QUINERLY ITEMS.

Sociable, Marriages and Other Notes.

QUINERLY, N. C., Oct. 30, 1897

Cotton is selling here at 5½c.

Dr. W. C. Whitfield went to Kingston on Thursday.

W. B. Quinerly sold tobacco on the Greenville market on Friday last.

Squire Brooks is on the sick list this week. We hope to see him out soon.

Our physicians have been quite busy the past few weeks, mostly malarial cases.

Who got left at choir practice Wednesday night? It was M. D., but not a physician.

L. J. Chapman went to Washington last Monday and while there sold about 2500 pounds of tobacco at satisfactory prices.

Mr. Duffy Joyner and Miss Mollie Pate were married on Wednesday last. Who next! We understand three are billed for the same day not far distant.

We were shown by J. P. Quinerly a few days ago a pear of the Keifer variety that tapped the scales at just 33½ ounces, also a bunch of small pears of a second crop. Who can beat it?

We came near having a serious conflagration today. The ginning plant of J. P. Quinerly caught fire, caused by a spark from the engine, but by strenuous efforts of our citizens the fire was extinguished before much damage was done.

That was a very enjoyable evening, 26th inst., at Squire Brooks'. It was the occasion of a sociable given by the young people of the place; quite a number of their friends having been invited to partake of the pleasure of the evening. At eight o'clock supper was served, which was indeed a bountiful repast and showed the exquisite taste of the Misses Brooks, assisted by the other young ladies of the place. After supper some splendid music was furnished by Joe Rountree, Fred Johnson and R. L. Blow, of Grifton, with violins and guitars, accompanied by the young ladies with piano. Some very pleasant little "tete a tetes" were also engaged in and all went merry as a marriage bell until the night began to merge into the wee sma' hours of the morn, when the guests bade farewell to their friends and took their departure.

Examination.

I will be at the Court House in Greenville, second Thursday and Friday in Nov., 11th and 12th, for the examination of public school teachers. Thursday will be for white teachers and Friday colored.

J. R. TINGLE, Supervisor.

STATE NEWS.

The state board of medical examiners meets Nov. 9th.

Mr. Hanner brought in today specimens of a second crop of strawberries, which are growing on his place near the Normal. They are just as large and nice as any berries of the first growth, though the supply is not very plentiful.—Greensboro Record.

Rates Some Lower.

H. A. White, Secretary of the Greenville Local Insurance Board, informs us that since Greenville purchased the steam fire engine the town, which was formerly rated on a 4th class basis, is now in the 3rd class, causing a reduction in rates on certain buildings and stocks.

Postponed to Friday Night

We are requested to state that owing to the rain today the meeting of the B. Y. P. U. announced to be held in the Baptist church tonight will be postponed to Friday night. Those who consented to assist in the programme are requested to have their selections ready for Friday night.

Selling Acorns.

We have known and heard of many different things being brought to market for sale, but never until Saturday did we hear of acorns making a market product. A man brought a load of them to town that day and they sold readily at 10 cents a bushel to be used as hog feed. Hogs are very fond of acorns and they always thrive when roaming in an oak range where the nuts abound. It strikes us that at 10 cents a bushel delivered they are wonderfully cheap feed, yet we fail to see much profit to the seller at that price.

Bad Treatment.

We learn that some tobacco drummers from another market have been coming over into Pitt and acting badly by the farmers. One went to Mr. W. C. McGowan's recently and bought a lot of tobacco to be delivered on a certain day. Mr. McGowan carried the tobacco to market at the appointed time and the buyer refused to take it, pretending that he knew nothing about it. Our people should have nothing to do with tobacco drummers who are strangers to them. They should bring their tobacco to Greenville where they know all the warehousemen and will be treated right.

The Free Will Baptists had a union meeting at Parker's Chapel 5 miles below town, Sunday. A large crowd was present.

there, too. People who are alive usually do. But he'd have to buy up to date garments. We don't keep the style he wore. And what a grand choice he'd have.

Sack suits, single and double breasted cutaways, Prince Alberts each with a style peculiar to us.

Cheviots, Cassimeres, Thibets and Worsted, plaids and checks and stripes in bewildering variety, blacks, blues, browns, olives and all sorts of beautiful combinations of colors.

Suits for dress, for business, for sport, suits in all prices.

Yes, Washington would certainly buy his clothing from

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1897.

Henry George, one of the candidates of Greater New York, died suddenly Friday morning. The strain of the campaign was more than he could stand.

