JUST FOR FUN.

A chestnut vender—the humorist.
Every day is wash-day in Klondike.

A stern necessity—the rudder of a vessel.
Constant Reader—Any doctor will relieve you—of your pocketbook, at least.

Bad little schoolboys are already counting the days until Christmas vacation.

A sportive youth likes to be called "a gay young dog" but kicks at "fresh young puppy"

It's hard luck for the average artist to be wedded to his art, because that kind of a wife can't take in washing.

No matter how insignificant a man may be there is a girl somewhere in the world who will consider him distinguished looking.

Hicks—"I understand Scribbler is making a barrel of money." Wicks—"Not from his writings?" Hicks—"Yes; he has written a book in the golf dialect."

Hobson—"What on earth has come over Newpop? He just went down the street with the happiest kind of a gait on him." Wigwag—"His first baby distinctly called him 'Papa' for the first time this morning."

The end of this dry hot spell is nowhere in sight.

It is Sensibly Said.

That the thing a woman needs most to keep up her health and spirits is not necessarily a constant variation of scene and occupation, but a brief relaxation once in a while from the humdrum duties of her routine existence.

That nothing thrives well that is not occasionally transplanted to some other spot, there to take in new ideas, to acquire fresh thoughts, to store up something that will be food for reflection when once more the burden of regulation existence is shouldered.

That there is a most harmful idea existing among certain good house-keepers and excellent women that if they were to leave home for one day everything would at once collapse into a state of utter ruin; and this is a species of false conceit that prevents many a tired brain and body from obtaining the respite from gauding care that is necessary.

That husbands should provide certain little pleasant happenings to vary the monotony of domestic drudgery that is a wife's heritage. This does not necessitate undue outlay of money; for a change, bright, pleasant and inspiring, can frequently be obtained in many ways when not one cent is required to secure it.

That, if it is possible, a little trip taken once in a while is the best tonic ever prepared. Seeing new places and new faces stimulates the imagination, braces up those forces that have been exhausted in the ceaseless round of humdrum doings at home, and thus helps to build up the body in the pleasantest manner possible, and some little change of this sort is possible to any one who will make an effort to obtain it.

Military Ball at Kinston

There were twenty young people from Greenville in attendance upon the military ball at Kinston on Thursday night. Some of these tell us that it was the most successful occasion of the kind they ever attended. Between forty and fifty couples participated, they had excellent music, and everything passed off pleasantly and successfully.

The Tobacco Market.

This week was a good one all through with the tobacco warehouses. The breaks started out large on Monday and continued heavy every day. Prices have shown a gradual improvement and have been generally satisfactory. So far there has been very little fine tobacco on the market, but whenever a good lot showed up it was sure to bring a big price.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1897.

NORTH CAROLINA DAY.

Friday September seventeenth, will be an interesting day to the hundreds of North Carolinians, including several camps of Confederate Veterans, who will journey to historic Winchester, in the beautiful Valley of Virginia. This will be the last day of the annual fair of the Shenandoah Valley Agricultural Society and an interesting feature of the day will be the laying of the corner stone of the monument which is to be erected in Stonewall Cemetery to the memory of the North Carolina soldiers who either fell in battle or died in hospitals and are buried there. There are over four hundred North Carolina soldiers buried in Stonewall Cemetery, a larger number than from any other State. Besides contributing liberally to provide granite headstones for the graves of the gallant North Carolina dead, Mr. Charles Broadway Rouss, the generous New York millionaire, has announced his readiness to pay one half the cost of the proposed monument, whatever that sum may be. Mr. Rouss has also announced his purpose to pay tribute to the North Carolina dead by participating in the ceremonies, though he is now totally blind. Rev. James B. Avirett, rector of an Episcopal church in Louisburg, North Carolina, has accepted the invitation to deliver an address at the cornerstone laying. Many North Carolinians now residing in Baltimore will esteem it both a duty and a sad pleasure to take part in the ceremonies.

The above handsome notice of the first North Carolina Red Letter Day outside of our State borders, since Gen. Lee sheathed his sword at Appomattox, is from the Baltimore Sun of September 4th. Without doubt the attendance of Virginians, West Virginians and Marylanders will be large and enthusiastic, but the point with us, (and it is a point of honor) can we do justice to our dear old mother North Carolina afford to put the few who certainly will be present to the blush when we shall be obliged to point to the 497 grassy hillocks as our representatives on the day the very highest and most glorious of all days in the calendar of the mother of Mecklenburg Independence.

New let the same pride that put North Carolina in the forefront during the sixties, bring her full representation to Winchester on this sacred day. Not only will the fact that it is to do honor to our brave and noble dead be an incentive to send us, but the fact that the address of the occasion will be delivered by one of North Carolina's most gifted and honored sons, the Rev. James Battle Avirett, than whom there was no truer or more self-sacrificing man in the Southern Confederacy. There are many who are not able to defray their expenses, but let those who are able, but cannot go, give all the aid and assistance they can in order that North Carolina shall have full representation.—Louisburg Times.

