Base Ball.

Louisville, Ky., August 4—Two games were to have been played here today, but in the second inning of the first game, with the score 3 to 2 in the home team's favor, Burkett called Umpire Wolfe a vile name, and was ordered out of the game. Tebeau refused to put a man in to bat for Burkett, and after waiting five minutes, Wolfe gave the game to Louisville, 9 to 0.

The Indians played as if they did not care whether school kept or not in the second game; and the Colonels won easily. In the ninth inning Burket again insulted Umpire Wolfe, and was ordered out of the game. He refused to leave first base, and the Umpire called two policemen, and the Indians' left fielder was ejected from the grounds.

Right Fielder McCreery has been traded to New York for Dad Clark and a money consideration, and Pitcher Miller given ten day's notice of his release. Score. Louisville, 7; Cleveland, 4.

Cincinnati, O., August 4—The Reds and Pittsburgs played two games today. Killen pitched the first game for the visitors, and the Reds found him easy. The second game was called in the sixth inning, on account of darkness, with the score a tie.

In the second inning Hurst had given the Reds the worst of a decision, and an irate rooter rolled a beer glass into the diamond. Umpire Hurst picked up the glass and threw it into Rooters' Row, and hit John Cartuyveilles over the right eye, inflicting a serious wound. A patrol wagon was immediately called and Hurst was arrested, charged with assault and battery. Red Bittman took Hurst's place as umpire. Score. Cincinnati, 14; Pittsburg 3.

Second game—Cincinnati, 4; Pittsburg, 4.

Brooklyn, N. Y., August 4—Although the Washingtons arrived at Eastern Park today but a few minutes before the time for play, their train being late, they managed to put up a game that would be a credit to any club. It was not until the eleventh inning that the home team was able to claim the victory. Shoch's two bagger and Grim's single, after Lachance flew out, did the trick. Shoch was the hero of the day in the field, while Anderson and Grim shared in the batting honors. Score. Brooklyn, 2; Washington 1.

Chicago, August 4—The Browns closed their season here today by taking a hard fought but loosely played game from the Colts. Both sides batted hard from the start. Callahan lost his game in the ninth by presenting two bases and making a wild pitch. Lally shut off several long hits by sensational catches. Score. Chicago, 12; St. Louis, 13.

PUBLIC SCHOOL FARCE.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 5th '97.

EDITOR REFLECTOR—There seems to be great dissatisfaction in some sections of our State in regard to the new school law and the special tax to be voted on the 10th inst. That it has caused feuds and bad blood in some townships cannot be doubted.

This is caused not so much on account of the special school tax, but the opposition is mainly against the school management now in the hands of bitter partizan committees and vicious and incompetent Boards and Supervisors. To show the animus by which they are governed, the attention of the public should be called especially to the resolution introduced by Mr. I. H. Fleming before the Wake County Board of Education. The resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, it would be detrimental to the public school system to appoint colored committees to look after the interest of the white schools either in whole or in part."

It is therefore resolved that such colored school committeemen as may be appointed are expressly appointed by the Board to assist in looking after the interest of the colored schools and it is the opinion of this Board that such committeemen should not interfere with the control of the white schools either in the employment of teachers or otherwise."

It is claimed that the negroes were only appointed to look after their own schools, and would not be permitted under any circumstances to have anything to do with white schools, but it should be known among all our people that the Mongrel Board, except Mr. Fleming of course, for the county in which is located the Capitol of the State, gives it out officially that the negroes shall have a voice in the management of white schools. In some counties of the State, worthy, industrious and intelligent negroes have been appointed as committeemen, but with an intelligence far superior to their appointees, and seeing the disastrous result which will follow such a suicidal policy, they have promptly resigned or failed to qualify. Those who hold on do so with the hellish intent of creating dissensions and ill will and to retard not only our educational interest but to wreck and ruin organized society. Men with anglo saxon blood in their veins should consider well before they vote their hard earnings to increase their power, by means of more funds, to succeed in their satanic purpose. Many good citizens, who, under favorable auspices would gladly use their influence to promote our public schools, will scorn to do so under present environments.

