Keep A-tryin'.

(After James Whitcomb Riley.)
When bizness is dull, an' you ain't sellin' nothin',
Don't stop a-tryin' fer a minute.
What if you are forced close to the wall,
Remember there are others up agin' it.
There comes a time in every feller's life,
When luck, it seems, ain't found you,
That's when you want to hustle, push your goods and advertise,
An' bizness will pick up—it's bound to.—St. Louis Grocer.

Not Poor, But Rich.

A Southerner writes plaintively to The World of the "poor South," saying that it cannot reward industry for lack of means.
That is a misapprehension. The South is not poor. Since the war ended it has grown thirty great crops of cotton, each worth on an average $250,000,000. Thus cotton alone has poured into the South seven and a half billions of dollars in the way best calculated to render a people prosperous—that is to say, in a way which distributes the money as wages among a great multitude of people.

Then there are all the other crops—tobacco, corn, wheat, peanuts, vegetables and the like—yielding perhaps twice as much more.
There are, besides, the profits on manufacturers, on Northern tourists and on a multitude of other things.

It is folly and sentimentalism to talk of the "poverty" of the South. It is also an affront to Southern energy and sagacity. Given a region so rich in resources none but an indolent and incapable population could remain poor.

In fact the Southerners have not done so. As the World showed the other day, they have themselves contributed 88 per cent. of all the vast capital invested in the manufacturing enterprises of that region.—New York World.

STATE NEWS

Julius Stephens, a Goldsboro lawyer, is the Attorney General of the republic of Liberia.

The Chatham County Farmers' Alliance adopted a resolution thanking Governor Russell "for removing the Wilsons as railroad commissioners."

North Carolina at last has a modern fortification. Three 10-inch rifles are being mounted in the great battery near old Fort Caswell, at the mouth of the Cape Fear.

John Evans, convicted of rape last fall at Rockingham and sentenced to be hanged but was given a respite to January 26th, has been given another respite of 30 days by Gov. Russell.

Smallpox has reached Charlotte. There are two cases in that city, both colored people who have been properly isolated and every precaution taken against the spread of the disease.

It is said that among the Durham "rafflers" indicted are the mayor and the foreman of the grand jury. Raffleing has been very common, having nowhere been looked upon as gambling.

Several weeks ago the three- and five-year-old sons of Mr. R. E. Bland, of the Grainger's section, were taken to a burial. Last week the children concluded to play burying, and dug a grave. The youngest brother was to be the corpse, and got in the hole, when the older boy proceeded to cover him up with dirt, and had covered the entire body with dirt, when the little fellow became scared and gave the alarm.—Kinston Free Press.

Miss Carlie Darden is Dead

The subject of this notice was one of the brightest and sweetest children, and was the sunshine of a happy home. She possessed every evidence of a high intelligence, but alas, this sweet flower was to soon lose its glory, for at the age of three years her fate was doomed to horrid suffering. Unfortunately she was fearfully burned and before her cure could be effected mental derangement developed to that degree that for twenty seven years she was almost a helpless invalid.

Never in the history of my life have I seen such paternal devotion as was bestowed upon this once lovely child. Her mother, sister and brothers exercised the profoundest care for her comfort, every possible thing being done to make her stay on earth as happy as could be. When the Death Angel came to release her sweet spirit from the suffering body, the most lovely impress was left upon that lifeless brow. It was the most beautiful dead I ever beheld, and now she "sleeps in Jesus, blessed sleep, from which none ever wakes to weep."

The pains of death are past
Distress and sorrow cease,
And life's long suffering closed at last
Her Soul is now in peace.

She was the daughter of W. S. and Pattie Darden. She died Sunday night, Jan. 23rd, and was buried in the family grave yard near the home on Tuesday.

JUST FOR FUN.

A chance acquaintance—The girl who braces you at the fair.

Hoax—Did your laundryman celebrate the Chinese New Year? Jean—Yes; he gave checks to all his customers.

Chasem (after the fox-hunt)—Were you in at the death? Miss Newrich—Well, rather; my dear old grandfather left me $200,000.

"I am constantly being sat upon," complained the sofa, "and when I do accumulate a little dust the servant girl beats me out of it."

"I feel all broken up over this," remarked the First Ancient Egg, as it landed on the stage. "Yes," said the Second, "I'm afraid we have both gotten ourselves into bad odor around here."

