THE LEGISLATURE.

Condensed Report of Proceedings.

FORTY-SEVENTH DAY.

SENATE.

Bills and resolutions were introduced as follows:

Person, to appoint additional cotton weighers for Edgecomb.

Sharpe, of Wilson, to regulate the sale of pistols and cartridges.

To amend the charter of Lumberton.

The following bills passed:
To allow Cumberland to fund its debt.

To amend the charter of Mt. Airy.
To provide for working the public roads of Nash.

To incorporate the New Bern Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

To incorporate the Chatham Traction Company.

To amend the charter of Dennis-Simmons Lumber Company.

To incorporate the Commonwealth Insurance Company, of Wilmington.

To incorporate the trustees of St. Mary's school, of Raleigh.

Moye, from the committee on public printing, made a report for the minority, recommending that the letting at the lowest bid be abolished and that the bill of Butler appointing Guy V. Barnes public printer be adopted. The report goes on to say that the printing under Stewart Bros. has cost the state nearly $8,000 more than for the previous two years; that part of the work was done in Richmond Va., when it should all have been done in this state; that they recommend the adoption of their (minority) report. The report further says that the printing should be done in Raleigh.

The bill to appoint Guy V. Barnes, of Raleigh, public printer came up. The majority report was unfavorable.

Shore moved to postpone—lost.
Grant favored considering the bill at once, as it was no use postponing.

The question recurring on the adoption of the minority committee report, it was adopted on second and third readings. This was a surprise to the republicans.

HOUSE.

The house met at 10 o'clock.

Person, of Wayne, withdrew his bill to reduce tobacco warehouse charges and that matter ends.

Among the bills introduced were these.

Duffy, to build a road through the public lands in Onslow county.

Lusk, for representatives of North Carolina at the Tennessee centennial.

Peeters, to incorporate the Asheville and Bristol railway.

Sutton, to change the name of Mulberry street, Wilmington, to Grace street; also to incorporate the Hanover Land Company.

Hauser, to require insurance companies to pay the face value of their policies.

Lusk, to provide for payment of the attorney's fee for the defendant where the prosecution is adjudged to be frivolous and malicious.

Schulken, to incorporate the Excelsior Artesian Well and Sewerage Company.

Cunningham, to prevent taxing of property twice in one year.

Ward, to change certain Sixth district courts.

The house was in committee of the whole several hours on the revenue bill and struck out the $10 tax on lawyers, doctors and dentists, also the $10 tax proposed to be levied on drummers. It let the section stand providing that county commissioners "may" grant liquor licenses. Duffy's amendment to make the word "shall" was lost—36 to 38.

The section imposing a tax on inheritances was also stricken out.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Bills passed as follows:

To allow Wayne, Green, Pitt and Wilson counties to levy a tax of 15 cents for road improvement, this to be alike on county and town property.

To amend the charter of Greenville, by extending its limits (second reading; vote—ayes, 57; noes, 32.)

Walters gave notice that the minority would file a report against the bill, saying he had served notice that he would do this and had asked the clerk to file a protest with the bill, but could not get it done; that it had been understood that the bill was merely one to allow a special tax to be levied.

Hancock and Sutton tried to cut Walters off. The latter moved that the report and protest be filed. This prevailed, though a lot of republicans tried to defeat it.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

Features of Amendment Proposed by Mr. Dockery.

Mr. Dockery will introduce a bill to amend the constitution of the state by creating a new article, declaring that a political party is one which at the election of 1896 cast not less than 25,000 votes for some candidate, who was voted for by the entire state; that the governor shall nominate five commissioners of elections, to serve six years, each political party to have at least one of these, the salary of commissioners to be $4 per day, and they to have a clerk. These commissioners are to appoint registrars of election and also judges of elections, these appointments to be upon recommendation of the state chairmen of political parties. Ballots may be written or printed or partly written and partly printed and may be with or without device. No person shall be challenged on election day, unless he applies for registration on that day. When there is challenge of a vote, the cause must be given and a day must be set for a hearing, and the presumption shall be that the challenged person is a qualified elector, and the challenger must satisfy a majority of the judges of election before the person challenged is rejected. Elections shall be held absolutely in public view, and each candidate shall have the right to designate one person to represent him at each voting precinct, and this person shall be admitted to watch the count. There shall be two ballot boxes. All acts of registrars and judges shall be purely ministerial.—Special to Wilmington Messenger.

THE GULF CITY.

How the Editors Were Entertained at Galveston.

(Editorial Correspondence.)

