THE TEMPLE CUP.

First Game of the Series A Hard Contest Between the Champions and the Ex-Champions Boston Won by One Run.

Boston, Oct. 4.—The new champions took the first game for the Temple cup today, defeating the Baltimores in a close contest, more through combinations of lucky hits and daring base running, assisted by darkness in the last two innings, than by any great superiority of play.

Neither team showed championship form, while the work of the home team was at times very much below the mark. The Orioles batted Nichols out of the box, and would have given Lewis a similar dose if they could have seen the ball in the last two innings. As it was, the game ended in the moonlight, the umpires keeping the players at it until some time after sundown.

The weather was perfect, a mild Indian summer day, with no wind and a clear atmosphere that was conducive of snappy playing. One of the biggest crowds of the year turned out and, with the assistance of the famous 'rooters' and two bands, the enthusiasm when the home team took the lead in the sixth inning was almost unparalleled. Only two bases were allowed on hits into the crowd at left field, and this also militated against the visitors.

Jennings was easily the star of the game, his batting being terrific, while his great work at short was much better than that of his rival, Long. For the home team, Captain Duffy led his men in hitting and base running.

Baltimore started the game like winners, pounding Nichols hard and before the home team realized it four runs had come over the plate. Boston, however, was equal to the occasion and hit Nops just as hard and scored three runs. Baltimore added one in the third through fine batting by Kelly and Reitz. Long bunted well in the fourth and scored on Bergen's single and out. Both teams scored two runs in the fifth, the visitors through hard raps by Jennings, Kelly, Stensel, Doyle and Lowe's poor throw and the home team by two errors and some daring base running. Then the visitors started in to clinch the game. McGraw, Jennings, Kelly and Doyle all hit safe and hard, and but for fine work on Long's part more than three men would have scored. The home players were not dismayed and encouraged by the rooters, they pounded Nops all over the field and by taking desperate chances scored five runs, taking the lead for the first time in the game. The visitors forged ahead again in the seventh, Lewis, who had taken Nichols' place, being hit hard. Boston had a fine chance to score in their half, but could not quite connect. They came a kick for the game to be called, but, although the sun was out of sight the play went on. Hamilton saved the game in the eighth by two marvelous catches and the Baltimores went in to win. It did not take long for the two necessary runs to come over the plate, and again the home team was ahead. The last inning was begun in the rapidly fading twilight, and while the Baltimores tried hard to see the ball, and did succeed in making a couple of hits, the strain was too much, and after two had struck out Long threw the last man out at first. The score: Boston 13, Baltimore 12. Batteries—Boston, Nichols, Lewis and Bergin, Baltimore, Nops and Robinson. Time 2:12. Attendance 10,000. Umpires—Euslie and Hurst.

Boston, Oct. 5.—Boston 11; Baltimore 13.

STATE NEWS.

The Attorney General has decided that the two Wilsons' are entitled to their pay until the Supreme Court decides that they are not Railroad Commissioners. Auditor Ayer and Treasurer Worth are of a different opinion. So it seems they are not to be paid.

Oxford has had two fires in the past week, in the first two dwelling houses being burned, and in the second a grocery store and an undertaking establishment.

On Oct. 12th the federal supreme court will hear argument in the case involving the legality of the fertilizer tax.

Heavy Fog.

The fog this morning was unusually heavy, it being so thick that people could see each other only a few yards away. The dampness was almost like a light shower of rain.

Forest Fires.

For several days fires have been raging in the big woods a few miles above town. No doubt the smoke from these fires help to increase the density of the fog this morning, as the smell of smoke was very prominent.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1897.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct 4, '97.