De Tanque—"I'd go into politics if I were sure of the support of my friends. Mrs. De Tanque—"I guess you can count upon that of the two who were holding you up on your way home last night."

There once was a lad in Crum Lynne Who wore a perpetual grynne.
"It is strange," his friends laughed,
"But perhaps the boy's daughed;
And it seems they were quite right thereynne."

TUESDAY NIGHT'S GERMAN.

One of Much Interest and Pleasure.

A very delightful german was given in Germania hall, Tuesday evening, complimentary to the visiting young ladies in town. Notwithstanding the day preceding had been very inclement, the attendance was large and the occasion one of the most pleasant of the season.

The german was led by W. G. Clark, of Tarboro, the following couples being present:

W. J. Corbett with Miss Lula White.

H. W. Holcombe, with Miss May Harvey, of Kinston.

Hoge Irvine, of Kinston, with Miss Winnie Skinner.

Julian Jordan with Miss Mamie Norris, of Raleigh.

R. M. Moyer with Miss Bettie Tyson.

Harry Whedbee with Miss Sallie Lipscomb.

Larry Moore with Miss Ella King.

W. A. Bowen with Miss Bessie Jarvis.

J. L. Fleming with Miss Maggie Bryan, of Newbern.

J. E. Starkey with Miss Hennie Sheppard.

J. W. Wiggins with Miss Annie Foley.

Demsey Grimes with Miss Louise Latham.

James Davenport, of Pactolus, with Miss Ada Wooten.

George Woodward with Miss Blanche Flanagan.

J. B. Lightfoot with Miss Lillian Cherry.

J. B. Jarvis with Miss Mary Blow.

Will Bernard with Miss Betsy Greene.

E. G. Flanagan with Miss Rosa Hooker.

H. P. Srause with Miss Myra Skinner.

Jarvis Sugg with Miss Julia Hussey of Tarboro.

Stags—Frank Lewis, Emmet Wooten, Julius Flaming, Clarence Jeffress, Curtis Gary, Lee Bullock, Sam Taylor, Dr. Carr, Bo. Cherry, Jesse Speight.

An Italian band furnished music.

Must Economize.

Slobbe—"Henpeck says he can't even afford a five cent cigar."

Blobbs—"Has to pay his Christmas bills, eh?"

Slobbs—"No; his wife suggested that he would better begin to save up for her Easter bonnet."—Ex.

The authorities at Washington have ordered the battleship Maine to proceed at once to Cuba. It is stated at Washington that this is only a mark of special friendliness to Spain, as Nations at peace with each other sometimes exchange courtesies by having war vessels visit each other's ports.

Examples of Energy.

Yesterday a pile of wood lay in front of an office. Soon after it had been thrown off the wagon a young white fellow came along and asked the owner if he wanted to have the wood cut. He did want it cut, but the enquirer didn't look like the man to do it, since in the place where one arm should be, dangled only an empty sleeve. But he was given the job, and soon showed that, one-armed as he was, he was a match for that wood pile, or any other one, for that matter.

On our streets yesterday was seen another object lesson. A man who had been paralyzed from his hips down, and whose right hand hung by his side as helpless and manimate as a stick of wood; laboriously made his way on crutches up the street. His feet and legs were as dead as his right arm and dragged piteously behind him.

A Georgia paper the other day somewhat infelicitously remarked of the late General Avery, of Atlanta, that, although he was a great journalist, he was an ideal gentleman. This suggests to the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, the old story of the editor and the barber on a steamboat.

Three Hundred Oscillating Negroes

Across boundary line between Virginia and North Carolina the tobacco working negroes pass back and forth, and thus make trouble for Representative Swanson, of Virginia.

Mr. Swanson has a contested election case on his hands, and negroes who wander in and out of his district are to blame. Four years ago they were in North Carolina, giving him 200 or 300 majority. The Democratic House decided that they belonged in North Carolina, and allowed Settle to keep his seat. Two years ago they were back in Virginia and Settle lost the district by the same narrow margin.

A Great Difference.

Speaking of the oldtime winters, a citizen, who is a close observer, remarked a few days ago that there is a great difference in the winters we now have and those of fifteen and twenty years ago. In the winter on 1881 there were several snows on the ground at once and the top was frozen hard enough to bear up a man's weight.