Articles of incorporation have been filed for a new daily paper in Raleigh. The promoters are said to number many of the strongest men in the State.

A million dollars loss in the grape crop in Northern California on account of the premature rains is pretty serious for the raisin and wine growers of that section.

One of the spryest young women of Newkirk, Pa. is Mrs. Maloy, who was born in Ireland 14 years ago, and has the documents to prove it.

In this State we need a measure requiring the acts of the Legislature to be published in newspapers immediately after that body adjourns.

A writer in "Hardware" declares that "advertising is a commodity—as much so as dry goods, shoes or flour."

An Illinois jury returned a verdict of $54,000 the other day in favor of a young widow who sued for breach of promise to marry, and a special correspondent says that "the large amount named creates general surprise, as the largest personal damage verdict in the past in this county was $5,000 for injuries resulting in death."

Stokes county farmers are digging cellars in connection with their barns so they can order their tobacco at any time without waiting for a season, says the Danbury Reporter.

The price of cotton has about reached the gold standard level. When Cleveland succeeded in getting the Sherman silver purchase law repealed cotton went down.

Senator Hanna made a speech in Ohio Saturday, at the opening of the Republican campaign, and if the newspaper reports of it are correct, it was a strange jumble of words and ideas.

Then he said that he had about made up his mind that "the Lord is a Republican," and that it is perhaps on this account the Creator has caused short crops of wheat in foreign countries.

There you have the average Republican idea of the cause of better times and higher prices. The whole blasphemous theory freely interpreted is that the Lord looked on the Republican party and found it good.

Mr. Hanna is the first responsible leader, so far as we know, who has had the gall to announce that Republican legislation has brought about the return of more tolerable times, and even he is inclined to leave a loophole of escape by the suggestion that the Lord is a Republican.

Of course, we cannot, at this distance, judge of the intelligence of Republican voters in Ohio. That State has given to the public service some very queer specimens. It has produced such monstrosities as John Sherman and Hanna—men who have somehow managed to win the support of the rag-tag and bobtail. Of course, we do not imagine for one moment that the Republican voters of Ohio are so recklessly imbecile as some of their acts would suggest; but we do believe that they need to be educated in the principles of political honesty.

We don't know where the school teacher is to come from at this time. The Republicans have had opportunities in this direction, and have neglected them. They have had the example of such men as John Allen and Allen Thurman; but perhaps the honesty and virtue of these men are less attractive to the average Republican than the slick and fluent bossism of Hanna, and the current fraud and corruption that calls itself Republicanism.

We cannot imagine a more depressing spectacle than that afforded by such men as Hanna and Foster standing before a crowd of gullibles and proclaiming their own political honesty.—Atlanta Constitution.

Don't Kick or "Knock."

If your neighbor is prosperous let him prosper. Don't grunt, growl or grumble. Say a good word for him and let it go at that. Don't be a knocker. Your turn will come. No one man is the whole show. If you see the town is moving along, feel good about it. Help things along. Shove a little. Push. Try and get some of the benefit yourself. Don't stand around like a chilly old cadaver. Don't waste your time feeling sore because some other fellow has a little more sand and sense than you have. Do a little hustling yourself. Don't be a knocker. If you say a good word, say it like a prince. If you are full of bile and disposed to say something mean, keep your mouth shut. Don't be a knocker. No man made a cent knocking. No man ever gets rich or happy minding every body's business but his own. No man ever helped himself up permanently by knocking his neighbors down. Give up a kind word. Give it liberally. It won't cost you a cent, and you may want one yourself some day. You may have thousands today, and next day without the price of a shave. So don't be a knocker. You can't afford it. It won't pay. There's nothing in it. If you want to throw something at somebody, throw cologne. Or roses. Don't throw brickbats. Or mud. Don't be a knocker. If you must kick, go around the barn and take a good kick at yourself. For if you feel that way, you're the man that needs kicking. But whatever you do, don't be a knocker.—Cincinnati Times Star.

Are We Better Off?

Twelve months ago from almost every stump you could hear Populist orators declaring that if the Democrats were defeated and the fusion Republican Populist ticket elected we would have such good times, that every man would have plenty and want would be unknown. Nearly 12 months have rolled away since the fusion crowd was elected and Democrats both in State and nation went out of power. Where are those good times? Where is that great prosperity? Look at your tax receipts and see if that reduction of taxation which was promised us has been made. Look at your cotton ticket and see if farm products have increased in value. Look at your bills for clothing and see if a tariff for protection protects your pocketbook. See the discontent, the usurpation of party office holders, the mismanagement of affairs generally in our State, and answer for yourself the question, "Are we better off?"—Monroe Enquirer.