GALVESTON, Tex., Feb. 19th, 1897

The editors spent four days in Galveston, and it was the expression of all that the National Editorial Association had never been more royally entertained than in this city. The forenoon of each day was devoted to the business sessions of the Association, the remainder of the time being given over to sight seeing and attending entertainments and excursions given by the citizens of Galveston. The business of the Association not being of interest to our readers we make no reference to that except to state that Denver, Col., was selected as the next place of meeting.

The Beach, where most of the editors took quarters, is a charming place. It is a magnificent building located immediately on the gulf, surrounded by broad verandas and fronted by a beautiful park. This hotel is to Texas what the Atlantic at Morehead is to North Carolina, the great seaside resort of the State.

We mentioned in a former letter that the street car strike hit the city about the same time the editors did. Well, the newspaper folks did not mind such a little obstacle to transportation as this. Most of them were accustomed to doing lots of walking in their daily hunts for news, and the way they tramped merrily too and from the convention hall showed the Texans that they had a crowd of good pedestrians in their midst. However, the strike was of short duration. The trouble was soon adjusted and after a lay off of one day the cars were humming along again.

If there is one entertaining feature that Galveston prides herself on more than another it is an oyster roast. Every prominent visiting delegation or notable assembly that gathers in the city is feasted on a lay out of this kind, and on Wednesday afternoon one was given to the Editorial Association. The party of 400 was taken to a park on the banks of a beautiful lake where everything was in readiness. There were oysters in any desired style with necessary trimmings, and the way they disappeared before that crowd showed that most of the faber pushers were as expert at hiding bivalves as they are at finding news.

OYSTER ROAST.

At the close of this feast the crowd assembled in a large pavilion where Mr. Leo N. Levi, of Galveston, made them a very witty speech. He said it was the custom on occasions of this kind to present a medal to the champion oyster eater; that a committee had been keeping "tab" to see who was entitled to the prize, and they found that Mr. B. B. Herbert, of Chicago, had broken the record by eating 1900 oysters. That gentleman was called to the front and an 8-inch leather medal tied around his neck. Each of the others present were given a souvenir shell on which was marked the number of oysters eaten. The REFLECTOR old man got a shell saying he ate 503. We were inclined to doubt it, but the committee had that number on us and no kicking or going behind the returns was allowed. All the same we were puzzled to know just how we got away with 503 oysters at one sitting.

D. J. W.

Mixed Pickies.

The editor of the Willmar, Minn., Argus lives in a house located between a Methodist church and a dance hall. One evening recently there was a gathering in both places. It being too warm for comfort indoors, the editor sat on the veranda and took in the situation. This is what he heard:

"Let us pray—all salute—we beseech thee to join hands and draw near—circle to the left—listen to us—first forward and back—as we all promenade—kneel before thee and balance all—present our petition—graad right and left—for Christ's sake—seat your partners."

The editor was more than saddened at the degeneration of the village and went off and joined a baseball club in order to be neutral.—Press and Printer.

The Norfolk Pilot thinks the appointment of Hanna to the senate a "shame to Ohio, to the senate and to the incoming administration." As to the senate we agree, but a state which kept John Sherman in the senate so long can't be disgraced by sending Hanna in his place. And as for the administration, where would that be if it hadn't been for Hanna?—Wilmington Star.

Mrs. R. E. Cotten.

Among the attendants on the recent convention of mothers in Washington City was Mrs. R. E. Cotten, of Cottondale. We clip the following from the Washington Post:

Mrs. Sallie Southall Cotten, who read a paper on "National Training School for Women" before the congress Friday is a typical Southern woman, and has the cordial handshake and hospitable manner which characterizes the women born south of the Mason and Dixon line. Her home is in Falkland, N. C., and she was educated in her own State, and is naturally a conservative, but she came to the congress because she thought it was an organization that could be made of benefit to her sex, and she is a strong advocate for freedom of thought and action for women, and the cultivation of their abilities and individuality. Notwithstanding the advanced ideas Mrs. Cotten expressed in her paper, she is herself emphatically a 'home body,' and, what is certainly unique in this day of manifold women's clubs, she does not belong to a single organization aside from her church."

So it seems, after all, that it was not Mr. Cleveland whom the dusky ex Queen wished to embarrass with her presence, but that she intends to sit on the doorstep of the new President with the persistency of a Hindu creditor haunting the bungalow of his debtor. He laughs best who laughs last. The guffaws of the anti-Clevelandites were premature.—Philadelphia Record.

Why the Brain Does Not Grow Old.

