C. T. MUNFORD.

Base Ball.

Pittsburg, May 14.—Pittsburg made three hits and three runs in the first inning, four hits and four runs in the fifth and did nothing more. German lived King in the sixth and did good work. Hawley kept the visitors' hits well scattered. None of the visitors' errors were costly. Score. Pittsburg, 7; Washington, 1.

Cincinnati, May 14.—Four thousand people saw the Reds again defeat the Giants in an interesting game of eleven innings. Sullivan was substituted for Meekin in the fourth, and the Reds could do very little with his delivery. The feature of the game was the playing of Davis and Gleason. Score. Cincinnati, 6; New York, 5.

Louisville, May 14.—Frazier's wildness in the first inning and the home team's inability to hit Fifer caused its defeat today. Jack Sheridan made two or three bad decisions against the Colonels and a crowd from the bleachers went after his scalp in the fourth inning, but the police succeeded in preventing trouble. Score. Louisville, 1; Philadelphia, 7.

St. Louis, May 14.—After St. Louis had scored seven runs in the first two innings, Baltimore rallied in the seventh and jumped on Donhus for five singles, which netted as many runs. After the second inning the Browns were unable to find Nops. St. Louis' runs were made on singles. Score. St. Louis, 7; Baltimore, 11.

Chicago, May 14.—Brooklyn Chicago game postponed—rain.

Cleveland, May 14.—No game—rain.

A Child Swallows Lye.

A few days ago the little two year old child of Mr. W. M. Brown, near Mt. Pleasant, was seriously injured by swallowing some concentrated lye. How the child got the lye in his mouth is not known. Mrs. Brown handed her bunch of keys to the nurse, a colored girl, telling her to go to the safe and give the child a biscuit. The little boy went with the nurse and a few minutes later his screams attracted his mother. Hurrying to the child she found a quantity of lye in his mouth. Mr. Brown was called in from his work and going to the pantry where the lye was kept, found the box on a shelf far out of the child's reach. He examined the child carefully but found no trace of the lye anywhere about the clothing or body of the child except on the inside of its mouth. At last report from the child its condition was still quite serious.

POISONING AT CONETOE.

(Special to Reflector.)

TARBORO, N. C., May 17.—At Conetoe Saturday night a colored man gave a white man some whiskey with poisoned capsule in it. The white man died Sunday. The Coroner went down and at the inquest found that the man had been poisoned. The negro was arrested and put in jail here yesterday afternoon. This morning the negro confessed the crime and said that another white man had hired and paid him to do the poisoning. The other white man has skipped.

There are no definite particulars as to the cause leading to the deed, but it is rumored that the man who had the poisoning done was enamored with the other man's wife and wanted to get him out of the way.

Ordination.

Just after an appropriate sermon by Rev. J. B. Morton in the Presbyterian church, Sunday night, Messrs. J. R. Moore and E. B. Ficklen were ordained as Elders of the church. The services were very impressive. Revs. E. D. Brown and B. H. Melton and Mr. B. D. Evans assisted in the ordination.

Verdict for Plaintiff.

We learn from the Salisbury Sun that last week in Rowan county Superior Court the suit against the Southern Railroad Company for damage because of the killing of Engineer W. L. James in a wreck last fall, was decided in favor of plaintiff, the verdict being for $15,000. Mr. James was a brother of Mrs. Ollen Warner, of this town.

During last week the Register of Deeds issued five marriage licenses, three for white couples and two for colored.

Meeting Closed.

The closing service Saturday night of the meeting in the Presbyterian church by Rev. B. H. Melton, State Evangelist of the Christian church, was exceedingly enjoyable and impressive. Besides the remarks made by Rev. Mr. Melton short talks were made by Revs. N. M. Watson, of the Methodist church, A. W. Setzer, of the Baptist church and J. B. Morton, of the Presbyterian church. They voiced the sentiment of the people in expressing the pleasure it had given them to attend the meetings and the belief that God's blessing would follow the earnest work Mr. Melton had done here.

THE SEABOARD AIR LINE AND ITS INDUSTRIAL TRAINING SCHOOL.