There has never been such an inflow of Mormon missionaries to North Carolina as within the past few weeks. They are in Charlotte and all about. It is estimated that there are fifty in the State. These people have the right to go to and fro without molestation, but beyond the protection of the laws of this State they have no claim upon our people—not even the claim to the ordinary civility that is due the ordinary stranger.

A Georgia paper the other day somewhat infelicitously remarked of the late General Avery, of Atlanta, that, although he was a great journalist, he was an ideal gentleman. This suggests to the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, the old story of the editor and the barber on a steamboat.

"What the Neighbors Say."

He was wise who wrote: "Half the sting of poverty or of small means is gone when one keeps house for one's own comfort, and not for the comment of one's neighbors."

Deny it as we will, few of us have the moral force to set up a standard of our own, based upon our own incomes and our own particular home environment. We commit the folly of regulating our expenses by the income of some one else's.

We have not the courage, nor the independence to be indifferent to the comment of our neighbors. This form of moral cowardice is causing many families to live beyond their incomes. They can face debt and forfeit their self-respect easier than they can face the unfavorable comment of their friends and neighbors.

Sleeps Standing.

John Kelly, an aged beggar, who was committed to the workhouse recently, is a living example of the adaptability of the human frame to unnatural conditions of life. Kelly, who has been homeless many years, and who has become so accustomed to sleeping while standing on his feet that he can no longer rest in a recumbent position.

Special Train for a Bottle.

All sorts of special trains have been run over Kansas railroads, but the oddest one yet is reported from Fort Scott. It ran over the "Katy" from Parsons to Appleton City, Mo., and consisted of one car and a locomotive. On one of the seats of the car, under the watchful eye of the brakeman, rested a small bottle, and it was to convey this bottle that the special train was run.

Commenting on the Wilson Times' remark that "since Governor Russell has been in office no less than five prominent state officials have been mixed up in dirty scandals," the Monroe Journal says: "This administration was born in scandal; in its infancy it sucked the teat of scandal and grew lusty; in its youth its regular article of diet was scandal, in its meridian its three meals a day was scandal, and by and by, having gorged both itself and the public on scandal, it will die, and its epitaph be written in scandal."

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A Pleasant Simple, but Safe Efectual Cure for it.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing; headache, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do, and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Distaste, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids.

These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and, not being a patent medicine, can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for and form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

A Tramp Letter Package

A package of letters for Whiteville, N. C., sent from the Wilmington postoffice August 21st, 1889, reached its destination yesterday. The reader will doubtless wish to know why this package required eight years and five months to travel about 46 miles. This is the explanation: In distributing the mail the postal clerk by some mischance let the package fall behind the case in which the letter packages for the several post-offices on the road are deposited. There it remained until the postal car was broken up in the collision on the Northeastern railroad last Friday, when it "showed up."

It is interesting to note that if the postal car had been in continuous service up to the day of the accident (as it probably was), and had made an average run of 175 miles per day, the missing package had travelled over 543,000 miles before it reached Whiteville, distant from Wilmington 46 miles. This shows conclusively that "the longest way around is the shortest way home."—Wilmington Star.

A Money Eating Horse.

The Secretary of Agriculture has received the following pathetic communication from Bell county, Texas:

"DEAR SIR: I want to ask you a question. A young horse of mine eat up $30 of green back notes last night. We picked up a few bits of masticated money today. I carelessly left my vest on the horse trough, the money on the inside pocket, hence the result. Is there any way for me to have the money replaced? If you can't tell me what to do will you kindly site me to some one who can as I need the money bad and have to work hard to support my family. I anxiously wait your answer."

The secretary of agriculture proposes to refer this matter to the committee in charge of the bill to retire greenbacks.—Chicago Record.

There has been introduced in the Legislature of South Carolina a bill to compel the use of broad tires on road vehicles, under penalty for the use of narrow tires. We should like much to see it become a law—to see the broad tire experiment made in a State so near by as South Carolina. There are expert road builders who declare the broad tire a necessity to good roads and who hold that even macadam roads cannot be kept in repair except at abnormal expense.—Charlotte Observer.

Discussing the lamentable condition into which public affairs in North Carolina have fallen, the Salisbury Sun says that "a reuniting of the people with the Democratic party is the remedy." That is the stuff that one sentence tells the whole story.—Charlotte Observer.

