IS LITTLE BOB TUCKED IN?

"I've gotter go," she said, "an' see
 If little Bob's tucked in;
 He'll git his death if he's uncovered
 In this col' storm an' win'."
 "Oh, little Bob's all right," said I,
 'You've bin to tuck him in
 Four times this evenin', an' I wouldn't Run 'way up stairs ag'in"
 But Cynth'd worry, fret an' stew,
 An' raise a drefle din;
 "W'y, I must go ag'in," says she,
 "An' see if Bob's tucked in,"
 "W'y, Cynthy, jest set down," I said.
 "An' git some good er life.
 A teller wants a chance to talk
 Some evenin's with his wife."
 Then she would take her knittin' out
 Or work upon her spread,
 An' make b'lieve lissen, though she
 did'n
 Hear quarter w'at I said.
 She wouldn't much more than git set
 down
 Than jump right up again
 an' say, "I mus' run up an' see
 If little Bob's tucked in."
 Young Bob was allus on the jump,
 An' filled the house with din,
 An' kicked his quilts off ev'ry night
 Fast as she tucked him in.
 His haigs they went so fast all day,
 As long as it was light,
 An' got up speed so they couldn't s'op
 An' kep' a goin' all night.
 So Cynthy'd keep a g'ittin' up
 An' gittin' up ag'in,
 "I've gotter look an' see ' say she
 "If little Bob's tucked."

She stood above the casket there;
 She bent to kiss his face,
 To pat a stragghin' curl of hair,
 Or fix a bit of lace.
 Her heart was breakin' with the
 thought
 That Bob, so round and fat,
 So full of pranks and fun should sleep
 Within a crib like that;
 But still she'd fix his little robe,
 An' then come beck ag'in,
 An' take a long, last look an' see
 Her little Bob tucked in.
 That night a storm of snow come on,
 An' how the winds did rave!
 The snow fell like a coverlid
 On little Bob's new grave.
 "I'm glad it snows," his mother said,
 "It looked so hard and bare,
 So hard, so cruel and so bleak,
 I cried to leave him there.
 But God has sent the blessed snow,
 I think—an' 'tis no sin—
 That He has sent His snow to see
 That little Bob's tucked in."

Gold is Circulating.

It is getting to be not so unusual to see a gold coin as in the recent past.
 We see it stated that a bank in Kinston has been paying out gold the last few days. A man in for some business at the REFLECTOR office, Friday, had two $20 gold coins along. He only left one of them, however.

There was a farmer had two sons,
 And these two sons were brothers;
 One of them bought his clothes of us,

 He looks a little "cratty."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)
 WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept 3, '97.

It has always been considered the proper thing to make support of the National platform of a political party the test of a man's loyalty to his party. The platform adopted by a party in National convention is the only authentic declaration of the principles of that party and must be so considered until another National convention meets and adopts another platform. These facts are so self evident that mention of them seems almost unnecessary, yet objection is being raised because Democrats are insisting that the platform adopted by the Chicago convention must be accepted as the principles of the democratic party. To do anything else would be a radical departure from all political precedents.

There is a clash of authority in the Interior Department between Secretary Bliss and Indian Commissioner Jones that may end in a big row among prominent Republicans. Mr. Jones' present assistant is Mr. Thomas P. Smith, who is a Democratic holdover. Mr. Smith has made a tip top record and Mr. Jones would like him to remain in his office. Boss Hanna directed sometime ago that one of his Ohio proteges—Tawner, by name—who has been serving as the private secretary of Secretary Bliss, should be appointed Asst. Commissioner, and the appointment was about to be made when Commissioner Jones heard about it and notified Secretary Bliss that he would not have Tawner for his Assistant. Then there was a high old time in the office of Secretary Bliss, and the relations between him and Commissioner Jones are very much strained, but Tawner has not yet been appointed. Of course if Boss Hanna insists he will be, and if Jones doesn't like it he can resign. It is a custom to consult the wishes of bureau chiefs in selecting their assistants, and upon that custom Commissioner Jones relies.

Republicans who rather not talk about the deficit of about twenty six million dollars shown by the official figures of the government's receipts and expenditures for July and August, the first two months of the new fiscal year. We have already done too much talking about the surplus that the new tariff was certainly going to produce.

