at a different season of the year, the republicans of the Ways and Means Committee have decided to place a duty upon tropical fruits which importers declare will be practically prohibitory.

There is trouble and a heap of it, ahead of Mark Hanna. The publication of interviews, in which he states that his first work upon entering the Senate will be to undertake the job of bossing the passage of the tariff bill, has aroused the ire of a number of republican Senators and Mr. Hanna may start his Senatorial career by getting himself mercilessly snubbed. It is very safe to say that he will not be a Senator long before he will regret announcing his intention to boss the body. Bossing the Senate is a very difficult job, as Mr. Hanna may learn if he will enquire of Benjamin Harrison and Grover Cleveland, both of whom made failures in their several attempts to assume the role which he seems to think is as easy as buying impecunious delegates to a republican convention.

The Blue Ribbon Fool.

According to the Albany, Ga., Herald, an Albany jeweler has unearthed the greatest fool since simple Simon. "I sold a clock to a country negro," said the jeweler, "and he came in afterward and claimed that the thing was no good—that the hands wouldn't work right. I told him to bring it in and I would see what was the matter with it. When he came again and brought the clock he had the hands tied together with a cotton string. The longest hand he said, would go clean round the dial in an hour, while the other only moved an inch or so. He just couldn't make them run together, he said, until he tied them, and then, he said, the thing wouldn't run at all. After so long a time I succeeded in explaining to him that it was the business of the long hand to go clear round the dial once every hour, while the hour hand moved only from one hour mark to another but I'll be blamed if he ain't the blue ribbon fool of the country."

Just try a 10c. box of Cascarets, the finest liver and bowel regulator ever made.

Rubber Poker Chips.
The click of chips is no longer heard in some of the rooms where poker used to be played.

But this doesn't mean that they have stopped playing poker. Oh, no. The click of chips need no longer be heard, whether poker is being played or not. An inventive genius, who knows how difficult it is sometimes to play poker on the quiet when one wants to, has invented rubber poker chips. They are the same size as those of bone, celluloid or ivory, and like the others are colored red and blue as well as the natural color of the rubber, which answers for white. The colors are not very well defined, for rubber doesn't seem to take the colors easily and seems to be difficult to dye. But the colors are distinct enough to avoid the possibility of a man anteing a blue chip when a white is the ante or sweetening a jackpot by a blue when a red is all that is needed.

The dealers who handle the rubber poker chips say they are very popular, and that a great many of them have been sold. They make absolutely no noise when they are used. The only trouble is, however, that the man who has acquired the habit, which requires much costly experience, of shuffling his chips about mindedly with one hand has to learn the trick anew, for chips are apt to stick to each other and prevent the accomplishment of the trick. — Chicago Times-Herald.

She and He.

"Your bill is too high, sir, and I won't pay it!" snapped the young woman, and she turned sharply on her heel and strode out of the office.

The lawyer who had procured a divorce for her turned again to his desk and merely remarked under his breath:

"Oh, woman, in our house of fees, 'Uncertain cor and hard to please!'"

Editorial Poetry.

Rome (Ga.) Tribune: An exchange is responsible for the following: "Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said, 'I'll pay before I go to bed, the debt I owe the printer?' There are some, we know full well, who never such a tale can tell; but they, we fear, will go to—well, the place where there's no winter."

March has five Mondays, five Tuesdays, five Wednesdays and five REFLECTOR.

The REFLECTOR old man reached home Sunday night from his Texas-Mexico trip. He is in pretty fair condition with the exception of a lame arm and being somewhat sore from a shake up he had in a derailed car at Wilson Saturday night. He may have to keep off duty for a few days, but Billie will go right on giving the folks the news until the old man takes hold again.

Commutation of Sentence.

The sentence of Robert L. Moore, convicted of manslaughter at the February term of Halifax Criminal Court, and sentenced to four years in the penitentiary, has been commuted to four months in the county jail.

It will be remembered that Moore went into the knitting mill at Scotland Neck on the morning of February 17th, 1896, and got into a difficulty with Samuel James, a young white man who was at work in the dye room. Moore struck James with a dye paddle, and the young man died the following day from the effects of the blow.

Friday's Races.

In spite of the heavy rain Thursday, the track was in very fair condition Friday, being two seconds slow at that. The races, however, were intensely interesting from start to finish.

In the 2:20 race, in which Lucy Ashby and Palmetto Prince appeared to be the hardest fighters, for first place, was a most beautiful one. Had it not been for a break made by Palmetto Prince in the last heat, he would have undoubtedly won the race with Lucy Ashby easily second.

Both heats of the running race were very close, St. Vincent winning each but by a head.

The first trotting or pacing 2:20 class, purse $400, won by Lucy Ashby, second, Palmetto Prince; third, Prince Albert; fourth, Eufaula C. Time, 2:43, 2:42, 1:39½, 2:41, 2:41, five heats.—New Bern Journal.
