ONE UMBRELLA IN THE RAIN.

HE.
She smuggles close to me for fear
The rain may soil her pretty dress.
I wonder if she knows how queer
My arm feels 'neath her soft caress.
Oh, could I shelter her for aye
From time's rude hand and endless care,
She nestling as she does today,
Happy with me all life to share!

SHE.
I wish I dared to press his arm,
But he might think me overbold.
In modesty there is a charm
That never lets the pulse grow cold,
So I will stifle all desire
And act Priscilla, staid and prim,
Although my veins seem all afire
While walking in the rain with him!

HER MOTHER.
Left to the rain and beating wind,
Alas, no thought they give to me!
I pardon them, for they are blind,
And being blind they cannot see.
This retribution in the main:
I did the same, so never mind—
I often met Jack in the rain
And let poor mother walk behind!
—Harold Macgrath in New York World.

A Worthy Request.

To the Confederates and their descendants in North Carolina.

Cape Fear Chapter No. 1, of the Daughters of the Confederacy, are extremely desirous of securing relics of any kind, of that great struggle in which our people were engaged for four long bloody years, a period, which tested the manhood of the south, and which was immortalized on so many bloody fields. It is a duty we owe to the gallant dead to gather up those sacred relics, and carefully preserve them, that posterity may know what manner of men they were, who never quailed against the most fearful odds, but died where they stood, contending for a principle dearer than life itself. This chapter has appointed a Historical Committee to solicit contributions of articles, it matters not in what form or shape they may be, whether papers, accoutrements, or clothing, for future preservation, and through the kindness of the Wilmington Light Infantry, a room in their armory has been appropriated for that purpose, where all such mementoes of a glorious past, will be preserved and watched over. As chairman of that committee, I appeal to all in North Carolina, who may have any article, to send them to my address, Wilmington, N. C., either as a gift to the society or as a loan, the object being to keep forever fresh and green in our hearts, the memory of those "Who fought for the land their souls adored,

For happy homes and altars free,
Their only talisman the sword
Their only watchword, liberty."

Photographs of confederate officers are solicited. State and city papers are requested to copy this appeal, that it may be more generally known.

Grandfather Conducts Grandson.

A very interesting and pleasing sight was witnessed in the Masonic Lodge at the last regular meeting. Mr. J. B. Cherry, Jr., was taking a degree and was being conducted by his grandfather, Mr. B. C. Pearce, that most noble Roman of them all. As the conferring of the degree progressed there seemed to be a halo of sweetest sunshine and gladness on the face of Maj. Pearce, who is always on hand when there is work to be done.

An Old Woman Burned

Mr. G. T. Tyson, of Beaver Dam township, tells us that a few days ago an old colored woman, named Betsy Nobles, living in that neighborhood, was alone in her house and in some way her clothing caught fire. The old lady did not become so alarmed as to run, but had sufficient presence of mind to tear her clothing off and save her life. She was very painfully burned.

Had Sixty-Four Grandchildren.

Chincoteague, Va., Feb. 9.—Kendal Jester, the oldest and one of the most interesting characters of the Eastern Shore, died here today. He was born on April 30, 1815, and left a progeny of nine children, 61 grandchildren, 81 great-grandchildren. He was a great breeder of Chincoteague ponies, and was wealthy.

Loses Two Fingers.

Our Quinly correspondent writes that on Thursday Mr. W. J. Laughinghouse met with an accident in which he lost two fingers and his entire hand was badly lacerated. The accident was caused by his hand coming in contact with a small circular saw used for cutting wood at his mill.

News from Greater Billville.

This is a land of memories. Every stump in it has a political history.

The candidates are in our midst shaking hands and paying off our mortgages.

Our weather bureau has struck the weather twice recently, but the weather is slowly recovering.

Bobtown has been incorporated and The Bobtown Bugle will blow for it next week. Shake, Bob!

There'll be a good many candidates this year. When a fellow's creditors get after him he's compelled to run.

So far our theatrical manager has been unable to persuade the advance agent of prosperity to give us a date.

The campaign band wagon is in the middle of the road, and a good many fellows are wishing they were in Dixie.

If the Spaniards should invade Billville while our navy is abroad there wouldn't be rope enough in town to lynch them.

We fought for the Confederacy, but if the United States has trouble with Spain we are willing to help fight for $3 a day and rations.

We have only had three cold days this winter, and they were accidents, as they missed connections from the North, and merely stopped over.

Candidates will have to pay a license in Billville this year. Three thousand at $1 a head will bring in cash enough to build a town hall.

Our undertakers are now offering first-class funerals on the installment plan. This is very convenient as you can bury your friends at $3 per month.

An elevator is the latest addition to the town hall. The mayor is running himself it and is making a fortune by carrying passengers to the roof at 10 cents a ride.