Col. A. A. Powell, of Texas who represents a St. Louis house and travels all over the country, is one of the tallest men in the United States, standing 7 feet 6 1/2 inches in his stockings. He is 38 years old and weighs 271 pounds.

The Western Union Telegraph Company is going to demand $1,000,000 damages from the Spanish Government for interfering with its business with its censorship of cablegrams between Cuba and Florida.

THE HEART OF THE YEAR.

We have fathomed the heart of the year
And we ask as our pleasures abound
If in all the glad years we have found
There was ever another so dear?

Was there ever such verdure before
Or such fair fragrant lilies as these,
With whole meadows of daisies to please,
Or of fruitage so lavish a store?

And we think how we watched for the spring,
How we hailed the first bloom with delight,
How we questioned by day and by night
What the new year, the strange year, would bring.

And her heart she has shown us, and, oh!
There are pleasures and treasures of worth,
And she scatters them over the earth,
Where the feet of her lovers may go.

And we follow, like children o'erblest
With more gifts than they see in their dreams,
And we linger by forests and streams
And drink of the fountain of rest.

Oh, year that is bonny and sweet,
For thy blessings so lavish we fain
Would thank thee again and again
And pour out our love at thy feet!
—Emma A. Lente in Good Housekeeping.

A Possible Undiscovered Gas.

Professor William Ramsey has given to the British association his opinion that there is an element, as yet undiscovered, lying between helium and argon when arranged according to the "periodic law." While experimenting with helium, in the attempt to purify it by rediffusion, it was found that this gas could be separated into a heavy and a light part, with densities of 2.0 and 2.4; continuing the experiment, after as many as 180 diffusions of helium, the density of the lightest portion remained constant at 1.98, and its refractivity to light as compared with air was 0.1245. The spectrum, too, not differing from helium, one element may therefore be considered as isolated as pure helium. The residue is easily altered in density by rediffusion, implying a small quantity of heavy gas mixed with a large quantity of light gas. The spark spectrum revealed argon in the mixture to the amount of 1.64 per cent by density and 1.14 per cent by refractivity, leading to the supposition that the new gas is contained as a very small proportion of argon. Neither helium nor argon forms compounds, so that the new element as demanded by the "periodic law" must be determined by diffusion. This method, however, does not reveal the existence of such a gas, though it by no means follows, Professor Ramsey holds, that there is no such gas.

Wearing Glasses.

The care of the eyes is perhaps one of the most imperfectly understood of any of our daily duties. More ills arise from their misuse than the public generally appreciate. Epilepsy is a frequent result of eye strain, and a careful and intelligent observation will convince most people that more headaches come from abuse of the eyes than from any other cause. Probably one-sixth of the adult population of this country would be benefited by the use of glasses, at least during their working hours. They tire quickly, have headaches, the digestive apparatus is completely upset, there are pain in the back and a general feeling of dizziness and nausea, and the true cause is never suspected. The patient is bilious or nervous, has indigestion or liver complaint. The evil is attributed to everything but the proper cause. Fit the person to good glasses and the difficulty vanishes almost as if by magic.—New York Ledger.

Unknown Genius.

Warren's hall in Freeport, Me., has a drop curtain which was painted by an unknown tramp. When the hall was being built, a tramp applied to the proprietor for something to eat, and was set to do some painting to pay for it. The owner wanted some fancy decorating done, and the tramp was allowed to try his hand at it, and succeeded so well that his work was accepted and now remains as a testimony of the skill of an unknown wandering genius.—Boston Herald.

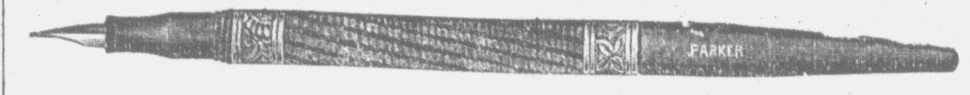

An Old Fashioned Remedy For Baldness.

An old time but good remedy to prevent the hair from falling out is a wash made by steeping three large onions in a quart of rum, or until the strength is drawn from the vegetable, and applying it to the scalp every second day. The odor of the onion soon passes off, but if found disagreeable, ten drops of lavender oil and ten grains of ambergris will overcome the scent.—Woman's Home Companion.

Glamour of Love.

"Before we were married I used to see a golden halo around my sweetheart's head."
"Don't you see it now?"
"No. It looks just like any other girl's frizzy red hair."—Detroit
