They don't cost too much. They are ready to put on without a wrinkle. You have seen the browns, olives, green mixtures, plaids--the swell colorings of the of the season--we've got them here plenty as pie at a fair. We show the best.

C. T. MUNFORD.

THE COWARD.

If he had lived when knights rode forth in search of bloody fray
And risked their lives for ladies' smiles and for their words of praise,
He would have been a swineherd or perchance some baron's thrall,
For he had little wit and no heroic blood at all.
They dubbed him "gawk" and "dolt" at school, and boys of half his years
Were wont to chafe and bully him and cuff his ample ears,
And he would take his bruises and weep o'er them apart,
Nor dare to seek revenge, because he had a coward's heart.
And when the workmen in the mill made up their minds to strike
This dastard held aloof of course and worked on, cowardlike.
They told him that he robbed their wives and children of their bread.
"My wife and child have got to live!" was all the coward said.
One evening as this craven passed along his homeward way
He saw straight in the motor's path a little one at play.
The car came on at mighty speed; each witness held his breath
And waited for the child to meet a horrifying death.
Then something flashed before the car, and some one screamed with fright,
And men and women closed their eyes upon that awful sight.
O joy! O joy! The babe was saved, and where it was at play
Naught but a coward's lifeless form in mangled fragments lay.
—S. E. Kiser in Cleveland Leader.

Base Ball.

Cincinnati, May 24—The Brooklyn again defeated the Reds today. The visitors scored four runs in the second inning and the Reds were unable to hit Kennedy. Score. Cincinnati, 4; Brooklyn, 6.

Louisville, Ky., May 24—Nichols was too much for the Colonels today and the Bean Eaters won a nicely played game. McGee pitched his first whole game for the home team and barring a little wildness, did good work. Score. Louisville, 3; Boston, 5.

Chicago, May 24—A very small audience saw the Giants win a pitchers battle from the Colts today. A base on balls and three hits in the fourth did the business. The outfielders on both sides had a busy day, nineteen batsmen perishing as a result. Score. Chicago, 1; New York, 4.

Cleveland, May 24—Philadelphia out played Cleveland at every point throughout eight innings and then the Indians pounded Taylor all over the lot and won out. Score. Cleveland, 9; Philadelphia, 8.

Pittsburg, May 24—Pittsburg Baltimore game postponed on account of rain.

St. Louis, May 24—The two tail enders came together today for the first time this season and the senators took a loosely played game by lucky hitting. The Browns touched up McJames freely and King was substituted in the sixth inning. Score. St. Louis, 7; Washington, 13.

The Meeting.

The service for children in the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon was largely attended and an interesting meeting. Mr. Elsom made an earnest talk to the young folks and many of them manifested an interest in their salvation.

Last night he preached a strong sermon against whiskey drinking. He said the man in front of the saloon counter is responsible for the man being behind the counter, for if there were no buyers of whiskey there could be no sellers. He referred to many different classes who are responsible for whiskey drinking—the moderate drinker, the private drinker, the social drinker, the drinking church member, the druggists and doctors who prescribe it, &c., and urged all to stop and turn their influence against the evil. He said he had preached the two sermons here against whiskey because he saw that it was the greatest curse the community had.

He renewed his request for all business houses in town to close Thursday afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock and everybody attend service at that hour. Messrs. J. R. Moore and Wiley Brown have been selected to go among the business men and ask them to close. It is hoped that not one in the town will refuse to do this. God blesses any sacrifice that is made for Him and the business men can lose nothing by closing for an hour.

The cottage prayer meeting this morning was another enjoyable service, in fact all of them are full of feeling and earnestness. The meeting tomorrow morning will be held at the home of Mr. Ola Forbes.

The meeting will close Thursday night and the last day should be made the best.

Since writing the above Messrs. Moore and Brown have made the canvass of the town and found all the merchants and business men willing to close up. We do not remember that this has ever taken place in Greenville before, all business closing for the people to attend prayer meeting. It will stand as a lasting credit to the town.

A Note of Prosperity.