Senator McLaurin's success in the S. C. primary election, which means his nomination and election to the Senate, was the source of no little pleasure to his numerous Washington friends. He has already shown that he will make a Senator of whom his State and section will be proud.

Representative De Gaffenreid, of Texas, is in Washington. Speaking of wheat and silver he said: "Our farmers are this year blessed with abundant crops and the wheat producing countries on the other side of the ocean have short crops. In other words, the demand for American wheat is almost greater than the supply; hence the big prices which the speculators are just now getting. I am sorry to say that will not always continue, for next year the demand for wheat by reason of good crops on the other side may be only normal, in that event our farmers will not receive any more for their wheat than formerly. Let the mints of the United States, England, France and Germany be opened tomorrow to silver, and you would see the price of the white metal rise steadily until it reached the level of gold. Why would it rise? Simply because of the demand—just the same as demand has raised the price of wheat." Mr. Gaffenreid expressed his opinion strongly of those who are constantly decrying the four hundred million standard silver dollars the country now has, and ended an interesting chat by saying: "The only solution of the question is to open the mints to silver the same as gold. Permanent prosperity will never come through the further contraction of the currency, which the gold bugs are trying to bring about by discrediting our standard silver dollars. What the country needs is more money. That will be the issue in the next campaign, and, in my judgment, the democrats will win upon it."

Mr. John Russell Young, the new Librarian of Congress, is now having a hard wrestle with the more than seven thousand applicants and their friends, who were disappointed when he, this week, announced the appointments to ten of the best positions at his disposal. He still has forty or fifty small places to dispose of and although they only carry small salaries the pressure to get them is something awful to contemplate.

The northern papers, in commenting on the large number of Southern merchants making purchases in the various cities, should not attach too much importance to that, as an indication of prosperity. It is not the facility with which bills are made, but the ease with which they are paid that indicates plenty of the wherewithal. It is by no means certain that this much buying is a good thing in the end. One mistake the people of this country have made already is buying too much. While it is unquestionable that affairs are mending, let our people remember that newspaper welcomes to the goddess of plenty do not extinguish debts, at this fag-end of the century. If the citizen will keep his expense account at the hard times notch for a while yet, he will find good times much more inclined to abide with him. The practical application of a few of "Poor Richard's" homely maxims would be no less efficacious than dollar wheat and ten cent cotton in putting the country on its feet again.—Greensboro Telegram.

Around the World in Thirty Days.

The Railway Age says: "A continuous railway line across America, Asia and the continent of Europe was dreamed of long before Alaskan gold set people to planning railways to the Arctic circle. William Gilpin once governor of Colorado, elaborated the scheme of building a railway through British America and Alaska to Bering Straights to meet the then proposed "Russian Pacific railway," and thus secure connection with the railway system of Europe. The route across Russia shown on his map corresponds in the main with that over which the Trans-Siberian line is now being constructed and the Alaska section as proposed was no more impracticable than the road through the Klondike which are now being so numerous constructed on paper. Meantime, although no railways are actually being built to Bering Strait from either side, the Trans-Siberian railway will in a few years be completed across Asia to the Pacific at Vladivostok, and then a journey around the world in a little more than thirty days will have become a possibility.

The Philadelphia Times is not far wrong when it says that "the calendar and customs notwithstanding, the New Year begins not in January, but in September. In September, the schools start, the theatres open, libraries are once more peopled with returned readers; art breaks from its chrysalis; music poises its wings for a new flight; the churches apply themselves with renewed vigor to the work of saving souls;" and so forth and so on. It is even so. And down here merchants burnish up their stores, and cotton buyers hold their ears to the ground for the sound of the rumble of the first cotton wagon. People of all occupations prick up their ears with the advent of September, and it is in a large sense the beginning of a new year.—Charlotte Observer.

An interesting murder trial is now in progress in Chicago. The wife of a wealthy sausage man-

charged with murdering her and
destroying her body in an acid
vat. When the vat was examined
only a bone and a hank of hair remained. The question to be determined is this bone of her

says she has disappeared and is

his neighbors believe he murder-

that her body was ground up in