"Cuba; it ought to be and it shall be free!" That is the motto on the flag which the friends of Cuba, many and influential in Washington, have nailed to the mast. The new campaign for free Cuba was opened with a big mass meeting, under the auspices of the Woman's National Cuban League participated in by many prominent men, including a number of Washington's foremost ministers of the gospel. Other meetings are to be held, not only in Washington, but in all sections of the country, to give that hearty sympathy for Cuba known to exist a chance to express itself in such an emphatic way that the leisurely and uncertain steps of the administration will have to be quickened, whether it be agreeable to the government of Spain or not. At this meeting a picked choir of sixty voices sang for the first time in public Joseph Adams' "Ode to Cuba," which he dedicated to the League. There was great enthusiasm, and those who are in charge say that it is going to continue to grow until it becomes irresistible. These people believe with the Cubans that nothing short of freedom for Cuba will be accepted, and that the administration scheme of pacification for Cuba under a continuance of Spanish rule is bound to be a failure.

Ex-Governor Hoadley, Chief Counsel for the intending purchasers of the Union Pacific Railroad, has been in Washington for the purpose of securing the official consent of the administration to the deal made by his clients with the Cleveland administration. He secured it, of course, and the road will be sold next month, notwithstanding the protests of the Senate Committee on Pacific Railroads and the charge by reputable citizens that the sale is a job to do the government and the private creditors of the road out of millions of dollars.

It pays to be the President's doctor. Dr. Newton L. Bates, a medical director in the Navy, who was the private physician of Mr. McKinley when he was in Congress, and who has occupied the same position since he became President, has been appointed Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery in the Navy Department, although he was not next in line for promotion.

An Ohio Republican who would not allow his name to be used because it figures on an official pay roll and he wishes it to stay there, has been telling the inside facts about the highhanded way in which Aoss Hanna's man Dick has been walking rough shod over the Foraker republicans in the State. He has been in the State recently and knows. He said: "There has never been anything like it before in Ohio politics. The supporters of Senator Foraker supposed that when the deal was patched up, largely through Mr. McKinley, by which Mr. Hanna was to be supported for the Senate and Gov. Bushnell renominated, that factional differences were to be shelved for the time and the campaign made harmoniously. They soon discovered that the harmony was to consist of constant humiliations put upon the Foraker men by Hanna, his man Dick, and their henchmen. It has been steadily getting worse ever since the campaign opened and the end is not yet, although Senator Foraker became so disgusted that he left the State with the intention of remaining away until the election. Mr. McKinley has persuaded Senator Foraker to return to Ohio, and promised him that if he would go ahead and make speeches he would see that Hanna and Dick gave him and his friends better treatment. Foraker accepted Mr. McKinley's promise and left Washington today for Ohio, but he knows that Hanna considers himself McKinley's master, and he hasn't much confidence in that promise. Foraker will have a personal day of reckoning with Hanna, as sure as you live, whether it be on the floor of the U. S. Senate or in the State of Ohio."

There is an unusual lot of growling among the office seekers in Washington because of the little time that Mr. McKinley devotes to them. They go to the White House every day but few of them get an opportunity to see Mr. McKinley, and those who do see him do not get much satisfaction. He makes some appointments nearly every day, but lots of them are men whom he knows personally or wishes to reward for personal work done for him. As a result there is some plain talk in the hotel corridors from those who believe themselves entitled to official recognition and who have been let to suppose they would get it. Slowly, but surely, an anti-McKinley sentiment is growing among Republicans.

Just Putting Him On.

The father of a charming girl of this city has many admirable qualities, and a few faults, among the latter being a great interest in and respect for the game of poker, says the Washington Star. The young man who has laid his heart and a first mortgage on the fortune he hopes to get some day at her feet was consulting her as to the advisability of breaking the news to her parents:

"I have already broached the subject to father," she said, "so as to make it easier for you."

"That was very considerate."

"You played poker with him the other evening."

"Yes, but you musn't think that I am addicted to the habit. He asked me to play, and I complied to accommodate him."

"You opened a jack-pot on a pair of tets, didn't you?"

"Yes, but I drew a pair of queens. So it came out all right. I thought it would be just as well to let him know about it after the game was over. Hasn't he forgotten it yet?"

"He has talked about it a great deal."

"Perhaps it wasn't just right, and I ought to apologize."

