THE COLONEL IN TEXAS.

HOUSTON, TEX., Aug. 4th, 1897.
 EDITOR REFLECTOR:—At 3:30 P. M. I turned my back upon the blue waves of the Gulf and faced the prairies of Texas to take up my journey homeward. In company with me was Mr. J. H. Manning, of South Carolina, one of the cleverest of men and a practical, intelligent, prosperous farmer who grows fine tobacco. He is going to send some of his bright tobacco to Greenville to get advantage of the high prices the golden weed brings on our market.

On our route we encountered a fearful sand storm that was disastrous in many places. It was dreadful, and pebbles from the prairie pelted the car windows like grape shot. The velocity of the wind was estimated at 66 miles per hour. Many houses in Houston were blown down and damaged. I have faced many storms, but do not care to again encounter such a serious novelty as this. These storms are peculiar to prairie lands.

Houston is a splendid city of 70,000 inhabitants, with many features of interest including a Salvation Army. A fellow can have a picnic with pistols any time and they are always handy.

When the death rate becomes stagnant parties from a distance come down here, get married and by agreement commit suicide in two days. Such a case occurred at the Hotel Hutchinson where we quartered. I was shown the room in which the young couple were found dead from morphine. There were letters showing that the suicide was a part of the ante nuptial agreement. The room was an elegant one and seemed no worse for such a tragedy having occurred in it, but I quietly asked the polite clerk to give us another room, fearing our interest in Texas might cause us to catch the infection. He did so and we are two as fine looking "corpses" as you can see in the Lone Star State. In this particular I am in no hurry to become acclimated.

Next day the death rate began. One fellow killed another, and to save expenses to the county and State—a precedent in this progressive State—he simply killed himself on the spot. This matter of disposing of the criminal docket is not favored by the legal profession, but there is nothing like economy in these days of McKinley prosperity.

By the way just here, I encountered quite a funny thing in Galveston which I can't understand and haven't time to investigate. On Tuesday an election was held in Texas on a question of taxation for irrigation purposes. As usual the barrooms and banks were closed. Why the banks closed I can't understand as it is not compulsory. Nevertheless I took with me $25 in gold from Atlanta, but found it no good in Texas. A caucus of Democrats was recently held which declared for silver, and I could not get a $10 gold piece changed. One fellow, a dealer in diamonds, offered to lend me $7.50 on a $10 gold eagle. Finally I stepped into the Tremont hotel and was refused again, but an elderly lady was standing by and cleverly offered to change the money if I would go next door. I did so and got two $5 bills for the coin. She was in favor of the gold standard and not bound by the caucus. I gave her my address, thanked her and left thinking what a punishment Texas people inflicted upon a gold bug. It is thought things will change by 1900 and gold will be worth as much in Texas as silver or greenbanks. There is nothing like the school of experience and on my next Texas trip I won't take any gold along, but will read the papers and find out the sentiments of the last financial caucus.

I find two favorite dishes here that I never heard of before—they are "Hot Tamales" and "Chillee Concarne." I will have to tell about these when I get back to the State of Pitt.

The weather ran the gantlet on Fahrenheit today at 107, and fearing sunstroke or some other fearful result I decided to pull out for a more genial climate.

I find Brann's Iconoclast orthodox on all questions of "Extra Acute Smart Alexness" in the State of Texas and is read as familiar literature, and he who falls under the hatchet of Domicles never disputes a second time. Brann's Iconoclast is popular on all the trains and at all new depots. He never fails to reform his antagonist, and is regarded as the Ajax of the closing century. What a pity there is not a Brann or two in every State for the reformation of statesmen and patriots for revenue only, and sectarian blather-skites who carry what little brains they have in the abdomen instead of the cranium. I trust this Vulcan of the nineteenth century will pardon my familiarity but I feel refreshed whenever I come in contact with his sledge hammer blows at modern political reformers and sanctified soul savers.

I. A. SUGG.

Base Ball.

Brooklyn, August 6—McJames lasted but two innings today. German took his place, but cared no better. After the second inning the game was no longer in doubt. Score. Brooklyn, 15; Washington, 5.

Chicago, August 6—Two lightning double plays by the Colts at critical points with men on second and third both times, won a close and scrappy game from the Indians today. Dahlen and Connor were kept very busy, their fielding and Calahan's batting being the features. Score. Chicago, 7; Cleveland 5.

Boston, August 6—For five innings today the Bostons were unable to touch Pond, while the Baltimores hit Klobedanz hard. The home team then took a brace and in the next four innings batted Pond out of the box. Nops replaced him in the ninth, while Klobedanz was invincible. Baltimore would have scored in the ninth but for a magnificent throw of Duffy to the plate, cutting off Quinn, who was running from third base home for McGraw, who was injured in reaching third. The batting of Duffy and Lowe and the fielding of Jennings, McGraw and Keeler were the features. Score. Boston, 6; Baltimore, 5.