The Seaboard Air Line traversing the States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, is without question, under the most progressive, practical and liberal management of and Railway line in the United States if not in the world. It gets close to the people, it knows its patrons, it works for their interest, and in turn they appreciate what is done for them, and the truth of this is shown in the fact that when the great combination of roads have tried to cown the Seaboard, the people have gone to its rescue, and give it an increase of business, more than enough to overbalance all the combination could take from it; and the people continue to patronize the road. The Seaboard Air Line refuses to enter combinations for holding up freight and passenger rates. It believes in making its rates directly with the people giving them all the advantages it can. The roads that go into combinations must pay high salaries for combination officials, these salaries must be paid by charging higher rates of freight, and thereby the people have to pay it. The latest move of the Seaboard Air Line, to assist those located along its line is to inaugurate a Traveling Industrial School. The object of the school is to teach the people how to can, preserve and pickle, how to make fruit, butter, jellies, jams, mamalode, cheese, &c., and to instruct in manufacturing of such things as can be made on the farm without a great deal of expense. A large number of the latest labor saving farm implements will be shown. Especially, will be shown such household conveniences as tends to improve the conditions of the home, and make its surroundings more pleasant, and lessen the work of the house wife. Experienced, practical and skilled persons will be employed by the Seaboard Air Line to give object lessons; enabling all those who attend to see, as well as to be told how to do a thing. This is a new enterprise and is certainly getting down to something that is practical; it is carrying the Industrial School to the homes of thousands of people. The School will be fitted up in a train of cars specially prepared for it, and it will stop at different points along the one thousand miles of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, in the States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia; and the good this work will accomplish cannot be reckoned in dollars and cents. This movement will not stop at the Seaboard Air Line's boundary, for other roads will be compelled to follow the example set by the progressive Seaboard Air Line, or they will loose many of their patrons for the people will leave other lines of road and flock to the Seaboard Air Line Territory; in fact we are reliably informed through responsible papers published on the Seaboard Air Line, that many business men as well as farmers are already leaving other sections of the South, and going to the Seaboard Air Line; being attracted by the enterprise displayed by this road, these are moving to the Seaboard Air Line territory, so as to share in the advantages this line is giving to the people along its system.—Our Sunny Home.

TOURGEE.

The announcement that the President has nominated Judge Albion W. Tourgee to be consul at Bordeaux, France, suggests a lot of history. Tourgee was one of the carpet-baggers who swooped down upon North Carolina just after the war. He became a judge of the Superior Court and made a good one. After the expiration of his term he settled in Raleigh to practice law, but did not do much good at it, and nearly twenty years ago returned to the North and wrote "A Fool's Errand," which brought him fame and fortune. This book dealt with the reconstruction period of North Carolina, with the Ku Klux, etc., and contained enough falsehood to put the State in a thoroughly bad light before strangers and yet enough truth to forbid that North Carolinians should enter a blanket denial. The work was skilfully done, the narrative an absorbingly interesting one, and the whole marked by literary finish. The money which Tourgee made on this book he sunk in a literary paper which he established with it but, as author and lecturer, he is said to have since retrieved his fortunes. He is indeed a very smart fellow, and certain newspaper articles of a political character which he wrote while he lived in this State were remarkable for their brilliancy and the biting quality of their sarcasm. He was cordially hated by the Democrats during his residence here, especially during reconstruction, when he was conspicuous as a Republican politician. One of the most frequently reiterated charges against him was that he was a pardoned criminal from the Ohio penitentiary, and it is never to be forgotten how Gen. D. H. Hill, with that mock gravity which so distinguished him, said in the Southern Home, with a fine show of indignation, that he had no doubt that this story was a libel, but that Tourgee, instead of being a pardoned criminal, had served out his term fully and honestly.—Charlotte Observer.

A Sanctum Sermon.

Too many people pay more attention to the affairs of others than to their own. Man's head is not double-barreled like a shot gun. God gave to every man a head of his own, and he who attends to his own business has enough to keep him reasonably busy forever. People are like wasps. Society is a sugar barrel with the sweetness taken out. Meddlers go buzzing and bumping against the soured sides. There are thousands who know nothing of their own business, but know all about the concerns of their neighbors. Tearing another's character to pieces will not help ours, no matter how dirty the other man may be. Pointing out the weeds in your yard will not make the weeds in our yard more beautiful. The white cottage and the brown mansion hide trouble from the world. People talk and know not whereof they speak. They retail slander to show how foul is the dish most palatable to them. Let us walk straight along. Let us each mind our own business, and each will never be out of employment.—Ex.

He Loves to Hear It.

