OVERTON-WHITE

A Morning Marriage in Church

A large number of friends assembled in the Methodist church this morning to witness the marriage of those very popular young people, Mr. Dolph D. Overton and Miss Elizabeth Skinner White.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion and much admired by all present.

Promptly at 8:15 o'clock the bride entered with her father, Mr. J. White, and the groom with his brother, Mr. J. D. Overton, of Henderson. These were followed by the ushers, Messrs. W. I. Pender, P. H. Crawford, R. M. Moye and G. J. Woodward. As the bridal party passed up the aisles Miss Annie Sheppard rendered the wedding march with her usual exquisite touch.

Meeting in front of the altar the bride and groom were made one by Rev. N. M. Watson, pastor of the Methodist church.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple drove to the depot where they took the morning train for Henderson to spend their honeymoon with relatives of the groom. As the train departed they received a shower of rice accompanied by the traditional old shoe.

The couple were also the recipients of many very handsome bridal presents. Their host of friends all wish that their married life so happily begun may be an uninterrupted voyage of joy and love.

OVER THE COUNTRY.

Upon hearing that her lover was dead, Miss Anna A. Hollywell a student in the University of California, committed suicide.

The body of John Foyle, engineer of the New York Central train wrecked at Garrison's, was recovered with grappling irons.

When a bride, 15 years ago, Mrs. Charles Dukin, of Millertown, N. Y., lost her wedding ring, and, a few days ago it was picked up in her garden.

Postmasters for this State

The following fourth class postmasters were appointed for this State Friday: Everetts, H. D. Cowan; Gardnerville, J. A. Gardner; Halewood, R. A. Corn; Lee, Tuckasegee, H. Moses; Walnut Run, Mrs. Sarah J. Hayme; Vineland, Alice Register.

Examination.

I will be at the Court House in Greenville, second Thursday and Friday in Nov., 11th and 12th, for the examination of public school teachers. Thursday will be for white teachers and Friday colored.

J. R. LINGLE, Supervisor.

BETHEL ITEMS.

BETHEL, N. C., Nov. 1. 1897.

Jesse W. Thomas went to Tarboro Sunday.

Robert Staton and W. G. Keel went to Tarboro today on business.

W. O. Howard, of Tarboro, was here Saturday on legal business.

Hon. C. M. Bernard was here Sunday evening.

W. R. Britton went to Rocky Mount today.

Teets Bros. show is billed to show here on Friday, Nov. 5th.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Jarratt Jenkins died last week.

E. R. Cable, of Greensboro, is spending a few days here delivering fruit trees.

Miss Lizzie Mayo and M. C. S. Cherry returned from Nashville, Tenn. last Tuesday evening.

JUST FOR FUN.

A barber sign reads: Hair cut on the inside.

Paperhanger—How do you like the job? Householder—The body of it is all right, but the frieze is a frost.

Druggist—What has become of all those bottles of last summer's sunburn lotion? Assistant (who is on probation)—I've put 'em in the window labeled "For Frost Bites and Chilblains." Druggist—Consider yourself permanently engaged.

First Crook—What's swipsey carryin' de umbrell' fur, it ain't rainin'? Second Crook—He's afraid o' gettin' treckles. What! Well of all de dudes I ever—He ain't no dude, but he don't want to be spotted, see?

Katherine, aged 5, asked permission of her mother to say grace at the dinner table, with this result: We thank thee dear Lord, for all these good things, and don't let us eat too fast, and catch all the crumbs in our aprons. Amen.

Too Hot for Him.

We heard ex-State Senator A. A. Forbes say that he put on the first undershirt Monday, that he has worn since the war. He went over to the Planter's Warehouse to get about his work and pretty soon that shirt had him feeling like it was July instead of November. It warmed him up so that he had to go back home and shed. He says he don't like the things anyway.

Hints for the Thrifty.

News of our doings is of general consequence because the store is rich with that concern wise money spenders. If you are extravagant, prodigal and wasteful you may skip our advertising with impunity. Every shopper who is en rapport with the spirit of the times cannot ignore our trade suggestions.

ALFRED FORBES.

If Washington were alive he would be attracted by the National Flag floating over Frank Wilson's store.

AND MIGHT BUY HIS Clothes

there, too. People who are alive usually do. But he'd have to buy up to date garments. We don't keep the style he wore. And what a grand choice he'd have.

Sack suits, single and double breasted cutaways, Prince Alberts each with a style peculiar to us.

Cheviots, Cassimeres, Thibets and Worsted, plaids and checks and stripes in bewildering variety, blacks, blues, browns, olives and all sorts of beautiful combinations of colors.

Suits for dress, for business, for sport, suits in all prices.

Yes, Washington would certainly buy his Clothing from

These are cold facts.

ROYALTIES AT WIESBADEN.

They Will Gather to Unveil the Statue of Emperor Frederick.

(By Anglo-American Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Duke and Duchess of Connaught will go to Ger- many to represent the Queen at the unveiling of the statue of the Emperor Frederick at Wiesbaden, on Monday, Oct. 18. The German Emperor and Em- press, the Empress Frederick, the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Baden and other royal personages will be present, and it is rumored that the Emperor and Empress of Russia are coming from Darmstadt for the func- tion.

After the statue has been unveiled, the Emperor and Empress will give a royal banquet at the Schloss, and at night there is to be a special perfor- mance of "Der Burggraf" at the Opera House.

SHOULD WIDOWS BIKE?

New York Society Is Agitated Over the Question.

Special.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—It is a much- discussed question among feminine de- votees of the cycle in the metropolis whether young widows should "bike" or not. Of course, the spectacle of a new- ly bereaved "lone one" speeding along at a record rate, with the emblem of weeping gaily in the breeze, would be a sight to shock ancient mat- rons' with pugs.

Then, too, a wreath of snowy flowers held in the gloved hand of a pale-faced young widow has a pathetic interest for the beholder; while this same wreath strung on to the handle-bar of a machine would lose much of its ar- tistic value.

It is said the question will be debated at the next meeting of Sorosis.

Nailing Him Down.

Mr. Beetleson—Would you like the date put in our engagement ring, dear?

Miss Beryl—By all means; and then, if there's any room, run in some little motto like this: "Any port in a storm," or "A bird in the hand," or something pretty like that, you know.—Tit-Bits.
