BASE BALL.

Games Played and Standing of Clubs.

Brooklyn, August 19.—The St. Louis Browns were not in it at any stage of the game with the Brooklyn today. Grady, Hartman and Cress tried to find fault with Umpire Carpenter's work, which was good. All three were fined. In the fifth inning Carpenter tacked an extra $30 on to Grady and removed him from the game. Score. Brooklyn, 13; St. Louis, 5.

New York, August 10.—That the New Yorks pulled out a victory over the Louisvilles this afternoon is no fault of "Dad" Clark, whom the Giants released to the Louisvilles in exchange for McCreery. "Dad" held his former comrades down to six scattered hits, one of them a two bagger by Tiernan. Tiernan was advanced to third by Dolan's moff of Bill Clark's liner in the fifth inning and scored on Meekin's out to right field. Meekin pitched a gilt edged game, only three hits being made off his delivery. Neither pitcher gave a base on balls. Score. New York, 1, Louisville, 0.

Boston, August 19.—The Bostonians maintained their playing ratio of 16 to 1 in the game with Pittsburg today and those figures just about represent the actual merit of the two teams. Nichols was invincible and his backing was perfect. Hawley was hit from the start and his support was poor. Tannhill was put in the box in the sixth, did well for one inning, then he became an easy mark. Score. Boston, 16; Pittsburg, 1.

Baltimore, August 19.—Cleveland today treated Baltimore to its first shut out of the season. It was a well played game and but for two costly errors on the part of the home team neither side would have tallied. This was Amole's maiden league game. Both he and Young exhibited great speed and control. A feature of the game was Quinn's great one hand catch of O'Connor's hot liner in the second inning. Score. Baltimore, 0; Cleveland, 3.

Philadelphia, August 10.—The Phillies continued their toboggan act today losing mainly because the visitors fielded in snappier fashion and hit more opportunely. Score. Philadelphia, 3; Cincinnati, 4.

Washington, August 19.—Griffith had the Senators at his mercy today. King, on the contrary, was fairly easy. This was not a good day for the Senators in the field, a number of errors being made at critical moments. Score. Washington, 4; Chicago, 10.

ORIGINAL OBSERVATIONS

The life in which there is no laughter will not linger long.

The "mantle of charity" is woven in the loom of forbearance.

The poor we have with us—the rich can go to the seashore.

On account of the high tariff even thermometers have gone up.

The cyclone blows everything off the farm except the mortgage.

Smiles are the sunshine of the soul—they tell that all is bright within.

It is hard for anybody else to please the man who is well pleased with himself.

The worthy often fail to become wealthy, while many rascals roll in riches.

How paradoxical it seems that "maiden speeches" are delivered by young men.

The last rows of summer are those taken on the bay just before leaving for home.

The railroad builder, though he may be a mild mannered man, is very much given to railing.

No rogue ever felt such terror of the law as does a man whose wife knows how to jaw.

Sorrow is the sombre shadow that ever hovers about the soul, seeking to stain its sweetness.

Many a young man who falls in love is raised from that condition by the foot of the girls father.

Some people are too stingy to live and yet not stingy enough to die. They merely live to cheat themselves.

The soul cannot be seen by mortal eyes. If it could, it would take an X ray to see the souls of some people.

Pride of ancestry is a good thing, but the pride of an honest, upright life is grander and far more glorious.

A great many of our young men would marry if they could find girls who are able to support them comfortably.

It is said that every failure is a step to success. This will explain why the oftener some men fail the richer they become.—Orange, Va., Observer.

Be on Time.

Service at all the churches tomorrow evening PROMPTLY at 8:15. Please make a note of this, and BE ON TIME. Here in Greenville we seem to have fallen into the reprehensible habit of getting to church five, ten, or fifteen minutes late. This ought not to be. God is a God of order. He expects us to be prompt and orderly at His house.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 21, 1897.

It was a wise man who said: "Leave nothing to what is called 'lucky.'" Don't leave it to "lucky" to secure and retain customers. Make judicious advertising one of the factors of your success.