In these days when the voice of the calamity-howler is frequently heard in the land, a cherry note like the following from the Clarksville (Tenn.) Leaf Chronicle has an effect that is truly stimulating:

"Our people are at work—all the people are at work. Look where you will, and business and activity are seen. There is not a mechanic out of employment, and our merchants are all busy. The month of April ran ahead of the same month in any of many years past, and thus far May promises to outstrip itself also. Carpenters, brickmasons and painters are all in demand, and the new work of the plane, the brush and the trowel is everywhere seen. New laborers are in the field. Wires are being stretched and our streets are becoming a perfect network. Other communities may be suffering, but ours has all the appearances of prosperity. There are more goods being sold here than ever before, our merchants are vying with each other to see who can have the prettiest and most attractive stores, and our homes are being beautified and made more inviting. Clarksville is as far ahead of the Clarksville of fifteen years ago as the East is from the West. 'The lines have fallen to us in pleasant places: ours is a goodly heritage; don't say 'hard times' any more. Appropriate to yourself some of the fruits of industry and economy, and help to make a good world better."

The Ways of the World.

Three queens and two kings will be in attendance upon the Victoria jubilee—a full house.

Red tape has tied up in New York warehouses some 15,000 tons of food for the starving people in India.

Over $600,000 is to be spent in Massachusetts for good roads this year. A certain degree of respect must be paid to a people who display such enterprise and intelligence.

A German biologist says that the two sides of the face are never alike. In two out of five the eyes are out of line; one eye is stronger than the other in seven persons out of ten, and the right ear is generally higher than the left.

"The Medical Record" of this city quotes some statistics on the morphine habit from a work recently published in Paris. From this it would seem that morphinomania is most prevalent in Germany, France and the United States, although it has victims in Russia, Sweden, Turkey and the remote East.

Industrial and Statistical.

A seven-pound ground-hog was shot near the Elephant hotel in Back county, Pennsylvania.

Twenty-nine pounds of sugar per annum is said to be the average consumption per man.

Cloves are the unopened flowers of a small tree that is a native of the Molucca Islands.

Eight million bushels of pecans are estimated as an average year's crop in the United States.

The bones and muscles of the human body are capable of over 1,200 different movements.

The most perfect whispering gallery in the world is in the dome of St. Paul's in London.

The largest single fortification in the world is Fortress Monroe. It has already cost over $3,000,000.

In three years the progeny of a pair of rats, under favorable conditions will number 1,000.

The London markets have been flooded with pearls since the outbreak of the plague at Bombay.

The snow in parts of Wyoming is even with the tops of the jack pines, eight and ten feet high.

Over 76,000,000 bushels of Indian corn have been exported from the United States since the beginning of the year which break the record by an immense margin. Our foreign friends are beginning to appreciate a good thing.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

When Patience is Hard.

In reply to Mr. Wanamaker's complaints of the failure of the Republican party to restore prosperity, members of the President's Cabinet and other prominent Republicans ask the country to "have patience."

It is hard to see, however, why the country should do anything of the kind after the circus-poster style of campaign which has become chronic with politicians who propose to make everybody prosperous by increasing the taxes.

In the campaign of 1892 the spell binders talked of the home of the American workingman of the future as glorious with Brussels carpet and pianos, and in 1896 the country was given to understand that the Republican party had at last secured the advance agent of the prosperity through which these splendid dreams were to be realized.

So far as it could be done voters were made to believe that prosperity depends not on thrift, prudence and energy, but on putting some particular man in power at Washington.

When the country does put him in, when the circus does come to town, when the public goes in to realize the gorgeous promises of the bill boards, it finds that giraffe is far from being forty feet high, that the roaring den of lions is one small animal with the mange, and that the monster python, swallowing an ox whole, is hardly larger than a chicken snake.

It is very easy under such circumstances for the ringmaster to call on the audience to be patient with the exhibition, but the audience does not see things from the ring master's standpoint.—N. Y. World.

Two Ways Only.

There are only two ways to assist Cuba. Either we must help it get its independence or, if Spain objects to it then we must close out Spain, bid Weyler and his crowd pack up and go home, and if they won't go, make them go. The time for talking has gone by. It is time now to do something.—Chicago Tribune.

A Five Legged Pig.

J. C. Cooper, of Locke township, has a freak of nature in the way of a pig with five feet. The fifth foot is well developed and framed at the first joint on the left front leg.—Salisbury Watchman.

