POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Some of us have more ups and downs in this world than others but when we get to the cemetery we will all be on a dead level.

The wise man profits by experience; but he is still wiser who profits by the experience of others.

When a man has a reputation for wisdom, he can say foolish things and his friends applaud them as sarcasm.

Some men are never satisfied to remain at the bottom of the ladder they always try to get farther down.

A man gets very little credit for what he does in this world, but he gets lots of blame for what he doesn't.

Revival at the Methodist Church
Rev. N. M. Watson preached two excellent sermons Sunday preparatory to the series of meetings started in the Methodist church. He announced services for twice each day, at 4 o'clock and 7:45, P. M. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to be present at all the services.

The Bird Flew Away

One of the convicts who was moving dirt from the Bernard lot to the Court House square, gave the officer the slip today and made his escape. His name was John Pippin, nicknamed "Yallerhammer," and he was sentenced at the term of court just closed.

The meeting of the Board of County Commissioners and the annual meeting of the Farmers Mutual Fire Association brought many people to town today.

JUST FOR FUN.

A fall opening—the uncovered coal-hole.

Hail to the joyous return of the buckwheat cake.

"Mama," asked little Willie, "is corn put on the cob by the cobblers?"

"Say, Stallins! What's de matter wit' lettin' dere Phillies break ranks, an' carry de hod awhile fars de winter set's in?"

Hoax—"This Klondike discovery has done a lot of good already." Hoax—"How?" Hoax—"It affords a new name for certain cheap cigars, whiskies social clubs and such things."

A Kansas college has elected a woman to the chair of mathematics. Ridiculous! Why, there never was a woman who could reckon up her own age correctly.

Wig—"There's something wrong with Smither's boy." Hobson—"Why do you think so?" Wigwag—"I just saw him pass a newly painted fence without touching it to see if it was dry."

He had stolen several Krs. From a gay Chicago Mrs.

And the lady, though she really was astounded,

Said she'd waive all prosecution

If he'd make due restitution;

And the felony was speedily compounded.

BY P U Organized

Greenville people thoroughly enjoyed the services conducted in the Baptist church on Sunday by Rev. N. B. Broughton, of Raleigh. Large congregations attended both services. His talk at the morning service was on the Sunday School work, and at night he delivered an address to the young people, both being very impressive. At the conclusion of the night service a Baptist Young People's Union was organized with 75 members.

The following officers of the Union were elected:

President—J. D. Gwynn.

Vice President—Dr. W. H. Bagwell.

Secretary—E. E. Griffin.

Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer—W. F. Burch.

This was Mr. Broughton's first visit to Greenville and he expressed himself as greatly pleased with the town.

Nearly Cold Enough for Frost

The weather has turned much colder without any rain coming, and everything is so dry and the wind so high that most people are afraid to start fires. A good rain would be the signal for a general chimney burning.

The Autumnal Textiles are in radiant profusion on our counters. No store in the South ever exhibited so much exclusiveness and elegance. There are gorgeous groups of stuffs from Paris, Vienna, Picardy, Roubaix, Glouchau, Gera, Bradford, Leeds, Glasgow and other famous trans-Atlantic manufacturing cities. We selected the best that the makers of France, Germany, Austria, England and Scotland have produced, and you are invited to examine them while they are yet in their exquisite state of freshness and beauty. There are multitudes of plain makes in mono-colors, and an aggregation of fancy effects in multi-colors showing designs and combinations that are too kaleidoscopic for any advertising pen to describe. Price is no object with us.

Writes About the Autumn and Rings in a Little Shop Talk With It

And this is autumn; and here and there we see the "fiery finger of autumn" on the leaves. The clouds at eventide take on that indelible crimson glory which poets have spent futile hours in trying to describe and artists weary days in trying to portray. It is the season of fruitfulness; the season when falling leaf and ripening crops, and the mellow air itself speaks to the secret soul of man in breathless whisper, but in language as unmistakably clear and as distinct as the loudest thunder peals, that life, too, has its autumn and its winter of death. Yes, it is the time of the "sere and yellow leaf;" the season of "melancholy days, the saddest of the year;" the season when monitory winds tell that the year is verging to its close.

Well, we have very little poesy about us and the foregoing was written not because we have such gushing sentiment about the "autumntide"; but really we are glad fall has come, for our subscribers, many of them, have been promising us faithfully all during the bright days of spring and the hot, dull, moneyless days of summer, that they would surely pay us in the fall and would renew their subscription then. And so, kind friends, these fading leaves and migrating birds and wailing winds and ripening crops remind us that fall is here and we would like to have that little amount due on subscription. We feel that we have earned it and we expect the pay in the fall as we have been promised.—Monroe Enquirer.

Proposed Railroad from Snow Hill to Seven Springs.

By invitation, Messrs. Geo. W. Sugg, J. D. Grimsly, D. W. Patrick and Josiah Exum, committee from Greene county, and committees from LaGrange, White Hall and Seven Springs met in Morehead City on last Tuesday, September 23rd, 1897, with the stockholders and officers of the A. & N. R. R. to discuss the building and equipment of the proposed railroad connecting White Hall, Seven Springs and Snow Hill by way of the A. & N. C. R. R.

The committees from the various towns met and in meeting proposed to the officers and stockholders present and their proxies, a gift of the right of way and crossties, the road to be built, equipped and owned by the A. & N. C. and to be run as a branch of said road.

This proposition at once met with the approval of stockholders and proxies present who by resolution unanimously desired the directors of the railroad at their next meeting to procure for their road the inevitable advantages to be derived from the building of this road.