During the fiscal year ended June 30 last the value of bicycles exported was $7,005,323, against $1,898,012 during the preceding year. Of this large total Great Britain took $2,375,000 worth and Germany $1,025,000 worth. The rest literally went to every part of the world. This large sale was due to the fact that the best wheels are made in the United States.

"Why don't you run a newspaper like that?" a merchant said to a reporter, the other day, throwing out a Chicago daily. "For the same reason you don't run a store like that," the reporter replied, turning to a full page advertisement of a Chicago house showing a twelve-story building. The merchant looked attentively at the picture for a moment and said: "I never looked at it that way before." No.—Exchange.

Evidence Accumulates in Favor of a Compulsory School Law.

But the evidence accumulates almost daily that a law that will force parents to see that their children attend school a given number of months every year must be the very starting point of the fight against illiteracy in North Carolina. Without a law that will compel the attendance of the children how are we to fill even the schools we have? The evidence is ample that we do not fill them. That it is children with books and a thirst for knowledge that are needed more than additional school buildings and teachers. There is but one way to get them. We may set a school building in every cove and a college on every hill and still be for years to come the most illiterate state in the Union. But with the enforcement of a law that compels the attendance of every child above, say, seven years and under, say, sixteen or eighteen we shall have carried the first citadel of entrenched ignorance and made broad and clear the way to ultimate victory.

A compulsory school law is, we admit, in the nature of a choice of evils. It is true that it is, infringement on personal liberty. But what kind of liberty? The liberty that attacks the very foundations of the republic, the liberty to condemn children to ignorance and a narrow view of life. Is not that kind of liberty akin to license to do injury? And is it to be preferred to a law the terms of which would be felt as onerous and offensive only till the present generation had felt and seen its benefits? Then there would be cheerful acquiescence in the spirit of the law and the necessity for the rigid enforcement of its letter would have passed away.—Asheville Citizen.

Patronize Home Industries.

This is an old, and oft repeated expression, yet it needs to be sounded every day. The practice of it is what makes communities great and prosperous.

That it pays to trade near home, is a well established fact, and no town or city ever prospered whose citizens, enticed by the alluring baits held out by the merchants in the big cities spend their money with them.

The local merchant and mechanic are interested in the progress and development of the town and country in which they live, and every dollar that they amass is re-invested and remains in the neighborhood. As they prosper their taxes increase, and just so much those of others are lightened. They assist in keeping up your schools, churches and other public institutions and charities. But the person who spends his money in some distant city puts it beyond assisting in any local enterprise. The man in the city upon whom you bestow your custom has no further interests in you or your surroundings than the cash he receives from you. It is no concern of his whether you are as devoid of social, church or educational privileges as the inhabitants of Borris-boola-Gha, or whether your streets or highways are well made as an original Indian trail. The surplus money which he has to bestow will go to enrich the exchequer of institutions from which you will never receive any benefit and to add to the wealth of communities in which you have no financial interest.—Durham Sun.

Women and Labor.

The July bulletin of the department of labor shows that as the years roll on women are more and more occupying remunerative posts hitherto held by men.

In the census of 1870, it appeared that 9.63 per cent. of all the women of the country were employed in remunerative employment, but twenty years later, as exhibited by the census returns of 1890, the proportion of women thus employed had reached 12.81 per cent. of all the population of that sex.

According to the department's digest of the census returns of 1870 and 1890 it appears that in 1890 more than one-sixth of the total number of persons at work in the country were women, as compared with a little more than one-seventh of the census of 1870. The compiler says that the increase in the proportion of women workers is especially noticeable in professional service, in which class the women constituted in 1890 very nearly one-third of all persons so occupied as compared with less than one-fourth in 1870. Women are also very numerous represented in manufacturing mechanical industries and in trade and transportation, in clerical positions for the most part. The representation in these branches of industry grew from 2 per cent. in 1870 to 7 per cent. in 1890 of all persons so employed.