Philadelphia, August 6.—The Phillies were powerless before Seymour today. For seven innings they could not get the ball out of the diamond. Cooley's home run in the eighth saved a shut out. Score. Philadelphia, 2; New York, 9.

St. Louis, August 6—The Pittsburgs today won a fourteen inning game from the Browns. Both Donahue and Hawley pitched well. The fielding was good, Houseman making a phenomenal one hand running catch. Score. St. Louis, 4; Pittsburg, 5.

The Fools Not Dead.

In these days of cheap sewing machines, agents have recently been in this county and sold over 50 sewing machines at $65 each, amounting to about $3,000. With the experience of our people in paying $65 for $25 stoves, and $39 for $10 clocks, it is a little surprising that so many could be found who would pay $65 for a $25 sewing machine...

A Wonderful Child

The most wonderful child that ever lived, or probably will ever live, in the history of the world, was little Christian Heinrich Heinecke, born at Lubbeck, Germany, Feb. 6, 1721, and died June 27, 1725. When but nine and half months old this child could pronounce every word in the German language; when one year old he had familiarized himself with all the leading events of the world's history and knew more of Pentateuch than all the learned men of his day. At fourteen months he could give a complete history of every book in both the Old and New Testaments...

A Hoodoo From Texas

One of the great tricks of ex-Senator Reagan, of Texas, while in office, was the making of "cat cradles." All day long he would sit in his seat making the most complicated devices with a long string, the end tied to his fingers, and to an observer in the gallery it would appear as though the whole weight of his intellect was devoted solely to the proper manipulation of the strings on his fingers, says the Louisville Dispatch.

Another peculiarity of the senator was an annoyance to some of his superstitious colleagues. He had a great way of selecting any seat on the democratic side, provided that it was not his own. Whenever a democratic senator was sick Mr. Reagan invariably appropriated his chair, and, as during the course of his career in the Senate a number of his colleagues died, Mr. Reagan began to be looked upon as a hoodoo for any sick senator whose chair he could appropriate. It is well remembered that on one occasion when Senator Vance was sick, he wrote up to Senator Pasco, who arranges the pairs for absent senators telling him he was sick, and adding pathetically: "For heavens sake don't let Reagan have my chair." Senator Vance's chair was taken out of the Senate chamber.

Physiological Effect of Cycling.

Cycling is not monotonous, and while calling for attention on the part of the rider, it makes no exhausting demand upon his mental energies. But it is in the wonderful range of exercise that it offers to its devotees that cycling stands pre eminent. Mount a rider on a cycle on a level road, and the amount of force necessary to carry him fifty yards is infinitesimal compared to that expended in walking the same distance. But although the effort expended is so small, his legs are subjected to a rapidity and extent of movement as great as in running. That little force is used is shown by his breathing. His wind is not affected. We have said before that a man breathes when he wants air. He wants fresh air when the carbonic acid gas in his blood has reached a certain percentage. Now, in accordance with the law that every effort reduces some minute portion of the body to ashes, it follows that the greater the effort the more the carbonic acid gas. But, since the more the ashes the oftener a man wants to breathe, it is practically the same thing to say that effort may be measured by the rapidity and depth of the breathing. A cyclist going at a moderate pace does not breathe rapidly. But on the other hand, his legs are in rapid motion. Let us remember it is movement, not effort, that quickens circulation. The rider is not breathing rapidly, but the blood is circulating freely through his whole body. His lungs get an abundant supply, and his breathing being unembarrassed, the air he inspires is generously absorbed. In other words, he manufactures little carbonic acid gas, but he takes in a large supply of oxygen. The blood in his arterial system becomes a vivid scarlet. Muscular movement draws the blood to the extremities, in the absence of having to pump against a stagnant circulation, has only to "follow on." This, then, is the condition of a rider cycling in moderation; he is developing his muscles by exercise; not the leg muscles only, but also those of the loins, back, abdomen, chest and arms: his heart is beating easily, his lungs are doing their work to perfection and there is circulating in his blood more life-giving oxygen than his body well knows what to do with.—Chamber's Journal.

Milk Bricks Abroad.

Milk may be bought by the brick in summer, just the same as some kinds of ice cream. It will be frozen solid, though, and if intended for use as soon as received in the household the lacteal fluid for the tea or coffee will have to be chipped off with the handle of the knife and fork, according to the quantity desired in the drink. From a fad, frozen milk has grown to be more or less of a necessity in the warmer countries in Europe. The Belgian government designs to increase the trade at an annual outlay of £10,000, and in Copenhagen, the capital of Denmark, a company has been formed and arrangements have been completed for the regular export of frozen milk. The necessary plant has been erected, and contracts have been made already for the delivery of 110,000 pounds per week, which will be sent to all parts of the world in bricks or blocks like ice.—London Sun.