The Board of Education of Wake is a fair sample of those in other counties. It was given out that all Supervisors should be men who were practical teachers and were professionally prepared to perform their duties. Instead of that we have broken down, backwood populist exhorters, notoriously incompetent and far inferior in intellect learning and character to many of those who appear before them for examination.

It maybe said that prominent men are taking leading parts in canvassing for this special tax. This is true; but it should be observed that they select such counties as are dominated by men of high standing, whose Board of Education and Supervisor are broad gauged and liberal minded and have only the public good in view. On the other hand no effort is being made in Wake and other counties where greedy fusionist pie hunters control. If there is an honest populist or white republican in the State, out of office, who is not ashamed of the whole damnable business then he is to be pitied as an enemy of his race and country. R. W. J.

Spared for a Worse Fate.

"There's a poor devil I sympathize with." The head of the firm laid aside his paper and turned to his partner, says the Detroit Free Press.

"You don't claim that he did right?" "I do claim that he's better than the man he shot, and if he needs money to make a defense, he can have it."

A Master of Education.

I was sitting on a keg of nails in a West Virginia mountain store watching a native dickering with the merchant over a trade of a basket of eggs for a calico dress.

"It isn't any business of mine," I said, "but I was watching that trade, and was surprised to see you let the eggs go for the dress."

"What for?" he asked, in astonishment, as he mounted his horse. "How many eggs did you have?" "Basket full."

"How many dozen?" "Dunno. Can't count."

"That's where you miss the advantages of education. With knowledge, you might have got two dresses for those eggs."

"But I didn't want two dresses misbegotten. Not, but that was no merchant got the his education."

He looked at me for a minute, as if he felt real sorry for me. Then he grinned and pulled his horse over close to me.

"I reckon," he half whispered, casting furtive glances toward the store, "his education ain't so much more'n mine ez you think it is. He don't know how many uv them aigs is spiled, an' I do," and he rode away before I could argue further.—Boston Herald.

SETTING HIM RIGHT.

A Georgia farmer employed the poet of the village to write some obituary verses on the death of his brother. He gave the poet all the points at his command, and the latter began as follows:

"He lived this life of pain an' strife, Paid all that he did owe, An' said one day: I jest can't stay: I reckon I must go."

"That's just what he did say," commented the farmer, "so on."

"Upon the skies he set his eyes— The Christain brave an' bold; An' then he took the heavenly prize— A crown an' harp of gold."

"Stop right thar, John," exclaimed the old man; "stop right thar an' change that. He wuz fer silver ter the last!"

Saw Through His Nose.

Several authors of the sixteenth century mentioned the existence of a man who, having lost his eyesight, could see through his nose. The story, much doubted at the time and pronounced fabulous by physicians, is nevertheless, true if the researches of E. Duoliot prove correct.

It seems that the victim had lost his right eye early in life, and later on, while climbing on a cherry tree, fell upon a fence, the pickets horribly mutilating cheek and the nose. The surgeon called in considered the eye entirely destroyed, sewed up the wound and it healed in time, forming a large scar where the eye had been.

A year later the man, then considered stone blind, laid in the grass, when he surprised himself by discovering that he could perceive through the cavity of the nose the sky and the color of the flowers on the meadow around him.

From that time on he practiced for five or six years to see with his nose, which to him became gradually the organ of vision. He gradually became more proficient in seeing in this way, and could see anything beneath while he remained quite insensible to the light from above.

The condition of this man can be explained scientifically. Although the lens of the eye had been torn from its socket by the fall of the optic membrane and the nerves at the rear of the cavity of the eye had retained some of the seeing power. When the eye had healed together a small hole in the bone of the nose must have formed, which acted as a lens in the same way as a pinhole can be used to take a photographic picture. This also proves that the retina of the eye acts like a camera obscura where the objects from the outside become visible after passing through a small opening.—Philadelphia Record.

