Base Ball.

Pittsburg, June 25--St. Louis hit Hawley pretty hard today, but in a spasmodic way, which did not produce runs. Mark Baldwin, who secured judgment against President Von Der Ahe in his suit for damages for false arrest, attached the St. Louis share of the box receipts today. Attendance 1,800. Score. Pittsburg 6; St. Louis, 4.

Washington, June 25--Mercer lost the first game for Washington today. Ruse was almost invincible in pitching but errors by himself and Warner aided the Senators in getting runs. In the second game McJames did masterly work while Meekin was hit hard. Attendance 11,200. Score. Washington, 6; New York, 11.

Second game--Washington, 6; New York, 4.

Boston, June 25--Hoffer pitched great ball for Baltimore today up to the ninth inning, when he went to pieces. Knobdanz was taken out of the box in the eighth, being replaced by Lewis. The attendance was 10,000. Score. Boston, 10; Baltimore 9.

Brooklyn, June 25--The three pitcher's who took part in today's Brooklyn-Philadelphia game had no chance to show what they were able to do, as the players on both sides appeared to have on their batting clothes. From the third inning until the finish singles, doubles, triplets and home runs almost rained. The attendance was 2,034. Score. Brooklyn, 11; Philadelphia, 13.

STATE NEWS.

July 20th to 29th, near Black Mountain, the International Christian Workers Association will hold an assembly. The railroads throughout the south have granted a rate of one fare to Black Mountain.

There was some excitement at Morehead City one day last week. A young lady from LaGrange had promised to marry two young men, one of them named Wooten from LaGrange, the other named Slocumb, from Goldsboro. She had written a note to Wooten and Slocumb was very anxious to know the contents of it. In order to find out he went to Wooten's room to spend the night with him and after Wooten got to sleep took the note from his pocket. Next morning Wooten missed the note and later saw Slocumb pass it to another party to keep him from getting it. Wooten demanded his note and upon refusal of the other to surrender it drew his pistol and fired several shots, one ball taking effect in the knee of the man to whom Slocumb had passed the note.

All Greenville.

Greenville was once a much smaller town than it now is, and the corporate limits embraced a much more limited territory than at present. It has not been many years since the boundary line on the west of town extended no further than the front of Cherry Hill Cemetery, and on the south of town even the Male Academy was not within the corporate limits.

When Col. Harry Skinner laid off the cotton patch west of town into lots and people began building there it very naturally took the name of Skinnerville, and when Mr. Alfred Forbes put his corn field on the south into lots and houses commenced springing up over there, that section just as naturally took the name of Forbestown. Notwithstanding both these sections have later come within the corporate limits every body has gone right on calling them by their former names without ever thinking that some day newcomers and people not so familiar with the town might get the names confused and think Skinnerville and Forbestown were other towns close by Greenville.

But it is all one town and Greenville should be mentioned every time. When it is necessary to designate any particular section the word west or south might be prefixed. And the REFLECTOR makes this suggestion, that the section of the town lying west of the railroad be referred to as West Greenville and the section south of the Academy grove as South Greenville. So far as this paper is concerned it will hereafter adopt these names in speaking of those sections of the town.

Death Caused by Lye.

Mr. Thomas Carson, who lived near Permele, died on Sunday. Mr. Carson was a very old man and for a year or more his mind has been impaired. On Saturday he in some way got hold of a box of concentrated lye and drank some of the contents, from the effects of which he died next day. It is believed he drank the lye without knowing what he was doing. He was one of the oldest members of the Robersonville Masonic lodge, and that order buried him today with Masonic honors.

Lamp Causes Alarm.

Greenville has had a rest from fire alarms for some weeks, but just before 10 o'clock on Saturday night the bell began ringing and caused intense excitement for a short while. The alarm came from the residence of Mrs. Mary A. Bernard, on Evans street. A lighted lamp in the second story was showing a disposition to explode and was thrown out the window. It fell on the roof of the porch below when the oil ran out and caused a high blaze. The lamp was knocked off the roof and the burning oil smothered out before any damage was done to the building.

Messrs. W. E. Tucker & Co. will open a stock of general merchandise at Grimesland in about two weeks. They are having a large store building erected there for this purpose.

MONDAY, JUNE 28, 1897.

The board of education, clerk of the court and register of deeds will elect a county supervisor of public schools for each county on the first Monday in July. State Superintendent Mebane announces that he will not officially recognize any one elected to the position of supervisor who is not a practical teacher, and that if other than a practical teacher is elected he will have to secure recognition through the courts if at all.

SUPT. MEBANE'S ADDRESS.

Delivered Before the Teachers' Assembly.

It is under peculiar circumstances that I am to speak to you this morning. I am to have something to say in regard to a class of officers that is in the future. The county supervisor will come into existence on the first Monday in July. While I have to deal with something that does not now exist, yet I hope to be able to present you, the representatives of education in North Carolina, some of the characteristics and qualifications that we hope to have in the men who are to be our county supervisors.