The worst yellow fever is the sort that is carrying off hundreds of men to the Klondike.

Rescued By Girls.

Highwaymen appear to be confining their operations to the down town district of late. They raided a jewelry store in Nicollet avenue Saturday noon, and Sunday night two of them attacked a young man at Fifth street and Third avenue. They doubtless would have succeeded in relieving him of his valuables had it not been for a group of fearless young women, returning from church, who rushed to his rescue and frightened his assailants away.

The victim of the assault was proceeding along Fifth street about 9 o'clock, the young women following some distance in the rear. As he stepped in the shadow of the courthouse at Third avenue, two fellows sprang from a recess of the building and instructed him to throw up his hands. At the same time one of them clasped his hands over his mouth to prevent him from crying out, and the other proceeded to go through his pockets.

The single exclamation which escaped the young man before being gagged attracted the attention of the young women, and with a shrill chorus or screams they rushed to the rescue. They laid violent hands on the robbers and continued to call so loudly for help that the highwaymen, concluding that discretion was the better part of valor, released their hold on the intended victim, and shaking themselves loose from the young women, made a precipitate disappearance.

The girls then gathered around the young man, who had been rather roughly treated, and offered to render him any more assistance necessary, but he declined the kind offer with many thanks when he had recovered his breath sufficiently to speak.

Although his watch had been jerked from his pocket the chain held fast, and the highwaymen had no time to get his money.—Minneapolis Tribune.

He Vindicated His Honor.

Old Joe Foster, who is a familiar figure around Conshohocken, was selected a few days ago to make a collection for the burial of a colored friend. It took much perseverance on the part of Joe to raise the amount, but he finally succeeded, and the funeral became an assured fact.

The gossips, however, could not allow the occasion to pass unheeded, and just as the old preacher was in the midst of his discourse, Joe overheard the following dialogue between two dosky darlings: "I wonder what Mistah Fostah am a-gwine fo do wid de money dat am left ovah." "I dunno what, but you know Mistah Fostah."

Joe's blood boiled, and in a twinkling he had interrupted the preacher and was calling for the funeral director. "Mistah Undertakah," he exclaimed, "how much am youah bill?" "Eighty-four dollars" was the reply. "Den please gib me a receipt in full," said Joe, as he counted out the money.

After the transaction had been completed, amid much wonderment, Joe approached the two women who had caused all the trouble. "Miss Isabella Johnsing," he said, loud enough for everybody to hear, "heah am yo dollah back; an' Miss Georgiana Jefferson heah an yo' dollah. Dat's de two dollahs what was left ovah, an' dis am de way Mistah Fostah disposes ob de subplus." Then the services were allowed to proceed.—Philadelphia Review.

Killed By a Fall.

Atlanta, Ga., September 8.—Col. Isaac W. Avery; at one time editor of the Atlanta Constitution, former minister to Mexico and commissioner of the South American republics for the Cotton States and International Exposition, of 1895, fell from the porch of his residence in Kirkwood, a suburb of this city, last night and died today from the effects of the fall.

Across the Continent Awheel.

Two lads from the Union's smallest State are the latest arrivals awheel in San Francisco, according to the Chronicle. They have been three months on the way, and they have had three new coats of skin on their noses and three new pairs of shoes on their feet. In fact, nature is about to furnish another new nose covering, if one may judge by the signs.

They are veritable "raggedy" men, with even their sweaters in tag-lockers. Their clothing hangs on them by threads, and thin soles and uppers long since parted company. When they left Rhode Island they were spick and span in new uniforms, but they have come 4,000 miles, have visited all the large cities on or near their line of travel, and know the country as few know it. Is it not worth a few rags and tatters?

Their names are Walter J. Burchell and Thomas Massey, and they hail from the good old town of Pawtucket, which is four miles beyond Providence.

Burchell is 19 and Massey 18. One of them had never been west of New York, and the other had never been out of the limited confines of Rhode Island. They have a vivid apprehension now of what "America" means.

Burchell intends to spend the winter in Trinity college, having started out in the world to seek his fortune. Massey will go with him, but intends to return to Rhode Island some time awheel, if he can get anyone to accompany him.

The riders took their time and had no designs on the record. Their fastest time was 103 miles in one day in New York State, where the roads are macadamized dreams. They were detained at Utica three days by heavy rains, and in the moist State of Iowa they had to carry their bikes over black loam roads, where the wheels would not turn. East of Omaha they stoped at hotels. West of that point they camped out. They only carried forty pounds of baggage. The can- teens on their backs were cheerful companions in the thirsty desert.