Anecdotes.

Mark Twain once attended a missionary meeting in Hartford at which a missionary made an address. After listening to the agonizing story of suffering, Mark Twain said to himself: "For God's sake, send that plate around, so that I can pour my sympathy into it. I'll give you these four $100 bills, and if I can get a piece of paper, I'll write a check for something more. I can very well spare a little money for a cause like that."

But the lecturer went on talking, and as he talked Twain's enthusiasm calmed. "And when the missionary had been talking for half an hour," he continues, "I had saved one of those bills, and when he had talked five minutes more two of those bills were mine again, and when he had been talking an hour I had won all four back, and by gosh, when he finally did send that plate around, I borrowed 10 cents of it to pay my car fare home."

Legs Los. in Battle

"I can tell almost to a certainty to which branch of the service he belonged when I see an old soldier staking around on one leg," said Col. Lamar Fountain, of Mississippi, the famous confederate scout and poet, who was at the Laclede yesterday.

If the left leg is missing then I am pretty certain he belonged to the infantry, and if he is minus the right leg, then I feel safe in betting that he was a cavalryman. In either case the absence of the leg proves more conclusively than the written record that the man who lost it was fighting like a soldier when wounded.

"The reason the infantryman loses the left leg in battle is this: Infantrymen are drilled to place the left foot forward when firing in order to balance the body so that steadier aim can be taken. This naturally acts as a protection to the right leg, which, of course, is more or less concealed. Consequently, the bullet of the enemy is much more apt to find lodgment in the left leg than the right. Now the cavalryman uses a pistol nearly altogether. It is handier and less cumbersome. The pistol is held in the right hand, and this causes the cavalryman when firing to place his right foot forward for support.

In this way that side of him is much more likely to suffer than the left. But, as I have said, either case is conclusive evidence to me that the soldiers thus maimed were facing the enemy when shot. The loss of the leg indicates almost to a certainty that the sufferer was standing in military position and not crouching or running."—St. Louis Republic.

A Sermon

A colored exhorter enlarging on the impossibility of rich men getting into heaven said;

"Latherus: When he wuz on de airth he ax Diwees for de crumbs dat fall from his table. 'En what, did Diwees do ter him? He calls his dog. Moreover, en sick him on Latherus. Latherus put up a purty good fight, but de dog licked him! Den Diwees wuz so mad dat he took a fit en died en when he wake up he fin' himself in hellfire, en he look troo de skylight en see Latherus en Eather Abraham in a huggin' match en de call ter Latherus ter turn on de water he'd pay de bill. 'En what did Latherus say? He des lean over de banister en holler out: 'Go along, man, en shet yo' monf. De water wuz cut off on de tenth. Milk en honey is de bes' I got!"

We see by the newspapers that certain very rich men have been forming a syndicate to rob the farmers by putting down the price of beef and rob the consumers by putting the price up. We do not care what churches they attend or what colleges they endow, they are no better than highway robbers and if we had the power every one of them should be sentenced to hard labor 10 years in State prison for the first offence, and to State prison for life for the second.—George T. Angell in Our Dumb Animals.

Got the Wrong Leg A Georgia drummer had a customer whose name was Legg. The latter failed in business and the drummer who happened to be on hand at the time, telegraphed his firm: "Legg has broke." The firm placed the wrong construction on the telegram and replied: "Sorry. See a physioian, and keep sober."

They Need More Help.

The committee of the Rough and Ready Fire Company who were soliciting funds to send delegates to the meeting of the State Association at Winston, on the 10th, made a canvass today and report that they still lack about $10 having enough raised. They renew their request to the citizens to help them in this matter and ask any others willing to contribute to the fund to leave their contributions at the REFLECTOR office by Saturday evening. The firemen are deserving of this help and we hope the necessary amount for them to send delegates will be raised.