"No, He says that he did it on purpose you have more nerve than he thought you had. But if you did it because you didn't know any better you'll never do for his son-in-law."

DENMAN THOMPSON'S FIRST

His Earliest Appearance on the Stage Was With a West Swanzy Club.

One of the most treasured mementos of Denman Thompson's long and successful career on the stage is a programme of the first entertainment in which he appeared. Mr. Thompson has the bill incased in an oak frame, and he takes more pride in showing it to his friends than any of the costly souvenirs which he has collected during the 47 years he has been before the public. During the call of a Sentinel reporter upon Mr. Thompson at his home in West Swanzy a day or two ago the distinguished actor exhibited the precious piece of paper with the remark that no newspaper man had ever seen it or written about it.

The bill is 6 1/2 by 17 1/2 inches in size, was printed at The Sentinel office in Keene and aside from the cast of characters reads: "Exhibition by the request of their numerous friends. The West Swanzy Shakespeare club will give another entertainment at the town hall, Swanzy, on Tuesday, Dec. 10, 1850. Doors open at 5 o'clock, p. m. Curtains rise at 6 1/2. Tickets 12 1/2 cents."

The first number was an orchestral overture and then a song, "Greeting Glee," by A. E. Bennett, now of Keene, and others. Then came a national drama in two acts, entitled "Brazen Drum; or, The Yankee In Poland," in which Mr. Thompson played the part of Calvin Cartwheel, a drum major in the "Vermont" militia, "a carter and a whole team in the cause of Polish freedom." After that came a song, "Oh, Carry Me 'Long," by A. E. Bennett and others. "Therese, the Orphan of Geneva," was the next offering, in which Mr. Thompson appeared as the Count de Moroville. Then there was another song by A. E. Bennett and others and a fancy dance, "Lucy Long," by Mr. Thompson, and another song by Mr. Bennett.

The one act farce, "The Omnibus; or, A Convenient Distance," was the next number, in which Mr. Thompson had the part of Pat Rooney. A comic pantomime, "Adventures of Jack Jameson," closed the entertainment. The music was furnished by Ramsdall's band, which consisted of a violin and melodeon. Among the people who appeared with Mr. Thompson at that time were Mrs. H. W. Leonard, now living in West Swanzy; John Patch, roadmaster of the Connecticut river division of the Boston and Maine railroad; A. E. Bennett, a merchant of Keene; Miss M. M. Thompson, Mr. Thompson's sister, now Mrs. Granger, who lives in West Swanzy. The others are all dead. D. J. Atwood, one of the actors, known in the early days as Dan Atwood, was for many years a theatrical costumer in Boston, where he was better known as the "mad tailor."—Keene (N. H.) Sentinel.

One Man's Courage.

All Paris was stirred one day in August, 1869, by a deed of courage which recalled the old legend of Horatius and his two comrades holding Lars Porsena's army at bay until the bridge across the Tiber had been cut down.

At a performance in the Hippodrome Lucas, the lion tamer, entered the cage where were two lions and two lionesses. Scarcely had he closed the door when one of the lions sprang upon him and seized him by the back of the neck. The sight of blood maddened the other beasts, and they, too, fell on their trainer.

Women screamed and fainted; men grew pale or shouted out impossible orders. The employees of the Hippodrome lost their heads, all save Lucas' attendant, Jose Mendez, a Spaniard. Arming himself with an iron weapon, he entered the cage, smote the lions' hip and thigh and nearly killed them all. Then he dragged out his mangled master, who was immediately bandaged by a doctor.—Youth's Companion.

His Educated Boy.

Billy's father was intensely studying a letter he had just received from his lawyer, hanging fire on the words "suum cuique" (let each have his own), which the legal wight had carelessly injected into the communication. Pointing to the words as he turned to Billy, he remarked:

"See here, Billy. You're a Latin scholar. What do these words mean?"

"Mean?" replied Billy. "Why, I should think you would make that out, even if it isn't spelled according to Hoyle. Sue 'em quick is what the learned counselor meant to say, but he's a little erratic in his spelling."—Boston Courier.