A DARING ENGINE RIDE.

How Charles Crocker Saved the Central Pacific Railroad.

"One of the most exciting and dangerous rides I ever had was made on a locomotive in California in the sixties," said an old resident of San Francisco to the writer, who had been speaking of the remarkable coolness exhibited by two men while riding behind a runaway horse.

"The ride to which I refer happened shortly after Charles Crocker and a few other men inaugurated the Central Pacific railroad. The tracks of the road had been laid as far as Newcastle, and the company was in debt and despondency, and L. L. Robinson, who then owned the old original railroad from Freeport to Folsom, was laughing in his sleeve at what he called 'the Dutch Flat swindle.' The stages then went from Folsom to the great mining camps of Nevada, especially to Virginia City, and it was the boast of the Freeport and Folsom road people that the Central Pacific would never be built beyond Newcastle.

"Well, one morning Charles Crocker left San Francisco on the steamer bound for Freeport with three gentlemen, including myself. When the steamer had reached Freeport, the mail and newspapers from San Francisco for Virginia City were immediately put aboard the Freeport and Folsom train, which then hurried away on its journey. A spirited team was waiting for Mr. Crocker and his companions, and we quickly left the steamer, got into the coach and were driven rapidly off for Sacramento City. Arriving there, we found an engine and coal tender waiting for us at the Central depot, and Mr. Crocker gave orders to the engineer to run the locomotive at every pound of steam she could carry to Newcastle.

"When we started, all of us, with the exception of Mr. Crocker, who stood at the back of the engine, were seated in the tender on various lumps of coal and wood, and it didn't take us long to realize, from the awful jolting and swaying of the engine, that the road was unballasted and in a very poor condition for speeding. Much to our relief, after we had passed beyond the American river and our arms fairly ached from our exertions to hold on and keep ourselves from being thrown out of the tender, the engineer suddenly lowered his rate of speed and at the same time informed Mr. Crocker that it would be extremely dangerous to run any farther at the rate we had been going.

"Mr. Crocker looked annoyed and said: 'Nonsense! If you are afraid, you had better get off the engine.'

"He then took hold of the lever and pulled it to the farthest limit. Of course we all thought that Mr. Crocker was crazy and that the engine would soon jump the track. But Mr. Crocker would not listen to remonstrances, never moved a muscle and stood at the lever until we were all scared out of our wits, and the engine, panting and throbbing like a huge wild beast enveloped in a cloud of escaping steam, reached Newcastle. Here we were hustled into a waiting coach and driven away. At each ten miles between that town and Virginia City there was a relay of horses. At various points along the mountain roads even the drivers were afraid to obey Mr. Crocker's orders, and in two instances he took the reins himself and whipped the teams into a lively gallop.

"The result of the whole exciting, wild and dashing race was that Charles Crocker presented in the business office of the Virginia City Enterprise a copy of the San Francisco Bulletin and some mail matter 12 hours before the mail agent on the opposition railroad had reached the city. That was the deathblow to the Freeport and Folsom road and the salvation of the Central Pacific." —Washington Star.

Personal Art.

Feeding Elephants.

Elephants in the Indian army are fed twice a day. When mealtime arrives, they are drawn up in line before a row of piles of food. Each animal's breakfast includes ten pounds of raw rice, done up in five two pound packages. The rice is wrapped in leaves and then tied with grass. At the command, "Attention!" each elephant raises its trunk, and a package is thrown into its capacious mouth. By this method of feeding not a single grain of rice is wasted.

Russet shoes are passe.

Silver cranks despise the golden season of autumn.

Talk may be cheap in some instances but not when it is made by a lawyer.

Wigwag—Now I understand why Samson lost his strength. Hobson—How's that? Wigwag—Female barber talked him to death.

Women go to the theatre, says the Manayunk Philosopher, to see what the actresses wear, and men go to see what they don't wear.

Nell—Was Tom Lovett's nervousness noticeable when he called on his sweetheart's father? Belle—Well, his trouble was a parent.

She—So young Rakish has married Miss Gusher. Do you think he had very good taste. He—Well, I don't think he had on the morning after his bachelor supper.

Mr. J. A. Dupree has one of the prettiest yards in town now. His chrysanthemums are beautiful.