In 1870 the number of women engaged in work was 1,836,288; in 1880 it was 2,647,157 and in 1890, 3,914,571.

This will account in a measure for the greater number of men out of employment as also in some instances for the reduction of wages. We are reliably informed that before the war there was but one woman clerk in all the stores of Petersburg.—Petersburg Index Appeal.

Facts.

It is doubtful if even angels ever weep any over the man who never finds out where the mud is, until he gets into it up to his neck.

The New York end of the line has been completed to a point near Richmond. The line will extend from Richmond to Danville, to Greensboro, to Durham and then Raleigh.—Raleigh Press-Visitor.

Some Questions.

When a Republican speaker in the next campaign is asked why he raised the price of sugar, what will he say?

When asked why he put binding twine on the free list and cotton bagging and ties on the tax list what will he say?

When asked why he put common straw matting used by the poor on the tax list, when none of it is made in this country, what will he say?

When he finds workmen's wages no higher after the passage of the Dingley bill than before, and every manufactured thing the working man must buy higher? There will be many more head splitters for him before the next election is over.

That is Right.

We rejoice in believing that the business conditions of the country are on the mend, and not because of the tariff law or any other law, but simply because our people have been economical and industrious, and the Lord has given us good crops. This year's wheat crop is above the average in the United States, while the countries that compete with us in supplying the European market are far below. India, with her great famine will, of course, send no wheat to Europe this year, and Australia and Russia will barely make enough for home consumption. This will insure good prices. Other crops have done well, and the prospect is bright for good prices. If our people will only "be thankful and go on," we will pass out of the hard times, hardly knowing how.—Charity and Children.

The Territory of Alaska is a good way off. Heretofore the people of the United States have had very little interest in that inhospitable northwestern corner of North America. There are consequently very erroneous notions entertained of this Arctic possession. Some idea of the size of Alaska may be formed when it is known that it contains an area of 577,900 square miles. This is more than twice the area of Texas. Twelve States of the size of Pennsylvania could be carved out of the Territory of Alaska, with enough left over to make a State like South Carolina.

THE THREE TAILORS.

Three little tailors, to have a good time, Went to the tavern of Ingelheim. On the Rhine, on the Rhine. Their pockets were empty, but still they nursed The hope that some one would quench their thirst With wine, with wine. "Sir host, we are broke, we have not a cent! In seeing the world our gold we've spent, On the Rhine, on the Rhine. But come, we'll show you some wonderful tricks. In return we ask you give us for six Some wine, some wine." "Ye fellows, the keeper of Ingelheim Will sell you a glass of wine for a dime, On the Rhine, on the Rhine! But for all your tricks with needle and thread A punch in the head he'll give you instead Of wine, of wine." A sunbeam one of them caught in his hat And nimbly threaded his needle with that, On the Rhine, on the Rhine. A broken wineglass he sewed with the beam So well that no one could see the seam, In wine, in wine. The second tailor caught hold of a gnat As on the bridge of his nose it squat, On the Rhine, on the Rhine. The gnat wore socks with a hole like a dot. He darned it so finely you noticed it not, For wine, for wine. His needle of steel the third one grabbed, With all his might in the wall he stabbed, On the Rhine, on the Rhine. A lightning flash through the needle eye slipped— I saw the wonder myself while I slipped My wine, my wine. The host of Ingelheim said: "I see The truest, smartest men are you three On the Rhine, on the Rhine." A thimble he took and filled to the brim, And laughingly said: "Now, boys, take a swim In wine, in wine!"

School Meeting.

Today was the appointed time for the Board of Education and school committeemen to hold a meeting to discuss plans for improving the public schools. There was one member of the Board of Education, about fifteen committeemen and a few outsiders present, and these had some discussions on different points relating to the schools.

There is not the general interest in public schools that should exist, but hard work could be expected under the present law. Give the last Legislature another chance at them and they will ruin the schools entirely.