In his work on the senile heart Dr. Balfour tells us that there are two parts of the human organisms which, if wisely used, "largely escape senile failure." These two are the brain and the heart. Persons who think have often wondered why brain workers, great statesmen and others should continue to work with almost unimpaired mental activity and energy up to a period when most of the organs and functions of the body are in a condition of advanced senile decay. There is a physiological reason for this, and Dr. Balfour tells us what it is. The normal brain, he affirms, "remains vigorous to the last," and that "because its nutrition is especially provided for." About middle life, or a little later, the general arteries of the body begin to lose their elasticity and to slowly but surely dilate. They become, therefore, much less efficient carriers of the nutrient blood to the capillary areas. But this is not the case with the internal carotids, which supply the capillary areas of the brain.

On the contrary, those large vessels "continue to retain their pristine elasticity, so that the blood pressure remains normally higher than within the capillary area of any other organ in the body. The cerebral blood paths being thus kept open, the brain tissue is kept better nourished than the other tissues of the body." Who is there among those who have reached or passed middle age that will not be rejoiced to find such admirable physiological warrant for the belief that the brain may continue to work and even to improve almost to the very last hours of life.—New York Ledger.

The Frugal Farmer.

At a dinner given in his honor in Philadelphia Colonel A. K. McClure, the editor of the Philadelphia Times, told the following story relating to his first newspaper venture, started some 50 years ago: "I well remember the case of a frugal farmer of the Dunker persuasion who was sufficiently public spirited to subscribe for the Sentinel for six months to get the paper started, but at the end of that period he had calculated the heavy expenses of gathering the printing harvest and decided to stop his paper for awhile. In need not say that he was enthusiastically confronted with many reasons why a man of his intelligence and influence should not be without the county newspaper, but he yielded only to the extent of further considering the matter with his wife. He returned in a few days and spread sunshine around the editorial chair by saying that his wife had decided to continue for another six months, as the paper would be very handy in the fall for tying up her apple butter crocks."

Baptists, See Here!

The Southern Baptist Convention meets this year in Wilmington, N. C., May 8th. Now, you want to go to this convention, and you also want to go in style and comfort. There is only one good firstclass line from the South and Southwest to Wilmington, and that line is the Seaboard Air Line, which runs the finest and fastest trains in the South and makes the lowest rates of any railroad running from the South or Southwest. Don't be fooled into making your arrangements until you have consulted one of the Seaboard Air Line agents, who always esteem it a pleasure to serve you. B. A. Newland, General Agent Passenger Department, 6 Kimball House, Atlanta, Ga., will be glad to write you or call on you, or you can apply to any of the representatives of the Seaboard Air Line in any town or city. This is the official route. Do you want to go with your friends?

Spring poems are on top.
All eyes are on Washington.
McKinley goes in tomorrow.
Lenten penance is nearly due.
Spring styles are on the jump.
Can't make it out—the word "in."
A dead ringer—the deceased section.

Quite a large party left here today to attend the Washington fair. Some went on the gas boat and some by rail.

Notwithstanding everything is lent now for forty days, there is no prohibition against paying a bill occasionally.

The Salisbury Daily Sun, published by J. X. Roueche and C. N. Brown, made its appearance Monday. It is a five column paper, bright and well edited. The REFLECTOR wishes it all possible success.

The scramble for government positions is now on, and those fellows who succeed in getting in will think the flood of prosperity promised with the inauguration of the McKinley administration has struck them, while those who get left will still be wondering where the promised prosperity comes in at.

We learn that a young man in Virginia had been paying some attention to a young lady in North Carolina. Not many days ago he paid her a visit and argued an immediate marriage. The young lady refused, whereupon the young man took on some bug juice and tried to procure a license and preacher to have a marriage anyway.

Quinerly Bros.' Store Burned.

J. W. Quinerly & Bros.' store at Quinerly was destroyed by fire Saturday morning about 3 o'clock. The loss was about $3,500 on goods, and the firm had $1,500 insurance. The warehouse, containing about fifty barrels of flour, was saved by hard work.

The fire started from the rear on the outside and was undoubtedly incendiary. Soon after the fire started it exploded the kerosene tank, throwing the flaming fluid all over the inside of the store, so that it was impossible to enter it to save any of the goods.

Tracks were found in the wet earth at the rear of the store and suspicion rests upon a certain party as having set the fire. It is greatly to be desired that the guilty fiends may be caught and properly punished.

The building belonged to the estate of Dr. W. L. Best, and was not insured.

Dr. Wm. Cobb Whitfield's office, which was nearby, was also destroyed by the flames. Dr. Whitfield lost about two-thirds of his medicines but saved most of his instruments. He carried no insurance.—Kinston Free Press.