First I will make the assertion that we have a right to expect greater results from the efforts in the interest of our public schools, from the county supervisor, than we ever received from the county superintendent or the county examiner. Why do I say this? Upon what do I base my expectations? It is this, because section 7 of the general school law as passed by the last General Assembly says that the county supervisor shall be a practical school teacher. What is a practical school teacher? He is a man whose business is that of teaching, a man whose profession is that of teaching. We want a school man and no other for county supervisor. A man who even taught two years ago and has since engaged in other business as a profession I shall not call him a practical teacher, but I shall declare such a man ineligible to the office of county supervisor. Yes, my friends, the law calls for a practical teacher to fill the important office of county supervisor, and we expect just such a man in every county in North Carolina. How was it under our former school laws? Who were our county superintendents? While we had some wideawake, energetic school men for county superintendents, some men who made sacrifices for the schools, whose hearts were in this work; men by whose energies and perseverance the standard of scholarship was raised among their teachers, men who taught their teachers how to teach, men who gave life and inspiration to schools over which they had control; while we had some such men as these, we also had very many lawyers, preachers, doctors, merchants and others who would secure the office of county superintendent to supplement their salaries or other business in which they were engaged. The trouble was not with the office, but with the officers. Some of these men seemed to be more interested in their per diem and number of days they could charge against the school fund than they were in the progress of the schools of their counties. I sincerely hope we will not have county supervisors of this character. What can we expect of our public schools if they are to receive their life and inspiration from a man who devotes his efforts and energies to preaching the gospel? There is no class of men for whom I have a more profound respect than for the ministers of the gospel, but we do not want them for our county supervisors. What may we expect if this life and inspiration is to come from a lawyer who will only give a day of thought now and then to school and education? What can we expect if this life and inspiration must come from a man engaged in general mercantile business whose mind is absorbed in his business, or should be? Such a man as this to lead the educational forces of a county, and yet we have had just such men in many of our counties. If we have no school men, no educators for these important offices, then it is a burning shame for the professional teacher. I, as the official head of the public school system, say we have the men. I say we have practical teachers to fill these important offices, and I say further that we must have school men in these offices.

Would a physician think of calling on a teacher to examine medical students for license? Would the lawyer of North Carolina call on a school teacher for legal advice? Would the merchant ask the advice and guidance of the teacher in his business transactions? These questions are simply absurd, and yet there is just as much sense in doing these things as there is in asking these men to do the work of education. The ministers, the lawyers, the doctors, and the merchants all have their places, and theirs is a noble work, or should be. But away with such men as educational leaders! We want men for supervisors whose hearts are in the school work, whose interest and chief concern are for the improvement of the public schools, a man who can and will come in close touch with the people, who will make special efforts to interest the parents of our State in the education of their children, and will show to these parents the importance of making use of the opportunities now offered in the schools and thus largely increase the average attendance of our schools.

We want supervisors who will give life and inspiration to the public school teachers, who can and will guide and direct worthy young teachers who are striving to become more efficient workers in the schools, a man that can give practical, common-sense instruction as to the government of schools and methods of teaching. A man, who, when he visits the schools and finds poor management and poor teaching, will have the tact and judgment to make order and system out of confusion and chaos. My friends if you can have such men as these for county supervisors, and we may and will have them if the county boards of education and the clerks of our courts and registers of deeds of the respective counties will only have the courage to do their whole duty. Such men as I have been describing will not be around seeking this important office, but it is my honest desire to have these boards seek the men. Here are cases in which it is all important for the offices to seek the men.

Consider for one moment what it means for our public schools to have 6 men going in and out among our people in the great work of educating the masses. Ninety-six men who are able to reach the parents and the voters of the counties; ninety-six men of character and real worth and not politicians or narrow, selfish one-sided men; ninety-six men in whom the people have confidence and for whom they have respect; ninety-six men who will have the courage to tell the people the whole truth as to our ignorance and our neglect of educating our thousands of poor children, ninety-six men who will not spend their time rejoicing over the glorious things for the future, but men who will take up the work of today, men who will act in the living present and do something now to drive ignorance and superstition from our midst; do something now to feed the hungry minds of our thousands of precious boys and girls in North Carolina; ninety-six men to persuade and to show the parents their duty in regard to sending their children to school; ninety-six men to tell the parents that unless the attendance in our public schools is largely increased within the next two years, that the State of North Carolina will compel them to send these children to school.

The last and perhaps most important of all is ninety-six men who will carry ninety-six townships in North Carolina for local taxation at the August election and cause the State Superintendent to issue ninety-six warrants for $500 each making the sum of $48,000 from the State and even the same amount in the townships would make the sum of $96,000. We hope, however, in many townships these amounts will be $1,000 or even $1,500, thus making a grand total of $125,000 for the public schools.

BICYCLING IN THE TYROL.