Evidences of Progress.
There are many evidences of industrial progress in North Carolina, aside from the increasing hum of the cotton factories. Railroads are in course of construction, or their ways are being surveyed. Telephone lines are joining many of the towns. Hotels in the mountains and at the seashore are prospering; the State has become famous as a summer resort. The trucking, mining, and fishing industries are being rapidly developed. Dairying and fruit raising have come rapidly to the front; also the raising of poultry for markets outside the State. Now, these are, more or less, minor industries; but in the aggregate they employ many, and bring in large returns of money. North Carolina is going forward; it will always be an agricultural State first, but even in agriculture her capabilities are so many and so diverse that she will be sure to hit some crop favorably for the seasons every year. There is no better State to grow up in, especially during the present period of transition.—Biblical Recorder.

The returns made to the State board of equalization from counties show some queer things. While Forsyth county returns 10 dogs, valued altogether at $30.61, Martin returns only one dog, valued at $150, Caldwell county reports no less than 75 jacks and Martin one. Mules are valued as follows in various counties: Robeson $42.31; Lincoln $42.43; Hertford $22.59; Davie $32.31; Davidson $27.52; Bladen $51.34. Cattle are valued $5.55 in Chatham, $8.04 in Forsyth, $9.35 in Alleghany. Sheep are valued at 68 cents in Lenoir, 75 in Duplin, $1 in Clay, $1.05 in Hertford, $1.07 in Alleghany. Jacks are valued at $15 in Washington and $275 in Hertford. Bicycles are valued at $44.44 in Swain, $57.81 in Forsyth, $15.53 in Washington, $10, in McDowell, $14.46 in Davie, $11.59 in Alleghany. The disparity in those values is absurd. It shows the need of reform in valuations.—Raleigh Correspondence/Charlotte Observer

His Application Refused
G. C. L. Junker, a Populist justice of the peace, elder of the church, leading politician and land owner of Crab Orchard township, made application before the board of county commissioners yesterday to have his aged mother admitted to the poorhouse of the county. The board refused the application. Charlotte News.

Training That Kills.
Joseph Jefferson has taken up the cudgels against undue athletic training, which he says "kills off more people than it cures. The strain undermines the system, forces the heart to a task far beyond its powers, and as a result there is a collapse of the life machinery long before the appointed time." Mr. Jefferson says that he met Lawrence Barrett some years ago on a street corner in Boston, and Barrett said he was waiting for a car to take him to a gymnasium. "What's the matter with walking?" said Jefferson. "That's better exercise than you will get at the gymnasium, and it will save you the trouble of going there."—New York Tribune.

How can you endure flabby linen in this hot weather? If you want to look neat have good laundry. Bring your bundle for Wednesday morning shipment. C. B. WHICHARD, Agt. Wilmington Steam Laundry.

Richmond Excursion.

In setting the local for Saturday's REFLECTOR about the excursion to Richmond, the printer changed the figures and made the round trip fare from Greenville $2.25 when it should have been $2.85. It is a wonderfully cheap trip and many Greenville folks speak of going on it.

They Sent Delegates.

The Rough and Ready Fire Company sent two delegates, Ed Latham and John Marable, to represent them in the meeting of the State Association at Winston. The Company desires to return thanks to all who contributed to the fund to pay the expenses of the delegates.

At the Methodist Church.

The sermon preached in the Methodist church Sunday night by Dr. F. D. Swindell, Missionary Secretary, was in every way up to date. He is the right man in the right place. We feel assured that every one who heard it will feel a greater responsibility to give more time and effort to the cause of missions than ever before.

The congregation was delighted to welcome Rev. N. M. Watson back to his charge at the morning service. He gave them one of his usual strong impressive sermons.

RAIN DON'T STOP THEM.

People Have to go in all Kinds of Weather.

Heber Tripp is sick with fever.

Mrs. J. B. Cherry left this morning Asheville.

Miss Bessie Patrick has gone to Conetoe to visit friends.

M. R. Lang went north today to purchase his fall stock. Mrs. M. M. Nelson accompanied him to assist in selecting the stock of dress goods and trimmings.

Moonlight Excursion.

The ladies of the Episcopal church will give a moonlight excursion on steamer Myers Wednesday night, 11th inst. All who want on their former excursions know what pleasant occasions they are. The coming one will be equally enjoyable.

Factory Complete.

B. E. Parham & Co., have completed their stemmery, and it ranks with the best in the State. The building for this plant is 60x128 feet, three floors, and is equipped with the latest improved Proctor System for drying and ordering tobacco. Such a plant as this, under the management of such enterprising men as the Parhams, will add much strength to the Greenville tobacco market.