About eight or nine years ago a negro named Yorke Phifer became involved in some serious trouble at or near Durham, for which he was sent to the penitentiary to serve a term of ten years. Phifer served and was faithful for about eight years and was last week released from custody. He returned to this county, where he had left his wife Martha, and discovered to his dismay and sorrow that she has again married, this time to one Ed Patterson. Phifer at once proceeded to take out paper for the recovery of his wife and on Sunday morning she was arrested and brought to jail, Patterson, or husband No. 2, had fled. On Wednesday Phifer had his wife tried before Esquire Pitts, charged with bigamy, and after much questioning, she made a very strong argument that Yorke Phifer, her first husband, was dead. She said "I got a letter from him in a black bordered envelop. He wrote to me that he was dead. I bought a black dress and wore it thinking all the time that he was telling me the truth."

We suppose that the great mother love prompts every mother, who has a boy leading a life of wickedness and crime, to believe that he is a "good hearted boy" but is being led astray by bad companions. In some instances your boy may be led by bad companions, but don't censure your boy's associates too severely. Your boy may be the leader of the gang he is going with. Don't put all the blame on the other boys, for your boy may be leading instead of being lead.—Monroe Enquirer.

Uses for Salt.

Salt puts out fire in the chimney.
Salt in the oven under baking tins will prevent their scorching on the bottom.
Salt and vinegar will remove stains from discolored teacups.
Salt and soda are excellent for bee stings.
Salt thrown on soot which has fallen on the carpet will prevent stain.
Salt put on ink when freshly spilled on a carpet will help in removing the spot.
Salt it whitewash makes it sick.
Salt thrown on a coal fire which is low will revive it.
Salt used in sweeping carpets keeps out moths.

Paper Belting.

A new German belting is made of paper tubes, strongly compressed and joined by threads, and is coated with a preparation which renders it proof against atmospheric influences, friction, slipping or lengthening. The paper is made from Manila hemp combined with chemical products. The ends are coupled by strong hemp threads or hooks, and the advantages claimed are economy, durability and through adherence to the iron pulley in consequence of the electricity it develops.

The Educational Campaign.

Wake Forest College has done the proper and patriotic thing in changing the time for the opening of its Summer School from June 23 to June 28, in order that it may not conflict with the Teachers' Assembly. The University ought, if possible, to do likewise, and throw its whole strength to the Assembly. It will necessitate a postponement of only five days. The local taxation election occurs in August all over North Carolina, and at the Assembly plans must be worked out to make the campaign and the enthusiasm of all educators must be kindled to fever heat.—Raleigh News & Observer, May 15th.

Coke and Cole.

Senator Coke of Texas was once pitted in some kind of race against a man named Cole, who was an eloquent speaker and was getting rather the better of him. The Coke party gave a big barbecue, but their best speaker could not be on hand. The committee discovered that no talent was available except a rough and tumble fellow who had been a coal miner in West Virginia. He consented, when called on, and the committee was in fear and trembling, wondering what he would do. But they didn't fear and tremble long. "Feller citizens," said the speaker, "I am here today to talk to you about Coke and Cole. You know me, and you know I know what I'm talking about, and I want to ask you if you know the difference between Coke and Cole. But it ain't necessary; every man of you knows that the difference between them is the gas that is in the Cole."—San Francisco Argonaut.

India Dialects.

India has hundreds of dialects, which may all be classed under three great heads, the Sanscrit, Pracrit and Magadhi. The Sanscrit is the fundamental language and that of the Vedas; the Pracrit, the vernacular language in many dialects, and the Magadhi or Misra is that of Ceylon and the islands.

queer Kinds of Spectacles.

Spectacles, to enable the user to see objects near at hand or at a distance, are made in a variety of forms. In a common form the glasses are in two parts, joined at the center, the upper halves being of a power suited to distance and the lower halves to reading. Sometimes a piece is cut out of the glass and a piece of a different power is put in its place. Sometimes the variation is made by cementing a wafer of glass over a part of the spectacle glasses, and sometimes by grinding away a part of the spectacle glasses. There are made also spectacles with crescent shaped glasses, the upper part of the glass being cut out entirely; the wearer reads through the glasses and looks over them to see at a distance. There are spectacles called clerical glasses, that are like glasses with the upper halves cut off; the wearer looks down through the glasses to read, and he can see over them without effort when he looks at the congregation.—New York Sun.

The Newspaper in Advertising.

The newspaper is a necessity to success in advertising. Its peculiar field can never be entered by any other class of publications, and, therefore, it possesses qualities as a medium which can never be wrested from it. There is scarcely a family in the land into whose home a newspaper of some description does not find its way. The members of that family may never look inside the covers of a magazine, but they experience a sensation of loss if their newspaper fails to reach them.—Profitable advertising.