The president of the A. & N. C., Hon. Bobt. Hancock, and the State's proxy, Hon. Lon. J. Moore, manifested great interest and faith in the project and are desirous of an early building of the road. Mess. Tucker and Morehead, the largest private stockholders, also expressed themselves highly favorable to the building of the branch road. In fact, not a single stockholder, public or private, expressed himself only in favor of the building of the road and that without delay.—Snow Hill Standard.

The Price of Cotton

A great many farmers are holding their cotton for better prices, and a great deal of disappointment is felt at the prevailing low prices.

We are disappointed that the McKinley wave of prosperity has not brought us better prices for cotton. We have been looking and longing for this promised wave. We had hoped to be deluged with it ourselves, and had hoped, and are still hoping against hope, that our farmers and merchants will be flooded by it.

But to return to the price of cotton, it appears that the chief reasons for the present low prices are the belief in a large crop in New York and Liverpool, and the small demand at the mills.

If the crop reports are correct, and the crop is no larger than these reports indicate, the price ought to range considerably higher than it is at present, especially when it is remembered that the world's supply was practically exhausted at the beginning of this season.

The seasons are so favorable to an early gathering of the crop that receipts will likely be heavy for awhile, and this will have a tendency to confirm the reports of large crops and keep the price down, but with a fair demand and an average crop there is every reason to believe that prices will go higher after the 1st of January. We do not look for any material rise before that time for the simple reason that receipts will probably be so heavy as to keep the price down.

We do not pretend to advise the farmers what to do with their cotton, but have stated the above facts for their information and consideration. At the same time we do not hesitate to say that we believe cotton will bring a higher price later in the season than it is bringing now, unless the crop proves to be a very large one.—Charlotte News.

November Elections.

Voters will have full opportunities to show their political temper in November. State elections occur in Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Iowa, Pennsylvania, New York, Nebraska and Massachusetts. Kentucky elects a clerk of the Court of Appeals, Massachusetts chooses a Governor for one year, Ohio and Iowa choose Governors for two years and Virginia a Governor for four years. Senatorial contests are to be decided in Ohio and Maryland. Pennsylvanians will have an opportunity to express their sentiments in regard to Senator Quay's bossship in voting for State Treasurer and Auditor. The popularity of Bryanism in Mr. Bryan's own State of Nebraska will be tested somewhat in the voting for Judge of the Supreme Court and regents of the University. New York elects a chief

Judge of the Court of appeals and a new Assembly. Further indications will be afforded by municipal contests, as in Greater New York, Detroit, Philadelphia, etc. When the returns of all these elections have been received and compared with those of previous years, it may be possible to draw inferences as to the future of parties. We have at present national Democrats, Bryan Democrats, Republicans, silver Republicans and Populists, to say nothing of prohibitionists, laborites, etc.—Baltimore Sun.

Mr. Caldwell's Letter to Major Wilson and the Reply.

Following is a copy of the letter sent by Mr. L. C. Caldwell to Major J. W. Wilson, requesting the latter to turn his office over to him:

"Governor Russell having, by virtue of the power and authority conferred upon him by law, appointed me railroad commissioner, vice J. W. Wilson, suspended, now, this is to request you to surrender to me, as such appointee, the office of railroad commissioner, together with all records, papers, rights and privileges thereto belonging, to the end that I may enjoy the use of the same and enter upon all the duties required of me."

Following is Major Wilson's reply:

"Yours of the 25th, making demand for my office, was duly served upon me by the sheriff of Burke. In reply will say that I most respectfully refuse to accede to your request."

Mr. Caldwell has employed as counsel to represent him in the suit which he will bring for the possession of the office, Judge W. J. Montgomery, of Concord, Judge A. C. Avery, of Morganton, and Messrs. A. D. Cowles and Armfield & Turner, of Statesville. As heretofore stated, it is expected to bring this suit in Iredell Superior Court and that it will come up at the November term. If for any reason the suit cannot be brought in this county it will be brought in Burke.

A New Telephone Device

The entire local telephone service of this city is being equipped with a device that has been successfully operated on several circuits in an experimental way. The device substitutes a tiny incandescent lamp on the switch board at the central office for the bell formerly used. The lamp remains lighted as long as the connection continues between the subscribers who are talking, and is extinguished when the subscriber who called for the connection replaces his receiver on the hook provided for it. Much time in making and breaking connections has been saved by the device.—New York Letter to Baltimore Sun.

Heavy Turkish Fire.

I must draw attention to that feature of the Turkish tactics which stamped the war of 1877 with a character of its own, a feature evident in all sections in which I took part, in none more than in the one under discussion. I refer to the quick fire of the Turkish infantry, of such power, duration and effect as had never before been dreamed of. General Todleben wrote later, "Such a shower of lead as that with which the Turks hail our troops has never before been employed as a mode of warfare by any European army." It was more instinct, experience, silent consent and confidence in their weapons than training or formulated rules which induced the Turkish foot soldiers to adopt this mode of fighting. I had witnessed quick fire drill in Widdin, but I venture to say that it was not until after the first battle that the officers became really conscious of the terrific power of long sustained quick fire.

Our orders were briefly as follows: "As soon as you know or suppose the enemy to be within range of your rifles cover the space presumably occupied by him or presumably to be traversed by him with quick fire, independent of distance, duration, difficulty of aim, probability of hitting and consumption of cartridges." The awful effect upon the opponent of this rule, if carried out as literally and as much on amore as it was by the Turks, is apparent in the Russian losses, and in the fact that throughout the Plevna campaign the Russian attacks, with few and unimportant exceptions, collapsed, numerical superiority notwithstanding.

Fluency.

"Dobbins seems to be a rather fluent talker."

"Fluent? Why, that man prepared a vitascope lecture, but it was a failure because the pictures could not keep up with him."—Chicago Record.

A Nice Distinction.