Attention is called to the card of S. J. Nobles in this issue. He has the only barber shop in town conducted by white workmen.

The tobacco warehouses have had fair sales this week with fine prices for the weed.

THE MAYOR OF LYNN.

Paine's Celery Compound Never Fails to Invigo- rate Him When Worn Out

Mayor Ramsdell is again mayor of Lynn.

Two years ago he was elected by the combined People's party, Democratic and Citizen's Reform party. He was again nominated by acclamation by the Democrats to succeed himself as mayor of the busy modern city, and was again elected by a rousing majority last month.

Mayor Ramsdell's present high position is the legitimate reward of his ability and his fearlessness in defending his opinions. He has never hesitated to declare his convictions in public, nor has he been slow to espouse the cause of the shoemakers and other wage earners. In 1894 he was candidate of the People's party for Congress. A hard worker, a conscientious official, Mayor Ramsdell has more than once been pushed to the limit of his strength.
At such times of extreme nervous tension and overwork, he has saved himself from breaking down by taking Paine's celery compound.

Mayor Ramsdell's honest opinion of this great remedy cannot be mistaken by any one who reads his letter that follows:

Eli Green was exceedingly bashful
and resorted to all sorts of expedients to avoid the girls. On the rare occasions when his mother had company he was careful to let his work take him to some remote part of the farm.

But on his twenty-first birthday
he determined to assert his manhood becomingly and he went to the house of an uncle in the next county and spent an entire week.
When he returned, his mother asked him if he had enjoyed himself.

"Waal, I dunno," he answered reflectively. "I didn't s'pose Uncle Jason 'd have comp'ny, but there he was, with a house chock full o' city gals, a laughin an racin an a makin out like I was a fine beau. The wust on't was they changed their clothes five or six times a day, an I could only turn my collar. Course there was slews of ice cream an fixins, but I guess, take it up one side an down
t'other, I'm willin to git back."

Wells & Richardson Co., Burlington, Vt.

Gentlemen:—A previous experience with Paine's celery compound, as a restorer of exhausted energy, induced me recently to take it again, the many duties of the mayor's office having taxed my slight physical resources greatly. I made no mistake. In one week, I found my appetite improved, the feeling of weariness disappearing, and my nerves becoming steadier. Paine's celery compound has thus been a friend in time of need, and I like to say a word for a friend.

Truly yours,

WALTER L. RAMSDELL.

Nov. 5, 1897.

In every city, in business houses, banks, newspaper offices—wherever the friction of worry is wearing out the nerves and reducing the nutrition of the body, Paine's celery compound is proving its inestimable value. It invariably insures sound sleep, and thus gives the overstrung nerves their natural rest; it corrects a constipated habit that so commonly goes with sedentary occupations, and frees the blood of poisonous humors, and that at some time or other develop into grave disease.

There Are Others.

A boy read tales of the sea and he said: "When I am a man, I will quit the plow; I will sail up and down the high seas, north and south and east and west; I will visit all the earth." But when he was a man there were those for whom he must care and he must needs wait. And so, day after day, year after year,
till he was old and bent and gray,
between the two handles of his plow,
over and over he trudged his narrow field, still sailing up and down the high seas, north and south and east and west, visiting all the lands of the earth.—Christian Work.

We have just received a new hearse and the nicest line of Coffins and Caskets, in wood, metallic and cloth ever brought to Greenville.

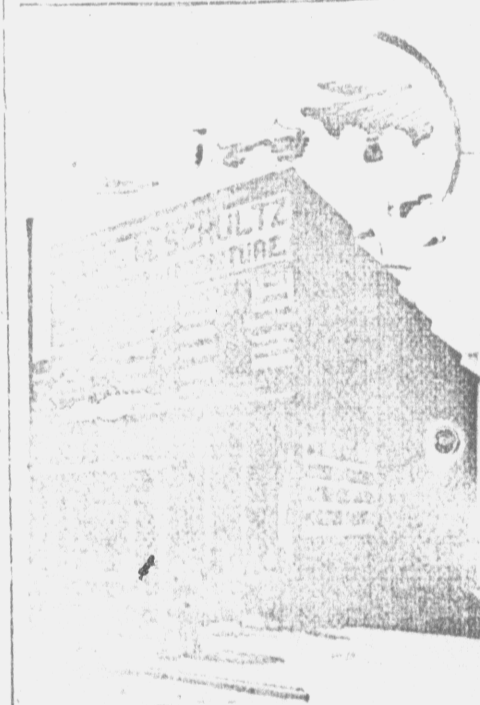

We are prepared to open banking in all its forms.

Personal attention given to conducting funerals and bodies entrusted to our care will receive every mark of respect.

Our prices are lower than ever. We do not want monopoly but invite competition.

We can be found at any and all times in the John Phaugan Buggy Co's building.