Once they were chased by wolves, and in Nevada a party of tramps relieved Burchell of his cap, revolver and money while he slept. The boys slid from the summit of the Sierra with sage brush drags behind them. Now they are going to hunt for gold in California's hills. They are off for Trinity awheel.

The Pork-Fed Philosopher.

No man who lives on meat was ever known to lick his wife or ask for a divorce. Adam got into a row, right off, because he had no hog meat, butter or black bass. Napoleon lost Waterloo because the allied forces had bacon for breakfast the morning of the fight. The French had vegetable soup. The South had to give in at Appomattox because it was out of meat. No war can be successfully waged without hog meat.

Americans are the most frisky people on earth because they eat the most hog meat. Ingalls would have gone back to the Senate had he not lived on oatmeal, baked apples and blind robbers.

A vegetable diet woman is as cold and clammy and unlovable as a turnip. If you wish to put roses in the cheeks of your girls, vitality in their very motion and brains in their heads, feed them meat.

If you want your boy to get a job and hold it, go to the front and amount to something, give him bacon grease, ham fat or tallow three times a day.

The world is full of cranks who are always getting up some new fad about hay soup or corn fodder tea.—Eldorado (Kan.) Republican.

"The boss fired me today, right in the presence of all the employees." "It must have made you feel awfully embarrassed." "Well, it did make me feel out of place."

in twelve principal farming States of West estimates the increased value of the farm September 1st, 1897 as compared with the value September

this basis the increased valuation of the whole area of farming estimate seems extravagant, but it is doubtless a fair expression of the popular belief based on the

PERSONAL PRATTLE.

Printed Points That Pertain to People.

P. H. Gorman went to Tarboro today.

Miss Bessie Jarvis attended the ball in Kinston last night.

Mrs. J. B. Cherry returned Thursday from a visit of several weeks to Asheville.

Thos. McGee and wife, of G Idsboro arrived Thursday evening to visit relatives of Mrs. McGee.

A. F. Thomas, of Lynchburg and T. S. Williamson, of Danville, were on the tobacco breaks today.

J. B. Stallings, of Danville, spent Thursday on the Greenville tobacco market and left this morning.

Messrs Miller and Forrester, of Philadelphia, who put the machine in the Gorman factory, left this morning.

Messrs Bessie Wyatt, of Raleigh, and Bessie Sutton, of Kinston, arrived this morning to visit Miss Bessie Harding.

J. R. Moye returned from Asheville Thursday evening bringing Mrs. Moye home with him. All are glad to see her recovered from the long sickness she endured in the mountain city.

T. J. Sugg, J. L. Fleming, C. S. Forbes, J. E. Starkey, E. G. Flanagan and L. I. Moore went to Kinston to the ball last night and returned this morning. Most of those who went down the night before also returned.

The weather now seems more oppressive than it did in July.

Manager Atkins has placed a phone in Dr. Moye's new residence. It is number 49.

Capt. C. A. White is giving his residence on Dickinson avenue a new dress of paint.

That's a Fact.

Notoriety is no proof of merit—a thousand dollars' worth of roses will scent up a few yards, while a single hog pen will scent up the whole town.—Durham Sun.

Hogshead Factory.

The latest organization out in tobacco row is the Free Silver Hogshead Co. This company is composed of several of the tobacco buyers and they will use the new building just put up out there.

Execution Sale.

NORTH CAROLINA, } In the Superior
Pitt County, } Court.
Callie Langston, (now Callie Joyner) ex'trix, of B. J. Langston vs.

The Greenville Land and Improvement Company and P. B. Talliaferro
By virtue of an execution directed to the undersigned from the Superior Court of Pitt County in the above entitled action, I will, on Monday, the 20th day of September 1897, at 12 o'clock M., at the Court House door of said county, sell to the highest bidder for cash, to satisfy said execution, all the right, title and interest which the said Greenville Land and Improvement Company, defendant, has in the following described real estate, to-wit: "A tract of land in Greenville township, Pitt County, known as the William Moore tract of land adjoining the lands of B. F. Patrick, A. M. Clark, C. F. Manning and others, and being the tract of land conveyed by deed from D. E. House to said Greenville Land and Improvement Company, and upon which the mill plant of the Greenville Land and Improvement Company was situated, being that part of said land now owned by the Greenville Lumber Company and lying east of Railroad."
This is the 20th day of August 1897.
W. H. HARRINGTON,
Sheriff Pitt County.

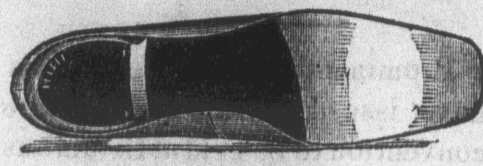

NO CURE—NO PAY.

That is the way all druggists sell CROWE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC for Chills, Fever and all forms of Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine, in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c.