Strong and Heavy Wheels in Use in the Mountainous Regions.
We found that the bicycle fever had reached even to our landlord, who was experimenting with an iron rimmed wheel, over which the saddle was supported by a pair of elliptic springs. L—tried it and said it went very well, though not so soft as the "pneu." I lifted it and did not care to go farther. I told him it was too heavy. He said, "Mawknix; muss starker sein" (That's nothing; you must be stronger). Probably the extra weight of this wheel would not be considered in fixing the load that a Tyrolean peasant would carry over the hills from the fields and need not be regarded as an obstruction to sport. The wheels here are all much heavier than ours and much stronger. They can be sent up hill by the tougher thews that grow in this land, and for safety in going down hill they have very effective brakes. The best brake has two pieces of rubber about 2 1/2 inches long and three-quarters of an inch square, which are held flat against the two quarters of the tire. It holds very firmly, and its friction does not come on the part that is subject to the greatest wear. It is used not with a steady pressure, but with successive light squeezes. When one becomes accustomed to it, it gives excellent control to any degree desired, even to holding the machine stock still under any load and on any grade. Even the usual flat brake has a rubber face, which holds better and lasts longer than metal. My American brakes were "not in it" on these hills as compared with those of the local wheels I rode.

The use of the brake is exacted by law in all towns, and it is almost universal on country roads. So is the furnishing of the wheel with a bell, but the better riders in Innsbruck do not use this in the city streets. They say they can make their way safely at a moderate speed if the people keep on their way, while if they are disturbed and made nervous by a bicycle bell they are liable to make some unexpected movement that may lead to a collision. I remember a case of mutual dodging at a street crossing in New York between myself and a lady whom my bell had startled which came near being annoying. Perhaps the custom in Paris of hanging a little sleighbell loosely from the handle bar is safer. It jingles all the time, somewhat to the annoyance of the rider. But it has a faint horse car suggestion which keeps the public on the lookout. Nowhere in Europe did I see the brutal quadruped scorching that is such a nuisance and such a danger with us.

Another device I found to be in very general use in Tyrol. This is a snap clip for holding the front wheel in line with the machine, so that it may be stood against a tree or any other support without falling. It is useful in pushing up hill with the hand on the saddle. The direction is changed by lifting the hind wheel to right or left. The clip is set or released in a moment.

As we left our lunching place we found the young towheads of the farm standing in mute and respectful wonderment about our wheels. We gave them a bit of a ride, two at a time, and left them enriched with the memory of a sensation they had never before known and will never repeat and will never forget.—Colonel George E. Waring, Jr., in Century.

Chess More Ancient Than Supposed.
Chess players with a turn for the history of their strategic amusement will be interested to learn that all the hypotheses as to the origin of the game have suddenly been "mated" by a recent extraordinary discovery in Egypt. It was generally assumed until now that the ancient Indians had invented chess that it was introduced from India to Persia in the sixth century, and that by the Arabs and in consequence of the crusades it spread from east to west. It is true the Chinese—who invented many things in times long gone by which had to be reinvented in Europe—assert that they can trace chess in their own country to about 200 years before our era. Now there can certainly be no doubt in the character of the figures at present used, and in some of the words connected with the game—such as "schach" (shah) and "mat," or mate—an Indian, Persian and Arabic influence is traceable. But here comes news of the latest excavations on the pyramid field of Sakkara, which have brought to light a wall painting, on which a high official is represented as playing chess with a partner at the time of the government of King Teti, who belonged to the sixth dynasty. Professor Lepsius formerly assigned the reign of that monarch to about the year 2700 B. C. Professor Brugsch, correcting this chronology, puts it back to still greater antiquity—namely, to the year 3300 B. C., so that chess would have been known in the once mysterious land of Mizraim something like 5200 years ago.—Popular Science News.

Swift Creek Crops.
The extreme southern section of the county has suffered exceedingly from drouth, and last week had the first good rain that has fallen down there in more than a month. Mr. J. B. Latham, of Centreville, who was here today, told us tobacco crops would be almost a failure and bugs had nearly ruined the corn. INSINCERITY.

I do not like to hear him pray,
Who loans at twenty five per cent,
For then I think the borrower may
Be pressed to pay for good, and rent
And in that book we all should heed
Which says the lender shall be blest
As sure as I have eyes to read
It does not say, "Take interest."

I do not love to hear him pray,
On bended knees about an hour
For grace to spend a right the day
Who knows his neighbour has no
flour,
I'd rather see him go to mill
And buy the luckless brother bread,
And see his children eat their fill
And laugh beneath their humble shed.

I do not like to hear him pray,
"Let blessing son the widow be"
Who never seeks her home to say
If want o'er takes you come to me.
I hate the prayer so loud and long
That's offered to the orphans
weal
By him who sees him crushed by wrong
And only with the lips doth feel.

I do not like to hear her pray,
With jeweled ear and silken dress,
Whose washer-woman toils all day
And then is asked to work for less.
Such pitous shavers I despise,
With folded hands and face demure
They lift to Heaven their angel eyes,
Then steal the earnings of the poor.

I do not like such soulless prayers,
If wrong I hope to be forgiven,
No angel's wing them upward bears,
They're lost a million miles from Heaven.