A Negro Plowed up $10,000.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Just before the emancipation proclamation was issued John Howard, of Loudon county, Tenn., sold four slaves for $10,000. He buried the cash in his horse pasture. Howard died without telling anybody about the buried treasure. Bob Banks, a relative of one of the slaves, recently rented the farm on which Howard lived, and in plowing up the horse pasture unearthed the treasure.

A Distinction Without a Difference.

"A lawyer in a court room may call a man a liar, scoundrel, villain, or a thief, and no one makes a complaint when court adjourns. "If a newspaper prints such a reflection on a man's character there is a libel suit or a dead editor," says the Fourth Estate. The lawyers are given privileges like this because they are officers of court, licensed to assist in helping justice along. See? If you do not, you must be blind.—Galveston News.

Got What He was Looking For.

We rejoice with our journalistic neighbor, the Norfolk Landmark, that one exponent of the "new journalism" has got into hot water. A New York specimen of this genius was sent to Washington in order to get himself arrested and put in an adjoining cell with Broker Chapman, the recalcitrant sugar trust witness, in order to be in a position to get the "inside facts" about the broker's incarceration. He got arrested, but the authorities got on to his little game, and now he is serving a term in a lonely cell, where he can neither interview nor be interviewed.—Charlotte Observer.

The spot on the balcony of the State Capitol at Montgomery, upon which Jefferson Davis stood when inaugurated thirty six years ago as President of the Confederacy of Southern States, was marked on Thursday with elaborate ceremonies by the Society of Daughters of the Confederacy. A handsome twelve inch silver star was embedded in the stone flagging of the veranda as a permanent record of where Mr. Davis stood.

There is a bill before the Pennsylvania Legislature providing for an appropriation of $1,000,000 for road improvements in that State.

Took 21 Needles From a Girl.

Shamokin, Pa.—Jennie Fessler, aged, 14 years, appeared at the breakfast table in Mount Carmel one week ago with her left wrist bandaged. She told her mother it was rheumatism. Yesterday she grew delirious and said that her wrist was full of needles. Dr. Millard removed the bandage, finding the wrist terribly inflamed. Since then he has removed twenty one needles, and this afternoon the girl confessed that for one month she was seized with a mania for thrusting needles in her flesh just to feel the sensation. She also stated that there are a few needles in her body.

THE SURPRISED AVOWAL

When one word is spoken,
When you look you see,
When you take the token,
How'er so slight it be,
The cage's bolt is broken,
The happy bird is free.

There is no unsaying
That love startled word.
It were idle praying
If no more be heard.
Yet, its law obeying,
Who shall blame the bird?

What avails the mending
Where the cage was weak?
What avails the sending
Far the bird to seek
When every cloud is lending
Wings toward yonder peak?

Thrush, could they recapture
You to newer wrong,
How could you adapt your
Strain to suit the throng?
Gone would be the rapture
Of unimprisoned song.

—Robert Underwood Johnson in Century.

Color Photography.

While most photographers are probably still inclined to view with suspicion or with positive incredulity the claims made by its inventor for the Chassigne process of producing pictures that duplicate the colors as well as the forms of nature by a purely chemical operation, yet some presumably hard headed English capitalists have demonstrated their entire confidence in the Parisian's solution of this old problem by purchasing from him the patent rights which he has obtained or applied for in all the countries that grant such rights. The syndicate's plan is to keep the process a strict monopoly. No one will be allowed to buy the formulas for preparing the four liquids by the use of which the colored photographs are produced, but in each country one or more agencies will be established where the liquids will be sold and instruction in their employment given. It will cost some money to secure such an agency.

The United States consul at Frankfurt reports that an offer of £30,000 for the exclusive franchise in Germany has been refused by the London company. The consul, speaking apparently from his own knowledge, declares that, however mysterious the process is, the accuracy and beauty of its results cannot be questioned, while the practical application of it is so easy and should be so inexpensive as to open a new era in reproductive art.—New York Times.

Stands For Mary.

At a school in the country the sentence "Mary milks the cow" was given out to be parsed. The last word was disposed of as follows:

"Cow is a noun, feminine gender, singular number, third person and stands for Mary."

"Stands for Mary!" said the excited pedagogue. "How do you make that out?"

"Because," answered the intelligent pupil, "if the cow didn't stand for Mary, how could Mary milk her?"—Pick Me Up.
